of certain rules and regulations. Except that, nonresidents are not allowed to borrow in local currency without the special permission of the State Bank. Further, ADs are not allowed to grant any loans or provide overdraft facility in foreign currencies in or outside Pakistan, whether secured or unsecured, except FE-25 loans without prior approval of the State Bank.

Lending locally in foreign exchange  Yes. ADs are not allowed to grant any loans or provide overdraft facility in foreign currencies in or outside Pakistan, whether secured or unsecured, except trade loans without prior approval of the State Bank.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange  Yes. There is no regular issuance of foreign-currency-denominated securities in the domestic market. ADs are not allowed to use FE-25 deposits for foreign-currency-denominated instruments below investment grade.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange  Yes. All bank and nonbank financial institutions that accept foreign currency deposits may use deposited funds freely in Pakistan. Any other use is subject to prudential regulations.

Reserve requirements  Yes. As of November 13, 2021, the cash reserve requirement (CRR) for all banks is a fortnightly average of 6% (subject to a daily minimum of 4%) on total demand liabilities and time deposits with a tenor of less than one year. Time liabilities (excluding time deposits with a tenor of less than one year) are exempt from the CRR. DFIs must maintain a CRR of 1% of their total time and demand liabilities during the reserve maintenance period. The reserve maintenance period for banks and DFIs is two weeks, starting on a Friday and ending on a Thursday. Liabilities subject to the statutory reserve requirement as of close of business on Friday (the first day of the reserve maintenance period) are taken into account for determination of the required CRR. MFBs must keep a CRR equivalent to 5% of deposits (including demand deposits and time deposits with a tenor of less than one year). Foreign currency deposits raised under FE Circular No. 25 of 1998 are subject to the CRR and a special cash reserve requirement (SCRR). The CRR on foreign currency deposits of commercial banks is 5%. The SCRR is 10%. The CRR on foreign currency deposits of Islamic banks is 5%; the SCRR is 6%. There is no system of averaging period being adopted for the reserve requirement on foreign currency deposits. The reserve maintenance week starts from Friday and ends the following Thursday. For this reserve maintenance period, all the relevant ratios are required to be maintained on daily basis, based on foreign currency balances as of previous Friday (that is, with lag of one week).

Deposit-taking NBFCs must keep 15% of their customer deposits (excluding deposits of financial institutions) in government securities or instruments or investments prescribed by the Commission. Such investments or instruments must be valued at cost or market value whichever is lower and any shortfall in the value of such investments or instruments must be immediately made up. Provided these instruments or investments are for the benefit of the depositors only, such instruments must be kept unencumbered and disclosed separately in the financial statements of the NBFC. This condition also applies to a deposit-taking NBFC whose permission to raise deposits has been suspended or cancelled until all deposits have been repaid.

Liquid asset requirements  Yes. For applicable demand and time liabilities other than FE-25 (FCY) deposits, the liquid asset requirements are as follows:

The Statutory liquidity requirement (SLR) for all banks is 19% of total demand liabilities and time deposits with tenors of less than one year. Time liabilities (excluding time deposits with a tenor of less than one year) are not subject to the SLR. SLR for Islamic banks/Islamic banking branches is 14%. The DFIs must keep 15% of their total time and demand liabilities as SLR. MFBs must keep an SLR equivalent to 10% of total demand liabilities and time liabilities with a tenor of less than one year.

FE-25 deposits (FCY) are not subject to liquid asset requirement.

Abroad by banks

Banks accepting foreign currency deposits may not invest these funds in foreign-currency- or local-currency-denominated instruments below investment grade. They may not invest or place such deposits in fund management plans of other banks, DFIs, or NBFCs in Pakistan or abroad. The investing bank may not place in a single institution an amount exceeding 25% of the total investable funds, available with the investing bank, under the FE-25 Deposit Scheme. Banks must comply with all other relevant prudential regulations.

In banks by nonresidents

Investment by nonresidents is allowed in banks. However, 5% or more shareholding is subject to SBP approval.

Open foreign exchange position limits

The foreign exchange exposure limit (FEEL) is applicable on overall basis, irrespective of resident or nonresident status of assets and liabilities.

On resident assets and liabilities

The FEEL is applicable on overall basis, irrespective of resident or nonresident status of assets and liabilities. The aggregate FEEL for each bank is 25% (increased from 20%) of its audited paid-up capital (free of losses) based on their share in FE market volumes. The maximum cap on FEEL is PRs. 5.0 billion. However, the SBP reserves the right to assign reduced FEEL to any AD keeping in view of its behavior in the FE market.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

The FEEL is applicable on overall basis, irrespective of resident or nonresident status of assets and liabilities. The aggregate FEEL for each bank is 25% (increased from 20%) of its audited paid-up capital (free of losses) based on their share in FE market volumes. The maximum cap on FEEL is PRs. 5.0 billion. However, the SBP reserves the right to assign reduced FEEL to any AD keeping in view of its behavior in the FE market.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

The SBP, in consultation with SECP, allowed local insurance companies to issue US-dollar-denominated insurance policies on a notional basis to meet the condition of foreign lenders for foreign currency loans. Issuers must obtain a recommendation letter from the SECP for each issuance proposal as prescribed in the SECP Circular of December 11, 2017. However, premium and claims are required to be paid in PKR only.
| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | Yes. | Nonresidents’ issuance of securities in the local market requires SECP approval. Resident insurance companies may purchase securities issued by nonresidents, if these securities have been approved by the SECP, on their own behalf with no restrictions. However, these investments may or may not be admissible for determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company in question has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of Insurance Ordinance 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Investment for the purpose as per Section 32(6) of the Insurance Ordinance 2000 includes all forms of shares, debentures, bonds, deposits, and other securities and derivatives instruments, and includes immovable property whether or not occupied by the insurer. |
| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. | As per Insurance Ordinance 2000, resident insurance companies may invest abroad on their own behalf with no restrictions. However, these investments may or may not be admissible for determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company in question has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of Insurance Ordinance 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Prior approval of SBP is required. |
| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | Yes. | Under Section 35 read with Rule No. 16 of the Insurance Rules 2017, 30% of the shareholder or statutory fund of a life insurer other than the portion with investment-linked policies alone must be invested in government securities. An additional 10% must be invested in a combination of government securities and other approved securities. Approved securities are defined in Section 2(iii) of the Insurance Ordinance as government securities and other securities based on the revenues of the federal government or of a provincial government, guaranteed fully as regards principal and profit or return (however called or designated) by the federal government or a provincial government, and debentures and other securities issued under the authority of an act of the federal legislature or any provincial legislature by or on behalf of the trustees of the port of Karachi; securities issued under the authority of any act of parliament or of a provincial assembly; and securities specified as approved for the purpose of this ordinance by the federal government by notification in the official gazette. Insurers are also required to keep minimum deposits with the SBP under Section 29 of Insurance Ordinance 2000, which must be higher of 10 million rupees or 10% of the insurers paid-up capital, provided the Commission may, subject to achievement of levels of solvency as required by this ordinance, abolish the requirement for deposits specified by this section by reducing the required minimum amount to 0. |
| Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition | Yes. | If a life insurer is engaged in life insurance business in a currency other than the local currency where its liabilities – including policy holder liabilities – are, then all assets pertaining to those policies must be in that currency for the purpose of determining solvency as stated under Section 35(5) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 read with Rule No. 14 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Section 14(6) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 requires a separate statutory fund for policies issued outside Pakistan. Section 32(4) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 allows shares of a company incorporated outside Pakistan to be included for the purpose of determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Accounting of such transactions falls under International Accounting Standard (IAS) 21. |
| Pension funds | Yes. | Only locally incorporated life insurance companies and asset management companies are allowed to offer pension funds. Pension funds may invest in local equity, debt, money markets, and commodity future contracts traded on the PMEX. Other investments, including overseas investment, are subject to SECP and SBP approval. |
| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | Yes. | Pension funds may invest in local equity, debt, money markets, and commodity future contracts traded on the PMEX. Other investments, including overseas investment, are subject to SECP approval. |
| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. | Pension funds may invest in local equity, debt, and money markets. Other investments, including overseas investment, are subject to SECP approval. Effective April 6, 2021, pursuant to Circular No. 12 of 2021 of April 6, 2021, the previous circulars were superseded and new investment allocation specifying various sectors/security/rating limits were prescribed. According to the new regulations, investments are only allowed in securities listed on a stock exchange in Pakistan, and the same for debt/money market investments. Portfolio held abroad is not allowed. The full portfolio is required to be invested locally. Previously, at least 90% of Net Assets of an Equity Sub-fund had to remain invested in listed equity securities during the year based on quarterly average investment calculated on daily basis, and at least 25% of Net Assets of the Debt Sub-fund had to be invested in debt securities issued by federal government and up to 25% could be deposited with banks having not less than “AAplus” rating with stable outlook, so that both these investments had to make up a minimum 50% of Net Assets of a Debt Sub-fund. |
| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | Yes. | CIs are not allowed to invest more than 10% of their total net assets in a single entity; 25% in securities of a single sector, as classified by the stock exchange; and 35% in a single group, with a 10% limit for listed group companies of the asset management company managing the fund. However, separate exposure limits have been defined for certain types of CIs. Regulation 55 of NBFC Regulations 2008 stipulates specific exposure limits for different types of funds. In terms of Circular No. 7 of 2009; it is mandatory for an Equity Scheme to maintain an exposure of 70% of its net assets in listed equity securities during the year based on quarterly average investment calculated on daily basis. Further, for a Balance Scheme, it is mandatory to keep at least 30% of net assets invested in listed equity securities, for an Index Tracker Scheme, it is necessary to remain fully invested in accordance with the stated index, or at least 85% of its net assets in securities covered in the index or its subset. |

| Investment firms and collective investment funds | Yes. | For purposes of diversifying their asset classes or portfolios, locally established mutual funds are allowed to invest abroad up to 30% of aggregate funds (including foreign currency funds) in permissible categories, subject to a cap of US$15 million or its equivalent at any given time. Approval of the SBP and the SECP is required. |
| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | Yes. | The SBP approves investment abroad and imposes limits on investment amounts. For purposes of diversifying their asset classes or portfolios, locally established mutual funds are allowed to invest abroad up to 30% of aggregate net assets of a fund (including foreign currency funds) in permissible categories, subject to a cap of US$15 million or its equivalent at any given time. Approval of the SBP and the SECP is required. |
| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. | CISs are not allowed to invest more than 10% of their total net assets in a single entity; 25% in securities of a single sector, as classified by the stock exchange; and 35% in a single group, with a 10% limit for listed group companies of the asset management company managing the fund. However, separate exposure limits have been defined for certain types of CISs. Regulation 55 of NBFC Regulations 2008 stipulates specific exposure limits for different types of funds. In terms of Circular No. 7 of 2009; it is mandatory for an Equity Scheme to maintain an exposure of 70% of its net assets in listed equity securities during the year based on quarterly average investment calculated on daily basis. ### Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers

Investment-related payments

07/01/2021

Remittance of dividends/profits by the Real Estate Investment Trusts is subject to a tax of 15%.

Payments for travel

10/06/2021

For individuals traveling to Afghanistan, a person a visit limit is USD 1,000/-, while a person an annum limit is USD 6,000/-. Previously the following limits applied a person a visit and a person a year, respectively: (1) 1,000 and 6,000 for individuals up to 5 years old; (2) 5,000 and 30,000 for individuals between 5 and 18 years old; and (3) 10,000 and 60,000 for individuals above 18 years old.

Personal payments

Prior approval

12/19/2021

Exchange companies may make outward remittance transactions on account of personal financial transactions up to US$10,000 per dat (or equivalent in other currencies) without State Bank of Pakistan approval. Previously, this amount was US$50,000.

ADs may release foreign exchange up to a maximum of US$400,000 a year, on behalf of companies/firms/sole proprietorships incorporated/established in Pakistan, on account of commercial payments pertaining to digital services in favor of 62 companies included in whitelist published by State Bank of Pakistan. Previously, this threshold was US$200,000 per year.

ADs may release foreign exchange up to a maximum of US$40,000 a year to digital services provider companies not included in the said whitelist. Previously, this threshold was US$25,000 a year.

ADs may release foreign exchange up to US$25,000 against acquisition of services from abroad by resident companies. Previously, this amount was US$10,000.

Capital Transactions

Resident individuals have been granted general permission to acquire shares of companies abroad subject to observance of terms and conditions of the policy. For investment in listed securities, the maximum investment amount for a calendar year is US$25,000 and percentage of shareholding in investee company must not exceed 1% shares of investee company. Similarly, for investment in stock options plans, the maximum threshold in a calendar year is US$50,000 provided shareholding in investee company does not exceed 3% of its shareholding. Residents are also allowed to acquire shares of a company aboard against their efforts and services, without any monetary consideration provided their shareholding in investee company does not exceed 20%.

Nonresidents are allowed to invest in collective investment schemes.

State Bank of Pakistan notified revisions to Chapter 20 of the foreign exchange (FE) Manual, duly recognizing units of private funds (PFs) as an allowable investment avenue for foreign investors whereby issue, transfer, and export of units of PFs on repatriation basis has been allowed under general exemption. Previously, units of PFs were not recognized in the FE Manual and hence any investment by nonresident required special permission.

Resident individuals have been allowed to purchase listed securities (including collective investment securities) within the prescribed limits. In all other cases, prior approval of State Bank of Pakistan (SBP) is required. Previously, this transaction was not permitted but could be undertaken with prior approval of SBP.

State Bank of Pakistan (SBP) introduced a new policy under which the following categories of outward direct investment were defined for firms and companies:

- Category A: Establishment of subsidiary/branch office abroad by export-oriented companies/firms for promoting exports.
- Category B: Establishment of Holding Company abroad by residents.
for raising capital from abroad.
Category C: Investment abroad by resident companies/firms for expansion of business.
Category D: Investment abroad by Resident Individuals.
Under Categories A and B & D of the policy, firms, companies and individuals can make outward direct investment without prior regulatory approval of SBP provided they fulfill the requirement of respective category, whereas investment under Category C for expansion of business abroad requires prior approval of SBP.
Previously, outward direct investment by firms and companies required prior approval of SBP.

Remittance outflows by foreign workers working in Palau are subject to a 4% tax.

There are no limitations on the use of domestic currency in international payments for current or capital transactions.

Foreign exchange may be used freely among residents.

Yes.
Palau is in the process of negotiating its participation in PACER and PICTA. Palau has signed on to PACER; however, it has not ratified it. There is another subsidiary arrangement called PACER Plus which Palau has yet to sign or ratify. As for PICTA, Palau has signed on to Trade in Services (TIS) but has not yet ratified it, while it is yet to sign Trade in Goods (TIG). Palau does support the regional efforts and introductions of PACER and PICTA for Pacific island economies to develop their private sector’s ability to trade and enter new markets but is limited in its participation because of its MFN clause under Palau–US Compact of Free Association. At the moment, Palau continues to receive funding assistance from Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat (PIFS), Australia and New Zealand, to improve institutions, facilities and for the National Government to implement PACER and PICTA when Palau does eventually sign and ratify said agreements.

No restrictions apply to exports or imports of banknotes; however, transactions that exceed the equivalent of US$10,000 and appear suspicious must be reported under the provisions of the Money-Laundering Act.

Under the Palau National Code, all foreign investment must be approved by the Foreign Investment Board. Foreign nationals, except those who invest jointly with a Palauan national, may not invest in certain categories. The 2011 Foreign Investment Regulations detail the restricted and semi-restricted sectors. The following businesses are reserved solely for Palauan citizens: (1) wholesale or retail sale of goods; (2) all land transportation including bus services, taxi services, and car rentals; (3) tour guides, fishing guides, diving guides, and any other form of water transportation services; (4) travel and tour agencies; and (5) commercial fishing for other than highly migratory species. While these businesses are officially closed to foreign investment, there is a prevalent use of partnership companies in several categories, in which the foreign investor owns less than 50%. The retail sector, as well as travel- and tour-related businesses, currently has numerous foreign investors via such partnership companies. In semi-restricted sectors (pursuant to regulations from 2010), businesses can include foreign ownership as long as a Palauan citizen also has an ownership interest. There are no minimum or maximum requirements for percentage ownership for the foreign investor as long as the monetary and/or Palauan-employment minimums for all foreign investments are met. These semi-restricted businesses are: (1) handicraft and gift shops; (2) bakeries; (3) bar services; (4) operations/selling products being produced by wholly Palauan-owned manufacturing enterprise; (5) equipment rentals for both land and water within the Republic, including equipment for purpose of tourism; and (6) any such other businesses, as the Foreign Investment Board may determine. Sectors not listed as either closed... or semi-restricted are presumed to be open for foreign investment. The Foreign Investment Board may, however, amend the semi-restricted sector list for “any such other businesses as the Board may determine.”

In Panama, foreign exchange flows are unrestricted. There are no restrictions on operations. The number of authorized foreign exchange bureaus is unavailable; however, they only buy and sell banknotes.

All institutions may participate freely in the foreign exchange market. No limits are set on the bid-ask spread or on commissions for market participants. There are 55 banks with a general banking license that may operate on the interbank market.

The Federal Reserve Bank (FRB) verifies payment amounts, deposits, status of banknotes, and inventory and makes arrangements with shippers handling international cash with regard to the date of delivery to the shipper and the date on which the currency is deposited with the FRB. A SWIFT message is sent by the FRB International Department confirming the date, amount, and denominations to deliver (in US dollars only), and the shipper provides proof of delivery to the FRB once the shipment is delivered. The FRB then credits the account with the amount of the deposit.

Tariff rates are calculated on an ad valorem basis and assessed on the c.i.f. value of imports. Trade reform has resulted in simplified tariff bands of 0%, 3%, 5%, 10%, and 15%. Exceptions to the maximum tariff of 15% are automobiles (17%) and sugar (50% on imports exceeding a historical average price range). Also excluded are other products (mainly foodstuffs) whose tariffs are the maximum (and declining) levels negotiated with the WTO, including dairy products (50%–155%); rice (90%); onions (90%); beef (40%); pork (70%–90%); boneless and whole hams (83%); some poultry (300%); cabbages, carrots, celery, and lettuce (32.5%); cooking oils (20%–30%); margarine (15%); salt (87%); ketchup (70%); and tomato paste and puree (87%). Imports into the Colón Free Zone and the newly established EPZs are exempt from duty. There is a FTA in effect between Panama and the United States. It aims to (1) reduce... tariffs on 88% of US imports to 0%, (2) phase out the remaining tariffs over the course of 10 years, (3) increase agricultural import quotas, (4) simplify and harmonize sanitary requirements, and (5) clarify market access for public procurement (including by Panama Canal authorities).

Exports of some marine species, flammable products, and weapons are subject to a permit or compliance with special formalities. For reasons of sustainability and to boost national value added, exports of wood in slabs and blocks or simply planed are prohibited. Panama does not apply any export taxes except on products manufactured from native woods. Domestic taxes are not imposed on exports.

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation and Request for Staff Monitored Program with Papua New Guinea states that, as of February 24, 2020, Papua New Guinea maintained the following exchange restrictions subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a) of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement arising from: (1) the requirement to obtain a tax clearance certificate evidencing the payment of all taxes prior to making payments or transfers for certain current international transactions and (2) the rationing of foreign exchange, which results in undue delays and arrears in current international payments. Papua New Guinea also maintains the following MCPs subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3: (1) a MCP arising from the spread of more than 2% between the rates set by the Bank of Papua New Guinea (BPNG) for its foreign exchange allocations to authorized foreign exchange dealers (AFEDs) and the rates used by AFEDs in transactions with their clients and (2) an MCP arising from the potential spread deviation of more than 2% between the rates set by the BPNG for its foreign exchange transactions with the government and embassies and the rates used by AFEDs in transactions with their clients. (Country Report No. 20/95)

Stabilized arrangement

Yes.
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The exchange rate of the kina is determined in the interbank market, in which ADs participate. The BPNG intervenes in the foreign exchange market to smooth extreme fluctuations. On June 4, 2014, the BPNG introduced an exchange rate trading margin with a kina buying rate within 75 basis points (bps) above the interbank midrate and a kina selling rate within 75 bps below the midrate. From November 2020, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as stabilized. The BPNG publishes the intervention data in its annual report and semi-annual monetary policy statement.

Official exchange rate

Yes.
The official exchange rate is the interbank market midrate which is determined by the interaction between demand for foreign currency (offer) and supply of foreign currency (bid) by the ADs, including the BPNG. The live price at the close of trading becomes the official rate. The BPNG publishes official exchange rates based on the closing interbank US dollar–kina rate for use by government departments and institutions as well as the ADs. There is small margin on trades done for US dollar–kina rate for use by government departments and institutions as well as the ADs.

The official exchange rate for other currencies is determined by crossing the other currencies with kina/US dollar official rate and applying the trading margin as specified in the operational guidelines agreed to with the commercial banks.

Yes.
Monetary policy is conducted within the reserve money framework. The BPNG announces the policy rate—the kina facility.
rate—monthly and use open market operations to implement monetary policy. It also uses direct instruments from time to time, including cash reserve requirement, to assist in the conduct of monetary policy (liquidity management). Low inflation is a key operational objective, although there is no immediate target or numerical target.

Under the Central Banking Act 2000, the objective of price stability is for the Bank to strive for low interest rates, low inflation and stable exchange rate. The formulation of monetary policy is broadly guided by analysis of the main factors that affect price stability and an understanding of their economic consequences. The BPNG sets annual growth projections, in line with its monetary policy stance, on monetary aggregates in its semi-annual monetary policy statements, released in March 31 and September 30. The BPNG does not pursue inflation targeting.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  The BPNG is the exchange control authority. ADs deal in foreign exchange in house with exporters and importers and buy and sell excess foreign exchange in the interbank market. The BPNG may buy or sell foreign exchange in the interbank market, if necessary, to smooth out exchange rate volatility.

Spot exchange market  Yes.  ADs, which consist of four commercial banks and two nonbank financial institutions, provide foreign exchange service to customers, including spot transactions. ADs publish buying and selling rates for customers and may determine their own commissions with their clients. They may trade in kina against US dollars, but within a trading margin of 75 basis points above or below the official reference rate determined in the interbank market.

To enhance competition in the foreign exchange market, nine currency exchange bureaus are licensed by the BPNG to deal in physical notes and coins and cash traveler’s checks. The BPNG clearance must be obtained before additional products are offered to customers. Exchange bureaus may not maintain foreign currency accounts (FCAs) for their customers.

The currency exchange bureaus are allowed to freely set their purchase and sale exchange rates. There are no limits set by the BPNG.

The Bureaus set their own rates and commissions because they need to cover for associated costs such as transportation, insurance, security, and storage.

Operated by the central bank  Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility  No.

Allocation  Yes.  The BPNG intervenes in the foreign exchange market to sell or buy foreign exchange to smooth the kina exchange rate fluctuations. To buy foreign exchange from ADs, the BPNG offers a matching competitive price to the one quoted for sale in the interbank market.

To sell foreign exchange, the BPNG offers foreign exchange to ADs at an offer price based on the price quoted in the interbank market.

Auction  No.

Fixing  No.

Interbank market  Yes.  ADs participate in the interbank market. There are no limits on the bid and offer spreads. The BPNG may buy or sell foreign exchange in the interbank market, if necessary, to smooth out exchange rate volatility.

The BPNG executes deals at the rates quoted by the ADs. If there is only a bid and no offer or vice versa, the BPNG as a market participant may place a counterbid or offer.

Customers may engage in OTC transactions with licensed ADs. Customers include individuals, businesses, and other organizations.

The BPNG acts as a broker for ADs under the current arrangement. There are no brokerage fees charged.

ADs continuously make a market for their major customers.

Exporters and importers may engage in forward cover transactions with the four commercial banks at market-determined rates. Each commercial bank is subject to a prudential limit on its uncovered forward position. Currently, commercial banks may not bring a forward cover order to the interbank market. They may deal with forward orders in house with their own resources (foreign currency) but may not use BPNG intervention (which is for spot orders only) to fund forward orders. The BPNG may participate in the forward market with commercial banks but not directly with their clients.

The BPNG issued a directive for a temporary suspension on all forward transactions, on July 16, 2020.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Contractual commitments to persons residing outside Papua New Guinea and expressed in foreign currency may be paid in the same foreign currency. Export proceeds may be received in any foreign currency.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

For capital transactions Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

Credit operations Yes. Since March 2015, all outward remittances (telegraphic transfers and drafts) must be in foreign currency and done through an AFED.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. An agreement by a resident that creates an obligation in favor of another resident in a foreign currency (domestic transaction) requires a prior BPNG approval. All domestic transactions involving two resident parties must be settled in kina; if one of the two parties has foreign currency, it must be converted to kina for the settlement.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements Yes.

Operative Yes. There is a bilateral payments agreement with Fiji, which is operational.

Inoperative No.
Regional arrangements
Yes.

Papua New Guinea participates in the Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA) with the EU and African Caribbean, and the Pacific (ACP) countries and is a signatory to South Pacific Regional Trade and Economic Cooperation Agreement (SPARTECA), PICTA, Melanesian Spearhead Group Trade Agreement (MSGTA); Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC); and the WTO.

The bilateral, regional, sub-regional, and multilateral trade agreements in which Papua New Guinea participates are consistent with WTO agreements and provisions. These agreements also contain provisions regarding intellectual property rights.

Clearing agreements
No.

Barter agreements and open accounts
No.

Administration of control
Yes.

The overall policy is determined by the government with advice from the BPNG. The BPNG has delegated considerable power to ADs to deal with foreign exchange transactions. All current and capital account transactions, government transactions, and current and capital account contracts (agreements) are exempt from obtaining a prior authorization of the BPNG. However, the capital and current account transactions and contracts are subject to the BPNG’s reporting requirement and tax clearance certificate (TCC) requirement of the Internal Revenue Commission (IRC).

Payments arrears

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)
Yes.

Exportation or importation of gold is regulated.

On domestic ownership and/or trade
No.

Residents may trade gold freely within Papua New Guinea.

On external trade
Yes.

The exportation or importation of gold requires a license from the BPNG.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes
Yes.

Domestic currency
Yes.

Removal or export of more than K20,000 in kina banknotes and coins by residents and nonresidents requires a prior BPNG approval. It is also required for exports for numismatic purposes.

For the purpose of AML/CFT, entities or individuals are obliged to report currency, monetary instruments and precious metals, and precious stones, the individual value or combined value of which is K20,000.00 or more in value to the Financial Analysis and Supervision Unit (FASU).

Foreign currency
Yes.

Removal or export of foreign currency banknotes and coins in excess of K20,000.00 by residents and nonresidents requires a prior approval of the BPNG.

For the purpose of AML/CFT, entities or individuals are obliged to report currency, monetary instruments and precious metals, and precious stones, the individual value or combined value of which is K20,000.00 or more in value to the FASU.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes.

Approval required

Yes. The ADs were directed to cease opening any new FCAs for PNG residents as of March 5, 2015. Thereafter, only a prior approval of BPNG is required to open a FCA for PNG residents.

Held abroad

Yes. There are two categories of FCAs. The first category is those accounts covered under the project development agreements which usually involve movement of large and lumpy foreign exchange, which may cause significant kina exchange rate volatility if these flows are allowed to enter the domestic foreign exchange market. The second category is those FCAs which are not covered by project development agreements, but are required to receive foreign currency income and to settle contractual obligation to nonresidents abroad.

Approval required

Yes. With a prior BPNG approval, residents may open FCAs of both categories outside Papua New Guinea. Account holders must submit a Monthly Foreign Currency Account Report to the BPNG.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No. Since March 5, 2015, residents cannot maintain domestic currency accounts held abroad.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes. Since March 5, 2015, BPNG approval is required to convert kina accounts held with ADs into FCAs.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. ADs may open nonresident FCAs in accordance with BPNG guidelines. The ADs must report nonresident FCA balances to the BPNG. ADs can transfer funds abroad from balances of domestic accounts.

Approval required

No.

Domestic currency accounts

Yes. Since March 5, 2015, nonresident expatriates domiciled or living in PNG under foreign embassy and consulate arrangements or multilateral arrangements, including such institutions, can operate kina accounts.

ADs may hold such accounts in PNG under correspondent banking arrangements for nonresidents.
All other nonresidents cannot open and operate kina accounts.

All kina deposited into vostro accounts of foreign banks have to be from conversion of foreign currency to kina through an AFED.

Conversion to foreign currency is permitted.

Convertible into foreign currency: Yes.

Approval required: No.

Blocked accounts: No.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget: No.

Financing requirements for imports: Yes. Since April 2017, all new trade finance loans provided by ADs must be approved by the BPNG.

Minimum financing requirements: No.

Advance payment requirements: No. There are no restrictions on import payments. For imports that have not arrived in PNG, a Customs Entry Declaration Form 15 (Form 15) must be submitted to an AD, within 60 days from the date of making the import payment in advance.

For imports that have arrived in PNG, it is a requirement that Form 15 is submitted at the time of making the payment.

Advance import deposits: No.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports: Yes.

Domiciliation requirements: No.

Preshipment inspection: No.

Letters of credit: Yes. A prior approval of the BPNG is required for ADs to issue LCs in favor of nonresidents as guarantees. The BPNG’s approval is not required when such credits are from nonresidents in favor of residents.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses: No.

Other: Yes. ADs may process and remit import payments abroad. Payments must be supported with summary commercial invoices, customs forms, and duly completed balance of payments (BOP) reporting forms (BOP Forms) and a TCC issued by the IRC if required.

Payments exceeding K10,000.00 must be reported to the BPNG on BOP Form for imports, by an AD.

Import payments between K5,000.00 and K10,000.00 must be reported to the BPNG on an aggregate BOP Form for imports, by an AD.

For import payments below K5,000.00, ADs may process import payments without submitting their reports to the BPNG. An AD is obliged to provide details of these transactions on request.

The BPNG issued some of the foreign exchange reports in 2017 to get more visibility into the other trades that are done by ADs that fall outside the threshold of K3.0 million. This is to facilitate the capture of all transactions and currency of trade, reported to the CB.
BPNG is now monitoring all SWIFT transactions through a SWIFT enhancement, namely the “Swift Scope” which has been in operation since early 2017.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures

State import monopoly
Yes.
  A state import monopoly applies to the importation of military equipment.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements
Yes.
  Effective March 5, 2015, all exporters not covered by a project agreement must repatriate all export proceeds and convert them into kina or deposit into onshore FCAs. The repatriation must be done within three months from the shipment date of export. Any offset against offshore liabilities is not permitted.

  For an exporter with an approved offshore FCA, any surplus funds in the account after meeting offshore liabilities must be repatriated to PNG within three months from the shipment date of export and converted to kina or deposited into a domestic FCA.

  Those exporters covered under a project agreement are required to repatriate any surplus funds after meeting their 3 months forward commitments to offshore suppliers of goods and services. The surplus funds can be converted to kina or held in domestic FCAs.

Surrender requirements
Yes.
  - Surrender to the central bank
  No.
  - Surrender to authorized dealers

  - Other managed arrangement
- Floating: Yes. The jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as floating. The exchange rate is determined by supply and demand. The objective of the Central Bank of Paraguay (BCP) under Article 3 of Law No. 489/95 is to preserve and safeguard the stability of the currency and promote the efficiency, integrity, and stability of the...
Article 47 states the following: “Within the framework of the national government’s economic policy and laws, the BCP shall administer the legal provisions and their regulations that set the exchange rate regime, as well as the control measures over current foreign collections and payments and capital movements that are only adopted by the Powers of the State in circumstances of exceptional national emergency. Foreign exchange operations shall be carried out on the free foreign exchange market which, for the purposes of this Law, is made up of entities authorized to operate in the foreign exchange market. Anyone may engage in foreign exchange operations. The exchange rate shall be that freely agreed on by the parties involved, in accordance with supply and demand.” Article 50 establishes the following: “The free foreign exchange market shall operate with foreign currency and other documents, checks, drafts, or foreign exchange transfer securities derived from the export and import of goods, services, and capital movements, except in cases of specific prohibitions established by the Law or by provisions founded by the Executive Branch. The BCP shall operate in the foreign exchange market to ensure its normal, competitive, and balanced operation and to respect the fundamental trends in the supply and demand of foreign currency. Foreign currency trading by the BCP shall aim to mitigate the effects of seasonal fluctuations in supply and demand and offset erratic capital flows and speculative movements that could disrupt the market or the exchange rate.” The BCP, in its capacity as a financial agent of the government (Article 71 of its Organic Charter – Law No. 489), buys US dollars from the government, received by the latter in the form of royalties and compensation paid by bi-national hydroelectric entities, in exchange for guaraníes. These dollars purchased from the public sector are returned to the market via sales to the financial system according to BCP announcements.

During 2021, net purchases (purchases less sales) of the BCP with the financial system were US$1,502.30 million, while net purchases with the public sector were US$1,579.94 million. Foreign exchange sales to the Financial Sector were made by the BCP to moderate any abrupt exchange rate volatility that does not respond to market fundamentals, within the compensatory and complementary sales regime. When the monthly amount sold to the financial sector is equal to or less than the net amount purchased from the MOF during a given month, the accumulated monthly amounts represent compensatory sales. When the monthly amount of these sales is greater than the net amount purchased from the MOF, the difference between the two represents the complementary sales. Therefore, in 2021, compensatory sales amounted to US$1,146.89 million, while complementary sales amounted to US$355.41 million. Every week, the BCP publishes daily data on exchange operations (with the public sector and with the financial sector) for the previous month on its institutional website. Additionally, operations are also published according to classification, either compensatory or complementary.

Free floating

Official exchange rate Yes.

Resolution No. 7, Minute No. 86 of December 19, 2019, “Regulation on Open Market Operations and Standing Facilities and Regulation on Exchange Operations, Annex II,” states the following in Article 14(e), Publication of the Fluctuating and Benchmark Exchange Rate:
The Board of Directors shall determine the method for calculating the benchmark exchange rate for the day. The latter rate shall be noted in the minutes of the Monetary Committee meeting, which shall, in this case, require the Board of Directors to participate.”

The benchmark exchange rate for the US dollar against the guaraní determined by the BCP equals the weighted average of interbank operations carried out in the spot market. This benchmark exchange rate is published daily on the BCP website at 1:00 p.m. The operations that serve as a basis for the calculation of the benchmark exchange rate are recorded by financial institutions on a platform called DATATEC, and the exchange rates calculated in this manner are published on the BCP website every 30 minutes from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. The cumulative exchange rate at the final 30-minute cutoff is the benchmark exchange rate.

The benchmark exchange rate is used to close public sector operations with the BCP and to settle foreign exchange forward contracts at maturity.

As of August 3, 2020, the method for calculating the benchmark exchange rate is the one established by Minute No. 14/2020 of the Markets Committee as described above.

Monetary Policy Committee Yes. The Monetary Operations Executive Committee (Comité Ejecutivo de Operaciones Monetarias – CEOMA) became the MPC (Comité de Política Monetaria – CPM), in accordance with Resolution No. 8, Minute No. 86 of December 19, 2019.

The aim of the CPM within the framework of inflation targets is to establish the monetary policy rate (MPR) and the guidelines, mechanisms, and instruments for monetary policy implementation to maintain price stability.

The CPM is responsible for:

1. Analyzing and assessing information, submissions, and documents presented during the meeting and used as a basis for making monetary policy decisions.
2. Determining the MPR value.
3. Establishing the interest rates of standing deposit facilities and liquidity facilities and the financial conditions for the early cancellation and early redemption of monetary regulation instruments.
(4) Providing information to the Markets Committee (Comité de Mercados – CM) on the general guidelines (guidelines, mechanisms, and instruments) for implementing the monetary policy to align the interbank rate with the MPR.

(5) Providing information to the CM on the general guidelines for implementing the exchange rate policy.

Decisions: Decisions to be adopted by the CPM are based on the following:
(1) Technical criteria to be presented by Economic Studies.
(2) Analysis of prevailing economic conditions by Committee members, with the latter being able to have their dissenting opinions reflected in the minutes, if they so wish.
(3) The final decision must be adopted by simple majority of the voting members, based on the first and second points of this paragraph. In the event of a tie, the CPM Chair must decide with a double vote. The decisions taken by the CPM members must be recorded in the minutes.

The CB’s CPM is made up of the chairman and four incumbent full members of the Board, who have the right to speak and vote. The CPM is chaired by the incumbent president of the BCP.

CPM participants:
The following members are, in the performance of their duties, permanent participants of the CPM with the right to speak but not vote:
(1) Chief Economist;
(2) Director of the External Sector Statistics Department;
(3) Director of the Real Sector Statistics Department;
(4) Director of the Macroeconomic Statistics Department;
(5) Director of the Macroeconomic Research and Analysis Department;
(6) Director of the Macroeconomic Modelling Department;

Operating target (policy rate)

Yes.

Policy rate

Yes. The BCP’s operational monetary policy objective is the Interbank Loan Interest Rate. The Interbank Loan Interest Rate should fluctuate around the MPR. The MPR increased from 0.75% to 5.25% in 2021, with a consecutive increase each month starting in August of that year.

Target corridor band

Yes. The cap of the corridor band is the Standing Liquidity Facility (Facilidad Permanente de Liquidez), and the floor is the Standing Deposit Facility (Facilidad Permanente de Depósito – FPD).

The corridor is structured as follows:

Facilidad Permanente de Liquidez = target interest rate of the monetary policy of the BCP (tasa de interés objetivo de política monetaria del BCP – TPM) + 25 bps; Facilidad Permanente de Depósito = TPM – 25 bps.

Foreign exchange market

Yes. Commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market

Yes. As of December 31, 2021, there were 17 banks, 8 financial institutions, and 26 exchange houses licensed by the BCP to operate in the foreign exchange market.

Article 5 of Law No. 2794/05 of July 21, 2005, states the following: “Authorization for the operation of exchange bureaus. No individual or legal entity, whether public or private, local or foreign, may operate in the Free Foreign Exchange Market without the prior and express authorization of the Central Bank of Paraguay.”

The BCP conducts its operations on the foreign exchange market with the sole aim of managing its balance sheet (programmed sales) and occasionally to prevent market volatility.

Operated by the central bank

Yes. The BCP conducts its operations on the foreign exchange market with the sole aim of managing its balance sheet (programmed sales) and occasionally to prevent market volatility.

Compensatory sales of US dollars to the financial system offset the US dollars purchased from the government (MOF).
Foreign exchange operations (whether compensatory sales or supplementary operations) generally take place through competitive auctions, awarded at multiple prices, for both purchases and sales of US dollars.

Participants registered in the Registry of Participants in Exchange Operations may participate in BCP exchange operations (purchase/sale of foreign currency). The Open Market Department will record, at the request and on the prior approval of the BCP Board of Directors, banking institutions that can participate in exchange operations (purchase and/or sale of foreign currency) with the BCP.

If it is found that the financial institution has not complied with the operating rules of the BCP, the operation will be canceled and the authorities will be informed of the situation at the close of daily operations.

A financial institution that fails to settle the operation because of either insufficient funds or another operational deficiency by the established settlement date will be unable to operate with the Office of the Market Manager for a period of ten business days. The BCP does not require the auction participants to finance specific international transactions with the foreign exchange obtained at the auction (retail auction).

The interbank market is understood to mean transactions carried out between banks only. There were 17 banks participating in the interbank market as of December 31, 2021. These banks do not need to be licensed to participate in the interbank market because all banks licensed by the BCP automatically form part of the interbank market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread of market participants.

The interbank market is reported on through DATATEC, an electronic platform supplied by a private firm.

Commercial and Financial banks may conduct forward transactions for trade operations on terms freely negotiated with customers. Financial institutions may conduct forward transactions with residents and nonresidents.

Net long or short positions on forward transactions with residents have an applicable limit. Such positions may not exceed the smaller of:

1. twice the average volume of the banks’ banking operations for the last three months, or
2. 80% of the previous month’s effective net assets converted to U.S. dollars.

In the case of forward transactions with nonresidents, it is considered that (as amended pursuant to Resolution No. 11, Minute No. 34 of May 31, 2018):

1. The current purchase volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.
(2) The sales volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

Forward transactions that do not involve the guaraní are exempt from that limit. (Resolution No. 15, Minute No. 67 of October 18, 2018).

Official cover of forward operations No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Purchases of goods and services made by taxpayers of the Tax on Income from Commercial, Industrial or Service Activities (IRACIS); of the Tax on Income from Agricultural Activities (IRAGRO); of the Tax on Income of Small Taxpayers (IRPC); and of the Tax on Income from Personal Service (IRP), which are equal to or greater than G 50,000,000, or its equivalent in foreign currency, whether these are carried out individually or if the monthly operations between the same parties total said sum, provided they are paid in full or in part in cash, must be communicated to the Undersecretary of State for Taxation of the MOF, within the period, in the manner and under the conditions provided for therein.

For capital transactions Yes.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments No.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents, which involve the guaraní, may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

Credit operations No.

Use of foreign exchange among residents No.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements Yes.

Operative Yes. Since October 26, 2015, the BCP and the Central Bank of Uruguay have had an agreement on the payments system (SML). In April 2016, the Republic of Paraguay and Brazil entered into an agreement on the local currency payments system. The operational implementation of the SML with Uruguay was on December 20, 2017, and on July 7, 2018, with Brazil. In October 2019, the Republic of Paraguay and Argentina entered into an agreement on the local currency payments system (SML). Effective June 22, 2021, the agreement entered into force.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements Yes. Paraguay is a member of the LAIA.

Clearing agreements Yes. Paraguay is a member of the LAIA.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control No. Under Law No. 489/95 (Organic Law of the BCP), the BCP may operate on the foreign exchange market to smooth rate fluctuations, but it may not prevent or delay payments to or from Paraguay (Article 50).

In accordance with the provisions of the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism and Other Illicit Acts and BCP provisions on the transportation and physical remittance of banknotes, banks and exchange houses that remit foreign exchange abroad must, on the day following the transaction, notify the Superintendency of Banks and the office of the BCP Economic Crime Department, for statistical purposes, of the type of currency, the amount, and the geographic destination. The remitting entity must ensure that the currency is transported securely within Paraguay and must insure the instruments transported until they reach their destination. All capital flows legitimately covered by the legal framework in effect are guaranteed, but there are administrative and security controls under Law No. 2381/04.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

As a member of MERCOSUR, Paraguay applies its CET composed of 24 rates ranging up to 30%. Under the agreed transitional implementation of the CET, Paraguay maintains a number of waivers of the CET for computer equipment, telecommunications equipment, processed foods, textiles, clothing, and shoes. Paraguay benefits from a waiver of the increase in MERCOSUR’s CET from 20% to 35% for shoes and clothing and from 18% to 26% for textiles.

State import monopoly

A large share of military equipment and supplies is imported by state agencies, as are diesel fuel and banknotes for issuance. Internet services continue to be partially liberalized.

For prudential regulatory purposes, Law No. 861/96, Article 30, states that credit institutions, whether domestic or foreign, may distribute their annual profits with authorization from the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders or their parent company and subject to the opinion of the Superintendency of Banks, provided the said opinion is issued within 120 days of the close of the fiscal year. If this deadline expires and the Superintendency has issued no opinion, the profits may be distributed.

According to Article 30 of Law No. 861/96, it is expressly prohibited to distribute anticipated or provisional profits, or those whose distribution results in the breach of the terms established in this law.

No bank, financial institution, or other credit institution may distribute profits before having amortized at least 20% of the expenses of incorporation, including those of organization, and the total commissions for the sale of shares, accumulated losses and other expenses not represented in its tangible assets.

As an anti-money-laundering control and prudential supervision measure, entities supervised by the Superintendency of Banks may not sell, assign, or transfer their shares to individuals or legal entities domiciled in countries deemed to be tax havens.

As an anti-money-laundering control and prudential supervision measure, entities supervised by the Superintendency of Banks may not sell, assign, or transfer their shares to individuals or legal entities domiciled in countries deemed to be tax havens.

Article 40 Number 17 of the Banking Law of June 24, 1996, authorizes the purchase of shares in foreign banks or other institutions that operate in financial intermediation or in the stock market, or are auxiliaries of one or the other, for the purpose of achieving international scope for their activities. For this purpose, it must seek, on a case-by-case basis, authorization from the BCP, provided: (1) external institutions have external audits satisfactory to the Superintendency of Banks of Paraguay and (2) national financial institutions undertake to submit financial statements, with those of external institutions, that allow the conclusion that capital contributions in individual companies are free of debts or credits of any nature.
Credit Institutions, may hold no more than 20% of their effective net worth in bonds and other securities issued by multilateral credit institutions of which the country is a member. Article 40 of Law No. 861 Numeral 18 authorizes banks to buy, hold, and sell bonds of multilateral credit organizations of which the country is a member. They cannot buy bonds from nonresident natural or legal persons. Pursuant to General Law No. 861 on “Banks, Financial Institutions and Other Credit Institutions” of June 24, 1996, Article 40, Paragraph 2, authorizes the issuance and placement of promissory notes and bonds in local or foreign currency.

Article 78: Bond issuance, establishes that financial entities must have prior authorization from the Superintendency of Banks to issue bonds, but are not required to provide specific guarantees to back them.

Article 79: Characteristics of subordinated bonds, establishes that subordinated bonds must have the following characteristics:

(1) Their term may not be less than four years;

(2) Their issuance must necessarily be made by public offering;

(3) They may not be paid before their maturity, nor may they be redeemed by drawing lots;

(4) They must be issued in local or foreign currency;

(5) They must be converted to shares in the event that it is necessary to reach the minimum capital required by law or to replace capital losses; and

(6) In the event of dissolution and liquidation of the issuing financial entity, their payment will be subordinated to the order of priority established in Article 131 of this law.

The following reserve requirements apply to deposits in foreign currency:

1. 24% for terms of up to 360 days (including sight deposits);
2. 16.5% for terms of 361 days to 540 days;
3. 0% for terms above 541 days.

A (non-compulsory) guide for managing liquidity (liquid assets/short-term deposits) is in effect. The guide establishes different coverages for foreign and local currency.

Banks may invest up to 20% of their effective net worth in shares of financial institutions abroad, with the prior authorization of the BCP, in addition to the other considerations set out in Law No. 861/96. Article 40 Number 17 authorizes the purchase of shares in foreign banks or other institutions that operate in financial intermediation or in the stock market, or are auxiliaries of one or the other, for the purpose of achieving international scope for their activities.

As an anti-money-laundering control and prudential oversight measure, entities supervised by the Superintendency of Banks may not sell, assign, or transfer their shares to individuals or legal entities domiciled in countries deemed to be tax havens.

The following ratio categories are established for the foreign currency position.
Resolution No. 2, Minute No. 34 of May 13, 2019, on effective net worth:
(1) Category A: liability position of 10% to asset position of 15%.
(2) Category B: asset position of 40% to asset position of 50%.
(3) Category C: asset position of 90% to asset position of 100%.

Resolution No. 3, Minute 34 of May 13, 2019, also amends the daily net operating foreign exchange position from US$3 million to US$5 million.

The daily net operating foreign exchange position is defined as the (negative or positive) difference in the net aggregate foreign currency position from one day to the next, which may not exceed US$5 million, for both long and short positions.

A financial institution that exceeds the limit must deposit in its account with the BCP, within 24 hours of the BCP notice to the financial institution, an amount equal to the excess over the established limit. This amount will remain unavailable in the US dollar account that the financial institution holds with the BCP for 15 business days.

Net long or short positions on forward transactions with residents have an applicable limit. Such positions may not exceed the smaller of:
(1) two times the average volume of banking operations of banks in the last three months or
(2) 80% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

In the case of forward transactions with nonresidents, it is considered that (modified from Resolution No. 11, Minute No. 34 of May 31, 2018):
(1) The current purchase volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.
(2) The sales volume of current forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

Forward transactions that do not involve the guaraní are exempt from that limit (Resolution No. 15, Minute No. 67 of October 18, 2018).

On nonresident assets and liabilities: Yes.

Provisions specific to institutional investors:

Insurance companies: Yes.

As of June 30, 2021, there were 35 insurance companies authorized by the Superintendency of Insurance to operate in the market. (However, Universo S.A. de Seguros has stopped issuing policies because of a deficit in its Guarantee Fund.) Pursuant to Article 4 of Law No. 827/96 on Insurance, the BCP’s Superintendency of Insurance is responsible for authorizing the operation of insurance companies.

Foreign currency assets and liabilities must be based on the end-of-month exchange rate.

Because there is no pension regulator, there are no general regulations on portfolio allocations. However, there are eight special pension funds (cajas), each created under a specific law (which outlines rules for administration, contributions, benefits, investments, accounting, and supervision). These laws do not set any investment limits. There are also 10 private social insurance funds, the operations of which are not regulated.

The legal framework of the floating exchange rate system is established by Executive Decree No. 268-91-EF (March 26, 1991), which states that the exchange rate for foreign currency operations is determined in the foreign exchange market by the free interaction of supply and demand. Consequently, there is no official exchange rate. For private contracts involving transactions with foreign currency, Article 1237 of the Civil Code establishes that the exchange rate for valuation in domestic currency of obligations denominated in foreign currency is the ask exchange rate at the due or payment date of the contract. The Economic Studies Department of the Superintendence of Banks, Insurance Companies, and Pension Funds (SBS), within its role of promoting the transparent flow of information in the financial system (Article 32 of SBS Resolution No. 4027-2011), proposes the methodology for recording the exchange rate and interest rates (both freely determined). To contribute to the provision of information and for statistical purposes, the SBS publishes the daily exchange rate on its website. The daily exchange rate is registered as the bid and ask prices for banking operations recorded on DATATEC.

According to the Constitution of Peru, the BCRP is a public autonomous entity whose role is to preserve monetary stability. The BCRP is responsible for regulating the money supply and credit in the financial system, for managing the country’s international reserves, and for reporting on the nation’s finances. The CB’s...
The inflation target is aimed at anchoring inflation expectations at a similar level to the inflation rate observed in developed economies and reflects the BCRP’s permanent commitment to monetary stability. Decisions are taken by majority vote. In case of a tie, the vote of the governor of the BCRP is the decisive vote.

Inflation target

Target number

- Yes.

Point target

- Yes.

Target with tolerance band

- Yes. The BCRP has a continuous inflation target range between 1% and 3%.

Band/Range

- Yes.

Target measure

- Yes. Inflation is defined as the year-on-year (y-o-y) percentage change in the CPI. Headline inflation is the CPI inflation, and this is the reference for the inflation-targeting regime accountability.

CPI

- Yes.

Core inflation

- No. The inflation target range must be met on a continuous basis.

Operating target (policy rate)

- Yes. The overnight interbank interest rate is the operating target of monetary policy, at 6.50% in August 2022 (after having remained at 0.25%, its all-time low, since April 2020 and having been gradually raised since August 2021). CDs issued in local currency by the BCRP are the main monetary instrument for open-market operations. The BCRP also issues CDs indexed to the policy rate, and charges a commission on transfers of these CDs to resident and nonresident institutions, except between resident financial institutions. The commission is currently 4%. Time deposits in the BCRP are also used as a sterilization instrument. In addition, CDs indexed to the exchange rate and denominated in local currency continue to be used as a monetary regulatory instrument to mop up liquidity in the financial system. They are also used by private banks as part of their exchange position. The BCRP issues CDs redeemable in US dollars, which facilitate its intervention in the spot foreign exchange market. Similarly, the BCRP participates in foreign exchange swap auctions with financial institutions.

Target corridor band

- Yes. The BCRP sets interest rates related to permanent facility operations in domestic currency with financial entities:

  1. Overnight deposits: 4.50% annual (as at August 31).
  2. Direct security/currency repo and rediscount operations: 7.00% annual (as at August 31).

- Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.
- All lending institutions (including banks and microfinance institutions) are licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public. The SBS is the official institution in charge of granting licenses to exchange bureaus and moneychangers. There were 1,281 exchange bureaus as of December 31, 2021. Exchange bureaus and moneychangers are not allowed to make transactions directly with the CB, and their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes or transfers between accounts in the financial system.

Interbank market

- The foreign exchange market in Peru operates on two platforms: (1) DATATEC and (2) Reuters. All banks are licensed to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. There were 16 commercial banks as of December 31, 2021. Licenses are granted by the SBS. There are no limits on bid-ask spreads. However, all banks are subject to a daily ceiling according to the risk policy of the banking institution. The BCRP intervenes in the market via DATATEC at its quoted rates or by proposing its own prices. The BCRP may launch auctions of CDs indexed to the exchange rate. Auctions are not conducted on a regular basis. Auction participants who default on their obligations may be temporarily barred from participation. All lending institutions (including banks and microfinance entities) are eligible to participate. Auction results are published on the BCRP’s website and DATATEC, Reuters, and Bloomberg terminals. Transactions in the foreign exchange market by private pension funds (Administradoras Privadas de Fondos de Pensiones) may not exceed a daily limit of 0.75% of the value of the fund and of 1.75% for the preceding five days (SBS Resolution No. 561-2013).

- Dealing takes place through Reuters, which allows direct negotiation between two counterparties.

- Participants bid and ask anonymously (based on a market-making agreement) through DATATEC.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange  Yes. For financial stability purposes, deposit accounts in domestic and foreign currency are treated differently:

Effective September 1, 2021, the reserve requirement ratio (RRR) in domestic currency was the greater of: (1) the RRR resulting from a marginal reserve rate of 25.0% on the increase in the total liabilities subject to reserve requirements (TOSE) with respect to July 2021 and (2) the RRR resulting from applying the minimum average reserve rate of 4.0% effective in September 1, 4.25% effective in October 1, and 4.50% effective in November 2021. Effective October 1, 2021, the minimum current account requirement was raised from 0.75% to 1.0% of the TOSE, which remains to this day.

Effective November 1, 2021, the RRR in domestic currency is the greater of: (1) the RRR resulting from applying the reserve rate for the base period (July 2021) to the liabilities subject to reserve requirements up to the base period level and a marginal reserve rate of 25% on the increase in the TOSE relative to the base period and (2) the minimum legal reserve requirement for the assessment period. Approval was given to increase the minimum legal reserve requirement to 4.5% in November 2021, 4.75% effective December 1, 2021, and 5.0% effective January 1, 2022. In addition, effective November 1, 2021, there is a maximum average reserve requirement equal to 6.0% of the TOSE flow for the assessment period.

2022 ANNUAL REPORT ON EXCHANGE ARRANGEMENTS AND EXCHANGE RESTRICTIONS INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
Approval was subsequently given to increase the minimum legal reserve requirement to 5.25% effective February 1, 5.5% effective March 1, and 5.75% effective April 1, and 6.0% effective May 2022. A special reserve requirement of 35% is applied to obligations in domestic currency that are indexed to foreign exchange variations. There is a minimum reserve requirement rate of 9%, but for macroprudential purposes, the BCRP requires additional reserves, which are determined based on a marginal reserve rate and a cap on the average reserve rate, both currently at 35%. Foreign-exchange-indexed obligations are subject to a special reserve requirement rate of 9%.

The reserve requirement rate with average maturities equal to or less than 2 years with foreign financial entities subject to the special regime is 9%.

Coverage of legal reserve requirements includes liabilities of foreign branches. The general reserve rate requirement applies to the following operations: (1) foreign-exchange-indexed obligations; (2) obligations with nonresident institutions with maturities of two years or more that exceed certain limits and operations; and (3) obligations derived from credit with nonresident institutions.

On March 30, 2020, it was established that additional reserve requirements in foreign currency conditional to the expansion of total loans in dollars and the total automobile credits and mortgage in dollars would be suspended until December 2020. On December 18, 2020, the suspension was extended until April 2021. As it is mentioned below, these additional requirements were reinstated with modifications starting in May 1, 2021.

Prior to the suspension, as of January 1, 2020, when the financial entity had an average daily credit balance greater than or equal to US$100 million (excluding the average daily balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of credits granted as of January 1, 2015, with a term greater than three years exceeding US$10 million), an additional reserve requirement was established if the average daily balance of total credits was higher than the greater of: (1) 80% of the balance for September 2013; (2) the average daily balance of credits in foreign currency for December 2017 plus 30% of the accumulated flow relative to December 2018 of the average credit in domestic currency, excluding mortgage, consumer, and foreign trade credit from that flow; (3) a level 4% higher than the December 2018 balance; and (4) the effective equity for December 2014.

Prior to the suspension, as of January 1, 2020, financial entities whose average daily balance of total vehicle and mortgage consumer loans exceeded 40% of the balance reached as at February 28, 2013, or 6% of their ultimate effective equity, whichever is greater, were subject to an additional reserve requirement equal to 15% of the percentage excess.

On March 22, 2021, it was established that effective May 1, 2021, the additional reserve requirements in foreign currency conditional to the expansion of total loans in dollars and the total automobile credits and mortgage in dollars would go back into force.

Effective May 1, 2021, when the financial entity has an average daily balance of credits greater than or equal to US$200 million (excluding the average balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of credits granted as of January 1, 2015, with a term greater than 3 years that exceed an amount of US$10 million, an additional reserve requirement is established if the average daily balance of total credits exceeds the average daily balance of credits in foreign currency of December 2018 plus 30% of the accumulated flow compared to December 2018 of the average credit in domestic currency, excluding from said flow that corresponding to mortgage, consumer and foreign trade credit. The additional reserve is equal to 30% of the percentage excess. The additional reserve is applied to total liabilities in foreign currency.

Effective May 1, 2021, financial entities whose average daily balance of total vehicle and mortgage consumer loans exceeds 90% (85% as effective December 1 2021 and 80% effective December 1 2022) of the balance reached as of December 31, 2018, or 6% of their ultimate effective equity (5% effective December 1, 2021), whichever is greater, will be subject to an additional reserve requirement equal to 15% of the percentage excess. The additional reserve is applied to total liabilities in foreign currency.

The limits on average daily balance of total automobile credits and mortgage in dollars are 40% of the balance reached as of February 28, 2013, or 6% of the last effective equity published (Circular No. 031-2019).

A type of repo operation is used to inject soles; this operation allows the BCRP to provide soles to financial institutions in exchange for an equivalent amount of foreign currency reserve funds, which is deducted from their dollar reserve requirements up to an amount equal to 20% of their obligations subject to foreign currency reserve requirements (an expansionary operation). Another new type of repo operation was implemented to support the conversion to domestic currency of loans granted by financial institutions in foreign currency. Under the terms of the operation, the CB sells foreign currency to the financial institution on the spot date to finance this conversion (a currency substitution operation). Synthetic forwards are also included in the calculation used for limits on foreign exchange derivatives.

Liquid asset requirements

As a prudential measure, a liquid asset requirement as a percentage of short-term liabilities (20% in foreign currency and 8% in domestic currency) is applied. These ratios increase to 25% and 10%, respectively, if concentration (measured as the percentage of liabilities with the largest 20 depositors) is higher than 25%. The short-term LCR is 100% (SBS Resolution No. 6694-2015). From March 16, 2020, the limits of LCRs in domestic currency (RCL-MN) and in foreign currency (RCL-ME) temporarily stopped applying, until further notice, as per Oficio Multiple No. 11148-2020 issued by the SBS.

By way of Oficio Multiple No. 05830-2022-SBS (of February 11, 2022), the SBS re-established the 100% requirement for the RCL-MN and RCL-ME effective April 1, 2022.

Interest rate controls

No.

Credit controls

No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents

Yes.

Reserve requirements

Yes. Obligations in foreign currency with nonresident institutions with maturities of two years or less including foreign trade credit lines are subject to a special reserve requirement rate of 9%. For foreign loans used to finance foreign trade operations with maturities shorter than or equal to two years up to the equivalent of 40% of effective equity, the reserve requirement rate is also 9%.

In absolute value, the net foreign exchange swaps and derivatives’ long and short positions cannot exceed the maximum of (1) US$750 million and (2) 40% of banks’ effective equity (SBS Resolution No. 1884-2019). A prudential limit of 50% of net worth applies to the long foreign exchange position of financial institutions, and a limit of 10% of net worth applies to the short foreign exchange position. The weekly limit for agreed operations of sale of foreign currency in exchange for domestic currency through forwards and swaps is US$675 million. Regarding the balance from which an additional reserve requirement is applied to such operations, the one that is higher will be considered between 135% of effective equity as of December 31, 2014, 135% of the daily average value of foreign exchange derivatives in December 2014, or US$1,170 million.

05/01/2021
An additional reserve requirement is established for financial entities with an average daily balance of credits greater than or equal to US $200 million (excluding the average balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of credits granted as of January 1, 2015, with a term greater than 3 years that exceed an amount of US $10 million), if the average daily balance of total credits exceeds the average daily balance of credits in foreign currency of December 2018 plus 30% of the accumulated flow compared to December 2018 of the average credit in domestic currency, excluding from said flow that corresponding to mortgage, consumer and foreign trade credit. The additional reserve is equal to 30% of the percentage excess. The additional reserve is applied to total liabilities in foreign currency.

Financial entities whose average daily balance of total vehicle and mortgage consumer loans exceeds 90% (85% as of December 2021 and 80% as of December 2022) of the balance reached as of December 31, 2018, or 6% of their ultimate effective equity (5% as of December 2021), whichever is greater, will be subject to an additional reserve requirement equal to 15% of the percentage excess. The additional reserve is applied to total liabilities in foreign currency.

The reserve requirement rate (RRR) in domestic currency was the... greater of: (1) the RRR resulting from a marginal reserve rate of 25% on the increase in the total liabilities subject to reserve requirements with respect to July 2021 and (2) the RRR resulting from applying the minimum average reserve rate of 4%.

Previously, between April 2020 and August 2021, the reserve requirement rate in domestic currency was 4% and the minimum current account requirement was 0.75%.

10/01/2021

The reserve requirement rate (RRR) in domestic currency was the greater of: (1) the RRR resulting from a marginal reserve rate of 25% on the increase in the total liabilities subject to reserve requirements (TOSE) with respect to July 2021 and (2) the RRR resulting from applying the minimum average reserve rate of 4.25%.

Crawl-like arrangement
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) adheres to a market-determined exchange rate policy with some scope for occasional action participation in the market solely to prevent potentially disruptive sharp fluctuations in the exchange rate that may have an adverse impact on the inflation outlook and inflation expectations. The importation season, which lasted around July to September, and the inflows because of seasonal remittances in the fourth quarter were taken into consideration in estimating the possible intervention amount. However, the BSP does not target or support a given level of exchange rate; it instead allows the value of the peso to be determined by the demand for and supply of foreign currencies. The BSP may participate in the US dollar–peso market directly with market participants or via market makers and does not disclose intervention data.

In 2021 (January 4 to December 31), the peso averaged ₱49.25/US$1, appreciating by 0.75% from the ₱49.62/US$1 average in 2020. The peso remained resilient in 2021 despite worries over the emergence of new and aggressive COVID-19 variants, as well as prospects of a faster pace of tightening by the US Federal Reserve. This reflects, in general, investors’ continued focus on the country’s favorable macroeconomic fundamentals which include a manageable inflation environment, a strong and resilient banking system, a prudent fiscal position, and an ample level of international reserve buffer.

At the same time, positive market sentiment over the National Government’s (NG) efforts to accelerate the vaccination program, the consequent decline in local COVID-19 cases, and the easing of lockdown restrictions translated to a relatively stable foreign exchange rate. Meanwhile, the continued buildup in the country’s international reserves as well as the reaffirmation of the country’s credit ratings also helped sustain market confidence to the local currency.

For the period January 1 to July 27, 2022, the peso averaged ₱52.62/US$1, depreciating by 6.37% from the average in 2021. The depreciation of the peso is influenced mainly by external and domestic factors, particularly the monetary policy tightening in the US and other advanced economies to curb rising inflation, the continued Russia–Ukraine conflict, the potential slowdown in China amid reimpositions of COVID-19 restrictions and rising global oil prices. On the domestic front, prevailing supply-side inflation pressures relating to food and energy prices and developments related to the COVID-19 pandemic continue to affect the foreign exchange market.

On a year-to-date basis, the peso closed at ₱55.68/US$1 on July 27, 2021, depreciating by 8.41% from its closing rate of ₱51.00/US$1 on end-December 2021. The peso depreciated along with most of regional currencies amid concerns over the pace of tightening by the US Fed.

Since June 2021, the exchange rate increased its flexibility. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to floating from crawl-like, effective June 15, 2021.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. The BSP publishes reference rates daily based on the Bankers Association of the Philippines (BAP)-weighted US dollar (USD)/PHP average rate, with Bloomberg as its calculating agent, and on the Reuters Eikon system foreign exchange previous day’s New York closing price for other currencies. These are used to determine the value of foreign currency vis-à-vis the US dollar, euro, and peso.

Government and Central Bank

Yes. The Development Budget Coordination Committee (DBCC), in consultation with the BSP, sets a fixed inflation target over a multi-year period to promote a longer-term view on inflation, help anchor inflation expectations, and foster greater flexibility in economic decisions. On approval by the DBCC, the BSP announces the inflation target to the public. The DBCC is composed of the principals of the four member agencies, namely Department of Budget and Management, Department of Finance, National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), and the Office of the President (OP). The BSP was invited to join the DBCC as a resource institution to provide inputs on monetary measures and policies. Although the responsibility of achieving the inflation target rests primarily with the BSP, the joint announcement of the inflation target reflects active government participation in achieving the goal of price stability.

In practice, the agreements reached by the DBCC members are typically made through a consensus decision. The BSP sits in the DBCC as a resource institution to ensure close coordination on real, fiscal monetary, and external sectors of the economy. While the BSP has no vote during DBCC meetings, the BSP is tasked with providing recommendations on a set of medium-term macroeconomic assumptions that are used in setting domestic growth and fiscal targets. Other member agencies also propose targets or assumptions under their purview. For instance, the NEDA recommends the medium-term GDP growth targets, while the Department of Budget and Management and the Department of Finance endorse the medium-term fiscal and financing programs, that are, in turn, used in the preparation of the NG budget. The DBCC also serves as an important venue for presentation and discussion among economic managers of other important matters, for example, setting of inflation targets, proposals for tax legislation, and mitigating measures against the economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, among others.

Inflation target  Yes.
Target number  Yes.

Point target

Target with tolerance band  Yes. The BSP has employed fixed multi-year inflation targets in replacement of the previous variable annual inflation target since July 2010. The NG’s inflation target has a tolerance interval of ±1 percentage point (pp) around the target. It is measured in terms of the average year-on-year change in the CPI over the calendar year: 2011: 4.0% ± 1 pp (3.0%–5.0%); 2012–2014: 4.0% ± 1 pp (3.0%–5.0%); 2015–2016: 3.0% ± 1 pp (2.0%–4.0%); 2017–2018: 3.0% ± 1 pp (2.0%–4.0%); and 2019–2020: 3.0% ± 1 pp (2.0%–4.0%). On February 26, 2019, in line with the inflation-targeting framework, the DBCC, through its Resolution No. 2019-01, decided to maintain the current inflation target at 3.0% with a tolerance band of ±1 pp for 2019–2020 and to set the inflation target at 3.0% ± 1.0 pp for 2021–2022. These decisions were announced to the public, with effect February 8, 2019. During its annual review in 2021, the DBCC, in consultation with the BSP, decided to maintain the inflation target at 3.0% with a tolerance band of ±1.0 pp for 2022–2024.

Band/Range

Target measure  Yes. The primary objective of the BSP monetary policy is “to promote price stability conducive to a balanced and sustainable growth of the economy and employment.” The government’s inflation target is defined in terms of the average year-on-year change in the CPI over the calendar year and is set two years ahead in consultation with the BSP.

Core inflation

Target horizon  Yes. The BSP adopts a two-year policy horizon (current and one year ahead) in setting the medium-term inflation targets.

Operating target (policy rate)  Yes. The BSP’s primary monetary policy instrument is its overnight reverse repurchase rate.

Policy rate  Yes. The overnight lending facility (OLF) and the overnight deposit facility rates form the upper and lower bounds of the corridor, which are set at 50 basis points (bps) around the overnight reverse repurchase rate.

Other  No.

Accountability  Yes. To ensure accountability in cases where the BSP fails to achieve the inflation target, the BSP Governor issues an Open Letter to the President outlining the reasons why actual inflation did not fall within the target, along with the steps that would be taken to bring the inflation toward the target. The Open Letter contains explanation clauses, a predefined set of acceptable circumstances under which the BSP failed to achieve its inflation target. Open Letters to the President were issued January 16, 2004, January 18, 2005, January 25, 2006, January 19, 2007, January 14, 2008, January 26, 2009, January 28, 2016, January 20, 2017, January 25, 2019, and January 18, 2022.

Parliamentary hearings
Yes.

Detailed report on economic developments is submitted to the President and Congress, on a quarterly and annual basis. These reports are released to the public as the BSP’s Report on Economic and Financial Developments and Annual Report.

Other
No.

Transparency
Yes.

Publication of votes
No.

The decisions of the Monetary Board (MB) concerning monetary policy are determined by consensus. No attribution of votes to individual Board members is made to emphasize the collegial and consensus-based nature of the decision-making process.

Publication of minutes
Yes.

As part of its efforts to promote greater transparency and accountability under the inflation-targeting framework, the BSP publishes the highlights of each MB meeting on the monetary policy stance, with a lag of four weeks. The highlights of each MB meeting contain the MB’s monetary policy decision as well as key considerations in the formulation of the said monetary policy stance, including the inflation outlook, output, and domestic liquidity and credit conditions. The schedule of MB meeting highlights’ publication is posted on the BSP website (Schedule of Monetary Policy Meetings, Inflation Report Press Conference, and Publication of MB Highlights, and Monetary Policy Report).

Note: Starting 2022, the BSP has replaced the Inflation Report with the Monetary Policy Report. The Monetary Policy Report serves as the flagship BSP publication on monetary policy that provides the public a detailed view of the BSP’s forecasts and guidance on the likely direction of monetary policy over the next two years. The report conveys to the public the overall thinking behind the BSP’s decisions on monetary policy. The greater part of the report is devoted to the forward-looking discussions on inflation and the key macroeconomic variables that affect inflation as well as the risks and uncertainty surrounding the BSP’s inflation forecasts.

Publication of inflation forecasts
Yes.

The BSP discloses updated baseline inflation forecasts after each MB meeting on the monetary policy stance (which is held eight times a year). In addition, the BSP also publishes in greater detail the inflation outlook using a fan chart in its quarterly Inflation Monetary Policy Report. The fan chart depicts the probability of different inflation outcomes based on the central projection (corresponding to the baseline forecast of the BSP) and the risks surrounding the inflation outlook.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax
No.

Exchange subsidy
No.

Foreign exchange market
Yes.

Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and margins in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market: Yes.

Universal and commercial banks (U/KBs) licensed by the BSP to operate in the Philippines may engage in spot foreign exchange transactions in pesos and US dollars and in other third-currency transactions. Member banks of the BAP may trade in the peso–US dollar spot market via the Bloomberg trading platform. As of July 29, 2022, the BAP is the lead organization of U/KBs in the Philippines consisting of 45 member banks, of which 21 are local banks and 24 are foreign bank branches.

Residents may purchase foreign exchange from foreign exchange dealers (FXDs) and money changers (MCs) for outward investment in any amount. The BSP Financial Markets Operations Sub-Sector does not deal with MCs. Thrift banks (TBs), rural banks, and cooperative banks may buy and sell foreign exchange under the pertinent foreign exchange rules and regulations.

Operated by the central bank: No.
Foreign exchange standing facility: No.
Allocation: No.
Auction: No.
Fixing: No.

Interbank market: Yes.

Interbank trading is conducted among BAP member banks and between these banks and the BSP. As of July 29, 2022, the BAP is the lead organization of U/KBs in the Philippines consisting of 45 member banks, of which 21 are local banks and 24 are foreign bank branches. Member banks may also deal through brokers. Only banks authorized for foreign exchange operations by the BSP and members of the BAP may engage in peso–US dollar trading with the BSP and among themselves. Trading among banks takes place on the Bloomberg trading platform.

The USD/PHP trading takes place from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. daily without a trading break to noon and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. daily. The new trading hours began as of January 3, 2022, following a reduction in hours during the pandemic. The system allows participants to share information electronically and conduct business. A party requesting quotes enters the dealing code of the quoting party, the value date, and the volume of the transaction. The quoting party enters the exchange rate. Only the BSP has access to the database showing full details of individual trades on any day. Banks may view only statistics such as the day’s open, high, low, close, average, volume, and bank quotes. Banks may also view their own completed transactions. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants. The BSP may participate in the domestic interbank foreign exchange market directly and/or via market makers.

Over the counter: Yes.

Commercial banks may deal over the counter after the close of official trading at 4:00 p.m. These transactions, along with transactions involving institutions that are not members of the BAP, are not included in the BAP statistics for the day.

Brokerage: Yes.

Commercial banks may deal via brokers but must enter such transactions through the electronic platform provided by Bloomberg. At present, there are four foreign exchange brokers: Tullett Prebon (Philippines), Inc., GFI Group Philippines Inc., Tradition Financial Services Philippines, Inc., and Amstel Philippines Inc.

Market making: Yes.

Forward exchange market: Yes.

Universal banks, commercial banks, and other banks with limited user authority may engage in foreign exchange forwards with counterparties and customers if the latter are hedging market risks or covering funding requirements. TBs with existing authority to issue foreign LCs and pay, accept, and negotiate import and export drafts and bills of exchange are allowed to apply for Type 2 derivatives authority to operate as a dealer, broker, and end-user of deliverable foreign exchange forwards, subject to certain conditions. Forward transactions involving the sale of foreign exchange to nonresidents without full delivery of principal no longer require BSP approval.

The BSP participates in the swap market for its monetary and exchange rate operations. Data on currency swaps settled in local and foreign currencies and NDFs settled in domestic currency are reported monthly in Sections II and IV, respectively, of the Data Template on International Reserves and Foreign Currency Liquidity, which is posted on the BSP website.

The BSP’s derivatives framework allows supervised financial institutions to offer or engage in non-complex derivatives activities without prior BSP approval. These activities are called generally authorized derivatives activities (GADA). BSP-Supervised Financial Institutions (BSFIs), however, are expected to undergo the licensing process prior to offering or engaging in more complex derivatives instruments. The amendments to the derivatives regulations under BSP Circular No. 1119 (Amendments to Derivatives Regulations of Banks, Quasi-Banks, and Trust Corporations) involve:

1. Removing the tenor limits on instruments currently classified as GADA of U/KBs;
2. Including non-deliverable foreign exchange forwards as GADA under a dealer capacity for U/KBs as opposed to requiring at least a Type 2 limited dealer authority, while maintaining (a) the existing regulatory limit anchored on capital to prevent the buildup of systemic risks and (b) the applicable documentary, reporting, and other requirements under the Foreign Exchange Manual;
3. Allowing trust departments of U/KBs, quasi-banks, and nonbank financial institutions (NBFIs) to transact as institutional counterparties on behalf of their trustor/principal/s: (a) in products being offered by U/KBs as dealers as GADA and (b) in specific structured products and credit-linked notes, and aligning the derivatives authorities of trust corporations with trust department of U/KBs; and
4. Streamlining the licensing process by subjecting variants of and structures involving stand-alone derivatives products that are under a BSFI’s existing authority to notification and pre-qualification requirements (that is, will form part of type “C” activities) instead of another licensing process (that is, reserved for type “A” applications).

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Payments for exports may be made in the following currencies: Australian dollars, Bahrain dinars, Kuwaiti dinars, Brunei dollars, Canadian dollars, Chinese yuan, euros, Hong Kong dollars, Indonesian rupiah, Korean won, Pound sterling, Saudi Arabian riyals, Singapore dollars, Swiss francs, Thai baht, UAE dirhams, US dollars, Japanese yen, and any other foreign currency declared convertible with the BSP as indicated in the BSP Reference Exchange Rate Bulletin posted at the BSP website.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is generally allowed subject to the PHP 50,000 limit on cross-border transfer of local currency under domestic laws and regulations. Amounts in excess of the PHP 50,000 limit require prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness. Domestic currency can be used for imports and exports from ASEAN countries provided the BSP is not asked to intervene in the clearing of any balances from this payment scheme and gold sales to the BSP which are considered constructive exports.

For current transactions and payments  Yes. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is generally allowed subject to the PHP 50,000 limit on cross-border transfer of local currency under domestic laws and regulations. Amounts in excess of the PHP 50,000 limit require prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness.

For capital transactions  Yes. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is generally allowed subject to the PHP 50,000 limit on cross-border transfer of local currency under domestic laws and regulations. Amounts in excess of the PHP 50,000 limit require prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes. Transactions in capital and money market instruments are subject to the PHP 50,000 limit on cross-border transfer of local currency under domestic laws and regulations. Amounts in excess of the PHP 50,000 limit must require prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes. Customers may hedge their market risks arising from foreign exchange obligations through foreign exchange forwards (deliverable and non-deliverable) and foreign exchange swaps with Authorized Agent Banks (AABs), provided the underlying transaction is eligible for servicing using foreign exchange resources of AABs or AAB-foreign exchange corporations (forex corps). All NDF contracts by banks with residents must be settled in Philippine pesos.

Credit operations  Yes. Banks may extend peso financing to nonresidents to fund the following: (1) Without prior BSP approval – specific cases allowed under the Manual of Regulations for Banks (MORB); or Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes.

There are no restrictions on the use of foreign exchange among residents, provided the sale of foreign exchange by AAB/AAB-forex corps is supported by documentation. Foreign exchange purchases exceeding US$60 million or its equivalent in other foreign currency an investor a year, or a fund a year are only subject to a notification to the BSP at least 15 banking days after determination that total foreign exchange requirements will exceed the US$60 million threshold and present to the foreign exchange selling institution a copy of the notice duly received/acknowledged by the BSP.

Residents may also purchase any amount of foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs, subject to the following documentary requirements: (1) application to sell/purchase foreign currency and (2) supporting documents for purchase of foreign exchange if the amount exceeds US$10,000 for non-trade current account purposes or for all other purposes, regardless of the amount involved. FXDs/MCs must only be allowed to sell foreign currencies in an amount not exceeding US$10,000 or its equivalent a transaction, and not exceeding US$50,000 or its equivalent a month a customer. Exemption or higher limits may be granted by the appropriate department of the BSP Financial Supervision Sector (FSS) if justified by the business model of the MC/FXD. FXDs/MCs’ pay-outs of more than PHP 500,000 or its foreign currency equivalent in any single transaction with customers or counterparties must only be made via check payment or direct credit to deposit accounts.

Foreign exchange purchases exceeding US$60 million or its equivalent in other foreign currency an investor a year, or a fund a year are only subject to a notification to the BSP at least 15 banking days after determination that total foreign exchange requirements will exceed the US$60 million threshold and present to the foreign exchange selling institution a copy of the notice duly received/acknowledged by the BSP.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes. Foreign exchange accounts held domestically are permitted and may be funded with own foreign exchange or foreign exchange remitted from abroad. As of March 8, 2019, these accounts may also be funded with foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps, subject to submission of applicable documentation.

Approval required

No.

Held abroad

Yes. Foreign exchange accounts held abroad are permitted but may not be funded with foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps. Balances may be freely transferred into the Philippines, subject to rules on cross-border transfer of foreign currency cited in Item IV.F.2.b hereof.

Approval required

No.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No. There are no regulations prohibiting the opening of peso accounts abroad, but subject to rule on cross-border transfer of domestic currency. For amounts exceeding PHP 50,000, residents and nonresidents must obtain prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes. These conversions to foreign exchange of amounts in these resident accounts are subject to the rules on foreign exchange transactions under the Manual of Regulations on Foreign Exchange Transactions (MORFXT) (Foreign Exchange Manual).

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. An offshore banking unit (OBU) may freely engage in all normal banking transactions with nonresidents and/or with other OBUs, involving any currency other than the Philippine peso. There are no restrictions on the withdrawal by the depositor of his deposit or on the transfer of the same abroad, except those arising from the contract between the depositor and the bank. Securities sold by banks or NBFIs without recourse or subject of quasi-banking activities are delivered to the purchaser’s/lender’s designated BSP-accredited custodian or the options available for delivery of securities involving local purchases from banks or NBFIs under BSP supervision were expanded to include Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)-authorized central securities depositories.

The BSP approved the amendments to the regulations on securities custodianship and securities registry operations under Circular No. 1121, which aim to simplify the licensing process and expand both the client base and the number of financial institutions offering said services. The new rules aim to attract more players in the industry while ensuring that only BSFIs with robust risk management and governance systems as well as appropriate information technology infrastructure will offer securities custodianship and securities registry services. It will also complement the existing initiatives to expand investment opportunities for the public and at same time ensure that their interests are adequately protected.

On capital market securities

Yes.

As a general rule, no securities may be sold or offered for sale to the public within the country, unless such securities have been registered with and are permitted to be sold by the SEC.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes.

If at least one of the parties in a securities transaction is a bank or a NBFI under BSP supervision, securities purchased must be held by a BSP-accredited securities custodian or registry or SEC-authorized central securities depository that is a third party – that is, with no subsidiary or affiliate relationship with the issuer or seller of the securities. However, if the purchaser is a nonresident who is a party to an existing global custody agreement governed by foreign laws and conventions under which the bank or NBFI is designated as custodian or subcustodian, the requirement for a third-party BSP-accredited custodian or SEC-registered central securities depository does not apply. Registration of the shares purchased with BSP or with registering banks is necessary only if the foreign exchange needed for capital repatriation and remittance of dividends, profits, and earnings thereon will be purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

Effective June 23, 2021, the BSP approved the amendments to the regulations on securities custodianship and securities registry operations under Circular No. 1121, which aim to simplify the licensing process and expand both the client base and the number of financial institutions offering said services. The new rules aim to attract more players in the industry while ensuring that only BSFIs with robust risk management and governance systems as well as appropriate information technology infrastructure will offer securities custodianship and securities registry services. The BSP issued Circular No. 1080 dated March 27, 2020, to provide operational relief measures for foreign exchange transactions in line with the declaration of “community quarantine” by the OP amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The said operational relief measures include, among others: (1) re-opening of grace period/lifting of prescriptive period for registration of foreign investments and (2) waiver of applicable processing fees under Appendix 20 of the MORFXT for foreign investments. These measures must remain effective for the duration of community quarantine by the OP or as may be extended by the BSP.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. The shares or securities issued or sold by nonresidents are subject to the same SEC approval and registration requirements as those issued by local companies. Payment for redemption of such shares or securities must not, however, involve the purchase of foreign exchange from AABs and/AAB-forex corps. Foreign firms whose securities are listed and traded on a local stock exchange must designate a transfer agent and registrar in the Philippines. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in foreign-currency-denominated instruments issued onshore by nonresidents, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Nonresident issuances of notes/bonds or similar instruments in the domestic market must require BSP approval before execution.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. Residents are free to invest abroad without restriction. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in securities abroad, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject only to 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Residents may also purchase foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs for outward investments, regardless of the amount, subject to documentation. Banks’ investments in subsidiaries and affiliates abroad are subject to BSP approval.

Derivatives are considered securities under the Securities Regulation Code and are being administered by the SEC. Banks may engage in GADA without BSP approval, provided they follow the risk management guidelines for derivatives transactions and comply with laws, rules, and regulations for this activity. BSP approval is required for banks to engage in all financial derivatives activities not expressly classified as "generally authorized."

Since February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. On the other hand, all banks may apply for limited user (to transact as end-user) or special broker (to facilitate transactions) authority for forward foreign exchange transactions, subject to BSP regulations.

Since February 5, 2008, universal banks, commercial banks, and other banks with limited user derivatives authority may engage only in foreign exchange forwards and swap transactions with other banks and nonresidents if the latter are hedging market risk or covering funding requirements. Foreign exchange regulations and documentary requirements for derivatives apply. TBs authorized to issue foreign LCs and pay, accept, and negotiate import and export drafts and bills of exchange may apply for Type 2 derivatives authority to be a dealer, broker, and end-user of deliverable foreign exchange forwards, subject to certain conditions. The total notional amount of banks’ NDFs involving Philippine pesos is limited to 20% and 100%, respectively, of the capital of domestic banks and local branches of foreign banks. AML laws, rules, and regulations; relevant SEC rules; foreign exchange regulations; and documentary requirements for derivatives also apply.

The BSP’s derivatives framework allows supervised financial institutions to offer or engage in non-complex derivatives activities without prior BSP approval. These activities are called GADA. BSFIs, however, are expected to undergo the licensing process prior to offering or engaging in more complex derivatives instruments.

The amendments to the derivatives regulations under BSP Circular No. 1119 (Amendments to Derivatives Regulations of Banks, Quasi-Banks, and Trust Corporations) involve:

1. Removing the 3-year tenor limits on instruments currently classified as GADA of U/KBs, effective June 22, 2021;
2. Including non-deliverable foreign exchange forwards as GADA under a dealer capacity for U/KBs as opposed to requiring at least a Type 2 limited dealer authority, while maintaining (a) the existing regulatory limit anchored on capital to prevent the buildup of systemic risks and (b) the applicable documentary, reporting and other requirements under the Foreign Exchange Manual, effective June 22, 2021;
3. Allowing trust departments of U/KBs, quasi-banks, and NBFI to transact as institutional counterparties on behalf of their trustor/principal/s (a) in products being offered by U/KBs as dealers as GADA and (b) in specific structured products and credit-linked notes, and aligning the derivatives authorities of trust corporations with trust department of U/KBs, effective June 22, 2021; and
4. Streamlining the licensing process by subjecting variants of and structures involving stand-alone derivatives products that are under a BSFI’s existing authority to notification and pre-qualification requirements (that is, will form part of type “C” activities) instead of another licensing process (that is, reserved for type “A” applications), effective June 22, 2021.

Under Circular No. 1124 dated August 10, 2021, which became effective September 13, 2021, the prior MB approval requirement for all foreign exchange derivatives transactions to be entered into by nonbank government entities (NBGEs) has been lifted.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes.

Since February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. Derivatives involving forward purchases of foreign exchange by nonresidents are not allowed, except for BSP-registered foreign investments under certain conditions.

Under Circular No. 1124 dated August 10, 2021, which became effective September 13, 2021, the prior MB approval requirement for all foreign exchange derivatives transactions to be entered into by NBGEs has been lifted.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes.

No securities may be sold or offered for sale to the public within the country, unless such securities have been registered with and are permitted to be sold by the SEC. Derivatives fall under the definition of securities.

Since February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. On the other hand, all banks may apply for limited user (to transact as end-user) or special broker (to facilitate transactions) authority for forward foreign exchange transactions subject to BSP regulations. Foreign loans/borrowings of the public sector and of the private sector that are guaranteed by the public sector require prior BSP approval. Banks that wish to issue unsecured subordinated debt must secure the approval of the BSP.

The BSP issued Circular No. 1080 dated March 27, 2020, to provide operational relief measures for foreign exchange transactions in line with the declaration of “community quarantine” by the OP amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The said operational relief measures include, among others:
1. Lifting of prescriptive periods for: (a) submission of Notice to BSP for new foreign loans/borrowings and any changes in the loan’s/borrowing’s financial terms and conditions (including cancelations whether in partial/full) and (b) submission of application for registration of foreign loans/borrowings and (2) waiver of applicable processing fees under Appendix 20 of the MORFXT for foreign loans/borrowings. These measures must remain effective for the duration of community quarantine by the OP or as may be extended by the BSP.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

Yes. Guarantees for public sector accounts that may give rise to actual foreign obligation of the public sector to nonresidents and those issued by government-owned and government-controlled corporations [excluding public sector banks and NBFIs with quasibanking functions (NBQBs)] in favor of nonresidents require BSP approval. Guarantees issued by resident banks and other financial institutions, including public sector banks and NBQBs that cover foreign obligations for account of the private sector other than foreign loans, need not be registered, but must be reported to the BSP to be eligible for servicing using foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Guarantees that are related to foreign/foreign currency loans/borrowings that require BSP approval/registration must already form part of the loan terms submitted for BSP approval/registration (as applicable). In case of a call on such guarantee: (1) The borrower/guarantor must submit a written notification to the BSP target date of settlement of the call on the guarantee to allow servicing using foreign exchange resources of AABs/AAB-forex corps and (2) the borrower must comply with pertinent rules covering the underlying obligation (including reportorial requirements). Guarantees by nonresident foreign banks and financial institutions as well as other nonresident entities to cover private sector peso loan/foreign currency loans from banks operating in the Philippines... authorized under existing regulations need not be registered, but must be reported to the BSP to be eligible for servicing with foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

Outward direct investment

Residents may invest abroad without restriction. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps for investment abroad up to US$60 million or its equivalent an investor a year, a fund a year for qualified investors. Resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Residents may also purchase foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs for outward investment, including investment in bonds and notes of the Philippines and other Philippine entities requiring settlement in foreign currency, regardless of the amount, provided such purchases are supported by documentation.

Inward direct investment

Foreign inward investments registered with the BSP may be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs, AAB-forex corps, and BSP-registered FXDs and MCs, subject to documentary requirements. Inward FDIs may be registered with BSP. A BSP Registration Document (BSRD) will be issued by the BSP as evidence of the investment. For the purpose of registration, foreign exchange funding for cash investments must be remitted to the Philippines but need not be converted to pesos, except for the cases cited in Section 36.3 of the Foreign Exchange Manual. Foreign investments need not be registered with the BSP, unless the foreign exchange needed to service repatriation of capital and remittance of dividends, profits, and earnings is purchased from AABs or and AAB-forex corps. Foreign exchange may be purchased from AABs and AAB-forex corps for outward remittance for the equivalent of the peso sales/divestment proceeds (including dividends, profits, and earnings) of BSP-registered foreign investments in accordance with prescribed procedures and supported by prescribed documents.

The BSP issued Circular No. 1080 dated March 27, 2020, to provide operational relief measures for foreign exchange transactions in line with the declaration of “community quarantine” by the OP amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The said operational relief measures include, among others: (1) re-opening of grace period/lifting of prescriptive period for registration of foreign investments and (2) waiver of applicable processing fees under Appendix 20 of the MORFXT for foreign investments. These measures must remain effective for the duration of community quarantine by the OP or as may be extended by the BSP.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment

Registration is required only if the foreign exchange for capital repatriation and remittance of profits and earnings is purchased from AABs and/or and AAB-forex corps.

Controls on real estate transactions

Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents

Residents who have their own foreign exchange assets may freely engage in these transactions. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval.
for investment in real property abroad, including condominium units, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes. Purchases are subject to constitutional and legal limits. Under the Philippine Constitution, foreign nationals and foreign companies are not allowed to directly own land. Ownership of private lands in the Philippines is reserved for Philippine citizens and corporations that are considered Philippine nationals. The Philippine Foreign Investment Act allows foreign nationals and companies to indirectly own land by acquiring up to 40% ownership of a corporation that is considered a Philippine national, that is qualified to own land (corporations that are considered Philippine nationals are those corporations or partnerships with at least 60% of the capital stock outstanding owned by Filipinos). Foreign nationals and foreign companies may also acquire condominium units and shares in condominium corporations up to not more than 40% of the total and outstanding capital stock of a Filipino-owned or controlled condominium corporation, subject to the rules under the Condominium Act of the Philippines.

Sale locally by nonresidents  Yes. Nonresidents are not allowed to own private lands in the Philippines and thus cannot sell them the same locally. The Philippine Condominium Act provides that each condominium owner also has the absolute right to sell or dispose of his condominium, unless the master deed contains a requirement that the property be first offered to the condominium owners within a reasonable period of time before the same is offered to outside parties.

Controls on personal capital transactions  Yes.

Loans  Yes.

By residents to nonresidents  Yes. Loans are permitted, provided foreign exchange is not purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps. Banks may extend peso financing to nonresidents to fund the following:

(1) Without prior BSP approval – specific cases allowed under the MORB; or

(2) Subject to prior BSP approval – for use in projects/programs/purposes that are: (a) not covered by Item (1) above and (b) legitimate and not contrary to laws, regulations, public order, public health, public safety, or public policy.

In reference to Item (1) above, banks are allowed to extend peso consumer loans to Overseas Filipino Workers, embassy officials and employees, and foreign nationals holding valid visas issued by relevant Philippine authorities (subject to conditions) without prior BSP approval.

To residents from nonresidents  Yes. Private sector borrowing may be freely obtained, provided there is no guarantee from the government sector and payments are not funded with AABs’ and/or AAB-forex corps’ resources. Foreign loans/borrowings of the private sector that are not publicly guaranteed and will be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs or AAB-forex corps do not require prior BSP approval but are subject to notification and registration to the BSP. Foreign loans/borrowings of the public sector and of the private sector that are guaranteed by the public sector require prior BSP approval. Banks that wish to issue unsecured subordinated debt must secure the approval of the BSP.

- By residents to nonresidents: Yes.
- To residents from nonresidents: No.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants

- No.

Transfer of assets

- No.

Transfer abroad by emigrants

- No.

Transfer into the country by immigrants

- No.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings

- Yes.

Private land may not be transferred or conveyed, except to individuals, corporations, or associations qualified to acquire or hold land in the public domain.

Transfers are subject to appropriate supporting documents. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is generally allowed but subject to rules on cross-border transfer of local currency, that is, any person may import or export, or bring with him into or take out of the country, or electronically transfer, legal tender Philippine notes and coins and other bills of exchange drawn in pesos against banks operating in the Philippines in an amount not exceeding PHP 50,000 without prior written authorization from the BSP. The BSP, however, allows cross-border transfer of local currency in excess of the limit only for the following purposes: (1) testing/calibration/configuration of money counting/sorting machines; (2) numismatics (collection of currency); and (3) currency awareness.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions

- Yes.

Banks with foreign exchange trading corporations as subsidiaries or affiliates must make available daily the names of counterparties and other details of purchases and sales of foreign exchange. Banks authorized to operate an FCDU may engage in the following in any acceptable currency:
  1. accept deposits and trust accounts from residents and nonresidents;
  2. deposit funds, regardless of maturity, at foreign banks abroad, OBUs, and other FCDUs/EFCDUs;
  3. invest in readily marketable foreign-currency-denominated debt instruments;
  4. grant short-term foreign currency loans as allowed by BSP regulations;
  5. borrow at any maturity from EFCDUs, foreign banks abroad, and OBUs and short term from other FCDUs;
  6. engage in foreign currency–foreign currency swaps with the BSP, OBUs, and other FCDUs/EFCDUs;
  7. engage in securities lending activities as a lender, subject to certain conditions;
  8. engage in repo agreements...
involving foreign-currency-denominated government securities; (9) purchase foreign-currency-denominated government securities under resale agreements from other banks’ FCDUs/EFCDUs, nonresident financial institutions, and OBUs; (10) issue hybrid Tier 1 capital instruments; (11) engage in US-dollar-denominated repo agreements with the BSP; and (12) invest in foreign-currency-denominated structured products issued by banks and special-purpose vehicles of high credit quality. In addition, banks authorized to operate EFCDUs may engage in the following: (1) invest in foreign-currency-denominated debt instruments; (2) grant foreign currency loans as allowed by the BSP; (3) borrow from other FCDUs/EFCDUs and from nonresidents and OBUs, as permitted by foreign borrowing rules; (4) engage in foreign currency–foreign currency swaps; (5) engage in foreign exchange trading and, with BSP approval, in financial futures and options trading; (6) on request/instructions of a foreign correspondent bank, issue LCs for a nonresident importer in favor of a nonresident exporter, and pay, accept, or negotiate drafts/bills of exchange under the LC; and (7) engage in direct purchases of export bills of resident exporters. Meanwhile, pursuant to BSP Circular No. 1134, Universal banks, Commercial banks and Islamic banks may operate an EFCDU, while TBs and digital banks may operate an FCDU subject to bank notification to BSP (Type C license). Rural banks and cooperative banks may borrow from foreign banks abroad and OBUs, regardless of maturity and from other FCDUs, on short-term maturity.

Banks’ foreign borrowing exceeding one year and intended for relending does not require BSP approval. Banks that wish to issue unsecured unsubordinated debt abroad must secure the approval of the BSP.

Borrowing abroad

Yes. Banks’ foreign borrowing is subject to the MORB, as well as other applicable laws, rules, and regulations. EFCDUs may borrow from nonresidents and OBUs, subject to existing rules on foreign borrowing. FCDUs of thrift, rural, and cooperative banks may borrow from foreign banks abroad and OBUs, regardless of maturity and from other FCDUs, on short-term maturity.

Maintenance of accounts abroad

No. Banks may generally have accounts with foreign banks abroad and OBUs, except for peso-denominated accounts.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)

Yes. Banks may grant commercial credit to nonresidents, provided foreign exchange is not purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps to service the loan. As of January 15, 2018, per Circular No. 984 dated December 22, 2017, AABs may extend peso financing to nonresidents to fund the following:

(1) Without prior BSP approval – specific cases allowed under the MORB; or
(2) Subject to prior BSP approval – for use in projects/programs/purposes that are: (a) not covered by Item (1) above and (b) legitimate and not contrary to laws, regulations, public order, public health, public safety, or public policy.

Lending locally in foreign exchange

Yes. Banks with EFCDU license of U/KBs are authorized to grant foreign currency loans as allowed by the BSP. Banks with FCDU license are authorized to grant only short-term foreign currency loans. Regular Banking Units (RBUs) of universal, commercial, and TBs may engage in trade-related loan transactions, subject to the regulations on trade transactions. Under Circular No. 1134, FCDU or EFCDU may lend to the RBU (for trade or non-trade purpose), provided the conditions under Circular 1134 are complied with such as the Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange  Yes. EFCDUs of U/KBs may invest in foreign-currency-denominated securities, regardless of maturity. However, FCDUs of TBs or rural and cooperative banks may invest only in foreign-currency-denominated debt instruments that are readily marketable. Regular banking units of banks may generally invest in locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange, subject to regulations, particularly on risk management.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange  Yes. There is no reserve requirement for deposit accounts in foreign exchange. However, banks are required to have 100% asset cover on foreign currency deposits and the requirement of maintaining 30% of asset cover in the form of liquid assets was lifted. The liquidity and statutory reserve requirements for peso deposits and deposit substitute liabilities of U/KBs are unified into a single, combined reserve requirement of 16%, except for long-term negotiable CDs, which are subject to lower reserve requirement of 4%.

Reserve requirements  Yes. Reserve requirements for bonds are 3% for U/KBs, TBs, and NBQBs.

Reserve requirements for deposit and deposit substitute liabilities of U/KBs were reduced from 14% to 12% since April 3, 2020.

Liquid asset requirements  Yes. Depository banks with FCDUs and EFCDUs must maintain at all times 100% asset cover for their foreign currency liabilities, except for US-dollar-denominated repo agreements with the BSP. From February 15, 2018, the requirement of at least 30% of the cover for these liabilities to be in liquid assets was lifted. From February 15, 2018, the requirement for EFCDUs of U/KBs, of at least 70% of the cover must be in the same currency as the deposit liability, and up to 30% in other acceptable foreign currencies was lifted. The requirement of FCDUs of TBs and rural and cooperative banks to maintain foreign currency cover in the same currency as the deposit liability was likewise lifted. Under the BSP framework on LCR, banks are expected to be able to meet their liquidity needs in each currency, although the framework only requires the LCR to be met and reported in a “single currency” (that is, in peso terms). Meanwhile, effective January 12, 2022, the amendments under BSP Circular No. 1134 include the recognition of the following eligible asset cover: accounts receivable in general (not only those arising from the sale of financial assets under trade date accounting) and the loans to RBU by E/FCDU (regardless of tenor).

Interest rate controls  Yes. Bank must impose an interest or finance charge on all credit card transactions not to exceed an annual interest rate of 24%, except credit card installment loans which must be subject to monthly add-on rate not exceeding 1%, provided that in the case of credit card cash advances, aside from the foregoing applicable maximum interest rate caps, no other charge or fee must be imposed or collected apart from the processing fee in the maximum amount of P200.00 a transaction effective November 3, 2020, subject to review every six months. The caps on credit card transactions aim to ease the financial burden of consumers and micro-, small- and medium enterprises (MSMEs) amid a difficult economic environment caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. The ceilings are subject to review every six months from November 2020.

Under BSP Circular No. 1133, a policy on ceiling/s on interest rates and other fees charged by Lending Companies (LCs), Financing Companies (FCs), including their respective Online Lending Platforms (OLPs) took effect. The policy is intended as a time-bound relief measure for the unbanked and underserved segment of the population amid the pandemic. The aforementioned ceilings on interest rates and other fees for covered loans offered by LCs, FCs, and their OLPs must be subject to the periodic review by the Bangko Sentral, in consultation with the SEC and the industry. Meanwhile, the SEC, as primary regulator of LCs, FCs, and their OLPs, must formulate and promulgate the necessary issuance providing for the rules and regulations implementing the provisions of this Circular including the imposition of appropriate penalties and/or actions. The ceiling/s on interest rates are as follows:

A nominal interest rate ceiling equivalent to 6% per month (0.2% per day).
An effective interest rate ceiling equivalent to 15% per month (0.5% per day), which must include the nominal interest rate along with all other applicable fees and charges (that is, processing fees, service fees, notarial fees, handling fees and verification fees, among others), but excluding fees and penalties for late payment or non-payment.
A cap on penalties for late payment or non-payment at 5% per month on outstanding scheduled amount due.
A total cost cap of 100% of total amount borrowed (applying to all interest, other fees and charges, and penalties) regardless of time the loan has been outstanding.

Credit controls No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents No.
Reserve requirements No.
Liquid asset requirements No.
Interest rate controls No.
Credit controls No.
Investment regulations Yes.
Abroad by banks Yes. The establishment or acquisition by a bank of subsidiaries or affiliates abroad requires BSP approval. A bank subsidiary may invest in a foreign subsidiary, subject to the following: (1) The investment of a bank subsidiary in the equity of a subsidiary abroad is subject to BSP approval. (2) The bank subsidiary may invest in the subsidiary if it meets the pre-qualification requirements of the BSP.
(3) The application for authority of the requesting bank subsidiary must be accompanied by a certified true copy of the resolution authorizing the investment by the board of directors of the parent bank and the bank subsidiary, feasibility study indicating among other things the economic justification for investment and the proposed organizational structure. (4) The applicant parent subsidiary must comply with the licensing requirements of the host country, and the necessary license must be secured from the appropriate government agency of the host country. (5) The proposed subsidiary may invest in another subsidiary with BSP approval. (6) Outward investment representing initial capital and other outlays is subject to the regulations. (7) At least 50% of the yearly net profits of the proposed subsidiary must be declared and paid as cash dividends to the parent subsidiary. (8) The proposed subsidiary is subject to BSP reporting and supervision requirements, and the cost of such examination is chargeable to the parent bank. (9) Additional funding or advances of the parent bank in the Philippines to its subsidiaries abroad require BSP approval.

In banks by nonresidents

Qualified foreign banks may own or control up to 100% of the voting stock of a domestic bank while a foreign individual or a foreign nonbank corporation may own up to 40% of voting stock of U/KBs, and TBs and 60% of rural banks. Aggregate ownership of the voting shares of stock of foreign individuals and/or foreign nonbank corporations in U/KBs is limited to 40% of in U/KBs and 60% of in TBs and rural banks. Total resources of banks held by foreign banks may not exceed 40%. The equity investment of a cooperative in a coop bank may not exceed 40% of its subscribed capital stock. Section 122 of the MORB on the digital bank framework issued under Circular No. 1105 provides that qualified foreign banks may own or control up to 100% of the voting stock of a digital bank while a foreign individual or a foreign nonbank corporation may own up to 40% of voting stock of a digital bank. Aggregate ownership of the voting shares of stock of foreign individuals and/or foreign nonbank corporations in digital banks is limited to 40%. Section 102 of the MORB as amended by Circular No. 1069 on the establishment of Islamic banks provides that the stockholding limits prescribed for a U/KB under Section 122 must apply to an Islamic bank.

Open foreign exchange position limits

Yes.

On resident assets and liabilities

Banks’ allowable open foreign exchange position (either overbought or oversold) is the lower of 20% of their unimpaired capital or US$50 million. The BSP imposes sanctions for the violation of open position limits. The BSP prescribes the use of the “netting” method for determining banks’ net open position.

Effective September 13, 2021, the BSP approved an increase in the NOP limit for banks that recognizes the increased demand for foreign exchange arising from the growth in the volume of underlying trade transactions and investments. The NOP limit was raised to the lower of 25% of qualifying capital or US$150 million, from the previous limit of 20% of unimpaired capital or US$50 million, whichever is lower. A bank’s NOP represents the amount of its net assets and/or liabilities denominated in foreign currency.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

Banks’ allowable open foreign exchange position (either overbought or oversold) is the lower of 20% of their unimpaired capital or US$50 million. The BSP imposes sanctions for the violation of open position limits. The BSP prescribes the use of the “netting” method for determining banks’ net open position.

Changes during 2021 and 2022

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

| Floating | 06/15/2021 | The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to floating from crawl-like. |

Domestic currency accounts

| 09/13/2021 | Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents could be funded as and documented by peso receipts of nonresidents because of refund of taxes or erroneously withheld taxes related to Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas-registered investment. |
| 09/13/2021 | Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents could be funded as and documented by peso proceeds from the onshore sale by nonresident issuers of their equity and debt securities. |
| 09/13/2021 | Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents could be funded as and documented by peso funds returned to nonresidents for excess pesos arising from unrealized investments. |
| 09/13/2021 | Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents could be funded as and documented by onshore peso receipts of nonresidents from residents because of trade transactions for which the resident was entitled to buy foreign exchange from Authorized Agent Banks (AABs) and AAB-forex corps for remittance to the nonresident service provider. |
| 09/13/2021 | Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents could be funded as and documented by underwriting/brokerage services (involving Philippine shares) rendered to nonresident by another nonresident acting as: (a) underwriter, bookrunner, or foreign broker-dealer for initial public offering/follow-on offering and (b) bookrunner and/or manager for the private placement/secondary block trade of listed securities. |

Financing requirements for imports

| Advance import deposits | 09/13/2021 | Foreign exchange purchased from Authorized Agent Banks (AABs)/AAB-forex corps for advance payment of imports must either be (1) remitted directly to the intended nonresident beneficiary’s account, regardless of resident or nonresident (including payment/treasury centers/hubs of a group of companies, collection agents, and e-commerce market participants), on the date of purchase; or (2) credited to the resident importer’s foreign currency deposit unit (FCDU) with the same or another AAB for eventual remittance by the depository AAB to (the intended nonresident beneficiary, regardless of resident or nonresident (including payment/treasury centers/hubs of a group of companies, collection agents, and e-commerce market participants), for settlement of import obligation: if the depository bank is different from the foreign | exchange selling institution: (i) the foreign exchange selling institution must directly transfer the foreign exchange purchases to the depository bank of the purchaser and (ii) the depository bank may also be the foreign exchange remitting AAB, provided the foreign exchange purchaser certifies that: (a) the foreign exchange must be used for the declared purpose; (b) funds credited to the FCDU account must eventually be remitted to the intended beneficiary on or before due date; and (c) the foreign exchange purchaser must include the purpose of the remittance in the remittance instructions to the remitting bank.

Previously, foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps for advance payment of imports had to be directly remitted to the nonresident beneficiary on the date of purchase. Circular No. 1124 dated August 10, 2021, permanently allowed the:

1. use of e-signatures/digital signatures for duly accomplished forms and other documentary requirements requiring signature/s and
2. submission of electronically generated documents without signature [for example, digitized Application to Purchase foreign exchange (FX) (Annex A of the Foreign Exchange Manual)], provided such documents explicitly state that “This form is electronically generated and does not require signature. The said Circular also allowed the submission of alternative/equivalent documents for sale of FX for trade transactions.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments

Non-deliverable foreign exchange forwards were included as derivative instruments that can be traded under the so-called generally authorized derivatives activities under a dealer capacity for universal and commercial banks, while maintaining (a) the existing regulatory limit anchored on capital to prevent the buildup of systemic risks and (b) the applicable documentary, reporting and other requirements under the Foreign Exchange Manual. Previously, at least a Type 2 limited dealer authority was required.

Trust departments of universal and commercial banks (U/KBs), quasi-banks, and nonbank financial institutions were allowed to transact as institutional counterparties on behalf of their trustor/principal/s in products being offered by U/KBs as dealers under the so-called generally authorized derivatives activities. Previously, at least a Type 3 limited dealer authority was required.

Tenor limits on non-complex derivative instruments provided by universal and commercial banks were removed. Previously, the maximum term was three years.

The licensing process for derivative trading was streamlined by subjecting variants of and structures involving stand-alone derivatives products that are under a Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas-Supervised Financial Institution’s existing authority to notification and pre-qualification requirements (that is, will form part of type “C” activities). Previously, they were subject to another licensing process (that is, reserved for type “A” applications).

Trust departments of universal and commercial banks (U/KBs), quasi-banks, and nonbank financial institutions were allowed to transact as institutional counterparties on behalf of their trustor/principal/s in specific structured derivative products and credit-linked notes, and aligning the derivatives authorities of trust corporations with trust department of U/KBs. Previously, at least a Type 3 limited dealer authority was required.

Under Circular No. 1124 dated August 10, 2021, which became effective, the prior Monetary Board approval requirement for all foreign exchange derivatives transactions to be entered into by nonbank government entities has been lifted.

Floating

Free floating  Yes.  The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating; the exchange rate of the zloty is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market, and the zloty is traded freely against all currencies. Narodowy Bank Polski (NBP, National Bank of Poland), however, may intervene in the foreign exchange market if necessary to ensure domestic macroeconomic and financial stability.

In 2021 and in the first half of 2022, as in previous years, MOF exchanged foreign currencies in the CB and the state-owned development bank, Bank Gospodarstwa Krajowego (BGK). The procedures related to exchange of foreign currencies into zlotys by the MOF in the NBP have not changed. Every year, the MOF publishes on its website information on any transactions conducted by the MOF on the financial market. As regards NBP, it publishes general information about purchase of foreign currencies from the MOF and limits on foreign exchange transactions with MOF in Annual Reports of Banking Sector Liquidity and Monetary Policy Instruments of NBP.

The NBP intervened in the foreign exchange market twice in the first half of 2022 (between March 1 and 2 and on March 4) because of the unprecedented volatility of the zloty after a Russian large-scale military invasion on Ukraine.

Official exchange rate  Yes.  Exchange rates are freely determined by the market. The NBP calculates and publishes daily rates for convertible currencies. Euro rates fixing is based on foreign exchange market rates as quoted on trading platforms between 10:55 and 11:00 a.m. local time (average foreign exchange market rates between specified periods of time). Exchange rates for other major currencies are calculated from cross-currency rates against the euro as quoted on trading platforms. The NBP daily rates are mainly used for statistical and accounting purposes. In general for accounting purposes, these rates are used to recalculate amounts and cash flow in foreign currency into zloty. The rates are also used by businesses to price foreign-exchange-denominated assets and liabilities as well as settlement rates for exchange-traded derivatives. As regards financial markets, the rates are used as the fixing price in the settlement of derivatives (options, etc.).

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework  Yes.  Monetary policy is based on flexible inflation targeting. Within this framework, the Monetary Policy Council (MPC) sets the inflation target and adjusts monetary instruments (predominantly the NBP policy interest rates) to keep headline inflation close to the target in the medium term. Since 2004, the NBP has pursued a medium-term... inflation target of 2.5% with a symmetrical band of deviations of ±1 pp (percentage point). The medium-term orientation of the target does not involve any definition or guidance about the time-specific horizon of inflation returning to target in case of deviation. The NBP’s inflation-targeting framework is laid down in Monetary Policy Guidelines, which – in line with the constitution of the Republic of Poland – are presented to the lower chamber of the Polish parliament (Sejm) on an annual basis. The constitution also imposes an obligation on the MPC to present a Report on Implementation of the Guidelines to Sejm each year. These are the main annual documents informing the public about the causes and nature of the shocks behind inflation target misses. The MPC, however, retains a large degree of discretion over the reaction to shocks. In addition, the implementation of the Monetary Policy Guidelines is assessed by the Polish Supreme Audit Office, also on an annual basis.

Target setting body

According to the Polish Constitution, the NBP shall be responsible for the value of Polish currency. The Act on NBP states that “the basic objective of the activity of NBP shall be to maintain price stability, while supporting the economic policy of the Government, insofar as this does not constrain the pursuit of the basic objective of NBP.” In line with the abovementioned legal guidelines, the numerical value of the inflation target was set by the MPC in “Monetary Policy Strategy beyond 2003” published in February 2003. The target is confirmed each year in Monetary Policy Guidelines, published annually.

Monetary policy decisions are taken by majority vote with the presence of at least five members of the MPC, including Chairperson (the Governor of the NBP), who has the deciding vote in case of a tie.

Inflation target is set by the MPC which has the right to modify the target.

- Yes. CPI

Target measure refers to the annual change in the consumer price inflation. The consumer price inflation (the overall price index of consumer goods and services) is computed and published by the Statistics Poland (GUS – the Central Statistical Office of Poland). The target is set at 2.5% with a symmetric band for deviations of +/-
The target horizon is medium term. The Council flexibly determines the time necessary for inflation to return to the target depending on the character of the shock, its persistence, and the overall assessment of risks posed by the shock to both price stability and broadly understood macroeconomic stability in the medium term.

Target horizon

Yes.

The target horizon is medium term. Operating target (policy rate)

Yes.

The instrument of key significance for the monetary policy implementation is the NBP reference rate. By determining the yields on open market operations, this rate influences the interest on short-term money market instruments, in particular unsecured interbank deposits. The range of fluctuations of interbank overnight interest rates is determined by the NBP deposit and Lombard rates.

Target corridor band

Yes.

The NBP started the process of increasing the NBP reference rates on October 7, 2021, when the main reference rate was set at 0.50%, the deposit rate at 0.00%, and the Lombard rate at 1.00%. From this moment, the NBP interest rate corridor defined by the deposit rate and the Lombard rate was symmetric to the reference rate (-0.50 pp/ +0.50 pp). The process was continued, and the MPC raised the rates nine times in a row. Since July 8, 2022, the deposit rate has been standing at 6.00%, the Lombard rate at 7.00% and the reference rate at 6.50%.

The deposit rate and the Lombard rate set the fluctuation band for overnight interest rates in the interbank market, which is symmetric with respect to the reference rate.

Parliamentary hearings

Yes.

Once a year, the Governor of the NBP attends the parliamentary hearing to present the NBP’s Annual Report.

Other

Yes.

The key communication instruments include the cyclical publications: Information from the meeting of the MPC (with the accompanying press conferences, which usually take place on the day following each MPC decision-making meeting), Minutes of the MPC decision-making meetings, and Inflation Reports. Once a year, the NBP also publishes its Annual Report, Report on Monetary Policy Implementation, Monetary Policy Guidelines, and Banking Sector Liquidity – Monetary Policy Instruments of NBP.

Effective December 1, 2021, the NBP discontinued the use of structural open market operations. Therefore, it ended publication of monthly schedule of open market operations. Previously, regarding publication of monthly schedule of open market operations, the schedule presented information on open market operations planned by the NBP to be carried out in a given month. Its publication took place at the end of the preceding month. The schedule contained detailed data on the parameters planned to carry out main and structural operations (involving the purchase of debt securities), including the adopted dates of their tenders, as well as additional information, such as the conditions for the possible use of fine-tuning operations or a list of collateral in the case of banks using NBP’s liquidity-providing open market operations.
Transparency

Publication of votes
Yes.

Pursuant to the decision of the MPC, the NBP publishes on its website the motions relating to interest rates, together with a breakdown of votes cast by individual MPC members. The rules for publishing are as follows: If the motion was not passed – after the lapse of 6 weeks from the date of voting, at 14.00 hours; if the resolution on interest rates was adopted – after the results of voting on the resolution have been published in Monitor Sądowy i Gospodarczy (Court and Commercial Gazette). If, in addition to adopting a resolution on interest rates, other motions were voted at the MPC meeting which did not receive a majority vote, the results of voting on such motions are posted on the NBP website after the announcement of voting results on the adopted resolution in the Court and Commercial Gazette.

Publication of minutes
Yes.

Minutes of the previous decision-making meeting are approved on the next decision-making meeting and published 2 days later. Content of the Minutes: main issues discussed by the MPC and arguments raised during the discussion; the decision on monetary policy instruments, including interest rates; no individual views (no names of individual MPC members). Minutes are approximately 3–4 pages long.

Publication of inflation forecasts
Yes.

NBP projections are prepared three times a year and published in March, July, and November Inflation Reports. In addition to the publication of the Inflation Report, a separate press conference is held to present current projections. The press conference – together with the accompanying presentation – is available on the NBP website. The projection covers economic developments up to three years ahead from the publication date.

Foreign exchange market
Yes.

Banks may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market
Yes.

Banks may deal in foreign exchange without a separate license. There are also 4672 foreign exchange offices (cantors) allowed to deal in foreign exchange with the public; cantors do not need a special permit but must be registered in the register of cantors. Cantors do not conclude foreign exchange transactions with the NBP. They may conclude transactions with other banks, cantors, and retail customers. Their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes; they may not make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. In their business activity, they may not maintain accounts abroad. Foreign exchange offices may not provide payment services as defined in Directive 2015/2366 on payment services (money transfers).

Inoperative: Yes. Credit agreements with Sudan, Mozambique, and Cuba remain in force but are inactive.
Sudan: The liabilities result from two trade credits granted by Polish companies to Sudanese companies (1976 and 1977), consolidated afterward in the agreement from 1986 between the MOF of Poland and the MOF of Sudan. The liabilities resulting from the agreement have not been paid since its signing. The payments were planned in the agreement and should have been made until July 1, 1997.
Mozambique: The liabilities result from trade credit dated 1979. A Polish company which granted the credit was partially reimbursed by the insurance company owned by the Polish Treasury. The credit has not been paid off since 1979.
Cuba: The liabilities result from two trade credit agreements dated 1975 and 1979. The agreement has been inoperative since 1991, when transfers in XTR were liquidated.

Regional arrangements: Yes. Poland is a member of the EU.
Clearing agreements: Yes. There is an outstanding debt from Cuba resulting from an unsettled balance on a liquidation account created for clearing trade transactions between Poland and Cuba. There is no agreement on settling the debt. The agreement has been inoperative since 1991, when transfers in XTR were liquidated.

Barter agreements and open accounts  No.

Administration of control  Yes.  The Polish parliament has the legislative authority to amend the Foreign Exchange Law. As regards executive acts to the Law, regulations are issued by the Minister of Finance (MoF) in cooperation with the President of the NBP. General foreign exchange permits are granted by the MoF; individual foreign exchange permits are granted by the NBP in the form of administrative decisions. Those decisions are subject to appeal to the appropriate regional administrative court. The NBP exercises control over foreign exchange permits, exchange office activities, and collects submissions to be provided by residents as regards their banking statistics for the purpose of compiling balance of payments data and the external assets and liabilities position of the country.

Payments arrears  No.

Official  No.

Private  No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)  Yes.

On domestic ownership and/or trade  Yes.  Residents may hold gold in any form. Trading in gold, other than in jewelry form, is a regulated economic activity and requires registration with the President of the NBP.

On external trade  Yes.  The exportation of foreign gold (gold coins) is subject to declaration procedures (written declaration at the border).

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes  No.

Effective June 3, 2021, Regulation (EU) No. 2018/1672 of the European Parliament and of the Council of October 23, 2018, on controls on cash entering or leaving the Union entered into force and repealed Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005. In accordance with Regulation (EU) No. 2018/1672, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying cash of a value of €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information. The national FIU has direct access to CIS+ Cash module in automated fingerprint identification system (AFIS), where all the cash declarations and cash disclosure declarations are introduced at the border and kept. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, the person is subject to a fine for tax offense pursuant to Article 106f or 106h of the Act of September 10, 1999, Penal Fiscal Code (Journal of Laws of 2020, Item 19); there is a possibility of retaining undeclared cash as part of activities carried out under the procedure of Article 308 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and then handing it over to the Public Prosecutor’s Office. The regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the regulation; the regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders.

On exports
No. The exportation of foreign or domestic banknotes with a total value amounting to or exceeding the equivalent of €10,000 is subject to declaration procedures (written declaration at the border).

No.

Held abroad
Yes. Residents (individuals and enterprises) are allowed to maintain accounts in the member countries of the EU, EEA, and OECD without permission. Accounts in other countries may be maintained only for settlements with nonresidents. Controls apply to deposits of funds with nonresident institutions by a privately managed occupational pension fund. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity which is based on the Solvency II Directive. According to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, assets of insurance and reinsurance companies should be invested according to prudent person principle. This act is an implementation of Directive 2009/138/EC of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II) and prudent person principle is provided in Article 132 of this directive. The main principles are: (1) With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvent needs. (2) All assets, in particular those covering the minimum capital requirement and the solvency capital requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. (3) Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective.

The limit on open pension funds’ investments in assets denominated in a currency other than the national one is 30%. The total value of open pension fund assets invested in assets denominated in currency other than the national one may not exceed 30%. For occupational pension funds, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of a fund’s total assets. Assets of pension funds may be invested in assets denominated in currencies of EU, EEA, and OECD member countries. For Employee Capital Plans (PPK), the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of total assets.

Approval required
Yes.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad
Yes.
The regulations for foreign exchange accounts held abroad also apply to these accounts. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity which is based on the Solvency II Directive.

For occupational pension funds, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of a fund’s total assets. Assets of pension funds may be invested in assets denominated in currencies of EU, EEA, and OECD member countries. For PPK, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of total assets.

Controls apply to the purchase of shares and other securities of a participating nature, which may be affected by regulations on FDI. Acquisition of shares representing defined substantial block of shares in public companies with sales revenue in one from two recent years at level of 10,000,000 EUR should be notified to President of Office of Competition and Consumer Protection. President of Office of Competition and Consumer Protection is entitled to issue a decision authorizing the purchase or refusing the purchase. Information must be provided to the Polish Financial Supervision Authority (KNF), to the issuer, and to the public if certain thresholds in voting power or stock purchase are exceeded.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Under the EU uniform rule, public offerings of securities in Poland generally require approval of a prospectus by the competent authority of the issuer’s EU home member state (in general EU country of issuer’s incorporation). Only in case of public offers with small value and/or addressed to certain investors (for example, qualified investors or limited number of individual investors), there is no obligation to publish a prospectus and a lighter information document is required. In case of issuer from a member state other than Poland, if a public offering or admission to trading on a regulated market takes place in Poland as a host member state, the prospectus approved by the supervision authority of a home member... state is valid (prospectus passporting), provided European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA) and the KNF receive appropriate notification and the prospectus is drawn up either in a language accepted by the KNF or in a language customary in international finance. In case the issuer’s country of incorporation is not an EU country, prospectus must be approved by the KNF.

Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD and countries with which Poland has not entered into agreements for the promotion and protection of investments.

Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD by privately managed pension funds. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity which is based on the Solvency II Directive. According to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, assets of insurance and reinsurance companies should be invested according to prudent person principle. This Act is an implementation of Directive 2009/138/EC of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II), and prudent person principle is provided in Article 132 of this directive. The main principles are: (1) With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. (2) All assets, in particular those covering the minimum capital requirement and the solvency capital requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. (3) Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective open pension funds may invest up to 30% of their assets in assets denominated in a currency other than the national one. The total value of open pension fund assets invested in assets denominated in currency other than the national one may not exceed 30%. For occupational pension funds, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than zlotys may not exceed 30% of a fund’s total assets. Pension fund assets may be invested in assets denominated in zlotys or currencies of EU, EEA, and OECD countries. These assets may be invested in the following capital market securities of a participation nature with an original maturity of more than one year: (1) shares of companies listed on a regulated market and bonds convertible to the shares of such companies, as well as preemptive rights and rights to shares listed on that market; (2) shares, preemptive rights, and rights to shares for public offer; (3) participation units of closed-end collective investment institutions, as follows: (a) whose sole objective is collective investment of funds collected through public or private offering of their participation units in securities, money market instruments, and other property rights; (b) that are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established or whose operations require notification to those authorities, if according to their articles of incorporation their participation units are not offered publicly, traded on a regulated market, or admitted to the alternative trading system and they can be purchased by individuals only in a single purchase of not less than €40,000; (c) that are under the direct supervision of the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (d) that in accordance with the law of the country of their establishment are required to have a depository holding the assets of the institution; and (e) that are managed by entities whose activities are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (4) participation units issued by open-end collective investment institutions, as follows: (a) whose sole objective is collective investment of funds collected through public or private offering of their participation units in securities, money market instruments, and other property rights; (b) that are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established, or whose operations require notification to those authorities; (c) that are under the direct supervision of the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (d) that in accordance with the law of the country of their establishment are required to have a depository holding the assets of the institution; and (e) that are managed by entities whose activities are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; and (5) depository receipts admitted to trading on the regulated market. Please see category XII.B. “Provisions specific to institutional investors.” For PPK, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of total assets.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments

Purchase locally by nonresidents No.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes.

No specific controls apply to the sale of derivatives, although their creation process (and subsequent sale) is subject to product governance rules under the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II aimed at i.a. avoiding mis-selling practices. Under the EU uniform rule, public offerings of securities (also with embodied derivative features) in Poland generally require approval of a prospectus by the competent authority of the issuer’s EU home member state (in general EU country of issuer’s incorporation). Only in case of public offers with small value and/or addressed to certain investors (for example, qualified investors or limited number of individual investors), there is no obligation to publish a prospectus and a lighter information document is required. In case of issuer from a member state other than Poland, if a public offering or admission to trading on a regulated market takes place in Poland as a host member country, the prospectus approved by the supervision authority of a home member state is valid (prospectus passporting), provided ESMA and the PFSA receive appropriate notification and the prospectus is drawn up either in a language accepted by the PFSA or in a language customary in international finance. In case the issuer’s country of incorporation is not an EU country, prospectus must be approved by the PFSA.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes.

Controls apply to the purchase of derivatives and other instruments issued by nonresidents in countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity based on the Solvency II Directive. As regards derivatives according to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, insurance companies may invest in derivatives provided (only if) they are purchased to reduce risk or to facilitate sufficient risk management.

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes.

The regulations offering governing shares or other equity instruments are generally applicable in case of issuing other transferable securities. Controls apply to the issuance of derivatives and other instruments by residents in countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD. Creation of financial instruments (including derivatives) in the EU is subject to product governance rules under the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II.

Controls on credit operations Yes.

Commercial credits

By residents to nonresidents Yes. Pension funds are not allowed to grant credits and loans. Insurance companies are not allowed to grant credits, but they are allowed to grant loans. UCITS are not allowed to grant credits and loans. AIFs are allowed to grant loans up to 50% of their assets.

To residents from nonresidents No.

Financial credits

By residents to nonresidents Yes. Pension funds are not allowed to grant credits and loans. Insurance companies are not allowed to grant credits, but they are allowed to grant loans. UCITS are not allowed to grant credits and loans. AIFs are allowed to grant loans up to 50% of their assets.

Controls on direct investment
Outward direct investment
   Yes. An NBP permit is required for direct investment, with the exception of the purchase of shares and interests in companies based in Bilateral Investment Treaty countries. No controls apply to investments in EU, EEA, or OECD countries.

Inward direct investment
   Yes. Controls apply to (1) the provision of asset management services by branches of nonresident investors to domestic pension funds; (2) the acquisition of land reserved for agriculture or forests, and acquisition of water areas, unless authorization is granted; (3) investment in airlines established in the country that must be majority owned and effectively controlled by EU members and/or nationals of EU members, unless otherwise provided for through an international agreement to which the EU is a signatory; (4) investment in a broadcasting company, if it raises foreign ownership of the share capital above 33%; (5) investment in an enterprise operating in the gambling and betting sector, except through an enterprise incorporated in Poland in which foreign ownership of the share capital is 49% or less; (6) investment in a registered vessel, except through an enterprise incorporated in Poland; (7) the extent that under Directive 2009/65/EC a depository must either have its registered office or be established in the home EU member state of the UCITS and under Directive 2011/61/EU a depository must have its registered office or branch in the home EU member state of the AIF; and (8) the operation of a branch as a mortgage bank to the extent that a mortgage bank is defined under Polish law as an institution authorized to issue mortgage securities in domestic markets, and thereby reserved for financial institutions incorporated under domestic law. A bank may open a branch in Poland; however, it may not issue mortgage bonds on its territory; the single EU passport principle does not apply to them.
   Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment
No.

Controls on real estate transactions
Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents
Yes. Pension funds are not allowed to invest directly in real estate.
   Pension fund assets may be invested in assets denominated in zlotys or in currencies of member countries of the EU, EEA, or OECD. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity based on the Solvency II Directive.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
Yes. Nonresidents may acquire real estate or other immovable property in Poland only with permission from the Ministry of the Interior, except if it is inherited. Under the Law on Acquisition of Real Estate by Foreigners, foreigners may also acquire real estate without a permit if (1) the real estate is an apartment; (2) the foreigner has lived in Poland for at least five years since obtaining a permanent residence.
visa; (3) the foreigner has been married to a Polish citizen for at least two years (the purchased real estate must constitute part of matrimonial community property); or (4) the real estate is purchased by nonresident juridical persons for statutory purposes, and the real estate is no larger than 4,000 square meters if it is in an urban area. The Council of Ministers may issue a regulation defining other cases for which a permit is not required, provided the size of the acquired real estate does not exceed 4,000 square meters in urban and 10,000 square meters in rural areas. The Council of Ministers may also extend the area to be acquired without a permit to 12,000 square meters in urban and 30,000 square meters in rural areas. Poland maintained rules until 2009 regarding the acquisition of secondary residences by foreigners other than nationals of EU member countries and nationals of countries that are parties to the EEA and who have been legal residents of Poland continuously for four years. Rules regarding the acquisition of agricultural land and forests are in effect until 2016. Under these rules, nationals of another EU member country or of a country that is party to the EEA who want to establish themselves as self-employed farmers and who have been legally resident and leasing land continuously in Poland as a natural or legal person for at least three years are not subject to any procedures other than those that apply to nationals of Poland; in some western and northern “voivods” (state administrations), the residence and leasing period is for a minimum of seven years.

Lending locally in foreign exchange  Yes.

According to Article 6 paragraph 1 of the Act of March 23, 2017, on Mortgage Loan and on Supervision over Credit Intermediaries and Appointed Representatives, mortgage loans may be granted only in the currency or be indexed to the currency in which the consumer receives most of his income or holds most of his funds or other assets valued in the currency of mortgage loan or in the currency to which the mortgage loan is indexed. Additionally, both Recommendations S (from 2013 and 2019) – which are non-legally binding acts but issued based on the Banking Act – concerning good practices with regard to mortgage credit exposures require banks to grant loans only in the currency of the borrower’s income. Recommendation T concerning good practices with regard to risk management of retail credit exposures requires banks in case of loans granted in currency different from the one in which borrower receives income, to disclose comprehensive pre-contractual information regarding foreign exchange risk and apply stricter creditworthiness standards (KNF Resolution No. 59/2013).

According to the Regulation of the Minister of Development and Finance of May 25, 2017, on a higher risk weight for exposures secured by mortgages on immovable properties, the risk weight applicable to exposures secured by mortgage on residential immovable property located in Poland in case of which installments depend on exchange rates relating to currency other than the one in which the borrower receives income amounts to 150% (this regulation concerns banks using the Standardized Approach for determining capital requirement). Effective March 29, 2022, the Regulation was amended until September 30, 2023, to allow for lower risk weights (50%, 75%, and 100%) to be assigned to loans, provided (1) the bank informed the borrowers that it would enter into arbitration proceedings resulting in the elimination of the relationship between the value of loan installments and foreign exchange rates and (2) the bank created provisions for these loans in the amount corresponding to at least 35%, 28%, or 20%, respectively, of loan gross value.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange  Yes.

According to Article 500a (1) CRR, the risk weight applied to the exposures to central governments and CBs denominated in the domestic currency of another EU Member State is multiplied by: 0% until the end of 2022, 20% in 2023, and 50% in 2024 and diminished to this value. This instrument has been introduced in response to the COVID-19 pandemic through Regulation (EU) No. 2020/873, which entered into force on June 27, 2020.

In banks by nonresidents  No.

Open foreign exchange position limits  Yes.

On resident assets and liabilities  Yes.

On nonresident assets and liabilities  Yes.

Provisions specific to institutional investors  Yes.

Insurance companies  No.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents  No.

The relevant Polish regulations, which implemented the requirements on the calculation of own funds for foreign exchange risk provided in EC Directives 2006/48/EC and 2006/49/EC, are now superseded by the CRD V/CRR II package. According to its provisions, banks are subject to large exposure limits, which apply to exposures to both residents and nonresidents. There is no binding direct limit on open foreign exchange positions. However, in accordance with the CRR if the sum of the overall net foreign exchange position and net gold position exceeds 2% of total own funds, banks must calculate own funds requirements for foreign exchange risk.

In compliance with EU directives and the Polish Act on Insurance and Reinsurance Activity, a KNF’s permission is required for non-EU entities to set up an insurance company; insurance companies located in the EU are subject to the general provisions of EU and domestic law. The KNF must be notified of investment transactions that would result in the acquisition of 10%, 20%, one-third, or 50% of shares or voting power or in an increase beyond 10%, 20%, one-third, or 50% of total shares or voting power. The KNF must also be notified whenever a given entity intends to become a parent company (either directly or indirectly) of an insurance or reinsurance company (currently, Article 82 of the Act on Insurance Activity). The KNF may object to the transaction within a 60-working-day period.

New regulations concerning the allocation of assets of insurance companies are consistent with prudent person principle resulting from the implementation of the Solvency II Directive. According to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, assets of insurance and reinsurance companies should be invested according to prudent person principle. This Act is an implementation of Directive 2009/138/EC of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II) and prudent person principle is provided in Article 132 of this directive. The main principles are: (1) With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. (2) All assets, in particular those covering the minimum capital requirement and the solvency capital requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. (3) Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective.

With respect to assets other than assets held in respect of life insurance contracts where the investment risk is borne by the policy holders:

1. the use of derivative instruments must be possible insofar as they contribute to a reduction of risks or facilitate efficient portfolio management,
2. investment and assets which are not admitted to trading on a regulated financial market must be kept to prudent levels,
3. assets must be properly diversified in such a way as to avoid excessive reliance on any particular asset, issuer or group of companies, or geographical area and excessive accumulation of risk in the portfolio as a whole,
4. investments in assets issued by the same issuer, or by issuers belonging to the same group, may not expose the insurance companies to excessive risk concentration.

The absence of regulatory limits on investments does not mean that companies can take investment decisions without any regard to prudence and to the interests of policyholders. The insurance and reinsurance companies are obliged to possess the risk-management system. According to Article 57 of the Act of insurance and reinsurance activity, the risk management system must cover investments, in particular derivatives. The requirements concerning the risk management system are laid down in the Act of insurance and reinsurance activity, which implements appropriate regulations of the Solvency II Directive. When companies have a material investment in other currencies, the insurance company must properly identify and manage the currency risk. Furthermore, the currency risk is taking into account when the companies calculate solvency capital requirement. In short, the higher the currency risk exposure, the more the solvency capital requirement.

In addition to the above regulations based on Solvency II regime, under the local accounting regulation for statutory purposes there are certain provisions which require a kind of matching of actual yields on investments with the technical rate to calculate the technical provisions (long term insurance liabilities) which also apply to assets in foreign currencies.

Pursuant to Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51), Portugal implements UNSC resolutions (UNSCRs) that approve restrictive measures (related to freezing of funds and other economic resources) directly and immediately by way of Article 8(3) of the Constitution of the Portuguese Republic, and Law No. 97/2017 of August 23 as amended by Law No. 58/2020 of August 31, and does so for the preservation of international security. As a full-fledged member of the EU, decisions and regulations of the Council of the EU implementing UNSCRs that approve restrictive measures related to freezing of funds and other economic resources, as well as those imposing restrictive measures of EU initiative are binding in its entirety and directly applicable in Portugal. Portugal has all of the rights and obligations stemming from its membership at the EU. Therefore, all directly applicable EU legislation applies in Portugal including all decisions adopted in the framework of the Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP) and all regulations based on Article 215 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Portugal participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

The ECB publishes foreign exchange reference rates that are usually updated around 16:00 Central European Time on every working day, except on TARGET closing days. They are based on a regular daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time.
To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Union with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Union.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Effective July 8, 2021, the Governing Council adopts new monetary policy strategy of symmetric 2% inflation target over medium term. Previously, price stability was defined as an inflation rate below but close to 2%.

In accordance with EC Regulation No. 2018/1672 and Decree-Law No. 61/2007 of March 14, 2007, there is a mandatory declaration system for cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national FIU. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders. According to Decree-Law No. 61/2007 of March 14, 2007, when required by the Portuguese customs authorities, a similar declaration must be presented when cash is transported within the EU. The single European Cash Declaration Form is used for declaration. The form allows the identification of a person or legal entity by its tax ID number. In accordance with EC regulations, there

Yes. For agricultural products covered by the CAP, an export certificate may be required. Chemical precursors may be subject to export licensing. Dual-use goods as well as arms are subject to export licenses.

Portugal implements UNSCRs that approve restrictive measures directly and immediately by way of Article 8(3) of the Constitution of the Portuguese Republic, and Law No. 97/2017 of August 23 as amended by Law No. 58/2020 of August 31. As a full-fledged member of the EU, decisions and regulations of the Council of the EU implementing UNSCRs that approve restrictive measures, as well as those imposing restrictive measures of EU initiative, are binding in its entirety and directly applicable in Portugal.

Portugal has all of the rights and obligations stemming from its membership at the EU. Therefore, all directly applicable EU legislation applies in Portugal including all decisions adopted in the framework of the CFSP and all regulations based on Article 215 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU. Details on these restrictive measures are available on the following websites:

There are requirements concerning the information to be disclosed to the public by the buyer of shares admitted to trading on a regulated market when such purchases occur through a public takeover bid (Article 173 of the Securities Code). The current regime has been in effect since January 30, 2022, following a revision of the Securities Code. Such public offers are subject to prior registration with the Portuguese Securities Markets Commission (Comissão do Mercado de Valores Mobiliários—CMVM), which includes the approval of a prospectus, pursuant to Articles 108, 114, and 118 of the Securities Code. Qualifying holdings in listed companies are subject to disclosure based on the EU Transparency Directive: Articles 16 et seq. of the Securities Code lay down the framework for disclosure triggered by a ladder of holding thresholds, starting at 5%. Prospectuses approved by the appropriate authority of another EU country, pertaining to public offerings of takeover bids of shares admitted to trading in Portugal, are recognized by the CMVM, subject to translation into Portuguese and provided the CMVM receives the necessary documentation (Article 176-D of the Securities Code).

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents No. There are requirements concerning the information to be disclosed to the public. Pursuant to Article 12(2) of Decree-Law No. 69/2004 of March 25, 2004, before commercial paper is offered to residents, the issuer must prepare an information document for CMVM approval. Furthermore, according to Article 17(8), an issuance of commercial paper for which a prospectus is produced, although being optional, is subject to the same requirements as public offers for which a prospectus is mandatory under the securities law. CMVM Regulation No. 2/2014 of November 4, 2014, provides additional guidance related to the issuance of commercial paper.

Purchase abroad by residents No.
Sale or issue abroad by residents No.

On collective investment securities Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents No.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. Only the marketing and sale of units in foreign AIFs to local retail investors require CMVM authorization. Sale and issuance of units of EU-harmonized funds—UCITS—are allowed, under the national regime resulting from the Directive 2009/65/EC (UCITS Directive), subject to a notification to CMVM from the home country competent authority. Sale and issuance of units of EU AIFs distributed only to professional investors are allowed, under the national regime resulting from the Directive 2011/61/EU (AIFMD), subject to a notification to CMVM from the home country competent authority. Sale and issuance of units of third-country AIFs distributed only to professional investors are allowed, subject to CMVM’s authorization and, after the date to be specified on the delegated act to be adopted by the Commission pursuant to Article 67(6) of AIFMD, subject to notification to CMVM by the competent authority. The national regime on UCITS and AIFs is established in the General Framework of Collective Investment Schemes. Venture capital, social entrepreneurship, and specialized investment funds follow the regime established in the General Framework of Collective Investment Schemes for AIFs (according to Article 65 of the Legal Framework of Venture Capital, Social Entrepreneurship, and Specialized Alternative Investment).
In the case of UCITS funds and pursuant to the UCITS Directive, the CMVM, as the home country authority, sends passport notifications to the relevant authority in the EU host country where the units are to be marketed. Management companies authorized in the EEA may also establish UCITS in another member country. These features are regulated under the above-mentioned General Framework of Collective Investment Schemes. In accordance with the AIFMD, EEA management companies authorized by their home country authority may manage, market, and sell to professional investors, under an EU passport, units of EU and third-country AIFs in other EEA countries. Marketing and sale of such units to retail investors are subject to host-country laws.

As a special case because of the high risk involved in certain types of contracts for differences (CFDs) and in certain types of binary options, their marketing, distribution, or sale to retail investors was prohibited throughout the territory of the EU, following temporary decisions by the European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA). Such restrictions were implemented as permanent measures in Portugal by the Regulation CMVM No. 5/2019. These prohibitions apply to the marketing, distributing, or selling the specific types of financial instruments either by Portuguese firms to resident and to nonresident retail investors and by non-Portuguese firms to resident retail investors. Apart from these special cases related to the information required to be disclosed to the buyer and to the high level of risk that makes the financial instrument not adequate to retail investors, the transactions of derivative instruments can generally be undertaken.
Inward direct investment

Yes. Nondiscriminatory prudential rules apply to the authorization of credit institutions and financial companies. Controls apply to (1) establishment of branches of credit institutions or financial companies owned or controlled by non-EU investors, for which earmarked capital is required in an amount equal to the minimum required by Portuguese law for credit institutions or financial companies of the same type with their headquarters in Portugal; (2) establishment of branches of foreign insurers and reinsurers originating in non-EU member countries, for which a special deposit and financial guarantee are required and whose parent company must have been authorized to exercise such an activity for at least five years; (3) ownership of Portuguese flag vessels other than through an enterprise incorporated in Portugal or in an EU country; (4) investments in airlines established in the country that must be majority owned and effectively controlled by EU countries and/or nationals of EU states, unless otherwise provided for through an international agreement to which the EU is a signatory; (5) establishment of travel agencies by non-EU investors, except through an enterprise incorporated in Portugal; and (6) the extent that under UCITS Directive and AIFMD, a depository of a UCITS must either have its registered office in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country.

Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments.

Foreign exchange market Yes.

Spot exchange market Yes. Exchange rates of commercial banks for transactions in US dollars are based on the buying and selling rates of the QCB. The buying and selling rates of commercial banks for other currencies are based on the QCB’s rates for the US dollar and on the market rates for the other currency against the US dollar. A spread of QR 0.0085 is applied to exchange transactions with the public.

Thirty-seven institutions are licensed by the QCB to deal in foreign exchange with the public. These institutions consist of 17 commercial banks and 20 foreign exchange bureaus, which are allowed to operate subject to licensing by the QCB. Foreign exchange bureaus do not engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the QCB, but they may maintain accounts abroad. Their operations are not limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes; they may also make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

Commercial banks trade US dollars domestically based on the price determined by the QCB, plus a margin of 0.24% when dealing with the public. Commercial banks trade other currencies based on the QCB-determined exchange rates of riyals against US dollars and market-determined rates of other currency against the US dollar. Commercial banks have a margin of 0.24% for US dollar trades and trade other currencies through the US dollar.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating; the exchange rate of the leu is determined in the interbank foreign exchange market. The National Bank of Romania (NBR) may intervene to smooth excessive exchange rate fluctuations. There is no formal definition of excessive exchange rate fluctuations: The assessment is based on domestic and international market circumstances and on prevailing macroeconomic conditions. The NBR intervenes either directly with market participants at their quoted rates or via market makers. The NBR does not publish information on its interventions.

The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as crawl-like. The de facto methodology for classification of exchange rate regimes is based on a backward-looking statistical approach that relies on past exchange rate movement and historical data. Therefore, this reclassification does not imply statements or views on future or intended policies nor does it imply a policy commitment on the part of the country authorities.

The NBR quotes rates for 30 foreign currencies and the SDR. The exchange rates are based on the quotes of 10 local banks licensed to perform foreign exchange transactions. These banks are selected by the NBR, taking into consideration their participation in the interbank foreign exchange market. The use of exchange rates listed by the NBR is not compulsory for foreign exchange transactions and accounting records.

Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying cash of a value equivalent to €10,000 or more must make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national FIU. Thus, in accordance with the requirements to declare cash under Regulation (EC) No. 1672/2018 on controls of cash entering or leaving the Community and based on the Article 7 Paragraph 6 of Law No. 129/2019 on the Prevention and Combating of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing, as well as on the modification and completion of some normative acts, the National Agency for Fiscal Administration (NAFA) is required to communicate to the National Office for Prevention and Control of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing (FIU Romania), all the information it holds regarding declarations by natural persons of cash in domestic or foreign currency equal to or above €10,000, within the time limit established through the Regulation (EC) No. 1672/2018, according to a Methodology approved by joint Order of the President of the NAFA and the president of the NOPCML. In addition, Law No. 129/2019 on the Prevention and Combating of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing, as well as on the modification and completion of some normative acts stipulates that NAFA will immediately send a report to the NOPCML when, in the application of the Regulation (EC) No. 2018/1672, from the data held, knows, suspects, or has reasonable grounds to suspect that the goods/funds come from crimes or are related to the financing of terrorism or that the persons has violated the obligations established by this Regulation. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries, and the information must be transmitted to the EC. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders.

Since April 2020, certain goods used in the prevention and treatment of COVID-19 may be admitted free of import duties and exempted of VAT, provided they are used by national bodies or distributed free of cost. On April 19, 2021, this exemption was extended effective May 1, 2021, until December 31, 2021. Effective January 1, 2022, this exemption of import duties and VAT no longer applied.

Effective July 18, 2022, temporary trade-liberalization measures in the form of additional tariff-free quotas on some agricultural products imported in the EU from the Republic of Moldova still subject to duty-free tariff rate quotas (TRQs) were introduced. These measures must apply until July 24, 2023.

Effective May 30, 2022, tariffs for some industrial and agricultural products originating in Ukraine will be suspended until June 5, 2023 (Regulation (EU) 2022/870). Also, effective May 30, 2022, the anti-dumping duties on imports originating in Ukraine made during the application of the Regulation (EU) 2022/870 may not be collected at any point in time, including after the expiry of this Regulation. Effective May 30, 2022, the imports originating in Ukraine shall temporarily be exempted from the application of Regulation (EU) 2015/478 (on common rules for imports).

For reasons of national security, the government may refuse the granting of concession and execution of oil operations for the exploration, development, and exploitation of an oil field to legal persons from countries other than the EU.

Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments.

Citizens of the EU and of the EEA can acquire property rights under the same conditions as Romanian citizens. Third-country nationals can acquire property rights only if international treaties have been concluded between Romania and that state. However, according to Article 6 of Law No. 312/2005, foreign citizens, stateless persons, and legal entities from third countries cannot acquire property rights over land under more favorable conditions than those that apply to citizens of a Member State and legal persons established in accordance with the legislation of a Member State.

The provisions of Law No. 312/2005 do not apply for foreign citizens and stateless persons acquiring property rights over land by way of legal inheritance.
Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants No.
Transfer of assets No.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes. Credit institutions’ accounting reports must conform to IFRS. Following implementation of IFRS 9, starting by 2018, which has replaced IAS 39 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement, a regulation has been issued at European level (Regulation (EU) No. 2017/2395 amending Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013) as regards transitional arrangements for mitigating the impact of the introduction of IFRS 9 on own funds and for the large exposures treatment of certain public sector exposures denominated in the domestic currency of any Member State). Under this regulation, credit institutions were able to choose for a progressive phase-in regime (with a maximum duration of 5 years) to mitigate that potentially significant negative impact on CET1 capital arising from expected credit loss accounting. NBR Regulation No. 1/2018 applies.

In according with Regulation (EU) No. 2020/873 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 24, 2020 (amending regulations (EU) No. 575/2013 and (EU) No. 2019/876) as regards certain adjustments in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, to mitigate the potential impact that a sudden increase in expected credit loss provisions could have on institutions’ capacity to lend to clients at times when it is most needed, the transitional arrangements should be extended by two years, and institutions should be allowed to fully add back to their CET1 capital any increase in new expected credit loss provisions that they recognize in 2020 and 2021 for their financial assets that are not credit impaired. Those changes would bring additional relief from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on institutions’ possible increase in provisioning needs under IFRS 9 while maintaining the transitional arrangements for the expected credit loss amounts established before the COVID-19 pandemic.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, according to the Government Emergency Ordinance (GEO) No. 37 regarding the granting of facilities for loans granted by credit institutions and nonbank financial institutions to certain categories of debtors, a public moratorium to suspend the payment of the banking installments was introduced. The application deadline for the facilities of this moratorium expired on March 15, 2021.

Borrowing abroad No.
Maintenance of accounts abroad No.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) No. NBR Regulation No. 5/2013 (as amended and supplemented) requires that credit institutions have in place policies and processes for the identification, measurement, evaluation, monitoring, reporting, and control or decreasing of country risk and transfer risk. Credit institutions must set limits on country exposures. The credit institution’s management body approves the strategies, processes, and policies on the management of country risk and transfer risk to ensure that these policies and processes are implemented effectively and are fully integrated into the overall risk management of the credit institution.

Capital requirements addressing foreign exchange risk, indirectly affecting local lending in foreign exchange, are included in Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No. 648/2012. This regulation is directly applicable across the EU. Article 351 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 requires banks whose overall net foreign exchange position exceeds 2% of their own funds to calculate capital requirements for foreign exchange risk.

There is a different provisioning regime for foreign exchange loans by nonbank financial institutions to unhedged borrowers under NBR Regulation No. 5/2012 on the Classification and the Establishment, Adjustment, and Use of Specific Credit-Risk Provisions relevant to Romanian entities under the supervision of the NBR, other than credit institutions. The provisioning costs for foreign exchange loans to unhedged borrowers are higher than those for local currency lending.

According to NBR Regulation No. 17/2012, subsequently amended and supplemented, creditors must warn unhedged clients of the consequences of exchange rate depreciation on debt obligations and establish the maximum debt levels (debt-to-income ratio – DTI) for consumer loans. NBR Regulation No. 17/2012 provides for an aggregate DSTI ceiling of 40% of which the maximum DSTI for loans denominated or indexed in a foreign currency granted to debtors exposed to foreign exchange risk is 20%. The maximum levels of DSTI are increased by 5 percentage points in case of a mortgage loan contracted by the debtor for the purchase of the first residential property to be occupied by the debtor (including Prima Casa loans). The caps on the DSTI have been set including taking into account the impact of the currency risk, the interest rate risk, and the risk of decrease of the eligible income available during the period of the credit life. The regulation also provides for an exemption from the maximum level of the aggregate DSTI, under certain conditions, for up to 15% of the loans granted by a creditor. LTV ratios apply to foreign currency consumer loans (75%) and for foreign currency credit agreements secured by mortgages as follows: (1) 85% for lei; (2) 75% for euros, for unhedged borrowers; (3) 60% for other foreign currency, for unhedged borrowers; and (4) 80% for foreign currency credit, for hedged borrowers. Effective April 1, 2022, the applicable LTV ratio limits were reduced by 10 percentage points for those debtors who own a house at the time of the loan request. Following the entry into force of the CRD IV package in 2014, the requirements for credit institutions were incorporated into NBR Regulation No. 5/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions.

In accordance with NBR Regulation No. 11/2020 (amending and supplementing Regulation No. 5/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions), credit institutions must set their own risk limits for approving foreign currency loans and have in place policies and procedures adequate to the volume and complexity of their activity to accurately identify and assess the risks arising from the foreign currency lending of debtors not covered at foreign exchange risk and for their reflection both at the level of the processes of internal evaluation of the price of risks related to loans and at the level of the internal process of capital adequacy to risks. Also, credit institutions must assess the existence and significance of the additional credit risk associated with foreign currency credit exposures of debtors not covered at foreign exchange risk and, in particular, any non-linear relationship between market risk and credit risk where exchange rates (market risk) can have a disproportionate impact on the credit risk of an institution’s foreign currency loan portfolio.

Minimum reserve requirement ratios can differ according to the currency and residual maturity involved. The minimum reserve requirement ratio on leu-denominated liabilities of credit institutions is 8%. The minimum reserve requirement ratio on foreign-currency-denominated liabilities is 5%. The minimum reserve ratio on leu- and foreign-currency-denominated liabilities with a residual maturity of over two years without early withdrawal, transfer, or repayment clauses is 0.

Following the entry into force of the CRD IV package, all its requirements for credit institutions were incorporated into NBR Regulation No. 5/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions. According to the amended regulation, for qualifying holdings (direct or indirect holdings in an enterprise that represent 10% or more of the capital or of the voting rights or that make it possible to exercise significant influence over the management, except financial sector entities or enterprises deemed by the relevant authority to be engaged in the following: (1) direct extension of banking; (2) activities ancillary to banking; and (3) leasing, factoring, management of unit trusts, management of data processing services, or similar activity) for the purpose of calculating the capital requirement, Romanian credit institutions must apply a risk weight of 1.250% to the greater of the following: (1) the amount of qualifying holdings in excess of 15% of eligible capital or (2) the total amount of qualifying holdings that exceed 60% of the eligible capital of the institution (NBR Regulation No. 5/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and Regulation No. 575 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 26, 2013, on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No. 648/2012 (CRR)). Total investments outside the financial sector may not exceed 60% of a bank’s own capital (Regulation No. 575 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 26, 2013, on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No. 648/2012 (CRR)). Banks may not acquire shares in a nonfinancial entity, either resident or nonresident, if that results in control over that entity. In addition, NBR approval is needed if a bank intends to acquire a qualifying holding in a financial entity outside the EU, if this entity will be included in the scope of the bank’s prudential consolidation (GEO No. 99/2006 regarding Credit Institutions and Capital Adequacy, approved by Law No. 227/2007, as amended).

In banks by nonresidents  Yes. Advance NBR notification is required for investments by residents or nonresidents of 10% or more in a bank’s capital. The NBR may oppose the acquisition within (generally) 60 working days of notification.

Open foreign exchange position limits  Yes. Foreign exchange risk capital requirements are included in Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No. 648/2012. This regulation is directly applicable across the EU. Article 351 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 requires banks whose overall net foreign exchange position exceeds 2% of their own funds to calculate capital requirements for foreign exchange risk.

On resident assets and liabilities  Yes. Article 351 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 requires banks whose overall net foreign exchange position exceeds 2% of their own funds to calculate capital requirements for foreign exchange risk.

On nonresident assets and liabilities  Yes. Article 351 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 requires banks whose overall net foreign exchange position exceeds 2% of their own funds to calculate capital requirements for foreign exchange risk.

Provisions specific to institutional investors  Yes. Insurance/reinsurance companies are licensed and supervised under the Law No. 237/2015 on the authorization and supervision of the business of insurance and reinsurance, which transposes the EU Directive (EC) No. 2009/138 on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II), with subsequent completions. The regulatory framework is completed by the European Commission’s Regulations (Commission Delegated Regulation No. 2015/35 and all the other Regulations laying down implementing/regulatory technical standards with regard to different area of the Directive), which are binding in their entirety and directly applicable in all Member States, and by the secondary legislation issued by the Romanian Financial Supervisory Authority (FSA) to implement the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (EIOPA) Guidelines or to regulate other aspects not covered by the legislative acts previously mentioned. Solvency II is a risk-based supervision regime, imposing for the insurance/reinsurance companies to determine their solvency capital requirements (SCR) and minimum capital requirements (MCR) depending on the risks associated to their businesses, using the standard formula provided by the Directive or their own internal models approved by the FSA, and to cover them with eligible own funds. The regulatory framework establishes detailed rules for insurance/reinsurance companies related to their system of governance, classification of own funds in three tiers, eligibility criteria of own funds for covering of SCR, methodologies to calculate technical provisions, etc. The Solvency II regime does not apply to specific insurance companies which fulfill certain conditions (such as gross written premiums under €5 million, technical reserves under €25 million, locally business only, non-underwriting of liability, and credit and suretyship risks). For this category of insurance companies, member states are allowed to impose their own licensing and supervision conditions. In Romania, for this category of insurance companies, the FSA decided to maintain the former supervision regime, with some improvements mainly related to the Qualitative requirements (such as those related to system of governance and public disclosure). Consequently, for the insurance companies falling out the scope of Solvency II regime, there are no significant changes in legal requirements related to available and minimum solvency margin, minimum guarantee fund, methodology to calculate the technical reserves, assets admitted to cover the technical reserves and other quantitative requirements) comparing to those applicable before January 1, 2016, the former provisions being included in the Regulation No. 28/2015 on the operation of supervised insurers in accordance with the national regime. In addition, under the national regime of Regulation No. 28/2015 provisions of Articles 24 (1) and 26 is applicable currently to one insurance company and thus is of limited scope.

With the implementation of the Solvency II regime, there are no investment restrictions. The insurance/reinsurance companies invest all their assets in accordance with the “prudent person” principle (in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report; all assets, in particular those covering the MCR and the SCR, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole and the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability). The absence of regulatory limits on investments does not mean that undertakings can take investment decisions without any regard to prudence and to the interests of policyholders. The requirements of Solvency II and of the Commission Delegated Regulation No. 2015/35 cover extensively some of the main aspects of the prudent person principle, such as asset-liability management, investment in derivatives, liquidity risk management, and concentration risk management. For the insurance companies falling out the scope of Solvency II regime, the FSA Rule No. 28/2015 provides that the assets that cover gross technical provisions must be placed in Romania. These insurers may invest gross technical provisions in (1) government bonds and treasury bills; (2) debt securities, bonds, and other money and capital market instruments traded in supervised markets; (3) shares and other variable yield participations traded in supervised markets; and (4) units in UCITS and other investment funds.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes.

With the implementation of Solvency II, for firms falling under the Solvency II regime, there are no investment restrictions. The insurance/reinsurance companies invest all their assets in accordance with the “prudent person” principle (in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report; all assets, in particular those covering the MCR and the SCR, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole and the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability). Investment risk management policy – FSA Rule No. 35/2015:

In its risk management policy, the undertaking should cover at least the following information with regard to investments:

(1) the level of security, quality, liquidity, and profitability the undertaking is aiming for with regard to the whole portfolio of assets and how it plans to achieve this;

(2) its quantitative limits on assets and exposures, including off-balance-sheet exposures, that are to be established to help to ensure the undertaking achieves its desired level of security, quality, liquidity, profitability, and availability for the portfolio;

(3) the level of availability the undertaking is aiming for with regard to the whole portfolio of assets and how it plans to achieve this;

(4) consideration of the financial market environment;

(5) the conditions under which the undertaking can pledge or lend assets;

(6) the link between market risk and other risks in adverse scenarios;

(7) the procedure for appropriately valuing and verifying the investment assets;

(8) the procedures to monitor the performance of the investments and review the policy when necessary;

(9) how the assets are to be selected in the best interest of policyholders and beneficiaries.

For the insurance companies falling out of the scope of Solvency II regime, the FSA Rule No. 28/2015 provides the following maximum limits of the investments covering gross technical provisions: (1) 50% in shares, bonds, and other instruments traded in a regulated and supervised capital market and in debt securities in companies for collective investment in securities, according to the provisions of point (2); (2) 5% in shares and other negotiable securities treated as shares, bonds, debt certificates, and other money and capital market instruments and in debt securities in companies for collective investment in securities issued by the same company; (3) 20% in land and buildings (agricultural land and land outside built-up areas may not cover technical provisions); (4) 10% in a single land or... building investment or in multiple land and building investments close enough together to be considered one investment; and (5) 90% in deposits and accounts in credit institutions, with no more than 20% of the gross technical provisions in a single credit institution. The above maximum limits apply to the total value of the technical gross provisions and are similar for life and non-life activity. For both non-life-insurance and life insurance activity, the assets covering the technical provisions must be evaluated on a prudential basis, taking into account the minimum between the book value and the market value. If a certain asset does not have rules regarding maximum limits, the FSA may restrict the use of that asset.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes. With the implementation of Solvency II regime, there are no currency-matching rules. For the insurance companies falling out of the scope of Solvency II regime, Article 28 of the FSA Rule No. 28/2015 provides matching rules for assets covering technical provisions as follows: (1) The insurers must comply with the principle of matching assets, which refers to the coverage of the obligations subscribed in a certain currency with assets expressed or realizable in the same currency. (2) The insurers' obligations are deemed to be paid in the currency in which the commitments in the contract were expressed. (3) If the insurers' obligations provided in the contract are not expressed in a certain currency, the insurers' commitments are deemed to be payable in Romanian leu. (4) By way of exception from Paragraph (3), the insurers may opt for the currency in which the premiums are collected if there is an adequate framework for adopting such a solution; this is possible if, starting from the entry into force of the contract, it is likely that a claim is paid in the currency in which the premium is collected, and not in Romanian leu. (5) If the insurers reported a claim that may be paid in a currency other than that resulting from the implementation of the procedures mentioned in this article, the insurers' commitments must be paid in that currency and, particularly, in the currency established by the court of law or by a settlement concluded between the insurer and the contractor. (6) If a claim is requested which is expressed in a currency known in advance by the insurers but which is different from the currency resulting from the implementation of the procedures mentioned in this article, the insurers' commitments may be paid in that currency. (7) The insurers may choose not to cover the technical reserves with matching assets if the implementation of the procedures provided by this article results in their obligation to keep the assets in a currency not exceeding 7% of the assets expressed in other currency, to comply with the principle of matching assets. (8) If the commitments may be paid in a currency of a third country, if the investments in such currency are regulated, if the currency is subject to transfer restrictions or if, for similar reasons, the currency is not appropriate to cover technical reserves, the insurers do not have the obligation to comply with the principle of matching assets. (9) The insurers may hold assets that are not matching to cover an amount not exceeding 20% of their obligations in a certain currency.

Pension funds Yes. Pension funds are governed by Law No. 411/2004 regarding privately administered pension funds, recast as amended, Law No. 204/2006 on voluntary pension funds, as amended, and Law No. 1/2020 on occupational pension as amended. The Private Pensions Guarantee Fund was established under Law No. 187/2011 to guarantee the rights of members and beneficiaries of the private pension system. Annual contributions that private pension funds' management companies make to the Private Pensions Guarantee Fund are computed based on provisions of Norm No. 2/2013. As a first measure for guaranteeing the rights of members and beneficiaries, privately administered pension fund management companies are required to establish a technical provision based on the provisions of Norm No. 13/2012 and voluntary pension fund management companies are required to establish a technical provision based on the provisions of Norm No. 26/2015. The market regulator is the FSA–The Private Pensions Sector, formerly known as the Private Pension System Supervisory Commission.

Laws and other regulations do not set different limits on securities issued by residents and nonresidents from the EU or the EEA. Some regulations refer to specific securities issued by countries that are not EU or EEA members traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, and EEA countries. There are general rules for portfolio diversification established by the primary law provisions (Article 25 of Law No. 411/2004, and Article 87 of Law No. 204/2006 and Article 98 of Law No. 1/2020) and secondary legislation (Norm No. 11/2011 on the investment and evaluation of private pension fund assets, as amended, Norm No. 22/2020 on the temporary modification of the limit on government bonds investments of private pension funds and Norm No. 16/2020 on the investment of occupational pension funds). Regarding the Norm No. 11/2011, the assets of pension funds may be invested in (1) money market instruments up to 20% with the following sublimits: (a) current accounts in lei or foreign currency in banks authorized to operate in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 5%; (b) bank deposits in lei or foreign currency in banks authorized to operate in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 20%; (c) treasury bills traded on regulated markets or on a secondary market in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 20%; (d) reverse repo agreements with credit institution counterparties up to 5%; (2) government bonds (including treasury bills designated in (1) (c)) issued by the MPF, EU members, or EEA countries up to 70%; (3) municipal bonds and other securities issued by local authorities in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries and traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 30%; (4) securities traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 50% with the following sublimits: (a) shares and rights traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 50%; (b) corporate bonds, except those that embed derivatives up to 30%; (5) government bonds issued by countries that are not EU or EEA members, traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 15%; (6) municipal bonds and other securities issued by local authorities of countries that are not EU or EEA members, traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 10%; (7) bonds issued by the World Bank, EBRD, and EIB and traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 15%; (8) bonds issued by foreign nongovernmental institutions, except as indicated in (7) traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 5%; (9) UCITS including exchange-traded funds in Romania or EU members up to 5%; and (10) exchange-traded commodities and non-UCITS traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 3%.

In addition, GEO No. 38/2019 introduced the possibility for the assets of privately administered pension funds to be invested: (1) in shares and bonds of public private partnerships issued in accordance with GEO No. 39/2018 regarding public private partnerships or in infrastructure investment funds up to 15%;
(2) financial instruments traded on regulated markets and issued by real estate investment funds or companies undertaking real estate activities such as real estate development or marketing, purchasing and selling own real estate, letting and sub-letting activities, and facility management up to 3%;
(3) private equity shares or bonds issued by companies in Romania, EU members or EEA countries or units issued by private equity funds from EU members or EEA countries up to 10%. Norm No. 22/2020 allows for a temporary ceiling of 100% for investments in government bonds issued by the MPF, EU members, or EEA countries.

Regarding the Norm No. 16/2020 on the investment of occupational pension funds, the asset of pension funds may be invested in:
(1) current accounts in lei or foreign currency in banks authorized to operate in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 20%;
(2) bank deposits in lei or foreign currency in banks authorized to operate in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 30%;
(3) treasury bills traded on regulated markets or on a secondary market in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 30%;
(4) reverse repo agreements with credit institution counterparties up to 10%;
(5) government securities issued by the MPF, EU members, or EEA countries up to 70%;
(6) government bonds issued by countries that are not EU or EEA members, traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 20%;
(7) municipal bonds and other securities issued by local authorities in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries and traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 30%;
(8) corporate bonds, except those that embed derivatives up to 50%;
(9) municipal bonds and other securities issued by local authorities of countries that are not EU or EEA members, traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 10%;
(10) bonds issued by the World Bank, EBRD, and EIB or other foreign nongovernmental institutions and traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 10%;
(11) securities traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 50%;
(12) UCITS including exchange-traded funds in Romania or EU members up to 20%;
(13) exchange-traded commodities and non-UCITS traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries up to 10%;
(14) securities and bonds issued by project companies in accordance with GEO No. 39/2018 regarding public private partnerships or in infrastructure investment funds up to 15%;
(15) private equity shares or bonds issued by companies in Romania, EU members, or EEA countries or units issued by private equity funds from EU members or EEA countries up to 10%.

Laws and other regulations do not set different limits on securities held abroad or locally, issued by residents or nonresidents. Some provisions of Norm No. 11/2011 refer to limits for specific securities issued by countries that are not EU or EEA members (third countries) traded on regulated markets in Romania, EU members, and EEA countries.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating. Under this arrangement, the exchange rate of the ruble is determined by market factors. The BR did not perform interventions in the domestic foreign exchange market for the purpose of maintaining a certain exchange rate or determining the speed at which it changes. At the same time, the BR could perform operations with foreign currency in the domestic market in the event of a threat to financial stability, and also to replenish (use) international reserves in connection with application of the budget rule by the Russian MOF.

In 2021, the dynamics of the ruble exchange rate was relatively stable. Throughout the year, the exchange rate of the US dollar against the ruble was in the range of 70–80 rubles/US dollar, and the main factors that determined its dynamics were geopolitical risks and the situation on global financial markets which changed in response to developments in the COVID-19 pandemic. The US dollar exchange rate against the ruble reached its minimum at the end of October, when it fell below 70 rubles/US dollar. Thereafter, the ruble exchange rate began to weaken as geopolitical tensions increased.

In 2022, the sharply aggravated geopolitical situation led to a significant weakening of the ruble. The exchange rate of the US dollar against the ruble at the beginning of March 2022 exceeded 120 rubles per US dollar. On February 24, the BR announced a number of measures to stabilize situation on the financial market, including interventions in the foreign exchange market (on February 25 and 28 for a total amount of $1.2 billion). However, after that the foreign currency accounts of the BR were blocked, which made it impossible for the BR to conduct foreign currency transactions.

In January–July 2022, the positive balance of goods and services increased, according to preliminary estimates, to $192 billion (January–July 2021: $76 billion). It was brought about by the increase of the value of exports because of higher world energy prices than in 2021. It was also helped by a significant year-on-year reduction in imports under conditions characterized by the restrictions imposed by Western countries, the exit of foreign companies from the Russian market, problems with payments for goods and logistics.

The BR establishes official exchange rates for a number of foreign currencies against the ruble. These rates may be used in calculating state budget revenues and expenditures for payments and settlements by state administrative agencies with businesses, organizations, and individuals and for taxation and accounting. Regulation of the use of the official exchange rates of foreign currencies against the ruble for various purposes, including the areas of their mandatory use, is not within the BR's purview.

Official exchange rates are set every business day and on non-business days announced in the Russian Federation (for example, related to quarantine), with the exception of non-business days that are weekends or official holidays, and take effect the next calendar day. Information on official rates is published on the BR’s website the day they are set and in the next edition of the BR Bulletin. The official rate for each currency applies until the next official rate becomes effective.

The official US dollar–ruble exchange rate is calculated on the basis of quotes for this currency pair in the domestic foreign exchange market. Effective April 25, 2022, the US dollar/ruble exchange rate is calculated on the basis of the Moscow Exchange data on the weighted average USD/RUB exchange rate for transactions carried out from 10:00 to 15:30 Moscow time. Previously, the calculation period was from 10:00 to 16:30 Moscow time. Effective April 25, 2022, a similar approach is applied to the official exchange rates of the euro and the yuan against the ruble. The official rates of other foreign currencies against the ruble are calculated on the basis of quotations of these currencies against the US dollar on the world currency market and the official rate of the US dollar against the ruble.

These fluctuations are natural, considering that the economy is a complex system of interconnections and price formation occurs under the
The inflation target is set on the basis of the CPI calculated by Rosstat, reflecting the rate of growth in consumer prices in relation to the corresponding month of the previous year.

The CPI measures the change over time of the cost of a consumer basket – a set of food, non-food items, and services consumed by the average household.

The BR does not set specific dates or time periods when the achievement of the inflation target is assessed, but strives to ensure that annual inflation is near 4% on an ongoing basis.

The main monetary policy rate (the key rate) is set by the BR Board of Directors. This rate corresponds to the minimum interest rate at the BR 1-week repo auctions and the maximum interest rate at the BR 1-week deposit auctions. Under the BR operating procedure, the aim is for the one-day rate in the interbank credit market to be close to the key rate.

Reporting on inflation targets is not done in the form of open letters. The Chairman of the BR presents to the State Duma of the Annual Report of the BR and Key Elements of the Uniform State Monetary Policy.

The minutes of meetings of the BR Board of Directors are not published on the official website of the BR. Following the meetings of the BR Board of Directors, an official statement of the key rate is published (at 1:30 p.m. on the same day Moscow time). After meetings, press conferences are held with the participation of the Chairman of the BR (at 3:00 p.m. on the same day Moscow time). After supporting (quarterly) meetings, a new issue of the Monetary Policy Report is published (six business days after the decision on the key rate).

Inflation forecasts are published on a quarterly basis after meetings of the BR Board of Directors (at 1:30 p.m. on the day the decision on the key rate is made), in addition to the Monetary Policy Report (six business days after the decision on the key rate).

Effective March 3, 2022, a commission applies to the purchase by individuals of foreign currencies through brokers in the amount of 30% of the transaction. Effective March 4, 2022, the commission was reduced to 12% for individuals and set to 12% for legal entities.
Effective April 11, 2022, the requirement to charge a commission was removed.

Exchange subsidy  No.
Foreign exchange market  Yes. Effective March 9, 2022, sales of cash foreign currencies were temporarily prohibited. The measure was intended to be in effect until September 9, 2022. Effective April 18, 2022, banks may sell available foreign currency but only that obtained after April 9, 2022. Effective May 20, 2022, banks may sell any foreign currency cash to citizens without restrictions except US dollars and euros. Restrictions on the US dollar and the euro cash sales remain in force, and until September 9, 2022, citizens may buy only those US dollars and euros that have been received at banks’ cash desks after April 9, 2022. Effective September 10, 2022, these measures were extended until March 9, 2023.
Effective March 27, 2022, the purchase of foreign currency in the domestic foreign exchange market of the Russian Federation by nonresident legal entities from unfriendly countries is carried out in the amount of US$0 or other foreign currency.
Effective July 19, 2022, nonresident banks from unfriendly countries may buy and sell one foreign currency in exchange for another, as well as to conclude deliverable foreign exchange forward and swap contracts in the Russian foreign exchange market. But the prices in these contracts may not deviate by more than 2% from the prices for similar instruments in Russian on-exchange trading and international markets at the time of their conclusion. This ban is still valid for ruble transactions, as well as for nonresidents other than banks.
Previously, all nonresidents from unfriendly countries were prohibited to buy and sell foreign currency for both rubles and other foreign currencies.

Spot exchange market  Yes. Pursuant to Federal Law No. 86-FZ of July 10, 2002, on the Central Bank of the Russian Federation, the BR licenses credit institutions to handle banking transactions (paragraph 8 of Article 4). Branches may handle all or some of the banking operations (including purchase and sell foreign exchange cash) that are provided for under the banking license of the credit institution (and the regulation on the branch) and delegated to them. Internal structural subdivisions that purchase and sell foreign exchange cash must also handle other transactions delegated to them by the credit institution.
Operations with foreign exchange cash are performed in accordance with relevant BR regulations. Pursuant to Articles 8.8 and 8.9 of BR Instruction No. 135-I of April 2, 2010, basic and universal banking licenses, as provided for by annexes 29, 30, 32, 42–44 and annexes 34, 36, 45, and 46 of said Instruction, respectively, allow credit institutions created through incorporation to carry out operations in foreign currency.
As of January 1, 2022, the number of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations in foreign exchange was 364. As of July 1, 2022, their number was 358. As of January 1, 2022, the number of professional participants in the securities market having a broker, dealer, or fiduciary management license (excluding client brokers) was 355. As of July 1, 2022, the number of professional participants in the securities market with a broker, dealer, or fiduciary management license (excluding client brokers) was 352.

Operated by the central bank  Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility  Yes. The system of BR instruments contains daily operations in the domestic market, which include overnight foreign exchange swap transactions to provide rubles and foreign currency.
The currency swap as a permanent instrument was introduced in September 2002. As a result, credit institutions were able to raise liquidity from the BR on a daily basis for a period of 1 day in exchange for US dollars (the ruble–US dollar instrument). Since October 2005, a similar ruble–euro instrument was put in place. The currency swap as a tool to support Russian credit institutions with dollar liquidity was introduced in September 2014, which allowed credit institutions to raise US dollars daily from the BR for a period of 1 day in exchange for rubles. Effective February 24, 2022, a similar instrument was introduced to provide liquidity in euros in exchange for rubles. From February 25, 2022, such operations have not been carried out.

Effective January 1, 2022, the rates for BR currency swap operations are set equal to:

1. The Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR) (previously LIBOR USD O/N) for the foreign exchange part of operations involving the purchase of US dollars for rubles, with their subsequent sale, and the key rate of the BR plus 1 percentage point for the ruble part;
2. The Euro Short-Term Rate (ESTR) (previously LIBOR EUR Overnight (O/N)) for the foreign exchange part of operations involving the purchase of euros for rubles, with their subsequent sale, and the key rate of the BR plus 1 percentage point for the ruble part;
3. SOFR (previously LIBOR USD O/N) plus 1.5 percentage points for the foreign exchange part of operations involving the sale of US dollars for rubles, with their subsequent sale, and the key rate of the BR minus 1 percentage point for the ruble part.

Information about the parameters is posted on the BR’s website.

To supply Russian credit institutions with foreign currency, there are 1-week, 28-day, and 12-month repo auctions in US dollars and euros (the possibility of holding 12-month repo auctions was suspended as of April 1, 2016); the BR applies the minimum interest rates on these operations. The spreads with respect to the LIBOR rate for 1-week and 28-day repo operations are 2 percentage points. The maximum debt of credit institutions to the BR under repo operations in foreign currency in 2020 was set on December 18, 2019, at the equivalent of US$15 billion. The BR has not performed the relevant operations since October 2017.

As a result, no move has been made to replace LIBOR with SOFR or ESTR as a benchmark for determining the rate for the instrument.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Residents may open foreign exchange accounts with authorized banks without restriction, unless otherwise stipulated by Federal Law No. 173 of December 10, 2003 (as amended).

Foreign exchange accounts for residents are opened, maintained, and closed following the same procedure as for domestic currency accounts opened by authorized banks on the basis of a bank account or deposit agreement.

Accounts of residents in foreign currency opened with authorized banks may be used for any operations, with the exception of operations in foreign currency between residents that are not listed in Article 9 of Federal Law No. 173-FZ that contains the list of foreign currency operations that are permitted between residents.

The provisions of BR Instruction No. 181-I of August 16, 2017 (as amended), with regard to a failure to provide an authorized bank with documents related to the performance of operations pertain to residents that have concluded foreign trade agreements with nonresidents, the obligations under which do not exceed, effective May 31, 2022, 600,000 rubles (previously 200,000 rubles).

Effective February 28, 2022, credit institutions may open an account for a natural person without his/her personal presence (or that of a legal representative) in case of transfer by this natural person of funds from an account opened at one credit institution to another credit institution, if simultaneously with making such a transfer, the credit institution carrying out the transfer also transmits to the other credit organization information identifying the natural person.

Effective March 9, 2022, banks may not charge fees on individuals for withdrawing foreign currency from deposits or accounts regardless of the currency of the account, or fees for foreign currency conversion into US dollars if the conversion is carried out for subsequent cash withdrawal. The measure was in force until September 9, 2022. Effective September 10, 2022, the measure was extended until March 9, 2023.

Effective March 9, 2022, resident account holders of foreign currency accounts may withdraw up to US$10,000 in cash, and any amount above that may be withdrawn in rubles at the market rate on the day of withdrawal. The currency is issued in US dollars regardless of the currency of the accounts. Converting other currencies to US dollar takes place at the market rate on the day of issue. Residents may open new foreign currency accounts, but withdrawal from them is possible in rubles at the market rate on the day of withdrawal. Banks may not sell cash currency to citizens. Changing cash foreign currency for rubles may be done at any time and in any volume. The measure was intended to be in effect until September 9, 2022. Effective April 11, 2022, withdrawal from foreign currency accounts may be done not only in US dollars, but also in euros. Effective April 18, 2022, banks may sell available foreign currency but only that obtained after April 9, 2022. Effective May 20, 2022, banks may sell any foreign currency cash to citizens without restrictions except US dollars and euros. Restrictions on the US dollar and the euro cash sales remain in force, and until September 9, 2022, citizens may buy only those US dollars and euros that have been received at banks’ cash desks after April 9, 2022. Effective September 10, 2022, these measures were extended until March 9, 2023.

Effective March 12, 2022, for funds received as a transfer from a bank outside of the Russian Federation as well as for funds from electronic wallets, withdrawals are made exclusively in rubles. The conversion must be made at the banks’ exchange rates and the amount paid may not be lower than the amount calculated as of the payment date at the BR official foreign currency exchange rates against the ruble for the conversion of other currencies. The measure was no longer in force effective September 10, 2022.

Effective March 1, 2022, during a calendar month, resident individuals may transfer no more than US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to another individual abroad who is a resident (excluding resident relatives) or any nonresident. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is also US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.
Effective April 1, 2022, during a calendar month, resident individuals may transfer no more than US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident), resident individuals of friendly countries, and resident individuals of unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.

Effective May 16, 2022, during a calendar month, residents of Russia and nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer no more than US$50,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). Resident individuals of friendly and unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation may transfer the total amount of their compensation through their account or without opening an account. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.

Effective June 8, 2022, during a calendar month, Russian resident individuals may transfer up to US$150,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.

Effective July 1, 2022, during a calendar month, Russian resident individuals may transfer up to US$1 million or the equivalent in other foreign currencies from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). This measure is in force until September 30, 2022.

Effective March 10, 2022, resident legal entities and individual proprietors may receive cash in US dollars, Japanese yen, British pounds, and euros in an amount not exceeding US$5,000 and only to cover expenses for foreign business trips. For any other currencies, they may receive cash on the grounds provided for by Russian laws, without any restrictions, at the market exchange rate on the withdrawal date. The measure is in force until September 9, 2022. Effective September 10, 2022, the measure was extended until March 9, 2023.

Approval required No.

Held abroad Yes.

Residents, except as indicated under Federal Law No. 79-FZ of May 7, 2013, on Prohibiting Certain Categories of Persons from Opening and Maintaining Accounts (Deposits) and Holding Cash and Valuables at Foreign Banks Located Outside the Territory of the Russian Federation and Holding and/or Using Foreign Financial Instruments (this law concerns government employees), may without restriction open accounts (deposits) in foreign currency and in rubles at banks and other financial market institutions located outside the territory of the Russian Federation, in accordance with the private law of such institutions that have the right to provide services related to the attraction from residents and placement of funds or other financial assets for safekeeping, management, investment, and/or the performance of other transactions in the interests of a resident or directly or indirectly on behalf of a resident.

Residents must notify the tax authorities where they are registered of the opening and closing of these accounts and of any change in account details no later than one month after opening or closing an account or a change in account details, and residents must also provide reports, on the movement of funds and other financial assets on accounts (deposits) at banks and other institutions in the financial market located outside the territory of the Russian Federation.

If resident individuals are abroad for a total of more than 183 days in a calendar year, then they are exempted for the period of their stay abroad from submitting a notice to the tax authority. When returning to Russia (if the period of the stay abroad was less than a total of 183 days in a calendar year), such an individual must notify the tax authority of accounts abroad before June 1 of the year following the reporting year and must also submit to tax authorities with which he is registered reports on the movement of funds on accounts (deposits) at banks located outside the Russian Federation.

Transfers by resident legal entities of funds to their accounts with banks outside Russia from their accounts with authorized banks require, at the time of the first transfer, presentation to the authorized bank of the notification provided to the tax authority where the resident legal entity is registered and acknowledgment of receipt of that notification.

Resident authorized banks licensed to engage in ruble and foreign exchange transactions may maintain correspondent accounts with nonresident banks. They may also open accounts with nonresident banks to service the activities of their representative offices abroad, subject to notification requirements. Foreign branches of authorized banks may freely maintain accounts with nonresident banks subject to the permission of the parent bank.

Pursuant to Federal Law No. 92-FZ of May 1, 2017, on Amending Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation, two types of banks were defined: those with a basic license and those with a universal license. A bank with a basic license is not permitted to open bank (correspondent) accounts at foreign banks, with the exception of the opening of an account at a foreign bank for the purpose of participating in a foreign payment system. A bank with a basic license does not have the right to provide loans to foreign legal entities, to foreign organizations that are not legal entities under foreign law, or to individuals subject to the private law of a foreign state (Federal Law No. 92-FZ of May 1, 2017). A bank with a universal license that has obtained the status of a bank with a basic license or that has changed its status to that of a nonbank credit institution, or a bank with a basic license that has changed its status to that of a nonbank credit institution, is required to abrogate a bank (correspondent) account agreement with a foreign bank within one year of the date such status is acquired. This restriction does not apply to cases in which an account is opened at a foreign bank for the purpose of participating in a foreign payment system. The crediting of funds to accounts (deposits) of residents opened at financial market institutions and the debiting of funds from such accounts (deposits) are performed in all cases without restriction.

Residents may transfer to their accounts with banks outside Russia funds from their accounts with authorized banks or from other accounts with banks abroad. Any types of foreign exchange transactions on accounts (deposits) opened with banks abroad are allowed between residents that stay outside the territory of the Russian Federation for a total of more than 183 days in a calendar year.

Residents’ accounts at banks outside Russia may be credited with: (1) interest earned on the balance of such accounts; (2) a minimum deposit required by the rules of the respective bank when opening an account (deposit); (3) cash placed in an account (deposit); (4) funds received as a result of conversion operations using funds credited to such accounts (deposits); (5) taxes refunded by competent authorities of the state visited by the resident; (6) funds received by resident individuals as wages, reimbursement for business travel expenses, and other payments made in foreign currency outside the Russian Federation under labor agreements concluded by them with resident legal entities providing for the performance by such resident individuals of their official duties outside the Russian Federation; (7) transfers in rubles from the accounts of other residents in Russia and from the accounts of other residents abroad; (8) transfers in connection with execution of the Russian Federation budget; (9) transfers for the purpose of carrying out the activities of diplomatic missions and consular institutions of the Russian Federation, permanent missions of the Russian Federation to international (interstate, intergovernmental) organizations, other official representative offices of the Russian Federation and representative offices of federal executive government bodies located outside the Russian Federation; (10) transfers of foreign currency by Russian resident individuals that do not exceed in one business day through one authorized bank the equivalent of US$5,000 at the official BR exchange rate on the date the funds are debited; (11) transfers under settlements between transportation entities and individuals abroad, as well as with branches, representative offices, and other subdivisions of legal entities, under passenger transportation agreements; (12) transfers by residents from their accounts with authorized banks to accounts of related residents (spouse or close relative – direct forebear or descendant: parent, child, brother, sister, grandparent, grandchild, full-blooded or half-blooded, with a common father or mother, adoptive parent, adopted child); (13) transfers of foreign exchange from accounts with authorized banks (opened by federal executive branch authorities performing functions related to their activities outside the Russian Federation through their representatives or representative offices, organizations that are entitled on the basis of federal law to use the accounts of said official representative offices and permanent missions of the Russian Federation, and organizations that have concluded agreements with federal executive government bodies managing the activities of trade representative offices of the Russian Federation in foreign states regarding the employment conditions for representatives at trade representative offices of the Russian Federation in foreign states) to the accounts of diplomatic missions and consular institutions of the Russian Federation, permanent missions of the Russian Federation to international (interstate, intergovernmental) organizations, other official representative offices of the Russian Federation and representative offices of federal executive government bodies located outside the Russian Federation for the payment of wages and other payments related to the maintenance of their representatives or personnel of their representative offices located outside the Russian Federation, and also for payment and/or reimbursement of business travel expenses; (14) settlements performed outside the Russian Federation.
Federation between resident individuals who have spent a total of more than 183 days in a calendar year outside the Russian Federation and resident legal entities that are Russian public higher education institutions or branches thereof, located outside the territory of the Russian Federation, under education contracts; (15) payment of wages to resident individuals and other payments made in foreign currency outside the Russian Federation under labor agreements concluded by them with resident legal entities providing for the performance by such resident individuals of their official duties outside the Russian Federation; (16) the receipt of foreign exchange assets through inheritance and the transfer of foreign exchange assets in a deceased person’s estate to beneficiaries of the estate; (17) effective January 1, 2021, transfers of foreign currency by resident individuals from their accounts at authorized banks to pay for goods delivered to them, work performed for them, services provided to them, information and intellectual property provided to them, including exclusive rights thereto, by resident individuals who have spent a total of more than 183 days outside the Russian Federation in a calendar year and who are engaged in entrepreneurial activity without incorporation as a legal entity in accordance with the legislation of the foreign state in which they are located, to accounts (deposits) of such individuals opened at banks located outside the Russian Federation; (18) settlements with resident individuals located abroad, with the branches, representative offices, and other subdivisions of legal entities established under Russian law, as well as with nonresident individuals, under contracts for the transportation of passengers, and settlements in foreign exchange and rubles by resident individuals abroad and with nonresident individuals, under contracts for the transportation of freight by individuals for personal, family, household, and other noncommercial needs; (19) payments by nonresidents of wages and other payments to resident individuals related to the performance of their official duties outside Russia under labor agreements (contracts) with nonresidents, and in the form of payment for and/or reimbursement of expenses incurred by such resident individuals in connection with official business travel abroad; (20) payments by nonresidents to resident individuals in accordance with rulings of courts of foreign states, with the exception of decisions by international commercial arbitration bodies; (21) payments by nonresidents of pensions, scholarships, child support, and other payments of a social nature to resident individuals; (22) insurance payments to resident individuals made by nonresident insurers; (23) payments by nonresidents to resident individuals made in the process of returning funds previously paid by resident individuals, including the return of funds transferred in error, the refunding of money for a product previously purchased by a resident individual from a nonresident and subsequently returned, or for a service for which a nonresident was paid by a resident; (24) a gift of foreign exchange assets made by a resident individual to a spouse or close relatives and a bequest of foreign exchange assets or the receipt of foreign exchange assets through an inheritance or as a beneficiary of an estate; (25) income from the sale of precious metals recorded on residents’ accounts opened at banks located outside the Russian Federation and paid by nonresidents by virtue of the requirements of the legislation of a foreign state, bypassing accounts at authorized banks; (26) crediting of foreign currency or rubles to the accounts of resident legal entities or third parties at banks outside the Russian Federation – for the purpose of fulfilling the obligations of resident legal entities under credit facilities and loan agreements with nonresident organizations that are agents of governments of foreign states, and also under credit facilities and loan agreements...

corresponds to the name of the operation indicated in Annex 1 to Instruction No. 181-I.

Federal Law No. 92-FZ of May 1, 2017, on Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation, defined two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license.
A bank with a basic license is not permitted to open bank (correspondent) accounts at foreign banks, with the exception of the opening of an account at a foreign bank for the purpose of participating in a foreign payment system. A bank with a basic license does not have the right to provide loans to foreign legal entities, to foreign organizations that are not legal entities under foreign law, or to individuals subject to the private law of a foreign state (Federal Law No. 92-FZ of May 1, 2017).

Effective March 9, 2022, banks may not charge fees on individuals for withdrawing foreign currency from deposits or accounts regardless of the currency of an account, or fees for foreign currency conversion into US dollars if the conversion is carried out for subsequent cash withdrawal. The measure is in force until September 9, 2022. Effective September 10, 2022, the measure was extended until March 9, 2023.

Effective March 1, 2022, transfers of funds outside of Russia by persons (both legal entities and individuals) that are residents of sanctioning countries were suspended, and a limit on transfers by nonresident individuals who are residents of any non-sanctioning foreign countries of up to US$5,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies per month was introduced.

Effective April 1, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresident individuals from countries not supporting the sanctions and nonresidents from sanctioning countries who receive wages or compensation for services in the Russian Federation may transfer no more than US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency. Transfers of funds outside of Russia by persons (both legal entities and individuals) that are residents of unfriendly countries are suspended. Money transfers from Russian brokers’ corporate accounts by nonresident individuals and legal entities from countries supporting the sanctions were suspended for six months as well.
Effective May 16, 2022, nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer up to US$50,000 or the equivalent in any other foreign currency per calendar month from their accounts with Russian banks to their accounts or other individuals abroad. Nonresidents from unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation may transfer funds from their Russian accounts abroad in rubles or foreign currency in the amount of wages or payment received for services.
Effective June 8, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer up to US$150,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies to their foreign accounts. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency. Effective July 1, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresident individuals from friendly countries may transfer up to US$1 million or the equivalent in other foreign currencies from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad. This measure is in force until September 30, 2022.

Effective March 10, 2022, nonresident legal entities and nonresident individual proprietors may not receive cash in US dollars, Japanese yen, British pounds, and euros. For any other currencies, they may receive funds from their accounts without any restrictions at the market exchange rate on the withdrawal date. The measure is in force until September 10, 2022. Effective September 11, 2022, the measure was extended until March 9, 2023.

Nonresidents may without restriction make transfers of rubles between their accounts and from accounts abroad to accounts at authorized banks or from accounts at authorized banks to accounts abroad or at other authorized banks.

Foreign exchange operations between residents and nonresidents are performed without restrictions, except transactions listed in Articles 7, 8, and 11 of FZ-173.

Nonresidents, except individuals, in the performance of a foreign exchange operation involving the debiting of rubles from the nonresident’s own bank account opened at an authorized bank in rubles must submit to the authorized bank a settlement document for a foreign exchange operation, indicating (except for certain cases) the code for the type of foreign exchange operation corresponding to the purpose of the payment. Follow-up monitoring of the performance of the aforementioned operations is performed within the context of monitoring residents who are parties to such operations.

Effective March 5, 2022, ruble repayments on debt obligations to creditors from the countries that have imposed sanctions against Russia will be credited into C-type accounts opened with Russian and foreign credit institutions.

Effective March 1, 2022, transfers of funds outside of Russia by persons (both legal entities and individuals) that are residents of sanctioning countries were suspended, and a limit on transfers by nonresident individuals who are residents of any non-sanctioning foreign countries of up to US$5,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies per month was introduced.

Effective April 1, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresident individuals from countries not supporting the sanctions and nonresidents from sanctioning countries who receive wages or compensation for services in the Russian Federation may transfer no more than US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency. Transfers of funds outside of Russia by persons (both legal entities and individuals) that are residents of unfriendly countries are suspended. Money transfers from Russian brokers’ accounts by nonresident individuals and legal entities from countries supporting the sanctions were suspended for six months as well. The measures are valid until September 30, 2022.

Effective May 16, 2022, nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer up to US$50,000 or the equivalent in any other foreign currency per calendar month from their accounts with Russian banks to their accounts or other individuals abroad. Nonresidents from unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation may transfer funds from their Russian accounts abroad in rubles or foreign currency in the amount of wages or payment received for services.

Effective June 8, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer up to US$150,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies to their foreign accounts. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.

Effective July 1, 2022, during a calendar month, nonresident individuals from friendly countries may transfer up to US$1 million or the equivalent in other foreign currencies from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad. This measure is in force until September 30, 2022.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget  No.

Financing requirements for imports  Yes.

Minimum financing requirements  No.

Advance payment requirements  Yes. The requirement concerning the importation of goods into the Russian Federation after a resident has made an advance payment for imports within the deadline established by a foreign trade agreement (contract) is provided for by the foreign exchange legislation of the Russian Federation.

Thus, when performing foreign trade activity residents are required, within the deadlines specified by foreign trade agreements (contracts), to either import the goods into the Russian Federation or provide for the return to the Russian Federation of the funds paid to nonresidents as an advance payment.

When performing foreign trade activity residents are required to provide information to authorized banks about the deadlines for nonresidents’ fulfillment of obligations under foreign trade agreements (contracts) through the transfer of goods to residents based on the advance payments made by the residents, and the deadlines for the return of said advance payments in accordance with the terms of the foreign trade agreements (contracts). In the event that goods are not imported into the Russian Federation and an advance payment is not returned, this information is forwarded by the authorized bank to the foreign exchange control body (the Russian Federal Customs Service), which applies administrative enforcement measures against the resident for violation of the Effective March 27, 2022, advance payment by residents (with the exception of individuals who are not individual entrepreneurs, Russian credit institutions, the state development corporation) in favor of nonresident legal entities and individuals is carried out within 30% of the amount of obligations stipulated under contracts for the provision of services by a nonresident, and contracts the terms of which provide for the performance of work by a nonresident, the transfer by a nonresident of information, the results of intellectual activity, including exclusive rights to them, subject to certain exceptions.

Effective April 2, 2022, the 30% limit on advance payments was removed for some contracts amounting to less than $15,000 made with nonresidents, including for delivery of services, performance of work, transfer of information and copyright products, services rendered under foreign trade agreements related to goods transportation, other transport services, logistics, and use of transport infrastructure.

Effective April 16, 2022, the 30% limit on advance payments was removed for foreign trade contracts for the provision of travel, building and equipment renovation, and maintenance services, for exhibition services provided by nonresidents from friendly countries or for nonresidents’ services in organizing exhibitions, fairs, and congresses in friendly countries.

Effective July 20, 2022, the 30% limit on advance payments in favor of nonresident banks under import contracts for providing services, performing works, and transferring intellectual property in force since April 2022, was removed.

Effective August 8, 2022, the requirement to repatriate the funds paid to nonresidents in the form of advance payment for non-imported goods is not applied.

Residents are not required to submit documents to an authorized bank related to the performance of foreign exchange transactions under any contracts with nonresidents if the amount of obligations under them does not exceed, effective May 31, 2022, 600,000 rubles (previously 200,000 rubles).

In the case of a contract that contains obligations exceeding the equivalent of 600,000 rubles but not exceeding the equivalent of 3,000,000 rubles, when debiting foreign currency from its account a resident must submit to an authorized bank documents related to the performance of the transaction, together with the order to debit the foreign currency.

In the case of an import contract containing obligations equal to or greater than the equivalent of 3,000,000 rubles, a resident must register the contract with an authorized bank.

The following are subject to registration with an authorized bank: (1) agreements, including agency agreements, commission agreements, and trust agreements providing for the importation of goods into the Russian Federation in the performance of foreign trade activity; (2) agreements providing for the purchase and/or performance of services related to the purchase within the Russian Federation (or outside the Russian Federation) of fuel and lubricants (bunker fuel), food, material and technical supplies, and other goods (with the exception of spare parts and equipment) necessary to ensure the operation and maintenance of vehicles, regardless of their type and purpose, en route or at intermediate stopping points or parking areas; (3) agreements, including agency agreements, commission agreements, and trust agreements, with the exception of agreements referred to under Points (1), (2), and (4), which provide for the performance of work, delivery of services, or the transfer of information and intellectual property, including exclusive rights thereto; and (4) agreements providing for the transfer of movable and/or real property under a rental agreement or financial lease agreements (leasing).

To register a contract, a resident importer must present to an authorized bank an import contract (excerpt from a contract) containing information needed by the authorized bank for registration of the contract and the performance of foreign exchange control, including oversight of the resident’s compliance with repatriation requirements, as well as other information needed by the authorized bank.

The Russian Federation, the Republic of Armenia, the Republic of Kazakhstan, the Kyrgyz Republic, the Republic of Belarus are parties to the Treaty on the EAEU of May 29, 2014 (Treaty). In accordance with Article 46 of the Treaty, when conducting trade with third countries, the EAEU applies the following unified measures of non-tariff regulation:

(1) a ban on the import and (or) export of goods;
(2) quantitative restrictions (quotas) on the import and (or) export of goods;
(3) the exclusive right on the basis of an exclusive license to export and (or) import goods;
(4) automatic licensing (monitoring) of exports and (or) imports of goods (automatic licensing (monitoring) is a temporary measure introduced to monitor the changes in the export and (or) import of certain types of goods);
(5) authorization procedure for the import and (or) export of goods (authorization procedure for the import and (or) export of goods is implemented through the introduction of licensing or the application of other administrative measures for regulating foreign trade activities).

Non-tariff regulation measures are introduced and applied on the basis of the principles of transparency and non-discrimination in accordance with Appendix No. 7 to the Treaty (Protocol on Non-Tariff Regulation Measures in Relation to Third Countries) which defines the grounds for the introduction of non-tariff regulation measures, the nature of non-tariff regulation measures, and describes the procedure for introducing such measures. In accordance with Appendix No. 7, the Russian Federation may apply unilateral measures of non-tariff regulation in the manner and on the grounds specified in Appendix No. 7.

The Decision of the Eurasian Economic Commission (EEC) Board No. 30 of April 21, 2015, on measures of non-tariff regulation, established the authorization procedure for the import into the customs territory of the EAEU of the following goods included in the list provided for in Appendix No. 2:

(1) ozone-depleting substances;
(2) plant protection products (pesticides);
(3) hazardous waste;
(4) precious stones;
(5) precious metals and commodities containing precious metals;
(6) narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, and their precursors;
(7) poisonous substances that are not precursors of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances;
(8) medicines;
(9) radio electronic means and (or) high-frequency devices for civil purposes, including those incorporated or included in other goods;
(10) special technical means designed to secretly obtain information;
(11) encryption (cryptographic) tools;
(12) human organs and tissues, blood and its components, samples of human biological materials.

The concept of “open general license” is not established by the law of the EAEU. Appendix No. 7 to the Treaty establishes the following concepts:
(1) general license – a license that grants a participant in foreign trade activities the right to export and (or) import a certain type of licensed product in the quantity specified by the license;
(2) single license – a license issued to a participant in foreign trade activities on the basis of a foreign trade transaction involving a licensed product, and granting the right to export and (or) import a certain quantity of this product;
(3) exclusive license – a license that grants a participant in foreign trade activities the exclusive right to export and (or) import a particular type of product.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

Yes.

Import customs duties are contained in the Common Customs Tariff of the Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU CCT), which is approved by the EEC.

The structure of the EAEU CCT is as follows: import duty rates below 10% make up about 47% of the total number of EAEU CCT items (there are more than 13,000 10-digit items in the EAEU CCT); rates ranging from 10 to 20% make up about 30%; rates from 20 to 50% make up about 2%; rates higher than 50% make up about 1%; and zero duty rates make up about 17%.

The EEC also establishes tariff incentives in the form of exemption from payment of import duties when certain goods are imported into the customs territory of the EAEU.

The EEC also approves the rates of import customs duties for certain types of goods originating from the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, the Republic of Serbia, and the Islamic Republic of Iran, in accordance with bilateral international agreements between the EAEU and these countries.

Imports of certain types of goods originating from the developing countries included in the list of developing countries-users of the unified system of tariff preferences of the EAEU are subject to a customs duty at a level of 75% from the applicable rate.

Imports of certain types of goods originating from the least developed countries included in the list of least developed countries-users of the EAEU unified system of tariff preferences are subject to zero customs duty. The lists of goods originating from developing countries or from the least developed countries that receive tariff preferences when imported into the customs territory of the EAEU are approved by the EEC.

The repatriation requirement for export earnings under foreign trade export contracts (non-commodity goods, work, services, and intellectual property) was lifted with regard to the entire amount of the contract in the currency of the Russian Federation on January 1, 2020, and in foreign currency effective July 1, 2021.

In the case of foreign trade contracts for raw materials exports (with the exception of timber and timber materials, as well as contracts concluded by budget organizations), the lifting of the repatriation requirement for Russian currency is scheduled to take place in several stages from January 1, 2020, to January 1, 2024:

- effective January 1, 2020 – applicable to 10% of the contract amount;
- effective January 1, 2021 – applicable to 30% of the contract amount;
- as of January 1, 2023 – applicable to 70% of the contract amount;
- as of January 1, 2024 – applicable to the entire contract amount.

Under contracts for which the repatriation requirement has been lifted, export earnings may be posted without restriction to residents’ accounts opened at banks outside the Russian Federation, and there are no restrictions on the methods for fulfillment or termination of obligations under such contracts.

In other cases, when performing foreign trade activity (under contracts for which the repatriation requirement is still in place, such as those involving raw material exports, prepayment for imports, repayment of loans), residents must credit to their accounts at authorized banks, within the time periods specified in the foreign trade contracts or loan agreements, funds in foreign currency or rubles because of them under the terms of said contracts, except in the following cases: (1) when foreign currency or currency of the Russian Federation is credited to accounts of resident legal entities or third parties with banks outside the territory of the Russian Federation to fulfill the obligations of resident legal entities under credit facilities and loan agreements with nonresident organizations that are agents of foreign governments and under credit facilities and loan agreements with residents of EAEU members or with residents of foreign states (territories) with which there is automatic exchange of financial information, for a period exceeding two years; (2) in the case of payment or reimbursement by (nonresident) contracting authorities and/or (nonresident) third parties for local expenses of residents under agreements (contracts) concluded by them with nonresidents in the performance of activity by said residents, arising in connection with the construction, reconstruction, or modernization by residents of facilities located outside the territory of the Russian Federation – for the period of the construction, reconstruction, or modernization, on the conclusion of which the remaining funds must be transferred to residents’ accounts opened at authorized banks; (3) when foreign currency obtained from exhibitions and sports, cultural, and other similar events abroad is used for expenses of such events, for the duration of the event; (4) when foreign currency is used to offset counterclaims for obligations (a) between resident and nonresident entities that conduct fishing operations abroad and provide services abroad under agency agreements with residents; (b) between resident and nonresident transportation entities performing services abroad for residents under agreements with them; or (c) between resident and nonresident transportation entities if settlement takes place through specialized entities established by international organizations in the area of international transportation and of which such resident transportation entities are members; (d) in the event that settlements between resident and nonresident transportation entities are performed in accordance with rules adopted by international organizations in the area of international shipments, which establish the procedure for the performance of mutual settlements and related services; (5) when foreign currency is used to offset counterclaims for obligations resulting from reinsurance agreements or service agreements connected with reinsurance agreements between nonresidents and resident insurance entities or insurance brokers; (6) when foreign currency proceeds are credited to the accounts of resident transportation entities with banks abroad to pay for the expenses of such transportation entities abroad in connection with the payment of aerial navigation, airport and port fees and other mandatory fees abroad; expenses associated with the servicing of aircraft, river and marine vessels, and other means of transport and their passengers abroad; and expenses connected with branches, representative offices, and other offices located abroad; (7) when there is offsetting of counterclaims on obligations arising from agreements concluded between residents engaged in exports of natural gas in the gaseous state and nonresidents that provide for the purchase and sale of natural gas in the gaseous state, and agreements under which nonresidents have obligations to residents in connection with the transit of natural gas in the gaseous state across the territory of foreign states; (8) when counterclaims on obligations arising from agreements on the provision of international telecommunications services, including international roaming services, are offset between a nonresident and a resident that are international telecommunications operators, including situations in which settlements between them are performed through specialized settlement organizations registered within member states of the International Telecommunication Union; (9) when crediting foreign currency or currency of the Russian Federation to accounts opened at banks located outside the territory of the Russian Federation by Russian public higher education institutions and their branches located outside the territory of the Russian Federation, under education contracts with nonresident individuals that provide for the delivery of educational services outside the territory of the Russian Federation; (10) effective February 17, 2021, in the event of the posting of funds to their own accounts at authorized banks in the form of insurance payments from resident insurance companies under insurance contracts to cover the risk of default by a nonresident on obligations under foreign trade export contracts; (11) effective June 28, 2021, in the event of the posting of funds to their own accounts at authorized banks under a bank guarantee issued to nonresidents in favor of residents to secure fulfillment of a nonresident’s obligations under a foreign trade contract.

The foreign currency credited in accordance with Items (1) and (3) above to the accounts of residents or third parties with banks abroad must be used to meet the residents’ obligations as specified under said items or transferred to accounts with authorized banks.

In connection with the easing of liability measures with respect to participants in foreign economic activity for violation of the repatriation requirement, which reduces the number of grounds on which residents may face administrative liability, residents may credit to foreign accounts funds from nonresidents that are subject to repatriation to an account with an authorized bank on the condition that these funds are subsequently transferred within 45 days to an account at an authorized bank.

Residents fulfill the repatriation requirement if they have arranged for: (1) receipt in their bank account of payment under a contract insuring against a nonresident’s failure to fulfill obligations under a foreign trade contract as specified in Federal Law No. 164-FZ of December 8, 2003, on the Principles of Government Regulation of Foreign Trade Activity, for activities related to insuring export loans and investments against business and/or political risks, provided the ratio in the insurance contract between the insurance amount and the insured value (level of indemnification) equals or exceeds the value established by law; (2) receipt in their bank accounts opened at authorized banks and/or bank accounts that have been opened at authorized banks by a resident who is the beneficiary, of foreign currency or Russian Federation currency under a transaction ensuring the fulfillment of a nonresident’s obligations under a foreign trade agreement (contract) and provided for by the procedure established by the Russian Federation government in accordance with Federal Law No. 164-FZ of December 8, 2003, on the Principles of Government Regulation of Foreign Trade Activity for the performance of activities related to insuring and securing export credits and investments against business and/or political risks, on the condition that the monetary amount received is equal to or greater than the value established by said procedure, in line with the procedure and deadlines provided for by the relevant transaction.

A resident who is a recipient of funds in accordance with the terms of a transferable letter of credit, when performing settlements under a foreign trade agreement (contract) concluded with a nonresident for goods transferred to the nonresident, work performed for him, services provided to him, information and intellectual property transferred to him, including exclusive rights thereto, is considered to have fulfilled the repatriation requirement if he has ensured, within the deadlines specified by the given agreement (contract), in accordance with the terms of the transferable letter of credit from a bank located outside the territory of the Russian Federation or from the authorized bank to which the instruction was given to transfer the transferable letter of credit (the executing bank), the receipt of foreign currency and/or Russian Federation currency in his bank accounts at authorized banks and/or in bank accounts at authorized banks of the second resident recipient of funds (or second resident recipients of funds) to whom the execution of the transferable letter of credit is to be performed in accordance with the terms of the agreement concluded between the resident recipient of the funds and the second recipient(s) of the funds.

Foreign exchange operations related to settlements in foreign currency within the framework of financing agreements concluded between residents against the assignment of a monetary claim (factoring), under which monetary claims in foreign currency or rubles owed to residents by nonresidents on foreign trade contracts are assigned to residents who are financial agents (factors), are performed without restriction. For the purpose of ensuring compliance with the obligation on the part of residents to repatriate funds when performing foreign trade activity, a resident who has entered into a foreign trade contract with a nonresident and who has assigned the monetary claim under the contract to a resident factor, is required to ensure that funds are received from the nonresident according to the general rule – within the time period specified by the foreign trade contract. Monitoring of residents’ compliance with the repatriation requirement is carried out within the framework of monitoring performed in accordance with BR Instruction No. 181-I of August 16, 2017, on the Procedure for the Submission of Supporting Documents and Information by Residents and Nonresidents to Authorized Banks in the Performance of Foreign Exchange Operations, on Standard Accounting and Reporting Forms for Foreign Exchange Operations, and the Procedure and Deadlines for their Submission.

Effective July 9, 2022, resident exporters were exempt from the requirement to repatriate foreign currency. The full amount of foreign currency earnings under export contracts may be put in accounts abroad without the obligation to subsequently transfer them to a Russian bank account.

Effective August 8, 2022, the requirement to repatriate foreign currency and the currency of the Russian Federation when carrying out foreign trade activities and (or) when providing and repaying loans by Russian legal entities and individual entrepreneurs is not applied (parts 1 and 2 of Article 19 of Federal Law No. 173-FZ were suspended).

Effective May 4, 2022, if a foreign lessor company from an unfriendly state has a business unit registered in Russia, payments to its account at a Russian bank will be made in rubles. If a foreign company affiliated with an unfriendly state works with Russian partners through a business unit located in a friendly state, payments will be made in the national currency of the state where the business unit is registered or in rubles.
concluded by budget organizations), the lifting of the repatriation requirement for Russian currency is scheduled to take place in several stages from January 1, 2020, to January 1, 2024:

- On January 1, 2020 – applicable to 10% of the contract amount;
- Effective January 1, 2021 – applicable to 30% of the contract amount;
- Effective January 1, 2022 – applicable to 50% of the contract amount;
- As of January 1, 2023 – applicable to 70% of the contract amount;
- As of January 1, 2024 – applicable to the entire contract amount.

Under contracts for which the repatriation requirement has been lifted, export earnings may be posted without restriction to residents’ accounts opened at banks outside the Russian Federation, and there are no restrictions on the methods for fulfillment or termination of obligations under such contracts.

In other cases, when performing foreign trade activity (under contracts for which the repatriation requirements is still in place, such as those involving raw material exports, prepayment for imports, repayment of loans), residents must credit to their accounts at authorized banks, within the time periods specified in the foreign trade contracts or loan agreements, funds in foreign currency or rubles because of them under the terms of said contracts, except in the following cases:

1. When foreign currency or currency of the Russian Federation is credited to accounts of resident legal entities or third parties with banks outside the territory of the Russian Federation to fulfill the obligations of resident legal entities under credit facilities and loan agreements with nonresident organizations that are agents of foreign governments, and under credit facilities and loan agreements entered into with residents of EAEU member countries or with residents of foreign states (territories) with which there is an agreement on the automatic exchange of financial information for a period exceeding two years;
2. In the event that (nonresident) contracting organizations or (nonresident) third parties pay or provide reimbursement for the local expenses of residents under agreements (contracts) concluded by them with nonresidents in the performance of activity by said residents, arising in connection with the construction, reconstruction, or modernization by residents of facilities located outside the territory of the Russian Federation for the period of the construction, reconstruction, or modernization, on the conclusion of which any remaining funds must be transferred to residents’ accounts opened with authorized banks;
3. When foreign currency earned from exhibitions and sports, cultural, and other similar events abroad is used to cover expenses of such events, for the duration of the event;
4. When foreign currency is used to offset counterclaims for obligations between (a) resident and nonresident entities that conduct fishing operations outside Russia and that provide services outside Russia to the residents under agency agreements with them; (b) resident and nonresident transportation entities performing services abroad for the residents under agreements with them; or (c) resident and nonresident transportation entities if the settlements between them are made through specialized settlement entities established by international organizations in the area of international transportation and of which such resident transportation entities are members;
5. In the event that settlements between resident and nonresident transportation entities are performed in accordance with rules adopted by international organizations in the area of international shipments, which establish the procedure for the performance of mutual settlements and the provision of related services; from reinsurance agreements or service agreements connected with reinsurance agreements between nonresidents and resident insurance entities or insurance brokers; (6) when foreign currency proceeds are credited to the accounts of resident transportation entities with banks abroad to pay for their expenses abroad in connection with the payment of aerial navigation, airport and port fees, and other mandatory fees in foreign countries; expenses associated with the servicing of aircraft, river and marine vessels, and other means of transport of such transportation entities and their passengers abroad; and expenses in connection with the activities of branches, representative offices, and other offices located abroad; (7) when there is offsetting of counterclaims on obligations arising from agreements concluded between residents engaged in exports of natural gas in the gaseous state and nonresidents that provide for the purchase and sale of natural gas in the gaseous state, and agreements under which nonresidents have obligations to residents in connection with the transit of natural gas in the gaseous state across the territory of foreign states; (8) when counterclaims on obligations arising from agreements on the provision of international telecommunications services, including international roaming services, are offset between a nonresident and a resident that are international telecommunications operators, including situations in which settlements between them are performed through specialized settlement organizations registered within member states of the International Telecommunication Union; and (9) when foreign currency or currency of the Russian Federation is credited to accounts opened at banks located outside the territory of the Russian Federation by Russian public higher education institutions and their branches located outside the territory of the Russian Federation, under education contracts with nonresident individuals that provide for the delivery of educational services outside the territory of the Russian Federation; (10) effective February 17, 2021, in the event of the posting of funds to their own accounts at authorized banks in the form of insurance payments from resident insurance companies under insurance contracts to cover the risk of default by a nonresident on obligations under foreign trade export contracts; (11) effective June 28, 2021, in the event of the posting of funds to their own accounts at authorized banks under a bank guarantee issued to nonresidents in favor of residents to secure fulfillment of a nonresident’s obligations under a foreign trade contract.

The foreign currency credited in accordance with Items (1) and (3) to the accounts of residents or third parties with banks abroad must be used to meet the residents’ obligations as specified under said items or transferred to accounts with authorized banks.

In connection with the easing of liability measures with respect to participants in foreign economic activity for violation of the repatriation requirement, which reduces the number of grounds on which residents may face administrative liability, residents may credit to foreign accounts funds from nonresidents that are subject to repatriation to an account with an authorized bank on the condition that these funds are subsequently transferred within 45 days to an account at an authorized bank.

Residents fulfill the repatriation requirement if they have arranged for (1) receipt in their bank account of payment under a contract insuring against a nonresident’s failure to fulfill obligations under a foreign trade contract as specified in Federal Law No. 164-FZ of December 8, 2003, on the Principles of Government Regulation of Foreign Trade Activity for activities related to insuring export loans and investments against business and/or political risks, provided the ratio in the insurance contract between the insurance amount and the insured value (level of indemnification) equals or exceeds the value established by law; (2) receipt in their bank accounts opened at authorized banks and/or bank accounts that have been opened at authorized banks by a resident who is the beneficiary, of foreign currency or Russian Federation currency under a transaction ensuring the fulfillment of a nonresident’s obligations under a foreign trade agreement (contract) and provided for by the procedure established by the Russian Federation government in accordance with Federal Law No. 164-FZ of December 8, 2003, on the Principles of Government Regulation of Foreign Trade Activity for the performance of activities related to insuring and securing export credits and investments against business and/or political risks, on the condition that the monetary amount received is equal to or greater than the value established by said procedure, in line with the procedure and deadlines provided for by the relevant transaction.

A resident who is a recipient of funds in accordance with the terms of a transferable letter of credit, when performing settlements under a foreign trade agreement (contract) concluded with a nonresident for goods transferred to the nonresident, work performed for him, services provided to him, information and intellectual property transferred to him, including exclusive rights thereto, is considered to have fulfilled the repatriation requirement if he has ensured, within the deadlines specified by the given agreement (contract), in accordance with the terms of the transferable letter of credit from a bank located outside the territory of the Russian Federation or from the authorized bank to which the instruction was given to transfer the transferable letter of credit (the executing bank), the receipt of foreign currency and/or Russian Federation currency in his bank accounts at authorized banks and/or in bank accounts at authorized banks of the second resident recipient of funds (or second resident recipients of funds) to whom the execution of the transferable letter of credit is to be performed in accordance with the terms of the agreement concluded between the resident recipient of the funds and the second recipient(s) of the funds.

Foreign exchange operations related to settlements in foreign currency within the framework of financing agreements concluded between residents against the assignment of a monetary claim (factoring), under which monetary claims in foreign currency or the currency of the Russian Federation owed to residents by nonresidents on foreign trade contracts are assigned to residents who are financial agents (factors), are performed without restriction. For the purpose of ensuring compliance with the obligation on the part of residents to repatriate funds when performing foreign trade activity, a resident who has entered into a foreign trade contract with a nonresident and who has assigned the monetary claim under the contract to a resident factor, is required to ensure that funds are received from the nonresident according to the general rule – within the time period specified by the foreign trade contract. Monitoring of residents’ compliance with the repatriation requirement is carried out within the framework of monitoring in accordance with BR Instruction No. 181-I of August 16, 2017, on the Procedure for the Submission of Supporting Documents and Information by Residents and Nonresidents to Authorized Banks in the Performance of Foreign Exchange Operations, on Standard Accounting and Reporting Forms for Foreign Exchange Operations, and the Procedure and Deadlines for their Submission.
Effective July 9, 2022, resident exporters are exempt from the requirement to repatriate foreign currency. The full amount of foreign currency earnings under export contracts may be put in accounts abroad without the obligation to subsequently transfer them to a Russian bank account. Effective August 8, 2022, the requirement to repatriate foreign currency and the currency of the Russian Federation when carrying out foreign trade activities and (or) when providing and repaying loans by Russian legal entities and individual entrepreneurs is not applied (parts 1 and 2 of Article 19 of Federal Law No. 173-FZ were suspended).

Effective March 23, 2022, the BR set a moratorium until January 1, 2023, on the delisting of shares of foreign issuers, as well as depository receipts certifying the rights in respect of such shares admitted to organized trading by the decision of the Russian exchange pursuant to Clause 4 of Article 51.1 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ, of April 22, 1996, in the event of the delisting of these securities on a foreign exchange.

The Federal Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Foreign Exchange Control does not restrict the purchase of shares or other equity-based securities by nonresidents (either from nonresidents or from residents).

Special restrictions are in place for the banking and insurance sectors. There is 50% quota for the participation of foreign capital in the Russian banking system (Federal Law No. 395-1 of December 2, 1990, “On Banks and Banking Activities”). The quota for the participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies is set at 50% (Article 6 of Russian Federation Law No. 4015-1 of November 27, 1992, on the Organization of the Insurance Business in the Russian Federation).

The level of participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated as the ratio of foreign investments of nonresidents in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations to the total authorized capital of said credit institutions.

The calculation of foreign investments in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations does not include foreign investments:
(1) made in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations and financed by the profits earned by said credit institutions in the Russian Federation or repatriated to the Russian Federation from abroad;
(2) made by credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations that are subsidiaries of foreign banks in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations, and all subsequent investments by said institutions in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations;
(3) made before January 1, 2007, in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations;
(4) made in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations that were privatized after August 22, 2012;
(5) representing 51% or more of the shares (equity stakes) in the authorized capital of a credit institution licensed to perform banking operations and made after January 1, 2007, provided these shares (equity stakes) have been owned by the investor for 12 years or more, unless the BR has made a decision on expiration of said period to continue including said investments in the calculation and has published this decision. The procedure for the adoption of said decision by the BR and for its publication is established by the BR.

The amount of participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated by the BR following the procedure it has established as of January 1 of each year. Information about the amount of participation of foreign capital in the total authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations and the indicators used to calculate it are published in the Bulletin of the BR, the official publication of the BR, and they are also posted on the official website of the BR no later than February 15 of the current year.

For the purposes of said federal law, a quota is understood to mean the maximum level of participation of foreign capital in the total authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations, which is set at 50%.

When a quota is reached, the BR takes the following steps with respect to foreign investments:
(1) it refuses to register the credit institution with foreign investments and to issue it a license to perform banking operations;
(2) it prohibits any increase in the authorized capital of the credit institution with foreign investments at the expense of nonresidents’ funds and the transfer of shares (equity stakes) in the credit institution to nonresidents if the quota will be exceeded as a result of these actions.

Shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution that are transferred (sold) in violation of such a prohibition are not voting shares and are not taken into consideration when determining a quorum at a general meeting of the credit institution’s shareholders (stakeholders) during the period that the prohibition is in effect. In the event of the performance of a transaction (or transactions) to transfer (purchase) shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution in violation of said prohibition, the BR files suit to declare the relevant transaction(s) null and void.

The measures provided for under Article 18, part 6, of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking do not apply to foreign investments referred to under paragraphs 1 and 2 of part 2 of said article. The measures provided for under paragraph 2 of part 6 of said article do not apply to foreign investments intended for the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations as defined in accordance with regulatory acts of the BR on the basis of international agreements of the Russian Federation.

The BR terminates the application of measures provided for under part 6 of said article in the event that the level of participation of foreign capital in the total authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is less than 50%.

The BR is required to publish information about the application of measures provided for under part 6 of said article, the reasons for the application of such measures, and termination of the application of such measures in the Bulletin of the BR, the official publication of the BR, and also to post it on the official website of the BR.

The procedure for the application and termination of the application of measures provided for under part 6 of said article, and the procedure for the disclosure of information about the application, the reasons for the application, and termination of the application of these measures are established by regulatory acts of the BR.

Unless otherwise provided for by international agreements of the Russian Federation, the BR has the right, in consultation with the Russian Federation government, to establish restrictions on credit institutions with foreign investments with regard to the performance of banking operations, if restrictions are applied to banks with Russian investments and branches of Russian banks in the respective foreign states with regard to their creation and activities.

The BR has the right, following the procedure established in the Federal Law on the Central Bank of the Russian Federation (BR), to establish additional requirements for credit institutions with foreign investments in terms of their reporting procedures, approval of management personnel, and the list of banking operations performed.

The quota for the participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies is calculated by the BR as of January 1 following the procedure established by BR Directive No. 3386-U of September 22, 2014, on the Procedure for Calculation of the Level of (Quota for) the Participation of Foreign Capital in the Authorized Capital of Insurance Companies and Lists of Documents Needed to Obtain Approval from the BR for the Transfer of Shares (Equity Stakes in the Authorized Capital) of Insurance Companies to Foreign Investors and/or their Subsidiaries.

Insurance companies are required to obtain prior approval of the insurance supervisory authority for:
(1) an increase in the size of their authorized capital at the expense of funds of foreign investors;
(2) a transfer of their shares (equity stakes in their authorized capital) to foreign investors (including their sale to foreign investors), while
Russian shareholders (partners) are required to obtain prior approval of the insurance supervisory authority for the transfer of shares (equity stakes in the authorized capital) of an insurance company held by them to foreign investors.

If the quota for the participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies exceeds 50%, the insurance supervisory authority refuses to grant prior approval to insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors (parent companies) or in which the equity stake held by foreign investors in the authorized capital is more than 49% or would be as a result of such transactions (Russian Federation Law No. 4015-1 of November 27, 1992, on the Organization of the Insurance Business in the Russian Federation).

An insurance company that is a subsidiary of a foreign investor (a parent company) or in which the equity stake held by foreign investors in the authorized capital is more than 49%, which has obtained a license to perform insurance activities after August 22, 2012, has the right to perform insurance activities in the Russian Federation if the foreign investor (parent company) has been an insurance company doing business in accordance with the legislation of the relevant state for at least five years (Article 6 of Russian Federation Law No. 4015-1 of November 27, 1992, on the Organization of the Insurance Business in the Russian Federation).

With the aim of putting into place a legal foundation for the commercial presence of foreign insurance companies within the territory of the Russian Federation through branches created by them and creating conditions for their operation within the Russian Federation that are comparable to those for Russian insurance companies, Federal Law No. 343-FZ on Amendments to the Russian Federation Law on the Organization of the Insurance Business in the Russian Federation and Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation was adopted effective July 2, 2021. It defines conditions for the separate capitalization (a guarantee deposit) of a branch of a foreign insurance company. The minimum amount of a guarantee deposit for a branch of a foreign insurance company must be in line with the minimum amount of authorized capital of insurance companies depending on their type of business. The total value of minimum guarantee deposits of branches of foreign insurance companies is taken into account when calculating the level of participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies. Federal Law No. 343-FZ also provides for amendments to Law No. 4015-1, according to which there is no longer a requirement that an insurance company and/or its Russian partners obtain prior permission from the BR to increase the size of the insurance company’s authorized capital at the expense of funds of subsidiary companies of foreign investors and/or to transfer shares (stakes) in the insurance company’s authorized capital to a subsidiary of a foreign investor (including the sale thereof).

Transactions between nonresidents with domestic securities in Russia are performed under requirements set out in the antimonopoly law, the securities market law, and the Federal Law of November 21, 2011, No. 325-FZ, on organized trading.

Transactions resulting in control by a foreign investor or group of persons over business entities that are of strategic significance (that is, defense and state security) are subject to approval by the federal execute body authorized to carry out control functions over foreign investments in Russia.

Securities market law does not provide for special types of control of transactions between nonresidents involving domestic securities.

Prior or subsequent consent (approval) by the BR is required in the event of the acquisition by a legal entity or individual or group of individuals, defined in accordance with Article 9 of Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition, through the performance of one or several transactions, including those in the secondary market, of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) (including those acquired previously) in a credit institution, private pension fund, insurance company, investment fund management company, mutual investment fund or private pension fund, or microfinance company.

Effective February 28, 2022, the BR issued an order to brokerage companies, which introduced a ban on satisfying requests by foreign investors for the sale of securities. Furthermore, the payment of dividends to nonresidents was banned.

Effective March 1, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 81, a special procedure was established for performing transactions that entail the emergence of ownership of securities carried out with persons of unfriendly states. Such transactions may be performed based on a permit granted by the BR upon approval of the MOF. This replaced the order to brokerage firms and it is no longer in force.

Effective May 4, 2022, the special procedure established by Presidential Decree No. 81 of March 1, 2022, is not applied to (1) transactions that entail the emergence of ownership of shares or bonds of Russian legal entities and of which an entity from an unfriendly state is a party, and which are part of the same group of entities with Russian legal entities on the grounds provided for in paragraph 1 of part 1 of Article 9 Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, provided the payment for the shares or bonds is made in rubles, and (2) transactions that give rise to ownership of additional shares of Russian legal entities by foreigners related to unfriendly states, provided such foreign entities do not acquire the right to directly or indirectly dispose of more than 25% of the shares of a Russian legal entity.

Effective August 5, 2022, a ban was imposed until December 31, 2022, on transactions that directly and/or indirectly entail the establishment, change, termination or encumbrance of the rights of possession, and use and/or disposal of shares of Russian legal entities if these securities are owned by foreigners related to unfriendly states.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents: Yes.

Under the foreign exchange law, there are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of shares or other equity securities by nonresidents.

Specific aspects of the placement and trading of securities of foreign issuers in Russia are governed by the law on the securities market (specifically Article 51.1 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996)
, on the Securities Market), according to which: (1) Foreign financial instruments may be traded in Russia as securities of foreign issuers, provided the following conditions are met simultaneously: (a) the foreign financial instruments are assigned an international securities identification code (number) and an international financial instrument classification code and (b) the foreign financial instruments are classified as securities following the procedure established by the BR. (2) Securities of foreign issuers that meet the requirements of Paragraph 1 may be placed and/or publicly traded in Russia if the issuers are: (a) foreign entities established in countries that are OECD members, members or observers of the FATF, and/or members of the Committee of Experts on the Evaluation of Anti-Money-Laundering Measures and the Financing of Terrorism of the Council of Europe (MONEYVAL), and/or members of the Common Economic Space; (b) foreign entities established in countries that have the relevant agencies (relevant organizations) with which the federal executive agency responsible for the securities market has a cooperation agreement; (c) international financial institutions included in a list approved by the Russian government; (d) the foreign governments indicated in Points (a) and (b) and those countries’ autonomous CBs and administrative–territorial units; and (e) foreign organizations whose securities are listed on a foreign stock exchange that meets the criteria established by the BR in accordance with paragraph 4, Article 51.1. (3) Foreign issuers’ securities may be placed in Russia by a decision of the BR, provided the prospectus for these securities is registered by the BR. (4) Foreign issuers’ securities that meet the requirements of paragraphs 1 and 2 of Article 51.1 may be traded publicly in Russia based on a decision by a Russian exchange allowing for their organized trading. Such a decision may be made by a Russian exchange if the securities, other than securities of international financial institutions, are listed on a foreign exchange that meets the criteria established by the BR and no restrictions on the securities have been established by Russian law or international law. (5) International financial institutions’ securities may be publicly placed and/or traded in Russia, provided the conditions for the trading of these securities do not contain any restrictions regarding their trading among an unrestricted group of persons and/or the offering of the securities to an unrestricted group of persons.

The foreign exchange law does not prohibit the purchase abroad of shares or other equity securities by residents. There are certain restrictions: (1) the share of securities of foreign issuers and Russian depositary receipts in the composition of the aggregated investment portfolio consisting of funds intended for housing for military personnel may not exceed 30% (Federal Law No. 117-FZ of August 20, 2004, on the Mortgage Savings System to Provide Housing for Military Personnel); (2) nonstate pension funds that carry out compulsory pension insurance (a) may have assets in foreign currency in their portfolios in an amount not exceeding 30% of the value of the investment portfolio and (b) may have securities of international financial organizations, as well as units (stocks, shares) of foreign index investment funds (including securities receivables and/or securities to be transferred during the second part of the repo transaction) if the share of such instruments does not exceed 20% of the value of the investment portfolio (BR Regulation No. 580-P of March 1, 2017); and (3) the total share of bonds of foreign governments, securities of international financial organizations, shares and bonds of foreign issuers, and units (shares) of foreign investment funds in pension reserves cannot exceed 30%.
Effective July 1, 2021, BR Regulation No. 710-P of January 10, 2020, on Certain Requirements for the Financial Stability and Solvency of Insurers introduced new approaches to determining the financial stability and solvency of insurers and to calculating equity (capital), and it takes into consideration the risk of a change in the value of assets and liabilities when determining capital adequacy. An insurer’s equity capital is defined as the difference between the insurer’s total assets and liabilities. Regulation No. 710-P establishes a uniform list of permitted assets for the investment of insurance reserve funds and equity capital and the relevant requirements with minimum restrictions in terms of quality. Paragraph 2.2 of Regulation No. 710-P states: Assets in which the equity of an insurance company and insurance reserve funds of insurers may be invested must meet the following requirements: 2.2.1. The issuers of the securities must be created in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation or foreign states that are members of the EAEU, the OECD, or the EU, or China, India, Brazil, or South Africa; 2.2.2. The items, other than certificated bonds and shares, must be located (physically held) within the Russian Federation.

In addition to the indicator describing insurance risks assumed by an insurer (the regulatory solvency margin), a new indicator is introduced that describes the volume of risks assumed by an insurer in connection with its investment activity. An assessment of the impact of risks is performed for a one-year horizon, and it is estimated as the aggregate impact of concentration risk, the risk of a change in the credit spread, the risk of a change in interest rates, the risk of a change in share value, the risk of a change in the foreign exchange rate, the risk of a change in real estate prices, credit risk, and the risk of a change in prices for other assets. Previously, the total value of assets located outside the Russian Federation in which an insurer’s equity (capital) was invested could not exceed 35% of the regulatory solvency margin or the minimum amount of authorized capital (the larger of the two indicators) (BR Directive No. 4298-U of February 22, 2017).

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license.

Article 24 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking states that banks with a basic license have the right to perform operations and transactions, including those involving acquisition, only with securities listed on the first (highest) list of a trading organizer in whose capital the BR holds a stake, and securities that meet the requirements of the BR established in Directive No. 4979-U. Taking into consideration the requirements for the listing of securities on the first (highest) list established by Regulation No. 534-P and the stock exchange, securities of foreign issuers as well as securities denominated in foreign currency may be included in the list.

This law does not impose restrictions on: (1) the composition of counterparties of banks with a basic license in transactions with such securities, including those based on the private law of counterparties (other than transactions in which banks with a basic license act as creditors, considering the prohibition on lending to foreign persons) and (2) the possibility of the performance of transactions by banks with a basic license with such securities outside of the relevant stock exchange.
Compliance with the established requirements is evaluated by the BR within the context of banking supervision.

Banks with a universal banking license may have subsidiaries within the territory of a foreign state with the permission of the BR and in accordance with its requirements. There is no provision granting banks with a basic license the right to open a branch and/or subsidiary within the territory of a foreign state. General licenses to perform banking operations issued before June 1, 2017, remain in effect until they are replaced following the established procedure.

The BR does not issue permits to establish a subsidiary in states (territories) that are classified according to the procedure defined by Russian law as states (territories) that do not participate in international cooperation in combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

Effective March 18, 2022, making payments for stakes, deposits and shares in nonresidents assets, as well as contributions to the benefit of foreigners under simple partnership agreements require prior approval of the BR. Effective April 1, 2022, approval is not required if payment is made to a company from a friendly state and the payment is made in the currency of the friendly state or in rubles in an amount not to exceed 10 million rubles or an equivalent amount in foreign currency. Effective June 24, 2022, there is no limit for payments in rubles or in the currency of friendly states, and the limit is 15 million rubles or an equivalent amount in foreign currency for payments in the currency of unfriendly states.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

- Yes. The foreign exchange law does not prohibit the sale or issuance abroad of shares or other equity securities by residents. Under the law on the securities market, the placement and trading of securities of Russian issuers abroad require authorization by the BR.

Bonds or other debt securities

- Yes. Rules similar to the rules governing transactions with shares or other equity securities apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

- Yes. There are no restrictions on purchases of bonds or other debt securities by nonresidents from nonresidents or residents. Transactions between nonresidents with domestic securities must adhere to the requirements of the antimonopoly law and the securities market law.

Effective February 28, 2022, the BR issued an order to brokerage companies, which introduced a ban on satisfying requests by foreign investors for the sale of securities. Furthermore, the payment of coupons to nonresidents was banned.

Effective March 1, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 81, a special procedure was established for performing transactions that entail the emergence of ownership of securities carried out with persons of unfriendly states. Such transactions may be performed based on a permit granted by the BR upon approval of the MOF. This replaced the order to brokerage firms and it is no longer in force.

Effective May 4, 2022, the special procedure established by Presidential Decree No. 81 of March 1, 2022, is not applied to transactions that entail the emergence of ownership of shares or bonds of Russian legal entities and of which an entity from an unfriendly state is a party, and which are part of the same group of entities with Russian legal entities on the grounds provided for in paragraph 1 of part 1 of Article 9 Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, provided the payment for the shares or bonds is made in rubles.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

- Yes. Under the foreign exchange law, there are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of bonds or other debt securities by nonresidents.
Specific aspects of the placement and trading of securities of foreign issuers in Russia are governed by the law on the securities market (specifically Article 51.1 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market).

The foreign exchange law of Russia does not prohibit purchases of bonds or other debt securities by residents abroad. Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market does not impose requirements or restrictions on the acquisition by residents of securities abroad. When transferring securities, which were acquired abroad and are intended for qualified investors under the legislation on the Russian securities market, into Russia for registration, the holder of such securities must have the status of a qualified investor (pursuant to Article 51.1, paragraph 14, of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market, if the securities of foreign issuers have not be admitted for public placement and/or public circulation in the Russian Federation in accordance with this article, then the requirements and restrictions established by this Federal Law for the circulation of securities intended for qualified investors apply to the circulation of such securities. Pursuant to Article 27.6, paragraph 3, of Law No. 39-FZ, the acquisition and conveyance of securities intended for qualified investors, as well as the provision (acceptance) of said securities as collateral to ensure the fulfillment of obligations, may be performed only through brokers. This rule does not apply to investors who are qualified by virtue of federal law when they perform said transactions, or to cases in which a person has acquired said securities as a result of universal legal succession, conversion, including reorganization, distribution of the property of a legal entity being liquidated, as well as other cases established by the BR. Pursuant to Article 3, paragraph 5, of Law No. 39-FZ, a broker has the right to acquire securities intended for qualified investors and to enter into derivatives contracts intended for qualified investors, only if the client on whose behalf the transaction is being performed (the contract is being concluded) is a qualified investor in accordance with Article 51.2, paragraph 2, of this Federal Law or is recognized by the broker as a qualified investor in accordance with this Federal Law).

Article 24 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking states that banks with a basic license have the right to perform operations and transactions, including those involving acquisition, only with securities listed on the first (highest) list of a trading organizer in whose capital the BR holds a stake, and securities that meet the requirements of the BR established in Directive No. 4979-U. Taking into consideration the requirements for the listing of securities on the first (highest) list established by Regulation No. 534-P and the stock exchange, securities of foreign issuers as well as securities denominated in foreign currency may be included in the list.

This law does not impose restrictions on: (1) the composition of counterparties of banks with a basic license in transactions with such securities, including those based on the private law of counterparties (other than transactions in which banks with a basic license act as creditors, considering the prohibition on lending to foreign persons) and (2) the possibility of the performance of transactions by banks with a basic license with such securities outside of the relevant stock exchange.

Compliance with the established requirements is evaluated by the BR within the context of banking supervision.

The foreign exchange law of Russia does not prohibit the purchase or sale or issue abroad by residents.
issuance of bonds or other debt securities by residents outside of Russia. According to Article 16 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market, organization of the circulation of issue-grade securities of a Russian issuer outside the Russian Federation, including circulation through the placement of securities of foreign issuers certifying rights with respect to issue-grade securities of Russian issuers in accordance with foreign law, requires authorization by the BR.

Effective March 5, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 95 on the temporary procedure for fulfilling obligations to certain foreign creditors, debt repayment to nonresidents from unfriendly countries is done in rubles. Effective March 5, 2022, pursuant to Executive Order No. 95, of March 5, 2022, on debt repayment, (1) creditors who are residents of the Russian Federation and creditors from countries that have not joined sanctions against Russia may receive repayments on Russian residents’ current debt obligations within the respective periods in rubles in the amount of the ruble equivalent at the exchange rate as of the moment of the repayment or, provided there is a special permit, in the currency of the debt. The Executive Order does not restrict the use of rubles received by creditors, including with regard to foreign exchange transactions. (2) Ruble repayments on debt obligations to creditors from the countries that have imposed sanctions against Russia will be credited into C-type accounts opened with Russian and foreign credit institutions.

Effective June 22, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 394, payment on foreign currency debt (Eurobonds) may be done in rubles.

Compliance with the established requirements is evaluated by the BR within the context of banking supervision.

Banks with a universal banking license may have subsidiaries within the territory of a foreign state with the permission of the BR and in accordance with its requirements. There is no provision granting banks with a basic license the right to open a branch and/or subsidiary within the territory of a foreign state. Universal licenses to perform banking operations issued before June 1, 2017, remain in effect until they are replaced following the established procedure.

The BR does not issue permits to establish a subsidiary in states (territories) that are classified according to the procedure defined by Russian law as states (territories) that do not participate in international cooperation in combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.

The foreign exchange law of Russia does not prohibit the sale or issuance of money market instruments by residents outside of Russia. According to Article 16 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market, organization of the circulation of issue-grade securities of a Russian issuer outside the Russian Federation, including circulation through the placement of securities of foreign issuers certifying rights with respect to issue-grade securities of Russian issuers in accordance with foreign law, requires authorization by the BR.

On collective investment securities  Yes.

Rules similar to the rules governing transactions with shares or other equity securities apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Under the foreign exchange law, there are no restrictions on purchases of collective investment securities by nonresidents from nonresidents or residents. Transactions between nonresidents with domestic securities in Russia are performed under the requirements in the antimonopoly law and the securities market law.

The acquisition of more than 10% of the shares in private pension funds or more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) in investment fund, mutual fund, and private pension fund management companies requires the prior consent (subsequent approval) of the BR.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Under the foreign exchange law, there are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of collective investment securities by nonresidents. Specific aspects of the placement and trading of securities of foreign issuers in Russia are governed by the law on the securities market (specifically Article 51.1 of Federal Law No. 39-FZ of April 22, 1996, on the Securities Market).

By residents to nonresidents Yes.

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license. A bank with a basic license may not issue bank guarantees (the issuing of bank guarantees is not a banking operation, but it is considered a bank transaction on the basis of Article 5(3) (8) of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking) to foreign legal entities, foreign organizations that are not legal entities under foreign law, or individuals who are subject to the private law of a foreign state; perform leasing operations with said persons; or issue sureties on behalf of said persons. Such restrictions do not apply to banks with a universal license.

Compliance with the established requirements is evaluated by the BR within the context of banking supervision.

To residents from nonresidents No.

Controls on direct investment Yes.
Outward direct investment

Yes.

Direct investments by resident individuals and resident legal entities that are not credit institutions are permitted, provided the requirements of the foreign currency law of Russia are met (for example, those related to investments of pension funds).

There are no restrictions on direct investment by resident credit institutions associated with their acquisition of stocks (equity stakes) of foreign entities except when approval from the BR must be obtained following the established procedure. Such approval must be obtained to establish a subsidiary in a foreign state, and also to acquire the status of a parent company with respect to an existing nonresident organization in which a credit institution would have the ability to determine decisions made by the given organization’s management bodies by virtue of a dominant stake in the authorized capital, in accordance with an agreement that has been concluded, or in some other manner.

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license. Banks that have a universal license to perform banking operations and that meet the requirements of the BR may have subsidiaries (branches) abroad subject to authorization by the BR. There is no provision granting banks with a basic license the right to open a subsidiary within the territory of a foreign state. The BR does not issue authorization to establish subsidiaries in countries (in areas) that are included, in the manner specified by the laws of Russia, among those governments (areas) that do not participate in international cooperation in the area of combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Approval from the BR is required for transactions involving the acquisition of shares issued by a Russian credit institution, the placement and/or trading of which outside Russia is carried out through their placement in accordance with the foreign securities law pertaining to foreign issuers and granting rights with regard to issued securities of Russian issuers. The threshold for participation (individually or as part of a group of individuals) in Russian credit institutions without BR approval is 10%. (This restriction also applies with respect to residents of the Russian Federation.)

BR approval is also required when operations are performed that result in the establishment of control over shareholders (stakeholders) of a Russian credit institution who hold more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) in the given credit institution. (This restriction also applies with respect to residents of the Russian Federation.)

In accordance with the Treaty between Russia and Belarus on the creation of the Union State, the BR has established through Regulation No. 217-P that transfers of funds in rubles and in foreign currency for participation in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks, as well as the acquisition (disposal) of shares issued by Belarusian banks and stakes in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks, are to be carried out by authorized banks in accordance with Russian legislation on banks and banking, subject to notification requirements. Authorized banks are required to notify the BR regarding participation in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks following the procedure established by regulatory acts of the BR.

Inward direct investment

Yes.

Direct investments are subject to certain limitations:

1. Requirements have been established for foreign investors and groups of persons that include a foreign investor, for their investment in the authorized capital of business entities that are of strategic significance in providing for the national defense and state security, and/or for the completion of transactions resulting in the establishment of control over such business entities. In this connection, transactions carried out by foreign governments or international organizations or organizations under their control that result in acquisition of the right directly or indirectly to control more than 25% of the total number of votes attached to voting shares (equity stakes) constituting the authorized capital of a Russian business entity, or some other ability to block decisions of such a business entity’s governing authorities, are subject to approval in accordance with the procedures specified in Articles 9–12 of the Federal Law on the Procedure for Making Foreign Investments in Business Entities that are of Strategic Significance in Providing for the National Defense and State Security, except transactions in which the participants are international financial organizations established under international treaties to which Russia is a party or international financial organizations with which Russia has entered into international treaties. The list of those international financial organizations is approved by the Russian government (Resolution No. 119-R of the Russian Federation Government of February 3, 2012).

(2) In accordance with Federal Law No. 372-FZ of December 14, 2015, on Amendments to Articles 16 and 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking, adopted on the basis of the Russian Federation’s commitments in connection with accession to the WTO, the level of participation of foreign capital in the Russian Federation’s banking system is taken into account when considering whether the BR will issue a permit to establish a credit institution with foreign investments. Russian Federation law does not provide for the possibility of opening branches of foreign credit institutions within the territory of the Russian Federation. In accordance with federal laws, the BR performs state accreditation of representative offices of foreign credit institutions, as well as accreditation of foreign nationals who will be working at the representative offices.

The level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated as the ratio of nonresidents’ foreign investments in the authorized capital of credit institutions that are licensed to perform banking operations to the aggregate authorized capital of such credit institutions.

The procedure for calculating the level of participation of foreign capital is defined under Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking and BR Directive No. 3948-U of January 28, 2016, on the Procedure for Calculating the Level of Participation of Foreign Capital in the Aggregate Authorized Capital of Credit Institutions Licensed to Perform Banking Operations.

The following foreign investments are not included in the calculation of foreign investments in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations (Article 18, part 2):

(1) investments made in the authorized capital from the earnings of the credit institutions received in the Russian Federation or repatriated to the Russian Federation from abroad;

(2) investments made in the authorized capital by subsidiary credit institutions of foreign banks licensed to perform banking operations, and all subsequent investments by said institutions in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations; (3) investments made before January 1, 2007, in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations; (4) investments made in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations, the privatization of which was performed after August 22, 2012; (5) investments representing 51% or more of the shares (equity stakes) in the authorized capital of a credit institution licensed to perform banking operations, performed after January 1, 2007, on the condition that said shares (equity stakes) are held by an investor for 12 or more years, unless the BR has adopted a decision before the expiration of this time period to continue to include said investments in the calculation and has published this decision. The procedure for the adoption by the BR of such a decision and for its publication is established by the BR.

The maximum level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is 50%.

When the quota is reached, the BR performs the following measures with respect to foreign investments (Article 18, part 6): (1) it refuses to register a credit institution with foreign investments and to issue it a banking license; (2) it imposes a ban on an increase in the authorized capital of a credit institution licensed to perform banking operations using nonresidents’ funds and on the conveyance of shares (equity stakes) in the credit institution in favor of nonresidents if such actions mean that the quota will be exceeded. Shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution that have been conveyed (sold) in violation of such a ban are not voting shares and are not taken into account in determining a quorum at a general meeting of shareholders (stakeholders) of the credit institution for the period that such a ban is in effect. In the event that a transaction is performed to convey (acquire) shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution in violation of the ban, the BR files a petition requesting that the relevant transaction be declared null and void.

The measures provided for under the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking are not applied with respect to foreign investments referred to under Items 1 and 2 of the second part of Article 18 of the Law on Banks and Banking.

The measures provided for under Item 2 of the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking are not applied with respect to foreign investments intended for the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations as defined in accordance with regulatory acts of the BR on the basis of international agreements of the Russian Federation.

The BR ceases to apply the measures provided for under the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking in the event that the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is less than 50%. The level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated by the BR following the procedure it establishes as of January 1 of each year.
Information about the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations and about the indicators used for its calculation is subject to publication in the official publication of the BR, the Bulletin of the BR, and it is also posted on the official website of the BR no later than February 15 of the current year.

As of January 1, 2022, the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations was 10.73%;

(3) Restrictions have been established on the use of mineral resources by foreign investors and by legal entities in which foreign investors hold a stake.

(4) Restrictions apply on certain types of activities of insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors or have a foreign ownership stake in their authorized capital of over 49%, other than insurance companies that were subsidiaries of foreign investors on the date Federal Law No. 234-FZ of July 23, 2013, went into effect, if they were previously authorized for such activity. As of January 1, 2022, the quota for participation by foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies with an insurance license was 10.01%. A quota of 50% was set on foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies. If the level of (quota for) the participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies exceeds 50%, the insurance supervisory authority stops issuing insurance licenses to insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors (parent companies) or in which the equity stake held by foreign investors in the authorized capital is more than 49%. Insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors (parent companies), or in which the equity stake held by foreign investors in the authorized capital is more than 49%, may not provide personal life, health, or property insurance in the Russian Federation at the expense of funds allocated for these purposes from the respective budget to federal executive government authorities (insured parties); insurance related to the procurement of goods, work, and services to meet state and municipal needs; or insurance for the property interests of government and municipal organizations. These restrictions do not apply to insurance companies that were subsidiaries of foreign investors on the date Federal Law No. 204-FZ of November 20, 1999, went into effect, if they were previously authorized for such activity. Payment by foreign investors for the shares (equity stakes in authorized capital) of insurance companies held by them is performed exclusively in monetary form in the currency of the Russian Federation.

Insurance companies must obtain authorization for the following: (1) an increase in their authorized capital from funds of foreign investors and (2) transfers of shares (equity stakes in authorized capital) to a foreign investor (including for sale to foreign investors). Russian shareholders (stakeholders) must obtain authorization to transfer their shares (equity stakes) to foreign investors. The insurance supervisory authority refuses to grant prior authorization to insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors or that have a foreign ownership in their authorized capital exceeding 49% or that attain this status as a result of the transactions indicated if the established quota of 50% is not exceeded when completing such transactions.

Prior or subsequent consent (approval) from the BR is required in the event that a legal entity or individual, or a group of individuals defined in accordance with Article 9 of Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition, acquires more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution, private pension fund, insurance company, investment fund management company, mutual investment fund or private pension fund, or microfinance company (including those previously acquired) when performing one or several transactions, including transactions in the secondary market.

Prior or subsequent consent (approval) from the BR is also required when a legal entity or individual (or group of individuals) establishes direct or indirect (through third parties) control (including acquisition in the secondary market) with respect to the shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution (private pension fund, insurance company, investment fund management company, mutual investment fund or private pension fund, or microfinance company) who hold more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of said institution.

Foreign citizens, foreign legal entities, persons without citizenship, and legal entities in whose authorized (share) capital the stake of foreign citizens, foreign legal entities, or persons without citizenship is over 50% may hold land parcels for agricultural use only under a leasing arrangement.

Effective March 1, 2022, transactions entailing the emergence of ownership of real estate carried out with persons of unfriendly states may be performed based on a permit granted by the Government Commission for Monitoring Foreign Investment.

Effective March 1, 2022, transactions entailing the emergence of ownership of real estate carried out with persons of unfriendly states may be performed based on a permit granted by the Government Commission for Monitoring Foreign Investment.

Effective March 1, 2022, transactions for the provision of loans in foreign currency to any nonresident, as well as for the provision of credits (in foreign currency and rubles) and loans (in rubles) to nonresidents from unfriendly countries may be performed only based on a permit granted by the Government Commission on Monitoring Foreign Investment.

Effective March 5, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 95 on the temporary procedure for fulfilling obligations to certain foreign creditors, debt repayment to nonresidents from unfriendly countries is done in rubles. Effective March 5, 2022, pursuant to Executive Order No. 95, of March 5, 2022, on debt repayment, (1) creditors who are residents of the Russian Federation and creditors from countries that have not joined sanctions against Russia may receive repayments on Russian residents’ current debt obligations within the respective periods in rubles in the amount of the ruble equivalent at the exchange rate as of the moment of the repayment or, provided there is a special permit, in the currency of the debt. The Executive Order does not restrict the use of rubles received by creditors, including with regard to foreign exchange transactions. (2) Ruble repayments on debt obligations to creditors from the countries that have imposed sanctions against Russia will be credited into C-type accounts opened with Russian and foreign credit institutions. Effective June 22, 2022, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 394, payment on foreign currency debt (Eurobonds) may be done in rubles.

Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies
Yes.

The receipt as a result of a gift (endowment) of more than 10% of the stocks (shares) of a Russian credit institution, insurance company, microfinance company, private pension fund, or investment fund, mutual fund, and private pension fund management company requires the consent of the BR. When more than 10% of the stocks (shares) of a Russian credit institution, insurance company, microfinance company, private pension fund, or investment fund, mutual fund, and private pension fund management company are received through inheritance, the consent of the BR is considered to have been obtained. The heir must confirm that his business reputation meets the requirements established by law. In addition, the heir must meet these requirements on an ongoing basis and in the established cases must confirm compliance with the requirements regarding his financial position on an annual basis.

An insurance company is required to obtain authorization to transfer its shares (stakes in its authorized capital) to a foreign investor (including their sale to foreign investors). Russian shareholders (stakeholders) are required to obtain authorization to transfer shares (equity stakes) belonging to them to foreign investors and/or their subsidiaries. Insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors in which foreign investors hold a stake in the authorized capital of more than 49% and attain this status as a result of the transactions indicated may not be refused such authorization if the established quota of 50% is not exceeded when completing such transactions.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions
Yes. The term “credit institution” describes participants in the Russian banking sector. According to the Russian legislation, credit institutions include banks and nonbank credit institutions that carry out certain types of banking operations. The terms “nonresident bank,” “foreign bank,” and “foreign credit institution” are used for nonresidents. All credit institutions that perform banking operations in Russia must be residents. There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license. For banks with a basic license, there are restrictions with regard to the performance of activities with foreign counterparties: (1) there are restrictions on the performance of certain banking operations and transactions, for example, the issuing of credits to foreigners; (2) there are restrictions on their ability to open correspondent accounts at foreign banks; and (3) there are restrictions on their legal capacity in transactions with financial instruments (securities). At the same time, there are no provisions specific to banks with a basic license in terms of the performance of banking operations and transactions in foreign currency. In addition, there are provisions specific to cooperation by a central counterparty with foreign persons.

Effective February 22, 2022, financial institutions may recognize shares and bonds in reporting at their market value as of February 18, 2022, until October 1, 2022, and credit institutions may calculate required ratios using the foreign exchange rates as of February 18, 2022, until October 1, 2022.

Authorized banks may open correspondent accounts with banks abroad in accordance with the conditions determined by federal legislation.

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license.

A bank with a basic license is not permitted to open bank (correspondent) accounts at foreign banks, with the exception of the opening of an account at a foreign bank for the purpose of participating in a foreign payment system.

A bank with a universal license that has obtained the status of a bank with a basic license or that has changed its status to that of a nonbank credit institution, or a bank with a basic license that has changed its status to that of a nonbank credit institution, is required to abrogate a bank (correspondent) account agreement with a foreign bank within one year of the date such status is acquired. This restriction does not apply to cases in which an account is opened at a foreign bank for the purpose of participating in a foreign payment system.

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license. A bank with a basic license may not perform the placement of funds attracted for deposit, attract for deposit and place precious metals, open and maintain bank accounts in precious metals and perform transfers with them, issue bank guarantees (the issuing of bank guarantees is not a banking operation, but it remains a bank transaction) to foreign legal entities, to foreign organizations that are not legal entities under foreign law, or to individuals who are subject to the private law of a foreign state. A bank with a basic license does not have the right to acquire rights of claim against, to perform leasing operations with, or to issue sureties with respect to said entities.

Effective March 1, 2022, transactions for the provision of loans in foreign currency to any nonresident, as well as for the provision of credits (in foreign currency and rubles) and loans (in rubles) to nonresidents from unfriendly countries may be performed only based on a permit granted by the Government Commission on Monitoring Foreign Investment.
with a universal license. A bank with a basic license may not perform the placement of funds attracted for deposit, attract for deposit and place precious metals, open and maintain bank accounts in precious metals and perform transfers with them, issue bank guarantees (the issuing of bank guarantees is not a banking operation, but it remains a bank transaction) to foreign legal entities, to foreign organizations that are not legal entities under foreign law, or to individuals who are subject to the private law of a foreign state. A bank with a basic license does not have the right to acquire rights of claim against, to perform leasing operations with, or to issue sureties with respect to said entities.

The Federal Law on Banks and Banking does not establish any provisions specific to the performance of operations that involve lending to Russian citizens and legal entities in foreign currency by banks with a basic license.

Banks with a basic license have the right to grant credits to Russian citizens and legal entities in foreign currency if such a right is provided for by the license to perform banking operations.

Higher risk ratios:
Over a number of years, the BR has applied higher risk ratios for operations in foreign currency with both individuals and legal entities.
Specifically, as of April 1, 2017, the risk ratio for new unsecured consumer credits in foreign currency with a total cost of credit (TCC) of 20%–25% was raised to 600%. As of May 1, 2016, the risk ratio was raised to 110% for credits (and investments in securities) in foreign currency to legal entities without a sufficient reserve of foreign currency earnings to service the debt. The risk ratio was also raised to 130% for credits to legal entities in foreign currency intended for the purchase of real estate. As of July 1, 2018, the BR raised the risk ratios for credit claims (and investments in debt securities) in foreign currency on resident legal entities that are exporters to 110%. To encourage a further decline in lending in the riskiest segment, risk ratios on credit claims for the purchase of real estate were raised to 150%. All other claims on legal entities in foreign currency are weighted with a risk ratio that was raised to 130%. There is an exception according to which the new risk ratios are not applied to credit claims with direct or indirect guarantees by the Russian Federation (specifically, credit claims in foreign currency secured by an insurance policy provided by the Russian Export Insurance Agency, or EKSAR).

Macroprudential (sectoral) surcharges:
In connection with the transition to the use of a new macroprudential regulatory mechanism, the BR Board of Directors adopted a decision to apply as of October 8, 2018, risk ratio surcharges for the purpose of calculating the capital adequacy of credit institutions (macroprudential surcharges). Macroprudential surcharges were established with respect to certain types of assets in accordance with BR Directive No. 4892-U of August 31, 2018, on Types of Assets, Characteristics of Types of Assets for Which Risk Ratio Surcharges
Are Established, and the Methodology for Application of Surcharges to These Types of Assets for the Purpose of the Calculation of Capital Adequacy Ratios by Credit Institutions.
Taking into consideration the introduction of risk ratio surcharges to keep the overall level of capital requirements unchanged, the values of risk ratios for assets subject to surcharges were brought into line with their standard values provided for by Basel III. Thus, the establishment of macroprudential surcharges, including those for operations in foreign currency, did not result in an increase in the overall capital adequacy requirements for credit institutions. At this time, surcharges established by the BR with respect to the following types of operations in foreign currencies are in effect: (1) credits (loans) provided in foreign currency to borrowers that are individuals and legal entities; (2) investments in debt securities denominated in foreign currency.

For the purpose of supporting the economy in connection with the spread of the novel coronavirus infection, a decision was announced on March 13, 2020, not to apply surcharges to risk ratios on foreign currency credits provided from March 1, 2020, through September 30, 2020, to companies producing medicines and materials and equipment used for medical purposes, and also on investments made during this same period in debt securities of these companies denominated in foreign currency. A press release issued by the BR on August 10, 2020, extended the period until December 31, 2021, and is no longer valid effective January 1, 2022.

To ensure the sustainability of credit institutions under the restrictions imposed by Western countries, the BR implemented the following additional support measures:

(1) effective February 28, 2022, the accumulated macroprudential capital buffer was released for claims that arose before February 28, 2022, on loans granted to legal entities in foreign currency and on investments in debt securities denominated in foreign currency (158 billion rubles as of February 1, 2022); (2) effective February 28, 2022, add-ons to risk ratios were eliminated for banks’ credit claims to legal entities in foreign currency that arose on or after February 28, 2022; (3) effective February 28, 2022, the BR released the accumulated macroprudential capital buffer for unsecured consumer loans and mortgage loans in rubles and foreign currency (733 billion rubles as of February 1, 2022).

Effective March 3, 2022, the required reserve ratios were set for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in rubles (previously 4.75%) and foreign currency (previously 8%); for banks with a basic license to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities in rubles (previously 4.75%), as well as liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in foreign currency (previously 8%). The reserve requirement for banks holding a basic license remained 1% for liabilities to individuals and other liabilities in domestic currency.

Effective March 5, 2022, to decrease the regulatory burden related to the formation of required reserves for banks with a universal license.
and nonbank credit institutions on C-type accounts used in transactions pursuant to Executive Order No. 95, of March 5, 2022, these credit institutions have the right not to include liabilities in Russian rubles and foreign currency recognized in C-type accounts in calculating the required reserves.

Effective April 1, 2022, the procedure for calculating and regulating the amount of required reserves was simplified. Further, for banks with a basic license, the required reserves ratio was set at 1% for all categories of liabilities in rubles (previously it was 1% only for liabilities to individuals and other liabilities in domestic currency) and remained at 2% for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency.

Effective May 1, 2022, the required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency subject to such requirements was raised to 4% for both banks with a basic license and banks with a universal license.

Effective August 1, 2022, the required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in rubles subject to such requirements were increased for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions, as well as for all categories of liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency subject to such requirements: for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions the required reserve ratio was increased to 3% from 2% for all categories of liabilities in the national currency which are subject to reserve requirements (liabilities to nonresident legal entities and individuals, other liabilities); the required reserves ratio for banks with a basic license remained at 1% for all categories of liabilities in national currency; the required reserve ratio for liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency is increased to 5% from 4%.

The BR established the quick (N2), current (N3), and long-term (N4) liquidity ratios, which are defined as the ratio of assets to liabilities, taking into consideration maturities, amounts, types of assets and liabilities, and other factors, and are calculated for operations in all currencies, and no requirements have been established for separate compliance with them in rubles and/or other currencies.

According to Instruction No. 199-I, banks with a universal license must calculate N2, N3, and N4 ratios, whereas for banks with a basic license Instruction No. 183-I provides that they must calculate only the current liquidity ratio (N3).

A LCR developed in accordance with Basel III is applicable to systemically important credit institutions (SICIs) on a consolidated basis in the event that an SICI is the main credit institution of a banking group, or on an individual basis if an SICI has no banking group as defined for regulatory purposes. The LCR is calculated in accordance with the procedure established by BR Regulation No. 421-P of May 30, 2014, on the Procedure for the Calculation of the liquidity coverage indicator (LCI) (Basel III), taking into account the specific aspects established by BR Regulation No. 510-P of December 3, 2015, on the Procedure for the Calculation of the LCR (Basel III) by SICIs.

From January 1, 2016, the LCR was set at 70%.

From January 1, 2017, the LCR was set at 80%.

From January 1, 2018, the LCR was set at 90%.

From January 1, 2019, the LCR was set at 100%.

These minimum allowable numerical values were established by Regulation No. 510-P.

With the aim of establishing an effective liquidity risk management system, SICIs are required to perform separate calculations and forward information to the BR on the LCR values in rubles and in each significant foreign currency. In addition to deposits in rubles, only funds denominated in US dollars and euros, as well as funds denominated in the national currency of a foreign state (other than US dollar and euro) within the territory of which the bank’s branch or a participant of the banking group is located, may be treated as stable funds of individuals and small businesses with a lower outflow rate compared to funds classified as unstable, when all of the conditions for stability as defined by Basel III are met.

When determining the amount of highly liquid assets (HLAs), the procedure for the calculation of the LCI/LCR also provides for limiting the amount of assets denominated in certain foreign currencies to the amount of the net expected outflow of funds in the same foreign currency as established by Basel III (the outflow is calculated in accordance with Regulation No. 421-P/Regulation No.
510-P). At the same time, considering the initial shortage in the Russian banking sector of HLAs defined in accordance with Basel III, Regulation No. 510-P allows for the inclusion of HLAs denominated in US dollars, euros, Japanese yen, pounds sterling, and Swiss francs in the LCR numerator in an amount that exceeds the expected net outflow of funds in the same foreign currency, taking into consideration the restrictions established by Regulation No. 510-
P (alternative option (alternative liquidity approach (ALA)) 2).
No separate standards are applied in Russian banking regulation establishing requirements for coverage by liquid assets of deposits (liabilities) attracted by credit institutions in foreign or domestic currency.

In accordance with the Basel III standard, HLAs may be used to cover cash outflows during periods of instability, which may lead to a decrease in the actual LCR value below the minimum allowable level which is not considered in such a case as a non-compliance with the standard.

There is a structural liquidity ratio (the net stable funding ratio (NSFR)) developed in accordance with Basel III in effect for SICIs, which is applied on a consolidated basis if an SICI is the main credit institution of a banking group, or on an individual basis if a SICI has no banking group as defined for regulatory purposes. The NSFR is calculated according to the procedure established by BR Regulation
No. 596-P of July 26, 2017, on the Procedure for the Calculation of the Structural Liquidity Ratio (NSFR) (Basel III) by SICIs.
No separate standards establishing requirements for calculation of the NSFR in foreign or domestic currency are applied.

The classification of funds of individuals and small businesses into stable and unstable, including classification based on the currency, for the purpose of calculating the NSFR, is the same as that applied to the LCR as indicated above.

Effective February 25, 2022, to expand the capabilities of SICIs to manage their liquidity, the BR eases the LCR N26 (N27) applicable to these institutions. The BR will not apply sanctions against SICIs if they show a drop in the actual value of the above ratio resulted from both actual outflows of funds and depreciation of HLAs, as well as from limited opportunities to prolong fund raising agreements for longer than 30 calendar days with a simultaneous repayment of long-term obligations taken before. The measure is valid until December 31, 2022.

In accordance with Federal Law No. 353-FZ, the BR calculates and publishes on a quarterly basis the average market value of the total cost of consumer credit (loans) (TCC) in terms of percent per annum by categories of consumer credit (loans) defined by the BR.
The TCC restriction which does not allow to exceed the TCC at the time of signing the contract by more than 1/3 of the average market value of TCC was introduced by Federal Law No. 353-FZ as of July

Interest rate controls  Yes.

1, 2014. The average market TCC values by categories of consumer credits (loans) have been published since November 14, 2014. Directive No. 3495-U of December 18, 2014, established a moratorium on the application of the TCC restriction for the period from January 1, 2015, to June 30, 2015, because of a significant change in market conditions. Since July 1, 2015, the application of the specified TCC restriction mechanism has been implemented. Since July 1, 2019, the TCC restriction has been set at the smaller of the following values: 365% per annum or 1/3 of the average market value of TCC.

Effective July 3, 2022, the TCC restriction applies to relations arising in connection with the provision of loans (loans) to individuals for purposes not related to their entrepreneurial activities, and where the obligations of the borrowers are secured by a mortgage. In addition, effective July 3, 2022, consumer credits (loans) extended under government programs providing subsidies to creditors from the federal budget and (or) the budget of a constituent entity of the Russian Federation to compensate the creditors for their lost income on extended consumer credits (loans) are not taken into account when calculating the average market value of TCC.

In accordance with the Federal Law on the Insurance of Bank Deposits in the Russian Federation, the BR determines and discloses to an unrestricted group of persons on a monthly basis the base rate of return on deposits (by types of deposits grouped by one or several conditions of their placement at banks of the Russian Federation on the basis of monthly information submitted by banks to the BR on the maximum rate of return on deposits attracted). The base rate of return on deposits is determined to identify banks which exceed it and therefore pay an additional rate or a higher additional rate for insurance contributions to the mandatory deposit insurance fund. Information about base rate of return on deposits was first published by the BR for May 2015.

As of October 1, 2020, pursuant to Federal Law No. 163-FZ, new indicators of an excess base rate of return went into effect for the purpose of identifying banks that pay an additional rate or a higher additional rate for insurance contributions. An additional rate for insurance contributions is paid by a bank in the event that:

1. the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation (with the exception of deposits in the currency of the Russian Federation certified by savings certificates, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand) or the bank has entered into an agreement to change the terms of an agreement on a bank deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 2 percentage points but not more than 3 percentage points per annum;

2. the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in foreign currency (with the exception of deposits in foreign currency certified by savings certificates, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand) or the bank has entered into an agreement to change the terms of an agreement on a bank deposit in foreign currency offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 1 percentage point but not more than 1.5 percentage points per annum;
(3) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation certified by a savings certificate, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 3 percentage points but not more than 4 percentage points per annum;
(4) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in foreign currency certified by a savings certificate, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 2 percentage points but not more than 3 percentage points per annum.

A higher additional rate for insurance contributions is paid by a bank in the event that:
(1) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation (with the exception of deposits in the currency of the Russian Federation certified by savings certificates, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand) or the bank has entered into an agreement to change the terms of an agreement on a bank deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 3 percentage points per annum;
(2) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in foreign currency (with the exception of deposits in foreign currency certified by savings certificates, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand) or the bank has entered into an agreement to change the terms of an agreement on a bank deposit in foreign currency, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 1.5 percentage points per annum;
(3) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in the currency of the Russian Federation certified by a savings certificate, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits by more than 4 percentage points per annum;
(4) the bank has attracted during any month of the quarter even one deposit in foreign currency certified by a savings certificate, the terms of which do not provide for the right of the holder of the certificate to obtain the deposit on demand, offering the maximum rate of return on the deposit based on interest rates, taking into account other material gain and other terms for the attraction of the deposit in an amount that exceeds the base rate of return on deposits
Credit controls No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents No.

Reserve requirements No.

Reserve requirements are imposed on: (1) liabilities to nonresident legal entities (including nonresident banks) in rubles and/or in foreign currency; (2) liabilities to resident and nonresident individuals in rubles and/or in foreign currency; and (3) other liabilities in rubles and/or foreign currency.

Effective March 3, 2022, the required reserve ratios were set for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in rubles (previously 4.75%) and foreign currency (previously 8%); for banks with a basic license to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities in rubles (previously 4.75%), as well as liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in foreign currency (previously 8%). The reserve requirement for banks holding a basic license remained 1% for liabilities to individuals and other liabilities in domestic currency. Furthermore, the BR announced it would not sanction credit institutions which fail to average the required reserves in the averaging period from February 9 to March 8, 2022, if the amount of such failure does not exceed 20% of the amount set to be kept in correspondent accounts for this period.

Effective April 1, 2022, the procedure for calculating and regulating the amount of required reserves was simplified. Further, for banks with a basic license, the required reserves ratio was set at 1% for all categories of liabilities in rubles (previously it was 1% only for liabilities to individuals and other liabilities in domestic currency) and remained at 2% for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency.

Effective May 1, 2022, the required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency subject to such requirements was raised to 4% for both banks with a basic license and banks with a universal license.

Effective May 1, 2022, banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions are entitled not to include liabilities arising from settlements on foreign securities blocked by international settlement and clearing organizations when calculating the required reserves.

Effective August 1, 2022, the required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in rubles subject to such requirements were increased for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions, as well as for all categories of liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency subject to such requirements: for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions the required reserve ratio was increased to 3% from 2% for all categories of liabilities in the national currency which are subject to reserve requirements (liabilities to nonresident legal entities and individuals, other liabilities); the required reserves ratio for banks with a basic license remained at 1% for all categories of liabilities in national currency; the required reserve ratio for liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency is increased to 5% from 4%.

Liquid asset requirements No.

Interest rate controls No.

There is no difference in the methods for the regulation and monitoring of interest rates with regard to the accounts of residents and nonresidents.
Credit controls: No.

Investment regulations: Yes.

Abroad by banks: Yes.

There are two types of banks: those with a basic license and those with a universal license.

There are no restrictions on direct investment by resident credit institutions associated with their acquisition of stocks (stakes) of foreign entities except when leading to the establishment of subsidiaries abroad.

Banks with a universal banking license may have subsidiaries (branches) abroad subject to authorization and in accordance with BR requirements. There is no provision granting banks with a basic license the right to open a branch and/or subsidiary in a foreign state. General licenses issued before June 1, 2017, to perform banking operations remain in force until they are replaced in the prescribed manner.

The BR does not authorize subsidiaries in countries (areas) designated by Russian law among those that do not participate in international cooperation to combat money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

Approval from the BR is required for transactions involving the acquisition of shares and/or their receipt in trust that are issued by a Russian credit institution, the placement and/or trading of which outside Russia is carried out through their placement in accordance with the foreign securities law pertaining to foreign issuers and granting rights with regard to issued securities of Russian issuers.

The threshold for participation (individually or as part of a group of individuals) in a Russian credit institution without BR consent is 10%. (This restriction applies to residents of the Russian Federation as well.)

BR approval is also required when operations are performed that result in the establishment of control over shareholders (equity stakeholders) of a Russian credit institution holding more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) in the credit institution. (This restriction applies to residents of the Russian Federation as well.)

Prior or subsequent consent (approval) by the BR is required in the event of the acquisition by a legal entity or individual or group of individuals, defined in accordance with Article 9 of Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition, through the performance of one or several transactions, including those in the secondary market, of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) (including those acquired previously) in a private pension fund, insurance company, investment fund management company, mutual investment fund or private pension fund, or microfinance company.

Prior or subsequent consent (approval) by the BR is also required when a legal entity or individual (or group of individuals) establishes direct or indirect (through third parties) control (including acquisition in the secondary market) over shareholders (stakeholders) (of a private pension fund, insurance company, investment fund management company, mutual investment fund or private pension fund, or microfinance company) that hold more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) in said organization.

In accordance with the Treaty between Russia and Belarus on the... creation of the Union State, the BR has established that transfers of funds in rubles and in foreign currency for participation in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks, as well as the acquisition (disposal) of shares issued by Belarusian banks, and stakes in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks, are to be carried out by authorized banks in accordance with Russian legislation on banks and banking, subject to notification requirements. Authorized banks are required to forward information to the BR regarding participation in the authorized capital of Belarusian banks following the procedure established by regulatory acts of the BR.

In accordance with BR Instruction No. 199-I, investments by Russian banks abroad are included on a general basis in the calculation of required ratios limiting credit risk and concentration risk. Thus, it established the following mandatory requirements to limit investments in shares/equity stakes:

1. The ratio limiting the use of the bank’s equity (capital) for the acquisition of shares (equity stakes) of other legal entities (N12): the maximum value of this ratio is set at 25%. It regulates (limits) the total risk of the bank's investments in shares (equity stakes) of other legal entities and sets the ceiling for the ratio between the amounts invested by the bank to acquire shares (equity stakes) of other legal entities and the bank's equity (capital) (however, investments in shares (equity stakes) of credit institutions that are members of their banking group are not included in the calculation of the N12 ratio).

2. In addition, to limit the concentration risk, a maximum limit of risk per borrower or a group of related borrowers (N6) and a maximum limit of risk per person connected with a bank (a group of persons connected with a bank) (N25) are established, with all claims to the counterparty, including investment in its shares/equity stakes, included in their calculation.

The maximum allowable value of N6 ratio is 25%, and that of N25 ratio is 20%. The procedure for calculating N6 and N25 ratios is defined in Chapters 6 and 8 of Instruction No. 199-I. Therefore, with regard to the calculation of the mandatory ratios, specific features of the regulation of banks’ investments abroad have not been established.

Directive No. 1584-U of June 22, 2005, establishes requirements for setting aside bigger amounts of reserves for potential losses from operations with residents of offshore zones, based on the group in which the offshore zone is included, in accordance with Directive No. 1317-U of August 7, 2003. For operations with countries and jurisdictions that are included in the 2nd group of offshore zones, the reserve is to be established in the amount of 25%, for those included in the 3rd group – in the amount of 50%.

In accordance with the requirements (paragraphs 2.2.9 (2.2.9.2, 2.2.9.3), 2.4.3 (2.4.3.2), 2.4.4 (2.4.4.2), 3.2.3 (3.2.3.2), and 3.2.4 (3.2.4.2)) of Regulation No. 646-P, which defines the methodology for calculating the regulatory capital of credit institutions, investments by a credit institution in ordinary shares (stakes) of financial institutions (including nonresident financial institutions) are recognized as a reduction in the capital of the credit institution in the manner corresponding to Basel III standard.

The acquisition and/or receipt in trust of more than 1% of the shares in banks by nonresidents Yes.
(equity stakes) of a credit institution resulting from the performance of one or more transactions by a single legal entity or individual, or group of persons defined in accordance with Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition, must be reported to the BR (with the exception of cases in which the shares (equity stakes) are acquired when a credit institution is being established). The threshold for participation in a Russian credit institution without BR consent is 10%. (This restriction applies to residents of the Russian Federation as well.) BR consent is also required for the establishment by a legal entity or an individual, as a result of the performance of one or more transactions, of direct or indirect (through third parties) control over shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution holding more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of the credit institution. (This restriction applies to residents of the Russian Federation as well.)

These requirements also apply to the acquisition of more than 1% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution, more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution, and/or the establishment of control with respect to shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution by a group of persons recognized as such in accordance with Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition.

The BR has the right to refuse to give its consent for the performance of a transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution and/or at gaining control of shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution if:

1. the financial condition of the person performing the transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution, or at the acquisition of 10% or less of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution, and that is part of a group of persons acquiring (holding) more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution, as well as an individual or legal entity exercising control over said legal entities, and/or at gaining control of shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution, is found to be unsatisfactory;
2. the antimonopoly authority has not approved a petition for consent to a transaction (or transactions) submitted in accordance with Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, on the Protection of Competition, if the transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition is (are) subject to controls in accordance with the antimonopoly legislation;
3. there is no decision regarding prior consent to a transaction or to the acquisition of control in accordance with Federal Law No. 57-FZ of April 29, 2008, on the Procedure for Making Foreign Investments in Business Entities that are of Strategic Significance in providing for the National Defense and State Security, if the transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition is (are) subject to controls in accordance with said federal law;
4. the person performing the transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution and/or at gaining control of shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution or their single-member executive bodies, has an unsatisfactory business reputation as established under Article 16, part 1, paragraph 5, of Federal Law No. 395-1 of December 2, 1990, on Banks and Banking;
5. there are other grounds provided for under federal laws and BR regulations adopted in accordance with them.
The BR refuses to consent to a transaction (or transactions) aimed at the acquisition of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution and/or at gaining control of shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution if a court previously found the person performing the transaction aimed at the acquisition of more than 10% of the shares (equity stakes) of a credit institution and/or at gaining control of shareholders (stakeholders) of a credit institution, guilty of causing losses to any credit institution in the performance of his duties as a member of the credit institution’s board of directors (or supervisory board), as the sole executive officer of the credit institution or a deputy executive officer, and/or as a member of a collegial executive body (executive board, administrative board).

Establishment of a Russian credit institution with the participation of foreign investments requires prior authorization from the BR. According to the Regulation on Specific Aspects of the Registration of Credit Institutions with Foreign Investments and the Procedure for Obtaining Prior Authorization from the BR to Increase the Authorized Capital of a Registered Credit Institution Using Funds from Nonresidents (approved by BR Order No. 02-195 of April 23, 1997), prior authorization is understood to mean obtaining consent in principle from the BR for participation by a specific nonresident in the establishment of a resident credit institution.

In accordance with Federal Law No. 372-FZ of December 14, 2015, on Amendments to Articles 16 and 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking, adopted on the basis of the Russian Federation’s commitments in connection with accession to the WTO, the level of participation of foreign capital in the Russian Federation’s banking system is taken into account when considering whether the BR will issue a permit to establish a credit institution with foreign investments.

The level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated as the ratio of nonresidents’ foreign investments in the authorized capital of credit institutions that are licensed to perform banking operations to the aggregate authorized capital of said credit institutions.

The procedure for calculating the level of participation of foreign capital is defined under Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking and BR Directive No. 3948-U of January 28, 2016, on the Procedure for Calculating the Level of Participation of Foreign Capital in the Aggregate Authorized Capital of Credit Institutions Licensed to Perform Banking Operations.

The following foreign investments are not included in the calculation of foreign investments in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations:

1. investments made in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations that are financed at the expense of earnings of said credit institutions received in the Russian Federation or are repatriated to the Russian Federation from abroad;
2. investments made in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations by subsidiary credit institutions of foreign banks licensed to perform banking operations, and all subsequent investments by said institutions in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations;
3. investments made before January 1, 2007, in the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations;
4. investments made in the authorized capital of credit institutions...
licensed to perform banking operations, the privatization of which was performed after August 22, 2012;
(5) investments representing 51% or more of the shares (equity stakes) in the authorized capital of a credit institution licensed to perform banking operations, performed after January 1, 2007, on the condition that said shares (equity stakes) are held by an investor for 12 or more years, unless the BR has adopted a decision before the expiration of this time period to continue to include said investments in the calculation and has published this decision. The procedure for the adoption by the BR of such a decision and for its publication is established by the BR.

The maximum level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is 50% (Federal Law No. 395-1 of December 2, 1990, “On Banks and Banking Activities”).

When the maximum level is reached, the BR performs the following measures with respect to foreign investments:
(1) it refuses to register a credit institution with foreign investments and to issue it a banking license;
(2) it imposes a ban on an increase in the authorized capital of a credit institution licensed to perform banking operations using nonresidents’ funds and on the conveyance of shares (equity stakes) in the credit institution in favor of nonresidents if such actions mean that the quota will be exceeded.

Shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution that have been conveyed (sold) in violation of such a ban are not voting shares and are not taken into account in determining a quorum at a general meeting of shareholders (stakeholders) of the credit institution for the period that such a ban is in effect. In the event that a transaction is performed to convey (acquire) shares (equity stakes) in a credit institution in violation of the ban, the BR files a petition requesting that the relevant transaction be declared null and void.

The measures provided for under the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking are not applied with respect to foreign investments referred to under Items 1 and 2 of the second part of Article 18 of the Law on Banks and Banking.

The measures provided for under Item 2 of the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking are not applied with respect to foreign investments intended for the authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations as defined in accordance with regulatory acts of the BR on the basis of international agreements of the Russian Federation.

The BR ceases to apply the measures provided for under the sixth part of Article 18 of the Federal Law on Banks and Banking in the event that the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is less than 50%.

The level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations is calculated by the BR following the procedure it establishes as of January 1 of each year.

Information about the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations and about the indicators used for its calculation is subject to publication in the official publication of the BR, the Bulletin of the BR, and it is also posted on the official website of the BR no later than February 15 of the current year.

As of January 1, 2022, the level of participation of foreign capital in the aggregate authorized capital of credit institutions licensed to perform banking operations was 10.73%.

BR Regulation No. 626-P of December 28, 2017, established the procedure and criteria for assessing the financial position of individuals who perform a transaction aimed at acquiring more than 10% of shares of a credit institution and/or gaining control of shareholders of the credit institution. BR Regulation No. 625-P establishes the procedure for assessing the compliance by such persons with business reputation requirements. In accordance with the BR Instruction No. 199-I, investments in banks by nonresidents are included following common procedure (similar to residents’ investments in banks) in the calculation of the maximum risk limit per person connected with the bank (group of persons connected with the bank) (N25) the maximum allowable numerical value of which is 20%.

Effective February 18, 2022, the BR will not apply measures to credit institutions if they fail to comply with the fixed limits relative to open currency positions in individual foreign currencies and precious metals; total amount of all open currency positions in foreign currencies and precious metals; and the balancing position in rubles provided the said failure is caused externally, and banks do not use the above easing for speculative purposes. This measure is valid until July 1, 2022. On February 28, 2022, the BR clarified that this measure applies to banks subject to foreign sanctions. Effective July 1, 2022, the measures were extended until December 31, 2022. Banks must fully comply with the open currency positions limits by January 1, 2023.

Effective May 13, 2022, the BR will not apply until December 31, 2022, measures to banks for non-compliance with the open currency position limits in US dollars and/or euros provided the positions are oppositely directed (a long position versus a short position and vice versa) and have sufficient mutual compensation (the largest in absolute value of the two positions in ruble equivalent should not exceed the smallest by more than 10%). Also, the BR will not apply measures for consequential non-compliance with the total open currency position limit unless such non-compliance exceeds 15 percentage points. This relief will allow banks to carry out internal hedging of opposite open currency positions in US dollars and euros, which will reduce the costs of regulating positions in these currencies with the capital risks to be greatly limited.

The absolute values of the net open foreign exchange positions of a credit institution in individual foreign currencies and precious metals

The calculation of the value of open foreign exchange positions includes balance-sheet assets and liabilities, as well as off-balance-sheet claims and liabilities of a credit institution, the amount (value) of which depends on changes in the exchange rates of foreign currencies against the ruble set by the BR and/or the prices for precious metals, when a foreign exchange revaluation of these assets (claims) and liabilities has a direct current or deferred impact on the amount of the credit institution’s equity (capital) (regardless of the jurisdiction of the counterparty).

Open foreign exchange position limits must also be observed at the level of a banking group.

On nonresident assets and liabilities  Yes.

The absolute values of the net open foreign exchange positions of a credit institution in individual foreign currencies and precious metals and the balancing position in rubles for all foreign currencies and precious metals are limited to 10% of the value of the credit institution’s equity (capital). The absolute value of the total of all long (short) net open foreign exchange positions of a credit institution in individual foreign currencies and precious metals is limited to 20% of the value of the credit institution’s equity (capital). The limits are subject to calculation and observance on a daily basis. The calculation of the value of open foreign exchange positions includes balance-sheet assets and liabilities, as well as off-balance-sheet claims and liabilities of a credit institution, the amount (value) of which depends on changes in the exchange rates of foreign currencies against the ruble set by the BR and/or the prices for precious metals, when a foreign exchange revaluation of these assets (claims) and liabilities has a direct current or deferred impact on the amount of the credit institution’s equity (capital) (regardless of the jurisdiction of the counterparty).

Open foreign exchange position limits must also be observed at the level of a banking group.

Provisions specific to institutional investors  Yes.

Temporary measures, including regulatory concessions, of the BR to ensure financial stability and continuity of operations of financial institutions under conditions of materialization of sanctions risks are published on the official website of the BR.

Insurance companies  Yes.

Restrictions apply on certain types of activities of insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors or have a foreign ownership stake in their authorized capital of over 49%, other than insurance companies that were subsidiaries of foreign investors on the date Federal Law No. 234-FZ of July 23, 2013, went into effect, if they were previously authorized for such activity.

Thus, said insurance companies may not provide personal life, health, or property insurance in the Russian Federation at the expense of funds allocated for these purposes from the respective budget to federal executive government authorities (insured parties); insurance related to the procurement of goods, work, and services to meet state and municipal needs; or insurance for the property interests of government and municipal organizations. A quota of 50% is set on foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies pursuant to Federal Law No. 267-FZ of December 25, 2012. If this percentage is exceeded, the insurance supervisory authority stops issuing licenses for the performance of insurance activities to insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors or have a foreign ownership stake in their authorized capital over 49%. As of January 1, 2022, the quota for participation by foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies with an insurance license was 10.01% (the BR calculates and publishes this indicator on its official website on an annual basis in accordance with Article 6, paragraph 3, of Law No. 4015-1).

Insurance companies must obtain authorization for the following: (1) an increase in their authorized capital from funds of foreign investors and/or their subsidiaries and (2) transfers of shares (equity stakes in authorized capital) to a foreign investor (including for sale to foreign investors). Russian shareholders (stakeholders) must obtain authorization to transfer their shares (equity stakes) to foreign investors and/or their subsidiaries. The insurance supervisory authority denies prior authorization to insurance companies that are subsidiaries of foreign investors or that have a foreign ownership in their authorized capital exceeding 49% that attain this status as a result of the transactions indicated if the established quota of 50% is exceeded when completing such transactions. In addition, foreign investors pay for the shares (equity stakes in authorized capital) belonging to them exclusively in monetary form in the currency of the Russian Federation.

Effective July 1, 2021, BR Regulation No. 710-P of January 10, 2020, on Certain Requirements for the Financial Stability and Solvency of Insurers introduced new approaches to determining the financial stability and solvency of insurers and to calculating equity (capital), and it takes into consideration the risk of a change in the value of assets and liabilities when determining capital adequacy. An insurer’s equity capital is defined as the difference between the insurer’s total assets and liabilities. Regulation No. 710-P establishes a uniform list of permitted assets for the investment of insurance reserve funds and equity capital and the relevant requirements with minimum restrictions in terms of quality. Paragraph 2.2 of BR Regulation No. 710-P states: Assets in which the equity of an insurance company and insurance reserve funds of insurers may be invested must meet the following requirements: 2.2.1. The issuers of the securities must be created in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation or foreign states that are members of the EAEU, the OECD, or the EU, or China, India, Brazil, or South Africa; 2.2.2. The items, other than certificated bonds and shares, must be located (physically held) within the Russian Federation. There are no limits on property rights (including noncash funds, uncertificated securities, digital rights, rights of claim against individuals and legal entities). According to the Regulation, when determining the actual amount of an insurance company’s equity, the value of certain types of assets is equal to 0. In addition to the indicator describing insurance risks assumed by an insurer (the regulatory solvency margin), a new indicator is introduced that describes the volume of risks assumed by an insurer in connection with its investment activity. An assessment of the impact of risks is performed for a one-year horizon, and it is estimated as the aggregate impact of concentration risk, the risk of a change in the credit spread, the risk of a change in interest rates, the risk of a change in share value, the risk of a change in the foreign exchange rate, the risk of a change in real estate prices, credit risk, and the risk of a change in prices for other assets.

Previously, the total value of assets located outside the Russian Federation in which an insurer’s equity (capital) was invested could not exceed 35% of the regulatory solvency margin or the minimum amount of authorized capital (the larger of the two indicators) (BR Directive No. 4298-U of February 22, 2017).

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

| No. |

There are no minimum requirements for investments locally.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

| No. |

There are no net currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition. There is only an overall indirect indicator—the regulatory ratio of equity (capital) to liabilities assumed by an insurance company, which takes into account foreign exchange risk.

For nonstate pension funds carrying the mandatory pension insurance, (1) assets denominated in a foreign currency must make up no more than 30% of the value of the investment portfolio and (2) securities of international financial institutions, as well as participation units (shares, stakes) of foreign index investment funds (including securities expected to be obtained and/or subject to transfer under the second part of a repurchase agreement) must, together, constitute no more than 20% of the value of the investment portfolio.

The total share accounted for by bonds of foreign states, securities of international financial institutions, bonds of foreign issuers, shares of foreign issuers, and units (shares, stakes) of foreign investment funds may constitute no more than 30% of pension reserves (resources intended for fulfilling obligations under voluntary insurance agreements).

For nonstate pension funds carrying the mandatory pension insurance, (1) assets denominated in a foreign currency must make up no more than 30% of the value of the investment portfolio and (2) securities of international financial institutions, as well as participation units (shares, stakes) of foreign index investment funds (including securities expected to be obtained and/or subject to transfer under the second part of a repurchase agreement) must, together, constitute no more than 20% of the value of the investment portfolio.

The total share of bonds of foreign states, securities of international financial organizations, bonds of foreign issuers, shares of foreign issuers, and participation shares (shares, equity stakes) of foreign investment funds may constitute no more than 30% of pension reserves (resources intended for fulfilling obligations under voluntary insurance agreements).

Controls on the use of domestic currency

For current transactions and payments 04/01/2022 Natural gas transactions executed after this date that involve resident companies taking part in foreign economic activities that have exclusive rights to export natural gas must be made in rubles under the foreign trade contracts with foreign entities if the natural gas supplies are sent to foreign states that commit unfriendly actions as regards the Russian Federation and Russian legal and physical entities. The same procedure applies to contracts for natural gas supplies signed with foreign entities and registered in the above foreign states.

For capital transactions
Pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 95 on the temporary procedure for fulfilling obligations to certain foreign creditors, debt repayment to nonresidents from unfriendly countries is done in rubles.

Pursuant to Executive Order No. 95, of March 5, 2022, on debt repayment, (1) creditors who are residents of the Russian Federation and creditors from countries that have not joined sanctions against Russia may receive repayments on Russian residents’ current debt obligations within the respective periods in rubles in the amount of the ruble equivalent at the exchange rate as of the moment of the repayment or, provided there is a special permit, in the currency of the debt. The Executive Order does not restrict the use of rubles received by creditors, including with regard to foreign exchange transactions. (2) Ruble repayments on debt obligations to creditors from the countries that have imposed sanctions against Russia will be credited into C-type accounts opened with Russian and foreign credit institutions.

Pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 394, payment on foreign currency debt (Eurobonds) may be done in rubles.

To ensure financial stability, a ban was introduced on the export of cash foreign currency from the Russian Federation in an amount exceeding the equivalent of US$10,000.

Credit institutions may open an account for a natural person without his/her personal presence (or that of a legal representative) in case of transfer by this natural person of funds from an account opened at one credit institution to another credit institution, if simultaneously with making such a transfer, the credit institution carrying out the transfer also transmits to the other credit organization information identifying the natural person.

During a calendar month, resident individuals may transfer no more than US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency from their accounts with Russian banks to another individual abroad who is a resident (excluding resident relatives) or any nonresident. When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is also US$5,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.

Resident account holders of foreign currency accounts may withdraw up to US$10,000 in cash, and any amount above that may be withdrawn in rubles at the market rate on the day of withdrawal. The currency is issued in US dollars regardless of the currency of the accounts. Converting other currencies to US dollar takes place at the market rate on the day of issue. Residents may open new foreign currency accounts, but withdrawal from them is possible in rubles at the market rate on the day of withdrawal. Banks may not sell cash currency to citizens. Changing cash foreign currency for rubles may be done at any time and in any volume. The measure is in force until September 9, 2022.

Banks may not charge fees on individuals for withdrawing foreign currency from deposits or accounts regardless of the currency of the account, or fees for foreign currency conversion into US dollars if the conversion is carried out for subsequent cash withdrawal. The measure is in force until September 9, 2022.

Resident legal entities and individual proprietors may receive cash in US dollars, Japanese yen, British pounds, and euros in an amount not exceeding US$5,000 and only to cover expenses for foreign business trips. For any other currencies, they may receive cash on the grounds provided for by Russian laws, without any restrictions, at the market exchange rate on the withdrawal date. The measure is in force until September 9, 2022.

03/12/2022

For funds received as a transfer from a bank outside of the Russian Federation as well as for funds from electronic wallets, withdrawals are made exclusively in rubles. The conversion must be made at the banks’ exchange rates and the amount paid may not be lower than the amount calculated as of the payment date at the BR official foreign currency exchange rates against the ruble for the conversion of other currencies.

04/01/2022

During a calendar month, resident individuals may transfer no more than US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency (previously US$5,000) from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident), resident individuals of friendly countries, and resident individuals of unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation.

04/11/2022

Withdrawal from foreign currency accounts may be done not only in US dollars, but also in euros.

04/18/2022

Banks may sell available foreign currency but only that obtained after April 9, 2022.

05/16/2022

During a calendar month, residents of Russia and nonresidents from friendly countries may transfer no more than US$50,000 or an equivalent amount in another currency (previously US$10,000) from their accounts with Russian banks to their foreign accounts or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). Resident individuals of friendly and unfriendly countries who receive wages or payments for services in the Russian Federation may transfer the total amount of their compensation through their account or without opening an account.

05/20/2022

Banks may sell any foreign currency cash to citizens without restrictions except US dollars and euros. Restrictions on the US dollar and the euro cash sales remain in force, and until September 9, 2022, citizens may buy only those US dollars and euros that have been received at banks’ cash desks after April 9, 2022.

05/31/2022

The provisions of Instruction No. 181-I with regard to a failure to provide an authorized bank with documents related to the performance of operations pertain to residents that have concluded foreign trade agreements with nonresidents, the obligations under which do not exceed 600,000 rubles (previously 200,000 rubles).

06/08/2022

During a calendar month, Russian resident individuals may transfer up to US$150,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). When money transfers are made through companies providing such services without opening an account, the monthly limit is US$10,000 or an equivalent amount in foreign currency (previously US$5,000).

07/01/2022

During a calendar month, Russian resident individuals may transfer up to US$1 million or the equivalent in other foreign currencies (previously US$150,000) from their Russian bank accounts to their accounts abroad or to another individual abroad (resident or nonresident). This measure is in force until September 30, 2022.

09/10/2022

The measure on the charging by banks of fees on individuals for US dollar withdrawals from foreign currency accounts regardless of the currency of an account, and fees for foreign currency conversion into US dollars when it is made to then withdraw cash in US dollars in force since March 9, 2022, was extended until March 9, 2023.
09/10/2022  The conditions for withdrawals from resident foreign currency accounts in force since March 9, 2022, were extended until March 9, 2023.

09/10/2022  The measure that for funds received as a transfer from a bank outside of the Russian Federation as well as for funds from electronic wallets, withdrawals are made exclusively in rubles, is no longer in force.

09/10/2022  The measure on resident legal entities and individual proprietors cash withdrawals in force since March 10, 2022, was extended until March 9, 2023.

01/01/2021  Residents’ accounts at banks outside Russia may be credited with transfers of foreign currency by resident individuals from their accounts at authorized banks to pay for goods delivered to them, work performed for them, services provided to them, information and intellectual property provided to them, including exclusive rights thereto, by resident individuals who have spent a total of more than 183 days outside the Russian Federation in a calendar year and who are engaged in entrepreneurial activity without incorporation as a legal entity in accordance with the legislation of the foreign state in which they are located, to accounts (deposits) of such individuals opened at banks located outside the Russian Federation.

07/02/2021  In cases when regulatory legal acts of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation or the legislation of a foreign state or association of foreign states require the provision of security for the fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements concluded with nonresidents, the following funds from nonresidents may be credited to the accounts of resident legal entities that are qualified investors or professional participants in the securities market, which have been opened at banks located outside the Russian Federation: (1) those provided as security for the fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements; (2) those paid as a refund for funds previously paid by such residents, including the return of funds transferred in error and the return of funds when they are no longer serving as security for the fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements; (3) those paid in the form of interest, coupon income, dividends, or other income on funds or other assets offered as security for the fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements or recorded on the resident’s accounts after the funds and/or other assets were posted to these accounts in accordance with this federal law; (4) those paid in the form of proceeds from the sale of security for fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements when collection action is taken; (5) those paid on securities provided as collateral for fulfillment of obligations under financial agreements or recorded on the resident’s accounts after they were posted to these accounts in accordance with this federal law, in the form of redemption (or partial redemption) of securities, as well as income from the buyback of securities by their issuer, from the sale of securities on the basis of a voluntary offer, including a competitive offer, a compulsory offer, or the compulsory conveyance of securities on another basis, or from the distribution of the assets of a company undergoing liquidation among the shareholders.

Nonresident Accounts

03/01/2022  Transfers of funds outside of Russia by persons (both legal entities and individuals) that are residents of sanctioning countries were suspended, and a limit on transfers by nonresident individuals who are residents of any non-sanctioning foreign countries of up to US $5,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies per month was introduced.

<td>With the aim of putting into place a legal foundation for the commercial presence of foreign insurance companies within the territory of the Russian Federation through branches created by them and creating conditions for their operation within the Russian Federation that are comparable to those for Russian insurance companies, Federal Law No. 343-FZ on Amendments to the Russian Federation Law on the Organization of the Insurance Business in the Russian Federation and Certain Legislative Acts of the Russian Federation was adopted. It defines conditions for the separate capitalization (a guarantee deposit) of a branch of a foreign insurance company. The minimum amount of a guarantee deposit for a branch of a foreign insurance company must be in line with the minimum amount of authorized capital of insurance companies depending on their type of business. The total value of minimum guarantee deposits of branches of foreign insurance companies is taken into account when calculating the level of participation of foreign capital in the authorized capital of insurance companies. Federal Law No. 343-FZ also provides for amendments to Law No. 4015-1, according to which there is no longer a requirement that an insurance company and/or its Russian partners obtain prior permission from the BR to increase the size of the insurance company’s authorized capital at the expense of funds of subsidiary companies of foreign investors and/or to transfer shares (stakes) in the insurance company’s authorized capital to a subsidiary of a foreign investor (including the sale thereof).</td>

March 1, 2022, is not applied to transactions that entail the emergence of ownership of shares or bonds of Russian legal entities and of which an entity from an unfriendly state is a party, and which are part of the same group of entities with Russian legal entities on the grounds provided for in paragraph 1 of part 1 of Article 9 Federal Law No. 135-FZ of July 26, 2006, provided the payment for the shares or bonds is made in rubles.

The special procedure established by Presidential Decree No. 81 of March 1, 2022, is not applied to transactions that give rise to ownership of additional shares of Russian legal entities by foreigners related to unfriendly states, provided such foreign entities do not acquire the right to directly or indirectly dispose of more than 25% of the shares of a Russian legal entity.

A ban was imposed until December 31, 2022, on transactions that directly and/or indirectly entail the establishment, change, termination or encumbrance of the rights of possession, and use and/or disposal of shares of Russian legal entities if these securities are owned by foreigners related to unfriendly states.

Bank of Russia (BR) Regulation No. 710-P of January 10, 2020, on Certain Requirements for the Financial Stability and Solvency of Insurers introduced new approaches to determining the financial stability and solvency of insurers and to calculating equity (capital), and it takes into consideration the risk of a change in the value of assets and liabilities when determining capital adequacy. An insurer’s equity capital is defined as the difference between the insurer’s total assets and liabilities. Regulation No. 710-P establishes a uniform list of permitted assets for the investment of insurance reserve funds and equity capital and the relevant requirements with minimum restrictions in terms of quality. Paragraph 2.2 of Regulation No. 710-P states: Assets in which the equity of an insurance company and insurance reserve funds of insurers may be invested must meet the following requirements: 2.2.1. The issuers of the securities must be created in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation or foreign states that are members of the Eurasian Economic Union, the OECD, or the EU, or China, India, Brazil, or South Africa; 2.2.2. The items, other than certificated bonds and shares, must be located (physically held) within the Russian Federation.

In addition to the indicator describing insurance risks assumed by an insurer (the regulatory solvency margin), a new indicator is introduced that describes the volume of risks assumed by an insurer in connection with its investment activity. An assessment of the impact of risks is performed for a one-year horizon, and it is estimated as the aggregate impact of concentration risk, the risk of a change in the credit spread, the risk of a change in interest rates, the risk of a change in share value, the risk of a change in the foreign exchange rate, the risk of a change in real estate prices, credit risk, and the risk of a change in prices for other assets.

Previously, the total value of assets located outside the Russian Federation in which an insurer’s equity (capital) was invested could not exceed 35% of the regulatory solvency margin or the minimum amount of authorized capital (the larger of the two indicators) (BR Directive No. 4298-U of February 22, 2017).

Making payments for stakes, deposits and shares in nonresidents assets, as well as contributions to the benefit of foreigners under simple partnership agreements require prior approval of the Bank of Russia.

Prior Bank of Russia approval is not required if payment is made to a company from a friendly state and the payment is made in the currency of the friendly state or in rubles in an amount not to exceed 10 million rubles or an equivalent amount in foreign currency.
Regarding making payments for stakes, deposits and shares in nonresidents assets, as well as contributions to the benefit of foreigners under simple partnership agreements, there is no limit for payments in rubles or in the currency of friendly states, and the limit is 15 million rubles or an equivalent amount in foreign currency for payments in the currency of unfriendly states.

currency recognized in C-type accounts in calculating the required reserves.

04/01/2022  The procedure for calculating and regulating the amount of required reserves was simplified. Further, for banks with a basic license, the required reserves ratio was set at 1% for all categories of liabilities in rubles (previously it was 1% only for liabilities to individuals and other liabilities in domestic currency).

05/01/2022  The required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency subject to such requirements was raised to 4% from 2% for both banks with a basic license and banks with a universal license.

08/01/2022  The required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in rubles subject to such requirements were increased for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions, as well as for all categories of liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency subject to such requirements: for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions the required reserve ratio is increased to 3% from 2% for all categories of liabilities in the national currency which are subject to reserve requirements (liabilities to nonresident legal entities and individuals, other liabilities); the required reserve ratio for liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency is increased to 5% from 4%.

Liquid asset requirements

02/25/2022  To expand the capabilities of systemically important credit institutions (SICIs) to manage their liquidity, the Bank of Russia (BR) eases the LCR N26 (N27) applicable to these institutions. The BR will not apply sanctions against SICIs if they show a drop in the actual value of the above ratio resulted from both actual outflows of funds and depreciation of highly liquid assets, as well as from limited opportunities to prolong fund raising agreements for longer than 30 calendar days with a simultaneous repayment of long-term obligations taken before. The measure is valid until December 31, 2022.

Interest rate controls

07/03/2022  The total cost of credit restriction applies to relations arising in connection with the provision of loans (loans) to individuals for purposes not related to their entrepreneurial activities, and where the obligations of the borrowers are secured by a mortgage.

07/03/2022  Consumer credits (loans) extended under government programs providing subsidies to creditors from the federal budget and (or) the budget of a constituent entity of the Russian Federation to compensate the creditors for their lost income on extended consumer credits (loans) are not taken into account when calculating the average market value of total cost of credit.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents

Reserve requirements

03/03/2022  The required reserve ratios were set for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in rubles (previously 4.75%) and foreign currency (previously 8%); for banks with a basic license to 2% for liabilities to nonresident legal entities in rubles (previously 4.75%), as well as liabilities to nonresident legal entities, liabilities to individuals, and other liabilities in foreign currency (previously 8%).

03/03/2022  The Bank of Russia announced it would not sanction credit institutions which fail to average the required reserves in the averaging period from February 9 to March 8, 2022, if the amount of such failure does not exceed 20% of the amount set to be kept in correspondent accounts for this period.

04/01/2022  The procedure for calculating and regulating the amount of required reserves was simplified. 05/01/2022 The required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in foreign currency subject to such requirements was raised to 4% from 2% for both banks with a basic license and banks with a universal license.

05/01/2022 Banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions are entitled not to include liabilities arising from settlements on foreign securities blocked by international settlement and clearing organizations when calculating the required reserves.

08/01/2022 The required reserve ratios for all categories of liabilities in rubles subject to such requirements were increased for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions, as well as for all categories of liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency subject to such requirements: for banks with a universal license and nonbank credit institutions the required reserve ratio is increased to 3% from 2% for all categories of liabilities in the national currency which are subject to reserve requirements (liabilities to nonresident legal entities and individuals, other liabilities); the required reserve ratio for liabilities of credit institutions in foreign currency is increased to 5% from 4%.

02/18/2022 The Bank of Russia will not apply measures to credit institutions if they fail to comply with the fixed limits relative to open currency positions in individual foreign currencies and precious metals; total amount of all open currency positions in foreign currencies and precious metals; and the balancing position in rubles provided the said failure is caused externally, and banks do not use the above easing for speculative purposes. This measure is valid until July 1, 2022.

05/13/2022 The Bank of Russia (BR) will not apply until December 31, 2022, measures to banks for non-compliance with the open currency position limits in US dollars and/or euros provided the positions are oppositely directed (a long position versus a short position and vice versa) and have sufficient mutual compensation (the largest in absolute value of the two positions in rouble equivalent should not exceed the smallest by more than 10%). Also, the BR will not apply measures for consequential non-compliance with the total open currency position limit unless such non-compliance exceeds 15 percentage points. This relief will allow banks to carry out internal hedging of opposite open currency positions in US dollars and euros, which will reduce the costs of regulating positions in these currencies with the capital risks to be greatly limited.

07/01/2022 The decision from February 18, 2022, not to apply measures to credit institutions if they fail to comply with the fixed limits relative to open currency positions was extended until December 31, 2022.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Insurance companies

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

07/01/2021 Bank of Russia (BR) Regulation No. 710-P of January 10, 2020, on Certain Requirements for the Financial Stability and Solvency of Insurers introduced new approaches to determining the financial stability and solvency of insurers and to calculating equity (capital), and it takes into consideration the risk of a change in the value of assets and liabilities when determining capital adequacy. An insurer’s equity capital is defined as the difference between the insurer’s total assets and liabilities. Regulation No. 710-P establishes a uniform list of permitted assets for the investment of insurance reserve funds and equity capital and the relevant requirements with minimum restrictions in terms of quality. Paragraph 2.2 of Regulation No. 710-P states: Assets in which the equity of an insurance company and insurance reserve funds of insurers may be invested must meet the following requirements: 2.2.1. The issuers of the securities must be created in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation or foreign states that are members of the Eurasian Economic Union, the OECD, or the EU, or China, India, Brazil, or South Africa; 2.2.2. The items, other than certificated bonds and shares, must be located (physically held) within the Russian Federation. There are no limits on property rights (including noncash funds, uncertificated securities, digital rights, rights of claim against individuals and legal entities).

According to the Regulation, when determining the actual amount of an insurance company’s equity, the value of certain types of assets is equal to 0. In addition to the indicator describing insurance risks assumed by an insurer (the regulatory solvency margin), a new indicator is introduced that describes the volume of risks assumed by an insurer in connection with its investment activity. An assessment of the impact of risks is performed for a one-year horizon, and it is estimated as the aggregate impact of concentration risk, the risk of a change in the credit spread, the risk of a change in interest rates, the risk of a change in share value, the risk of a change in the foreign exchange rate, the risk of a change in real estate prices, credit risk, and the risk of a change in prices for other assets.

Previously, the total value of assets located outside the Russian Federation in which an insurer’s equity (capital) was invested could not exceed 35% of the regulatory solvency margin or the minimum amount of authorized capital (the larger of the two indicators) (BR Directive No. 4298-U of February 22, 2017).

Official exchange rate  Yes. The BNR’s official rate is based, effective January 1, 2022, on the simple average of transactions/sales in US dollars of at least US $100,000 by commercial banks with clients during the previous day. Previously, the BNR’s official rate was based on the weighted average of the previous day’s market rates of foreign exchange interbank and BNR intervention transactions, if any. The BNR shifted the methodology from weighted average of all selling transactions in USD to simple average of transactions of at least US $100,000 to converge to the EAC community protocol, which stipulates that all EAC Central Banks should use the simple average of interbank foreign exchange transactions. In the case of inactive foreign exchange interbank market, the BNR uses transactions done by commercial banks with their clients. The rate is determined every morning and is the basis for financial institutions’ valuation of their financial assets.

As of June 30, 2022, there were 11 commercial banks licensed by the BNR to participate in the foreign exchange interbank market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions for market participants. The CB intervenes directly with market participants (commercial banks) at the preannounced intervention rate based on the market rate.

The market operates over the counter.

A forward exchange market in which banks may take forward positions of 1 to 12 months on behalf of exporters and importers has been authorized but is not yet operational. The CB does not participate in the forward foreign exchange market. However, the BNR has entered into long-term foreign exchange swaps with commercial banks.

Residents may only trade in the domestic currency.

Regulation No. 42/2022 of April 13, 2022, governing foreign exchange operations, applies.

Rwanda participates in the COMESA and EAC clearing agreements.

An arrangement exists with Uganda, but it is not operational.

Foreign exchange authority is vested in the BNR, which has delegated the authority to authorized banks and foreign exchange bureaus.

This requirement is not restricted to gold alone, but rather applicable to all other minerals as well. The RMB has two types of Mineral Export Certificates. The ICGLR Mineral Exports Certificate is governed by the Regional Certification Mechanism (RCM) to support the “Bag &amp; Tag” system established to determine the chain of custody of the 3Ts (Tin, Tantalum, and Tungsten) to fight against illegal exploitation of these minerals in the Great Lakes region. The Rwanda Mineral Export Certificate is the national initiative to ensure proper reporting, demand due diligence, and transparency in non-3T minerals, including gold, which is issued by the RMB.</td>

Exchange Arrangement

| 01/01/2022 |
| The National Bank of Rwanda’s (BNR’s) official rate is based on the simple average of transactions/sales in US dollars of at least US $100,000 by commercial banks with clients during the previous day. Previously, the BNR’s official rate was based on the weighted average of the previous day’s market rates of foreign exchange interbank and BNR intervention transactions, if any. |

Currency board

Conventional peg
Yes. The CBS Act of 2015 states that the Central Bank of Samoa (CBS) is responsible for setting the exchange rate. The exchange rate arrangement is a conventional peg vis-à-vis a currency composite of currencies of its major trading partners. Currencies in the Samoan tala basket are the US dollar, New Zealand dollar, Australian dollar, and euro. Annual reviews of the currency weights in the tala basket reflect the payment pattern of Samoa’s trade in goods and travel receipts in the previous calendar year. The tala fluctuates with the movement of the currencies in the basket. The CBS stands ready to maintain the stability of the nominal value of the tala through a direct adjustment, if necessary and relevant. This is considered only when the authorities identify a significant adverse economic impact on the Samoan economy from any unforeseen major event (externally or domestically).
The tala continues to be pegged to a basket of the currencies of Samoa’s main trading partners—Australia, New Zealand, the United States, and the Euro area. Since the COVID-19 pandemic, the Currency Basket Weights have been monitored closely and reviewed on a quarterly basis, taking into account Samoa’s distribution of trade and travel transactions between Samoa and its main trading partners. The CBS Board of Directors endorses the outcomes of these regular reviews. A review of the 2021 currency basket weights was endorsed effective March 1, 2021. Because of the impact of COVID-19 on the foreign exchange markets, the CBS monitors foreign exchange rate developments with regard to the tala. Another midyear review resulted in changes to the currency basket weights as endorsed by the CBS Board on June 23, 2021, and became effective July 1, 2021.

At its June 2022 quarterly review of the currency basket weights, the CBS Board of Directors endorsed effective July 1, 2022, that the weights that applied since July 1, 2021, remains valid for use. The exchange rate may be adjusted within a ±2% range at the discretion of the Governor; however, for adjustments greater than ±2%, the approval of the CBS Board is necessary. Only the CBS may decide on a change in the exchange rate arrangement, if it is deemed necessary after extensive study. The official exchange rate is used for accounting and valuation purposes.

The CBS primary monetary policy objective is price stability while ensuring sustained economic growth and adequate foreign exchange reserves. Operationally, the CBS targets reserve money (primarily, commercial banks’ excess reserves; that is, commercial banks’ demand deposit balances at the CBS, private sector credit growth, and M2), using the level of CBS securities to influence liquidity. Monetary policy is implemented through open-market operations with CBS securities with tenors ranging from 14 to 365 days. But the turnover is low. There is no secondary market for CBS securities. Interbank trading in securities and foreign exchange is very limited, and the local money market remains shallow. The CBS monitors inflation (to ensure it does not exceed 3%), private sector credit growth, and foreign exchange reserves, with the exchange rate policy offering a complementary role to ensure imported inflation is contained and the competitiveness of Samoa’s external sector, where necessary, given the small size of the economy.

Authorized banks may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions, except for the US dollar, with their clients. A bid-ask spread of 170 basis points is set for the US dollar by the CBS, within which commercial banks may determine their spreads and commissions.

Other participants in the foreign exchange market—namely, authorized money changers—may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions. The CB, however, collects and monitors these data to ensure the exchange rates offered to the public are consistent with those by authorized banks.

There were 4 commercial banks and 14 authorized foreign exchange dealers (AFEDs) as of June 30, 2022. Of the 14 AFEDs, 13 are authorized for both money exchange and money transfer services; 1 is solely a money changer authorized to purchase and sell foreign currency banknotes. Unlike those of authorized commercial banks, the types of operations authorized for money transfer operators (MTOs) and money changers are limited. Authorized MTOs may conduct some foreign exchange transactions similar to those of authorized commercial banks (for example, payments between Samoa and the rest of the world). Authorized money changers are licensed by the CBS only to buy and sell foreign currency banknotes (in exchange for tala) in Samoa. The minimum capital requirement for authorized money changers is SAT 30,000; for MTOs it is SAT 100,000 (since January 1, 2015). Authorized money exchange businesses may not conduct foreign exchange transactions directly with the CBS. Only commercial banks may buy and sell US dollars directly with the CBS.

There is no capital market in foreign currencies yet.

When dealing with commercial banks, the CBS deals at the spot exchange rate valued two business days later.

The CBS sells and buys foreign currency—specifically, only US dollars currently—in the foreign exchange market at the request of commercial banks. The bid-ask spread is 20 basis points around the official mid-rate. Aside from local commercial banks, the CBS also sells and buys US dollars from World Bank finance institutions ([IBRD] and the International Development Association). The CBS also transacts with the government, as its bank: the CBS may buy foreign currency funds relating to government and sell tala in exchange and provide payment services for foreign exchange payments abroad.

Effective March 3, 2022, with the heightened geopolitical concerns from the Russian/Ukraine war and implications on SWIFT, the CBS requires the prior submission of documentations from commercial banks wishing to buy USD to verify any major transaction request before a foreign exchange (USD) sale is conducted. Where a major transaction includes a CBS-approved overseas capital payment, it is verified by reference to the Exchange Control approval, if any. Overseas capital payments sometimes have a set payment date, so the actual timing and occurrence of these flows may be verified. However, most overseas capital payments, including dividend repatriation (to parent companies or headquarters offices abroad), may be made anytime within 30 days of CBS approval, so timing and occurrence cannot be verified. Commercial banks may sometimes service these flows with their own foreign currency holdings rather than by purchasing US dollars from the CBS. Some flows (for example, forward exchange contracts) are expected to be self-sourced and do not require US dollar purchases from the CBS.

Clearing agreements No.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes. The CBS has overall responsibility for the administration of foreign exchange control: it delegates some authority to AD banks and selected foreign exchange dealers. In principle, all capital payments to nonresidents require CBS approval; however, commercial banks and foreign exchange dealers (MTOs) may approve most current payments without limits, with supporting documentation, usual due diligence, and compliance with anti-money-laundering requirements. There is no limit on money transfer companies' transfers for current payments. Banks and money transfer companies may transfer unlimited amounts for advance payments and import payments, with documentation. Other current transactions are still subject to specified limits. For example, AFEDs and commercial banks may purchase and sell foreign exchange cash equivalent to up to SAT 20,000 an individual for travel purposes. Larger amounts to be hand carried during travel abroad require CBS approval.

Payments arrears No.

Official No.

Private No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) No. The CBS is permitted to trade in gold under the CBS Act 2015.

On domestic ownership and/or trade No. The CBS Act 2015 permits the CB to buy, sell, and deal in gold coins and/or bullion, but it does not regulate domestic ownership and/or trading of gold.

On external trade No. The CBS Act 2015 does not regulate external trade in gold.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes Yes.

On exports Yes.

Domestic currency Yes. CBS Exchange Control approval is required for any amount of domestic currency to be exported.

Foreign currency Yes. Through AFEDs, residents may hand carry the equivalent of SAT 20,000 in foreign currency a person a trip for overseas travel. Higher amounts require CBS approval. Nonresidents may export as much foreign currency as they brought into Samoa. Commercial banks and authorized money changers require CBS approval to export excess foreign currency banknotes.

On imports No. Customs declaration is required for amounts exceeding SAT 20,000.

Domestic currency No.

Foreign currency No. Amounts in excess of the equivalent of SAT 20,000 must be declared at the port of entry.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Subject to CBS approval, residents who earn foreign exchange may open a foreign currency deposit account if there is a need to settle overseas commitments.

| Residents who earn foreign exchange in the normal course of their business may open, with CBS approval, foreign currency deposit accounts with one of the four AD banks, subject also to the banks' due diligence processes. CBS approval is granted, subject to appropriate documentation, only to those who are genuine earners of foreign exchange and have a genuine need to settle overseas commitments with foreign exchange.
| CBS approval is required for the transfer of funds abroad for capital transactions and some current payments (namely, management fees, dividends to foreign shareholders, insurance and/or reinsurance premiums of CBS-licensed institutions). A balance of payments (BOP) form authorized by the CBS must be submitted to the commercial banks and/or MTOs for processing of payment. If funds are moved for current payments (for example, imports), CBS-delegated AD banks and MTOs may effect payment and complete foreign exchange payment details on their respective telegraphic transfer form, for later submission electronically through the foreign exchange payments report to the CBS with the appropriate supporting documentation at the beginning of the next month (that is, within five working days of the beginning of the next month). |
| Held abroad | Yes. |
| If foreign exchange accounts held abroad are for the purpose of investments in those countries, CBS approval is required as part of Exchange Control regulations relating to capital payment transactions. In the case of residents with dual citizenship, however, this can be difficult to monitor or ascertain. Resident individuals and businesses may freely establish bank accounts abroad.
| Approval required | Yes. |
| CBS approval is required to hold foreign exchange accounts abroad mainly if they relate to investments overseas by residents. |
| Accounts in domestic currency held abroad | No. |
| Exports of domestic currency are subject to Exchange Control regulations. However, there is no specific clause in the regulations indicating whether accounts denominated in tala may or may not be held abroad. |
| Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency | Yes. |
| CBS approval is required to convert funds from domestic currency accounts to foreign currency only in the case of capital payment transactions. In other cases, funds from a domestic currency account in Samoa may be converted to foreign currency as authorized for AD banks. |

External accounts may be credited with funds from the following: (1) interest on the account; (2) payments from other external accounts; (3) payments by residents of Samoa permitted either under authority delegated to the banks in an Exchange Control notice or specifically by the CB; (4) proceeds of sale of foreign currency by the account holder sourced externally or remaining from travel funds; (5) proceeds of tala notes received from an account holder leaving Samoa after a temporary visit, provided the bank is reasonably satisfied that the notes were obtained in Samoa by the sale of foreign currency or by debiting an external account or were brought into the country by the traveler; (6) salaries and wages from employment in Samoa.

External accounts may be debited with (1) payments to residents of Samoa; (2) payments to other external accounts; (3) payments in cash in Samoa; (4) the cost of foreign exchange facilities for travel purchased in accordance with EC Notice 9; (5) the cost of foreign currency purchased by the account holder in accordance with EC Notice 5; and (6) payments in foreign currency to nonresidents.

Banks may debit an external account without limits within their delegated authority, except for capital transactions, which require CBS approval. An Exchange Control BOP2 form is to be completed at all times, as required by the CBS. There is an exemption from these exchange control requirements for official accounts of diplomatic corps (for example, embassies, delegations, consulates, offices of high commissioners, and UN agencies).

There are some restrictions on the importation of meat and meat products from Asia, alcohol, cigarettes, some equipment used with animals/fish/plants, chemicals, and selected fresh/dried fruits. The importation of any pornographic material, drugs and firearms, narcotics, and unlawful weapons is also restricted. The importation of selected types of lights, air-conditioning units, and refrigeration appliances is now in place with the commencement of the Samoa Energy Efficiency Act 2017 as of December 21, 2017. The energy efficiency regulation took effect at various times for different products.

Household refrigerators and freezers imported into Samoa must meet minimum energy performance standards (MEPS) and carry standard energy labels. The test standards, MEPS, and energy labeling rules are set out in the regulations.

Air conditioners imported into Samoa must meet MEPS and carry standard energy labels. The test standards, MEPS, and energy labeling rules are set out in the regulations.

Lighting products (incandescent lamps, fluorescent lamps, and ballasts) imported into Samoa must meet MEPS. The test standards and MEPS rules are set out in the regulations.

Duty concessionary rates apply to energy-efficient devices such as LED lights and solar panels.

The importation of some products is prohibited or restricted for reasons of security or health. Importation of refrigerators that use chlorofluorocarbons is prohibited for environmental reasons. Honey is also prohibited for reasons of biosecurity and the protection of the local industry.

Single-use plastics are banned or prohibited from importation.

There are prohibitions on the type of packaging that imported goods need to comply with such as for certain food items (such as tinned/canned fish and tinned/canned corned beef) consistent with government directives from time to time.

Imports of 24-packs of 12 ounce corned beef cans are prohibited with the exception of two specific premium brands. “Palm” and “Pacific,” as of March 1, 2020.

Imports of 12-tin boxes of fish are prohibited; only 8-tin boxes are allowed. The maximum package size allowed for imports of 3 pound corned beef cans was 2-pack. This packaging restriction does not apply to the two specific premium brands, as of March 1, 2020.

Imports of meat, meat products, livestock, and plants and plant products in commercial consignments are usually covered under OGLs. Private consignments are limited, but flexible, depending on why an applicant requests more than necessary for private individual consumption.

Most licenses for general imports do not have quantitative limits. The government may allow importers to bring in goods up to a certain value free of duty. Imports exceeding this value are subject to the usual duty rates.

Imports of motor vehicles more than 10 years old are prohibited. Importation of these vehicles are determined by the Ministry of Customs and Revenue under the relevant determination orders. Imports of eggs without expiration dates on their carton.
regulated imports (for example, eggs, meat, meat products, livestock, plants, and plant products), the exporting country must comply with Samoa Quarantine Service requirements. Regulated imports of meat and meat products must have a health certificate from the exporting country to obtain a Samoa Quarantine Service import permit. For plants and plant products, a phytosanitary certificate is required.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

Yes.

Import duties are levied on an ad valorem basis on the CIF value. There are four general rates of duty—0%, 5%, 8%, and 20%. Duty on machinery and agricultural imports is 8% and 5%, respectively; there is no longer duty on motor vehicles, but an excise tax is imposed according to the vehicle’s manufacture year and engine capacity. In addition, as of July 25, 2016, there is an import excise tax on imports of alcohol, snacks including sweet biscuits, sugar and sugar products, soft drinks, tobacco, and petroleum. Companies that produce for export may receive full or partial exemption from duty and excise taxes on inputs and capital equipment. Amendments to the Customs Act of 2014 have been passed and came into force July 1, 2014, to ensure compliance with WTO requirements and for other related purposes. A value-added goods and services tax of 15% applies both to imported and locally produced goods and services and is added to the price of taxable goods and services. Businesses with annual turnover of SAT 130,000 or more from taxable activities must register with the Ministry of Customs and Revenue to pay the tax and submit tax returns at a bi-monthly intervals. The increase in the threshold was a result of the VAGST Act amendment in the year 2015. The new threshold for VAGST commenced on November 5, 2015. An excise tax was placed on July 1, 2019, on foodstuffs with high sugar, salt, and fat content. These products include, among others, sugar, syrup, snacks, noodles, meat products (pork and lamb), chocolate, and bubble gum.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Yes. Export proceeds (of individuals or businesses) must be received no later than two months from shipment date if exporting to countries other than American Samoa, and within one month of shipment date if going to American Samoa. All export proceeds must be realized through an AFED (that is, authorized commercial bank or MTO). Export proceeds may not, for any purpose, be used and/or retained abroad for an extended period, without CBS approval. The CBS allows exporters (individuals, businesses) to credit their foreign currency accounts with export proceeds and to debit them to make import payments and meet other business-related commitments as approved by the CB at the time of application for such accounts. Exporters may sell to the banks any foreign currency from their accounts for tala. Confirmation of receipts of export proceeds may be in the form of a bank statement from the authorized bank stating credit of proceeds or receipt of funds received through an MTO.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers
Yes. CBS approval is required for certain current transaction payments abroad for services. These include payments overseas of management fees, insurance/reinsurance premiums by CBS-licensed institutions (for example, banks, MTOs, insurance companies), and dividends.

Trade-related payments
Yes. ADs may approve these payments, provided applicants submit relevant documentary proof.

Prior approval
Yes. Remittance of a freight company’s excess receipts/income (from operations in Samoa) to their overseas head office requires CBS approval for amounts exceeding SAT 1.0 million. Lesser amounts are delegated to the AFEDs.

Quantitative limits
Yes. Delegated limits for the remittance of a freight company’s excess receipts/income to their head office are SAT 1.0 million; larger amounts require CBS approval.

Indicative limits/bona fide test
Yes. Applicants must submit documentary proof.

Investment-related payments
Yes.

Prior approval
Yes. There may be limits on the amount that may be remitted abroad, subject to prevailing liquidity and economic conditions in Samoa.
Resident individuals or companies remitting investment-related payments abroad must obtain CBS approval and provide documentary proof for the amount of such payments. Single transactions large enough to severely affect the CB’s level of foreign reserves must be made in installments. Approval for transfer abroad of investment funds withdrawn by individuals from local nonbank financial institutions (for example, investments with the Unit Trust of Samoa, contribution funds with the Samoa National Provident Fund); as part of migration overseas is delegated to commercial banks and MTOs for amounts up to SAT 30,000. Larger amounts require CBS approval.

Quantitative limits

No.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

Yes. There are no indicative limits, and approval is granted if documentation requested by the CB is provided. Single transactions large enough to severely affect the CB’s level of foreign reserves must be made in installments.

Payments for travel

Yes.

Prior approval

Yes. Amounts exceeding SAT 20,000 (equivalent in foreign currency) a person a trip may be purchased with CBS approval, if travelers are hand carrying the foreign funds while crossing borders. No prior approval is required if travel funds are to be transferred through the banks or MTOs.

Quantitative limits

Yes. Residents and expatriates traveling overseas may purchase from commercial banks foreign currency equivalent to SAT 20,000 a person a trip. Larger amounts may be purchased with CBS approval if travelers are hand carrying the foreign funds across borders.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

Yes. Valid travel documents, such as a return airline ticket, passport, and visa, are required.

Personal payments

Yes.

Prior approval

Yes. Approval is required only if payment for family support exceeds SAT 100,000 an applicant a year. Family support refers to assistance with daily living expenses for family overseas. It does not cover family alimony/maintenance. Effective August 1, 2021, medical payments are fully delegated to the AFEDs, in part because of COVID-19. No further delegated limits nor CBS approval is needed for the remittance of funds relating to payment for medical services abroad. Relevant supporting documents must be submitted to the AFEDs.

Quantitative limits

Yes. Payment for family support up to SAT 100,000 an applicant a year does not require CBS approval. CBS approval is required for higher amounts. Family support refers to assistance with daily living expenses for family overseas. It does not cover family alimony/maintenance. Effective August 1, 2021, medical payments are fully delegated to the AFEDs, in part because of COVID-19. No further delegated limits nor CBS approval is needed for the remittance of funds relating to payment for medical services abroad. Relevant supporting documents must be submitted to the AFEDs.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

Yes. There is no specific limit on costs for study abroad, but the amount requested must be supported by documentary evidence that the beneficiary is enrolled at an educational institution abroad and that the costs are in line with the prevailing costs in the country of study.

Foreign workers' wages

Yes.

Prior approval

Yes. Expatriate workers with local contracts of one year and longer are considered residents; however, they are not required to obtain CBS approval.
approval if they wish to repatriate their net earnings during their contract period. Earnings not repatriated during the contract period may be repatriated at the end of the contract period. Regulations on nonresident domestic currency accounts apply. Prior CBS approval is required when foreign exchange accounts of nonresidents held in Samoan banks are closed (for example, at the end of a foreign worker’s contract) and funds are requested to be transferred overseas. Transfers up to the equivalent of SAT 50,000 from a closed foreign exchange account of a nonresident may be authorized and processed by the commercial banks. Amounts in excess of SAT 50,000 equivalent require prior CBS approval.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements

There is no specific deadline for repatriation to Samoa of proceeds from invisible transactions and transfers. Generally, exports of services require the receipt of funds into the Samoan banking system immediately after the service is rendered. Otherwise, the rules for exports of goods apply. Specifically, export proceeds must be received no later than two months from shipment for exports to countries other than American Samoa and within one month of shipments to American Samoa. The CBS allows exporters (individuals or businesses) to credit their foreign currency accounts with export proceeds and to debit them to meet import payments and other business-related commitments as approved by the CB at the time of application for such accounts. Exporters may sell to banks any foreign currency from their accounts in tala.

All domestic currency deposit accounts are captured in the 4.5% reserve requirement imposed by the CBS on commercial banks’ domestic currency deposit accounts, even if an account holder is a nonresident. However, foreign currency accounts of nonresidents are not included in the 4.5% reserve requirement.

The liberalization of the financial sector led to the elimination of all direct CBS controls on credit operations. Commercial banks must now regulate and monitor their own credit operations.

These transactions are subject to CBS approval.

Commercial banks generally set their own limits on open foreign exchange positions for each currency; however, these limits must be approved by the CBS. Commercial banks do not have different limits for resident and nonresident assets and liabilities.

These limits are not specifically defined. However, investment involving the outflow of foreign exchange is subject to the Exchange Control Regulations, 1999, and may therefore require CBS approval and documentation.

Although the Insurance Act, 2007, does not specify a maximum for insurance companies’ investments held abroad, any investment involving the outflow of foreign exchange is subject to the Exchange Control Regulations, 1999, and may therefore require CBS approval and documentation.

These limits are not specifically defined. However, investment involving the outflow of foreign exchange is subject to the Exchange Control Regulations, 1999, and may therefore require CBS approval and documentation.

Investments held abroad require CBS approval under the Exchange Control Regulations, 1999. Documentation is required.

There are no limits on these investments, but they are subject to CBS Investment firms and collective investment funds exchange control regulations. These limits are not specifically defined. However, investment involving the outflow of foreign exchange is subject to the Exchange Control Regulations, 1999, and may therefore require CBS approval and documentation.

Effective April 7, 2022, Decree-Law No. 59 ("Restrictive measures of a commercial nature implementing the Council Decision (EU) 2014/512/CFSP and subsequent amendments and the Council Regulation (EU) no. 833/2014 of 31 July 2014 and subsequent amendments.") provides for the following restrictive measures with regard to Russia:

1. The prohibition of selling, supplying, transferring or exporting, directly or indirectly, dual-use goods, even if not originating in the Republic of San Marino, to any natural or legal person, entity or body in Russia or for use in Russia.
2. The prohibition on providing, directly or indirectly, technical assistance, services of brokerage or other services related to dual-use goods and the supply, manufacture, maintenance and use of such goods and technologies, to any natural or legal person, entity or organism in Russia or for use in Russia.
3. The prohibition on selling, supplying, transferring or exporting, directly or indirectly, to any natural or legal person, entity or body in Russia, or for use in Russia, dual-use goods listed in Annex VII of the Regulation, even if not originating in the Republic of San Marino, which can contribute to military and technological strengthening or the development of the defense and security sector of Russia.

Decree-Law No. 60 of April 8, 2022 (“Restrictive financial measures implementing the Council Decision (EU) 2014/512/CFSP and subsequent amendments and the Council Regulation (EU) no. 833/2014 of 31 July 2014 and subsequent amendments.”) moreover provides for restrictive measures concerning the prohibition of any direct or indirect transaction (purchase, sale, trade-in, collateralization/underwriting, issuance assistance, etc.) involving financial instruments with counterparties listed in the Decision (EU) 2014/512/CFSP of the Council of the EU of July 31, 2014, and subsequent amendments, regarding restrictive measures in view of Russia’s actions destabilizing the situation in Ukraine.

In both cases, these are restrictive measures, in the form of sanctions related to the Ukrainian War, that San Marino decided to apply in March 2022 in full alignment with the EU position.

On domestic ownership and/or trade
- Yes.
  - The CBSM may authorize operators to buy unrefined gold for manufacturing purposes under the necessary controls. Once authorized, operators must report periodically to the CBSM details on the manufacturing activity.

On external trade
- Yes.
  - San Marino economic operators may be authorized to purchase unrefined gold only for goods manufacturing purposes. Statistical reporting to the CBSM is required. No economic operators have yet been authorized.
  - Authorized operators have to submit to CBSM, each year and using a format defined by the Regulation 2006-04, the description of the activity carried out in the period relating to unrefined gold. Specifically, operators have to report the purchases of unrefined gold, the produced goods and inventories (at the beginning and end of the period).

To combat money laundering, transactions in cash or bearer securities when the value of the transaction, even fractional, is equal to or higher than €10,000 must be made through banks. Moreover, a declaration system applies to the cross-border transportation of cash and similar instruments. Travelers, banks, and other financial institutions are required to declare the importation and exportation of banknotes and coins in euros and foreign currency in amounts greater than €10,000 or the equivalent value. Import and export control at the borders is generally handled by the police forces in conjunction with routine control operations. Banks must ask for the customers’ declarations of cross-border transportation, if they deem that the cash is of cross-border origin.

Residents and nonresidents may not establish companies in some specific economic sectors without the Government’s approval. Decree No. 176/2018 (December 2018), ratified on March 26, 2019, by Decree No. 50/2019, abolished the preliminary permission (“nulla osta”) of the Congress of State (Government) for authorizations by the supervisory authority, or changes in its authorization, for the exercise of reserved activities related to activities in Sections A (banking), C (fiduciary activity), D (investment services), E (collective investment services), G (insurance), and H (reinsurance) of Attachment 1 of Law No. 165/2005.

The following sectors are also regulated and subject to specific authorization by the Government or the authorities: (1) gambling (including entrepreneurial activities); (2) socio-healthcare activities; (3) the economic and commodity sectors in accordance with Delegated Decree No. 116 of December 12, 2007, as amended and completed (Delegated Decree No. 17 of February 12, 2009, and Delegated Decree No. 122 of August 31, 2009), whose entrepreneurial activities are subject to government authorization.

Purchases by domestic companies and foreign citizens (residents and nonresidents) no longer require approval of the Council of Twelve (Delegated Decree No. 105/2019). The number of real estate assets that can be purchased without Council of Twelve’s approval is limited to 2 for physical persons and 10 for companies. Exclusions apply to real estate companies and purchases of properties classified as having “monumental value.” Foreign companies are not allowed to buy real estate assets.

San Marino regulations do not preclude loans to nonresidents. Sammarinese banks and financial companies may grant loans to nonresidents. However, San Marino banks and financial companies may carry out and offer financial services only within the territory of San Marino. This means that San Marino banks and financial companies may grant loans to nonresidents only if nonresidents CBSM Regulation No. 2007-07 governs the collection of savings and banking activities.

CBSM Regulation No. 2011-03 governs the financing operations of financial companies.

CBSM Regulation No. 2020-04 governs payment services and issuance of electronic money (payment institutions and electronic money institutions).

Decree No. 162/2009 establishes requirements on liquidity reserves for banks. Law establishes operations for the protection of savings and tools to protect savings and banking system stability in case of banks’ compulsory liquidation. Deposits in banks under suspension of payment are also protected under the law. The Oversight Committee, at the behest of the commissioners and with the approval of the CBSM’s Supervision Committee, may permit banks in extraordinary administration whose payments are suspended to allow depositors to withdraw cash and/or make payment arrangements to satisfy essential and urgent needs.

Regarding extraordinary administration and suspension of payment please also refer to CBSM Regulation 2021-02.

Regulation No. 2012-01, titled Regulation No. 2007-07, Update III – Regulation No. 2011-03, Update I, revised certain prudential rules by (1) extending the deadline for the sale of property acquired for debt collection, taking into account the actual date of release of the goods; (2) repealing the risk weight of 200% for nonperforming loans and keeping the weight of 150%, except for leases already weighted at 50%, which, if nonperforming, are weighted at 100%; (3) defining restructured loans for reporting and budget purposes; (4) removing reference to the constraints of employment, with the secretary of labor; (5) simplifying requirements for periodic review of credit with a regular repayment plan; (6) extending the deadline to comply with the new standards of prudential supervision for companies with limited operating powers to December 21, 2012; and (7) extending to December 21, 2012, the deadline for financial companies to adopt the new prudential supervision provisions when granting credit.

Regulation No. 2012-02, titled Regulation No. 2007-07, Update IV – Regulation No. 2011-03, Update II, updated the definition of nonperforming loans to reflect the notion of restructured loans introduced by Regulation No. 2012-01.

CBSM Regulation No. 2012-03 on miscellaneous measures reviewed the supervisory provisions currently in force. It (1) introduced the concept of “adjusted regulatory capital” by adjustments to the calculation of total regulatory capital and prudential limits at the group level; (2) simplified the use of centralization forms for certain intragroup business functions, in view of recent aggregation between financial intermediaries; and (3) harmonized regulations on the professional requirements of corporate banking and financial officers to facilitate integration between the financial systems of San Marino and Italy through mutual transfer of expertise.

Other minor changes have been made each year as part of the general update of the BCSM regulation (Miscellaneous Regulation), see the link to see the latest and updated version of Regulation 2007-07, the main CBSM banks’ regulation.

Circular No. 2012-01 introduced a new obligation to detect changes in cash at banks exceeding the limit subject to registration in the Anti-Money-Laundering Computer Archive. CBSM and Agenzia di Informazione Finanziaria (AIF) (The FIU in charge of AML CFT matters for San Marino are currently defining a revision of the reporting system).

Regulation No. 2013-05 for entry into the Single Euro Payments Area (SEPA) aims to harmonize the national payment system with rules introduced at the EU level for SEPA implementation. SEPA’s goal is to provide services within the EU payment area that are secure, competitively priced, easy to use, and reliable through the introduction of common technical and business requirements for credit transfers and direct debits in euros. This regulation introduced rules governing the rights and obligations of the parties with regard to payment services, adopting European Directive 2007/64/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of November 13, 2007.

CBSM Regulation 2016-02 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions.

Regulation No. 2020-01 on miscellaneous measures aimed at reviewing the current supervisory provisions, which, among other things, regulates fit and proper requirements for banks’ corporate managers, implementing the provisions of Article 91 of CRD-IV.

Regarding COVID-19 pandemic, the Government introduced the following measures regarding the financial system (in addition to other specific measures aimed at supporting households’ income and firms’ revenues):

Decree-Law No. 91/2020 (ratification of Decree-Law No. 63/2020): measures to support households, enterprises, the self-employed, and freelancers to address the COVID-19 emergency (state guarantee on loans by banks to households and firms), in force from April 2020 through June 30, 2021.

Decree-Law No. 66/2020 (ratification of Decree-Law No. 62/2020): urgent measures to contain and to manage the COVID-19 emergency (moratorium on loan repayments for households and firms plus provisions for state guarantees on loans by the CBSM, in force from April 2020 through April 30, 2021 (firms) and May 31, 2021 (households).

On the same matter, the CBSM took additional measures to support banks during pandemic period.

Investment regulations Yes. The acquisition of shares in the capital of a bank or financial company above certain thresholds requires CBSM authorization.

Abroad by banks Yes. The purchase of securities of a participating nature exceeding 10% in foreign financial or nonfinancial companies by Sammarinese banks and financial companies must be authorized by the CBSM.

In banks by nonresidents Yes. Regardless of the investor’s residence, the purchase of securities of a participating nature exceeding 2% of a Sammarinese bank’s capital or 5% of a Sammarinese financial company’s capital must be authorized by the CBSM.

Open foreign exchange position limits No.

On resident assets and liabilities No.

On nonresident assets and liabilities No.

Provisions specific to institutional investors Yes.

Insurance companies Yes. Insurance companies are regulated under CBSM Regulation No. 2008-01, which provides the general regulatory framework for life insurance business. Currently, it is not possible to conduct non-life-insurance or reinsurance business in San Marino.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents Yes. There are no limits on the aggregate amount of investments in securities issued by nonresidents. CBSM Regulation No. 2008-01 provides limits for specific categories of securities.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad Yes. Financial assets representing technical provisions must be kept in a bank authorized by the CBSM to carry out banking activity in San Marino. The CBSM may allow insurance companies to hold investment portfolios abroad on request. These restrictions do not apply to portfolios that do not make up technical provisions (Article 83, CBSM Regulation No. 2008-01).

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally Yes. Financial assets representing technical provisions must be kept in a bank authorized by the CBSM to carry out banking activity in San Marino. The CBSM may allow insurance companies to hold investment portfolios abroad on request (Article 83 of CBSM Regulation No. 2008-01).

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes. Exchange risk exposure must be reported to the CBSM.

Pension funds No. Private pension funds are not regulated under Sammarinese law, so no Sammarinese private pension funds are active in San Marino. However, foreign private pension funds may be placed in San Marino. Law No. 191/2011 (on Reforming Social Security) established a mandatory public complementary pension fund.

The public pension fund has an internal regulation defined by the ... administrative body. The mandatory public complementary pension fund is regulated by the abovementioned law, which defines a specific limit related to the asset class of the investment (for example, shares, corporate bonds, etc.) and not to the residency of the issuer.

| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. |
| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | Yes. |
| Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition | No. |

Assets and securities of a collective investment service must be kept in a bank authorized by the CBSM. The depository bank must be a fully authorized bank in San Marino or an authorized bank in an OECD country that complies with the requirements in CBSM Regulation No. 2006-03. Other limits may be autonomously established by the fund rules approved by the CBSM.

Changes during 2021 and 2022

Exchange Measures

Decree-Law No. 59 ("Restrictive measures of a commercial nature implementing the Council Decision (EU) 2014/512/CFSP and subsequent amendments and the Council Regulation (EU) no. 833/2014 of 31 July 2014 and subsequent amendments.") provides for the following restrictive measures with regard to Russia:

1. The prohibition of selling, supplying, transferring or exporting, directly or indirectly, dual-use goods, even if not originating in the Republic of San Marino, to any natural or legal person, entity or body in Russia or for use in Russia.
2. The prohibition on providing, directly or indirectly, technical assistance, services of brokerage or other services related to dual-use goods and the supply, manufacture, maintenance and use of such goods and technologies, to any natural or legal person, entity or organism in Russia or for use in Russia.
3. The prohibition on selling, supplying, transferring or exporting, directly or indirectly, to any natural or legal person, entity or body in Russia, or for use in Russia, dual-use goods listed in Annex VII of the Regulation, even if not originating in the Republic of San Marino, which can contribute to military and technological strengthening or the development of the defense and security sector of Russia.

Conventional peg

Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are a conventional peg against the euro. Beginning February 1, 2009, the focus of the Bank of São Tomé and Principe (BCSTP) switched from the US dollar to the euro, which became the new reference currency for the peg on January 1, 2010. The Organic Law of the BCSTP authorizes it to make decisions regarding exchange rate policy.

The official exchange rate is Db 24.50 per euro, and the CB is committed to maintaining the peg of the dobra to the euro. Rates for other currencies are based on cross-rates between the euro and the currencies concerned in international markets (Article 2(2) of NAP No. 05/2017 – Regulations on the Foreign Exchange Coverage). The official euro–US dollar cross-rate is based on the ECB reference rate of the previous day. The official exchange rate is used for accounting and valuation. The official exchange rate of dobra against euro is also used to purchase and sell euro.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro.

When commercial banks purchase and sell euro in transactions with their customers, they must use the fixed exchange rate published by the BCSTP (official exchange rate). In case of euro purchases, the charging of any commission is prohibited, while in case of euro sales, banks are allowed to charge a commission up to 2%. Purchase and sale by banks of other foreign currencies in transactions with their customers may be carried out at the exchange rates set by commercial banks, with the condition that the spread between buying and selling rates does not exceed 4%. In case of euro purchase from the public, exchange bureaus must use the fixed exchange rate published by the BCSTP, with no commission permitted to be charged. The BCSTP regulation does not impose any rule for exchange bureaus with regard to setting of selling exchange rate for euro, as well as buying and selling exchange rates for other foreign currencies, except for the requirement to include all commissions in the exchange rates. In its sale transactions in euro with financial institutions, the BCSTP charges a 1.5% commission, while on its purchases of euros with financial institutions, the BCSTP charges a 0.5% commission.

| Spot exchange market | Yes. |

De jure there is only one foreign exchange bureau authorized to deal in foreign exchange under NAP No. 24/2009, regulating foreign exchange bureaus. In practice however, there are several foreign exchange bureaus and unregulated agents dealing in foreign exchange in the country without special and prior authorization from the CB, as required under Article 7(1) of Decree-Law No. 32/99, the Foreign Exchange Law. Under the terms of Article 12 of NAP No. 24/2009, foreign exchange bureaus can engage in the following transactions: purchase and sale of foreign exchange; foreign currency trading, purchase and sale of traveler’s checks, purchase and sale of banknotes and coins with the CB for foreign exchange transactions or
SÃO TOMÉ AND PRÍNCIPE

the transfer of foreign exchange surpluses; and purchase and sale of banknotes and coins with commercial banks. Article 13 of the same NAP prohibits foreign exchange bureaus from transferring foreign exchange abroad and from all other transactions not specified in Article 12.

Operated by the central bank Yes. Under NAP No. 05/2017 – Regulations on Foreign Exchange Coverage, the BCSTP applies a foreign exchange allocation system.
Under Article 18(2) of the Foreign Exchange Law, the BCSTP purchases and sells foreign exchange “to the State” as its financial agent.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation Yes. Under Article 18 of Decree-Law No. 32/99, the Foreign Exchange Law, the BCSTP may purchase and sell foreign exchange from and to commercial banks indiscriminately, depending on the external situation and need to control money supply, provided the latter cumulatively fulfill the requirements for applying for foreign exchange cover and eligibility specified in Articles 6 and 7 of NAP
No. 05/2017 – Regulation on Exchange Coverage. Foreign exchange is made available to commercial banks for customer’s external payments through foreign exchange coverage provided by the BCSTP via two modalities laid down by the BCSTP regulations (1) through selling foreign exchange after customers’ import payments already made and (2) through direct foreign exchange coverage that means selling foreign exchange for making current international payments. The BCSTP finances current international transactions at the official exchange rate only after verification of the bona fide nature of the bank’s request. These include only completed goods’ import transactions fulfilling the specified requirements. Access to foreign exchange is limited to financial institutions whose net position in the transaction currency is less than 12% of their qualified capital and the net position in all foreign currencies is less than 25% of qualified capital. Financial institutions must be in compliance with the CB’s regulations on bank liquidity and capital adequacy.
Financial institutions may have access to the CB’s facilities regardless of the above conditions (direct foreign exchange coverage) if the foreign exchange is for importation of goods during a crisis or for the importation of fuel.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. There is currently no legal provision in force governing the interbank foreign exchange market (mercado cambial interbancário – MCI).

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget: Yes. The BCSTP determines its foreign exchange budget on the basis of information obtained in collaboration with the Treasury and major economic agents.

Financing requirements for imports: No.

Minimum financing requirements: No. Pursuant to Article 12(2) of Decree-Law No. 32/99, the Foreign Exchange Law, the BCSTP guarantees the convertibility and transfer abroad of the foreign exchange needed to pay for imports, provided the importer has the funds needed to cover the corresponding amount in the commercial banks.

Advance payment requirements: No.

Advance import deposits: No. The advance deposit requirement involving the opening of an LC depends on what was agreed between the bank and the importer. Normally an advance deposit is not required.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports: Yes.

Domiciliation requirements: No.

Preshipment inspection: No.

Letters of credit: No.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses: No.

Other: Yes. Foreign exchange is made available to commercial banks for customer’s import payments through foreign exchange coverage provided by the BCSTP via two modalities laid down by the BCSTP regulations (1) through selling foreign exchange after customers’ import payments already made and (2), in case of fuel imports and other imports of goods in period of crisis, through direct foreign exchange coverage that means selling foreign exchange for making current international payments. A bank application for foreign exchange cover must be supported by the following: (1) listing of the amounts of imports for which the foreign exchange is required; (2) documentary evidence of the money transfer (MT); (3) documentary justification of the operation, namely: (a) definitive invoices with dates no older than six months from the date of the application for foreign exchange cover; (b) documentary evidence of the shipment from point of origin or unloading of the merchandise from the national customs territory; (4) date of transfer request, by the client, and effective date of the operation; and (5) any other documents if the BCSTP considers they are necessary.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures: Yes.

- Import licenses are granted freely by the General Directorate of Commerce. Certification of timely payment of tax liabilities must also be requested from the Ministry of Planning and Finance. Pursuant to Paragraph 2 of Article 13A of Decree-Law No. 11/2011, regulating commercial activity and its licensing, all private firms or collective entities that export and/or import merchandise, specified in Tables A1 and A2 of this instrument, are exempt from the requirement to register in the Commerce Department. Paragraph 3 of the same article establishes a requirement for licenses or endorsements for other commercial activities.

- Also, pursuant to Paragraph 3 of Article 13A of Decree-Law No. 11/2011, the reexportation of products that incorporate minerals, environmental reserves, and national security requires a license to be obtained from the Commerce Department.

- Imports are unrestricted; however, entry into the national territory is subject to customs procedures as envisaged under current law (Decree-Law No. 39/2009, the Customs Code).

- De jure there is no state import monopoly per se. However, there is only one company (ENCO), which is not majority state-owned, that imports petroleum products.

- Exporters must submit the Preshipment Document (Boletim prévio de Exportação – BRPE) to the bank for certification purposes.

- Pursuant to Article 279 of Decree-Law No. 39/2009, the Customs Code, the formalities for export clearance are as follows: request, declaration, verification of the elements of the declaration, order number, payment and receipt number, verification, re-verification, and authorization for shipment.

- Pursuant to Paragraph 2 of Article 13A of Decree-Law No. 11/2011, regulating commercial activity and its licensing, all private firms or collective entities that export and/or import merchandise, specified in Tables A1 and A2 of this instrument, are exempt from the requirement to register in the Commerce Department. Paragraph 3 of the same article establishes a requirement for licenses or endorsements for other commercial activities.

Also, pursuant to Paragraph 3 of Article 13A of Decree-Law No. 11/2011, the exportation of mineral products, products essential for the economy, and products of environmental reserves requires a license to be obtained from the Commerce Department.

Without quotas | Yes. | Pursuant to Article 13C of Decree-Law No. 11/2011, regulating commercial activity and its licensing, operations to export and/or import merchandise that are exempt under Article 13(2) will be subject to an annual operating fee to be specified in a joint notice issued by the specific sector minister and minister of finance.

With quotas | No.

Export taxes | No. | There are no export taxes.

Exports and re-exports of products generated by the implementation of the investment projects will be duty-free.

Collected through the exchange system | No.

Other export taxes | No.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers | Yes. | Pursuant to Article 14 of Decree-Law No. 32/99, the Foreign Exchange Law, the sale of foreign currency and its transfer abroad, in respect of current invisible transactions, is totally liberalized. Nonetheless, only commercial banks are authorized to transfer such foreign exchange abroad.

Trade-related payments | No.

Prior approval | No.

Quantitative limits | No.

Indicative limits/bona fide test | No.

Investment-related payments | Yes. | Pursuant to Article 18 of Law No. 19/2016, the Investment Code, the State guarantees that investors have the right to transfer abroad the following: (1) dividends or distributed profits, after proper verification and certification of the respective vouchers on the payment of taxes owed, taking into account the amount of capital invested and its correlation with the respective equity shares in the corporation or company; (2) proceeds from liquidation of investments, including gains, after the payment of taxes owed; (3) any amounts that may be due, after deduction of the respective taxes, as provided in instruments or contracts that, under the terms of this law, constitute private investment; (4) royalties or other payments on income from indirect investments, associated with the concession of technology transfer.

As of June 30, 2022, there were 35 licensed banks, two are digital banks, as well as 67 money exchangers to undertake interbank foreign exchange and money market transactions. ADs determine their own bid-ask spread as well as commissions with clients.

SAMA provides foreign exchange to ADs at the official buying and selling rates, but does not engage in foreign exchange allocation, auctions, or fixing. Moreover, SAMA deals directly with the government and other public entities.

As of July 30, 2022, the number of licensed banks is 35 (11 local banks, 21 foreign bank branches, and 3 digital banks). They undertake interbank foreign exchange and money market transactions. The interbank market operates over the counter, with the participation of market makers and brokers and an active interbank market in riyals and US dollars quoted by commercial banks. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants, except for US dollars where there is an internal limit on the volume of US dollars sold from the SAMA to local banks and branches of foreign banks.

The forward market operates over the counter. The commercial banking sector has an active forward market to cover exchange risk for up to 36 months. To discourage multi-leg USD/SAR forward structured products, known for their speculative nature, local participants must seek SAMA prior approval before entering into these non-linear derivatives transaction.

Engaging in the securities business must be authorized by the CMA, unless the business is exempted pursuant to the Securities Business Regulations. Under the CMA Authorized Persons Regulations, applicants for authorization to engage in dealing, managing, or custodial business must be established in Saudi Arabia and be either (1) a subsidiary of a local bank, (2) a joint-stock company, (3) a subsidiary of a Saudi joint-stock company engaged in the financial services business, or (4) a subsidiary of a foreign financial institution licensed under the Banking Control Law issued by Royal Decree No. M/5 of 22/2/1386H (of June 11, 1966). Applicants for authorization to engage in advisory or business arrangement services may be of any legal type established in Saudi Arabia.
On capital market securities  Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Purchasing securities locally by nonresidents is subject to the following.

For direct investment in these securities: (1) The Rules for Qualified Foreign Financial Institutions Investment in Listed Securities (Qualified Foreign Investor (QFI) Rules) issued by the CMA Board on May 4, 2015, set out the procedures, requirements, and conditions for qualifying foreign investors to invest in listed securities in the Saudi market and specify their obligations and the obligations of authorized persons in this regard. The required minimum for assets under management or custody is $500 million (SR 1.87 billion). Affiliates of QFIs or foreign portfolio managers and their managed funds do not need to submit separate applications. The requirements for the CMA’s review and approval of the qualification application and for investor experience have been removed. (2) Nonresident foreign investors may invest directly in the parallel equity market (Nomu).

For non-direct investment in these securities: (1) Nonresident foreigners, either institutions or individuals, may invest in such securities through access products ("swap agreements"), with authorized persons, which transfer economic benefits, but not legal title, subject to the conditions and requirements set out in the CMA’s Board Resolution of August 17, 2008. The limit on the percentage of foreign investments via swap agreements in the Saudi capital market is 10% of the shares of the issuer whose shares are listed or convertible debt instruments of the issuer. The 10% limit is not calculated as an aggregate limit on the foreign investor and any affiliates together, that is, an affiliate of a foreign investor may invest to the 10% limit regardless of the investment of the foreign investor. Swap holders may open a QFI account while retaining the swap account for a grace period of one year, providing foreign investor with choice of channel for trading. (2) Nonresident foreigners may also hold units in mutual funds, including exchange-traded funds (ETFs), which may invest in Saudi listed securities. (3) Nonresident GCC citizens are treated equal to residents in Saudi Arabia and allowed to invest directly in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

The CMA Board issued the Investment Accounts Instructions of April 3, 2016, to regulate the opening and operation of investment accounts held by authorized persons licensed by the CMA (dealing, managing, or custody) and to define the related investment accounts controls and supervisory rules. The requirement to provide copies of identification documents of the owner of the QFI to open an investment account for foreign investors has been removed. Complementary to the QFI rules, the CMA implements the “Instructions for the Foreign Strategic Investors’ Ownership in Listed Companies.” They are aimed at foreign legal persons who intend to own a strategic shareholding in listed companies, and for which the aim is to promote the financial or operational performance of the listed companies in the long term. Among the most prominent features of the Instructions is that foreign strategic investors are excluded from all requirements of QFI rules, including the investment limits stipulated in Article 14 of the QFI Rules that the maximum proportion of the shares of any issuer whose shares are listed or convertible debt instrument of the issuer that may be owned by all foreign investors in aggregate is 49%. However, foreign strategic investors may not dispose of any of the shares they own in accordance with the Instructions within a period of two years after the date of ownership of such shares, and limits by other regulators or a company’s own rules still apply. In addition, the procedures for opening accounts and owning shares through authorized persons were eased.

For investments in banks by nonresidents, there is a limit of 60% of capital, and permission of the authorities is required. There is no overall limit for foreign strategic investor ownership in listed companies, and they require SAMA’s approval for acquiring 50% or more of a bank’s capital. However, foreign strategic investors may not dispose of any of the shares they own within a period of two years after the date of acquisition of such shares, and limits by other regulators or a company’s own rules still apply.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

Issuances and offerings of securities are under the CMA’s jurisdiction and require its approval or notification depending on the offer type. Foreign issuers must comply with the Exchange Listing Rules and any foreign listing requirements that the CMA may issue in the future, which will detail the requirements that are imposed on the foreign issuers. All issuances and offerings must be conducted through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia. As per the amended CMA Board Rules on the Offer of Securities and Continuing Obligations (OSCO), foreign issuers are allowed to cross-list their shares on the Saudi Stock Exchange. Foreign issuers may offer securities by way of private placement to selected investors in Saudi Arabia as per Part 3 of the Rules on the OSCO. In this regard, foreign issuers are not required to comply with the Listing Rules if such securities are not to be listed in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

No restrictions apply, except that insurance companies may not invest more than 20% in foreign securities unless approved by the SAMA. In addition, a limit of 10% applies to foreign-currency-denominated investments. However, this limit may be changed according to the investment policy submitted by the insurance company and approved by the SAMA. SAMA approval is required for Saudi Arabian banks to acquire shares in foreign companies. However, any security issued abroad may only be advertised in Saudi Arabia through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and subject to the provisions of Part 3 of the Securities Business Regulations.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No.

There are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of securities abroad by residents, which are subject to the laws where the sale or issuance takes place. However, pursuant to paragraph a/6 of Article 6 of the Capital Market Law, the CMA has the power to approve, cancel, or suspend the listing of Saudi issuers’ securities traded on the Saudi Stock Exchange on stock exchanges abroad. Only authorized persons may conduct securities business in Saudi Arabia, unless exempt.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

Rules on the OSCO describe the requirements for issuance and offering of bonds and other debt securities either through public offering, private placement, or exempt offering. The OSCO Rules also contain provisions regulating the issuance and trading of securities through a special purpose entity (SPE). The Rules for SPEs issued by the CMA Board regulate the establishment, licensing, and activities of the SPE that is responsible for issuing debt instruments.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes.

As per the CMA Board, resolution residents and nonresident foreigners are allowed to invest directly in listed and non-listed debt instruments. Specifically, (1) all foreign legal and natural persons may invest directly in debt instruments, (2) a nonresident foreign person may not invest in the market as a direct investor in listed debt instruments and as a QFI or an ultimate beneficiary in swap agreements at the same time, and (3) a foreign person who invests directly in debt instruments may not convert such instruments into... shares listed in the Main Market, unless such person is among the categories of investors who are allowed to invest directly in the shares listed in the Main Market, or becomes an ultimate beneficiary in a swap agreement in accordance with the provisions of the Authority’s instructions on swap agreements.

For non-direct investment in these securities: (1) Nonresident foreigners, either institutions or individuals, could invest in such securities through access products ("swap agreements"), with authorized persons, which transfer economic benefits, but not legal title, subject to the conditions and requirements set out in the CMA’s Board Resolution of August 17, 2008. (2) Nonresident foreigners could also hold units in mutual funds, including ETFs, which may invest in Saudi listed securities. (3) Nonresident GCC citizens were treated equal to residents in Saudi Arabia and allowed to invest directly in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

The CMA Board issued the Investment Accounts Instructions of April 3, 2016, to regulate the opening and operation of investment accounts held by authorized persons licensed by the CMA (dealing, managing, or custody) and to define the related investment accounts controls and supervisory rules.

There are no controls on portfolio investment in government securities by foreign nationals. There is no minimum holding period requirement for such bonds.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The issuance and sale of securities, including debt securities, are under the jurisdiction of the CMA and require its approval or notification depending on the offer type. In all cases, foreign issuers must comply with the Exchange Listing Rules and any foreign listing requirements that the CMA may issue in the future, which will detail the requirements that are imposed on the foreign issuers. The issuer must be a Saudi joint-stock company, except where the provisions of Article 14 “cross-listing” of the listing rules apply. All issuances and offerings must be conducted through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia.

As per the amended CMA Board Rules on the OSCO, foreign issuers are allowed to cross-list their shares on the Saudi Stock Exchange. Foreign issuers may offer securities by way of private placement to selected investors in Saudi Arabia as per Part 3 of the Rules on the OSCO. In this regard, foreign issuers are not required to comply with the Listing Rules if such securities are not to be listed in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. No restrictions apply, except that insurance companies may not invest more than 20% in foreign securities unless approved by the SAMA. In addition, a limit of 5% applies to foreign government bonds and bonds issued by foreign companies. However, any security issued abroad may only be advertised in Saudi Arabia through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and subject to the provisions of Part 3 of the Securities Business Regulations.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No. There are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of securities abroad by residents, which are subject to the laws where the sale or issuance takes place. However, pursuant to paragraph a/6 of Article 6 of the Capital Market Law, the CMA has the power to approve, cancel, or suspend the listing of Saudi securities of Saudi issuers traded on the Saudi Stock Exchange on stock exchanges abroad. Only authorized persons may conduct securities business in Saudi Arabia unless exempt.

On money market instruments

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. Purchasing securities locally by nonresidents is subject to the following:
For direct investment in these securities: (1) The Rules for Qualified Foreign Financial Institutions Investment in Listed Securities (QFI Rules) issued by the CMA Board on May 4, 2015, set out the procedures, requirements, and conditions for qualifying foreign investors to invest in listed securities in the Saudi market and specify their obligations and the obligations of authorized persons in this regard. The QFI Rules include: (a) The required minimum limit of asset under management or custody for the financial institution is $500 million (SR 1.87 billion); (b) no requirement for the CMA’s review and approval of the qualification application; (c) no investor experience requirement; and (d) affiliates of QFIs or foreign portfolio managers and their managed funds do not need to submit separate applications. (2) Nonresident foreign investors may invest directly in the parallel equity market (Nomu).

For non-direct investment in these securities: (1) Nonresident foreigners, either institutions or individuals, may invest in such securities through access products ("swap agreements"), with authorized persons, which transfer economic benefits, but not legal title, subject to the conditions and requirements set out in the CMA’s Board Resolution of August 17, 2008. The limit on the percentage of foreign investments via swap agreements in the Saudi capital market is 10% of the shares of the issuer whose shares are listed or convertible debt instruments of the issuer. The 10% limit is calculated as an aggregate limit on the foreign investor and any affiliates together, that is, an affiliate of a foreign investor may invest to the 10% limit regardless of the investment of the foreign investor. Starting May 3, 2018, the Resolution was amended allowing swap holders to open QFI account while retaining the swap account for grace period of one year, providing foreign investor with choice of channel for trading. (2) Nonresident foreigners may also hold units in mutual funds, including ETFs, which may invest in Saudi listed securities. (3) Nonresident GCC citizens are treated equal to residents of Saudi Arabia and allowed to invest directly in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

The Investment Accounts Instructions regulate the opening and operation of investment accounts held by authorized persons licensed by the CMA (dealing, managing, or custody) and to define the related investment accounts controls and supervisory rules.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes.

Issuance and sale of securities, including money market instruments, in Saudi Arabia are under the jurisdiction of the CMA and must require its approval or notification depending on the offer type. In all cases, foreign issuers must comply with the Exchange Listing Rules and any foreign listing requirements that the CMA may issue approve in the future, which will detail the requirements that are imposed on the foreign issuers. All issuances and offerings must be conducted through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia.

Purchase abroad by residents
No.

There are no restrictions on the purchase of securities abroad by residents. However, any security issued abroad may only be advertised in Saudi Arabia through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and subject to the provisions of Part 3 of the Securities Business Regulations.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
No.

There are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of securities abroad by residents, which are subject to the laws where the sale or issuance takes place. However, pursuant to paragraph a/6 of Article 6 of the Capital Market Law, the CMA has the power to approve, cancel, or suspend the listing of any Saudi security of any Saudi issuer traded on the Saudi Stock Exchange on any stock exchange abroad. Only authorized persons may conduct securities business in Saudi Arabia unless exempt.
On collective investment securities

Purchase locally by nonresidents
Yes. The Capital Market Law defines investment funds as collective investment schemes (CIS). There is no distinction between CIS. Nonresidents may invest in CIS funds, including ETFs. The CMA Board of Commissioners issued the Real-Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions, covering offering requirements, unitholders’ consent on the fundamental changes, unitholder meetings, disclosure requirements, trading halt and cancelation of listing, and termination of the Real-Estate Investment Traded Fund. Banks operating in the Kingdom are allowed to distribute CIS in accordance with the CMA’s circular that governs the contractual relationship between the bank and the authorized person.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes. Public offering of CIS investment is restricted to persons authorized by the CMA to conduct managing activities. However, foreign funds may offer units in foreign funds through a distributor (with a dealing as an agent activity license) as a private offer. All issuances and offerings must be conducted through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and in accordance with the Investment Funds Regulations issued by the CMA (as amended). Foreign issuers may offer securities by way of private placement to selected investors in Saudi Arabia as per Part 3 of the Rules on the OSCO. In this regard, foreign issuers are not required to comply with the Listing Rules if such securities are not to be listed in the Saudi Stock Exchange.

Purchase abroad by residents
No. There are no restrictions on the purchase of securities abroad by residents. However, any security issued abroad may only be advertised in Saudi Arabia through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and subject to the provisions of Part 3 of the Securities Business Regulations.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
No. There are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of securities by residents abroad.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments
Yes. The derivatives market was launched on August 30, 2020. The Saudi Stock Exchange (Tadawul) operates the derivatives market and applies its rules and procedures on derivatives exchange trading and membership. The available traded derivative products are: the SF30 Index Futures Contract, which is based on the MSCI Tadawul 30 (MT30) Index, and Single Stock Futures, which are standard futures contract with an individual stock as its underlying asset launched effective July 4, 2022.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
Yes. QFIs (subject to the Rules for Qualified Foreign Financial Institutions Investment in Listed Securities, issued by the Capital Market Authority) and the ultimate beneficiary in swap agreement may invest in listed derivatives.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes. Issuances and offerings of securities, including derivatives and other instruments, are under the Capital Market Authority’s jurisdiction and require its approval or notification depending on the type of the offer. Foreign issuers seeking to issue securities on the Saudi Exchange must comply with the Exchange Listing Rules and any foreign listing requirements that the Capital Market Authority may require. Additionally, all issuances and offerings must be conducted through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia in accordance with the Securities Business Regulations.

Purchase abroad by residents
No. There are no restrictions on the purchase of securities abroad by residents. However, any security issued abroad may only be advertised in Saudi Arabia through a person authorized in Saudi Arabia and subject to the provisions of Part 3 of the Securities Business Regulations.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
No. There are no restrictions on the sale or issuance of securities, including derivatives and other instruments, abroad by residents, which are subject to the laws where the sale or issuance takes place. However, pursuant to paragraph a/6 of Article 6 of the Capital Market Law, the Capital Market Authority has the power to approve, cancel, or suspend the listing of any Saudi security traded on the Saudi Exchange of any Saudi issuer, or on any securities exchanges abroad. Additionally, only authorized persons may conduct securities business in Saudi Arabia unless exempt.

SAMA approval is required for Saudi Arabian banks to acquire shares in foreign companies.

The Foreign Investment Law allows foreign investors to invest directly in most economic sectors—with or without local participation, subject to sectoral limits—and imposes a tax rate of 20% on most foreign company profits, with two exceptions: (1) an 85% tax rate applies to profits of investment in the oil and... hydrocarbon sector and (2) a basic tax rate of 30% applies to profits of investment in the natural gas sector as long as the internal rate of return of the project does not exceed 8%. For investments with an internal rate of return exceeding 8%, a sliding scale with higher tax rates applies, up to 85% for an internal rate of return exceeding 20%. Approved foreign investment enjoys the same privileges as domestic capital. There is a list of economic sectors in which foreign investors may not invest. The negative list includes the following:

1. Industrial Sector:
   - (a) oil exploration, drilling, and production, except the services related to the mining sector listed as CPC 5115+883 in international classification codes;
   - (b) manufacturing of military equipment, devices, and uniforms;
   - (c) manufacturing of civilian explosives.

2. Service Sector:
   - (a) catering to military sectors;
   - (b) security and detective services;
   - (c) real estate investment in Makkah and Madinah;
   - (d) tourist orientation and guidance services related to Hajj;
   - (e) printing and publishing, except for the following activities: Pre-printing services (internationally classified as CPC 88442), Printing Presses (CPC 88442), Drawing and calligraphy (CPC 87501), Photography (CPC 875), Radio and Television Broadcasting Studios (CPC 96114), Foreign Media Offices and Correspondents (CPC 962); Promotion and Advertising (CPC 871), Public Relations (CPC 86506), Publication (CPC 88442),
   - (f) commission agents (CPC 621); and (g) fisheries.

Effective July 6, 2021, the following sectors were opened to foreign investors: tourist orientation and guidance services related to Umrah; services provided by midwives, nurses, physical therapy services, and quasi-doctoral services; and poison centers, blood banks, and health quarantines.

To attract FDI, administrative procedures have been simplified including (1) foreign investment license requirements amounting to two documents; (2) an instant license and renewal system; and (3) automated post services (license renewal, company activities amendment, adding branches), shorter time to issue new licenses (less than 3 hours). The validity of foreign investment licenses is five years.

For investments in banks by nonresidents, there is a limit of 60% of capital, and permission of the authorities is required. There is no overall limit for foreign strategic investor ownership in listed companies, and they require SAMA’s approval for acquiring 50% or more of a bank’s capital. However, foreign strategic investors may not dispose of any of the shares they own within a period of two years after the date of ownership of such shares, and limits by other regulators or a company’s own rules still apply.

Property investment and investments in Other transports activities are not subject to a cap (MISA’s Foreign Investors Guideline of Law and Regulations).

Investments in activities that require a license and have a maximum capital cap of 60% are communications, insurance, reinsurance, and property financing.

Several types of investments have a higher cap as follows:
- commercial up to 75%;
- management of construction projects, detailed engineering design, and EPC contracts up to 75%;
- public transport (bus transportation within cities) up to 70%; and public transport (metro transportation within cities) up to 80%.
Controls on real estate transactions

Yes.

A tax of 5% is levied on the total disposal value of real estate, whatever its condition, shape, or use at the time of disposal. The seller or disposer of the property is the applicant for the real estate transaction tax e-service to whom a SADAD invoice will be issued according to information in the application for the tax amount due on authentication of the conveyance. The seller may agree with the buyer on the extent to which the tax will be shared. Any of the parties to the transaction may pay the SADAD invoice. The buyer and seller are jointly responsible for all tax liabilities; therefore, ZATCA has the right to interact with them individually or jointly. This applies to residents and nonresidents.

Purchase abroad by residents

No.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes.

In principle, the purchase of, and investment in, real estate is restricted to Saudi Arabian nationals, corporations, and institutions and nationals and institutions of GCC members. The Regulation allows foreign investors to purchase real estate as needed for their business, including housing for their staff. Further, with an appropriate foreign investment license, foreign investors may purchase real estate for investment purposes in all cities except Mecca and Medina, provided the investment is at least 30 million SR and the real estate is developed within five years of purchase. Non-Saudi natural persons legally residing in Saudi Arabia are allowed to acquire real estate by inheritance and acquire real estate for their private residence, following permission from the Ministry of Interior. Investment in Mecca and Medina is restricted to Saudi Arabian nationals, corporations, and institutions. Foreign residents may own real estate.

which requires insurers to submit investment policies outlining, among other things, their objectives, and asset allocation. The policy must be approved by SAMA; limitations in the Implementing Regulation may be waived in light of certain technical standards, such as the company’s size, structure, business complexity, insurance portfolio, and capital structure.

SAMA has set rules of licensing and operation of branches of foreign insurance and reinsurance companies in Saudi Arabia, which require the following:

1. The foreign branch must ensure that its liabilities – excluding the reinsurance share – equal its assets in Saudi Arabia.
2. There should be no transfer of money from the branch to the foreign company unless it is under a service provision arrangement between the company and the branch that has been approved by SAMA, or retained profits shown in the annual financial position of the branch after receiving SAMA’s approval, provided the branch is in compliance with the solvency margin requirements.

| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | Yes. |
| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. |
| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | Yes. |

With respect to local investments, the minimum is 80%, which applies to all types of insurance companies. In addition, the minimum for investments in Saudi riyal is 50%. Moreover, unless otherwise approved by SAMA, general insurance and health insurance companies must keep 20% of their investments in authorized local banks and 20% in Saudi Arabian government bonds. As for protection and saving companies, the limits are 10% of deposits in authorized local banks and 10% in Saudi Arabian government bonds. Furthermore, there are limitations for other asset classes, such as equities, real estate, and mutual funds. However, these limits may be changed according to the investment policy submitted by the company and approved by SAMA.

The entities authorized to conduct nonelectronic foreign currency transactions are authorized intermediary banks and individuals or companies authorized to conduct nonelectronic transactions by decision of the minister of finance, with the consent of the BCEAO. Authorized intermediaries must comply with the provisions in effect on the financial conditions for executing banknote foreign exchange transactions that involve foreign currencies and issue a transaction slip for all transactions with a client. Moreover, to provide satisfactory information to clients, they are required to (1) permanently post at their windows the rates actually charged for the different currencies and (2) post notification that a transaction slip must be issued for all foreign exchange transactions on presentation of the requestor’s identity document. Banks and registered banknote exchange houses are intermediaries authorized by the minister of finance to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public.
Entities authorized to conduct cash exchange transactions, of which there were 641 as of December 31, 2021, are authorized to procure travelers’ checks and foreign banknotes from licensed intermediaries for their customers. They are authorized to accept travelers’ checks denominated in foreign currencies from their customers and to sell them to licensed intermediaries. Licensed exchange dealers are not authorized to make payments or transfers in foreign currencies abroad or to hold accounts abroad.

In their operations with customers, authorized intermediaries (authorized intermediary banks and authorized OTC dealers) freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957, and may be subject to a maximum commission of 2.0%.

Operated by the central bank Yes. The BCEAO supplies at the official rate the foreign currency that each authorized intermediary needs to make payments abroad.

Foreign exchange standing facility Yes. The BCEAO exchanges foreign currency for CFA francs on commercial banks’ demand at the rates published on the international markets, without commission, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of 655.957 per euro. The nonelectronic currency exchange windows are open to owners of accounts on the BCEAO books and to the general public. A commission of 0.5% is charged on all transactions with the public (purchases and sales) and all withdrawals by banks and financial institutions (including euro withdrawals). However, no commission is charged for the following operations: (1) OTC foreign banknote exchanges conducted by state entities, government employees of WAEMU Member States on mission abroad, and officials of the CB and their beneficiaries and (2) the CB purchases foreign exchange in exchange for CFA francs at the daily rate, without a commission, at the request of commercial banks that present such foreign exchange at its windows, for purposes of their payments.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. Transactions in CFA francs between authorized intermediaries are allowed. However, there is no regulated interbank foreign exchange market in the WAEMU.

Over the counter Yes.

Brokerage No.

Market making No.

Forward exchange market Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to conduct the following transactions in the foreign exchange derivatives market with authorized intermediary banks established in the WAMU or with foreign banks: outright forward foreign exchange contracts (over the counter), foreign exchange options, foreign exchange swaps, and cross-currency swaps.

Transactions in foreign exchange options are limited to the following two types of transactions: options to purchase foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign bank, or options to sell foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.
Authorized intermediary banks are required to simultaneously cover the exchange risk they incur in respect of derivative instruments traded with their customers. The underlying commercial and financial operations must relate to imports and exports of goods and services by a resident, foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments), or direct foreign investment in a resident company. All legitimate foreign currency needs are ultimately met by the BCEAO.

Official cover of forward operations  No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements  Yes. Payments with countries outside the WAEMU are made in foreign currencies. Trade with other WAEMU countries is settled in CFA francs.

Controls on the use of domestic currency  Yes. The CFA franc may not be used for the payment of current international transactions or capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU.

For current transactions and payments  Yes. The CFA franc may not be used for the payment of current international transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Investments by residents of the WAEMU zone outside the WAEMU are subject to prior authorization by the minister of finance, and at least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes. The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Foreign investment by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to authorization by the MOF. At least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing. The interested party must request authorization through a letter designating the authorized intermediary to settle the payment. Purchases of foreign negotiable securities authorized by the regional capital markets authority to be issued or sold in WAEMU members do not require Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF) authorization.

Transitions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes. Residents of WAEMU member countries may engage in the following operations on derivatives and other instruments with accredited banks established in the WAEMU or foreign banks: (1) forward contract, (2) foreign exchange swaps, and (3) options. When the transaction is backed by an operation other than the importation of goods and services, the CFA franc is the counterparty currency of the foreign exchange spot forward, foreign exchange option, or foreign exchange swap operation.

Credit operations  Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted by authorized intermediaries to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to prior authorization by the Directorate of External Financial Relations of the MOF, after BCEAO approval.

Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes. The CFA franc is the only legal tender, and residents of the WAEMU zone may not use foreign exchange for domestic transactions.

Payments arrangements  Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements  No.

Operative  No.

Inoperative  No.

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
A monetary cooperation agreement between the WAEMU member states and France was concluded on December 21, 2019, replacing the previous agreement dated December 4, 1973. This monetary cooperation agreement is based on three pillars: (1) a common bank of issue; (2) a fixed exchange rate parity with the euro; and (3) an unlimited convertibility guarantee.

There is a multilateral clearing agreement between the WAEMU countries and the other ECOWAS member countries (Cabo Verde, the Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria, and Sierra Leone) as part of the WAMA. All payments for current transactions between countries whose CBs are WAMA members may be made under the clearing agreement. However, this excludes transactions specified by the committee of governors of the CBs of ECOWAS members and payments for exports from one member country to another member country of finished products originating in countries whose CB or monetary authority is not a WAMA member.

The institutional reform of the WAMU and the BCEAO establishes the following new basic instruments: (1) the WAMU Treaty, (2) the BCEAO Charter, (3) the Bank Regulation Act, and (4) the Convention governing the WAMU Banking Commission. Exchange control is administered jointly by the minister of finance and the BCEAO. Most of the authority to supervise foreign exchange transactions is delegated to authorized banks, which are required to report these operations to the minister of finance. The BCEAO is also authorized to collect – either directly or through banks, financial institutions, the postal administration, or judicial agents – information necessary to compile balance of payments statistics. Customs officers monitor outflows of foreign exchange and confirm imports and exports of goods. All WAEMU residents are treated as residents of Senegal for the purposes of preparing the external position of banks, domiciliation and repatriation of export revenue, issuance and sales of securities, gold imports and exports, investment and lending transactions, and physical exports of means of payment and securities by postal package or ordinary mail. However, for statistical purposes with regard to the balance of payments, all countries other than Senegal are considered foreign countries. Moreover, all transfers with other countries must be made through registered intermediary banks, the postal service, or the BCEAO.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

- On domestic ownership and/or trade: No.
- On external trade: Yes.

Gold imports and exports require MOF authorization, except (1) imports and exports by the Public Treasury and the BCEAO; (2) imports and exports of items with a low gold content (lined or plated objects); and (3) imports and exports, by travelers, of objects made of gold limited to a total weight of 500 grams. Imports and exports of gold within the WAEMU area are not subject to any restrictions.

Exports and imports of banknotes

- On exports: Yes.
Domestic currency

Yes. Travelers may freely export CFA franc (XOF) banknotes from one WAEMU member country to another. Resident individuals (that is, from a WAEMU member country) and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving CFA franc (XOF) banknotes issued by the BCEAO.

Foreign currency

Yes. Reexports of foreign banknotes by nonresident travelers are allowed up to the equivalent of CFAF 500,000; reexports of foreign banknotes above this ceiling require documentation demonstrating either the importation of the foreign banknotes or their purchase against other means of payment registered in the name of the traveler or through the use of nonresident deposit accounts in local banks. Nonresident travelers must declare to customs foreign currency exceeding the equivalent of CFAF 1 million on exit. Residents of the WAEMU zone traveling to countries that are not WAEMU members are required to declare foreign currency on their person in excess the equivalent of CFAF 1 million. They are allowed to carry up to the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person in banknotes not issued by the BCEAO. Amounts in excess of this ceiling may be exported in the form of traveler’s checks, prepaid debit and payment cards, conventional debit and payment cards, or other means of payment. Foreign exchange allowances issued by authorized intermediaries in the form of traveler’s checks or prepaid debit and payment cards must be based on the need to cover customary, personal travel expenses, if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person. The issue of foreign currency to resident travelers is subject to the presentation of travel documents and a valid passport or national identification card.

On imports

Domestic currency

Yes. Resident and nonresident travelers may freely import domestic currency (CFA franc – XOF). However, WAEMU resident individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from receiving banknotes in domestic currency.

Foreign currency

No. There are no restrictions on resident and nonresident travelers’ importation of foreign-currency-denominated means of payment, which must be declared to customs authorities if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 5 million. Resident travelers must surrender foreign banknotes and other foreign-currency-denominated means of payment exceeding CFAF 500,000 to an authorized intermediary within eight days of arrival in any WAEMU member country.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. The term “residents” refers to the residents of the WAEMU zone.

Held domestically

Yes.

Approval required

Yes. Foreign exchange accounts in currencies other than the euro may be opened domestically with MOF authorization after non-objection from the BCEAO. The authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on each such an account. These accounts are valid for a renewable term of up to one year. They cannot be credited with deposits of CFA banknotes or by debiting a CFA franc account. On expiration of the term set in the authorization, accounts are closed unless a new authorization is obtained.

Held abroad

Yes.

Approval required

Yes. Individuals who are residents of the WAEMU temporarily staying or traveling outside of WAEMU may open bank accounts outside the WAEMU to deposit foreign currency legally exported and any income acquired outside of the WAEMU during their travel or temporary stay outside of the WAEMU. These individuals are required to repatriate balances on such accounts within 30 days of return to the WAEMU. In any circumstance other than the foregoing, opening of foreign accounts by WAEMU residents is subject to MOF authorization by after non-objection from the BCEAO. The MOF authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on such accounts. In the event of a failure to obtain a new MOF authorization, the accredited intermediary must request that the account be closed by the end of the term authorized and that any balance be repatriated to a WAEMU member country within eight days.

| Accounts in domestic currency held abroad | No. |
| Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency | No. |

Nonresident Accounts

- Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.
- Approval required: Yes. Intermediaries authorized in the WAEMU are authorized to open accounts in euros for the benefit of nonresidents, subject to proof of their status and actual residence. Nonresident accounts denominated in foreign currency other than euros are subject to BCEAO authorization. Nonresident foreign currency accounts are valid for a renewable period of two years. In the event of a failure to obtain renewal (through a new BCEAO authorization for foreign exchange other than the euro), these accounts must be closed. The balances of these accounts may be freely transferred abroad after verification.
- Domestic currency accounts: Yes.
- Convertible into foreign currency: Yes. Authorized intermediaries may open nonresident accounts in CFA francs and in euros, under their own responsibility, depending on the status and effective residence of the applicant. These accounts may be debited for spot purchases of foreign exchange. Accounts opened on behalf of nonresidents may not be replenished through payments in banknotes issued by the BCEAO or an issuing institution with a transaction account in the French Treasury.

Indicative limits/bona fide test  Yes.  As a general rule, payments abroad in amounts greater than CFAF 500,000 are subject to the presentation of supporting documentation to the relevant authorized intermediary.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements  Yes.  Proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be repatriated. Residents of the WAEMU zone are required to surrender to an authorized intermediary bank all foreign currency income or proceeds collected abroad or remitted by a nonresident. Resident economic operators are required to liquidate and repatriate all proceeds from the sale of merchandise abroad at the bank issuing payment within one month of the payment date.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  Yes.  Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes.  All proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be surrendered to an AD within one month of the due date. Resident travelers must surrender to an authorized intermediary, within eight days of their arrival in Senegal, foreign banknotes and other means of payment denominated in foreign currency worth more than the equivalent of CFAF 500,000.

Restrictions on use of funds  No.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions  Yes.  Capital transactions between WAEMU countries are unrestricted. Outward capital transfers require minister of finance authorization, except (1) amortization of debts and repayment of short-term loans to finance industrial and commercial operations, (2) payments required on foreign exchange derivatives transactions or raw material or commodity derivatives transactions, and (3) transfers of the proceeds of liquidated investments or the sale of foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. Capital receipts from non-WAEMU countries are generally permitted.

Repatriation requirements  Yes.  Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated within one month through a registered intermediary, if the resident does not have a reinvestment authorization.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  Yes.  Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. However, all foreign exchange assets in excess of these requirements must be immediately surrendered to the BCEAO. Moreover, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.
Surrender to authorized dealers

Yes.

Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated and surrendered within one month through a registered intermediary, except if the resident does have a reinvestment authorization. The surrender requirement applies to proceeds from all capital transactions.

Controls on capital and money market instruments

Yes.

RCPSFM authorization is required for the following operations: (1) issuance or marketing of securities and real assets of foreign entities, (2) canvassing, and (3) publicity or advertising for investment abroad. Securities and mutual funds issued outside the WAEMU by a private or public entity that is not a resident of a member country may not be listed on a regional securities exchange. Soliciting the public of the WAEMU by nonresident entities is subject to authorization by the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority responsible for regulating the external financial relations of WAEMU countries. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

On capital market securities

Yes.

The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No.

Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are unrestricted. However, nonresidents are required to report these operations for statistical purposes to the MOF and the BCEAO.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to authorization from RCPSFM, with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the minister of finance for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to minister of finance authorization. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No.

Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad must be declared to the minister of finance for statistical purposes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may also issue securities abroad, except for those constituting a loan. Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone, unless otherwise specified by the minister of finance, must be carried out through authorized intermediaries for all cases in which the sums borrowed are made available to the resident. All foreign borrowing must be declared to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No.

These purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. There is no minimum holding period.

| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization, with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the minister of finance for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation (Article 8, Rule No. 09/10/CM/UEMOA). |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to minister of finance authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries is authorized by the RCPSFM. |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | No. | Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. |
| On money market instruments | Yes. | The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. | Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to declaration for statistical purposes only. |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | The issuance and sale of money market instruments by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization, with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of money market instruments resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of money market instrument transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the minister of finance for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation (Article 8, Rule No. 09/10/CM/UEMOA). |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | The purchase of foreign money market instruments by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to minister of finance authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign money market instruments whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | No. | Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell money market instruments abroad. Sales liquidating an investment are subject to declaration to the minister of finance for statistical purposes. |
| On collective investment securities | Yes. | The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. | |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the minister of finance for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation. |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to minister of finance authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | No. | Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. |
| Controls on derivatives and other instruments | Yes. | Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial or financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services by a resident; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using derivatives. They must be backed by the residents of the WAEMU zone’s imports or exports of raw materials and commodities. Residents of the WAEMU zone are not authorized to purchase raw materials or commodities on foreign markets for delivery within the framework of a derivatives transaction in raw materials or commodities. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. | The purchase of derivatives by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone on the domestic market is treated as a loan contracted by a resident with a nonresident. As such, it is permitted. The purchase must be executed through an authorized intermediary and must be reported to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes. |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | No. | These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign exchange derivatives from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone may freely purchase abroad or from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone call or put options on primary commodities or securities transactions. Residents of the WAEMU zone may not purchase commodities or securities in foreign markets to be delivered in complying with a put option contract. Put options must be placed on assets that can be acquired locally by the resident seller for delivery abroad in execution of the contract. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency purchase options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes.

Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency sell options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign (nonresident of WAEMU) credit institution.

Controls on credit operations

Yes.

Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be conducted through authorized intermediaries (whenever borrowed funds are made available for use in the country), unless otherwise indicated by the minister of finance.

Commercial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

There are no controls on credits related to exports of goods. The date on which payment falls due is agreed to in the contract (in principle no later than 120 days after the date of shipment).

To residents from nonresidents

No.

There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally conducted without prior authorization, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered, as well as the payment due date, to the licensed intermediary bank responsible for handling the repayment.

Financial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

These credits require minister of finance approval. Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require an exchange authorization, subject to approval of the minister of finance and substantiated by documentation.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

There are no controls on these credits, but they must be reported for statistical purposes to the MOF and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid, except for the following credits: (1) mail overdrafts: CFA franc overdrafts for durations not to exceed the normal mail delivery times; (2) LCs available by acceptance, issued to exporters at the request of the authorized intermediaries' foreign correspondent banks; and (3) credit provided pursuant to a financial agreement between a WAEMU member country and a foreign government or pursuant to an interbank arrangement approved by the Directorate of External Finance. The necessary funds must be transferred from abroad through an authorized agent. There are no controls on repayment of loans, provided the authorized agent handling the settlement is furnished with documentation attesting to the validity of the transaction. Borrowing abroad is unrestricted.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

The granting of guarantees and sureties is subject to minister of finance approval. Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require the issuance of an exchange authorization, subject to minister of finance approval and the submission of supporting documents.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

These facilities may be granted freely, although the funds required for servicing them must be transferred abroad by an authorized bank. If, however, these transactions take place between a resident direct investment company and its parent company located abroad, they are considered to be direct investments and therefore require declaration to the MEF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Controls on direct investment

Yes.

Direct investment implies control of a company or enterprise. Mere participation is not considered direct investment unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of a company. All investment outside of WAEMU...
by residents of the WAEMU, including investment through foreign companies under the direct or indirect control of WAEMU residents and investment by foreign branches or subsidiaries of companies established in a WAEMU member country, requires MEF authorization.

Outward direct investment | Yes.
---|---
All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to minister of finance authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

Inward direct investment | No.
FDI, including by resident companies that are directly or indirectly under foreign control and by branches or subsidiaries of foreign companies, must be reported to the minister of finance for statistical purposes. A share is not considered a direct investment, unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of a company.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment | No.
The liquidation of investments abroad must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes. Reinvestment of the proceeds of liquidation is subject to MOF authorization. If reinvestment is not authorized, the liquidation proceeds must be repatriated within one month through an authorized intermediary. The sale of foreign investments by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone is unrestricted but must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes.

Controls on real estate transactions | Yes.
These purchases require minister of finance authorization.

Purchase abroad by residents | Yes.
Purchases for purposes other than direct investment in a business, branch, or company are allowed. They require a declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents | No.
Sales by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone to residents of the WAEMU zone require the submission of supporting documentation to the authorized intermediary that handles the settlement and must be declared to the minister of finance.

Sale locally by nonresidents | No.
Sales by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone to residents of the WAEMU zone require the submission of supporting documentation to the authorized intermediary that handles the settlement and must be declared to the minister of finance.

Controls on personal capital transactions | Yes.
Personal capital transactions between residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through the BCEAO, the postal service, or an authorized intermediary bank, unless authorization is obtained from the minister of finance.

Loans | Yes.
The regulations governing securities and investments apply.

By residents to nonresidents | Yes.
These transactions require minister of finance authorization. The individuals concerned may not engage in such operations as a professional occupation without first being licensed and included on the list of approved financial institutions.

To residents from nonresidents | No.
These transactions may be made freely but are subject to declaration for statistical purposes to the MEF and the BCEAO when disbursed and when repaid.

Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies | Yes.
Inheritances and dowries are generally allowed. Gifts and endowments, however, are subject to MOF and BCEAO authorization. These transactions must be conducted through an authorized intermediary and comply with the relevant anti-money-laundering and terrorism financing provisions.

By residents to nonresidents | Yes.
These transactions do not require authorization but are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

To residents from nonresidents | No.
These transactions do not require authorization but are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants | Yes.
Immigrants with resident status must obtain minister of finance authorization to settle debts contracted abroad, while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Transfer of assets

Yes. These transactions are subject to minister of finance authorization if the value exceeds CFAF 500,000 a person. There are no restrictions on transfers of amounts below this threshold.

Transfer abroad by emigrants

Yes. Foreign accounts (in foreign currencies or CFA francs) of nonresidents of the WAEMU zone who become residents of the WAEMU zone must be closed. However, these residents may maintain abroad bank accounts opened and financial assets acquired, while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. New transfers to these accounts require minister of finance approval.

Transfer into the country by immigrants

Yes. These transfers are conducted freely through authorized intermediaries, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions on combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings

Yes. These transfers are conducted freely through authorized intermediaries, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions on combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions

Borrowing abroad

No. Foreign borrowing is unrestricted. For statistical purposes, these transactions must be declared to the minister of finance and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid.

Maintenance of accounts abroad

Yes. Banks and financial institutions are authorized to open accounts with their correspondent banks for settling transactions for their own account or the accounts of their customers. However, banks are not authorized to hold in these accounts amounts that exceed their current requirements. In accordance with Regulation No. 09/2010/CM/UEMOA on the External Financial Relations of the WAEMU Member States, to cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency. The total amount of these assets may not exceed 5% of the clients’ outstanding demand deposits. Assets in excess of foreign currency requirements must be surrendered to the BCEAO.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)

Yes. Commercial lending is allowed. Financial credits are subject to minister of finance authorization following BCEAO approval.

Lending locally in foreign exchange

Yes. These operations are properly provided for in the laws and regulations and are subject to the approval of the minister of finance following the approval of the BCEAO.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange

Yes. These purchases require minister of finance authorization if their issuance was not approved by the RCPSFM.
| in foreign exchange | Yes. | A reserve requirement of 3% applies to WAEMU banks since March 16, 2017. Demand deposits, other deposit accounts, and loan accounts are included in the base for the calculation of the required reserves. The base for the calculation of the required reserves to be held with the CB includes the following four items: demand deposits; short-term loans; gross claims abroad, including customer foreign currency deposits; medium- and long-term loans. Reserve requirements are therefore established on a standard and/or settlement and/or securities account based on eligibility for calculation of reserves allocated by the MPC. |
| Liquid asset requirements | Yes. | The Basel II/Basel III liquidity requirements are yet to be transported to the WAEMU. The 75% minimum liquidity standard and the standard for minimum 50% for banks to fund their activities with more stable sources of funding on an ongoing basis are temporarily maintained. |
| Interest rate controls | Yes. | The wear rate in WAEMU member countries is set at 15% for banks and at 24% for decentralized financial systems. |
| Credit controls | Yes. | Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to minister of finance authorization, after BCEAO approval. These claims are included in the external position of banks and financial institutions, which is subject to special monitoring. |
| Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents | Yes. | Banking regulations make no distinction among resident deposit accounts, nonresident deposit accounts, and foreign deposit accounts. |
| Reserve requirements | No. |  |
| Liquid asset requirements | No. |  |
| Interest rate controls | No. |  |
| Credit controls | Yes. | Any overdraft or advance granted to a nonresident requires authorization by the minister of finance with the approval of the BCEAO. |
| Investment regulations | Yes. | The regulations governing direct investments apply. |
| Abroad by banks | Yes. | All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. |
| In banks by nonresidents | Yes. | The banking law stipulates that investment by any person in a bank that would have the effect of changing the minority and/or majority voting rights requires authorization by the minister of finance. This applies to resident and nonresident investors. |
| Open foreign exchange position limits | Yes. | No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts for the smooth completion of international payments, up to the equivalent of 5% of total customer demand deposits. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries assets to be allocated to current customer operations, listed as follows: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign exchange operations. | accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency. Limits apply to residents’ foreign currency positions.

On resident assets and liabilities

Yes.

No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts for the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

Yes.

No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts for the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Yes.

Insurance companies

Yes.

Controls are imposed by the CIMA Code.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes.

The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes.

The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes.

The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

Yes.

The CIMA Code specifies that liabilities in a given currency must be covered by assets denominated in the same currency.

Pension funds

Yes.

The issuance, presentation, and floating of securities of any kind by foreign governments, local authorities, foreign companies, or international institutions are subject to authorization by the RCPSFM.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes.

With the exception of foreign securities issued or sold with RCPSFM authorization in WAEMU member countries, all investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MEF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing.

Changes during 2021 and 2022

No significant changes occurred in the exchange and trade system.
SERBIA
(Position as of June 30, 2022)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

Date of membership
Serbia joined the IMF as the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (FRY) on December 14, 1992. Serbia continues the membership in the IMF of the former state union of Serbia and Montenegro – earlier the FRY – since July 2006.

Article VIII
Yes. Date of acceptance: May 15, 2002.

Article XIV

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
Yes.

The IMF staff report for the 2021 Article IV Consultation and Request for a 30-Month Policy Coordination Instrument with Serbia states that, as of June 3, 2021, Serbia maintained a system free of restrictions on payments and transfers for current international transactions, except with respect to blocked pre-1991 foreign currency savings deposits (IMF Country Report No. 02/105).

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)

In accordance with the relevant UNSC resolutions and EU decisions, Serbia maintains restrictive measures toward the Islamic Republic of Iran, Libya, and the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea (including UNSC Decision 2397 (2017) and EU Council Decision 2017/1860/CFSP).

Other security restrictions
Yes. As a member of the UN, Serbia observes and implements all mandatory measures of UNSC resolutions.

Stabilized arrangement
Yes. In accordance with the revised IMF classification system of exchange rate arrangements, the de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The current Decision on the Dinar Exchange Rate Regime stipulates “managed floating.” Since the introduction of this exchange rate regime in 2001 and in accordance with its commitment to liberalization of the foreign exchange market, the National Bank of Serbia (NBS) has tried to reduce its participation in the foreign exchange market and to adjust the features of the existing exchange rate regime in the direction of soft managed floating. This exchange rate regime enables the NBS to balance, when necessary, foreign exchange demand and supply and moderate excessive daily fluctuation of the exchange rate in either direction (appreciation or depreciation) that may occur under the influence of external or internal shocks to the national economy. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as stabilized.

Aggregated monthly data on the NBS net purchase/net sale are published in the regular press release on foreign exchange Reserves and Interbank Foreign Exchange Market Movements, which is published in the first half of the following month (usually between 10th and 15th). The NBS also publishes (1) a spreadsheet once in every quarter when the Inflation Report is published, with aggregated monthly data on the NBS net purchase/net sale in the interbank foreign exchange market, as part of the statistics related to the Inflation Report, and (2) aggregated monthly data on its purchase and sale in the interbank foreign exchange market (purchased plus sold), as part of the statistical set of data, approximately with the three-week time lag. (There is a Release Calendar available on the same page.)

Official exchange rate

Yes.

The official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro is calculated at the end of each business day as the weighted average of the exchange rates applied in all individual euro transactions in the interbank spot foreign exchange market and in all individual euro transactions in the interbank foreign exchange market with a settlement date earlier than the spot value date (concluded from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.), including transactions between the NBS and the banks (interventions). To ensure that the official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro reflects, as much as possible, the real trends in foreign exchange market, the NBS has precisely defined the time frame – from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., for transactions which are included in calculation of the official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro. The NBS publishes information on the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro by 6:00 p.m. to take effect at 8:00 a.m. on the following business day. Six currencies are included in the list of currencies against which the official middle exchange rates of the dinar are quoted in the NBS list of official exchange rates and with which banks, public postal operators, and exchange bureaus may trade – the Chinese renminbi (since January 2015), Turkish lira (since December 2017), Bulgarian lev (since February 2018), Romanian leu (since February 2018), Belarusian ruble (since September 2019), and Indian rupee (effective December 1, 2021). The public postal operator may perform exchange operations, so as to expand the scope of money exchange market to... include even the territories where no exchange bureaus and banks operate, which may increase the level of competition in this segment of the foreign exchange market and result in more favorable buying/selling rates of exchange for citizens. The official middle exchange rates are used for bookkeeping, statistics, and calculation of customs duty and other import fees, as provided by Article 41 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. Exchange rates of the dinar against 23 currencies quoted in the NBS list of foreign exchange rates are used in trade between the NBS and residents with foreign exchange accounts at the NBS. According to Article 36 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, resident beneficiaries of budget funds, beneficiaries of funds of mandatory social insurance organizations and local government budgets, and other public funds beneficiaries included in the consolidated treasury account system may have foreign exchange accounts only within the consolidated treasury account system maintained by the NBS, unless otherwise stipulated by a special law or international agreement. Transactions between the NBS and the Treasury Administration are performed through the consolidated treasury account system for foreign exchange funds. Exchange rates of the dinar against three currencies quoted in the NBS exchange rate list for foreign cash are used in cash trade between the NBS and banks. The NBS trades only in cash euros, US dollars, and Swiss francs. The NBS does not conduct foreign exchange cash operations with resident and nonresident natural persons or with foreign exchange bureaus. Exchange rates for foreign cash are also used for calculation and payments of foreign cash to residents with foreign exchange accounts with the NBS in connection with official travel. The Decision on Operating Terms and Procedures in the Foreign Exchange Market allows the NBS to publish by 2:00 p.m. each business day information on the indicative exchange rate of the dinar against the euro based on banks’ reported data on direct spot trade and trade with execution dates before spot currency dates of euros with other banks concluded from 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Inflation target

- Yes. Inflation targets will be set by the NBS, in cooperation with the government, on the basis of an analysis of current and expected macroeconomic movements and the medium-term plan of changes in prices under direct or indirect regulation of the government. In principle, the NBS has operational freedom to set the target, on consulting the government. The decision within the Executive Board can be taken by majority vote, but in practice, they are reached by consensus.

| Point target | Yes. | The inflation target is set at 3% with a tolerance band of ±1.5 percentage points (pps). The target is for now set at that level until end-2024. |
| Target horizon | Yes. | The target is continuous, meaning it is set for every month of the monetary policy horizon. |
| Operating target (policy rate) | Yes. | Key policy rate is the main monetary policy instrument applied in the main open market operations which are currently one-week reverse repo transactions (liquidity absorbing operations). Auctions are held once a week by the variable multiple rate method with the key policy rate as a maximum rate which can be offered by banks. |
| Policy rate | Yes. | The policy rate is the interest rate on (reverse) repo transactions with a one-week maturity. The key policy rate is a maximum rate which can be offered by banks on the one-week reverse repo auctions, and it is fixed at 2.75% as of July 7, 2022. |
| Target corridor band | Yes. | The corridor width is, effective April 7, 2022, ±1.00 pps (previously ±0.90 pps). The lower bound of the band is the rate on (overnight) deposit standing facilities (currently set at 1.75%; reference rate – 1.00 pps). Upper bound of the band is the rate on (overnight) credit standing facilities (currently set at 3.75%; reference rate + 1.00 pps). |

Accountability

- Yes. If the projected inflation deviates from the target, the NBS undertakes measures to bring it back to the target in the medium term. If the departure of inflation from the set target tolerance bands (below 1.5% or above 4.5%) lasts for six consecutive months, the NBS is obliged to notify the government about the reasons for such departure, measures to be taken, and the time needed for inflation to return to the target level.
Publication of votes
n.a.
Decisions of the Executive Board as a whole are published, without specifying individual votes or number of votes in favor of or against the decision. Typically, decisions are made by consensus.

Publication of minutes
No.
The NBS does not publish minutes.

Publication of inflation forecasts
Yes.
Inflation forecasts are published quarterly in the Inflation Reports. The Inflation Report contains information on the current and expected inflation, analysis of underlying macroeconomic developments, explanation of the reasoning behind the decisions of the Executive Board, and an assessment of the monetary policy efficiency as implemented during the previous quarter. Integral parts of this report are inflation projection for eight quarters ahead, assumptions on which such projection is based, and an analysis of the basic risks involved in the achievement of target inflation.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax
No.

Exchange subsidy
No.
Exchange subsidies have been removed.

Foreign exchange market
Yes.
As of June 30, 2022, there were 2.172 foreign exchange dealers licensed by the Tax Administration and the NBS, which perform activities at 3.093 exchange points, in addition to the currently 22 banks licensed by the NBS and one public postal operator which performs foreign exchange activities based on a separate law governing its activities. The NBS undertakes the activities of supervising exchange offices and issuing and revoking authorizations for the performance of exchange operations as well as the activities of supervising the foreign exchange operations of residents and nonresidents, as stipulated by the Law on Amendments and Supplement to the Law on Foreign Exchange operations. As of July 31, 2022, there are 22 banks licensed by the NBS. Once a day, at the start of each business day, banks freely set and announce their exchange rates for foreign exchange and foreign cash based on cross-currency relations in foreign markets. Banks apply the rates that fall within the range of the quoted buying and selling rates for foreign exchange and/or foreign cash in trade with residents and nonresidents. Public postal operator and licensed foreign exchange dealers also freely set their foreign exchange rate lists at the start of each business day in line with the foreign exchange rate lists applicable to foreign cash of the bank and/or banks with which they entered into an agreement. They purchase and sell foreign cash by applying current buying and selling rates specified in their foreign exchange rate list, but they may not exceed the quoted range. In the exchange rate list of the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealer, the buying rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be lower than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%, and/or selling rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be higher than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%. This ±1.25% range around the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applies only to postal operators and authorized exchange dealers transacting with natural persons, while it is not prescribed for commercial banks. When the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealers purchase or sell foreign cash from natural persons, their commission may not exceed 1% of the value of undamaged banknotes from natural persons, and/or circulating banknotes within the meaning of the provisions of Decision on Terms and Manner of Performing Exchange Operations.
The following lists are specified in RS Official Gazette Nos. 3/2018, 65/2019, and 107/2021: (1) list of foreign exchange and foreign cash that banks may trade with, (2) list of foreign cash that licensed exchange dealers and the public postal operator, who have entered into an agreement on the performance of exchange operations with a bank and/or several banks, may buy and sell, (3) list of foreign exchange that the NBS may buy and sell, and (4) list of foreign cash that the NBS may buy and sell.

To improve the bank’s reporting system and raise the efficiency of monitoring the foreign exchange market, banks were obliged to submit data on the nonresidents’ dinar accounts. To further improve the bank’s reporting system, banks were obliged to submit data on payment card transactions impacting the bank’s foreign exchange position (transactions under payment cards issued abroad and used for dinar payments in the country and transactions under payment cards issued in the country and used for foreign exchange payments abroad). To further improve the bank’s reporting system, the NBS obliged banks to submit data on foreign exchange-indexed loans and deposits.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, since May 8, 2020, the NBS applies the official middle exchange rate of the dinar as specified in the current exchange rate list when buying and selling foreign exchange and foreign cash from and to residents who have foreign exchange accounts with the NBS.

In the spot exchange market, the purchase or sale of foreign currency in exchange for dinars takes place two business days following the day of conclusion of the purchase or sale agreement.

As of July 31, 2022, 22 banks participated in the spot foreign exchange market. The spot foreign exchange market involves: transactions between commercial banks (excluding the NBS transactions) and transactions between banks and clients – residents and nonresidents.

As of June 30, 2022, there were 2,172 foreign exchange dealers and one public postal operator which perform foreign exchange activities based on a separate law governing its activities which may purchase from and sell to natural persons only foreign cash. They may not have accounts abroad or make foreign currency payments or transfers on behalf of their clients. The period during which exchange bureaus must transfer any excess amount of dinars to their current account with a bank is seven working days. The threshold that determines the excess amount of dinars exchange bureaus must transfer to their current account with a bank is triple the average daily amount of dinars used for the purchasing of foreign cash in the month with the highest purchase in the preceding 12 months. If the foreign exchange dealer works less than a month, the triple average daily amount of dinars is determined according to the week with the highest purchase. Resident humanitarian organizations may receive funds and donations for humanitarian purposes from abroad, which takes place through the electronic money issuer.

The NBS may participate in the interbank foreign exchange market in different ways: by selling and purchasing foreign exchange bilaterally (through Refinitiv foreign exchange Trading platform) and by organizing spot auction sales and purchases. Also, the NBS organizes, in accordance with its calendar of regular euro/Serbian dinar swaps, auctions of swap sale, and purchase of euros for dinars with maturity of three months and two weeks. Only the banks can participate in these auctions.
Auction  Yes.
With the beginning of the international financial crisis and market disruptions, the NBS introduced spot auctions in December 2009 as a way of participating in the interbank foreign exchange market. Following its commitment to liberalize the foreign exchange market and decrease its market participation, the NBS organizes spot auctions only when necessary to stabilize the foreign exchange market. Spot auctions were organized as variable price auctions with the NBS purchasing/selling foreign exchange at the multiple rate – exchange rates offered by the banks whose bids are accepted at the auction or at the single rate – at the same exchange rate from each bank whose bid was accepted at the auction. The NBS last organized auctions in 2012. According to the regulation, the NBS still has the possibility to organize them, and the available methods for organizing them also stayed the same: fixed rate auctions and variable rate auctions. Variable rate auctions may be organized as multiple rate auctions and as single rate auctions.

Fixing  No.
With amendments to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, the NBS has abolished the possibility of organizing the fixing sessions. The NBS has not intervened by organizing fixing sessions since February 2009.

Interbank market  Yes.
Banks are free to set their own buying and selling rates for foreign exchange based on supply and demand but must observe the cross-rates prevailing in the international market. Banks may buy and sell foreign exchange on the interbank market at mutually agreed rates. The NBS generally intervenes by selling or purchasing foreign exchange as a price taker, at the best-quoted rate of market participants through the Refinitiv foreign exchange – Trading. There is no brokerage or market-making system.
As of July 31, 2022, there were 22 banks that participated in the interbank foreign exchange market.

Over the counter  Yes.
Forward purchases and sales of foreign exchange are permitted, provided their terms of delivery are longer than spot dates. Forward and swap foreign exchange interbank markets are not developed and banks rarely conclude forward and swap transactions. The forward and swap foreign exchange market involves: transactions between banks and transactions between banks and clients – residents and nonresidents, excluding the NBS transactions. Banks conclude forward sales to residents (such as importers) in higher amounts than forward purchases from residents (such as exporters) in the forward market. Also, banks have important clients among nonresident banks, and they trade mostly through large numbers of foreign exchange swap transactions. The NBS participates in swap transactions.

Brokerage  No.

Market making  No.

early March 2011, the NBS reinstated its three-month foreign exchange swap auctions as a regular instrument for supplying foreign exchange/dinar liquidity. These weekly auctions are conducted under market conditions and without preannounced limits of quantities of liquidity, aim to bolster interbank swap trading and the development of foreign exchange hedging instruments. Further, in March 2013 the NBS started to organize weekly two-week foreign exchange swap auctions to supply additional euro and dinar liquidity.

Official cover of forward operations  No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements  Yes.

Controls on the use of domestic currency  Yes.

For current transactions and payments  Yes. Payments for current international transactions in Serbia may be made and received in dinars under the conditions prescribed by the decision of the NBS on the conditions and manner of conducting international payment transactions.

For capital transactions  Yes. Payments in Serbia may be made and received in dinars for all capital transactions allowed by the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, under the conditions prescribed by the decision of the NBS on the conditions and manner of conducting international payment transactions.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes.

Credit operations  Yes. Credits in dinars granted by resident banks to nonresidents and borrowing in dinars by residents from international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states are considered foreign credit transactions and may be carried out as prescribed by the NBS. Banks may grant credits in dinars to nonresident legal entities and natural persons by crediting a payment card account with a bank in Serbia and by crediting the account of a resident seller and/or lessor to whom the nonresident owes payment under current or capital transactions permitted by the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. Banks may also grant credits in dinars to an international financial organization and development bank or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation on the maturity. Dinar loans by international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states to residents may be granted without a foreign currency clause and with maturity longer than one year; credits for agricultural financing or export financing may have a shorter term (longer than three months). Dinar loans may be granted with a possibility of prepayment and change of currency in accordance with the lending program/business standards of an international financial organization whose articles of agreement or an agreement regulating its activities in Serbia has been ratified. Dinar loans may be granted from the proceeds of current and capital transactions, including the proceeds of the primary sale of long-term dinar debt securities, issued by the foreign creditor.

Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes. Payments among residents must be effected in dinars. In exceptional cases, payments may be effected in foreign exchange, according to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations.

Exportation of NBS-issued commemorative coins by residents requires written NBS permission, and foreigners may take these commemorative coins out from the Republic based on a certificate issued by an authorized seller certifying that such coins have been purchased in the Republic, or based on a certificate issued by the customs authority certifying that such coins have been brought into the Republic. Banks may freely take dinars out of Serbia for sale to foreign banks on the condition that they submit to the customs authority two copies of the payment order, one of which is retained for supervision purposes.

Foreign currency

Yes. Resident natural persons may freely take abroad foreign currency and checks up to €10,000. Emigrants may freely take abroad foreign cash up to €10,000; for an amount exceeding €10,000, evidence of emigration is required. A nonresident natural person may freely take abroad foreign cash in the amount of up to €10,000. If a nonresident takes dinars and foreign cash abroad at the same time, the sum of these must not exceed €10,000. Nonresident natural persons may take abroad more than €10,000 foreign cash if the amount was declared on entering Serbia, if the amount was withdrawn from a foreign exchange account or foreign exchange passbook in a local bank, or if the amount was acquired by selling dinars obtained through the use of a payment card in Serbia as evidenced by prescribed documents. Authorized banks may freely export foreign currency for replenishing their accounts with foreign correspondent banks. However, the bank must submit to the customs authority two copies of the order for the transfer of foreign currency for certification and must file one certified copy of the order for control purposes.

On imports

Yes. Residents and nonresidents may freely bring in dinars up to the equivalent of €10,000 a person. In exceptional cases, residents and nonresidents may import domestic banknotes exceeding this amount, provided the banknotes were purchased at a foreign bank and the purchase receipt is presented to the customs office for inspection on entering the country. Banks may import dinars that have not been sold abroad; the customs authority restamps the originally stamped dinar export order.

Domestic currency

Yes. Resident and nonresident natural persons may freely import foreign cash. However, a resident natural person must declare to the competent customs authority any amount of foreign cash that exceeds the amount specified in the law on the prevention of money laundering, while nonresidents must report amounts exceeding €10,000 to the customs authorities, which issue the respective certificate. Banks may freely import foreign currency.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. Resident natural persons, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities may hold current and deposit foreign exchange accounts freely and perform all kinds of current and permitted capital transactions abroad. In addition to a current and deposit foreign exchange account, a bank may open other foreign exchange accounts for a resident for specific purposes. Additionally, resident legal entities and natural persons may open joint current accounts.
accounts in terms of the law governing payment services, while natural persons may open joint deposit accounts too. Pursuant to the Decision on the Conditions of Opening and Manner of Maintaining Foreign Exchange Accounts of Residents and Dinar and Foreign Exchange Accounts of Nonresidents, a bank after closing the foreign exchange account issues the account closing certificate, including the information that all obligations toward the bank in relation to opening, maintaining, and closing the account were settled.

Banks must submit to the NBS data on foreign exchange accounts of residents’ legal entities, entrepreneurs as well as natural persons. The NBS uses these data for a single register of accounts, which is published on its website, while data on foreign exchange accounts of natural persons are not publicly available. Resident beneficiaries of the budget funds of Serbia, of funds of mandatory social insurance organizations, and of local government budgets, as well as other public funds beneficiaries included in the consolidated treasury account system, must hold their foreign exchange accounts with the Treasury Administration within the consolidated treasury account system maintained by the NBS, unless stipulated otherwise by a separate law or an international agreement, and they may sell to the NBS foreign exchange and foreign cash generated by their operations. As an exception, these residents may open a foreign exchange account with an authorized bank, with MOF approval, for payments that cannot take place through the NBS, or perform individual foreign payment operations through an electronic money issuer or payment institution, provided specific characteristics of the beneficiary’s activities make this necessary. Banks may hold foreign currency only with other authorized banks and the NBS. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, and the NBS Decision on the Manner of Performing Transactions Between the NBS and the Treasury Administration Through the Consolidated Treasury Account System for Foreign Exchange Funds (RS Official Gazette No. 78/2015), the NBS must perform foreign exchange operations, on behalf of the Treasury Administration, through the consolidated Treasury account system for foreign exchange funds – for the public funds beneficiaries of Serbia.

Approval required
No.

Held abroad
Yes.

Banks may, without any restrictions, keep foreign exchange in bank accounts abroad. Other residents may hold foreign currency in accounts with foreign banks freely in certain cases prescribed by the NBS. These residents are: diplomatic, consular, and other representative offices of the Republic of Serbia abroad and domestic nationals employed in these representative offices, persons sent abroad for professional training and education; persons appointed to work in a government mission abroad; persons emigrating from Serbia; and persons selling real estate abroad. In addition, resident Serbians with dual citizenship, resident Serbian citizens who stay abroad no longer than one year (with a work visa, leave to remain, and so on), and those entitled to foreign pensions in countries without an international treaty covering pension payments may hold foreign exchange in accounts with banks abroad.

Approval required
Yes.

Subject to the approval of the NBS, residents may maintain foreign exchange in accounts abroad for (1) performing construction work; (2) covering current costs of representative offices and branches of legal entities; (3) financing exploration work; (4) settling tax and other liabilities under public law to a foreign state – concession, in respect of concession revenue, if the regulations of the foreign state stipulate that these liabilities are to be settled exclusively through a bank account in that state; (5) investments of insurance companies;
(6) making guarantee deposits for participation in bidding or tender procedures and/or sending bids for the acquisition of shares; (7) making a guarantee deposit under a guarantee issued by a foreign bank to a resident who performs construction work abroad; the deposit may be up to the amount specified in the bank’s request for guarantee deposit and/or guarantee agreement; (8) using foreign financial credits for payments abroad, if the disbursement of such credits is conditional on holding funds with a foreign bank; (9) purchasing securities abroad in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations if the regulations of the foreign state stipulate that this purchase may be performed exclusively through a bank account in that state; (10) collecting payments against court decisions; (11) covering costs of medical treatment abroad as well as the costs of residing abroad for medical treatment; (12) collecting grants and cash donations from abroad for scientific, cultural, and humanitarian purposes; (13) making collections in respect of tax refund in foreign state if a regulation of that state stipulates that refund be effective exclusively via an account with the bank in that state; (14) making collections in respect of the sale of securities purchased abroad and revenue from securities purchased abroad in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations if regulations of the foreign state prescribe that holding foreign exchange in a bank account abroad is a condition for such collections. For all the above-mentioned cases, residents must submit to the NBS supporting documents prescribed by the NBS. Insurance companies may deposit and invest up to 25% of prescribed core capital abroad, with the prior NBS approval.

Residents may also hold foreign exchange abroad subject to approval of the NBS as follows: (1) making collections based on the refund of funds invested in a company established abroad (the sale of a company, wind-down of a company, profit from investment in a company, etc.) if regulations of the foreign state prescribe that holding foreign exchange in a bank account abroad is a condition for such collections, and (2) for settlement of liabilities abroad arising in relation to the resident’s balance responsibility as a participant in the energy transport system – based on an excerpt from the regulation of the relevant country envisaging that these liabilities can be settled only through the account with a bank in that country and the document proving this liability.

Nonresident Accounts

Nonresident natural persons and legal entities may hold foreign exchange accounts with authorized banks as current, deposit, and other accounts opened for a specific purpose. Nonresident natural persons and legal entities may open joint current accounts, while natural persons may open joint deposit accounts too. Deposit accounts may be demand or time deposit accounts. Deposits may be held in currencies traded on the domestic foreign exchange market. Deposits to foreign exchange accounts of nonresident legal entities may be made by transfers; deposits to foreign exchange accounts of nonresident natural persons may be made by transfers or in cash. Account holders may use the foreign exchange in their accounts to make dinar payments in Serbia, transfer foreign exchange abroad, and make foreign exchange payments abroad or domestically, in accordance with existing regulations. Domestic payments, collections, and transfers in foreign currency involving these accounts are permitted only in cases specified in the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. At the request of a nonresident, banks may purchase dinars from the nonresident’s dinar account and transfer foreign exchange to a nonresident’s foreign exchange account abroad based on proof of competent tax authorities that all tax liabilities to the Republic have been settled, except in case when banks transfer foreign exchange from deposit accounts of nonresidents, natural persons when the proof on the settlement of tax liabilities to the Republic of Serbia is not conditioning for this transfer.

Per the Decision on the Conditions of Opening and Manner of Maintaining Foreign Exchange Accounts of Residents and Dinar and Foreign Exchange Accounts of Nonresidents, bank after closing the foreign exchange account issues the account closing certificate, including the information that all obligations toward the bank in relation to opening, maintaining, and closing the account were settled.

Citizens of Serbia who have resided abroad for more than one year are considered nonresidents.

Approval required No.

Conversion into foreign currency Yes. Nonresidents may hold domestic currency acquired through authorized transactions in current, deposit, or other accounts with authorized banks. Nonresidents may hold joint current, while nonresident natural persons may hold joint deposit accounts, too. Nonresidents may open accounts based on a written request, a contract with a bank, and prescribed documentation which has been simplified.

Per the Decision on Amendments and Supplements to the Decision on the Conditions of Opening and Manner of Maintaining Foreign Exchange Accounts of Nonresidents, bank after closing the dinar nonresident account issues the account closing certificate, including the information that all obligations toward the bank in relation to opening, maintaining, and closing the account were settled.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. Nonresidents may freely convert to foreign currency dinars acquired in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations.

Approval required No.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget No.

Financing requirements for imports No.

Minimum financing requirements No. Payments for imports of goods and services are free of restrictions, provided documentary proof is submitted. International payment transactions may be executed without documentation in case when the bank and the order issuer conclude a written agreement stipulating that the order issuer is not required to submit to the bank, along with the foreign payment order, the documentation against which payment is to be made, except if it is required under other regulations.

Advance payment requirements No. There are no restrictions on advance payments for imports of goods and services. Goods and services paid for in advance but not imported for more than one year are considered foreign commercial credit transactions and reported to the NBS.

Advance import deposits No.
Residents may make international payments not only through banks but also through payment institutions and public postal operator providing payment services, in accordance with the law on payment services. Furthermore, residents may make international payments through domestic and foreign e-money institutions for electronic purchase of goods and services. Additionally, resident humanitarian organizations may receive funds from abroad, which takes place through the electronic money issuer, regarding humanitarian purposes donations. Residents may pay for imports with their own foreign exchange funds held with an authorized bank and may freely purchase foreign exchange in the foreign exchange market through an authorized bank. Residents must provide the bank with the standard import documentation. International payment transactions do not require documentation in case when the bank and the order issuer conclude a written agreement stipulating that the issuer is not required to submit to the bank, along with the foreign payment order, documentation, unless required under other regulations.

The Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Exportation, Importation, or Transit provides lists of goods for whose import, the issuance of specific documents is required. Licenses are required for imports of sport and hunting arms and ammunition, firearms, explosives and raw materials used in explosives, certain precious metals (gold and silver), narcotics and their precursors, certain products for environmental protection purposes, as well as arms and military equipment, dual-use items, goods which could be used for capital punishment, torture, or other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment and other goods.

Goods not covered by the Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Exportation, Importation, or Transit, the National Control List of Dual-Use Items and National Control List of Arms and Military Equipment or by the List of goods which could be used for capital punishment, torture, or other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment may be freely imported and exported.

Used motor vehicles may be imported if they are produced in accordance with the requirements prescribed by EU standard “Euro 3,” in particular with regard to the vehicles’ exhaust emissions and noise levels. Imports of specific types of hazardous waste, certain poisons, and substances damaging the ozone layer are prohibited. The import licensing requirement for specific groups of products (poisons, pesticides, fertilizers, seeds, seedlings, and planting material) was abolished in 2009.
issues licenses for import of cigarettes from EU on tariff quota established in the Stabilisation and Association Agreement.

Annexes of the Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Importation, Exportation, and Transit (RS Official Gazette No. 59/2022) contain lists of goods grouped by the relevant authority. Annex 1 lists goods licensed for importation, exportation, and transit by the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications. Annex 2 lists goods licensed by the Ministry of Health for importation, exportation, and transit of narcotics and psychotropic substances, importation of precursor cells and tissues, and grants approvals for imports and exports of inorganic and organic chemical products and pharmaceutical products. Sale or issue abroad by residents No. Sale of derivatives abroad by residents is regulated by Law on the Capital Market and therefore can be undertaken. The Law on the Capital Market regulates capital market in the Republic of Serbia and does not establish any control/limitation for the issue of derivatives abroad by residents.

Controls on credit operations Yes. Under the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, foreign credit transactions include borrowing and lending by residents in foreign currency and in dinars. Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may borrow in dinars from international financial organizations and development banks or financial institutions founded by foreign states under terms and conditions specified by the NBS. Resident banks may lend in dinars to nonresident legal entities and natural persons, as well as to international financial organizations and development banks or financial institutions founded by foreign states under terms and conditions specified by the NBS. Foreign loans in foreign currency and dinars are reported to the NBS.

Commercial credits No. Resident legal entities and entrepreneurs may grant commercial credits in foreign currency and dinars to nonresidents without restrictions. Banks may also grant commercial credits to nonresidents in dinars under conditions specified by the NBS. Exports of goods or services not collected for more than one year and goods and services paid in advance but not imported for more than one year are considered foreign commercial credits. These transactions are reported to the NBS only if their value is above the prescribed threshold (individual value over 100,000 dinars and/or its equivalent.

By residents to nonresidents Yes. Resident legal entities other than banks may grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents in accordance with the provision of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, which stipulates the NBS may prescribe conditions and manner of performing these operations which may be subject to limitations justified on grounds of public policy and macrofinancial stability, and the NBS bylaw was adopted which prescribes these limitations in cases where they are assessed as justified (case-by-case assessment principle) and taking into account the fulfillment of the objectives of the limitations (targeting principle) and that limitations are proportional. A resident legal entity other than a bank may grant a financial loan to a nonresident debtor with the seat in an EU member state. A resident legal entity may also grant a financial loan to a nonresident debtor without the seat in an EU member state provided the resident is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor. When granting the financial loan to a nonresident, a resident legal entity contracts and obtains collateral instruments from a nonresident.

Banks may grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents without any restrictions, provided they contract and acquire collateral instruments for the payment from a nonresident. Banks may also grant dinar loans to an international financial organization, a development bank, or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation. Claims and liabilities under foreign Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign exchange may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities as prescribed by the NBS.

Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may borrow in foreign currency for purposes other than imports of goods and services and financing construction works abroad (settlement of obligations in the local currency, bank liquidity, etc.) in the manner and under the conditions specified by the NBS. The maturity of such loans to residents other than banks must exceed 12 months (with an obligatory grace period of six months) from each disbursement, except for loans intended for agriculture financing and for export financing, which may have a maturity exceeding three months from each disbursement. Funds from nonresidents may also be borrowed for direct investment abroad. Banks may borrow short-term financial loans in foreign currency from nonresidents. Resident legal entities and entrepreneurs may borrow short-term financial credits and loans from nonresidents with the head office and/or permanent residence in an EU member state. Resident branches of foreign legal entities may borrow from a nonresident founder in foreign currency at maturities longer than a year, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident branches of foreign legal entities may borrow from a nonresident founder with the head office in an EU member state at maturities shorter than a year, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident natural persons may borrow from nonresidents financial loans at maturities longer than a year for imports of goods and services and other purposes, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident natural persons may borrow from nonresidents financial loans at maturities longer than a year for imports of goods and services and other purposes, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may borrow dinar loans from international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states without a foreign currency clause and with maturity longer than one year except for loans for agriculture financing or for export financing, which may have a maturity of more than three months. Dinar loans may be granted with the possibility of prepayment and change of currency in accordance with the lending program/business standards of an international financial organization whose articles of agreement or an agreement regulating its activities in Serbia has been ratified. Dinar loans may be granted from the proceeds of current and capital transactions, including the proceeds of the primary sale of long-term dinar debt securities, issued by a foreign creditor. Banks report on drawdown and repayment under residents’ foreign borrowing to the NBS in electronic format. Guarantees and sureties deemed to be foreign credit transactions in line with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations are reported to the NBS. Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may issue warranties and other means of collateral under credits granted by nonresidents to residents without any restrictions. Resident legal entities other than banks may issue warranties and other means of collateral under credit operations between nonresidents abroad in accordance with the provision of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, which stipulates the NBS may prescribe conditions and manner of performing these operations which may be subject to limitations justified on grounds of public policy and macrofinancial stability, and the NBS bylaw was adopted which prescribes these limitations in cases where they are assessed as justified (case-by-case assessment principle) and taking into account the fulfillment of the objectives of the limitations (targeting principle) and that limitations are proportional. A resident legal entity other than a bank may issue warranties and provide other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents with the seat in an EU member state. A resident legal entity may also issue warranties and provide other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents without the seat in an EU member state provided the resident is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor. When issuing warrants and providing other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents, a resident legal entity contracts and obtains collateral instruments from a nonresident. Banks may issue guarantees to nonresidents under credit operations between nonresidents abroad without any restrictions, provided they contract and acquire collateral instruments for the payment from a nonresident. In addition to guarantees, banks and resident legal entities are allowed to issue guarantees and warranties not deemed to be foreign credit transactions. In that sense, banks may issue guarantees, sureties, warranties, and other means of collateral in accordance with banking regulations. Resident legal entities founded by the Republic of Serbia by a separate law for export financing purposes may perform guarantee operations in accordance with that separate law. A resident legal entity may issue a guarantee to a nonresident against claims from another resident in connection with imports of goods and services, as well as to a nonresident performing construction work in Serbia. A resident public enterprise and legal entity with government-owned capital or a legal entity in the process of restructuring or privatization may issue a guarantee to a nonresident under these operations only under the terms and conditions prescribed by the government.

Nonresidents may issue guarantees and sureties to residents under credits granted by residents to nonresidents. Nonresidents may also issue guarantees and sureties to other nonresidents under credits granted by nonresidents to residents. Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants Yes. Immigrants who have resided in the country for up to one year may freely transfer payments abroad to settle debt in their home country. Immigrants who are residents may freely transfer means of payment abroad up to €10,000 a month for the purpose of settling debt in their home country. Transfers exceeding €10,000 are subject to presentation of evidence on the debt settlement obligation in the home country, provided an application has been filed for residence registration with the relevant body in Serbia.

Transfer of assets Yes.

Transfer abroad by emigrants Yes. Emigrants may freely transfer abroad foreign exchange up to €10,000; for an amount exceeding €10,000, evidence of emigration is required.

Transfer into the country by immigrants Yes. Immigrants may freely transfer assets into the country.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings Yes. Earnings from lotteries may be transferred abroad after payment of all tax obligations.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes. Bylaws and other regulations in effect include provisions on the classification of balance sheet assets and off-balance-sheet items, capital adequacy, risk management (including a more detailed definition of bank compliance risk), preliminary approvals for bank founding and subsequent issuing of full operating licenses, approvals for acquiring bank shares, bank resolution, details regarding the conditions and manner of conducting bank supervision by the NBS, and regulations on external bank audits. The NBS Executive Board implemented the following decisions (published in the RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016) which introduce Basel III standards in the Republic of Serbia:

• Decision on Capital Adequacy of Banks.
• Decision on Disclosure of Data and Information by Banks.
• Decision on Reporting on Capital Adequacy of Banks.
• Decision Amending the Decision on Reporting Requirements for Banks.
• Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks.
• Decision Amending the Decision on Risk Management by Banks.

In addition to ensuring alignment with relevant acquis communautaire in the field of banking, implementation of Basel III standards introduced significant and numerous novelties, in terms of both capital adequacy and the liquidity ratio. In accordance with the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette Nos. 94/2011, 57/2012, 123/2012, 43/2013, 113/2013, 135/2014, 25/2015, 38/2015, 8/2019), the requirements on the classification of banks’ balance sheet assets and off-balance-sheet items (1) harmonize the specifications and conditions for the recognition of prime and adequate collateral with the Decision on Capital Adequacy; (2) iminize the prescribed indicators of financial condition as criteria for classification, with a required commitment to banks’ internal policies and procedures, and define the criteria for assessing the financial condition and method of classification into Categories A through E based on that assessment; and (3) set the materially significant threshold for determining the delay in settlement of obligations of debtors at 1% of the individual claims of the debtor’s legal entity (the same level as for individuals). According to Section 461 of the Decision on Capital Adequacy of Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016), a bank may assign, until the date of its accession to the EU, the weight of the risk of exposures to the Republic of Serbia and the NBS, including exposures to EU member states and their CBs which are expressed and settled in the currency of any member state, in the same manner as it assigns the weight of the risk of exposures to these persons which are expressed and settled in their national currencies. In this regard, Paragraph 3 of Section 41 of this Decision stipulates that exposures to the Republic of Serbia, the NBS, and central governments and CBs of EU member states denominated and funded in their domestic currency must be assigned a risk weight of 0. Banks may assign receivables from a legal entity, entrepreneur, and farmer to another bank. Exceptionally, to reduce distressed assets, a bank may assign the following receivables from a legal entity, entrepreneur, and farmer also to another legal entity: – due receivables; – receivables not yet due but considered non-performing within the meaning of the decision governing the classification of bank balance sheet assets and off-balance-sheet items, and classified as non-performing exposures on the cutoff classification date which immediately precedes the submission of the notification. Banks may assign receivables from a natural person – financial services consumer in accordance with the law governing the protection of financial services consumers. Banks are required to notify the NBS of a planned receivable assignment at least 30 days before conclusion of the assignment contract and to assess the effects of the planned assignment on the bank’s credit risk-weighted assets, reserves for estimated losses, and capital adequacy ratio; – the amount and structure of the bank’s NPLs, within the meaning of the decision on reporting requirements for banks; – the bank’s expenses and financial result; (Decision on Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette Nos. 45/2011, 94/2011, 119/2012, 123/2012, 23/2013 – other decision, 43/2013, 92/2013, 33/2015, 61/2015, 61/2016, 103/2016, 119/2017, 76/2018, 57/2019, 88/2019, 27/2020, and 67/2020)). On August 13, 2015, the government adopted the national NPL Resolution Strategy and on the same day, the NBS Executive Board adopted Decision on the adoption of Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy to fulfill strategic objectives. The Decision Amending the Decision on Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 61/2016) was adopted to regulate money laundering and the financing of terrorism risk, as well as to implement Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy, by introducing the concept of bad assets and regulation of risk management relating to the management of bad assets, and with the aim of complying with Law on Payment Services. For the purpose of implementing the Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy, on June 29, 2016, the NBS Executive Board implemented the Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 61/2016) which has changed the definition and treatment of the restructured receivables, taking into account definitions and treatment of the forborne receivables as envisaged by the European Banking Authority’s implementing technical standard on supervisory reporting on forbearance and non-performing exposures. The Decision envisages the introduction of new definitions of non-performing (NPE), performing, and forborne exposure (in line with technical standards published by the European Banking Authority), prescribes additional requirements for classification for the purpose of additional monitoring of asset quality, so that banks would be obliged in addition to assigning exposures into categories (A, B, C, D, E), to mark the exposures as non-performing, performing, and forborne exposure, with no impact on the calculation of the amount of required reserves for estimated losses, and defines the conditions and the time required for the transition of receivables from one category to another. The Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 69/2016) introduced the model of reducing the amount of required reserve, which is conditional on the level of NPL ratio, earlier than Basel III standards implementation date (applied as of January 1, 2019) to have a longer implementation period for this model and thus to give banks stronger incentive to reduce the level of NPLs and/or increase the lending activity. Given that the adopted amendments to the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items, among others, envisage that banks, which had an NPL ratio of non-state and non-financial sector equal to or lower than 10% on June 30, 2016, and they still have this ratio equal to or lower than 10% on reporting date, can calculate their required reserve, treated as deductible from regulatory capital and credit-risk-weighted assets, to the level of 0. With additional aim to stimulate banks to increase lending activity, the adopted amendments to the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items prescribe possibility for the banks to change the percentage from 2% to 0% applicable to the base for the calculation of reserves for estimated losses for the receivables classified in category B which were created on the basis of contracts signed after September 30, 2016, provided their aim is not refinancing or restructuring. NBS Executive Board implemented the Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 91/2016) to equalize the treatment of bank refinanced exposure to borrower (forborne exposure on earlier valid solution), and the treatment of “refinancing” exposure of another legal entity other than a bank to whom the receivable from that borrower was assigned to (which was not treated as forborne exposure on earlier valid solution).

The Decision Amending the Decision on Consolidated Supervision of Banking Group (RS Official Gazette No. 58/2017) enabled introduction of Basel III standards on consolidated basis with simultaneous harmonization with Basel III standards implemented on individual level. The minimum prescribed level of capital adequacy ratio of the banking group is 8%, which is equal to the requirement for individual banks. Capital requirement for other risks has been introduced (capital requirement for credit valuation adjustment (CVA) risk and a capital requirement for large exposures for each member of the banking group). Obligations for the ultimate parent company to establish a system for liquidity risk management at the level of the banking group are stipulated, as well as the obligation to calculate the LCR and accordingly apply the appropriate restrictions relating to a bank’s exposure to liquidity risk. Guidelines for the identification of default (RS Official Gazette Nos. 69/2017 and 149/2020) were adopted in July 2017. The maturity of the exposures is specified in such a way that, for the purposes of determining that status, the bank considers the exposure to be past due if any amount of the principal amount, interest, or fees was not paid at due date, and that the counting of days past due for exposures with changed terms of repayment is based on the changed repayment schedule. Guidelines also prescribe the manner of calculating a materially significant amount, indications of unlikeliness to pay, conditions for return to a non-defaulted status and the new occurrence of default, application of the definition of default, monitoring the fulfillment of conditions for classification into non-defaulted status, the risk management process as well as requirements regarding the principles of management for banks applying the IRB approach. Provisions that regulate the manner of calculating a materially significant amount must apply as of January 1, 2019. Decision on the accounting write-off of bank balance sheet assets (RS Official Gazette No. 77/2017) applies as of September 30, 2017. In accordance with this decision, banks are obliged on direct write-off of NPLs which are fully impaired if the calculated amount of loan impairment recorded by the bank in favor of allowances equals 100% of its gross book value.

In February 2018, the Decision on Guidelines for the Application of the Provisions of the Law on the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing for Obligors Supervised by the NBS (RS Official Gazette Nos. 13/2018, 103/2018, 57/2019, 137/2020, and 49/2021) is introduced. These Guidelines regulate the manner in which an obligor supervised by the NBS carries out an analysis of the money laundering and terrorism financing risk, the procedure to determine whether the customer or the beneficial owner of the customer is an official, as well as the manner of applying other provisions of the law regulating the prevention of money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

In view of the need to preserve and further strengthen financial system stability amid potential risks caused by the emergency health situation in the country because of COVID-19, the Decision on Temporary Measures for Preserving Financial System Stability (RS Official Gazette No. 33/2020) was adopted imposing the first moratorium on debt payments (entered into force on March 18, 2020). The moratorium was envisaged for all debtors who wish to apply it (natural persons, farmers and entrepreneurs, corporates) and implied a suspension of debt payments for at least 90 days. In July 2020, an additional suspension in the settlement of liabilities was prescribed by the Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks for the Purpose of Mitigating the Consequences of COVID-19 pandemic to Preserve Financial System Stability (RS Official Gazette, No. 103/2020). In accordance with the adopted regulation, borrowers were offered one more suspension in the settlement of their liabilities to banks maturing in the period between August 1, 2020, and September 30, 2020, as well as a suspension in the payment of liabilities that matured in July 2020, and which the borrower has not settled.

In force until December 31, 2021, the Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks to Facilitate Access to Financing for Natural Persons (RS Official Gazette No. 108/2020) that applied as of August 28, 2020, prescribed three sets of temporary measures to facilitate access to housing loans for citizens, and thus provide support to the real sector, through faster turnover of assets, the possibility of extension of housing loan repayment periods for maximum five years, and temporary relaxation of the approval procedure for household short-term dinar loans up to a certain amount. On December 9, 2021, the NBS adopted the Decision amending the Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks to Facilitate Access to Financing for Natural Persons (RS Official Gazette No. 119/2021) effective January 1, 2022, and extended for 12 months until December 31, 2022, the above-mentioned temporary measures.

As of December 19, 2020, the NBS adopted the Guidelines...
Amending the Guidelines for the Identification of Default (RS Official Gazette No. 149/2020), postponing the application of the Guidelines for the Identification of Default, in such a manner that instead of January 1, 2021, it will apply effective January 1, 2022 (except the provisions of item 10 of the Instruction which refers to the manner of determining the materially significant amount and already applies since January 1, 2019), to more accurately assess the effects of the macroeconomic situation caused by COVID-19 on the level of NPLs, and to prevent the growth of NPLs that could occur because of a change in the methodological approach prescribed by the Guidelines.

Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks to Enable Adequate Credit Risk Management (RS Official Gazette No. 150/2020), entered into force on December 15, 2020, prescribing the measures and activities to be applied by banks to ensure adequate credit risk management, which implies timely identification of debtors faced with potential difficulties and taking of appropriate steps. In accordance with this Decision at a borrower’s request, a bank should approve to that borrower (natural person, farmer, entrepreneur and company) a facility for the repayment of liabilities, if he is unable to settle its liabilities to the bank and/or may have difficulties in settling these liabilities because of the COVID-19 pandemic, and also if that debtor was orderly in settling liabilities to the bank in the relevant period before the pandemic. The facilities envisaged by the Decision were rescheduling or refinancing of loans and financial lease liabilities, as well as a six-month grace period and appropriate extension of repayment term. A request for facilities might be filed with banks until April 30, 2021, and the bank’s deadline for deciding on request was within 30 days of receiving the request.

The Decision Amending Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks to Enable Adequate Credit Risk Management amid COVID-19 pandemic effective March 13, 2021, expanded the scope of borrowers who were entitled to facilities in accordance with the Decision from December 2020; specifically, a borrower is entitled to facilities (providing prior orderliness in settling its liabilities to the bank) if as of February 28, 2021, was more than 30 days past due in a materially significant amount on any obligation to the bank arising from products to which this Decision applies.

Decision on temporary measure regarding the calculation of bank capital (RS Official Gazette No. 72/2022) was adopted to give banks the possibility to mitigate negative effects of changes in the prices of securities on bank’s capital, caused by current circumstances in the global financial market. The temporary measure refers to debt securities issued by the Republic of Serbia, an autonomous province or a local government unit of the Republic of Serbia, and which are measured at fair value through other comprehensive income in accordance with IFRS 9. The Decision enables banks to exclude 70% of net unrealized losses and gains resulting from the change in value of the mentioned debt instruments from the calculation of the bank’s Common Equity Tier 1 capital. Banks will be able to apply the temporary measure effective June 30, 2022, until December 31, 2022.

Borrowing abroad Yes.

Credit agreements concluded by banks with nonresidents in foreign currency and dinars must meet the requirements set by the regulations governing banking operations and foreign credit transactions. Banks may borrow short-term financial loans in foreign currency from nonresidents and may also borrow in dinars from international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states under conditions specified by the NBS. Borrowing from nonresidents in dinars and foreign currency is deemed a foreign credit transaction and reported to the NBS. Claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions may be transferred between residents (except natural persons), nonresidents, and residents (except natural persons) and nonresidents, while resident public enterprises and legal entities with state-owned capital require government consent. Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign currency may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities as prescribed by the NBS.

Maintenance of accounts abroad Yes. Authorized banks may hold foreign currency abroad only in accounts with banks.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes. Banks may grant credits in dinars to nonresidents in the manner and under the conditions specified by the NBS. Banks may grant commercial credits in foreign currency to nonresidents and short-term bank credit facilities as well as short-term bank deposits in foreign currency to foreign banks without any restrictions and may also grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents, provided they contract and acquire from a nonresident payment collateral instruments. Banks may also grant dinar loans to an international financial organization, a development bank, or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation; other dinar lending by banks to nonresidents is subject to conditions specified by the NBS. Lending to nonresidents in dinars and foreign currency is deemed a foreign credit transaction and reported to the NBS. Claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions may be transferred between residents other than natural persons, nonresidents, and residents other than natural persons and nonresidents, except for resident public enterprises and legal entities with state-owned capital, which requires government consent. Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign currency may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities in the manner prescribed by the NBS.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. Banks may extend to resident legal entities and entrepreneurs credits in foreign currency for payment for imports of goods and services from abroad and to resident natural persons for the purchase of real estate in the country. Banks may approve loans to natural persons that are indexed to a foreign currency, provided the currency is the euro and the borrower has made a down payment or deposit of at least 30% of the loan amount. Banks may approve a mortgage to a natural person, provided the loan amount does not exceed 80% of the value of the property (reduced by the amount of other receivables secured by the first-rank mortgage on the same property). This requirement does not apply to loans in dinars that are not indexed to foreign currency. Banks were required to treat the amount overcharged by unilateral raising of variable indefinable elements of the interest rate as early loan repayment and notify each borrower with a modified loan repayment schedule within 30 days. With respect to Cooperative Housing Foundation-indexed housing loans, banks were required to offer their borrowers, within 30 days, four sample annex proposals containing modified terms of loan repayment while keeping the existing loan collateral. Borrowers must be given at least three months to decide on the offer and may accept it at any time before the deadline. Banks may not offer conversion, under any of the modalities envisaging such an option for the extension of euro-indexed loans if such terms are less favorable than the terms applied on December 31, 2014, and may not charge any fees for undertaking these measures and carrying out these activities nor obtain compensation for costs related to such measures and activities (NBS Decision on Measures for Preserving Stability of the Financial System in the Context of Foreign Currency-Indexed Loans). The NBS Executive Board adopted the Decision Amending Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 25/2015), with the aim of aligning with the Decision on Measures for Preserving Stability of the Financial System in the Context of Foreign Currency-Indexed Loans, by providing more precise conditions for the calculation of default in accordance with the subsequently agreed maturity date. The Executive Board of the NBS adopted the Decision on Intra-Group Financial Support.

Yes. Purchases of locally issued debt securities are permitted in accordance with the Law on the Capital Market.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange
Yes.

Reserve requirements
Yes.

Banks are subject to a minimum reserve requirement on sources of banking funding. Local currency (dinar) liabilities are treated differently from foreign currency liabilities. There is no reserve requirement for local currency (dinar) liabilities with maturity of more than two years and on banks’ dinar and foreign currency liabilities from international financial institutions, governments, and financial institutions of foreign states through intermediation of the governments as the main debtor and/or owner of these funds or received directly. When banks reinvest these funds, the loan margins must be lower than the average margins on loans approved by the bank from other sources of funds. A 5% reserve ratio applies to local currency liabilities with maturity of up to two years. A 100% reserve requirement ratio applies to the portion of the foreign exchange base composed of liabilities under foreign-exchange-indexed dinar liabilities regardless of the maturity. The mandatory reserve requirement ratio on foreign currency liabilities differs according to maturity. The reserve requirement ratio on foreign currency liabilities is 20% on liabilities with maturity of up to two years and 13% on liabilities with maturity of more than two years. A portion of the required reserves must be allocated in foreign exchange. The allocation differs according to maturity: 62% of the reserve requirement must be allocated in foreign exchange for debt with maturity of up to two years and 70% for debt with maturity of more than two years.

Liquid asset requirements
No. Liquidity ratios are transferred from Decision on Risk Management by Banks in the Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016), which entered into force on December 23, 2016, and is applied as of June 30, 2017. The Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks introduced the liquidity coverage ratio. In accordance with this decision, the bank must maintain the LCR ratio at a level of at least 100%. According to provisions of this Decision, the liquid assets are the sum of level 1 liquid assets and level 2 liquid assets whereby level 1 liquid assets mean assets of extremely high liquidity and credit quality and level 2 liquid assets mean assets of high liquidity and credit quality comprising level 2A liquid assets and level 2B liquid assets. Level 1 liquid assets must include assets prescribed in Section 26 of this Decision, assets which could be included in Level 2A liquid assets are stipulated in Section 28 of this Decision and Section 30 determines what Level 2B liquid assets consist of.

Abroad by banks

Yes. NBS approval is required and issued under the conditions set forth in the decision on the granting of approval for capital investment in banks abroad.

In banks by nonresidents

Yes. NBS approval is required for the acquisition of 5%–20%, 20%–33%, 33%–50%, and more than 50% of voting rights. NBS procedures for processing applications for bank founding permits and acquisition of ownership have been simplified. Criteria for the assessment of solvency of a potential founder/acquirer of ownership that is a legal entity with an investment grade credit rating are the same as for banks, and if the potential founder/acquirer is a special-purpose vehicle, the assessment of solvency is made for the persons financing the special-purpose vehicle’s investment in the bank’s capital rather than for the special-purpose vehicle itself.

The NBS must assess the business reputation of the bank founders, the acquirer of participation in the bank, or the persons nominated for membership in the management bodies of the bank when granting licenses or approvals.

Open foreign exchange position limits

Yes. The definition of total net open foreign exchange position is the higher of the absolute value of the total long or total short foreign exchange position. A bank’s total net open foreign exchange position (including the absolute value of its net open position in gold) limit is 20% of its capital. In accordance with the Decision on Bank Capital Adequacy (Section 368, Paragraph 2), foreign exchange assets and liabilities include all foreign exchange assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currency, assets and liabilities denominated in dinars with a currency clause, where the currency clause is a contractual provision indexing the agreed amount to some other currency.

On resident assets and liabilities

Yes. There are no specific open foreign exchange limits on resident assets and liabilities; the only limit is the one described in Point 9 above.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

Yes. There are no specific open foreign exchange limits on resident assets and liabilities; the only limit is the one described in Point 9 above.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Yes. Securities transactions by institutional investors are regulated in accordance with the Law on the Capital Market, which has been applied since November 2011 and bylaws of the SC.

Insurance companies

Yes. Insurance companies as institutional investors are regulated by the Insurance Law. The Insurance Law of December 26, 2014, and its amendments introduced in May 7, 2021, and the bylaw of June 27, 2015, and its amendments introduced in December 2017 and December 2020 are, respectively, in effect.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes. Insurance companies may invest technical reserves in EU or OECD countries’ government or CB securities, or securities issued by international institutions, as well as in shares of foreign legal entities listed on financial market, up to 25%, and of one issuer, up to 5% for... life insurance and non-life insurance, but also in investment funds, only for unit-linked products. In addition, these securities must fulfill certain qualitative criteria.

Insurance companies may deposit and invest up to 25% of prescribed core capital abroad, with prior approval of the NBS.

Technical provisions may be invested in types of assets designated in Article 131 of the Law, separately for life insurance and non-life insurance, while observing the following limitations: (1) securities and money market instruments issued by Serbia, member states of the EU or OECD, CBs of member states of the EU or OECD, and securities and money market instruments underwritten by any of the above – without limitation; (2) securities issued by international financial organizations in which Serbia is a member of – without limitation; (3) debt securities issued by autonomous provinces and local self-government units, as well as debt securities underwritten by any of the above – up to 35% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 10% of technical provisions; (4) debt securities traded in the securities market in compliance with law where the issuer is a legal person with the head office in Serbia – up to 35% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 5% of technical provisions; (5) debt securities not traded in the securities market if issued by a legal person having the head office in Serbia – up to 3% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 0.5% of technical provisions; (6) shares traded in the securities market in compliance with law – up to 25% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 5% of technical provisions; (7) shares not traded in the securities market if issued by a legal person whose head office is in Serbia – up to 5% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 1% of technical provisions; (8) equity interests of companies having the head office in Serbia – up to 5% of technical provisions and in equity interests in one legal entity – up to 1% of technical provisions; (9) investment units of investment funds – up to the level of technical provisions calculated for a class of life insurance referred to in Article 8, item (5) of the Law, and in investment units of a single investment fund – up to 50% of those technical provisions; (10) immovable property and other proprietary rights on immovable property – if entered in the land registry or other public register in Serbia, if they bring income, if their purchase price is determined in accordance with valuation by a certified appraiser, and if they are not encumbered by a lien – up to 30% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 20% of technical provisions of non-life insurance, provided not more than 10% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 7% of technical provisions of non-life insurance is invested in one and/or several spatially connected immovable properties which make up one whole. Up to 20% of technical provisions of life and or non-life insurance may be deposited with banks having a head office in Serbia, provided no more than 5% of those technical provisions are deposited with a single bank. Technical provisions may be held as cash in the insurance company’s cash box or in its bank account, in the amount of up to 7% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 10% of technical provisions of non-life insurance, provided the sum of deposits and funds in the accounts of one bank does not exceed 5% of technical provisions of life and/or non-life insurance.

Other types of assets that may be acquired using technical provisions, apart from those specified in Articles 131 and 133 of the Law must be the following: (1) unearned premium reserves, outstanding claims reserves, and other technical provisions charged to coinsurer, reinsurer, and retrocessioner, up to the level of their book value, determined by taking into account the creditworthiness of the coinsurer, reinsurer, and retrocessioner; (2) unearned premium receivables under unexpired non-life insurance, coinsurance, and reinsurance – up to 10% of technical provisions of non-life insurance (until December 31, 2022). Up to 20% of mathematical reserves of life insurance may be invested in prepayments (loans on policies) up to the amount of the total surrender value of concluded life insurance contracts.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

Yes. Assets and liabilities of an insurance company must be considered currency matched if the insurance company’s total assets in all currencies equal its total liabilities in all currencies and the difference between assets and liabilities in any currency does not exceed 20% of the value of the assets and/or liabilities.

Pension funds

Yes. Pension funds are regulated by the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds and Pension Schemes. Investment limits are regulated by a supplementary regulation on more detailed conditions and maximum amounts of voluntary pension fund assets investment and the manner of investment of such assets abroad. Each pension fund must establish an investment policy statement that defines investment limits within the regulatory framework.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes. Pension fund assets may be invested (1) up to 10% in (a) debt securities issued abroad by international financial institutions, (b) debt securities issued by foreign governments or foreign legal entities with a credit rating no less than A from Standard & Poor’s and Fitch IBCA or no less than A2 from Moody’s, (c) listed shares of foreign legal entities traded on stock exchanges of EU/OECD member countries, and (d) depository receipts issued by banks headquartered in EU/OECD member countries, based on deposited securities; and (2) up to 5% in investment units of open-end investment funds managed by investment fund management companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU/OECD member countries.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes. Up to 10% of the assets of a pension fund may be invested abroad. The maximum levels, conditions, and manner of investing voluntary pension fund assets are determined by regulation.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes. A pension fund’s assets may be invested without any limitations in debt securities issued by the NBS and Serbia, as well as in debt securities issued by legal entities and accompanied by the guarantee of Serbia. In addition, changes to the Voluntary Pension Fund Law (RS Official Gazette No. 31/11) allow investment in instruments such as (1) short-term debt securities issued or guaranteed by banks headquartered in Serbia and (2) investment units of open-end investment funds managed by companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU and OECD member countries. Detailed limits on investments are prescribed in the Decision on More Detailed Conditions and Maximum Amounts of Voluntary Pension Fund Assets Investment and Manner of Investing Such Assets Abroad (RS Official Gazette No. 43/11). Accordingly, the assets of a pension fund may be invested as follows: (1) up to 50% in (a) debt securities issued by autonomous provinces and local government units in Serbia, except securities with the guarantee of Serbia; (b) debt securities issued in Serbia by international financial institutions to which Serbia belongs; (c) mortgage bonds issued in Serbia; (d) debt securities issued by legal entities headquartered in Serbia and traded in the Serbian regulated market, except securities with the guarantee of Serbia; (e) short-term debt securities issued or guaranteed by banks headquartered in Serbia, as prescribed by the law governing the capital market; and (f) securities issued by nonresidents, such as debt securities issued abroad by international financial institutions and debt securities issued by foreign governments or foreign legal entities, provided their credit rating is no less than A from Standard & Poor’s and Fitch IBCA or no less than A2 from Moody’s; (2) up to 40% in (a) shares issued by legal entities headquartered in Serbia, traded in the Serbian regulated market; and (b) securities issued by nonresidents, such as listed shares of foreign legal entities, traded on stock exchanges of EU/OECD member countries; (3) up to 35% in money deposits in banks headquartered in Serbia; (4) up to 5% in investment units of open-end investment funds managed by investment fund management companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU/OECD member countries; (5) up to 10% in (a) depositary receipts of banks headquartered in Serbia, and (b) securities issued by nonresidents, such as depositary receipts issued by banks headquartered in EU/OECD member countries, based on deposited securities; and (6) up to 5% in real estate in Serbia. Up to 10% of pension funds’ assets may be invested in securities of a single issuer or of two or more issuers that are related parties, with the exception of securities issued by Serbia or the NBS.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

No.

Investment firms and collective investment funds

Yes. Investment firms are regulated by the Capital Market Law, and collective investment funds are regulated by the Law on Open-Ended Investment Funds Subject to Public Offering and the Law on AIFs. Limited investment in units has been introduced, and limits on borrowing from investment funds’ assets have been relaxed.

All of a fund’s assets may be invested abroad, according to the regulation of the SC. All limits are given in accordance with the Law on Open-Ended Investment Funds Subject to Public Offering and the Law on AIFs. These securities must be traded on a regulated market in EU member states and third countries, and 50% must be on the official listing.

The Law on Open-Ended Investment Funds Subject to Public Offering introduced as of April 20, 2020, in its Article 43 the following restrictions on investment of assets of a UCITS fund:

The following limits must apply to the investments of UCITS fund’s assets:

1. up to 10% of UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in transferable securities and money market instruments of a single issuer, provided the total value of the individual investments in transferable securities and money-market instruments of a single issuer exceeding 5% of the fund assets does not exceed 40% of the total value of the UCITS fund’s assets;
2. up to 20% of UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in cash deposits made in a single bank or a credit institution;
3. up to 10% of UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in derivative financial instruments traded on an OTC market, when the counterparty is a bank or a credit institution, or up to 5% of the UCITS fund’ assets, when the counterparty is another legal person;
4. The 40% limit referred to in point (1) of this paragraph does not apply to deposits and OTC derivative transactions made with financial institutions subject to prudential supervision and belonging to the categories authorized by the Commission or another competent authority in the Republic.

Notwithstanding the individual limits in Article 43, Paragraph 1, a UCITS fund may not combine:

1. investments in transferable securities or money-market instruments issued by a single body, (2) deposits made with that body, or (3) exposures arising from OTC derivative transactions undertaken with that body, in a way that would lead to the investment of more than 20% of assets in a single body.

By way of derogation from the limits referred to in Paragraph 1, point 1 of Article 43, a maximum of 35% of the UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in transferable securities or money-market instruments issued or guaranteed by the Republic, the NBS, autonomous province, local self-government unit in the Republic, another Member State, or local and regional self-government unit of a Member State, third country, or a public international body to which one or more Member States belong, in compliance with regulations. By way of derogation from the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 point 1 of Article 43, a maximum of 25% of assets may be invested in bonds issued by credit institutions with a registered office in the Republic or a Member State which are subject to supervision in compliance with the law, for the purpose of protecting investors in such bonds. Sums deriving from the issue of such bonds must be invested in compliance with the law in assets which, during the whole period of validity of the bonds, are capable of covering claims attaching to the bonds and which, in the event of failure of the issuer, would be used primarily for the reimbursement of the principal and payment of the accrued interest from such bonds. If more than 5% of UCITS fund’s assets invested in such bonds are issued by a single issuer, the total value of such investments making up more than 5% of the fund assets may not exceed 80% of the value of the UCITS fund’s assets. The transferable securities and money-market instruments of a single issuer referred to in Paragraphs 3 and 4 of Article 43 may not be taken into account when calculating the limit of 40% referred to in Paragraph 1, point 1. Notwithstanding the individual limits laid down in Paragraphs 1–5 of Article 43, a UCITS fund may not combine the investments in:
(1) transferable securities or money-market instruments issued by a single body, (2) deposits made with that body, and (3) derivative financial instruments made with such body, including OTC derivative financial instruments, in a way that would lead to the combined investment of assets under Paragraphs 1–5 exceeding 35% of the UCITS fund’s assets. Companies that are affiliated undertakings for the purposes of consolidated financial statements in compliance with the law governing accounting are considered a single body for the purposes of calculating the limits contained in Article 43. No more than 20% of the value of a UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in transferable securities and money-market instruments whose issuers are affiliated undertakings referred to in Paragraph 7 of Article 43. No more than 20% of the UCITS fund’s assets may be invested in a single UCITS fund or another investment fund referred to in Article 42, Paragraph 2, point 3 of this Law. The total value of investment in investment funds which are not UCITS funds referred to in Article 42, Paragraph 2, point 3 of this Law may not exceed 30% of the UCITS fund. Investing in derivative financial instruments is allowed exclusively for hedging purposes and only if exposure of a UCITS fund does not exceed its net asset value. A management company may not acquire significant control over the issuer when acquiring voting shares with respect to all UCITS funds it manages. The assets of a UCITS fund may not be invested in securities and other financial instruments issued by the management company and its related parties. Management companies may not take short positions with the assets of the UCITS fund, and may not carry out uncovered sales.
The Commission may prescribe additional criteria for the investment of UCITS fund’s assets.

All of a fund’s assets may be invested abroad, according to the regulation of the SC. These securities must be traded on a regulated market in EU member states and third countries, and 50% must be on the official listing.

The Law on Alternative Investment Funds, Chapter XIII, Article 175 provides general limits on investments in assets of an AIF as of April 20, 2020:

Investment in assets of an AIF are subject to limits envisaged by the Law, secondary legislation of the Commission, and the operating rules of the AIF and prospectus of the AIF, where one is required to be published.

Limits on investment in assets of an AIF may be exceeded where the AIF exercises preemptive or subscription rights attaching to transferable securities or money market instruments which form part of its assets, as well as in connection with the sale of assets of the AIF for the purpose of redeeming a large proportion of shares in the AIF.

Where the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 of Article 175 are exceeded because of circumstances beyond the control of the AIFM, changes in investment strategy of the AIF, or the exercise of subscription rights referred to in Paragraph 2, the AIFM must bring investment by an AIF subject to public offering into compliance within six months of the limits being exceeded, and must undertake transactions involving assets of the AIF primarily to ensure compliance of investment by the AIF, and in doing so must act in the best interests of the members or shareholders of the AIF and endeavor to minimize any losses.

Notwithstanding the above, the Commission may, at the application of the AIFM, extend the time limit by an additional six months, where this is in the best interests of the members or shareholders of the AIF.

Where the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 are exceeded because of circumstances beyond the control of the AIFM or the exercise of subscription rights referred to in Paragraph 2, the AIFM must bring investment by an AIF subject to private placement into compliance either:

1. where so envisaged by the operating rules of the AIF or the prospectus of the AIF, where one is required to be published;
2. where this is not envisaged by the operating rules and/or prospectus of the AIF, where one is required to be published, and there is no established procedure for approval and decision making by members or shareholders of the AIF in such cases, the AIFM must obtain approval by members or shareholders for the course of action it will propose, in their best interests;
3. where action pursuant to Paragraphs 1 and 2 is not possible, bring investment into compliance within six months of the limits being exceeded, and undertake transactions involving the assets of the AIF primarily to ensure compliance of investment by the AIF, and in doing so must act in the best interests of the members or shareholders of the AIF and endeavor to minimize any losses.

Where the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 are exceeded as the result of a transaction entered into by the AIFM that, at the time of its execution, caused the limits on investment to be exceeded or additionally increased the amount by which the limits were exceeded, the AIFM must bring investment by the AIF into compliance immediately on learning of the matter. The AIFM must compensate the AIF and/or the members or shareholders of the AIF for the damage.
The limits on investment referred to in Paragraph 1 may be exceeded in the first six months from the establishment of the AIF, while ensuring observance of the principle of risk spreading and protection of the best interests of members or shareholders.

In accordance with the Law on Open-Ended Investment Funds Subject to Public Offering and the Rulebook on UCITS funds collective investment funds may invest (1) 10% of their assets in securities of a single issuer or more issuers that are related parties; the total value of all individual investments exceeding 5% of the fund’s assets cannot exceed 40% of the total value of the fund’s assets; (2) 20% of their assets in bank deposits of a single bank or more banks that are related parties; and (3) 35% of their assets in debt securities issued by the NBS and Serbia, as well as in debt securities issued by legal entities and accompanied by the guarantee of Serbia or securities issued or guaranteed by EU member states, third countries, or international organizations to which EU member states belong.

Funds may not be invested in mobile assets or in securities issued by the company that manages the fund or by a stockholder of a management company, fund managed by the same management company, or related parties to the above-mentioned persons and entities. A management company and its related parties may invest in shares of its own fund up to 20% of total assets. Borrowing is allowed up to 10% of the assets. Total exposure of a fund to a single person cannot exceed 20% of the fund assets except for the issuers in Point (3) where the limit is 35%. No person may acquire shares valued at more than 20% of total assets of an open-end fund. The Law on AIFs is intended primarily for professional and semi-professional investors.

The Decision amending the Decision on Temporary Measures for Banks to Facilitate Access to Financing for Natural Persons (RS Official Gazette No. 119/2021) extended for 12 months until December 31, 2022, the temporary measures in the Decision on...
Temporary Measures for Banks to Facilitate Access to Financing for Natural Persons (RS Official Gazette No. 108/2020) that applied as of August 28, 2020, and prescribed three sets of temporary measures to facilitate access to housing loans for citizens, and thus provide support to the real sector, through faster turnover of assets, the possibility of extension of housing loan repayment periods for maximum five years, and temporary relaxation of the approval procedure for household short-term dinar loans up to a certain amount.

01/01/2022  As of December 19, 2020, the NBS adopted the Guidelines Amending the Guidelines for the Identification of Default (RS Official Gazette No. 149/2020), postponing the application of the Guidelines for the Identification of Default, in such a manner that instead of January 1, 2021, it will apply from this date (except the provisions of item 10 of the Instruction which refers to the manner of determining the materially significant amount and already applies since January 1, 2019), to more accurately assess the effects of the macroeconomic situation caused by COVID-19 on the level of NPLs, and to prevent the growth of NPLs that could occur because of a change in the methodological approach prescribed by the Guidelines.

06/30/2022  Decision on temporary measure regarding the calculation of bank capital (RS Official Gazette No. 72/2022) was adopted to give banks the possibility to mitigate negative effects of changes in the prices of securities on bank’s capital, caused by current circumstances in the global financial market. The temporary measure refers to debt securities issued by the Republic of Serbia, an autonomous province or a local government unit of the Republic of Serbia, and which are measured at fair value through other comprehensive income in accordance with IFRS 9. The Decision enables banks to exclude 70% of net unrealized losses and gains resulting from the change in value of the mentioned debt instruments from the calculation of the bank’s Common Equity Tier 1 capital. Banks will be able to apply the temporary measure from this date until December 31, 2022.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The rate of the rupee is determined by supply and demand in the market. The CBS intervenes to smooth excessive exchange rate... volatility, address disorderly market conditions, and to accumulate foreign exchange reserves. The CBS discloses intervention data to the IMF on a weekly basis.

The volumes traded during the first quarter of 2021 indicated an excess supply of foreign currency in the market. This was driven by a gradual increase in visitor arrivals following the relaxation of travel restrictions, which improved foreign currency inflows. Whilst there were minor signs of an appreciation of the local currency, the exchange rate remained sticky.

In April 2021, the situation deteriorated because of uncertainty surrounding the market clearing level and speculative behavior, both on the buying and selling sides – which delayed trade within the market. To remove some of the excess supply of foreign exchange and provide guidance to the market, the Bank conducted two FEAs during that month at fixed price to buy US$11 million and US$14 million. Thereafter, some adjustments were observed in the exchange rate and the market started to function in an orderly manner. However, in May, there were reports of delays in meeting demand for foreign currency and once again, some rigidities were observed in the market. This time around, the Bank acted through a sale of US$4.5 million to commercial banks, after which the market resumed its normal functioning.

For the remainder of the year, the rupee displayed much stability relative to the major traded currencies. An overall appreciation was observed compared to the previous year, supported by higher tourism-related foreign currency inflows.

On average, the rupee appreciated by 72 cents (4.1%), from R17.6242 per US dollar in 2020 to R16.8993 in 2021. It also strengthened by 22 cents (1.1%), from R20.2604 to R20.0388 in comparison with the EUR. However, it depreciated by 62 cents (2.7%) against the GBP, with the average exchange rate increasing from R22.5799 in 2020 to R23.2002 in 2021.

Despite initial uncertainties over the impact of the Russia-Ukraine war on the tourism sector, the number of visitor arrivals and earnings generated in the first half of 2022 have surpassed expectations and shown the resilience of the tourism sector to both the COVID-19 waves as well as the geopolitical tensions in Europe. The increased inflow of foreign exchange has helped to offset the rising demand which resulted from the sharp increase in commodity prices internationally. As such, the local currency has remained stable thus far.

Free floating

Official exchange rate Yes. The reference exchange rate is calculated as a weighted average of all foreign currency buying and selling transactions by ADs (banks and exchange bureaus) and wire transfers and drafts and is used for accounting and conversion of payments in foreign currency.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor

U.S. dollar

Euro
The monetary policy framework is an interest-rate-based framework in which the focus of monetary policy is short-term interest rates. This is done through the monetary policy rate (MPR). The MPR serves as the key policy variable used for signaling the prevailing monetary policy stance.

The CBS Board approves the monetary policy stance for each quarter.

Effective January 1, 2021, with the completion of the policy coordination instrument (PCI), there is no inflation target. The monetary policy framework is an interest-rate-based framework in which the focus of monetary policy is short-term interest rates. Previously, in accordance with the policy coordination instrument approved December 13, 2017, the target based on the 12-month inflation path with a tolerance band set between 0% and 4% remained in place until December 31, 2020.

The 12-month inflation rate is monitored on a monthly basis.

The MPR serves as the key policy variable used for signaling the prevailing monetary policy stance. The MPR is set on a quarterly basis. It is supported by a corridor in which the standing deposit facility and the standing credit facility serve as the floor and ceiling, respectively.
Open letter No.
Parliamentary hearings No.
Other No.

Transparency Yes. The monetary policy decision is presented to the media by the Governor, which allows for additional clarification and discussion.
Publication of votes No.
Publication of minutes No.
Publication of inflation forecasts No.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax No.
Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. Commercial banks and exchange bureaus are free to set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients. The aforementioned ADs are also free to determine their foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Spot exchange market Yes. The spot foreign exchange market comprises commercial banks and bureaux de change (BDCs). These financial institutions are licensed and regulated by the CBS. There are two classes of BDCs: (1) Class B may engage only in purchases and sales of foreign currency in the form of banknotes, coins, and traveler’s checks. (2) Class A may also engage in the purchase and sale of foreign currency without the limitation that applies to a Class B BDC. However, Class A BDCs may engage in services of money transfer and remittances if they have a payment service provider license in accordance with the National Payment System Act of August 18, 2014. As of December 31, 2021, there were 29 institutions licensed under the Financial Institutions Act of 2004 to deal in foreign exchange with the public: 8 commercial banks and 13 Class A and 8 Class B BDCs. Only commercial banks may engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the CBS. BDCs and commercial banks must comply with the Anti-Money-Laundering (AML) Act of 2006 and Prevention of Terrorism Act of 2004 and report transactions to the CBS. BDCs may open local and international bank accounts for themselves. Pursuant to the AML and Countering the Financing of Terrorism (CFT) Act of August 2020, BDCs and commercial banks must report transactions to the CBS.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction Yes. The multiple price foreign exchange auction allows the CBS to buy and sell foreign exchange (US dollars, euros, and British pounds only) as part of its foreign exchange and monetary operations. Auctions are held as necessary in the context of foreign exchange and monetary policies as well as reserves management. The CBS determines and announces the amount of foreign exchange to be purchased or sold on the day of the auction through its web portal. Financial institutions that are liable to reserve requirements of the CB or as prescribed in the monetary policy framework are eligible to participate in the auction. Successful bidders pay the price they bid.
The Monetary Policy Technical Committee/Investment Committee may rule on the bids according to guidelines based on price and amount (buying or selling). Auctions are announced through an online portal with all relevant information (for example, auction date, time frame, reference number, foreign currency to be purchased or sold, amount intended to be purchased or sold by the CBS, and value and settlement date of the rupee equivalent). Auction results are sent via the web portal. If payment is delayed, the CBS imposes a fine as indicated in the penalty clause of the monetary policy framework. There are no restrictions on the use of the foreign exchange purchased at the auction. Auction rules are included in the monetary policy framework’s operational guidelines and procedures for foreign exchange auctions. Bids may not breach the MCP rule stipulated in the guidelines.

Fixing

No.

Interbank market

Yes. The CBS and 7 commercial banks licensed under the Financial Institutions Act of 2004, excluding those that do business only with nonresidents, participate in the foreign exchange interbank market. Banks may trade among themselves. Currently, participation in the interbank market is less prominent. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread and commission of market participants. According to the interbank market regulations, the CBS may either intervene directly at the participants’ quoted rates or make its own quote (one-sided). The interbank market in Seychelles was inactive in 2021.

Over the counter

No.

Brokerage

No.

Market making

Yes. The following policies guide market operations through the Seychelles Interbank Foreign Exchange Market. The 7 commercial banks provide two-way quotes (that is, buying and selling rates) at regular intervals through an interbank blog administered and maintained by the CBS. Foreign exchange transactions may be concluded via telephone, but a written confirmation of each deal must always be sent by both parties to the counterparty immediately after conclusion of the transaction. The netting and settlement process is then undertaken by the CBS, and the rupee settlement is executed across the participants’ demand deposit accounts with the CBS on a T+0 basis (same-day settlement). The seller undertakes delivery transfer using a correspondent banking arrangement on a T+0 basis.

Forward exchange market

vehicles.

Importers of restricted items must apply to the MOF, Trade Division, and the Import/Export Permit Section for a permit. All requests are submitted for examination by the Import/Export Permit Section to ensure that all information on the applications is correct prior to being forwarded to the respective competent authority for assessment. The import permit is thereafter issued on recommendation of the competent authority. Permits are typically not granted for used vehicles, with the following exceptions: secondhand vehicles for the transportation of goods, vehicles for special purposes, and used passenger vehicles for the personal use of a returning resident or graduate.

Imports are subject to taxes of up to 200%. Import duty rates on most imports range from 0% to 10%.

FDI is permitted freely, provided such investment does not involve ownership of land.

Non-Seychellois wishing to purchase land in Seychelles must apply for permission under the Immovable Property (Transfer Restriction) Act to the Office of the Principal Secretary in the Ministry of Land Use and Habitat. The following criteria are used to consider applications for approval: (1) the character of the applicant; if the applicant is a company, the character of all company directors; (2) whether the applicant’s declared purpose in acquiring the land conforms to government policies on the use and development of land; and (3) whether the proposed acquisition is in the interest of Seychelles.

Reserve requirements  No.  The minimum reserve requirement (MRR) is 13% for local currency deposits and foreign exchange deposits. The MRR on local and foreign currency deposit liabilities is not remunerated. In July 2021, the government conducted a liability management operation (LMO) to convert short-term government debt to longer term ones. This was done as part of the strategy to improve debt sustainability and reduce rollover risks. To allow for a liquidity buffer and encourage participation of commercial banks, the MRR on Rupee deposits was lowered temporarily from 13% to 10% effective July 14, 2021. Effective July 13, 2022, the MRR ratio of 10% on Rupee deposits was reversed to 13%.

Liquid asset requirements  No.  Banks must maintain liquid assets in an amount, as a daily average each month, greater than or equal to 20% of their total liabilities.

Interest rate controls  No.

Credit controls  No.  Credit controls are as follows: (1) for facilities that meet or exceed 25% of a bank’s core capital, CBS approval is required. The aggregate of such credits may not exceed 600% of a bank’s core capital. (2) Credit to administrators and their close relatives is limited to 10% of a bank’s core capital. (3) Credit to those holding substantial interest and their close relatives is limited to 20% of a bank’s core capital. (4) The combined aggregate of the above two may not exceed 25% of a bank’s core capital. These credit controls are the same for domestic and foreign currency.

With the completion of the policy coordination instrument (PCI), there is no inflation target. The monetary policy framework is an interest-rate-based framework in which the focus of monetary policy is short-term interest rates. Previously, in accordance with the PCI approved December 13, 2017, the target based on the 12-month inflation path with the tolerance band set between 0% and 4% remained in place until December 31, 2020.

Other managed arrangement Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating, as the exchange rate of the leone is market-determined. The BSL does not target a specific level of the exchange rate. The foreign exchange auction data are published on the BSL website. Actual foreign exchange auction data are published as soon as the auction is concluded. Auction data include the amount offered, amount sold, and auction-

The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed.

Floating

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. The BSL official exchange rate is market-determined. The BSL determines the exchange rate used in official transactions, including transactions for customs valuation purposes. The official exchange rate is based on the weighted average of commercial banks’ and foreign exchange bureaus’ purchase transactions during the preceding five business days. The weighted average exchange rate derived is the BSL mid-rate, to which a ±1% spread is applied to determine the selling and buying rates. The daily official BSL exchange rate is published on the BSL website and the Thomson Reuters platform.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  Commercial banks are free to determine their bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients. Commercial banks’ dealings represent the majority of foreign exchange transactions in the foreign exchange market. Foreign exchange bureaus are licensed to undertake retail cash spot transactions only. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market and do not deal directly with the BSL; they may hold foreign exchange accounts with commercial banks used solely for their operations. Foreign exchange bureaus are permitted to undertake inward money transfer transactions.

Spot exchange market  Yes.  There are 14 commercial banks licensed as ADs by the BSL to deal in foreign exchange with the public and 76 foreign exchange bureaus licensed to undertake retail cash spot transactions. Foreign exchange bureaus are permitted to undertake inward money transfer transactions. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market and do not deal directly with the BSL; they may hold foreign exchange accounts with commercial banks used solely for their operations.

Operated by the central bank  Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility  No.

Allocation  No.

Auction  Yes.  The BSL conducts auctions of foreign exchange with the commercial banks to smooth excess volatility. The amount put on offer is always announced via the print and electronic media one day before the auction is held. Commercial banks are free to determine the exchange rate they want to bid at and free to sell to their customers for the importation of goods. There is no restriction or limit to the exchange rates banks are to bid at. The maximum amount commercial banks are allowed to bid for is always announced.

The frequency of the foreign exchange auction is based on the monetary policy stance of the BSL, and it is conducted on approval by the executives. Foreign exchange auctions take place primarily to smooth out volatility in the market and to mop up excess leone liquidity.

There are no restrictions on the use of funds obtained at the auction. Auction funds are primarily to support importation of goods. Auction participants, which are commercial banks, have demand deposit accounts with the BSL. Settlement of the leone leg of foreign exchange transactions is done on a same-day T+0 basis. The auction results are published in print and electronic media and on the BSL website. The results are also broadcast on the Reuters auction platform.

Fixing

- No.

Interbank market

- Yes. Commercial banks may trade freely among themselves and with the BSL. There are 14 commercial banks that are participating in the interbank foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread or commissions of market participants. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. Market participants are guided by the Sierra Leone Foreign Exchange Interbank Market Guidelines. The interbank market continued to be inactive in 2021. High demand for foreign exchange for the importation of essential commodities and the low supply account for the inactivity in the interbank market. Banks prefer to trade with their customers rather than trade in the interbank market because of the low level of foreign exchange liquidity.

Over the counter

- Yes. Licensed commercial banks may deal directly with each other in the foreign exchange market. With the introduction of the Thomson Reuters trading and dealing platform, the interbank foreign exchange market was automated, which enhanced the deepening and improvement of the foreign exchange interbank market. When trading foreign exchange among themselves, banks must use the Thomson Reuters trading platform and may not trade outside of it.

Brokerage

- No.

Market making

- No.

Forward exchange market

- Yes. Forward transactions are limited to imports and exports undertaken with a commercial bank by an institution dealing in the underlying imports or exports. Forward transactions are capped at US$100,000 a transaction. The BSL may participate in the forward foreign exchange market.

Official cover of forward operations

- No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements

- Yes. Payments for imports may be made in leones and credited to an external account in the currency of the exporting country, US dollars, or another international payment currency.

Controls on the use of domestic currency

- No.

For current transactions and payments

- No. There are no restrictions on domestic currency payments for current transactions between residents and nonresidents.

For capital transactions

- No.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments

No. There are no controls on the use of domestic currency for capital market transactions through the Sierra Leone Stock Exchange. Funds for capital account transactions must be channeled through the banking system. BSL approval is required for capital market transactions by residents to nonresidents. Money market transactions by residents to nonresidents are not permitted.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments

No. There are no controls on transactions done in the banking system. However, these instruments are not yet available in the market.

Credit operations

No. There are no controls on the use of domestic currency for credit operations between residents or for credits by nonresidents to residents. However, BSL approval is required for credits by residents to nonresidents.

Use of foreign exchange among residents

Yes. Foreign exchange may not be used among residents for payments of goods and services. The leone is the legal tender under Sections 26 (1) and (4) of the BSL Act of 2019. The leone must be used for pricing and payment for all domestic transactions.

Payments arrangements

Regional arrangements

No.

Clearing agreements

Yes. Clearing agreements: No. There is currently no clearing arrangement in WAMZ currencies through the banking system.

Barter agreements and open accounts

No.

Administrative of control

Yes. Public Notice No. 38 of 1965 conferred the administration of the Exchange Control Act on the governor of the BSL. Under Sections 48(1) and (2) of the BSL Act of 2019, exchange rate policy is formulated and executed by the BSL, which issues guidelines on the purchase, sale, holding, and transfer of foreign exchange.

Payments arrears

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

Yes. Licenses are required for the mining and exportation of gold.

On domestic ownership and/or trade

Yes. Residents and nonresidents may freely purchase, hold, and sell gold coins in Sierra Leone for numismatic purposes.

On external trade

Yes. Exports of gold require a license. Licenses are issued by the Ministry of Mines and Mineral Resources.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

Yes. On exports: Yes. Domestic currency: Yes. On leaving Sierra Leone, travelers may take out up to the leone equivalent of US$10,000. Larger amounts may be taken out through noncash transactions in the banking system.

Foreign currency

Yes. Travelers may take out up to the amount of foreign currency banknotes brought in. Amounts exceeding US$10,000 must comply with anti-money-laundering regulations. Residents and nonresidents may take out up to US$10,000 in foreign currency banknotes for travel. Larger amounts must be transferred via SWIFT and require travel documents—ticket/passport.

On imports

Yes.

Domestic currency

Yes. Travelers may import domestic currency banknotes up to the leone equivalent of US$10,000. Importation of leones exceeding US $10,000 must be done by licensed commercial banks.

Foreign currency

Yes. Licensed commercial banks may import foreign currency to meet their operational requirements subject to justification of the use of the funds. Under the Anti-Money Laundering and Combating of Financing of Terrorism (AML/CFT) 2019 Law, people who leave or arrive in Sierra Leone with more than US$10,000 or other foreign currency in cash or negotiable bearer instruments on their person or in their luggage without declaration to the relevant authority commit an offense and are liable on conviction to forfeit the entire amount.

Resident Accounts

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes. Residents may hold foreign currency accounts in any foreign currency. These accounts, whose minimum balances vary from bank to bank, earn interest at a rate determined by commercial banks. They may be credited with funds from abroad or from another foreign currency account in compliance with the AML/CFT Act or with foreign currency banknote deposits. Withdrawal of banknotes for current international account payments is limited to US$10,000 and must comply with anti-money-laundering regulations. Larger payments are permitted by SWIFT transfers supported by documentation in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. OTC foreign currency banknote withdrawals from customer foreign currency accounts are permitted up to US$10,000 a transaction or its equivalent in other convertible foreign currencies. Holders of foreign currency accounts may withdraw up to US$10,000 cash a transaction for travel and for per diem allowances. Larger payments for travel are permitted via SWIFT transfer, if supported by underlying documents. Customer foreign currency accounts may be used for payments and transfers for current international transactions supported by underlying documentation and in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. All documented inward transfers by nonresidents to customer foreign currency accounts through the banking system that comply with that law may be repatriated without restriction. Payments of salaries and other emoluments in foreign currency banknotes to foreign expatriate staff of international organizations with valid work permits are permitted. Accredited foreign and diplomatic missions in Sierra Leone may withdraw foreign currencybanknotes for their operations. Payments for capital account transactions by SWIFT transfers from residents’ foreign currency accounts require BSL approval. Foreign currency transactions may take place freely through the banking system in compliance with the Exchange Control regulations and the AML/CFT Act. The leone is the legal tender in Sierra Leone and must be used for pricing goods and services.

Approval required

No.

Held abroad

No. Only licensed commercial banks are allowed to hold correspondent banking accounts abroad to meet their operational requirements.

Approval required

No.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No. Accounts in leones may not be held abroad by residents or nonresidents.
Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes. These accounts may be converted to foreign currency for current international transactions. Conversion for capital account transactions requires BSL approval.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. Nonresidents may hold foreign currency accounts in any foreign currency. These accounts, whose minimum balances vary from bank to bank, earn interest at a rate determined by commercial banks. They may be credited with funds from abroad or from another foreign currency account done in compliance with the AML/CFT Act or with foreign currency banknote deposits. Withdrawal of banknotes to make current international account payments is limited to US$10,000 and must comply with anti-money-laundering regulations. Larger payments are permitted by SWIFT transfers supported by documentation and in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. OTC foreign currency banknote withdrawals from customer foreign currency accounts are permitted up to US$10,000 a transaction or its equivalent in other convertible foreign currencies. Holders of foreign currency accounts may withdraw up to US$10,000 cash a transaction for travel and per diem allowances. Payments above US$10,000 for travel are permitted via SWIFT transfer, if supported by underlying documents. Customer foreign currency accounts may be used for payments and transfers for current international transactions supported by underlying documentation and in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. All documented inward transfers by nonresidents through the banking system done in compliance with the AML/CFT Act into customer foreign currency accounts may be repatriated without restriction. Payments of salaries and other emoluments in foreign currency banknotes to foreign expatriate staff of international organizations with valid work permits are permitted. Accredited foreign and diplomatic missions in Sierra Leone are permitted to withdraw foreign currency banknotes for their operations. Payments for capital account transactions by SWIFT transfers from residents’ foreign currency accounts require BSL approval. Foreign currency transactions through the banking system in compliance with the Exchange Control regulations and the AML/CFT Act are unrestricted. The leone is the legal tender in Sierra Leone and is used for the pricing of goods and services.

Approval required

No.

Domestic currency accounts

Yes. Nonresidents may hold leone accounts. Accounts in leones held on behalf of diplomatic missions, UN agencies, and their accredited staff members are designated external accounts. Commercial banks may repatriate residual leone deposits of non–Sierra Leoneans funded from documented inward remittances without BSL approval.

Convertible into foreign currency

Yes. Domestic currency balances of nonresidents may be converted to foreign currency for all current international transactions subject to compliance with regulations on payments for goods and services and the anti-money-laundering regulations.

Approval required

Yes. No approval is required for current international transactions. Approval is required for capital account transactions.

Pension funds

Yes. Pension funds and insurance companies invest in government securities, equities, and real estate, but not in derivatives abroad. Large insurance companies, such as the National Insurance Company, have foreign equity investments in Ecobank Group and WAICA Re. There are specific laws and guidelines for investment, including local purchases of securities by insurance companies and pension funds. There are also recognized internal controls regarding investment abroad, including the National Social Security and Insurance Trust statement of investment strategy and policy (2015–2017). According to Section 8.3.5 on offshore investments, the Trust’s funds may be invested in offshore fixed-income securities or equity traded on regulated stock markets. In this regard, the Trust will use the services of professional fund managers. The Board may periodically review the exposure limits in this area in light of global economic trends. Specific investment limits for pension funds are outlined in the National Social Security and Insurance Trust investment policy.

Singapore’s exchange restrictions are in accordance with UNSC resolutions. These include requirements for financial institutions and variable capital companies to freeze the funds, financial assets, and economic resources of, and prevent financial transactions with, designated individuals and entities with respect to the Democratic Republic of Congo, the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, South Sudan, and Yemen, pursuant to the relevant Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) Regulations and Variable Capital Companies (Sanctions and Freezing of Assets of Persons) Regulations.

In accordance with UNSC resolutions, Singapore also prohibits nonfinancial institutions from dealing with property or assets, providing certain services, and supplying certain items to designated entities and individuals with respect to the Mali, Central African Republic, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Iran, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Sudan, South Sudan, and Yemen.

In addition, all other persons in Singapore have to freeze the assets and not deal with or provide financial assistance to individuals and entities associated with terrorism pursuant to the Terrorism (Suppression of Financing) Act. The freezing obligations and prohibitions include all persons designated pursuant to the UNSC 1267/1988/1989 and subsequent USNC.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is other managed. The authorities manage the exchange rate as an intermediate target of monetary policy, with the objective of maintaining price stability as a sound basis for sustainable economic growth. The Singapore dollar is allowed to fluctuate within a targeted policy band and is managed against a basket of currencies of the country’s major trading partners. Currencies in the basket are assigned weights in accordance with the importance of the countries in Singapore’s trade relations with the world. The exchange rate policy is announced every six months in the Monetary Policy Statement, typically in terms of changes to the slope, central rate, and width of the policy band. In response to changing macroeconomic conditions, the policy parameters may also be adjusted outside the regular biannual cycle. In October 2021, MAS slightly increased the rate of appreciation of the Singapore dollar nominal effective exchange rate (SSNEER) policy band, from 0% previously. In January 2022, MAS added slightly to the rate of appreciation of the band. In April 2022, MAS re-centered upwards the SSNEER policy band and further increased its rate of appreciation.

While the exchange rate has increased its flexibility against the nominal effective exchange rate since December 2021, more observations are necessary to determine its new trend. Until then, the de facto exchange rate arrangement remains classified as stabilized. The MAS intervenes through agents and publishes data on its foreign exchange intervention operations. The data comprise MAS’ net purchases of foreign exchange from its intervention operations on a six-month aggregated basis, and with a three-month lag from the end of the period.

Singapore has implemented measures intended to detect and monitor the movement of physical currency and bearer negotiable instruments (collectively referred to as CBNI) into and out of Singapore. The threshold for reporting of cross-border movements of CBNI is S$20,000. Any person who moves CBNI exceeding S$20,000 or its equivalent in a foreign currency into or out of Singapore must submit a report. Any person who receives CBNI exceeding the prescribed amount from outside Singapore is also required to report it within five business days. These measures are set forth in the Corruption, Drug Trafficking, and Other Serious Crimes (Confiscation of Benefits) Act (CDSA). This is intended as an anti-money-laundering and counterterrorism financing measure in line with the FATF standards (see Recommendation 32) and is not an exchange control measure. There are no restrictions on the type or amount of CBNI that may be moved into or out of Singapore.

Banks may lend in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions for any purpose in Singapore or elsewhere as long as the aggregate credit facilities do not exceed S$5 million an entity. For larger amounts, the following conditions apply: (1) If the proceeds in Singapore dollars are to be used outside Singapore, banks must ensure that they are swapped or converted to foreign currency on drawdown. (2) Banks may extend temporary overdrafts in any amount to vostro accounts of nonresident financial institutions to prevent settlement failure, but must make a reasonable effort to ensure that overdrafts are covered within two business days. (3) Banks must not extend credit facilities in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions if there is reason to believe that the proceeds will be used for local currency speculation. Banks must report monthly to the MAS their aggregate outstanding lending in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions. This requirement does not apply to lending in Singapore dollars to individuals and nonfinancial institutions (including corporate treasury centers).

Foreigners may freely buy all types of residential units, except landed property and public housing. Foreigners who wish to purchase landed properties must obtain approval from the Singapore Land Authority. Effective December 16, 2021, Additional Buyer's Stamp Duty (ABSD) imposed on certain categories of residential property purchases are as follows: 17% (from 12%) applies for Singapore citizens buying a second residential property; 25% (from 15%) for...
Singapore citizens buying a third or subsequent property; 5% (unchanged) for permanent residents buying first residential property; 25% (from 15%) for permanent residents buying a second property; 30% (from 15%) for permanent residents buying a third or subsequent property; 30% (from 20%) for foreign individuals buying any residential property; and 35% (from 25%) for local and foreign nonindividuals (that is, entities) buying any residential property, as well as an additional ABSD of 5% (unchanged) for developers, which is non-remittable (that is, nonrefundable) and must be paid on purchase of the residential property. Developers who meet certain conditions may qualify for a remission from the government of the ABSD of 35% (from 25%).

Effective May 9, 2022, any transfer of residential property into a living trust is subject to an ABSD rate of 35%.

There are no specific restrictions for foreigners on the sale of nonlanded private property. However, the seller stamp duty (SSD) was introduced in February 2010 for all residential property and residential land sold within one year of purchase. Currently, the holding period for SSD stands at three years, and the SSD rates are 12%, 8%, and 4% for residential property sold in the first, second, or third year of purchase, respectively. Foreigners who buy landed private property with approval may not sell it before five years from the date of purchase—if the property is under construction, or before five years from the issuance of the temporary occupation permit or certificate of statutory completion, whichever is earlier. Foreigners may not buy or own public housing.

Lending locally in foreign exchange No.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange Yes.

Reserve requirements Yes. Foreign currency deposits accepted by banks in Singapore are not subject to reserve requirements.

Banks must, during each two-week maintenance period, maintain in its Current Account and Custody Cash Account, an aggregate average minimum cash balance of at least 3% of its average Qualifying Liabilities computed during a two-week computation period.

On a daily basis, banks’ end-of-day aggregate cash balance must not be below 2%, while aggregate cash balances in excess of 4% are disregarded when computing the average aggregate cash balance requirement of 3%.

Liquid asset requirements Yes. The liquid asset requirements for banks incorporated and headquartered in Singapore were revised, after January 1, 2015, in line with the global implementation of the LCR rules. For all other banks in Singapore, the requirements came into force January 1, 2016. Banks in Singapore must comply either with the LCR or with the minimum liquid assets (MLA) requirement.

Banks complying with the LCR must ensure that they hold sufficient high-quality liquid assets in any currency to meet their expected net cash outflow in any currency. In addition, banks must ensure that they hold sufficient high-quality liquid assets in Singapore dollars to meet their expected net cash outflow in Singapore dollars. The expected net cash outflow also includes outflows expected from deposits.

As of January 1, 2019, banks incorporated and headquartered in Singapore must maintain at all times a Singapore dollar LCR of at least 100% and an all-currency LCR of at least 100%. Any other bank notified by MAS that it is a domestic systemically important bank, or a bank that elects to comply with the LCR framework, must maintain at all times a Singapore dollar LCR requirement of 100% and an all-currency LCR requirement of 50%.
Any bank that has been notified by MAS that it is an internationally active bank must also maintain at all times a Singapore dollar LCR of at least 100% and an all-currency LCR of at least 100%. In addition, any bank that is not a domestic systemically important bank or an internationally active bank may choose to comply with either the MLA or the LCR requirement, regardless of whether the bank is incorporated and headquartered in Singapore.

Banks complying with the MLA requirement must ensure that they hold sufficient liquid assets in any currency amounting to no less than 16% of the value of their qualifying liabilities (a subset of the bank’s liabilities) in any currency. In addition, banks must ensure that they hold sufficient liquid assets in Singapore dollars amounting to no less than 16% of the value of their qualifying liabilities in Singapore dollars. Qualifying liabilities include, among others, amounts due to nonbank customers such as deposits.

There are no specific restrictions on investments in banks by nonresidents. Although investments in banks are subject to prudential limits and approvals, the provisions are not exchange related. These requirements also apply to all individuals, regardless of their residency or citizenship status, and to all bodies corporate and unincorporated, whether operating in Singapore or not.

The requirements state that no person may become a substantial shareholder (that is, 5%), 12% controller, 20% controller or indirect controller of (1) a bank incorporated in Singapore or (2) a financial holding company without approval of the minister. The minister may approve the application, if the authority is satisfied that (1) the person is a fit and proper person; (2) under the likely influence of the person, the designated financial institution will or will continue to conduct its business prudently and comply with the provisions of the law; and (3) if the minister is satisfied that the acquisition is in the national interest.

Risk requirements apply. Insurers are required to maintain sufficient financial resources to meet the total risk requirements at adjusted fund level and for the company as a whole. The total risk requirement includes a risk requirement of 12% on the foreign currency mismatch risk, which is calculated as the aggregate of net foreign currency open positions of the insurer minus 10% (or 20%) of the total value of assets in the insurance fund for Singapore policies (or for offshore policies). Foreign currency assets that match foreign currency liabilities are excluded from the calculation of the foreign currency mismatch risk. Insurers are required to fulfill a concentration risk requirement if the foreign currency mismatch exceeds 40% of total assets.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)
Yes.

The Slovak Republic maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EC regulations solely for national and international security reasons. These include the freezing of funds and economic resources of those responsible for the violation of international electoral standards in the presidential elections in Belarus on March 19, 2006, and the crackdown on civil society and democratic opposition and natural or legal persons, entities, and bodies associated with them; certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia in Bosnia and Herzegovina; Democratic Republic of the Congo; certain persons who threaten the peace and national reconciliation process in Côte d'Ivoire; Egypt; Eritrea; Guinea (Conakry); Guinea-Bissau; and the Islamic Republic of Iran; certain persons and entities in Iraq; the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea; Lebanon; persons and entities associated with former President Charles Taylor in Liberia; listed persons, entities, and bodies of Libya; Russia; Somalia; former President Slobodan Milosevic and natural persons associated with him and certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia in Serbia and Montenegro; Sudan; Syria; Tunisia; Ukraine (as amended); Zimbabwe; persons and entities associated with Osama bin Laden, Al-Qaida, and the Taliban; and certain other persons, groups, and entities, with a view to combating terrorism. On May 22, 2014, the authorities notified the IMF of certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU Council regulations solely for national and international security reasons.

Other security restrictions
No.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
Yes. The currency of the Slovak Republic is the euro.

Other legal tender
No.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary
Yes.
The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. The Slovak Republic participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The reference rates are usually updated around 16:00 Central European Time on every working day, except on TARGET (Trans-European Automated Real-time Gross Settlement Express Transfer) closing days. They are based on a regular daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.
To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. Previously, it was defined as inflation below but close to 2% over the medium term.

ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market

Yes.

As of December 31, 2021, 485 bureaus had been licensed to provide foreign exchange services (for currency exchange activity, including the purchase and sale of funds in foreign currency for euros in cash) to the public. The National Bank of Slovakia (Národná banka Slovenska (NBS)) issues foreign exchange licenses for trading in foreign exchange assets and for foreign exchange services. Institutions licensed by the NBS may conduct noncash transactions in foreign currency and make payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses No.
Other No.
Import licenses and other nontariff measures Yes.
The EU has the exclusive responsibility for applying the common commercial policy, including import licenses and other nontariff measures. The Slovak Republic accepted and fully implemented the EU regulations on common trade and agricultural policies on the date of its accession to the EU. Regulation (EU) No. 2019/1148 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 20, 2019, on the marketing and use of explosives precursors, amending Regulation (EC) No. 1907/2006 and repealing Regulation (EU) No. 98/2013 (Text with EEA relevance), is in force.

Positive list No.
Negative list No.
Open general licenses Yes. Act No. 392/2011 Coll. on Trading with Defense Industry Product and on amendments and supplements to certain acts.
Licenses with quotas Yes. The EU import licensing system is in place to manage imports of specific products subject to quantitative restrictions, safeguard measures, or import surveillance. The EU currently maintains more than 130 tariff quotas, mostly on agricultural products, which allow certain goods to be imported into the EU at a lower level of duty than would usually apply. These quotas are administered through import licenses and apply to imports of certain items under the EU Common Customs Tariff related to beef, sheep, goats, chicken, turkey, fish, milk, eggs, potatoes, fruit and vegetables, wheat, barley, rice, maize, mushrooms, sausages, sugar, fruit juice, chocolate, pasta, and wine. The EU’s common licensing system and quotas apply to imports of textiles from the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea and wood from Russia. Commission Implementing No. 498/2012 on the allocation of tariff-rate quotas for imports of wood in the categories spruce or silver fir and pine is in effect (Annex I). The Commission allocates tariff quotas based on whether an importer is “traditional” or “new,” and the allocation of tariff quotas depends on when the importer submitted its application. Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No. 2016/2148 of December 7, 2016, laying down rules for the management and distribution of textile quotas was established for the year 2017 under Regulation (EU) No. 2015/936 of the European Parliament and of the Council. Regulation (EU) No. 2015/936 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 9, 2015, on common rules for imports of textile products from certain third countries not covered by bilateral agreements, protocols, or other arrangements, or by other specific Union import rules is in effect.

Other nontariff measures Yes. Certain measures are imposed for environmental, health, safety, sanitary, and phytosanitary reasons. Moreover, the EU imposes trade and economic sanctions in accordance with resolutions of the UNSC.
Import taxes and/or tariffs Yes. The EU Common Customs Tariff system, including preferential tariffs, applies; the EU GSP applies to imports from developing economies. The availability and scope of tariff preferences within the GSP depend on the arrangement with the beneficiary country. The following arrangements are available under the GSP: (1) a general arrangement, (2) a special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance, and (3) a special arrangement for the least developed countries. Imported goods are subject to VAT and excise duties (mineral oil, alcoholic beverages, tobacco products,

Controls apply to (1) gambling operations (lotteries and similar games). Act No. 30/2019 Coll. on Gambling Games, which covers online gambling and establishing the Gambling Regulatory Authority responsible for licensing, supervision, sanctioning, and levies management. Licenses may be issued to corporate entities domiciled in the Slovak Republic or in another EU Member State or domiciled in the Slovak Republic with foreign shareholders that are domiciled or have permanent residence in another EU Member State or in a Member State of the OECD. A corporate entity domiciled in a Member State other than the Slovak Republic may be issued a license if it has a representative registered with the Regulatory Office for Gambling. (2) Air services, which may be granted an operating license, provided EU members and/or nationals of EU members own more than 50% and effectively control it, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediate enterprises, except as provided for in an agreement with a third country to which the EU is a party; and (3) the extent that under Directive (EU) No. 2009/65, a depository of a UCITS must either have its registered office in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country.

Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments.

Natural persons and legal entities from EU (including Slovak Republic) or EEA member countries and Switzerland can acquire agricultural land without any restrictions, because the rules for offering agricultural land established by Act No. 140/2014 Coll. were annulled by the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic. The prohibition for acquirers from other states has not been annulled and is still in effect. The acquisition of agricultural land by citizens or residents or legal entities based in other state than Slovak Republic, an EU or EEA member country, or Switzerland, is prohibited if the acquisition of agricultural land in this state is prohibited for citizens or residents or legal entities based in the Slovak Republic.

Effective September 1, 2022, the general rules against the fragmentation of the agricultural land were amended (prohibition of creating new land or new co-owner’s deal with smaller area than 3000 m2 (previously 2000 m2) of agricultural land; Act. No. 180/1995 Coll.) The general rules against the fragmentation of forest land remain (prohibition of creating new land or new co-owner’s share with smaller area than 5000 m2 of forest land; Act. No. 180/1995 Coll.) and rules regarding the right of pre-emption (the right of first refusal for the co-owners to purchase land in the event that the co-owners should decide to sell) (Civil Code).

There are no specified limits or minimum legal requirements on portfolio held locally included in these limits. Pension companies must comply with Prudent Person Rule as well.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

Yes. Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition are stated in Articles 86 and 88 of Act No. 43/2004 and in Articles 53a Paragraph 7 and 53b Paragraph 13 of Act No. 650/2004. Pension companies must comply with Prudent Person Rule as well. The assets of a guaranteed bond pension fund which are not hedged against foreign exchange risk may constitute not more than 5% of the fund’s NAV (Article 86, 2, Act No. 43/2004). The assets of a non-guaranteed equity pension fund which are not hedged against foreign exchange risk may constitute not more than 80% of the fund’s NAV. (Article 88, 2, Act No. 43/2004)

The assets of a distribution supplementary pension fund which are not hedged against currency risk may constitute not more than 5% of the fund’s NAV (Article 53a, 7, Act No. 650/2004). Assets denominated in a currency other than the euro which are included in the assets of a supplementary pension fund and are not hedged against currency risk may not exceed 30% of the fund’s NAV. In managing currency risk, SPMCs must take into account investments in euro-denominated instruments whose underlyings comprise instruments denominated in a currency other than the euro. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Slovenia participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender.

The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 16:00 Central European Time on every working day, except on TARGET closing days. The reference rates against the euro are the average of the buying and selling rates.

To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and noninflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. Previously, it was defined as inflation below but close to 2% over the medium term.

Slovenia is a member of the EMU and is part of an integrated money and foreign exchange market.

Foreign exchange market: Yes.

As of June 30, 2022, 13 of 14 banking institutions are licensed by the Bank of Slovenia (BOS) for operations in foreign exchange markets. Seventeen foreign exchange bureaus are licensed to purchase and sell foreign banknotes with individuals only.
There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of interbank market participants. As of June 30, 2022, 13 of 14 banking institutions are licensed by the BOS for operations in the foreign exchange interbank market.

Because Slovenia introduced the euro in 2007, the domestic banking institutions have been participating in the common OTC foreign exchange market.

The forward exchange market is not specifically regulated.

According to Article 75 (Obligation to report cash transactions and transfers to high-risk countries and deadlines) of the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing Act, as of April 5, 2022, the person liable shall communicate to the Office the specific information on any cash transaction exceeding EUR 15,000, as soon as it has been carried out and at the latest within three working days of the completion of the transaction.

The listed persons shall communicate to the Office the specific information on any cash and non-cash transaction exceeding EUR 15,000 which is made to payment accounts at the customer’s request (1) of legal and natural persons in the countries referred to in points 1 and 2 of the third paragraph of Article 55 of this Act (countries (a) listed as high-risk third countries with strategic deficiencies that are not subject to appropriate measures to prevent and detect money laundering or terrorism financing, or (b) which are more likely to experience money laundering or terrorism financing), (2) legal and natural persons having their registered office or permanent or temporary residence in the countries referred to in points 1 and 2 of the third paragraph of Article 55 of this Act, as soon as the transaction has taken place, but no later than three working days after the transaction has been carried out.

According to Article 74 of the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing Act, as of April 5, 2022 (Limitation of cash operations), persons who carry out the activity of selling goods or providing services in the Republic of Slovenia may not accept payment in cash from a customer or a third party in the sale of certain goods or the provision of an individual service if this payment exceeds the value of EUR 5,000. They may not, in the course of their activities, pay out cash to a customer or a third party if that payment exceeds EUR 5,000. This limit on cash payments shall also apply if the payment for goods or services sold is made in several related cash transactions exceeding the value of EUR 5,000 in total.

Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is a conventional peg. The Solomon Islands dollar (SBD) is pegged to an invoice-based weighted basket of currencies consisting of the US dollar (with the weight of 58%), the Australian dollar (AUD) (32%), the New Zealand dollar (5%), the Japanese yen (3%), and the British pound (2%). The exchange rate basket weights are published on the Central Bank of Solomon Islands (CBSI) Annual reports. The CBSI sets the exchange rate vis-à-vis the US dollar as to maintain the value of the basket constant in SBDs given the movements of currencies in the basket relative to each other. The exchange rate is allowed to move along the exchange rate basket and market fundamentals with no fixed band imposed on the basket movement.

The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as crawl-like.

Official exchange rate  Yes.

The SBD a US dollar value is the value of the index multiplied by the SBD a US dollar value on the day the basket peg was introduced. The exchange rate (midrate) is expressed in SBDs a US dollar and is determined by the total index of the basket multiplied by the initial base rate expressed in SBDs. The midrate is then announced as the official rate. Commercial banks can exchange the SBD against other currencies and are free to set the bid-ask spread for all currencies, except the US dollar and AUD on which there is a spread limit of ±20 and ±25 basis points (bps), respectively. In addition, the CB maintains a standing facility through which it will buy and sell foreign exchange with commercial banks and the government at spot offer and sell rates. Customs uses a monthly average of commercial banks’ exchange rates for valuation of imports and exports.

The monetary aggregate target is mainly domestic price stability with limited monetary policy tools such as liquid asset ratios, CB bills, and the exchange rate policy/regime.

A tax of SIS3 is levied on sales of foreign exchange exceeding SI $3,000.

The commercial banks are the main players in facilitating the foreign exchange market trading. Commercial banks may freely determine their bid-ask spread for all currencies (except the US dollar and AUD, for which a spread limit of ±20 and ±25 bps, respectively, around the midpoint applies) and foreign exchange commissions with their clients. The CBSI has also issued classified restricted foreign exchange licenses to legitimate money transfer services and money exchange providers (for example, Western Union, Money Gram). Currently, four commercial banks, three money transfer companies, and nine subagents for money transfer are licensed by the CBSI to deal in foreign exchange with the public. They can effect foreign currency transactions on behalf of their clients. The CBSI has licensed ten companies as exchange bureaus for banknotes only. The four commercial banks may trade directly with the CBSI. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to maintain accounts abroad, and they do not transact directly with the CBSI. Their operation is limited to purchase and sell of banknotes only. Money transfer companies and their subagents can do foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

The CBSI’s foreign exchange standing facility allows commercial banks and the government to buy and sell foreign exchange at the spot rate (CBSI offer and sell rates).

The CBSI provides a standing foreign exchange facility to the commercial banks and the government at official spot buying and selling rates with a margin of ±12 bps around the midpoint. The same spot rate is applied to both the government and the commercial banks’ foreign exchange deals.

Foreign exchange standing facility

Yes.

The CBSI provides a standing foreign exchange facility to the commercial banks and the government at official spot buying and selling rates with a margin of ±12 bps around the midpoint. The same spot rate is applied to both the government and the commercial banks’ foreign exchange deals.

Allocation

No.

Auction

No.

Fixing

No.

Interbank market

Yes.

There is an interbank foreign exchange market in which commercial banks may trade among themselves. All ADs (four) are authorized and licensed for interbank foreign exchange trading with each other. These banks may freely set their exchange rates for all foreign currencies except the AUD and the US dollar, for which the CBSI sets the limits. The US dollar and AUD spread limit on commercial banks’ foreign exchange transactions is ±20 bps for the US dollar and ±25 bps for the AUD around the midpoint. The spread limit applies to interbank transactions as well as transactions with clients. The interbank market is generally active, and the CBSI can also provide foreign exchange to the commercial banks. During 2021, all four banks participated actively in the interbank foreign exchange market among themselves and with the CBSI.

Over the counter

Yes.

The market operates over the counter at times by commercial banks.

Brokerage

No.

Market making

Yes.

The operation of market making exists among all four commercial banks for interbank trading. Most interbank foreign exchange trading on a daily basis is done by market makers.

Forward exchange market

Yes.

Commercial banks may enter into forward contracts with resident clients in any foreign currency but subject to CBSI approval if the deal is in US dollars and AUDs. The CBSI, however, does not participate nor provide guarantees in foreign exchange in the market for foreign exchange derivatives.

Official cover of forward operations

No.

The CBSI does not provide official forward exchange cover.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements

Yes.

Contractual commitments in a foreign currency to nonresidents may be met by payments only in the currency specified in the contract. Exports are normally priced in foreign currency as agreed to between exporters and buyers; therefore, export proceeds are bought by commercial banks that deliver the SBD equivalent to the exporter’s local account. However, exporters with approved foreign currency accounts may receive foreign currency payments in their foreign currency account.

Controls on the use of domestic currency

Yes.

SBDs are used for domestic transactions only and are allowed for settling foreign exchange transaction equivalents. However, the Foreign Exchange Control Regulations restrict the exportation of banknotes except with CBSI approval. Solomon Islands notes and coins may be exported up to SI$250 without CBSI approval.

For current transactions and payments

Yes.

Domestic currency may be used to buy foreign currency to settle all trade and current transactions and payments. Commercial banks may effect without CBSI approval payments up to specified limits for... personal and travel remittances and for trade and services payments. Payments for current transactions above specified limits require CBSI approval. All capital and financial repayments require CBSI assessment and approval.

For capital transactions  Yes. Domestic currency may be used to buy foreign currency to settle foreign capital transactions only with CBSI approval. All capital and financial repayments require CBSI assessment and approval.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes. The use of domestic currency to buy foreign currency requires CBSI approval.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes. For transactions in derivatives, such as forwards and swaps, CBSI approval is required.

Credit operations  Yes. Borrowing abroad requires CBSI approval. The assessment is based on prudential debt equity requirements for exchange control purposes.

Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes. Residents may settle transactions in foreign exchange only with CBSI approval.

Payments arrangements  Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements  No.

Operative  No.

Inoperative  No.

Regional arrangements  Yes. The Solomon Islands participates in the Melanesian Spearhead Group Trade Agreement, PACER, and PICTA.

Clearing agreements  No.

Barter agreements and open accounts  No.

Administration of control  Yes. Exchange Control Act is administered by the CBSI through the foreign exchange (exchange control) regulations. The CBSI delegates extensive power to commercial banks, which are appointed ADs in foreign exchange and may approve certain transactions. Commercial banks may approve applications for trade and service payments and for travel and personal remittances up to specified limits. Payments for current transactions above specified limits require CBSI approval. All capital-related payment approvals are not delegated to ADs and must be approved by the CBSI. Other legitimate requests for foreign exchange require CBSI approval.

Payments arrears  No.

Official  No.

Private  No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)  Yes. Only licensed gold dealers and licensed gold producers and exporters are permitted to export and trade in gold.

On domestic ownership and/or trade  Yes. Only Solomon Islands citizens may be granted a license to pan for alluvial gold. The CBSI may buy, sell, and hold gold and has participated in gold investments. A gold holding policy and trading agreement is in effect between the CBSI and the members of the London Bullion Market Association in particular Gold Corporation of Perth Mint. Commercial mining companies are licensed by the Ministry of Mines, Energy and Rural Electrification to mine gold.

Controls relating to domestic ownership of gold are subject to Ministry of Mines and Energy Act and other related laws; however, the CBSI exchange control restricts offshore investment in gold without CBSI approval.
On external trade

Yes. Commercial banks and all other residents are required to obtain a permit issued by the Ministry of Mines, Energy and Rural Electrification to mine, buy, or export gold. Residents are obliged to get CBSI approval if they decided to buy and hold gold abroad.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

On exports

Yes.

Domestic currency

Yes. Travelers may not take out more than SI$250 without the approval of the CBSI, which is not normally given. The CBSI sells banknotes to collectors abroad and, in some circumstance, exports Solomon dollar notes to authorized license money changers in the region for foreign exchange services.

Foreign currency

Yes. Both resident and nonresident banks are obliged to get approval from the CBSI on the amount of foreign currencies to be exported. Travelers may carry with them foreign banknotes up to the equivalent of SI$50,000 without CBSI approval. Beyond this limit, travelers must provide CBSI approval evidence and explanation of the need of foreign exchange and approval can be granted.

On imports

Yes.

Domestic currency

No.

Foreign currency

Yes. Both resident and nonresident banks are obliged to get approval from the CBSI on the amount of foreign currencies to be imported. Nonresident travelers visiting the Solomon Islands may bring in foreign currency up to the equivalent of SI$50,000. Beyond this limit, travelers must declare and provide evidence and explanation of the need of foreign exchange. Unused foreign currency notes declared and brought into the country can be taken out of the country without CBSI approval.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. The CBSI permits eligible export companies and organizations to operate foreign currency accounts. There are 78 active foreign currency accounts of which 68 accounts are held onshore and 10 offshore, totaling about US$400 million as of July 31, 2022. Each account is approved with a foreign currency benchmark (maximum); it may hold at any one time within a renewable period of one year subject to CBSI approval. At present, this facility has been reviewed and further relaxed for all eligible residents and individual to hold foreign currency accounts for both onshore and offshore.

Held domestically

Yes. Resident companies may obtain CBSI approval to hold these accounts when there is a genuine need. Exporters are allowed to hold 20% of their export proceeds in foreign exchange accounts to facilitate foreign exchange obligations abroad without CBSI approval. Such accounts may be opened in only one currency, chosen by the exporter. The balance of 80% of export proceeds must be sold to local commercial banks and the SBD equivalent deposited in a local bank account. Effective November 1, 2021, resident individuals are eligible to hold foreign exchange accounts domestically.

Approval required

Yes. The CBSI gives approval based on its assessment for local companies to hold foreign currency accounts domestically.

Held abroad

Yes. These accounts are permitted for resident companies, but approval by CBSI is required. Effective November 1, 2021, resident individuals are eligible to hold foreign exchange accounts abroad.

Approval required

Yes. The CBSI gives approval based on its assessment for the need for Advance payments may be made based on the contract between the supplier and the importer. There is no limit on prepayments for imports. Effective January 3, 2022, the administrative requirement that was imposed by the CBSI as of August 10, 2020, for all applicants for prepayments greater than SI$100,000 to provide documentary proof of receipt of cargoes (Solomon Islands Government customs document) from previous prepayment approvals was eliminated. This was a temporary monitoring measure imposed during COVID-19 to ensure that trade prepayments are genuine.

Banks may require advance import deposits, but under the current foreign exchange regulations, banks are not obliged to require advance import deposits.

Generally, required documents include invoices, customs clearance evidence, or a bill of lading or airway bill.

LCs are encouraged for all trades and are frequently used. They are not mandatory for imports.

Only the importation of ammunition requires licensing.

Investment by resident companies and other organizations operating in the Solomon Islands is subject to certain conditions, including the likelihood of benefit to the Solomon Islands. This is an EC approval and is given by CBSI as current EC and foreign exchange regulations restrict investment or capital transfer offshore.

Approval by the Investment Division of the Department of Commerce, Trade and Industries is required for initial or increased foreign investment.

Approval is readily granted for the transfer of proceeds. Sales of investments by nonresidents to either residents or nonresidents require exchange control approval by the CBSI.

CBSI approval is required to register share transfers of any real estates.

CBSI approval is required to register share transfers.

Controls apply to all personal and capital transactions, except the transfer of assets into the country by immigrants.

CBSI approval is required before loan contracts are concluded.

CBSI approval is required.

Effective July 8, 2021, these transactions require CBSI approval for amounts exceeding SI$100,000 (previously SI$30,000).

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Held domestically 11/01/2021

Resident individuals became eligible to hold foreign exchange accounts domestically.

Held abroad 11/01/2021

Resident individuals became eligible to hold foreign exchange accounts abroad.

Imports and Import Payments

Financing requirements for imports

Advance payment requirements 01/03/2022

The administrative requirement that was imposed by the Central Bank of Solomon Islands as of August 10, 2020, for all applicants for prepayments greater than SI$100,000 to provide documentary proof of receipt of cargoes (SIG customs document) from previous prepayment approvals was eliminated. This was a temporary monitoring measure imposed during COVID-19 to ensure that trade prepayments are genuine.

Import taxes and/or tariffs 06/01/2022

A 50% import duty exemption on fuel was granted, which is expected to last until December 2022.
Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers

Trade-related payments

Prior approval 07/08/2021 Commercial banks may approve applications for payments of up to SIS$250,000 (previously SIS$100,000) or the equivalent for all trade-related payments. Central Bank of Solomon Islands approval is required for all trade-related payments exceeding SIS$250,000 (previously SIS$100,000).

Payments for travel

Prior approval 07/08/2021 Commercial banks may effect without Central Bank of Solomon Islands approval payments up to SIS$100,000 (previously SIS$30,000) for personal and travel remittances.

Personal payments

Prior approval 07/08/2021 Central Bank of Solomon Islands evaluation and approval are required for personal payments exceeding SIS$100,000 (previously SIS$30,000) a transaction a person a month.

Credit card use abroad

Prior approval 07/08/2021 Replenishment of credits exceeding SIS$100,000 (previously SIS$30,000) requires assessment and approval by the Central Bank of Solomon Islands.

Other payments

Prior approval 07/08/2021 Application of overseas payments for insurance premium up to SIS$100,000 a transaction no longer requires Central Bank of Solomon Islands (CBSI) assessment and approval, but is facilitated by ADs (subject to approval by Controller of Insurance prior to AD facilitation). All premium payments above this limit must be submitted to CBSI for approval.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
Yes.

While the Somali shilling is the official currency, the de facto currency in use in Somalia is the US dollar. All government transactions are conducted and denominated in US dollars, with exception of small amount of taxes collected by Federal Government of Somalia and Benadir Regional Administration denominated in Somali shilling. Most of the financial transactions are settled in US dollars. Somali shillings are used for small payments between private parties (virtually all counterfeit). Such notes are used as sub-denominations to US dollar banknotes. Also, neighboring countries’ currencies are used in border areas.

To combat the existing counterfeiting, restore confidence in the national currency, and support access to financial instruments, the Central Bank of Somalia (CBS) is in the process of implementing a comprehensive “Currency Exchange Project” with support of the World Bank. The CBS has completed a wide survey to assess the amount of shilling in circulation in Federal Member States and Benadir, which is one of the important tasks that underpin the overall success of the project. The Project Appraisal Document was finalized and submitted to the World Bank Board; however, delays in the general elections delayed the endorsement of the project in 2021, but it is expected to be endorsed in 2022. Other important steps taken include the completion of logistic requirements project costing and the establishment of the National Project Steering Committee.

Other legal tender
Yes.

All transactions are converted to US dollars.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary
Yes.

The Somalia exchange market is composed of private money traders. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate. The CBS publishes a daily average exchange rate measured in US dollars/SOS. The CBS does not set this rate. Depending on local liquidity and demand conditions, exchanges rates can differ between Federal Member States markets. The CBS also does not conduct significant foreign exchange operations nor transactions in Somali schilling.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is undetermined. Because of the absence of administrative measures controlling the level of the exchange rate, and the inexistence of legitimate SOS banknotes packed and protected by the CBS in the foreign exchange market, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a free-floating arrangement. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate.

The economy is de facto dollarized with no active monetary policy.

There is a foreign exchange market in which the exchange rate is negotiated freely among resident holders of foreign exchange accounts.

The Somalia exchange market is composed of private money traders. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate. The CBS has licensed and supervises ten money transfer companies as of December 31, 2021, and thirteen commercial banks, including their capital base, liquidity, transparency, and accountability, in accordance with best practices.
There is no interbank foreign exchange market. The CBS has completed the National Payment Project which consisted of three sections: (1) Interbank ITI infrastructure, (2) Automated Transfer System, and (3) National Switch. The National Payment System became live and was officially launched effective August 7, 2021, to facilitate domestic interbank market. The National Switch is currently underway, the Board has been established, and the organization and the governance arrangement have been finalized. The operationalization aspect is ongoing and expected to facilitate interbank market transactions.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)
No.

Other security restrictions
Yes.

The Financial Intelligence Centre Act (Act No. 38 of 2001, as amended) (FIC Act) imposes certain duties to accountable institutions (including banks, life insurance companies, and authorized dealers in foreign exchange with limited authority (ADLAs)) to provide for the implementation of financial sanctions and to administer measures pursuant to resolutions adopted by the UNSC. Sections 26A, 26B, 26C, and 28A deal with financial sanctions by UNSC. The Prudential Authority and the Financial Surveillance Department (FinSurv) of the South African Reserve Bank (SARB) conducted banks’ and ADLAs’ client screening systems’ examination in 2014 and again in 2017 to ensure that their screening and monitoring systems are capable of identifying persons and property listed in the UNSC lists (for example, UNSC lists 1267/1989/2253). South Africa maintains restrictions on payments and transfers to UNSC-listed persons and countries as well as on the transfer of funds to the Taliban, Al-Qaida, and ISIL in accordance with UNSC resolutions. The Bank Supervision Department (now the Prudential Authority) issued Guidance Note 8/2008 (of June 17, 2008) regarding Section 6(5) of the Banks Act of 1990 in response to the FATF call for enhanced scrutiny of transactions with certain jurisdictions and to UN sanctions in relation to the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. Because the FATF list of high-risk and non-cooperative jurisdictions was amended subsequent to Banks Act Guidance Note 8/2008, the Prudential Authority will, in addition to the aforementioned Banks Act Guidance Note, also issue a new Banks Act Guidance Note informing banks and mutual banks of the FATF list of high-risk and non-cooperative jurisdictions. Anti-money-laundering and combating the financing of terrorism on-site inspections by the Prudential Authority assess banks’ compliance with UNSC resolutions to prevent business relationships with sanctioned countries, entities, and individuals and dealing in sanctioned goods, etc. In addition, anti-money-laundering and combating the financing of terrorism on-site inspections by FinSurv assess ADLAs’ compliance with UNSC resolutions.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
Yes. The currency of South Africa is the South African rand (ZAR).
Other legal tender: Yes. Certain gold coins, such as Krugerrands and the Natura and Protea Series, are legal tender.

Exchange rate structure

- Unitary: Yes.
- Dual
- Multiple

Classification

- No separate legal tender
- Currency board
- Conventional peg
- Stabilized arrangement
- Crawling peg
- Crawl-like arrangement
- Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
- Other managed arrangement

Floating: Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free-floating. The exchange rate of the rand is determined by market forces (that is, demand and supply) in the foreign exchange market. The SARB has a publicly announced foreign exchange policy of purchasing foreign currency in the local foreign exchange market when market conditions permit. The main objective for conducting spot purchases is to accumulate foreign exchange reserves. However, in certain exceptional cases, the SARB’s involvement in the spot market is aimed at facilitating the smooth functioning of interbank foreign exchange market, for example, when there are relatively large foreign direct inflows into the country. In implementing its foreign exchange policy, the SARB does not seek to influence the level of the exchange rate. The SARB interacts with ADs as the price taker for official and commercial purposes. The market makers and brokers quote prices to other market participants; the SARB does not quote prices for market participants. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. The SARB does not publish foreign exchange intervention data but publishes information notice on changes in official foreign reserves with explanatory statement at the end of every month. The information notice is published on a monthly basis within 7 working days of the new month.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. The SARB publishes rand exchange rates daily against most traded currencies, such as the US dollar, euro, and pound sterling, at about 10:30 a.m. on its website (www.resbank.co.za). The rates are based on the four big banks’ (Standard Bank, ABSA, FirstRand, and Nedbank) foreign exchange quotes on the Reuters electronic trading system. The SARB also calculates the nominal effective exchange rate (NEER) for the rand and publishes it at 10:30 a.m. daily. The NEER is calculated according to South Africa’s largest international trading partners in manufactured goods. The NEER is currently calculated against 20 currencies; the five largest weights are euros.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework Yes. South Africa formally introduced inflation targeting in February 2000, after announcing the intention to adopt the framework in August 1999.

Target setting body Yes.

Government

Central Bank

Monetary Policy Committee

Central Bank Board

Other

Government and Central Bank Yes.

The inflation target is set by government after consultation with the Bank. Decisions are made by consensus. The Monetary Policy Statements make reference to the preferences of monetary policy members, but not on an individual member basis.

Inflation target Yes.

Target number Yes.

Point target

Target with tolerance band

Band/Range Yes. The inflation target range is 3%–6% for the year-on-year (y-o-y) increase in the headline CPI (CPI for all urban areas) on a continuous basis.

Target measure Yes.

CPI Yes. The inflation rate targeted is the CPI for all urban areas. CPI as published by Statistics South Africa (STATS SA) is used.

Core inflation

Target horizon No.

Operating target (policy rate) Yes.

Policy rate Yes. Effective June 8, 2022, the monetary policy implementation framework has moved from a shortage system to a surplus system with quotas. A 7-day weekly repo is still offered, albeit on a much smaller scale. The SARB pays repo on reserves (other than the CRR) up to individual bank quotas. Any funds in excess of quota are remunerated at the Standing Facility rate of repo less 100 basis points. The weekly 7-day repurchase auction is conducted with the commercial banks, at the repo (policy) rate as determined by the MPC. The Bank lends funds to the banks against eligible collateral, which comprises assets that also qualify as liquid assets in terms of the prudential liquid asset requirement.

Target corridor band Yes. In addition to the main repo facility, the Bank offers a range of end-of-day facilities for the commercial banks to square off the daily positions on their settlement accounts, for example, access to their cash reserve balances held with the Bank, supplementary repos/reverse repos conducted at the repo rate, and an automated standing facility whereby the end-of-day balances on the banks’ settlement accounts are automatically settled at a rate of 100 basis points below or above the policy rate.

Other No. Other Accountability No. The Governor of the Bank appears at least once a year in parliament before the Select Committee on Finance to explain the monetary policy stance adopted by the MPC.

Open letter n.a. Parliamentary hearings Yes. The Governor of the Bank is required to submit annually a report on the implementation of monetary policy to the Minister of Finance.

Other Yes. Transparency Yes. The Bank’s commitment to transparent monetary policy has resulted in several initiatives to improve the communication of its policies to the public. At the conclusion of every MPC meeting, an MPC statement is issued through a press conference by the Governor of the Bank explaining the reasons for the MPC’s policy stance. This press conference is broadcast live on national television, and at the same time, the MPC statement is released on the Bank’s website. Monetary Policy Forums are also held to develop a better understanding of monetary policy. These Forums are held twice a year in the major centers of South Africa, across all provinces.

Publication of votes n.a. Publication of minutes n.a. Publication of inflation forecasts Yes. The Bank also publishes its Monetary Policy Review twice a year. This Review is aimed at broadening the understanding of the intentions and conduct of monetary policy. Moreover, the Review analyzes the domestic and international developments that have impacted on inflation and motivates the monetary policy reaction to these developments. An assessment of the future outlook for the factors determining inflation as well as the Bank’s forecast of the future path of inflation is provided in the Monetary Policy Review. The Bank also publishes its inflation forecasts and assumptions simultaneous to the release of the monetary policy statement. Other materials are published from time to time, to increase awareness and understanding of its monetary policy function.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.
Foreign exchange market: Yes. Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market: Yes. FinSurv is authorized by the National Treasury to appoint ADs and ADLAs. As of July 31, 2022, there are 27 ADs, 3 restricted ADs, and 26 appointed ADLAs. ADLAs are classified as follows: Category one—(0 ADLA in the market) authorized to operate as a bureau de change; Category two—(12 ADLAs in the market) authorized to operate as a bureau de change, to transfer gifts and study allowances within the single discretionary allowance (SDA) limit, to transfer earnings of migrant workers and foreign nationals, and to offer money remittance services in partnership with external money transfer operators; Category three—(10 ADLAs in the market) authorized to operate as an independent money transfer operator and/or value transfer service provider; and Category four (4 ADLAs), which is a combination of Categories two and three. ADLAs must maintain minimum unimpaired capital in a savings or investment type bank account separate from their business and clients' funds as follows: Category one: R 2 million; Category two: R 3 million; Category three: R 5 million; and Category four: R 8 million. All transactions undertaken by an AD or an ADLA must be reported to FinSurv. ADLAs may only maintain accounts abroad with approval from FinSurv.

Operated by the central bank: No. The SARB conducts spot transactions and foreign exchange swaps in the foreign exchange market. The SARB conducts spot purchases to accumulate foreign exchange reserves and service foreign exchange obligations of its clients. In addition, the SARB conducts foreign exchange swaps for the purpose of liquidity management in the money market and to sterilize the money market impact of foreign exchange purchases for the accumulation of reserves.

Foreign exchange standing facility: No.
Allocation: No.
Auction: No.
Fixing: No. The SARB does not conduct any ZAR fixings.

Interbank market: Yes. Twenty-seven ADs are authorized to participate in the foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads, and commissions vary between ADs and their clients. The SARB interacts with ADs as the price taker for official and commercial purposes. The market makers and brokers quote prices to other market participants; the SARB does not quote prices for market participants.

Over the counter: Yes. Foreign exchange swaps, options, and outright forwards are the most important foreign exchange derivatives traded over the counter.
Brokerage: Yes. The foreign exchange market operates based on a system of brokers (via brokers and electronic brokering systems).
Market making: Yes. There is a market-making agreement between ADs and their clients.
Forward exchange market: Yes. ADs are permitted to conduct forward exchange operations, including providing cover for transactions by nonresidents (subject to certain limitations). ADs are also permitted to provide forward exchange cover in any foreign currency to residents for firm and ascertained foreign exchange commitments and for accruals because of or from nonresidents arising from authorized trade and nontrade transactions. Forward exchange contracts may cover the entire period of the outstanding commitments or accruals. For the purpose of managing domestic money market liquidity, the SARB may conduct... foreign exchange swaps in varying maturities with ADs for up to 12 months.

The SARB does not participate in the provision of forward exchange cover to the market.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Countries outside the CMA constitute the nonresident area. The rand is legal tender in Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia. Lilangeni banknotes from Eswatini, loti banknotes from Lesotho, and Namibian dollar banknotes from Namibia are convertible to rand at par, but are not legal tender in South Africa.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. Rand may not be used in foreign exchange transactions; however, settlements between residents of the CMA and the nonresident area may be made in rand to and from a local nonresident account and in any foreign currency (except the currencies of Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia).

For current transactions and payments Yes. There are no restrictions on current account transactions conducted within the ambit of the Exchange Control Regulations. Rand may be used freely for current account transactions and payments inside of the CMA and up to the limit of R 1 million in terms of the SDA via the Vostro system for current account payments.

For capital transactions Yes. Where parties wish to transact outside of the ambit of the Currency and Exchanges Manual for Authorised Dealers, approval is required from FinSurv.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. Certain types of transactions require FinSurv approval, such as outward direct investment if the total of the new investment exceeds R 5 billion a company a calendar year.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Approval is required where the instruments are issued by nonresident parties.

Credit operations Yes. Certain types of transactions will require FinSurv approval, for example, entities that are 75% or more nonresident owned who require to borrow funds from an AD for, for example, the purchase and sale of any securities, repurchase agreements, and any derivative transactions on securities and/or the acquisition of residential property in South Africa, where the funds that they wish to borrow exceed the 1:1 ratio.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. South African residents may invoice each other locally in foreign currency; however, settlement must be in rand.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements No.

Operative No.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements Yes. South Africa is a member of the CMA. Payments within the CMA are unrestricted.

Clearing agreements No.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes. The Treasury has delegated the administration of exchange controls to FinSurv with the authority to appoint ADs and ADLAs. FinSurv permits ADs to handle most foreign exchange transactions within the prescribed authorities and limits identified in the Currency and Exchanges Manual for ADs and the Currency and Exchanges Manual for ADLAs. The Manuals are available on the SARB website.
Residents may purchase, hold, and sell gold coins for numismatic purposes as well as minted gold bars in accordance with South African regulations, but only the monetary authorities, ADs, registered gold producers, and authorized parties may purchase, hold, or sell gold in any form other than jewelry. Gold producers may elect to sell their total output to approved buyers, with clearance from the South African Diamond and Precious Metals Regulator. The South African Mint strikes gold coins, such as the Krugerrand, Natura, and Protea, which are legal tender, without face value, and these are available in limited numbers to the local market.

Exports of gold are subject to Exchange Control Regulations. Exchange Control Regulations pertaining to the repatriation of export proceeds remain applicable to gold exports. Export proceeds are required to be received not later than six months from the date of shipment. ADs may authorize South African exporters to grant credit up to a total of 12 months to foreign importers, provided the AD is satisfied that it is necessary. ADs are permitted by FinSurv to approve exports of jewelry up to an insurance value of R 200,000 constituting the personal effects of a traveler (with written declaration that it will be brought back on the traveler’s return or within six months). Exports of gold jewelry by manufacturing jewelers require a written declaration that the articles are in fully manufactured form and that the gold content of each does not exceed 85% of the selling price to the ultimate consignee. Export of gold jewelry by manufacturing jewelers should be referred to the Precious Metals Act of 2005 by South African Diamond and Precious Metals Regulator. With FinSurv approval, residents may export currency coins, including certain gold coins, for sale to numismatists.

Visitors and residents may take with them up to R 25,000 a person a trip for incidental expenses. The amount is not considered part of the basic travel allowance, which is part of the SDA of R 1 million an individual a calendar year. Residents who are under the age of 18 years may be accorded a travel allowance not exceeding an amount of R 200,000 a calendar year. This limit does not apply to migrant workers returning to neighboring countries, who are permitted to take with them reasonable amounts in banknotes representing their earnings in South Africa. There are no limits on the exportation of domestic currency to Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia. South African banknotes repatriated from Angola, Botswana, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Madagascar, Malawi, Mauritius, Mozambique, Seychelles, Tanzania, Zambia, and Zimbabwe may be remitted on submission of documentary evidence that they were not exported from South Africa in violation of the Exchange Control Regulations. The consignment of banknotes must be accompanied with confirmation by the repatriating bank that they were acquired from bona fide travelers from South Africa in amounts not exceeding R 25,000 a traveler.
outside the CMA may take out their allowance in foreign banknotes. This allowance forms part of the SDA of R 1 million an individual a calendar year. Residents who are under the age of 18 years may be accorded a travel allowance not exceeding an amount of R 200,000 a calendar year. Foreign visitors leaving South Africa may take with them any amount of foreign banknotes brought into the country or obtained through the disposal of instruments of exchange brought into and converted in South Africa. CMA residents in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency at local international airports to cover unforeseen incidental costs while in transit abroad, subject to viewing an air ticket confirming a destination outside the CMA. CMA residents working and residing in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency by ADs subject to proof that the value of such funds is reasonable in relation to their income generating activities in South Africa.

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Approval required

Yes. Transfer of funds in excess of R 11 million (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) by resident individuals requires FinSurv approval.

Held abroad

Yes.

Approval required

No. South African companies may, without FinSurv approval, open foreign bank accounts for the proceeds of permissible transactions. South African natural persons may keep their R 10 million foreign capital allowance, income earned abroad after July 1, 1997, and authorized foreign assets in a foreign bank account, without FinSurv approval.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad  No. Resident rand accounts may not be held abroad, but residents may open a foreign currency account offshore.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency  No. Resident rand accounts may not be converted to foreign currency accounts.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted  Yes. ADs are required to open separate accounts on behalf of nonresident clients to distinguish between regular clearing accounts and foreign exchange trading accounts. This requirement does not affect the transferability of funds.

Approval required  No. Foreign exchange accounts may be opened for nonresidents, and funds in these accounts may be transferred abroad without restriction. No approval is required for the opening of nonresident accounts.

Domestic currency accounts  Yes. These accounts may be credited with authorized payments by residents, proceeds of sales of foreign currency to ADs, redeposits of unused rand withdrawn during visits to the CMA, and payments from other nonresident accounts. They may be debited for payments to CMA residents for any purpose (except loans), transfers to a local nonresident account, remittance to countries outside the CMA, purchases of foreign currency, rand payments for investment in local debt instruments, and rand payments to account holders during visits to the CMA.

Convertible into foreign currency  No. A foreign currency account may be opened for a nonresident in foreign currency, but a nonresident rand account may not be converted to a foreign currency account.

Approval required  No.

Blocked accounts  No. Effective March 1, 2021, there are no more emigrant capital accounts. The concept of emigration as recognized by FinSurv has been phased out with effect from March 1, 2021, and the Form MP 336(b) used to record an emigrant’s particulars has been discontinued. Previously, emigrant capital accounts were opened for emigrants and used for statistical purposes. These accounts were not blocked. Cash and proceeds from South African assets held at the time of departure and subsequently sold were credited to these accounts whereafter these funds might be transferred in amounts of R 20 million a family a calendar year or R 10 million an individual a calendar year, without FinSurv approval. Emigrants were allowed to transfer abroad funds in excess of the aforementioned limits, on application to FinSurv. Emigrants’ assets were released from these accounts without paying an exit levy, and ADs might release funds from these accounts for local expenditures without restriction.

The distinction between South African resident assets and nonresident assets remains extant. ADs may allow the transfer of assets abroad, provided a private individual: (1) has ceased to be a resident for tax purposes in South Africa; (2) has obtained a TCS in respect of “emigration” from South African Revenue Service (SARS); and (3) is tax compliant on verification of the TCS. In addition, private individuals may in the same calendar year that they ceased to be residents transfer via an AD up to R 1 million as a travel allowance, without the requirement to obtain a TCS PIN letter. This is a once-off dispensation and cannot be used in subsequent calendar years. Private individuals ceasing to be residents for tax purposes only qualify for the aforementioned travel allowance and may not avail of any unutilized portion of the SDA available to residents. ADs may allow the transfer of up to a total amount of R 10 million a calendar year a private individual who ceases to be a resident for tax purposes in South Africa and is 18 years and older, provided the individual is tax compliant and submits the applicable TCS Application for verification. South African non-tax residents who transfer more than R 10 million offshore will be subjected to a more stringent verification process by SARS as well as a subsequent approval process from FinSurv. Such transfers will trigger a risk management test that will, inter alia, include verification of the tax status and the source of funds, as well as risk assess the private individual in terms of the anti-money laundering and countering terror financing requirements, as prescribed in the FIC Act, 2001 (Act No. 38 of 2001). Effective February 23, 2022, ADs may, on a once-off basis, remit abroad the remaining cash balances (of up to R 100,000 in total) of people who have ceased to be resident for tax purposes, without reference to SARS.

ADs may provide foreign exchange for advance payments and/or cash-with-order requests, without FinSurv approval, to cover the cost of permissible imports, not including capital goods, on presentation of an invoice stating that payment must be made in advance. ADs do not need FinSurv approval for advance payments of up to 100% of the ex-factory cost of capital goods to be imported—up to R 10 million. Advance payment for imports of capital goods exceeding R 10 million is limited to 50% of the ex-factory cost. Any amount in excess requires FinSurv approval. For advance payments up to R 50,000, ADs are not required to review the SARS customs declaration with the movement reference number for imports to ensure that the foreign exchange was used for the stated purpose and that the goods were actually imported.

ADs must insist on the presentation to them of the prescribed SARS Customs Declaration bearing the Movement Reference Number as evidence that goods in respect of which transfers have been effected have been cleared by Customs. These documents must be presented at the time foreign currency payments for imports are made where the goods have already been cleared by Customs, or in the case of advance payments in excess of R 50,000 within four months of the date of payment. The detailed information shown on these documents must be checked against the information obtained at the time payment for the relative import was made to verify that the payment made relates to the goods that have been cleared.

Supporting or supplementary documents may include, but are not limited to, LCs.
Import licenses used as exchange licenses
No.

Other
Yes. Importers are automatically permitted to buy foreign exchange to pay for current imports on presentation to their bank of the necessary transport and consignment documents (proof of importation) and an import permit, when required. An import verification system allows ADs to authenticate and view payment of electronic SARS customs declaration forms. Resident individual importers are not required to furnish import documentation for imports within their R 1 million SDA.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures
Yes.

Positive list
Yes. Imports from Botswana, Eswatini, Lesotho, Malawi, Namibia, and Zimbabwe that are grown, produced, or manufactured in these countries do not require a permit from the International Trade Administration Commission of South Africa (ITAC), except some categories of new goods, which are subject to import control regulations; used and secondhand goods; goods manufactured from used or secondhand goods, including waste and scrap imported from outside the SACU. New goods imported from Malawi and Zimbabwe that are grown, produced, or manufactured in Malawi or Zimbabwe are not interpreted to include new goods subject to import control regulations, used and secondhand goods, and goods manufactured from used and secondhand goods imported from outside Malawi and Zimbabwe.

Negative list
Yes. The negative list includes most used goods, including waste and scrap; fish, crustaceans, and mollusks; mineral fuels; radioactive chemicals; new pneumatic tires; certain minerals; firearms; gambling machines; certain chemicals used in drug manufacturing; and ozone-depleting substances. All importers requiring ITAC import permits for controlled goods for trade or manufacturing purposes must be registered with the Directorate of Import and Export Control of the ITAC. Permits are valid for imports from any country.

Open general licenses
No.

Licenses with quotas
Yes. Import quotas apply to certain agricultural and manufactured products, including clothing and textiles imported from Zimbabwe supported with a Quota and Origin Certificate issued by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce of Zimbabwe. No import quotas are administered by ITAC as a nontariff regime.

Other nontariff measures
No.

Import taxes and/or tariffs
Yes. Tariff rates vary from 0% up to the WTO bound rate of 50% for commercial goods. A 15% VAT is levied on imports from Botswana, Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia.

Taxes collected through the exchange system
No.

State import monopoly
No.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Unless otherwise permitted, export proceeds must be remitted to South Africa not later than six months from the date of shipment and must be offered for sale to an AD within 30 days of receipt thereof. Exporters with CFC accounts may retain funds in such accounts without converting them to rand.

South African residents traveling abroad for business or pleasure are allowed a travel allowance within the overall limit of the SDA equivalent to R 1 million a calendar year for each person 18 years and older and R 200,000 a calendar year for each person under 18 years, without any daily limit, regardless of the country of destination. Residents whose visits overseas extend from the current year into the following year may be accorded foreign currency in respect of the next year’s facilities without returning to South Africa. Businesses qualify for a global travel allowance of R 20 million a calendar year at the discretion of the company. Residents may be allowed a cash float in foreign currency, not exceeding the equivalent of R 100,000 at any one time, if they must make cash payments related to the transportation of goods on a regular basis to nonresidents. Residents embarking on coastal cruises in South African territorial waters and cruises without a destination have access to foreign currency within the R 1 million SDA, provided a valid passenger ticket in their name has been issued in the South Africa. Exchange allowances in excess of the above limits may be provided with FinSurv approval. CMA residents in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency at local international airports to cover unforeseen incidental costs while in transit abroad, subject to viewing an air ticket confirming a destination outside the CMA. CMA residents working and residing in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency by ADs subject to proof that the value of such funds is reasonable in relation to their income generating activities in South Africa. Exchange allowances in excess of the above limits may be provided with FinSurv approval. Natural persons, who are 18 years and older, are permitted to avail of an SDA within an overall limit of R 1 million an individual a calendar year, without the requirement to obtain a TCS PIN letter, which may be used for any legal purpose (including for investment purposes abroad). This dispensation may be utilized solely at the discretion of the resident without any documentary evidence having to be produced to the AD, except for travel purposes outside the CMA where a passenger ticket needs to be produced. The resident individual must produce a valid green bar-coded South African Identity Document or Smart ID card for identification purposes and the identity number is mandatory when reporting the transaction. FinSurv approval is required for amounts in excess of the limit. An exemption from the Money-Laundering and Terrorist Financing Control Regulations, 2002, made under the FIC Act, 2001, allows residents and nonresidents to transfer or remit funds to a destination outside of South Africa up to an amount of R 5,000 a transaction a day within a limit of R 25,000 an individual a calendar month without the need for ADs and ADLAs to obtain and verify income tax numbers and residential addresses as well as exemption from various record-keeping provisions. It remains a requirement that the accountable institution still obtains, verifies, and records the names, date of birth, identity, or passport numbers as well as the transaction details.

Indicative limits/bona fide test Yes. Monthly pension payments to former residents (emigrants) are permitted, provided an individual has ceased to be a resident for tax purposes in South Africa; has obtained a TCS in respect of “emigration” from SARS; and is tax compliant on verification of the TCS. South African residents temporarily abroad may receive transfers from their retirement pensions and annuities, as well as monetary gifts and loans.

Foreign workers' wages Yes.

Prior approval No.

Quantitative limits No.

Indicative limits/bona fide test Yes. Foreign nationals must complete a declaration and undertaking on taking up temporary residence in South Africa.

Credit card use abroad Yes.

Prior approval No. Approval is required with respect to travel expenditures. Residents temporarily abroad may use their local debit/credit cards within the overall SDA of R 1 million an applicant during a calendar year.

Quantitative limits Yes. Travel-related expenditures may not exceed 100% of the corresponding allowance.

Indicative limits/bona fide test Yes. Permissible transactions—for example, imports over the Internet—are limited. The limit for credit card payments relating to such imports is R 50,000 a transaction for individuals and resident corporates.

Other payments No.

Prior approval No. ADs may permit remittance of miscellaneous payments incurred outside the CMA, with documentary evidence confirming the amount involved. ADs may grant approval for royalty payments, provided the Department of Trade and Industry has approved the relevant royalty agreement.

Quantitative limits No.

Indicative limits/bona fide test No.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements Yes. Corporate entities are required to repatriate earnings to South Africa within 30 days of receipt. South African residents (private individuals) may retain income earned abroad after July 1, 1997, except for the sale proceeds of South African assets received from nonresidents and export proceeds. Effective February 23, 2022, resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. Previously, any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation was not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad had to be submitted to FinSurv.

Surrender requirements  Yes.
Surrender to the central bank  No.
Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes. Residents must, unless exempt, sell foreign currency to ADs within 30 days of receipt. Business travelers are exempt from selling their foreign currency to ADs when the next business trip is to occur within 90 days from returning from a business trip. Corporate entities are permitted to retain repatriated funds in their CFC accounts without converting them to rand.

Restrictions on use of funds  No.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions  Yes. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance). Residents temporarily abroad may avail of the R 1 million SDA and the R 10 million foreign capital allowance a calendar year without returning to South Africa.

Repatriation requirements  Yes. Effective February 23, 2022, resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. In addition, residents may lend or dispose of authorized foreign assets held offshore to other South African residents, subject to local tax disclosure and compliance. Previously, any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation was not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad had to be submitted to FinSurv.

Surrender requirements  Yes.
Surrender to the central bank  No.
Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes. Residents must, unless exempt, sell foreign currency to ADs within 30 days of becoming entitled thereto. Corporate entities may keep repatriated funds in a CFC account without the obligation to convert them to rand. Effective January 1, 2022, the temporary measure during the COVID-19 lockdown period, that extended the period in which residents must, unless exempt, sell foreign currency to ADs no longer applied.

Controls on capital and money market instruments  Yes. There are several exchanges in addition to the Johannesburg Stock Exchange (JSE) Limited such as 4AX, ZAR X, A2X, and Equity Express Securities Exchange.

On capital market securities  Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents  No.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes. Approval is required for foreign entities to list shares on a South African exchange. The funds raised by the issuer are freely transferable. All inward-listed shares on a South African exchange traded and settled in rand are classified as domestic for the purpose of trading on the exchange and are included on the indices; institutional investors and ADs may invest in such shares without affecting their permissible prudential limit.

Purchase abroad by residents
- Yes.

The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) or from the proceeds of any authorized foreign asset.

Effective February 23, 2022, the export of dual/multi-listed domestic securities to a recognized foreign share exchange is permitted by resident individuals, limited to the SDA and/or foreign capital allowance, provided FinSurv is duly notified. All tax and anti-money-laundering requirements apply.

Effective February 23, 2022, resident individuals may use their SDA and/or foreign capital allowance to participate in online foreign exchange trading activities (including trading global currencies against each other, trading a contract for difference, trading in foreign stocks, trading commodities including crypto currencies and trading foreign indices using the online trading platform of the broker concerned) but may not use credit or debit cards to do so.

The requirement that South African companies investing outside the CMA must obtain at least 10% of the foreign target entity’s voting rights was abolished during the 2018 Budget Speech.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
- Yes.

Approval is not required for the sale of authorized foreign assets. For the issue of instruments abroad, FinSurv approval is required, depending on the type of instrument to be issued. Unlisted technology, media, telecommunications, exploration, and other research and development companies may apply to FinSurv for approval for primary listing abroad or to raise loans abroad and operating capital. Such offshore companies may in turn hold investments and/or make loans into South Africa, and the intellectual property must remain registered in South Africa but may be assigned offshore, subject to appropriate tax treatment. Companies listed on a South African exchange may have a secondary listing and/or list depository receipt programs on foreign exchanges to facilitate local and FDI expansion.

Bonds or other debt securities
- Yes.

The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
- No.

These instruments may be held for an indefinite period.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
- Yes.

Approval is required for foreign entities to list bonds or other debt instruments on a South African exchange. The funds raised by the issuer are freely transferable. These instruments are classified as foreign. Investments in these instruments by institutional investors and ADs affect their permissible prudential limit.

Purchase abroad by residents

South African institutional investors may invest in rand-denominated instruments issued abroad and in instruments issued by South African entities in the foreign market, subject to the prudential limit.

Approval is not required for the sale of authorized foreign assets. For the issue of instruments abroad, FinSurv approval is required, depending on the type of instrument to be issued.

Currency and commodity derivatives as well as derivative instruments with a foreign underlying asset are included on the list of... instruments that may be listed on a South African exchange. South African companies, trusts, partnerships, and individuals may participate without restriction in approved inward-listed instruments. Institutional investors and ADs may participate in currency and commodity derivatives as well as derivative instruments with a foreign underlying asset up to the permissible prudential limits. South African companies may obtain forward cover for up to 75% of budgeted import commitments or export accruals for the forthcoming financial year without reference to FinSurv.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. Nonresidents may freely purchase derivative instruments, options, and futures on the local formal market.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Approval is required for foreign entities to issue derivative and other instruments on a South African exchange. These instruments are classified as foreign. Investments in these instruments by institutional investors and ADs affect their permissible prudential limit.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. Residents who wish to hedge directly with an offshore counterparty require FinSurv approval.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Approval is not required for the sale of authorized foreign assets. For the issue of instruments abroad, FinSurv approval is required, depending on the type of instrument to be issued.

Controls on credit operations

Yes.

Commercial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Export credits may be granted for up to six months. ADs may, under certain circumstances, allow a further extension of six months. Longer-term credit requires approval of FinSurv. With respect to services, payment must be received under the terms of the contract between the parties within a reasonable period after the service is rendered.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

Financial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Financial credits, such as loans, may not be extended without approval, except within the annual discretionary limit—that is, R 1 million a resident lender to nonresident individuals and South African residents temporarily abroad. Foreign investors may borrow domestically, without restriction, to finance FDI. Nonresidents who use the funds for financial transactions and/or to acquire residential property in South Africa must adhere to the 1:1 ratio that currently applies to these transactions. Nonresidents living and working in South Africa may be granted local financial assistance in respect of the acquisition of residential property, in terms of normal lending criteria. Loans to emigrants or for the acquisition of residential property by nonresidents or affected persons and other financial transactions, such as portfolio investments by nonresidents, securities lending, hedging, and repurchase agreements, are limited to 100% of assets brought into South Africa.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. Approval is required and is generally granted, subject to specific criteria. Companies may borrow abroad to finance approved offshore investments using their South African balance sheets as collateral. Companies (excluding state-owned companies) may borrow offshore by way of bond and/or note issuances with recourse to South Africa (for example, guarantee form South Africa and issuance of shares in South African entity), without prior approval from FinSurv. Yes.

Approval is not required for outward FDI, if the total of such new investment does not exceed, effective February 23, 2022, R 5 billion (previously R 1 billion) a company a calendar year. Investment exceeding the limit is subject to approval. Firms’ requests are considered in light of national interest—for example, according to the benefit to South Africa’s international reserves as a result of exports of goods and services. South African companies may make bona fide new outward FDI outside their current line of business and may acquire equity and/or voting rights without limitations, in a foreign target entity that may hold investments and/or make loans to CMA countries.

Companies with headquarters in South Africa may also make outward FDI into companies, branches, and offices outside the CMA that are outside their current line of business if the total cost does not exceed, effective February 23, 2022, R 5 billion (previously R 1 billion) a company in a calendar year. FinSurv approval is required for re-domiciliation, that is, moving its base of operations from South Africa. HoldCos are designated Domestic Treasury Management Companies (DTMCs). Entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the DTMC up to, effective February 23, 2022, R 5 billion (previously R 3 billion) a calendar year. Up to this amount, there is no restriction on transfers in and out of the DTMC, provided such transfers are not undertaken to avoid tax. Additional amounts of up to 25% of the listed company’s market capitalization are considered on application to FinSurv, provided there are demonstrated benefits to South Africa. Unlisted entities may establish one DTMC for African and foreign operations, which is not subject to exchange control restrictions. Unlisted entities on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the DTMC up to, effective February 23, 2022, R 3 billion (previously R 2 billion) a calendar year. The DTMC dispensation extends also to the financial services sector (that is, registered banks and insurance companies). Unlisted technology, media, telecommunications, exploration, and other research and development companies may apply to FinSurv for approval for primary listing abroad or establishment of an offshore company to raise loans abroad and operating capital. Offshore companies mentioned above may in turn hold investments and/or make loans into South Africa and the intellectual property must remain registered in South Africa but may be assigned offshore, subject to appropriate tax treatment. Companies listed on a South African exchange may have a secondary listing and/or list depository receipt programs on foreign exchanges to facilitate local and FDI expansion. Treasury outsourcing companies (TOCs) and foreign exchange brokers (FEBs) in the domestic foreign exchange market must obtain FinSurv approval to conduct foreign exchange business. Such business must be conducted through an AD. The transfer of South African-owned intellectual property by way of sale, assignment, or cession, and/or the waiver of rights in favor of related nonresident parties in whatever form, directly or indirectly, is not allowed without the prior approval of FinSurv. ADs may, however, approve the outright sale, transfer, and assignment of intellectual property by South African residents, excluding mandated state-owned companies as defined in Schedule 2 of the Public Finance Management Act, 1999 (Act No. 1 of 1999), to unrelated nonresident parties at an arm’s length and a fair and market-related price, provided ADs view the sale, transfer, or assignment agreement and an auditor’s letter or intellectual property valuation certificate confirming the basis for calculating the sale price. The above-mentioned dispensation excludes sale and leaseback agreements. ADs may approve the licensing of intellectual property by South African residents to nonresident parties at an arm’s length and a fair and market-related price for the term of the agreement, provided ADs view the license agreement and an auditor’s letter confirming the basis for calculating the royalty or license fee.

The sale, transfer, assignment, and/or licensing of intellectual property is subject to appropriate tax treatment. Exemption from Regulation 10(1)(c) is, however, granted to institutions as defined in terms of the Intellectual Property Rights from Publicly Financed Research and Development Act, 2008 (Act No. 51 of 2008). Such institutions may transfer copyrighted material to an international publishing house when publishing an article in an international journal and/or transfer material in terms of a material transfer agreement, provided the value of the transaction does not exceed R 50,000. ADs must refer transactions in excess of the stipulated amount to FinSurv. The maximum individuals may, without FinSurv approval, invest abroad or deposit in a foreign exchange account in South Africa for natural persons 18 years and older is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA without a TCS PIN letter and R 10 million foreign capital allowance). There are no restrictions on the type or use of investment funds. Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. The application must be accompanied by a TCS PIN letter from the SARS.

Resident individuals with authorized foreign assets may invest in South Africa, provided that, where South African assets are acquired through an offshore structure (loop structure), the investment is reported to an AD as and when the transaction is finalized as well as the submission of an annual progress report to the FinSurv via an AD. The aforementioned party also has to view an independent auditor’s written confirmation or suitable documentary evidence verifying that such transaction is concluded on an arm’s length basis, for a fair and market-related price.

South Africans’ income earned abroad and foreign capital brought into South Africa on or after July 1, 1997, may be retransferred abroad with supporting documentation that the income and/or capital was previously converted to rand. ADs may allow private equity funds to apply for annual approval from FinSurv to invest in Africa. The International Headquarters (IHQ) Company rules eliminated the requirement for approval, adopted a reduction in shareholding to 10%, and streamlined reporting. IHQ shares and/or debt can be listed on a South African exchange and directly or indirectly held by a shareholder with shares or debt listed on a South African exchange. IHQ companies may raise and deploy capital abroad without Exchange Control approval, but must register with FinSurv for reporting purposes. The IHQ dispensation applies for nonresident companies. Listed entities on a South African exchange may establish one subsidiary in South Africa for African and offshore operations. This subsidiary is not subject to foreign exchange restrictions. This dispensation is extended to unlisted entities. Effective February 23, 2022, entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the “DTMC” up to R 5 billion (previously R 3 billion) a calendar year. Up to this amount, there is no restriction on transfers in and out of the DTMC, provided such transfers are not undertaken to avoid tax. Effective February 23, 2022, unlisted entities on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the DTMC up to R 3 billion (previously R 2 billion) a calendar year.

| Controls on liquidation of direct investment | No. |
| Controls on real estate transactions | Yes. |

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) from the proceeds of authorized foreign assets. Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. Such an application must be accompanied by a SARS TCS PIN letter.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. There are no controls on local purchases by nonresidents if they do not borrow domestically. Since October 27, 2009, foreign investors are allowed to borrow domestically, without restriction, to finance FDI. Affected persons and nonresidents who use the funds for financial transactions and/or to acquire residential property in South Africa are subject to a 1:1 ratio where funds introduced in South Africa by nonresidents, South African private individuals who have ceased to be residents for tax purposes in South Africa (emigrants), and affected companies need to be utilized to pay for 50% of the value of the financial transaction or residential property and the remaining 50% may be raised locally. Nonresidents living and working in South Africa may be granted local financial assistance in respect of the acquisition of residential property in terms of normal lending criteria.

Sale locally by nonresidents

No.

Controls on personal capital transactions

Yes. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance). Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. Such an application must be accompanied by a SARS TCS PIN letter.

Loans

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Residents may lend to nonresidents through ADs within their overall discretionary limit of R 1 million an individual a calendar year. South African corporates may advance shareholders loans to approved subsidiaries within the FDI limits.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. ADs may approve applications by residents to avail of inward foreign loans and foreign trade finance facilities from any nonresident, subject to certain criteria and the reporting of the loans to FinSurv. Any loan application that falls outside of the specific criteria or any amendments to approved loans must be submitted to FinSurv.

ADs may approve requests for foreign bond and note issuances by corporates with recourse to South Africa, for example, a guarantee from South Africa and the issuance of shares in the South African
Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies

| By residents to nonresidents | Yes. |

ADs may allow the transfer of monetary gifts, including donations to missionaries, maintenance transfers, and travel allowances, within an overall discretionary limit of R 1 million a calendar year to a person 18 years and older. Cash bequests and the cash proceeds of legacies and distributions from resident estates may be remitted abroad subject to the Liquidation and Distribution Account bearing a Master of the High Court reference number. In cases where the total assets of the resident estate are less than R 250,000, cash bequests and the cash proceeds of legacies because of nonresident legatees, including South African private individuals who have ceased to be residents for tax purposes in South Africa (emigrants), may be remitted abroad, provided the Last Will and Testament and Letter of Executorship/Authority have been viewed.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes.

Effective February 23, 2022, resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. In addition, residents may lend or dispose of authorized foreign assets held offshore to other South African residents, subject to local tax disclosure and compliance. Previously, any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation was not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad had to be submitted to FinSurv.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants

Yes.

ADs may provide immigrants with foreign exchange to repay loans received in their previous country of domicile, provided documentary evidence of the debt is available and the immigrant is not in possession of foreign currency to repay the debt.

Transfer of assets

Yes.

Emigrants—ADs may allow the transfer of up to a total amount of R 10 million a calendar year a private individual who ceases to be a resident for tax purposes in South Africa and is 18 years and older, provided the individual is tax compliant and submits the applicable TCS Application for verification. South African non-tax residents who transfer more than R 10 million offshore will be subjected to a more stringent verification process by SARS as well as a subsequent approval process from FinSurv. Such transfers will trigger a risk management test that will, inter alia, include verification of the tax status and the source of funds, as well as risk assess the private individual in terms of the anti-money-laundering and countering terror financing requirements, as prescribed in the FIC Act, 2001 (Act No. 38 of 2001).

In addition, household and personal effects up to an amount of R 1 million a family unit may be exported under a SARS Customs Declaration form within the same calendar year that the individual ceases to be a resident for tax purposes provided such assets have been declared on the relevant forms. Transactions of this nature will be treated similar to cash. For amounts in excess of R 1 million and up to R 10 million, the individual must be tax compliant and submit the applicable TCS Application for verification. For household and personal effects above R 10 million a family unit, a more stringent verification process by SARS as well as a subsequent approval process from the FinSurv will apply. Such transfers will also trigger a risk management test by FIC. Effective February 23, 2022, ADs may, on a once-off basis, remit abroad the remaining cash balances (of up to R 100,000 in total) of people who have ceased to be residents for tax purposes, without reference to SARS.

Transfer into the country by immigrants No.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings Yes. South African residents may not participate in any gambling activities not authorized by the National Gambling Act of 2004. Residents may not participate in lotteries organized abroad, which is prohibited by Lotteries Act No. 57 of 1997.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes. ADs may approve applications by residents to borrow abroad, subject to specific criteria and provided the loans are reported to FinSurv using the Loan Reporting System. Any application that falls outside of the specific criteria must be referred to FinSurv for approval.

Borrowing abroad Yes. ADs may approve applications by residents to borrow abroad, subject to specific criteria and provided the loans are reported to FinSurv using the Loan Reporting System. Any application that falls outside of the specific criteria must be referred to FinSurv for approval.

Maintenance of accounts abroad No. ADs may open nostro accounts at their discretion.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes. Foreign investors are allowed to borrow domestically, without restriction, to finance FDI. Affected persons and nonresidents who use the funds for financial transactions and/or to acquire residential property in South Africa are subject to the 1:1 ratio that currently applies to these transactions. Local financial assistance to South African private individuals who have ceased to be residents for tax purposes in South Africa (emigrants) remains subject to the 1:1 ratio. Nonresidents living and working in South Africa may be granted local financial assistance in respect of the acquisition of residential property in terms of normal lending criteria.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. These transactions are subject to specific FinSurv approval.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange Yes. There are no securities denominated in foreign exchange in South Africa. As an exception to the rule, nonresidents may, however, apply to issue debt instruments on a South African exchange in foreign currency.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange No. The minimum reserve requirement applies to deposit accounts held by residents and nonresidents denominated in rand or foreign currency. The requirement is 2.5% of total average liabilities, as adjusted for (1) amounts owed by banks, branches, and mutual banks in South Africa (including loans granted in connection with resale agreements); (2) funding received under repurchase agreements with a term of 31 days or less, with government securities, Treasury bills, and reserve bank securities qualifying as level one high-quality liquid assets as underlying security; (3) liabilities related to derivative contracts; and (4) amounts owed by banks rated investment grade or better located abroad in countries rated investment grade or better.

Reserve requirements No. All banks are required to hold 5% of their total average liabilities, adjusted for (1) in the case of branches of foreign institutions for funding received from the head office or from other branches within the same group and (2) amounts owed by banks, branches, and mutual banks in South Africa (including loans granted in terms of resale agreements), in level one high-quality liquid assets (as defined in the Banks Act, 1990).
Interest rate controls: No.

Credit controls: No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents: No.

Interest rate controls: No.

Credit controls: No.

Investment regulations: Yes. A bank that invests money in immovable property or shares of a company—or lends or advances money to its subsidiaries whose principal objective is acquisition and holding or development of immovable property—must manage its transactions in such investments, loans, or advances in such a way that the sum of the amounts does not at any time exceed the bank’s qualifying common equity Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, additional Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, and Tier 2 capital and reserve funds related to risks other than market risk. A bank must manage its business so that the aggregate amount of (1) its investments in debentures or preference shares of its associates, excluding subsidiaries whose main objective is the acquisition and holding or development of immovable property, a bank, or mutual bank whose debentures or preference shares are not convertible to ordinary shares; plus (2) advances to any such associates; plus (3) guarantees and/or other instruments related to its associates’ liabilities or contingent liabilities; minus (4) excess qualifying common equity Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, additional Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, and Tier 2 capital and reserve funds envisaged above does not at any time exceed 10% of the bank’s aggregate deposits, current accounts, and amounts owed to other creditors. Banks and their associates may not, without the Prudential Authority’s written approval, jointly or individually acquire or hold shares in a registered long-term insurer or in a registered short-term insurer as to the extent to which the nominal value exceeds 49% of the nominal value of all the insurer’s issued shares. Bank controlling companies investing money (1) in enterprises other than banks, institutions that conduct business similar to the business of a bank in a country other than South Africa, controlling companies or companies whose main objective is holding or developing property used or intended to be used mainly for the business of a bank or (2) in fixed property not used or intended to be used mainly for the purpose of conducting the business of a bank, or providing loans and advances to (1) enterprises other than banks, institutions that conduct business similar to the business of a bank in a country other than South Africa, controlling companies or companies whose main objective is holding or developing property used or intended to be used mainly for the business of a bank or (2) in fixed property not used or not intended to be used mainly for the purpose of conducting the business of a bank, must manage transactions in such investments and loans and advances in such a way that the aggregate amount of such investments and loans and advances does not at any time exceed 40% of the aggregate amount of the share capital and reserve funds of the controlling company, calculated on a consolidated basis as prescribed. Branches of foreign institutions must ensure that the value of their unencumbered assets as defined never amounts to less than 60% of their total reported liabilities in South Africa. ADs may participate in foreign syndicated loans regardless of whether the borrower is a resident, provided they are within their macroprudential limit.

Abroad by banks

A bank may not, without written approval of the Prudential Authority and as determined by the Prudential Authority (1) establish or acquire a subsidiary within or outside South Africa or enter into an agreement leading to a company becoming its subsidiary within or outside South Africa; (2) invest in a joint venture within or outside South Africa if the investment, or the investment together with one or more previous investments by the bank in that joint venture, results in exposure to more than 5% of its capital and reserves. If a bank is exposed to the aforementioned extent, approval must be obtained whenever it seeks to make a further investment in that joint venture; (3) open or acquire a branch office outside South Africa; (4) acquire an interest in an enterprise whose registered office or principal place of business is outside South Africa; (5) establish or acquire outside of South Africa a trust of which the bank is a major beneficiary or establish or acquire a financial or other business enterprise under its direct or indirect control; (6) establish or acquire a representative office outside South Africa; or (7) establish or acquire a division within or outside South Africa under an arrangement or agreement with a person with the effect that such a person conducts/does business through or by means of that division. In addition to the current macroprudential limit of 25%, ADs may invest 5% of their total liabilities, for expansion in Africa.

In banks by nonresidents

Approval is not required if the investment in shares amounts to less than 15% of the total nominal value or total voting rights with respect to all the bank’s issued shares. ADLAs are classified into four categories; Section III. Exchange Arrangement specifies the four types.

Open foreign exchange position limits

Yes.

On resident assets and liabilities

Yes.

The effective net open foreign currency position of a reporting bank (difference between total foreign currency assets and liabilities and commitments to purchase minus commitments to sell foreign currency in any one foreign currency and in all foreign currencies taken together) may not exceed 10% of the net qualifying capital and reserve funds of the reporting bank.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

Yes.

The effective net open foreign currency position of a reporting bank (difference between total foreign currency assets and liabilities and commitments to purchase minus commitments to sell foreign currency in any one foreign currency and in all foreign currencies taken together) may not exceed 10% of the net qualifying capital and reserve funds of the reporting bank.

Changes during 2021 and 2022
Exchange Arrangement

Monetary policy framework
Inflation-targeting framework
Operating target (policy rate)

Policy rate
06/08/2022
The monetary policy implementation framework has moved from a shortage system to a surplus system with quotas. A 7-day weekly repo is still offered, albeit on a much smaller scale. The South African Reserve Bank pays repo on reserves (other than the CRR) up to individual bank quotas. Any funds in excess of quota are remunerated at the Standing Facility rate of repo less 100 basis points.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted
Held domestically
02/23/2022
Institutional investors can open foreign currency accounts with ADs for the purpose of obtaining offshore exposure in terms of the prudential limit. Customer foreign currency accounts held by institutional investors are to be converted to foreign currency accounts within 3 months.

Nonresident Accounts

Blocked accounts
03/01/2021
Emigrant capital accounts are no longer used. Previously, emigrant capital accounts were opened for emigrants and used for statistical purposes. These accounts were not blocked. Cash and proceeds from South African assets held at the time of departure and subsequently sold were credited to these accounts whereafter these funds might be transferred in amounts of R 20 million a family a calendar year or R 10 million an individual a calendar year, without Financial Surveillance Department (FinSurv) approval. Emigrants were allowed to transfer abroad funds in excess of the aforementioned limits, on application to FinSurv. Emigrants' assets were released from these accounts without paying an exit levy and ADs might release funds from these accounts for local expenditures without restriction.

02/23/2022
ADs may, on a once-off basis, remit abroad the remaining cash balances (of up to R 100,000 in total) of people who have ceased to be resident for tax purposes, without reference to South African Revenue Service.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Export licenses
Without quotas
04/04/2022
The temporary export regulation of COVID-19 essential goods ceased to apply when the National State of Disaster was terminated. The exportation of certain COVID-19 essential goods, such as medicines, masks, and alcohol-based hand sanitizers, was temporarily put under control by International Trade Administration Commission of South Africa during the national state of disaster.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements
02/23/2022
Resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. Previously, any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation was not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad had to be submitted to Financial Surveillance Department.
Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions

Repatriation requirements
- Resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. In addition, residents may lend or dispose of authorized foreign assets held offshore to other South African residents, subject to local tax disclosure and compliance. Previously, any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation was not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad had to be submitted to Financial Surveillance Department.

Surrender requirements
- Surrender to authorized dealers
  - The temporary measure during the COVID-19 lockdown period, that extended the period in which residents must, unless exempt, sell foreign currency to ADs no longer applied.

Controls on capital and money market instruments

On capital market securities
- Shares or other securities of a participating nature
  - The export of dual/multi-listed domestic securities to a recognized foreign share exchange is permitted by resident individuals, limited to the single discretionary allowance and/or foreign capital allowance, provided Financial Surveillance Department is duly notified. All tax and anti-money-laundering requirements apply.
  - Resident individuals may use their single discretionary allowance and/or foreign capital allowance to participate in online foreign exchange trading activities (including trading global currencies against each other, trading a contract for difference, trading in foreign stocks, trading commodities including crypto currencies and trading foreign indices using the online trading platform of the broker concerned) but may not use credit or debit cards to do so.

Bonds or other debt securities
- Purchase abroad by residents
  - Resident individuals may use their single discretionary allowance and/or foreign capital allowance to participate in online foreign exchange trading activities (including trading global currencies against each other, trading a contract for difference, trading in foreign stocks, trading commodities including crypto currencies and trading foreign indices using the online trading platform of the broker concerned) but may not use credit or debit cards to do so.

Controls on direct investment

Outward direct investment

02/23/2022 Approval is not required for outward FDI, if the total of such new investment does not exceed R 5 billion (previously R 1 billion) a company a calendar year.

02/23/2022 Companies with headquarters in South Africa may also make outward FDI into companies, branches, and offices outside the CMA that are outside their current line of business if the total cost does not exceed R 5 billion (previously R 1 billion) a company in a calendar year.

02/23/2022 Entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the Domestic Treasury Management Company up to R 5 billion (previously R 3 billion) a calendar year.

02/23/2022 Unlisted entities on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the Domestic Treasury Management Company up to R 3 billion (previously R 2 billion) a calendar year.

Inward direct investment

02/23/2022 Entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the “Domestic Treasury Management Company” up to R 5 billion (previously R 3 billion) a calendar year.

02/23/2022 Unlisted entities on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the Domestic Treasury Management Company up to R 3 billion (previously R 2 billion) a calendar year.

Controls on personal capital transactions

Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies

02/23/2022 Resident individuals may receive and retain gifts from nonresidents offshore. In addition, residents may lend or dispose of authorized foreign assets held offshore to other South African residents, subject to local tax disclosure and compliance. Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation with South Sudan, states that as of May 15, 2019, South Sudan maintained exchange restrictions and an MCP under the transitional arrangements of Article XIV. The exchange restrictions arise from: imposing absolute ceilings on the availability of foreign exchange for certain invisible transactions (travel, remittances for living expenses of students and families residing abroad, transfers of salaries by foreign workers). The MCP, which also gives rise to an exchange restriction because of extra burden, arises from the spread of more than 2% between the parallel market exchange rate and the formal commercial exchange market rate. South Sudan also maintains the MCPs and exchange restriction subject to IMF’s approval under Article VIII. The MCPs arise from the spread larger than 2% between (1) the official (indicative) rate and commercial banks’ (market) rate and (2) between the official (indicative) rate and the parallel market rate. The exchange restriction arises because of prioritization of foreign exchange allocation by the Bank of South Sudan (BSS) for external government payments and payments for certain essential commodities. (Country Report No. 19/153)

Exchange rate structure

Unitary

Dual

Yes.

The exchange rate structure is considered dual because of the spread of more than 2% between the parallel market exchange rate and the formal commercial exchange market rate.

Multiple

No separate legal tender
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The BSS supplies foreign exchange to commercial banks in auctions, and an indicative market rate is determined from the auction rate and the rate charged by commercial banks. All government transactions are carried out using the indicative market rate. Since March 2021, the exchange rate increased its flexibility while still being managed. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to other managed from crawl-like, effective March 12, 2021.

There is an “indicative rate” for foreign exchange purchases derived by averaging on daily basis, volumes, and rates of foreign exchange transactions from commercial banks returns. The indicative rate is applicable for official government transaction at the BSS. Effective April 20, 2021, BSS introduced Reference rate for all foreign exchange ADs. It is derived by calculating the weighted averages of all commercial banks volumes, and it is strictly used by financial institutions, while the government transactions use the daily exchange rates.

Other monetary framework  Yes. On December 15, 2015, the BSS moved to a de jure flexible exchange rate arrangement, which requires the BSS to adopt a new nominal anchor and redesign its monetary framework. The BSS could adopt price stability as the primary objective and use reserve money as an intermediate target, given the undeveloped nature of the financial system.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.

Spot exchange market  Yes. There are 31 commercial banks in South Sudan licensed to conduct foreign exchange transactions. Foreign exchange bureaus are subject to licensing by the BSS. The number of authorized foreign exchange bureaus is 64. Foreign exchange bureaus’ operations involve purchases and sales of banknotes and foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. The minimum required capital to establish an exchange bureau is US$600,000. Licensed foreign exchange bureaus do not participate directly in auction sessions
The BSS supplies foreign exchange to the market in an attempt to mop up excess liquidity and support importation of essential commodities. Under the nominal anchor of the exchange rate, the BSS supplies the foreign exchange market through weekly foreign exchange auction.

Effective April 13, 2021, licensed foreign exchange bureaus may participate directly in auction sessions conducted by the BSS. They participate in auction sessions by submitting their applications directly to BSS. Previously, foreign exchange bureaus were only allowed to participate indirectly in auction sessions by submitting their applications through eligible banks.

Spain maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU regulations solely for the preservation of national and international security. These measures include the provision (directly or indirectly) of financing or financial assistance or the freeze of funds and economic resources of certain individuals, groups, companies, and entities in several countries. Besides, it also includes the freezing of funds and economic resources of certain other persons, groups, and entities with a view to combating terrorism.

Other security restrictions

Yes.

Spain maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU regulations solely for the preservation of national and international security. These measures include the freezing of funds and economic resources of certain individuals, groups, companies, and entities in several countries. Restrictive measures were amended on certain persons and entities associated with Al-Qaida and the Taliban and certain other persons, groups, and entities with a view to combating terrorism.

As a consequence of the invasion of Ukraine, the EU has adopted, by means of corresponding provisions, packages of international sanctions complementary to those international sanctions already in force since 2014. These measures have the status of an EU Regulation and as such have been approved by the EC, and are EU, and are binding throughout the EU.

Free floating Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Spain participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate Yes. The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time (CET). The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is usually updated around 14:30 CET to around 16:00 CET on every working day, except on TARGET closing days. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

Other monetary framework  Yes.  To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. (Previously, it was defined as inflation rate below but close to 2% over the medium term.)

Limitation is imposed on the use of cash for payments to purchase goods or services in Spain over €2,500 (Spain residents) and €15,000 (nonresidents). (The limit applies only to transactions in which one of the parties to the transaction acts as an entrepreneur or professional.)

Limitation is imposed on the use of cash for payments to purchase goods or services over, effective July 11, 2021, €1,000 for Spain residents (previously €2,500) and €15,000 (for nonresidents) or its equivalent in foreign currency.
Payments and receipts between residents and nonresidents may be made freely. For statistical and administrative purposes, all payments, receipts, and transfers between residents and nonresidents exceeding €50,000 and made through payment service providers (PSPs) must be declared to the Ministry of Economic Affairs and Digital Transformation and the BOS. However, under special circumstances, the Ministry may impose restrictions to protect the national interest or to comply with the rules of international organizations.

In accordance with Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. The EU regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of EU regulation. Nonetheless, the regulation foresee that member countries may also decide to implement a declaration obligation related to movements of cash within the EU. According to Article 34 of Act No. 10/2010 on the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, a declaration must be made in any cross-border movement (both with EU and non-EU countries) of means of payment of €10,000 or more or its equivalent in foreign currency. This declaration is also mandatory for movements within the national territory of means of payment of €100,000 or more. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance, customs authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash is seized. Under Spanish legislation, there are administrative sanctions for those who fail to comply with the obligation to declare the movements of means of payment, under the terms of Article 34. The penalty for non-compliance with the obligation to declare cash movements above specific thresholds ranges from €600 (minimum fine) to 50% of the value of the means of payment. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, the authorities of... one member country may exchange information with the authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EU regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries.

In accordance with Article 34 of Act No. 10/2010 of April 28, 2010, on the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving Spain with a value equivalent in foreign currency of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving Spain and carrying €10,000 or more, or its equivalent in foreign currency are required to make a declaration to the customs authorities.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Held domestically Yes. There are no differences between operations allowed in these accounts and in domestic currency accounts.

Approval required No.

Held abroad Yes. Collections and payments between residents and nonresidents through credits or debits to these accounts may be made freely. For statistical and administrative purposes, every resident in Spain, other than payment services providers entered in the official register of the BOS, engaged in transactions with nonresidents or maintaining assets or liabilities overseas, is required to report the following if the sum of transactions during the immediately preceding year or stocks of assets and liabilities as of December 31 of the previous year exceed €50 million: (1) any transactions they perform with nonresidents and (2) the balances of assets and liabilities, and any changes in those foreign positions. Furthermore, if the threshold of €50 million is exceeded during the current year, those residents would be required to perform the corresponding declaration of transactions and/or assets and liabilities in the current year. The frequency of reporting can be monthly, quarterly, or annually depending on the volume of transactions or the balances of assets and liabilities. Pension funds may not have direct exposure to deposits in non-EU banks.

As of March 18, 2020, free direct foreign investment from non-EU residents is suspended and subject to prior authorization in a number of cases (Royal Decree Law No. 8/2020). This applies for the list of sectors included in Law No. 19/2003 (art.7bis.2) or if the investor meets certain criteria (for example, foreign government ownership or control). This control is in line with Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, establishing a framework for the screening of foreign direct investments into the Union. As of November 19, 2020, this new regime was temporarily extended to EU residents, until June 30, 2021. Effective July 1, 2021, this deadline was extended until December 31, 2021. Effective January 1, 2022, the Royal Decree Law No. 27/2021 (Article 4), which entered into force November 25, 2021, establishes the extension of the regime to EU residents until December 31, 2022.

Article XIV: Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices: No.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons: Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51): Yes.

In accordance with the relevant UNSC resolutions, Sri Lanka maintains certain restrictions for reasons of national and international security against certain individuals and entities with connections to the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Liberia, and Sudan and the Taliban and other individuals, groups, and entities associated with terrorism. Sri Lanka maintains certain restrictions with respect to financial institutions that do not have a physical presence in any country, also referred to as “shell banks,” pursuant to the US Patriot Act of 2001, as well as restrictions against the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam.

Other security restrictions: n.a.

Crawling peg
Crawl-like arrangement: Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating since its introduction by the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (CBSL) on January 23, 2001. During 2021 up to end-June, the Sri Lankan rupee depreciated by 7.3% against the US dollar. The exchange rate remained broadly stable in the range of Rs. 200 to Rs. 203 per US dollars during the period of July 2021–February 2022. The Central Bank allowed a measured adjustment in the exchange rate with effect from March 7, 2022, in view of the heightened pressures on the exchange rate amidst subdued liquidity in the domestic foreign exchange market. However, the subsequent market adjustment because of heightened pressure in the domestic foreign exchange market resulted in an overshooting of the exchange rate. The CBSL intervention data in the foreign exchange market are published on a monthly basis with a two-week lag.

Since April 2021, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from floating, effective April 29, 2021.

Official exchange rate Yes.

The CBSL computes the volume-weighted average interbank rate on a daily basis based on the US dollar/LKR spot transactions executed in the interbank market on the previous working day. This official exchange rate is used for legal, accounting, customs purposes, tender processes, etc. From 2020 onward, CBSL interventions in the spot market are also included in the calculation of the volume-weighted average interbank rate. The official exchange rate for other foreign currencies is determined based on the above calculated rate and the cross-rates obtained from Reuters trading platform at 8.00 a.m. in the morning on each working day.

Effective May 13, 2022, the Central Bank commenced providing daily guidance on the degree of volatility (with an allowable two-sided variation margin) to all LCBs based on exchange rate determined in the interbank market on the preceding day.

As of December 31, 2021, 24 LCBs and 2 licensed specialized banks (LSBs) were approved as ADs to deal in foreign exchange by the Minister of Finance. They have licenses to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public. Permission has also been granted by the Department of Foreign Exchange (DFE) to 79 restricted dealers (RDs) to deal in foreign exchange for current transactions to the extent specified in the respective authorization/permit. Of those RDs, 76 limited companies were permitted to engage in money changing business, that is, 20 were permitted to buy, sell, and exchange foreign currencies (including 8 licensed finance companies (LFCs) and 12 limited companies), 53 limited companies were permitted only to buy and exchange foreign currencies, and 3 tourist hotels were permitted only to buy foreign currencies. RDs who have been permitted to engage in money changing business are not permitted to effect foreign currency payments on behalf of clients. Three other entities were permitted as RDs, two to engage in money transfer business with reputed international money transfer companies (and has permission to effect inward remittance distribution (in LKR) to local beneficiaries through a Special Foreign Currency Account permitted to be maintained with an AD) and the other in respect of export credit insurance/guarantee services.

Effective May 13, 2022, the CBSL commenced announcing a daily middle exchange rate with a variation margin to the domestic interbank foreign exchange market as a guidance to the interbank foreign exchange transactions. As of December 31, 2021, 24 LCBs and 1 LSB participate in the interbank market. The CBSL intervenes with market participants at their quoted rates.

There are no limits on the bid-ask spread and no commission of interbank market participants.

The foreign exchange market operates based on both a broker system and a market-making agreement.

The foreign exchange market operates based on both a broker system and a market-making agreement.

All LCBs and one LSB may enter into forward contracts with their customers to hedge exposure to exchange rate risk in respect of current (international) transactions and permitted capital transactions under the Foreign Exchange Act (FEA) No. 12 of 2017. The maturity of the contract may not exceed that of the underlying transaction. Customers may choose the term of the contract. There is no maturity limit on forward contracts. Banks should make sure the underlying transactions meet with the bona fide test. CB participates in the forward foreign exchange market, as and when necessary.

Effective January 25, 2021, LCBs were directed to refrain from entering into forward contracts of foreign exchange for a period of three months.

Effective April 25, 2021, LCBs were directed to refrain, until further notice, from entering into forward contracts of foreign exchange with value date beyond spot date except for certain specified transactions:

1. Forward purchase of foreign exchange from their customers including from exporters.
2. Facilitate SWAP arrangements on foreign exchange borrowings of LSB and LFCs regulated by the CBSL, to hedge their foreign exchange exposures arising from foreign exchange borrowings, approved by the CBSL.
3. Facilitate SWAP arrangements on foreign exchange borrowings of corporate clients to hedge their foreign exchange exposures arising from foreign exchange borrowings, approved by the CBSL.
4. Amend/extend the value date of existing forward/SWAP contracts of clients at historical rates based on express requests from clients, after verifying the bona fide of the transactions.
5. Enter into interbank forward and SWAP transactions with single counterparty (that is, only between two banks).
6. Enter into forward cross-currency transactions.

Effective March 22, 2022, Banking Act Directions No. 07 of 2021 dated April 25, 2021, were revoked.

| Barter agreements and open accounts | No. |

| Administration of control | Yes. |

The CBSL as the agent of the government is responsible for the implementation of the provisions of the FEA No. 12 of 2017, to ensure proper promotion and regulation of foreign exchange in Sri Lanka. Any duty or function authorized or required to be exercised, performed, or discharged by the CBSL under the FEA is carried out by the DFE of the CBSL. Remittance of foreign exchange must be made through ADs and RDs in Sri Lanka in accordance with the Regulations, Orders, Directions, and Guidelines issued under the FEA. The Board of Investment (BOI) of Sri Lanka handles applications relating to foreign investment when special concessions are sought. General permission is granted for investments by nonresidents in companies whose equity capital is in rupees, with certain exclusions and limitations, if such investment is made through Inward Investment Accounts (IIAs).

| Payments arrears | No. |

Considering the Sovereign rating downgrade, the debt standstill announced by the Government of Sri Lanka and the depletion of foreign currency in the domestic foreign exchange market, the licensed banks (LBs) face difficulties in sourcing foreign currency funding. However, the position has been improved with respect to private transactions and manageable by LBs.

| Official | No. |
| Private | No. |

| Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) | No. |
| On domestic ownership and/or trade | No. |
| On external trade | No. |

Dealing in gold does not come under the purview of the CBSL in terms of the FEA of 2017. Accordingly, LCBs and eligible limited liability companies do not require special approval from the CBSL for importing gold on a consignment account basis or under any other payment in terms of the FEA of 2017.

| Controls on exports and imports of banknotes | Yes. |
On exports

Domestic currency Yes.

Any person in, or resident in, Sri Lanka may take out of Sri Lanka up to the value of SL Rs. 20,000. Any special approval for a larger amount (that is, exceeding LKR 20,000) is to be granted by the Director of the DFE subject to an Order of the Hon-MOF in terms of Section 8 of FEA.

Foreign currency No. Residents in Sri Lanka may take out foreign currency issued by an AD for travel subject to declaration requirements. Foreign currency notes may be issued up to US$5,000 travel purposes.

Any person departing from Sri Lanka may carry out any amount of foreign exchange legitimately acquired by such person in the form of currency notes, bank drafts, checks, travel cards, etc., subject to the declaration requirements at the Sri Lanka Customs. If the total value of such foreign exchange exceeds US$15,000 or the value of foreign currency notes exceeds US$10,000 or its equivalent in other foreign currencies, it must be declared to Sri Lanka Customs at the time of departure.

Unutilized rupee balances from foreign exchange sold by persons resident outside Sri Lanka may be reconverted to foreign currency only at ADs and RDs engaged in money changing business subject to documentary evidence of purchase of such foreign currency.

On imports

Domestic currency Yes.

Any person in, or resident in, Sri Lanka may bring into Sri Lanka up to SL Rs. 20,000. Any special approval for a larger amount (that is, exceeding LKR 20,000) is to be granted by the Director of the DFE subject to an Order of the Hon-MOF in terms of Section 8 of FEA.

Foreign currency No. Any amount of foreign exchange in the form of currency notes, bank drafts, checks, travel cards, etc., that has been legitimately acquired may be brought into Sri Lanka, subject to declaration requirements at the Sri Lanka Customs. Amounts exceeding US$15,000 or foreign currency notes exceeding US$10,000 or the equivalent in other foreign currencies that will be taken out of Sri Lanka or, effective March 22, 2021, where a person arriving in Sri Lanka who intends to credit foreign exchange into such person’s IIA for the purpose of investing in Sri Lanka, must be declared to Sri Lanka Customs at the time of arrival.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Held domestically Yes.

The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts, irrespective of the residential status of the person eligible to open such foreign exchange accounts, for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017.

Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs):

Individuals including minors who are Sri Lankan nationals and non-national resident in Sri Lanka are eligible to open and maintain PFCAs in the form of current (without check drawing facility), savings, or term deposit accounts in any designated foreign currency. PFCAs maintained by individuals may be held as sole or joint accounts with another eligible person.

Holders of PFCAs are allowed for the following debits: (1) to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka of persons resident outside Sri Lanka; (2) effective March 22, 2021, any outward remittances made outside Sri Lanka in respect of current transactions of the account holder and/or immediate family members who are persons resident in Sri Lanka and in respect of capital transactions of persons resident in Sri Lanka (previously, any outward remittances made outside Sri Lanka were allowed from PFCAs); (3) to withdraw in foreign currency notes up to US$5,000 or equivalent for travel purpose; (4) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (5) effective March 22, 2021, to transfer funds for making investments in Sri Lanka Development Bonds (SLDBs) in foreign currency utilizing funds in PFCAs; (6) effective March 22, 2021, to transfer funds to other PFCAs or accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU) of persons resident outside Sri Lanka (previously, transfers to PFCAs or accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the account holder); (7) effective March 22, 2021, to transfer to a PFCA of the same account of holder and/or immediate family members; (8) effective March 22, 2021, to transfer to a Business Foreign Currency Account (BFCA) or an account maintained in the OBU of the same account holder; (9) to withdraw foreign currency, where the account holder is a non-national resident outside Sri Lanka who is on temporary visit to Sri Lanka; (10) to transfer funds for uploading Foreign Travel Cards (FTCs); and (11) to transfer funds to an IIA of the same account holder who is a resident outside Sri Lanka.

Effective January 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic any outward remittances through PFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka other than outward remittances on permitted current transactions up to any amount or outward remittances on capital transactions up to a maximum of US$20,000 were suspended for further six months after an initial suspension in 2020.

Effective July 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic outward remittances on capital transactions through PFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka were limited up to a maximum of US$20,000, for further six months. Effective January 2, 2022, in response to COVID-19 pandemic and prevailing liquidity issues outward remittances on capital transactions through PFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka were limited up to a maximum of US$20,000, for further six months.

PFCAs accounts may be credited with the following: (1) inward remittances; (2) unutilized foreign currency obtained by the account holder for travel purpose; (3) foreign currency brought into the country by the account holder on appropriate declaration; (4) effective March 22, 2021, funds transferred from other PFCAs, BFCA, IIAs, or accounts maintained in the OBU of the same account holder (previously, transfers to PFCAs from PFCAs, BFCA, or accounts maintained in the OBU were allowed irrespective of the account holder); (5) effective March 22, 2021, transfers from Diplomatic Foreign Currency Account (DFCA) or a PFCA or an account maintained in the OBU of a person resident outside Sri Lanka, in respect of a current transaction; (6) where the account holder is a resident outside Sri Lanka transfers from other PFCAs or accounts maintained in the OBU of persons resident outside Sri Lanka; (7) unutilized balance remaining in the FTC up to the amount that FTC had been loaded from the PFCA; (8) capital, capital gains, and other receipts arising from investments made, effective March 22, 2021, in SLDBs in foreign currency, if the original transfer had been made by debiting the PFCA; (9) transfers from employer’s Sri Lanka rupee account as monthly salary, employment, and other related benefits and amounts in Sri Lanka rupees authorized by the CBSL for remittance abroad converted at the rate of exchange obtained on the day of credit; (10) interest payments on the accounts; and (11) effective June 30, 2022, earnings/payments in foreign exchange received by the accountholder from a foreign currency account of an authorized person who is permitted to engage in business and from the area of authority of the Colombo Port City in accordance with the provisions of the Colombo port City Economic Commission Act, No. 11 of 2021 (this change resulted in easing of PFCA’s rules).

PFCA holders who are Sri Lankans employed abroad (other than emigrants) are also permitted to obtain loans and advances denominated in foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees from ADs for any purpose to be utilized in Sri Lanka and, effective March 22, 2021, to make payments in respect of current transactions of the immediate family members of the borrower who are residents in Sri Lanka.

BFCAs:
BFCAs may be opened and maintained as current, savings, or term deposit accounts in designated foreign currency with ADs by the following persons resident in Sri Lanka who earn foreign exchange from persons resident outside Sri Lanka: (1) individuals resident in Sri Lanka; (2) sole proprietorships or partnerships registered in Sri Lanka where the proprietor or a majority of partners are resident in Sri Lanka; (3) companies incorporated in Sri Lanka; (4) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka which are registered as overseas companies under the Companies Act No. 7 of 2007; and (5) state institutions with the recommendation of the secretary to the relevant ministry or appropriate authority. However, a non-governmental organization is not permitted to open and maintain BFCAs. Further, under no circumstances Sri Lanka rupees may be converted to foreign currency and be credited into a BFCA. Effective March 22, 2021, check drawing facility was allowed for BFCA current accounts.

Holders of BFCAs are permitted for the following debits: (1) effective March 22, 2021, to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka in respect of current transactions and capital transactions of the account holder (previously, any outward remittances made outside Sri Lanka were allowed from BFCAs); (2) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (3) to withdraw in foreign currency notes up to US$5,000 for travel purpose and up to US$50,000 by gem and jewelry dealers and shipping agents for such specific purposes; (4) to transfer funds for uploading FTCs; (5) to transfer funds in respect of any investment permitted to be made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency utilizing funds in the BFCA; (6) transfer of funds to an Outward Investment Account (OIA) of the same account holder; (7) effective March 22, 2021, transfers to External Commercial Borrowing Account (ECBA) of the same account holder (that is, borrower) for the purpose of repayment/service of a foreign currency loan obtained from a lender in overseas; (8) transfer of funds to an IIA of a resident outside Sri Lanka for the purpose of repayment of a foreign currency loan obtained from such foreign lender by the account holder; (9) effective March 22, 2021, transfer funds to other BFCAs, PFCAs, and accounts in the OBUs of the same account holder (previously, transfers to BFCAs, PFCAs, or accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the account holder); (10) effective March 22, 2021, transfers to an account maintained in the OBU of a person resident outside Sri Lanka in respect of a current transaction (previously, transfers to accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the accountholder); (11) effective March 22, 2021, transfer funds for making investments in SLDBs in foreign currency utilizing funds in BFCAs; (12) make payments of claims to eligible customers and co-insurers in respect of foreign-currency-denominated policies, premia to local or overseas re-insurers and National Insurance Trust Fund and brokerage by insurance companies registered with the Insurance Board of Sri Lanka; and (13) effective March 22, 2021, where account holder is an investee, a tenant, a lessee, or a buyer, transfers to an IIA being payments of any income or capital proceeds attributed to capital transactions in Sri Lanka of such holder of the IIA, as permitted under the regulations and directions issued under the FEA applicable for IIAs.

Effective January 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic, any outward remittances through BFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka other than outward remittances on permitted current transactions up to any amount or outward remittances on capital transactions up to a maximum of US$20,000 were suspended for further six months after an initial suspension in 2020.

Effective July 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic, outward remittances on capital transactions through BFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka were limited up to a maximum of US$20,000, for further six months. where the amount of such foreign exchange exceeds US$15,000 or an equivalent amount in any designated foreign currencies.
(ii) a declaration to the relevant AD where the amount of such foreign exchange is equal or less than US$15,000 or an equivalent amount in any designated foreign currencies.

(b) Any person in, or resident in, Sri Lanka can open SDAs with any AD on or before October 7, 2020, out of foreign currency notes in his possession up to the limit of US$15,000 and subject to such terms and conditions of the prevailing Regulations and Orders, subject to a declaration on the source of funds to the AD.

(2) SDA holders are permitted to obtain loans from ADs against SDAs (keeping as collateral) as follows:
(a) Residents in Sri Lanka rupees,
(b) Nonresident SDA holders who are eligible to obtain loans as per the prevailing regulations.

Effective April 7, 2021, the period for opening SDAs was extended till April 7, 2022, after permission was granted to renew and continue the SDAs opened under the Regulations in the DBU, as SDAs, beyond the designated date of maturity in October 2020.

Effective June 30, 2021, permission was granted to rollover the SDAs opened under the Regulations (excluding interest), with six-month or twelve-month tenures, provided the accumulated period of the said SDAs does not exceed the maximum of twenty-four months from the initial date of placing such deposits, in accordance with the directions issued by the Central Bank.

Effective March 28, 2022, the period of opening SDAs was further extended till April 7, 2022.

IIAs: Accounts opened and maintained for the purpose of channeling funds for capital transactions in Sri Lanka by nonresidents are titled as IIAs which can be held either in Sri Lanka rupees or in any designated foreign currency in the DBUs of LCBs. IIAs maintained by individuals may be held as sole or effective March 18, 2021, joint accounts with another eligible person who is an immediate family member, that is, parents, grandparents, spouse and children (previously, IIAs were allowed to be held as joint accounts with persons who are not members of the immediate family).

Effective March 22, 2021, the following persons are eligible to open IIAs: (1) non-national residents in or outside Sri Lanka; (2) Sri Lankan dual citizens resident in or outside Sri Lanka; (3) Sri Lankan national who has obtained PR or citizenship in another country, resident in or outside Sri Lanka; (4) Sri Lankan citizen employed abroad, resident outside Sri Lanka (excluding emigrants); (5) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka; (6) partnerships registered outside Sri Lanka; (7) country and regional funds, mutual funds, unit trusts, and other institutional investors who are established outside Sri Lanka; (8) administrators or executors of the estate of a deceased person, who maintained an IIA with an AD or a RD; (9) receivers or liquidators of a company that maintained an IIA with an AD or RD; and (10) any other person or category of persons who may be authorized by the Central Bank from time to time.

Previously, the following persons were eligible to open IIAs: (1) non-national residents in or outside Sri Lanka; (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka; (3) Sri Lankan citizens, resident outside Sri Lanka; (4) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka; and (5) country and regional funds, mutual funds, unit trusts, and other institutional investors who are established outside Sri Lanka.

Effective March 22, 2021, IIAs may be used for the following types of permitted investments in Sri Lanka subject to exclusions, limitations and other terms and conditions stipulated in Regulations No. 2 of 2021: (1) all classes of shares under an entitlement to shares or conversions to shares issued by Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007; (2) debt securities (excluding listed debt securities) with a tenure of three or more years issued by companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007 (other than LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, SLCs, and companies limited by guarantee and overseas companies registered in Sri Lanka), in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (3) invest in debt securities issued with the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities in designated foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees; (4) loans with a tenure of three or more years to companies incorporated under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in Sri Lanka (other than LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, SLCs, and companies limited by guarantee and overseas companies) in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (5) loans by the parent company incorporated outside Sri Lanka to its branch office or project office registered in Sri Lanka as an overseas company under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (6) loans to the Government of Sri Lanka or State-Owned Enterprises subject to obtaining any approval required from the relevant line Ministry and any other relevant authority; (7) loans in foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees to LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, and SLCs, subject to the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities; (8) subject to the provisions or restrictions in any other written law, investments in (a) units in unit trusts or mutual funds; (b) government securities (treasury bills, treasury bonds, and any other securities issued by the Government of Sri Lanka); (c) securities issued by the CBSL or any state-owned enterprise or any other statutory body; (d) SLDBs; (e) term deposits in, Sri Lanka rupee or any designated foreign currency in licensed financial institutions, subject to Section 4 of the Act; (f) immovable properties; or (g) listed debt securities; (9) loans with a tenure of less than three years to companies as defined in the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in Sri Lanka which hold Business Foreign Currency Accounts, for the purpose of utilizing such proceeds of the loan to meet the working capital requirement of the borrower, provided all repayments of such loans are made out of the foreign exchange earnings of the borrower; and (10) invest in any other investment category approved by the Monetary Board in accordance with such directions as may be issued by the Minister.

Previously, IIAAs could be used for the following types of permitted investments in Sri Lanka: (1) shares in companies (listed and unlisted); (2) units in unit trusts; (3) government securities (treasury bills and bonds); (4) securities issued by the CBSL or any other statutory body; (5) SLDBs; (6) deposits in licensed financial institutions; (7) loans and debt securities; and (8) immovable property.

Permitted debits, credits of IIA, and conditions on opening and maintaining IIA are specified in Directions No. 15 of 2021.

Capital Transactions Rupee Accounts (CTRAs): Effective March 22, 2021, ADs may open CTRAs for: (1) An emigrant, resident in or outside Sri Lanka (an “emigrant” means (a) a Sri Lankan who has obtained PR status or citizenship in another country; (b) a dual citizen of Sri Lanka whose mother or father was born in Sri Lanka; or (c) a non-Sri Lankan citizen – (i) whose mother or father was born in Sri Lanka and (ii) whose birth has been registered in Sri Lanka and includes the minors of persons referred to in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c)). (2) A non-national resident in or outside Sri Lanka including minors of such person. (3) An individual Sri Lankan resident in or outside Sri Lanka who has obtained Temporary Resident visa in another country, aged 18 years or above. (4) An individual Sri Lankan resident in Sri Lanka who is a prospective migrant under the parent migration scheme. (5) An administrator or executor of the estate of a deceased person who was an emigrant. (6) Any other person or category of persons who may be authorized by the Central Bank from time to time.

Previously, ADs could open CTRAs for (l) Sri Lankan individuals, permanently residing outside Sri Lanka, (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka, (3) Sri Lankan dual citizens, (4) non-national resident outside Sri Lanka, (5) Sri Lankan nationals residing outside Sri Lanka, and (6) foreign firms and companies registered outside Sri Lanka.

CTRAs may be opened and maintained as current (without overdrawing facility) or, savings, accounts in Sri Lanka rupees in the DBU of LCBs and eligible persons may open only one CTRA in the banking system and effective March 22, 2021, must be held as sole account (previously, CTRAs were allowed to be held jointly with another eligible person). Interest may be paid on the funds held in these accounts. Permitted debits, credits of CTRA and conditions on opening and maintaining IIA are specified in Directions No. 16 of 2021.

Emigrants may transfer their eligible migration allowance through a CTRA as follows: (1) an initial migration allowance of US$200,000 an individual aged 18 years and above; (2) an annual migration allowance of US$30,000 where first such annual allowance is transferable after lapse of 12 months from the full utilization of the initial allowance of US$200,000; (3) an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals, as, effective March 22, 2021, any income and any capital proceeds derived from inherited investments and investments received as gifts, for which evidence of the inward remittances is not available or for investments made during the period from January 1, 2010, to November 20, 2017 (previously, an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals was allowed as proceeds from sale of inherited property and assets in Sri Lanka); and (4) effective March 22, 2021, superannuation benefits of foreign nationals are freely remittable outside Sri Lanka.

Effective March 22, 2021, the total value of the investments made by an emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka through an OIA, in the country where the said individual has obtained PR or citizenship, must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance, at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Effective March 22, 2021, in the event of “Parent Migration Schemes” operated by foreign countries, the funds for the payments to be made to overseas authorities by such individuals for obtaining visa, must be remitted through the Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such individuals subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. On receiving PR in the country to which such payment was made, total amount of such payments must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance of such individuals at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Effective March 22, 2021, a Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained a temporary resident visa in another country, aged 18 years or above, may claim a maximum of US$30,000 subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. Such persons may claim the said allowance through a Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such persons. The amounts so claimed must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance at the time of claiming the migration allowance.

Effective January 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19, the following provisions were extended for further six months after initially having been introduced in 2020: (1) eligible migration allowance for emigrants who are claiming the migration allowance for the first time was limited up to a maximum of US$30,000 and (2) repatriation of funds under the migration allowance by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance is allowed up to a maximum of US$20,000 (while previously, no amount was permitted).
Effective July 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic, funds remitted via CTRAs were suspended/restricted for six months as follows:

(1) Suspend the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance out of funds received as monetary gifts by an emigrant from an immediate family member, being funds realized from any asset in Sri Lanka (including movable, immovable, tangible, and intangible assets);

(2) Limit the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance through CTRAs by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance up to a maximum of US$10,000 (previously US$20,000);

(3) Limit the eligible migration allowance for the emigrants who are claiming the migration allowance for the first time, up to a maximum of US$30,000;

(4) Limit the repatriation of any current income or accumulated current income (including EPF, Employees’ Trust Fund (ETF), gratuity, and pensions or any other retirement benefits) by the emigrants through the CTRA, up to a maximum of US$30,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency;

(5) Limit the outward remittances or issuance of foreign exchange for any Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained Temporary Residence Visa (which leads to a PR) of another country, up to a maximum of US$20,000;

(6) Limit the issuance of foreign exchange for any person resident in Sri Lanka who intends to leave Sri Lanka under the Temporary Residence Visa of another country up to a maximum of US$10,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency per person.

Effective January 2, 2022, the above suspensions/restrictions were extended for a further period of six months.

Effective July 2, 2022, in response to COVID-19 pandemic and with a view to preserve the foreign currency reserve position, funds remitted via CTRAs were suspended/restricted for six months as follows:

(1) Suspend the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance out of funds received as monetary gifts by an emigrant from an immediate family member, being funds realized from any asset in Sri Lanka (including movable, immovable, tangible, and intangible assets);

(2) Limit the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance through CTRAs by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance up to a maximum of US$10,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency;

(3) Limit the eligible migration allowance for the emigrants who are claiming the migration allowance for the first time, up to a maximum of US$30,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency;

(4) Limit the repatriation of any current income or accumulated current income (including EPF, Employees’ Trust Fund (ETF), gratuity, and pensions or any other retirement benefits) by the emigrants through the CTRA, up to a maximum of US$30,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency;

(5) Limit the outward remittances or issuance of foreign exchange for any Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained Temporary Residence Visa (which leads to a PR) of another country, up to a maximum of US$20,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency per person.
other designated foreign currency;
(6) Limit the issuance of foreign exchange for any person resident in Sri Lanka who intends to leave Sri Lanka under the Temporary Residence Visa of another country up to a maximum of US$10,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency per person.

Diplomatic Rupee Accounts (DRAs): DRAs can be opened by foreign diplomatic missions and diplomatic personnel and their family members in Sri Lanka who have been exempted from the requirement of obtaining resident visa issued by the Department of Immigration and Emigration in Sri Lanka rupees. Holders of DRAs are permitted (1) to make outward remittances of visa fees, refunds, reimbursements, and sale proceeds of motor vehicles owned by the account holder; (2) to transfer funds to IIA of the same account holder; (3) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (4) to transfer funds to other DFCAs and DRAs; and (5) to make any other transaction approved by the relevant ministry.

Resident Guest Rupee Current Accounts: Resident Guest Rupee Current Accounts may be opened for prospective investors and professionals who come to Sri Lanka under the “Resident Guest Scheme” implemented by the Department of Immigration and Emigration. Investors are required to remit or bring a sum of US$35,000 or its equivalent in other foreign currency a person for the upkeep in Sri Lanka of such investor and dependents.
Professional are required to remit or bring into Sri Lanka a sum of US$2,000 a month and a further sum of US$1,000 a month for each dependent.

Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts: Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts may be opened in the form of savings or current accounts with a minimum deposit of US$1,500 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency brought into the country on appropriate declaration, and converted to Sri Lanka rupees. Inward remittances or foreign currency brought into the country by the account holder on declaration for upkeep (US$1,500 a month) and for the upkeep of dependents (US$750 a dependent a month) must be deposited to Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts.

SDAs: SDAs can be maintained as Sri Lanka rupee deposits. The Government of Sri Lanka in consultation with the Monetary Board of the CBSL has introduced a SDA with a view to seek assistance for the national effort to overcome the effects of COVID-19 outbreak in the country. Any Sri Lankan individual resident in or outside Sri Lanka including Dual Citizens, Citizens of other States with Sri Lankan origin, and any person resident outside Sri Lanka including funds, corporate bodies, associations incorporated/registered outside Sri Lanka, and other well-wishers are eligible to open SDAs with the following special features:
Minimum tenure: Six months.
Type of deposit: Fixed deposits only.
Interest payable: 1 percentage point and 2 percentage points per annum for SDAs with a tenure of 6 months and 12 months, respectively, payable at maturity of the deposit, above the deposit interest rates applicable for normal deposits of similar maturities by the respective bank.
Repatriation of Funds: Freely convertible and repatriable outside Sri Lanka on the maturity of the term deposits.
Source of Funds: (1) inward remittances through banking system during the six-month period from April 8, 2020, and (2) fund transfers from IIAs or accounts in the OBU of the account holder during the subject period.
Currency type: in foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees.

Regulations and directions were issued informing the further measures taken to encourage opening of SDAs as stated below:

(1) Expansion of the sources of funding SDAs:
(a) Any person who has arrived in Sri Lanka from overseas on or after January 1, 2020, can open SDAs with any AD on or before October 7, 2020, out of foreign exchange legitimately acquired and brought into Sri Lanka by such person subject to:
(i) a declaration made to the Sri Lanka Customs at the port of arrival where the amount of such foreign exchange exceeds US$15,000 or an equivalent amount in any designated foreign currencies.
(ii) a declaration to the relevant AD where the amount of such foreign exchange is equal or less than US$15,000 or an equivalent amount in any designated foreign currencies.
(b) Any person in, or resident in, Sri Lanka can open SDAs with any AD on or before October 7, 2020, out of foreign currency notes in his possession up to the limit of US$15,000 and subject to such terms and conditions of the prevailing Regulations and Orders, subject to a declaration on the source of funds to the AD.

(2) SDA holders are permitted to obtain loans from ADs against SDAs (keeping as collateral) as follows:
(a) Residents in Sri Lanka rupees,
(b) Nonresident SDA holders who are eligible to obtain loans as per the prevailing regulations.

Effective April 7, 2021, the period for opening SDAs extended till April 7, 2022, after permission was granted to renew and continue the SDAs opened under the Regulations in the DBU, as SDAs, beyond the designated date of maturity in October 2020.

Effective June 30, 2021, permission was granted to rollover the SDAs opened under the Regulations (excluding interest), with six-month or twelve-month tenures, provided the accumulated period of the said SDAs does not exceed the maximum of twenty-four months from the initial date of placing such deposits, in accordance with the directions issued by the Central Bank.

Effective March 28, 2022, the period of opening SDAs was further extended till April 7, 2022. Emigrant’s Remittable Income Account (ERIA): Effective March 22, 2021, ADs are permitted to open and maintain ERIAs in the DBU, for the purpose of repatriation of current income derived in Sri Lanka by an emigrant only if there is a regulatory requirement in the country where the emigrant is residing permanently, to identify the current income globally derived by such emigrant. ERIA may be opened and maintained in the form of Savings or Current (without over drawing facility) account, in Sri Lanka rupees as sole account. Eligible persons may open only one ERIA in the banking system and both the CTRA and ERIA must be opened and maintained with the same AD.

ERIA may be credited with (1) any income derived from any assets in Sri Lanka, owned by the emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka or inherited or gifted to such emigrant, (2) income received for services provided by the emigrant, (3) superannuation benefits, and (4) current income received by the emigrant. Funds in the account may be utilized for (1) remittances in favor of the accountholder; (2) transfers to IIAs, PFCAs, and accounts maintained in the OBU of the same account holder; (3) payments in relation to the loans permitted to be obtained by the account holder from an AD; (4) payments for the settlements of the Electronic Fund Transfer Cards (EFTCs) of the account holder; and (5) disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees.

Nonresident Rupee Account (NRRA): Effective March 22, 2021, ADs are permitted to open and maintain NRRA in the DBU for (1) emigrants resident in or outside Sri Lanka and (2) a firm or company registered/incorporated outside Sri Lanka, in the form of savings, current (without overdrawning facility) or term deposits. NRRA may be maintained as joint accounts with another emigrant.

NRRA held by emigrants may be credited with (1) foreign exchange received from outside Sri Lanka in favor of the account holder, (2) any income or proceeds derived from any assets in Sri Lanka, owned by the emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka or inherited or gifted to such emigrant, and (3) superannuation benefits received by the emigrant. Funds in NRRA may be utilized for (1) making payments for investments permitted to be made by the account holder in terms the regulations issued under the FEA No. 12 of 2017 and (2) transfers to CTRA or ERIAs of the account holder.

Where accountholder is a firm or company outside Sri Lanka NRRA may be credited with (1) foreign exchange received from outside Sri Lanka in favor of the account holder and (2) local income derived from current transactions and income and capital proceeds from investments in Sri Lanka inherited or received as gifts for which there is no evidence on the inward remittances for such investments or investment made during the period of January 1, 2010, to November 20, 2017. Such local income from current transactions may be remitted outside Sri Lanka, and proceeds from the said investments in Sri Lanka may be transferred to IIAs or accounts maintained in the OBU of the accountholder subject to US$30,000 an annum.

Further, local disbursements in Sri Lanka rupees are allowed for both emigrants and firms/companies maintaining NRRA.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. These accounts are convertible, but under the general permission granted by regulations or special permission granted in terms of FEA.

Approval required Yes. Approval is granted in accordance with the FEA, that is, either the general permission (as regulations/directions) with regard to permitted debits and credits or special approval from the Director–DFE where requested transactions are not covered from the existing general permission granted to same accounts. A nonresident is required a special approval to open a LKR account, if such person is not eligible to open LKR accounts for which a general permission has already granted in terms of FEA.

Blocked accounts No. There are no blocked accounts. However, capital controls in respect of migrant fund transfers are in place through CTRAs introduced under FEA as specified in Paragraph VI.B above.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget No.

Financing requirements for imports Yes.

Minimum financing requirements No. ADs may remit foreign exchange abroad or credit nonresident accounts against applications for the opening of an LC on Documents against Payment (DP) or Documents against Acceptance.
Advance payment requirements | Yes.

(DA) terms, Advance payments, Open account, or Consignment account based on the submission of proof of a valid import license, where applicable. These payment term requirements do not apply if the value of a consignment does not exceed the equivalent of US$5,000 (c.i.f.) for the use of the particular importer (for personal use and not for commercial purpose).

ADs may make outward remittances with respect to payment on interest for supplier credit facilities offered to an importer by the supplier of such goods.

The limit on advance payments for imports is US$50,000 if such payments are made from a Sri Lanka rupee account. However, such limit does not apply to payments made from foreign currency accounts.

Following measures were issued as interim measures to ease the pressure on the exchange rate and the stress on financial markets because of the impact of COVID-19.

(1) Effective January 5, 2021, Import and Export Control Department (IECD) further updated importing items in Schedule I and Schedule II until further notice. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions. Initially, in 2020, the IECD requested Sri Lanka Customs and commercial banks to suspend facilitating importation of some non-essential goods under LCs, DA, DP, Open Account, and Advanced Payment or a combination of these.

(2) Effective February 11, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule I and Schedule II until further notice. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward relaxing the import restrictions.

(3) Effective April 6, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule II until further notice. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions.

(4) Effective April 23, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule I until further notice. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions.

(5) Effective June 11, 2021, importing items in Schedule I under LCs, DA, DP, Open Account, and Advanced Payment or a combination of these was suspended until further notice. However, exceptions are allowed for items appearing in Schedules I depending on the conditions specified in the gazette. Several items added and several items removed from Schedule I but the overall impact of these updates relaxes the import restrictions. The IECD discontinued Schedule II under credit terms of July 16, 2020, gazette. Accordingly, items that were in Schedule II are no longer required to import under mandatory credit facilities provided by foreign supplier, which is a relaxation of restrictions. Accordingly, the banks are not allowed to involve in intermediary services (such as opening LCs, making payments, and endorsing or releasing documents) related to the import process of the restricted items unless with a special approval from the direction issuing authority.

The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions. (The licensing requirements were updated by the regulations issued on May 6, 2021.)

(5) Effective May 6, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items on November 9, 2017, gazette and its subsequent updates under licensing requirement and the specified items were banned/suspended to import without a valid import control license until further notice. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions. (The licensing requirements were updated by the regulations issued on June 11,
(6) Effective June 11, 2021, importing items in Schedule I under LCs, DA, DP, Open Account, and Advanced Payment or a combination of these was suspended until further notice. However, exceptions are allowed for items appearing in Schedules I depending on the conditions specified in the gazette. Several items added and several items removed from Schedule I, but the overall impact of these updates has caused relaxation of the import restrictions IECD discontinued Schedule II under credit terms of July 16, 2020, gazette. Accordingly, items that were in Schedule II are no longer required to be imported under mandatory credit facilities provided by foreign supplier, which is a relaxation of restrictions.

(7) Effective July 31, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule IV of November 19, 2017, gazette and its subsequent updates under licensing requirement and the specified items were banned/suspended to import. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions.

(8) Effective September 30, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items inserted by the Imports and Exports (Control) Regulations No. 09 of 2020, published in the Gazette (Extraordinary) No. 2199/20 dated October 29, 2020, to the Schedule I of the Special Import License Regulations published in the Gazette (Extraordinary) No. 2044/40 dated November 9, 2017, under licensing requirement and the licensing requirement for the specified items were removed. The overall impact of these updates has caused relaxation of the import restrictions.

(9) Effective November 3, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule I of the Imports and Exports Control Regulations No. 10 of 2021, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2231/18 dated June 11, 2021, under Temporary Suspension and the said requirement for the specified items were removed. The overall impact of these updates has caused relaxation of the import restrictions.

(10) Effective November 30, 2021, the IECD further updated importing items by repealing Imports and Exports (Control) Regulations No. 07 of 2021 published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2226/48 dated May 6, 2021, and Imports and Exports (Control) Regulations No. 11 of 2021 published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2238/45 dated July 31, 2021, without prejudice to the importation of goods. Accordingly, specified items were banned/suspended, import licensing requirement was imposed on several selected items, and some selected items were repealed from banned category.

(11) Effective March 9, 2022, the IECD further updated importing items in Schedule I of the Special Import License Regulations, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2044/40 dated November 9, 2017, and its subsequent updates under licensing requirement. The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions.

(12) Effective April 9, 2022, the IECD further updated importing items in the Schedule I of the Special Import License Regulations, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2044/40 dated November 9, 2017, and its subsequent updates under licensing requirement.
The overall impact of these updates was broadly toward tightening the import restrictions.

(13) Effective May 6, 2022, importing items in Regulation No. 3 (I) (b) of the Special Import License and Payment Regulations, No. 1 of 2011, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 1739/3 dated January 2, 2012, was amended that the Open Account Payment Term or Consignment Account Term only be allowing under selected conditions.

(14) Effective May 31, 2022, the IECD removed the importing items in Imports and Exports (Control) Regulations No. 05 of 2022, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2270/18 dated March 9, 2022, and the Imports and Exports (Control) Regulations No. 06 of 2022, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2274/42 dated April 9, 2022, from licensing requirement.

(15) Effective June 24, 2022, the IECD further updated importing items in The Imports Control Regulations on Payment Terms No. 07 of 2022, published in the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2278/21 dated May 6, 2022, as amended by the Gazette Extraordinary No. 2282/22 dated May 31, 2022.

Accordingly, the banks are not allowed to involve in intermediary services (such as opening LCs, making payments, and endorsing or releasing documents) related to the import process of the restricted items unless with a special approval from the direction issuing authority. Effective August 18, 2020, for several specified items, banks may not process any payment relating to importation of any items, which are subject to Import Control License, without a valid Import Control License.

New licensing requirements were introduced, while several requirements were relaxed. Thus, some foods were subjected to import licenses as follows: selected food items such as seafood, nuts, tamarind, pepper, cinnamon, nutmeg, and mace; food items such as gram, cloves, and ginger; and other consumables such as incense sticks, kites, and lanterns; items such as textile articles, beverages, building material, vehicle parts, computer monitors, televisions, selected motor vehicles, furniture items, and items such as air conditioners, refrigerators, and washing machines and chemical products. Meanwhile, some other goods were removed from license requirement as follows: retreated tires (included in the banned list); selected items such as sorghum, facemasks, saws, and asbestos (asbestos included in the banned list); items such as sugar; items such as insecticides, clothing items such as batik products; effective April 6, 2021—items such as palm oil (included in the banned list); effective April 23, 2021—items such as mobile workshops; effective May 6, 2021—items such as chemical fertilizer; and effective June 11, 2021—items such as face masks and items related to gold. As indicated, some of these removed items were inserted in to the negative (banned) list. As a result, about 1500, Harmonized System (HS) line items are subjected to import controls because of concerns on public health, public morals, environmental protection, preservation of antiques, or national security. Broadly, these items are categorized as drugs; used vehicles and vehicle parts; chemicals, fertilizer, sugar, palm oil, batik items, animal products, alcohol, petroleum, and petroleum products; telecommunication equipment and miscellaneous items; and selected food items. Paddy is also subjected to licensing to protect domestic producers from low prices. International quality certificate is required to import petroleum. products, an analytical report from manufacturer to import pharmaceutical products. Standards were set to importation of taps, cocks, and valves categorized under HS code 84.81. The number of commodity categories subject to Sri Lanka standards (SLS) certification is 122. From July 13, 2018, lower vehicular exhaust emission limits in compliance with the EURO IV standards, and new safety measures and standards were introduced for selected motor vehicles. Electric vehicles are excluded from the requirement of vehicular exhaust emission limits.

Positive list
Yes. These are items that are not on the negative import list.

Negative list
Yes. New banned items were introduced, while several banned items were removed. As a result, about 64 HS lines including some fish, pharmaceutical waste, and chemicals such as polychlorinated biphenyls, ethylene dichloride, chloropentafluoroethane, used and retreated tires, clinical waste, chain saws, asbestos, palm oil (effective April 6, 2021), chemical fertilizer (effective May 6, 2021), etc., may not be imported, under Import and Export Control Act No. 1 of 1969. Glyphosate was removed from the negative list and was added to the list of products requiring an import license.

Open general licenses
No.

Licenses with quotas
Yes. Importation of hydrochlorofluorocarbon was limited by imposing quotas; import licenses are issued by the IECD to quota holders to import hydrochlorofluorocarbon.

Other nontariff measures
No.

Import taxes and/or tariffs
Yes. Customs duty for entire imported goods are 0%, 10%, and 15%, as announced in the Budget 2021. Accordingly, the tax rate applicable for approximately 1,440 items is 15%. Preferential tariffs apply to imports under bilateral and regional trade agreements. In addition to customs duties, some imports are subject to domestic taxes such as Commodity Export Subsidy Scheme (CESS) Levy, Ports and Airports Development Levy (PAL), and excise duty (on alcohol, tobacco products, vehicles, petroleum products, etc.). As a composite levy, a Special Commodity Levy (SCL) is imposed on selected essential food items, so as to ensure affordable prices for such commodities. With the aim of minimizing adverse effects of the pandemic, several exemptions were granted in respect of PAL and CESS on the importation of selected health related equipment. Thus, the exemptions on a CESS levy were granted as follows: CESS on the supply or donation of health protection equipment and similar products by any export-oriented enterprises, which have entered into an agreement with the BOI of Sri Lanka, to Ministry of Healthcare and Indigenous Medical Services, Department of Health Services, Tri Forces, Sri Lanka Police, and COVID Centre (National Operation Centre for Prevention of COVID-19 Outbreak) was exempted on their request;

CESS was rescinded for the supply or donation of health protection equipment and similar products by any export-oriented enterprises, which have entered into an agreement with the BOI, to the Ministry of Healthcare and Indigenous Medical Services, Department of Health Services, Sri Lanka Army, Sri Lanka Navy, Sri Lanka Air Force, Sri Lanka Police, and COVID Centre (National Operation Centre for Prevention of COVID-19 Outbreak).

The exemptions on PAL were granted as follows:

PAL on the importation of health instruments and appliances and hospital furniture consigned to the Secretary, Ministry of Healthcare and Indigenous Medical Services as a donation was exempted;

PAL on the supply or donation of health protection equipment and similar products by any eligible export-oriented enterprises was exempted;
PAL on the importation of raw materials and packing materials by the pharmaceutical manufacturers for the manufacture of pharmaceuticals was exempted;
PAL was exempted for pharmaceutical machinery and equipment including accessories and spare parts for pharmaceutical machinery and equipment imported by the pharmaceutical manufacturers for the manufacture of pharmaceuticals, on the recommendation of the Secretary to the State Ministry of Production, Supply and Regulation of Pharmaceuticals, subject to the approval of the Director General of Customs;
PAL was exempted for medical instruments and equipment including test kits required for the provision of health services, imported or imported and supplied by any agency.

Effective June 1, 2022, VAT rate on import and/or supply of goods or supply of services was increased to 12% from 8%. Effective January 1, 2022, VAT rate on the supply of financial services on financial institutions was increased to 18% from 15%.

Exports and Export Proceeds

| Repatriation requirements | Yes. | Special arrangements apply to exports carried out under trade and payments agreements and to exports to ACU member countries. Every exporter of goods must repatriate to Sri Lanka payments received for the exportation of goods within 180 days from the date of exportation. Every exporter of goods must submit related documentary evidence on each exportation to the respective AD/RD that receives the payment. These export proceeds may be credited to any Sri Lanka rupee account or to a BFCA or to an account maintained in the OBU of the exporter (where applicable). Effective October 28, 2021, in addition to repatriation of goods, exporters must repatriate proceeds from services provided outside Sri Lanka, within 180 days from the date of provisioning of services. Effective March 11, 2022, previous Rules were rescinded and new Rules were introduced requiring every exporter of goods and services to repatriate export proceeds within 180 days from the date of shipment of goods or provisioning of services. |
| Surrender requirements | Yes. | Effective February 18, 2021, all LBs were required to sell 50% of the exports proceeds in various currencies purchased from exporters of goods (as per Rules No. 1 of 2021 made under Section 68 read in conjunction with Section 10(c) of the Monetary Law Act (MLA) published in the Gazette Notification No. 2215/39 of February 18, 2021), to the CBSL in US dollars. The above requirement was temporarily suspended effective March 17, 2021, and reimposed on May 28, 2021. Subsequently, the above requirement was amended on December 27, 2021, March 21, 2022, and April 11, 2022, and accordingly, effective April 11, 2022, all LBs are required to sell 25% of the residual of export proceeds which is mandatory to convert to LKR to the CBSL, in US dollars, on a weekly basis. Effective February 18, 2021, with a view to facilitate the domestic | foreign exchange market during COVID-19 pandemic, every exporter of goods is required to convert 25% of the total export proceeds into Sri Lanka rupees, through a LB, immediately on the receipt of such export proceeds into Sri Lanka. Further, all LBs were required to mandatorily monitor the conversion of repatriated export proceeds as required under the rules.

Effective March 9, 2021, exporters were given a period of 14 days to convert aforesaid 25% of export proceeds received into Sri Lanka rupees, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment.

Effective April 9, 2021, every exporter is required to convert 10% of the export proceeds received in to Sri Lanka rupees (instead of previous 25%), within 30 days on receipt of such proceeds, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment.

Effective May 28, 2021, considering the situation in the foreign exchange market amidst the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, exporters are required to convert 25% of the export proceeds received into Sri Lanka rupees, within 30 days on receipt of such proceeds, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment. However, discretion was given to the Monetary Board of CBSL to determine a lesser percentage up to 10%, for conversion of export proceed received, for the specific export sectors or industries or individual exporters, if the Monetary Board is satisfied, that the export goods and processes of such export sector, industry, or exporter, utilize a very high percentage of imported goods that cannot be sourced domestically.

Effective October 28, 2021, previous Rules were rescinded and new Rules were introduced with a view of enhancing the liquidity in the domestic foreign exchange market, requiring every exporter of goods and services to convert residual of the export proceeds received in Sri Lanka, into Sri Lanka rupees on utilizing such proceeds only in respect of the below-mentioned authorized payments, on or before the seventh (7th) day of the following month.

1. Outward remittances for current transactions related to the particular export of goods and/or services including one-month commitments therein;
2. Withdrawal in foreign currency notes or transfer of funds for travel purposes related to export of goods and/or services;
3. Debt servicing expenses and repayment of foreign currency loans and accommodations obtained by the exporter of goods and/or services, where such foreign currency loan and accommodation is a permitted borrowing in terms of the Regulations, Orders, and Directions issued by the CBSL under the provisions of the FEA or Banking Act, No. 30 of 1988, as amended, including one-month loan commitments;
4. Payments of dividends declared to nonresident investors and/or payments of salaries to expatriate employees who are foreign nationals or dual citizens as permitted under the provisions of the FEA;
5. Payments in respect of making investments in SLDBs in foreign currency up to 10% of the export proceeds, so received; and
6. Payments to local suppliers permitted under the provisions of FEA for the purchases related to the particular export of goods and/or services.
Further, every local supplier, who receives payments in foreign currency out of the export proceeds in terms of Rule 4 (6) above, was required to mandatorily convert the residual of such receipts into Sri Lanka rupees, on utilizing the same only in respect of the authorized payments as stipulated in items (1) to (5) of the Rule 4 above, on or before the seventh (7th) day of the following month.

These rules effective March 11, 2022, have limited the authorized payments of current transactions, withdrawal in foreign currency notes or transfer of funds for travel purposes and payments to local suppliers only in relation to the particular export of goods and/or services and payments received by the local suppliers were also subjected to the surrender requirements under the Rules, which can be viewed as tightening of the Rules. However, introduction of a new authorized payment as payments of dividends declared to nonresident investors and/or payments of salaries to expatriate employees who are foreign nationals or dual citizens can be viewed as an easing of the Rules.

Effective January 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic any outward remittances through PFCAs/BFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka other than outward remittances on permitted current transactions up to any amount or outward remittances on capital transactions up to a maximum of US$20,000 were suspended for further six months after an initial suspension in 2020.

Effective July 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic outward remittances on capital transactions through PFCAs/BFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka were limited up to a maximum of US$20,000 for further six months.

Effective July 2, 2022, with a view to preserve the foreign currency reserve position, outward remittances on capital transactions through PFCAs/BFCAs held by persons resident in Sri Lanka were limited up to a maximum of US$20,000 for further six months.

Approval is not required for sales of shares. However, all income from investments outside Sri Lanka and disposal proceeds (including any subsequent shares devolving on such investor by virtue of a corporate action by the issuer, exercise of a right, entitlemen, or conversion) must be brought into Sri Lanka through the same OIA through which the initial investment was made within three months from the date of payment of realization of such investment. Permission has not been granted to issue shares abroad.
Nonresidents including foreign country funds, regional funds, mutual funds, entities incorporated outside Sri Lanka, and citizens of foreign countries may invest in any permitted real or financial assets through IIAs. Effective March 22, 2021, nonresidents may invest: (1) in debt securities (excluding listed debt securities) with a tenure of three or more years issued by companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007 (other than LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, SLCs, and companies limited by guarantee and overseas companies registered in Sri Lanka), in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees, (2) listed debt securities subject to the provisions or restrictions in any other written law, and (3) in debt securities issued with the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities in designated foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees, by LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, or SLCs. The rupee-denominated government treasury bill and bond market is open to foreign investors. Foreign investors may hold 5% of the total value of treasury bills and bonds outstanding at any given time. Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka may issue debentures. There is no ceiling on interest rates on foreign investments in debenture. The minimum term of a debenture issued by a company incorporated in Sri Lanka to foreign investors is one year. Issuance and transfer of convertible, nonconvertible, redeemable, and nonredeemable debentures in rupees of listed or non-listed companies on the Colombo Stock Exchange are permitted for foreign institutional investors, companies incorporated abroad, individuals resident outside Sri Lanka, and Sri Lankans resident abroad, up to 100% of the total. IIAs must be used for the related transactions.

Issuance is not permitted.

Residents may invest in sovereign bonds issued by foreign governments and governmental institutions and effective March 22, 2021, in debentures or corporate bonds issued by companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka as follows: listed companies—up to US$2 million a calendar year; unlisted companies—up to US$500,000 a calendar year; partnerships—up to US$300,000 for lifetime; and individuals or, effective March 22, 2021, sole proprietorship of such individuals—up to US$200,000 for lifetime; and effective March 22, 2021, regulated or licensed entities, under the Central Bank or the Securities and Exchange Commission of Sri Lanka or the Insurance Regulatory Commission of Sri Lanka—up to US$500,000 a calendar year, EPF established under the EPF Act, No. 15 of 1958 or any other provident fund approved by the Commissioner General of Labour—up to US$500,000 a calendar year. The funds must be channeled through an OIA.
Investments under (1) and (2) which exceed the limits under the general permission are subject to the Monetary Board approval on a case-by-case basis.

Effective July 2, 2021, payments through OIAs for the purpose of making investments in overseas by persons resident in Sri Lanka under general permission were suspended for six months with a view to further preserve the foreign currency reserve position of the country during the COVID-19 pandemic, except for the following: (1) investments to be financed out of a foreign currency loan obtained by the investor from a person resident outside Sri Lanka under the provisions of the FEA No. 12 of 2017, or (2) an additional investment to be made to fulfill the regulatory requirements in the investee’s country applicable on the investment already made in compliance with the provisions of the FEA No. 12 of 2017 or repealed Exchange Control Act, in a company or a branch office in that country, or (3) an additional investment/infusion of funds (as applicable) to be made by eligible resident companies in already established subsidiaries or branch offices in overseas incorporated/established subject to the provisions of the FEA No. 12 of 2017 or repealed Exchange Control Act, up to a maximum of US$15,000 (previously US$20,000), for the purpose of working capital requirements of the investee, or (4) the remittances for the purpose of maintenance of liaison, marketing, agency, project, representative, or any other similar offices already established in overseas subject to the provisions of the FEA No. 12 of 2017 or repealed Exchange Control Act, by eligible resident companies, up to a maximum of US$30,000 (previously US$20,000), provided the Head of DFE is satisfied with the fulfillment of such requirement. Emigrants, defined as Sri Lankan nationals who have been residents of Sri Lanka and have obtained PR or citizenship in another country, including dual citizens, are eligible for the migration allowance which includes proceeds realized from the sale of movable and immovable property, tangible and intangible assets owned by the emigrant, and gifts received from parents and spouses. Assets may include the value of precious stones, precious metals, personal jewelry, and other assets held in Sri Lanka including estates inherited as beneficiaries. The migration allowance is subject to the following limits:

1. an initial migration allowance of US$200,000 an individual aged 18 years and above;
2. an annual migration allowance of US$30,000 where first such annual allowance is transferable after lapse of 12 months from the full utilization of the initial allowance of US$200,000;
3. an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals effective March 22, 2021, any income and any capital proceeds derived from inherited investments and investments received as gifts, for which evidence of the inward remittances are not available or for investments made during the period from January 1, 2010, to November 20, 2017 (previously, an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals was allowed as proceeds from sale of inherited property and assets in Sri Lanka); and
4. effective March 22, 2021, superannuation benefits of foreign nationals are freely remittable outside Sri Lanka.

Effective March 22, 2021, the total value of the investments made by an emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka through an OIA, in the country where the said individual has obtained PR or citizenship, must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance, at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Effective March 22, 2021, in the event of “Parent Migration
Schemes’ operated by foreign countries, the funds for the payments to be made to overseas authorities by such individuals for obtaining visa, must be remitted through the Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such individuals subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. On receiving PR in the country to which such payment was made, total amount of such payments must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance of such individuals at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Effective March 22, 2021, a Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained a temporary resident visa in another country, aged 18 years or above, may claim a maximum of US$30,000 subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. Such persons may claim the said allowance through a Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such persons. The amounts so claimed must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance at the time of claiming the migration allowance.

The migration allowance must be remitted out through a CTRA opened with an AD. It may be transferred from CTRA to applicant’s PFCA and/or IIA in Sri Lanka or transferred to an account of the emigrant maintained outside Sri Lanka.

Effective January 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic, the following provisions were extended for further six months after initially having been introduced in 2020: (1) eligible migration allowance for emigrants who are claiming the migration allowance for the first time was limited up to a maximum of US$30,000 and (2) repatriation of funds under the migration allowance by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance is allowed up to a maximum of US$20,000 (while previously, no amount was permitted).

Effective July 2, 2021, in response to COVID-19 pandemic, funds remitted via CTRAs were further suspended/restricted for six months as follows:

(1) Suspend the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance out of funds received as monetary gifts by an emigrant from an immediate family member, being funds realized from any asset in Sri Lanka (including movable, immovable, tangible, and intangible assets);
(2) Limit the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance through CTRAs by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance up to a maximum of US$10,000 (previously US$20,000);
(3) Limit the eligible migration allowance for the emigrants who are claiming the migration allowance for the first time, up to a maximum of US$30,000;
(4) Limit the repatriation of any current income or accumulated current income (including Employees Provident Fund, ETF, gratuity, and pensions or any other retirement benefits) by the emigrants through the CTRA, up to a maximum of US$30,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency;
(5) Limit the outward remittances or issuance of foreign exchange for any Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained Temporary Residence Visa (which leads to a PR) of another country, up to a maximum of US$20,000;
(6) Limit the issuance of foreign exchange for any person resident in Sri Lanka who intends to leave Sri Lanka under the Temporary Residence Visa of another country up to a maximum of US$10,000 or equivalent in any other designated foreign currency per person.

Effective January 2, 2022, suspension of payments through OIAs for the purpose of making investments in overseas by persons resident in Sri Lanka under general permission was further extended for a period of six months.

Effective July 2, 2022, in response to COVID-19 pandemic and with a view to preserve the foreign currency reserve position, funds remitted via CTRAs were suspended/restricted for six months as follows:

(1) Suspend the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance out of funds received as monetary gifts by an emigrant from an immediate family member, being funds realized from any asset in Sri Lanka (including movable, immovable, tangible, and intangible assets);

Resident Accounts

In response to COVID-19 pandemic, any outward remittances through Personal Foreign Currency Accounts and Business Foreign Currency Accounts held by persons resident in Sri Lanka other than outward remittances on permitted current transactions up to any amount or outward remittances on capital transactions up to a maximum of US$20,000 were suspended for further six months.

In response to COVID-19 pandemic, payments suspended through Outward Investment Accounts for six months from July 2, 2020, were extended for a further period of six months.

Business Foreign Currency Accounts may be credited with transfers from Diplomatic Foreign Currency Account or an account maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit of a person resident outside Sri Lanka in respect of current transactions.

Holders of Business Foreign Currency Accounts (BFCAs) are allowed to transfer funds to other BFCAs, Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs), and accounts in the Offshore Banking Units (OBUs) of the same account holder (previously, transfers to BFCAs, PFCAs, or accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the accountholder).

External Commercial Borrowing Accounts (ECBAs) are introduced to receive the proceeds of loans obtained by Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, which are permitted to borrow from persons resident outside Sri Lanka under the provisions of the Foreign Exchange Act (FEA) No. 12 of 2017 and to make all repayments (including interest) of such loans (previously, it was mandatory to receive the proceeds of a foreign loan, to a LKR account of the company incorporated in Sri Lanka through an Inward Investment Account (IIA) of the lender. All repayments (including interest) had to be repatriated through the same channel).

Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, are permitted to open and maintain ECBAs in the form of Savings or Term Deposit accounts in any designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees as sole accounts. ECBA Term Deposit may be opened only for the purpose of keeping it under lien for a Sri Lanka rupee loan to be obtained by the accountholder from an AD, to mitigate foreign exchange risk.

Permitted debits, credits of ECBA, and conditions on opening and maintaining ECBAs are specified in Directions No. 19 of 2021.

Holders of ECBAs are allowed for the following debits: (1) remittance/transfers of funds to an account maintained outside Sri Lanka or an IIA or an account maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU) of the lender, for the purpose of servicing and repayments of the loan, in terms of the loan Agreement; (2) transfers of loan proceeds, to a Sri Lanka rupee account of the account holder; (3) transfers of loan proceeds, to an Outward Investment Account (OIA) of the accountholder only if the loan has been obtained for the purpose of financing outward investments, as permitted in the Foreign Exchange (the Classes of Capital Transactions Undertaken Outside Sri Lanka by a Person Resident in Sri Lanka) Regulations No. 1 of 2021 or in terms of the provisions of the repealed Exchange Control Act or the FEA No. 12 of 2017; (4) remittances in respect of current transactions of the account holder; (5) transfers to the ECBAs of the same accountholders; (6) bank charges, fees, commissions, etc., payable with respect to the loan; and (7) disbursement in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees.

Following credits are permitted for ECBAs: (1) Remittances/transfers of proceeds of the loan obtained by the accountholder from an overseas lender, from an account maintained outside Sri Lanka or an IIA or an account maintained in the OBU, of such lender; (2) transfers from an OIA or Business Foreign Currency Account, an account maintained in the OBU or Sri Lankan Rupee account, of the accountholder, for the purpose of servicing the loan; (3) transfers from another ECBAs of the same accountholder; and (4) interest earned on the funds held in the account.

Licensed commercial bank or licensed specialized bank, in terms of the Banking Act No. 30 of 1988, regulated/licensed entities under the Central Bank, Securities Exchange Commission, Insurance Regulatory Commission of Sri Lanka, Employees' Provident Fund (EPF) established under the EPF Act No. 15 of 1958 or Approved Provident Funds declared by the Commissioner General of Labour are eligible to open Outward Investment Accounts.

Check drawing facility was allowed for Business Foreign Currency Account current accounts.

Holders of Business Foreign Currency Accounts (BFCAs) may transfer funds for making investments in Sri Lanka Development Bonds in foreign currency utilizing funds in BFCAs.

Holders of Business Foreign Currency Accounts may transfer funds to an account maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU) of a person resident outside Sri Lanka in respect of a current transaction (previously, transfers to accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the accountholder).

Holders of Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs) are allowed to make any outward remittances made outside Sri Lanka in respect of current transactions of the account holder and/or immediate family members who are persons resident in Sri Lanka and in respect of capital transactions of persons resident in Sri Lanka (previously, any outward remittances made outside Sri Lanka were allowed from PFCAs).

Holders of Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs) are allowed to transfer funds to other PFCAs or accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU) of persons resident outside Sri Lanka (previously, transfers to PFCAs or accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the accountholder).

Outward Investment Accounts may be opened and maintained with an licensed commercial bank for making payments in respect of permitted capital transactions outside Sri Lanka by persons resident in Sri Lanka including in shares and preference shares, corporate bonds, debentures of companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka (previously, such payments were permitted in shares and debt securities of companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka).

Personal Foreign Currency Account holders who are Sri Lankans employed abroad (other than emigrants) are also permitted to make payments in respect of current transactions of the immediate family members of the borrower who are residents in Sri Lanka.

Proceeds of loans in foreign currency obtained from ADs by persons’ residents in Sri Lanka who earn foreign exchange and maintain Business Foreign Currency Accounts (BFCAs) must be credited to a BFCA Loan Account opened in the name of the borrower.

Holders of Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs) are allowed to transfer funds for making investments in Sri Lanka Development Bonds in foreign currency utilizing funds in PFCAs.
Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs) may be credited with capital, capital gains, and other receipts arising from investments made in Sri Lanka Development Bonds in foreign currency, if the original transfer had been made by debiting the PFCA.

Business Foreign Currency Account holder who is an investee, tenant, lessee, or a buyer may transfer to an Inward Investment Account (IIA) payments of any income or capital proceeds attributed to capital transactions in Sri Lanka of such holder of the IIA, as permitted under the regulations and directions issued under the Foreign Exchange Act applicable for IIAs.

Business Foreign Currency Accounts (BFCAs) may be credited with funds transferred from other BFCAs or Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs) or accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU) of the same account holder; (previously, transfers from BFCAs, PFCAs, or accounts maintained in OBU were permitted irrespective of the account holder).

01/02/2021
In response to COVID-19 pandemic, restrictions on migration allowance in force from July 2, 2020, were extended for further six months.

03/18/2021
Inward Investment Accounts (IIAs) maintained by individuals may be held as sole or joint accounts with another eligible person who is an immediate family member, that is, parents, grandparents, spouse and children (previously, IIAs were allowed to be held as sole or joint accounts with persons who are not members of the immediate family).

03/22/2021
A Sri Lankan individual who resides in or outside Sri Lanka and has obtained a temporary resident visa in another country, aged 18 years or above, may claim a maximum of US$30,000 subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. Such persons may claim the said allowance through a Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such persons. The amounts so claimed must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance at the time of claiming the migration allowance.

03/22/2021
ADs are permitted to open and maintain Nonresident Rupee Account (NRRAs) in the Domestic Banking Unit for (1) emigrants resident in or outside Sri Lanka and (2) a firm or company registered/incorporated outside Sri Lanka, in the form of savings, current (without overdrwing facility) or term deposits. NRRAs may be maintained as joint accounts with another emigrant. NRRAs held by emigrants may be credited with (1) foreign exchange received from outside Sri Lanka in favor of the account holder, (2) any income or proceeds derived from any assets in Sri Lanka, owned by the emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka or inherited or gifted to such emigrant, and (3) superannuation benefits received by the emigrant. Funds in NRRA may be utilized for (1) making payments for investments permitted to be made by the account holder in terms the regulations issued under the Foreign Exchange Act No. 12 of 2017 and (2) transfers to Capital Transactions Rupee Account or Emigrant’s Remittable Income Accounts of the account holder.

Where accountholder is a firm or company outside Sri Lanka NRRA may be credited with (1) foreign exchange received from outside Sri Lanka in favor of the account holder and (2) local income derived from current transactions and income and capital proceeds from investments in Sri Lanka inherited or received as gifts for which there is no evidence on the inward remittances for such investments or investment made during the period of January 1, 2010, to November 20, 2017. Such local income from current transactions may be remitted outside Sri Lanka and proceeds from the said investments in Sri Lanka may be transferred to Inward Investment Accounts or accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit of the accountholder subject to US$30,000 an annum.

Further, local disbursements in Sri Lanka rupees are allowed for both emigrants and firms/companies maintaining NRRA.

The total value of the investments made by an emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka through an Outward Investment Account, in the country where the said individual has obtained permanent residency or citizenship, must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance, at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Capital Transactions Rupee Account (CTRA) must be held as sole account (previously, CTRAs were allowed to be held jointly with another eligible person).

Inward Investment Accounts (IIAs) may be used for the following types of permitted investments in Sri Lanka subject to exclusions, limitations and other terms and conditions stipulated in Regulations No. 2 of 2021: (1) all classes of shares under an entitlement to shares or conversions to shares issued by Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007; (2) debt securities (excluding listed debt securities) with a tenure of three or more years issued by companies incorporated in Sri Lanka under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007 (other than licensed commercial banks (LCBs), licensed specialized banks (LSBs), licensed finance companies (LFCs), specialized leasing companies (SLCs), and companies limited by guarantee and overseas companies registered in Sri Lanka), in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (3) invest in debt securities issued with the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities in designated foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees, by LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, or SLCs; (4) loans with a tenure of three or more years to companies incorporated under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in Sri Lanka (other than LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, SLCs, and companies limited by guarantee and overseas companies) in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (5) loans by the parent company incorporated outside Sri Lanka to its branch office or project office registered in Sri Lanka as an overseas company under the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in designated foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees; (6) loans to the Government of Sri Lanka or State-Owned Enterprises subject to obtaining any approval required from the relevant line Ministry and any other relevant authority; (7) loans in foreign currency or Sri Lanka rupees to LCBs, LSBs, LFCs, and SLCs, subject to the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities; (8) subject to the provisions or restrictions in any other written law, investments in (a) units in unit....
trusts or mutual funds; (b) government securities (treasury bills, treasury bonds, and any other securities issued by the Government of Sri Lanka); (c) securities issued by the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (CBSL) or any state-owned enterprise or any other statutory body; (d) SLDBs; (e) term deposits in, Sri Lanka rupee or any designated foreign currency in licensed financial institutions, subject to Section 4 of the Act; (f) immovable properties; or (g) listed debt securities; (9) loans with a tenure of less than three years to companies as defined in the Companies Act, No. 7 of 2007, in Sri Lanka which hold Business Foreign Currency Accounts, for the purpose of utilizing such proceeds of the loan to meet the working capital requirement of the borrower, provided all repayments of such loans are made out of the foreign exchange earnings of the borrower; and (10) invest in any other investment category approved by the Monetary Board in accordance with such directions as may be issued by the Minister. Previously, IIAs could be used for the following types of permitted investments in Sri Lanka: (1) shares in companies (listed and unlisted); (2) units in unit trusts; (3) government securities (treasury bonds and bills); (4) securities issued by the CBSL or any other statutory body; (5) SLDBs; (6) deposits in licensed financial institutions; (7) loans and debt securities; and (8) immovable property.

The following migration allowance through a Capital Transactions Rupee Account was allowed: an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals as any income and any capital proceeds derived from inherited investments and investments received as gifts, for which evidence of the inward remittances are not available or for investments made during the period from January 1, 2010, to November 20, 2017 (previously, an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals was allowed as proceeds from sale of inherited property and assets in Sri Lanka).

In the event of “Parent Migration Schemes” operated by foreign countries, the funds for the payments to be made to overseas authorities by such individuals for obtaining visa, must be remitted through the Capital Transaction Rupee Account opened by such individuals subject to the directions issued by the Central Bank under the provisions of the Act. On receiving permanent residency in the country to which such payment was made, total amount of such payments must be deducted from the eligible migration allowance of such individuals at the time of claiming the eligible migration allowance.

Superannuation benefits of emigrant foreign nationals are freely remittable outside Sri Lanka through a Capital Transactions Rupee Account.

ADs are permitted to open and maintain Emigrant’s Remittable Income Accounts (ERIAs) in the Domestic Banking Unit, for the purpose of repatriation of current income derived in Sri Lanka by an emigrant only if there is a regulatory requirement in the country where the emigrant is residing permanently, to identify the current income globally derived by such emigrant. ERIA may be opened and maintained in the form of Savings or Current (without over drawing facility) account, in Sri Lanka rupees as sole account. Eligible persons may open only one ERIA in the banking system and both the Capital Transactions Rupee Account and ERIA must be opened and maintained with the same AD.

ERIA may be credited with (1) any income derived from any assets in Sri Lanka, owned by the emigrant while being a resident in Sri Lanka or inherited or gifted to such emigrant, (2) income received for services provided by the emigrant, (3) superannuation benefits, and Funds in the account may be utilized for (1) remittances in favor of the accountholder; (2) transfers to Inward Investment Accounts, Personal Foreign Currency Accounts, and accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit of the same accountholder; (3) payments in relation to the loans permitted to be obtained by the accountholder from an AD; (4) payments for the settlements of the Electronic Fund Transfer Cards of the accountholder; and (5) disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees.

The following persons are eligible to open Inward Investment Accounts (IIAs): (1) non-national residents in or outside Sri Lanka; (2) Sri Lankan dual citizens resident in or outside Sri Lanka; (3) Sri Lankan national who has obtained permanent residency or citizenship in another country, resident in or outside Sri Lanka; (4) Sri Lankan citizen employed abroad, resident outside Sri Lanka (excluding emigrants); (5) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka; (6) partnerships registered outside Sri Lanka; (7) country and regional funds, mutual funds, unit trusts, and other institutional investors who are established outside Sri Lanka; (8) administrators or executors of the estate of a deceased person, who maintained an IIA with an AD or a restricted dealer (RD); (9) receivers or liquidators of a company that maintained an IIA with an AD or RD; and (10) any other person or category of persons who may be authorized by the Central Bank from time to time.

Previously, the following persons were eligible to open IIAs: (1) non-national residents in or outside Sri Lanka; (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka; (3) Sri Lankan citizens, resident outside Sri Lanka; (4) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka; and (5) country and regional funds, mutual funds, unit trusts, and other institutional investors who are established outside Sri Lanka.

ADs may open Capital Transactions Rupee Accounts (CTRAs) for: (1) An emigrant, resident in or outside Sri Lanka (an “emigrant” means: (a) a Sri Lankan who has obtained permanent residency status or citizenship in another country; (b) a dual citizen of Sri Lanka whose mother or father was born in Sri Lanka; or (c) a non-Sri Lankan citizen—(i) whose mother or father was born in Sri Lanka and (ii) whose birth has been registered in Sri Lanka, and includes the minors of persons referred to in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c). (2) A non-national resident in or outside Sri Lanka including minors of such person. (3) An individual Sri Lankan resident in or outside Sri Lanka who has obtained Temporary Resident visa in another country, aged 18 years or above. (4) An individual Sri Lankan resident in Sri Lanka who is a prospective migrant under the parent migration scheme. (5) An administrator or executor of the estate of a deceased person who was an emigrant. (6) Any other person or category of persons who may be authorized by the Central Bank from time to time.

Previously, ADs could open CTRAs for (1) Sri Lankan individuals, permanently residing outside Sri Lanka, (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka, (3) Sri Lankan dual citizens, (4) non-national resident outside Sri Lanka, (5) Sri Lankan nationals residing outside Sri Lanka, and (6) foreign firms and companies registered outside Sri Lanka.

The period for opening Special Deposit Accounts was extended till April 7, 2022.

Permission was granted to rollover the Special Deposit Accounts (SDAs) opened under the Regulations (excluding interest), with six-month or twelve-month tenures, provided the accumulated period of the said SDAs does not exceed the maximum of twenty-four months.
In response to COVID-19 pandemic, funds remitted via Capital Transactions Rupee Accounts (CTRAs) were suspended/restricted for six months as follows:

1. Suspend the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance out of funds received as monetary gifts by an emigrant from an immediate family member, being funds realized from any asset in Sri Lanka (including movable, immovable, tangible and intangible assets);

2. Limit the repatriation of funds under the migration allowance through CTRAs by the emigrants who have already claimed migration allowance up to a maximum of US$10,000 (previously US$20,000);

04/06/2021 Palm oil may not be imported, under Import and Export Control Act No. 1 of 1969.

05/06/2021 Chemical fertilizer may not be imported, under Import and Export Control Act No. 1 of 1969.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

01/01/2022 VAT rate on the supply of financial services on financial institutions was increased to 18% from 15%.

06/01/2022 VAT rate on import and/or supply of goods or supply of services was increased to 12% from 8%.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

10/28/2021 In addition to repatriation of goods, exporters must repatriate proceeds from services provided outside Sri Lanka, within 180 days from the date of provisioning of services.

03/11/2022 Previous Rules were rescinded, and new Rules were introduced requiring every exporter of goods and services to repatriate export proceeds within 180 days from the date of shipment of goods or provisioning of services.

Surrender requirements

Surrender to the central bank

02/18/2021 All licensed banks were required to sell 50% of the exports proceeds in various currencies purchased from exporters of goods (as per Rules No. 1 of 2021 made under Section 68 read in conjunction with Section 10(c) of the Monetary Law Act published in the Gazette Notification No. 2215/39 of February 18, 2021), to the Central Bank of Sri Lanka in US dollars.

03/17/2021 The requirement for licensed banks to sell 50% of the exports proceeds in various currencies purchased from exporters of goods to the Central Bank of Sri Lanka in US dollars was suspended. The requirement for licensed banks to sell 50% of the exports... proceeds in various currencies purchased from exporters of goods to the Central Bank of Sri Lanka in US dollars was reimposed.

All licensed banks are required to sell 25% of the residual of export proceeds which is mandatory to convert to LKR to the Central Bank of Sri Lanka, in US dollars, on a weekly basis.

With a view to facilitate the domestic foreign exchange market during COVID-19 pandemic, every exporter of goods is required to convert 25% of the total export proceeds into Sri Lanka rupees, through a licensed bank (LB), immediately on the receipt of such export proceeds into Sri Lanka. Further, all LBs were required to mandatorily monitor the conversion of repatriated export proceeds as required under the rules.

Exporters were given a period of 14 days to convert 25% of export proceeds received into Sri Lanka rupees, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment. Previously, conversion was required immediately on the receipt of such export proceeds into Sri Lanka.

Every exporter is required to convert 10% of the export proceeds received into Sri Lanka rupees (instead of previous 25%), within 30 days (previously 14 days) on receipt of such proceeds, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment.

Considering the situation in the foreign exchange market amidst the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, exporters are required to convert 25% of the export proceeds received into Sri Lanka rupees, within 30 days on receipt of such proceeds, provided such date of conversion may not be a date later than 180 days from the date of shipment. However, discretion was given to the Monetary Board of Central Bank of Sri Lanka to determine a lesser percentage up to 10%, for conversion of export proceed received, for the specific export sectors or industries or individual exporters, if the Monetary Board is satisfied, that the export goods and processes of such export sector, industry or exporter, utilize a very high percentage of imported goods that cannot be sourced domestically.

Previous Rules were rescinded and new Rules were introduced with a view of enhancing the liquidity in the domestic foreign exchange market, requiring every exporter of goods and services to convert residual of the export proceeds received in Sri Lanka, into Sri Lanka rupees on utilizing such proceeds only in respect of the below-mentioned authorized payments, on or before the seventh (7th) day of the following month.

(1) outward remittances for current transactions related to the particular export of goods and/or services including one-month commitments therein;
(2) withdrawal in foreign currency notes or transfer of funds for travel purposes related to export of goods and/or services;
(3) debt servicing expenses and repayment of foreign currency loans and accommodations obtained by the exporter of goods and/or services, where such foreign currency loan and accommodation is a permitted borrowing in terms of the Regulations, Orders, and Directions issued by the Central Bank of Sri Lanka under the provisions of the Foreign Exchange Act (FEA) or Banking Act, No. 30 of 1988, as amended, including one-month loan commitments;
(4) payments of dividends declared to nonresident investors and/or payments of salaries to expatriate employees who are foreign nationals or dual citizens as permitted under the provisions of the FEA;
(5) payments in respect of making investments in Sri Lanka Development Bonds in foreign currency up to 10% of the export proceeds, so received; and
(6) payments to local suppliers permitted under the provisions of FEA for the purchases related to the particular export of goods and/or services.

03/11/2022 Further, every local supplier, who receives payments in foreign currency out of the export proceeds in terms of Rule 4 (6) above, were required to mandatorily convert the residual of such receipts into Sri Lanka rupees, on utilizing the same only in respect of the authorized payments as stipulated in items (1) to (5) of the Rule 4 above, on or before the seventh (7th) day of the following month.

These rules have limited the authorized payments of current transactions, withdrawal in foreign currency notes or transfer of funds for travel purposes and payments to local suppliers only in relation to the particular export of goods and/or services and payments received by the local suppliers were also subjected to the surrender requirements under the Rules, which can be viewed as tightening of the Rules.

However, introduction of a new authorized payment as payments of dividends declared to nonresident investors and/or payments of salaries to expatriate employees who are foreign nationals or dual citizens, can be viewed as an easing of the Rules.

Export licenses

Without quotas 06/11/2021 Oxygen was added to the list of items whose exports require license.
