| Other nontariff measures | Yes. Quantitative restrictions may be applied to products for public health and security reasons. |
| Import taxes and/or tariffs | Yes. The WAEMU CET consists of four tariff brackets: 0%, 5%, 10%, and 20%. Imports from countries other than WAEMU area countries are also subject to a 1% statistical tax and a 0.8% community solidarity levy. Moreover, a cyclical import tax (taxe conjoncturelle à l’importation) and a degressive protection tax (taxe dégressive de protection) may at certain times be charged on some products. Only the first of these two taxes was applied as at end-2018. Imports from non-ECOWAS members are subject to a 0.5% community levy (CL/ECOWAS). |
| Taxes collected through the exchange | No. |
Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Resident economic operators are required to collect and repatriate within one month of the payment due date the entire amount of sales of goods abroad in the country of origin with the bank with which the transaction is domiciled. The payment due date is specified in the trade agreement and normally falls within a period of 120 days after the goods are dispatched.

Surrender requirements
Yes. Authorized intermediaries must surrender their customers’ foreign currency receipts to the BCEAO by transfer via the bank of issue. For purposes of covering its current foreign currency requirements, an authorized intermediary bank may hold a maximum of 20% of export receipts as own foreign exchange resources. However, it must ensure that its total foreign exchange resources to cover its requirements do not exceed 5% of total customer demand deposits; otherwise, the surplus must be surrendered to the BCEAO.

Surrender to authorized dealers
Yes. Proceeds must be surrendered to authorized banks within 30 days of the payment due date. The export revenue may be surrendered to authorized intermediaries other than those with whom the transactions are domiciled subject to BCEAO authorization. Sales of foreign exchange by exporters to ADs other than the domiciling bank are permitted, provided they furnish the domiciling bank with the documents required for the domiciliation file to be closed. Authorized intermediaries must then surrender the foreign exchange to the BCEAO by transfer through the bank of issue.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions  Yes.  Capital transactions between WAEMU countries are unrestricted. Outward capital transfers require minister of finance authorization, except (1) amortization of debts and repayment of short-term loans to finance industrial and commercial operations, (2) payments required on foreign exchange derivatives transactions or raw material or commodity derivatives transactions, and (3) transfers of the proceeds of liquidated investments or the sale of foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. Capital receipts from non-WAEMU countries are generally permitted.

Repatriation requirements  Yes.  Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated within one month through a registered intermediary, if the resident does not have a reinvestment authorization.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  Yes.  Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. However, all foreign exchange assets in excess of these requirements must be immediately surrendered to the BCEAO. Moreover, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes.  Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated and surrendered within one month through a registered intermediary, except if the resident does have a reinvestment authorization. The surrender requirement applies to proceeds from all capital transactions.

Controls on capital and money market instruments  Yes.  RCPSFM authorization is required for the following operations: (1) issuance or marketing of securities and real assets of foreign entities, (2) canvassing, and (3) publicity or advertising for investment abroad. Securities and mutual funds issued outside the WAEMU by a private or public entity that is not a resident of a member country may not be listed on a regional securities exchange. Soliciting the public of the WAEMU by nonresident entities is subject to authorization by the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority responsible for regulating the external financial relations of WAEMU countries. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

On capital market securities  Yes.  The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  No.  Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are unrestricted. However, nonresidents are required to report these operations for statistical purposes to the MOF and the BCEAO.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.  The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to authorization from RCPSFM (Conseil Regional de l’Epargne Publique – CREPMF in French), with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the minister of finance for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to minister of finance authorization. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | No. | Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad must be declared to the minister of finance for statistical purposes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may also issue securities abroad, except for those constituting a loan. Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone, unless otherwise specified by the minister of finance, must be carried out through authorized intermediaries for all cases in which the sums borrowed are made available to the resident. All foreign borrowing must be declared to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes. |
| Bonds or other debt securities | Yes. | The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. | These purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. There is no minimum holding period. |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization, with the prior authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. Sale or issue abroad by residents

No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an
Controls on derivatives and other instruments

Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial or financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services by a resident; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using derivatives. They must be backed by the residents of the WAEMU zone's imports or exports of raw materials and commodities. Residents of the WAEMU zone are not authorized to purchase raw materials or commodities on foreign markets for delivery within the framework of a derivatives transaction in raw materials or commodities.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. The purchase of derivatives by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone on the domestic market is treated as a loan contracted by a resident with a nonresident. As such, it is permitted. The purchase must be executed through an authorized intermediary and must be reported to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

No. These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign exchange derivatives from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone may freely purchase abroad or from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone call or put options on primary commodities or securities transactions. Residents of the WAEMU zone may not purchase commodities or securities in foreign markets to be delivered in complying with a put option contract. Put options must be placed on assets that can be acquired locally by the resident seller for delivery abroad in execution of the contract. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency purchase options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency sell options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign (nonresident of WAEMU) credit institution.

Controls on credit operations

Yes. Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be conducted through authorized intermediaries (whenever borrowed funds are made available for use in the country), unless otherwise indicated by the minister of finance.

Commercial credits

Yes. There are no controls on credits related to exports of goods. The date on which payment falls due is agreed to in the contract (in principle no later than 120 days after the date of shipment).

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. To residents from nonresidents

No. There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally conducted without prior authorization, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered, as well as the payment due date, to the licensed intermediary bank responsible for handling the repayment.

Financial credits

Yes. These credits require minister of finance approval. Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require an exchange authorization, subject to approval of the minister of finance and substantiated by documentation.

The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

The issuance, presentation, and floating of securities of any kind by foreign governments, local authorities, foreign companies, or international institutions are subject to authorization by the regional capital markets authority (CREPMF).

With the exception of foreign securities issued or sold with CREPMF authorization in WAEMU member countries, all investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MEF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices  Yes.  The IMF staff report on the 2017 Article IV Consultation and Seventh Review under the Stand-by Arrangement with Serbia states that, as of August 11, 2017, Serbia maintained a system free of restrictions on payments and transfers for current international transactions, except with respect to blocked pre-1991 foreign currency savings deposits. (Country Report No. 17/263)

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons  Yes.  In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51).

Other security restrictions  Yes.  In accordance with the relevant UNSC resolutions and EU decisions, Serbia maintains restrictive measures toward the Islamic Republic of Iran, Libya, and the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea (including UNSC Decision 2397 (2017) and EU Council Decision 2017/1860/CFSP).

Since the introduction of this exchange rate regime in 2001 and in accordance with its commitment to liberalization of the foreign exchange market, the National Bank of Serbia (NBS) has tried to reduce its participation in the foreign exchange market and to adjust the features of the existing exchange rate regime in the direction of soft managed floating. This exchange rate regime enables the NBS to balance, when necessary, foreign exchange demand and supply and moderate excessive daily fluctuation of the exchange rate in either direction (appreciation or depreciation) that may occur under the influence of external or internal shocks to the national economy. Because the exchange rate has stabilized within a 2% band against the euro since March 2018, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to “stabilized” from “crawling like,” effective March 2, 2018. The de facto methodology for classification of exchange rate regimes is based on a backward-looking statistical approach that relies on past exchange rate movement and historical data. Therefore, this reclassification does not imply statements or views on future or intended policies nor does it imply a policy commitment on the part of the country authorities.

The NBS publishes intervention data (amount purchased or sold) on its website on the same day when the interventions occur. This announcement is published at the end of working hours (usually before 6 p.m.). Also, the NBS publishes a spreadsheet with daily data on foreign exchange intervention (amount purchased or sold) quarterly when the Inflation Report is published, as part of the statistics related to the Inflation Report. Monthly aggregated intervention data (purchases plus sales) is published, approximately with a three-week time lag (there is a “Release Calendar” available on the same page).

Official exchange rate Yes.

The official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro is calculated at the end of each business day as the weighted average of the exchange rates applied in all individual euro transactions in the interbank spot foreign exchange market and in all individual euro transactions in the interbank foreign exchange market with a settlement date earlier than the spot value date (concluded from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.), including transactions between the NBS and the banks (interventions). To ensure the conditions that the official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro reflects, as much as possible, the real trends in foreign exchange market, the NBS has precisely defined time frame – from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. for transactions which will be included in calculation of the official middle exchange rate of the dinar against the euro. The NBS publishes information on the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro by 6:00 p.m. to take effect at 8:00 a.m. on the following business day. Since January 2015, four currencies are included in the list of currencies against which the official middle exchange rates of the dinar are quoted in the NBS list of official exchange rates and with which banks, public postal operators, and exchange bureaus may trade – the Chinese renminbi (since January 2015), Turkish lira (since December 2017), Bulgarian lev (since February 2018), and Romanian leu (since February 2018). Since the public postal operator was given the authorization to perform exchange operations by the amendments to the legislation that regulates postal services in Serbia, the NBS adopted the new Decision on Terms and Manner of Performing Exchange Operations and the Guidelines Implementing the Decision on Terms and Manner of Performing Exchange Operations. These regulations were adopted to regulate exchange operations not only for banks and authorized exchange dealers, but also for the public postal operator. This was done for the purpose of expanding the scope of money exchange market to include even the territories where no exchange bureaus and banks operate, which may increase the level of competition in this segment of the foreign exchange market and result in more favorable buying/selling rates of exchange for citizens. The official middle exchange rates are used for bookkeeping, statistics, and calculation of customs duty and other import fees, as provided by Article 41 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. Exchange rates of the dinar against 21 currencies quoted in the NBS list of foreign exchange rates are used in trade between the NBS and residents with foreign exchange accounts at the NBS. According to Article 36 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, resident beneficiaries of budget funds, beneficiaries of funds of mandatory social insurance organizations and local government budgets, and other public funds beneficiaries included in the consolidated treasury account system may have foreign exchange accounts only within the consolidated treasury account system maintained by the NBS, unless otherwise stipulated by a special law or international agreement. The Decision on the manner of performing transactions between the NBS and the Treasury Administration through the consolidated treasury account system for foreign exchange funds has been in force, since February 27, 2017. Exchange rates of the dinar against three currencies quoted in the NBS exchange rate list for foreign cash are used in cash trade between the NBS and banks. The NBS trades only in cash euros, US dollars, and Swiss francs. The NBS does not conduct foreign exchange cash operations with resident and nonresident natural persons or with foreign exchange bureaus. Exchange rates for foreign cash are also used for calculation and payments of foreign cash to residents with foreign exchange accounts with the NBS in connection with official travel. The Decision on Operating Terms and Procedures in the Foreign Exchange Market allows the NBS to publish by 2:00 p.m. each business day information on the indicative exchange rate of the dinar against the euro based on banks’ reported data on direct spot trade and trade with execution dates before spot currency dates of euros with other banks concluded from 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Inflation targets will be set by the NBS, in cooperation with the government, on the basis of an analysis of current and expected macroeconomic movements and the medium-term plan of changes in prices under direct or indirect regulation of the government. In principle, the NBS has operational freedom to set the target, on consulting the government. The decision within the Executive Board can be taken by majority vote, but in practice they are reached by consensus.

Key policy rate is the main monetary policy instrument applied in the main open market operations which are currently one-week reverse repo transactions (liquidity absorbing operations). Auctions are held once a week by the variable multiple rate method with the key policy rate as a maximum rate which can be offered by banks.

The policy rate is the interest rate on (reverse) repo transactions with a one-week maturity. The reference rate is a maximum rate which can be offered by banks on the one-week reverse repo auctions. The key policy rate has been currently fixed at −2.50% as of August 8, 2019.

If the projected inflation deviates from the target, the NBS undertakes measures to bring it back to the target in the medium term. If the departure of inflation from the set target tolerance bands (below 1.5% or above 4.5%) lasts for six consecutive months, the NBS is obliged to notify the government about the reasons for such departure, measures to be taken, and the time needed for inflation to return to the target level.

Decisions of the Executive Board as a whole are published, without specifying individual votes or number of votes in favor of or against the decision. Typically, decisions are made by consensus. Inflation forecasts are published quarterly in the Inflation Reports. The Inflation Report contains information on the current and expected inflation, analysis of underlying macroeconomic developments, explanation of the reasoning behind the decisions of the Executive Board, and an assessment of the monetary policy efficiency as implemented during the previous quarter. Integral parts of this report are inflation projection for eight quarters ahead, assumptions on which such projection is based, and an analysis of the basic risks involved in the achievement of target inflation.

Exchange subsidies have been removed. In the first years of the implementation of the managed floating exchange rate regime (2001–04), the highest volume of trade was performed at the fixing sessions organized by the NBS in which the NBS and banks participated. Banks could also trade among themselves at the fixing session, and the NBS, to reduce its share, encouraged banks to satisfy, as much as possible, their demand for foreign exchange in mutual trade. The interbank foreign exchange market outside the fixing session has been under development in these years. During the following years, the interbank trade outside the fixing session increased and when the total volume of trade at this market segment exceeded the total trade at the fixing session, the NBS decided to eliminate its regular daily fixing sessions (in June 2007). The NBS started to gradually withdraw from the market and participated only when necessary for stabilization. However, with the beginning of the international financial crisis, in October 2008, the NBS was forced again to increase its participation in the interbank foreign exchange market to moderate excessive daily fluctuation of the exchange rate in the direction of the depreciation of the dinar. As of December 31, 2018, there were about 2,617 foreign exchange dealers licensed by the Tax Administration, which perform activities at 3,680 exchange points, in addition to the currently 28 banks licensed by the NBS and one public postal operator which performs foreign exchange activities based on a separate law governing its activities. Effective April 28, 2018, the Law on Amendments and Supplement to the Law on Foreign Exchange operations came into the force, which prescribes that from January 1, 2019, the NBS will undertake the activities of supervising exchange offices and issuing and revoking authorizations for the performance of exchange operations as well as the activities of supervising the foreign exchange operations of residents and nonresidents. As of December 31, 2018, there were 27 banks licensed by the NBS. As of July 11, 2019, there are 26 banks licensed by the NBS.

Once a day, at the start of each business day, banks freely set and announce their exchange rates for foreign exchange and foreign cash based on cross-currency relations in foreign markets. Banks apply the rates that fall within the range of the quoted buying and selling rates for foreign exchange and/or foreign cash in trade with residents and nonresidents. Public postal operator and licensed foreign exchange dealers also freely set their foreign exchange rate lists at the start of each business day in line with the foreign exchange rate lists applicable to foreign cash of the bank and/or banks with which they entered into an agreement. They purchase and sell foreign cash by applying current buying and selling rates specified in their foreign exchange rate list, but they may not exceed the quoted range.

Effective January 1, 2019, in the exchange rate list of the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealer, the buying rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be lower than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%, and/or selling rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be higher than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%.

Effective January 1, 2019, when the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealers purchase foreign cash from natural persons, their commission may not exceed 1% of the value of undamaged banknotes from natural persons, and/or circulating banknotes within the meaning of the provisions of Decision on Terms and Manner of Performing Exchange Operations. Previously, the maximum commission limit was 3%. Since January 2015, the renminbi is included in the list of foreign exchange and foreign cash that banks may trade with and in the list of foreign cash that licensed exchange dealers may buy and sell. Turkish lira (since December 2017), and Bulgarian lev and Romanian leu (since February 2018), are included in the list of foreign exchange and foreign cash that banks may trade with and in the list of foreign cash that licensed exchange dealers may buy and sell. The public postal operator was given the authorization to perform exchange operations by the amendments to the legislation that regulates postal services in Serbia. To comply with that, the manner of setting the public postal operator’s exchange rate list for foreign cash was prescribed, as well as the method of applying that exchange rate list. Also, types of foreign cash that could be purchased and sold by the public postal operator were prescribed. Public postal operator has been performing foreign exchange operations based on a separate law governing its activity under conditions similar to the conditions prescribed for foreign exchange dealers. Also, the public postal operator may trade with the renminbi (since July 2015) and Turkish lira (since December 2017). Effective January 1, 2018, the NBS Executive Board adopted the new Decision on the Types of Foreign Exchange and Foreign Cash to be Purchased and Sold in the Foreign Exchange Market. Effective February 1, 2018, the new Decision on the Types of Foreign Exchange and Foreign Cash to be Purchased and Sold in the Foreign Exchange Market (RS Official Gazette No. 3/2018) came into force. The most important novelties introduced by this Decision are adding two new currencies in the list of foreign currencies that may be traded in the foreign exchange market in the Republic of Serbia, in the form of foreign exchange and foreign cash – the Bulgarian lev and Romanian leu. In addition, trading in the form of foreign exchange was enabled for those currencies for which until then was allowed to trade only in the form of foreign cash, namely the Hungarian forint, Polish zloty, Czech koruna, convertible mark, and Croatian kuna. Also, the Kuwaiti dinar was introduced in the NBS exchange rate list.

To improve the bank’s reporting system and raise the efficiency of monitoring the foreign exchange market, banks were obliged to submit data on the nonresidents’ dinar accounts. To further improve the bank’s reporting system, banks were obliged to submit data on payment card transactions impacting the bank’s foreign exchange position (transactions under payment cards issued abroad and used for dinar payments in the country and transactions under payment cards issued in the country and used for foreign exchange payments abroad). To further improve the bank’s reporting system, the NBS obliged banks to submit data on foreign exchange-indexed loans and deposits.

Spot exchange market
Yes.
In the spot exchange market, the purchase or sale of foreign currency in exchange for dinars takes place two business days following the day of conclusion of the purchase or sale agreement. As of December 31, 2018, 27 banks and huge number of nonresidents and residents participate in the spot foreign exchange market. As of July 11, 2019, 26 banks participate in the spot foreign exchange market. The spot foreign exchange market involves: transactions between commercial banks (excluding the NBS transactions) and transactions between banks and clients—residents and nonresidents. As of December 31, 2018, there were 2,619 foreign exchange bureaus and one public postal operator which perform foreign exchange activities based on a separate law governing its activities which may purchase from and sell to natural persons only foreign cash. They may not have accounts abroad or make foreign currency payments or transfers on behalf of their clients. The period during which exchange bureaus must transfer any excess amount of dinars to their current account with a bank is seven working days. Effective January 1, 2019, the threshold that determines the excess amount of dinars exchange bureaus must transfer to their current account with a bank is triple the average daily amount of dinars used for the purchasing of foreign cash in the month with the highest purchase in the preceding 12 months. If the foreign exchange dealer works less than a month, the triple average daily amount of dinars is determined according to the week with the highest purchase. Previously, the threshold was double the average daily amount of dinars used for purchasing foreign cash in the month (week if exchange dealer worked less than a month) with the highest purchase in the preceding 12 months. Effective April 28, 2018, as the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations came into the force, resident humanitarian organizations may receive funds and donations for humanitarian purposes from abroad, which takes place through the electronic money issuer.

Operated by the central bank
Yes.
The NBS may intervene in the interbank foreign exchange market in different ways: by selling and purchasing foreign exchange bilaterally through the Reuters Foreign Exchange Trading and by organizing spot auction sales and purchases. Also, the NBS organizes, in accordance with its calendar of regular euro/Serbian dinar swaps, auctions of swap sale and purchase of euros for dinars with maturity of three months and two weeks. Only the banks can participate in these auctions.

Foreign exchange standing facility
No.

Allocation
No.
Auction: Yes. With the beginning of the international financial crisis and market disruptions, the NBS introduced spot auctions in December 2009 as a way of participating in the interbank foreign exchange market. Following its commitment to liberalize the foreign exchange market and decrease its market participation, the NBS organizes spot auctions only when necessary to stabilize the foreign exchange market. Spot auctions were organized as variable price auctions with the NBS purchasing/selling foreign exchange at the multiple rate—exchange rates offered by the banks whose bids are accepted at the auction or at the single rate—at the same exchange rate from each bank whose bid was accepted at the auction. To encourage development of the interbank swap market and supply additional euro and dinar liquidity, the NBS organizes weekly swap auction sales and purchases of foreign exchange for dinars with maturity of three months (from March 2011, every Tuesday) and two weeks (from March 2013, every Friday). The swap auctions are organized under market conditions with unlimited supply.

Fixing: No. With amendments to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, the NBS has abolished the possibility of organizing the fixing sessions. The NBS has not intervened by organizing fixing sessions since February 2009. Effective April 28, 2018, the amendment of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations by which the possibility of organizing the fixing sessions was abolished came into force.

Interbank market: Yes. Banks are free to set their own buying and selling rates for foreign exchange based on supply and demand but must observe the cross-rates prevailing in the international market. Banks may buy and sell foreign exchange on the interbank market at mutually agreed rates. The NBS generally intervenes by selling or purchasing foreign exchange as a price taker, at the best quoted rate of market participants through the Reuters Foreign Exchange Trading. There is no brokerage or market-making system. As of December 31, 2018, there were 27 banks that participated in foreign exchange market. As of July 11, 2019, there are 26 banks that participated in foreign exchange market. The interbank foreign exchange market involves transactions between banks (excluding the NBS transactions)—transactions with value date shorter than spot, spot, forward, and swap transactions.

Over the counter: Yes. As of December 31, 2018, 27 banks were authorized to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market; 23 banks used the Reuters Foreign Exchange Trading. As of July 11, 2019, 26 banks are authorized to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market; 22 banks use the Foreign Exchange Trading.

Forward exchange market: Yes. Forward purchases and sales of foreign exchange are permitted, provided their terms of delivery are longer than spot rates. Forward and swap foreign exchange interbank markets are not developed and banks rarely conclude forward and swap transactions. The forward and swap foreign exchange market involves transactions between banks and transactions between banks and clients—residents and nonresidents, excluding the NBS transactions. Banks usually sell foreign exchange to resident importers in forward transactions, but very rarely buy foreign exchange from exporters in the forward market. Also, banks have important clients among nonresident banks, and they trade mostly through large numbers of foreign exchange swap transactions. The forward and swap foreign exchange market... involves: transactions between banks and transactions between banks and clients—residents and nonresidents, excluding the NBS transactions. The NBS participates in swap transactions. In early March 2011, the NBS reinstated its three-month foreign exchange swap auctions as a regular instrument for supplying foreign exchange/dinar liquidity. These weekly auctions are conducted under market conditions and offer unlimited quantities of liquidity, aim to bolster interbank swap trading and the development of foreign exchange hedging instruments. Further, in March 2013 the NBS started to organize weekly two-week foreign exchange swap auctions to supply additional euro and dinar liquidity.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Payments for current international transactions in Serbia may be made and received in dinars under the conditions prescribed by the decision of the NBS on the conditions and manner of conducting international payment transactions.

For capital transactions Yes. Payments in Serbia may be made and received in dinars for all capital transactions allowed by the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, under the conditions prescribed by the decision of the NBS on the conditions and manner of conducting international payment transactions.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes.

Credit operations Yes. Credits in dinars granted by resident banks to nonresidents and borrowing in dinars by residents from international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states are considered foreign credit transactions and may be carried out as prescribed by the NBS. Banks may grant credits in dinars to nonresident legal entities and natural persons by crediting a payment card account with a bank in Serbia and by crediting the account of a resident seller and/or lessor to whom the nonresident owes payment under current or capital transactions permitted by the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. Banks may also grant credits in dinars to an international financial organization and development bank or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation on the maturity. Dinar loans by international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states to residents may be granted without a foreign currency clause and with maturity longer than one year; credits for agricultural financing or export financing may have a shorter term (longer than three months). Dinar loans may be granted with a possibility of prepayment and change of currency in accordance with the lending program/business standards of an international financial organization whose articles of agreement or an agreement regulating its activities in Serbia has been ratified. Dinar loans may be granted from the proceeds of current and capital transactions, including the proceeds of the primary sale of long-term dinar debt securities, issued by the foreign creditor.
Use of foreign exchange among residents | Yes. Payments among residents must be effected in dinars. In exceptional cases, payments may be effected in foreign exchange, according to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations.

The NBS supervises foreign exchange operations of banks, electronic money institutions with their head office in Serbia, and payment institutions—by following a procedure laid down in the law governing their operations as well as international payment transactions carried out by the public postal operator—by following a procedure laid down in the law governing payment services. Effective January 1, 2019, the NBS took over from the Tax Administration the supervision of foreign exchange operations of residents and nonresidents, as well as supervision of exchange operations under the Law on Amendments and Supplement to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations which entered into the force on April 28, 2018. Customs authorities control the exportation and importation of foreign and local currency, securities, and gold taken out or brought into Serbia or transmitted by mail or other means. They also control the exportation of foreign exchange by authorized banks.
| Payments arrears | Yes.
| Official | Yes. An agreement has been reached with Paris Club creditors to reduce the debt to official bilateral creditors and with London Club creditors to reduce the debt to commercial banks. Agreements have been reached with China and Kuwait to restructure the debt to these creditors. Agreements have been also reached with the Czech Republic and Slovak Republic on the settlement of the debt of the Republic of Serbia toward these countries. Discussions are ongoing with other official bilateral creditors.

| On external trade | Yes. Exports and imports of gold by residents are subject to the regime for goods exports and imports. The ministry in charge of foreign trade issues licenses on the request of legal persons or entrepreneurs.
| Controls on exports and imports of banknotes | Yes. Exports and imports of dinars and foreign currency are allowed under the conditions prescribed by the decision on personal and physical transfer of means of payment to and from abroad. Banks may freely export and import dinars and foreign currency.
| On exports | Yes.
| Domestic currency | Yes. Resident and nonresident natural persons may freely take out of Serbian dinars in amounts up to the equivalent of €10,000 a person. In addition, resident natural persons may take out of Serbia up to three sets of dinars for numismatic purposes. Additionally, residents may take out dinars from the Republic of Serbia for the purpose of testing automated teller machines (ATMs) with NBS approval issued on the basis of elaborated request submitted by the evidence of using such machines in the performance of a registered activity and along with the guarantee of foreign company that the dinars so received will be returned after the testing but not later than three months from the day they were received. Exportation of NBS-issued commemorative coins by residents requires written NBS permission, and foreigners may take these commemorative coins out from the Republic based on a certificate issued by an authorized seller certifying that such coins have been purchased in the Republic, or based on a certificate issued by the customs authority certifying that such coins have been brought into the Republic. Banks may freely take dinars out of Serbia for sale to foreign banks on the condition that they submit to the customs authority two copies of the payment order, one of which is retained for supervision purposes.

Foreign currency
Yes. Resident natural persons may freely take abroad foreign currency and checks up to €10,000. Emigrants may freely take abroad foreign cash up to €10,000; for an amount exceeding €10,000, evidence of emigration is required. A nonresident natural person may freely take abroad foreign cash in the amount of up to €10,000. If a nonresident takes dinars and foreign cash abroad at the same time, the sum of these must not exceed €10,000. Nonresident natural persons may take abroad more than €10,000 foreign cash if the amount was declared on entering Serbia, if the amount was withdrawn from a foreign exchange account or foreign exchange passbook in a local bank, or if the amount was acquired by selling dinars obtained through the use of a payment card in Serbia as evidenced by prescribed documents. Authorized banks may freely export foreign currency for replenishing their accounts with foreign correspondent banks. However, the bank must submit to the customs authority two copies of the order for the transfer of foreign currency for certification and must file one certified copy of the order for control purposes.

Domestic currency
Yes. Residents and nonresidents may freely bring in dinars up to the equivalent of €10,000 a person. In exceptional cases, residents and nonresidents may import domestic banknotes exceeding this amount, provided the banknotes were purchased at a foreign bank and the purchase receipt is presented to the customs office for inspection on entering the country. Banks may import dinars that have not been sold abroad; the customs authority restamps the originally stamped dinar export order.

Foreign currency
No. Resident and nonresident natural persons may freely import foreign cash. However, a resident natural person must declare to the competent customs authority any amount of foreign cash that exceeds the amount specified in the law on the prevention of money laundering, while nonresidents must report amounts exceeding €10,000 to the customs authorities, which issue the respective certificate. Banks may freely import foreign currency.

<td>Resident natural persons, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities may hold current and deposit foreign exchange accounts freely and perform all kinds of current and permitted capital transactions abroad. In addition to a current and deposit foreign exchange account, a bank may open other foreign exchange accounts for a resident for specific purposes. Additionally, resident legal entities and natural persons may open joint current accounts in terms of the law governing payment services, while natural persons may open joint deposit accounts too. Effective September 22, 2018, when the Decision on the Conditions of Opening and Manner of Maintaining Foreign Exchange Accounts of Residents and Dinar and Foreign Exchange Accounts of Nonresidents entered into force, bank after closing the foreign exchange account issues the account closing certificate, including the information that all obligations toward the bank in relation to opening, maintaining, and closing the account were settled. Banks must submit to the NBS data on foreign exchange accounts of residents’ legal entities, entrepreneurs as well as natural persons. The NBS uses these data for a single register of accounts, which is published on its website, while data on foreign exchange accounts of natural persons are not publicly available. Resident beneficiaries of the budget funds of Serbia, of funds of mandatory social insurance organizations, and of local government budgets, as well as other public funds beneficiaries included in the consolidated treasury account system, must hold their foreign exchange accounts with the Treasury Administration within the consolidated treasury account system maintained by the NBS, unless stipulated otherwise by a separate law or an international agreement, and they may sell to the NBS foreign exchange and foreign cash generated by their operations. As an exception, these residents may open a foreign exchange account with an authorized bank, with MOF approval, for payments that cannot take place through the NBS, or perform individual foreign payment operations through an electronic money issuer or payment institution, provided specific characteristics of the beneficiary’s activities make this necessary. Banks may hold foreign currency only with other authorized banks and the NBS. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, and the NBS Decision on the Manner of Performing Transactions Between the NBS and the Treasury Administration through the Consolidated Treasury Account System for Foreign Exchange Funds (RS Official Gazette No. 78/2015), the NBS must perform foreign exchange operations, on behalf of the Treasury Administration, through the consolidated Treasury account system for foreign exchange funds—for the public funds beneficiaries of Serbia.</td>

Residents may make international payments not only through banks but also through payment institutions and public postal operator providing payment services, in accordance with the law on payment services. Furthermore, residents may make international payments through domestic and foreign e-money institutions for electronic purchase of goods and services. Additionally, resident humanitarian organizations may receive funds from abroad, which takes place through the electronic money issuer, regarding humanitarian purposes donations. Residents may pay for imports with their own foreign exchange funds held with an authorized bank and may freely purchase foreign exchange in the foreign exchange market through an authorized bank. Residents must provide the bank with the standard import documentation. International payment transactions do not require documentation in case when the bank and the order issuer conclude a written agreement stipulating that the issuer is not required to submit to the bank, along with the foreign payment order, documentation, unless required under other regulations.

The Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Exportation, Importation, or Transit provides lists of goods for whose import, the issuance of specific documents is required. Licenses are required for imports of sport and hunting arms and ammunition, firearms, explosives and raw materials used in explosives, certain precious metals (gold and silver), narcotics and their precursors, certain products for environmental protection purposes, as well as arms and military equipment, dual-use items, goods which could be used for capital punishment, torture, or other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment and other goods.

Goods not covered by the Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Exportation, Importation, or Transit, the National Control List of Dual-Use Items and National Control List of Arms and Military Equipment or by the List of goods which could be used for capital punishment, torture, or other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment may be freely imported and exported.

Used motor vehicles may be imported if they are produced in accordance with the requirements prescribed by EU standard “Euro 3,” in particular with regard to the vehicles’ exhaust emissions and noise levels. Imports of specific types of hazardous waste, certain poisons, and substances damaging the ozone layer are prohibited. The import licensing requirement for specific groups of products (poisons, pesticides, fertilizers, seeds, seedlings, planting material) was abolished in 2009.
Licenses with quotas

Yes.

The relevant ministries issue licenses administering quotas for imports of narcotics and substances damaging the ozone layer, in accordance with obligations arising from relevant international agreements. Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications issues licenses for import of cigarettes from EU on tariff quota established in the Stabilisation and Association Agreement (SAA).

Other nontariff measures

Yes.

Annexes of the Decision on Determining Goods Subject to the Issuance of Specific Documents on Importation, Exportation, and Transit (RS Official Gazette No. 78/2018) contain lists of goods grouped by the relevant authority. Annex 1 lists goods licensed for importation, exportation, and transit by the Ministry of Trade, Tourism and Telecommunications. Annex 2 lists goods licensed by the Ministry of Health for importation, exportation, and transit of narcotics and psychotropic substances, importation of precursor cells and tissues, and grants approvals for imports and exports of inorganic and organic chemical products and pharmaceutical products. Annex 3 lists goods licensed by the Ministry of Environmental Protection, such as substances that deplete the ozone layer, fluorinated gases, and plant and animal species whose importation and exportation are subject to documentation. Annex 4 lists goods (sources of ionizing radiation) whose exportation, importation, and transit are licensed by the Serbian Radiation and Nuclear Safety and Security Directorate. Annex 5A lists goods subject to certificates of conformity on importation. These certificates are issued by the appointed agencies and state administration authorities. Annex 5B of the same decision prescribes certificates of homologation (for imports of vehicles, parts, and equipment thereof). Certificates of homologation are issued by the Road Traffic Safety Agency. Domestic products are also subject to certificates of conformity and certificates of homologation. Annex 6 lists goods whose importation requires a document of compliance issued by the agency for electronic communication or another designated agency. Annex 7 lists chemicals and products whose imports or exports are prohibited. Imports of specific types of hazardous waste, certain poisons, and substances damaging the ozone layer are prohibited. Prescribed documents are required on importation of these items for sanitary, phytosanitary, and veterinary purposes. According to the decision, animals and animal products imported or in transit must comply with the Veterinary Law. All lists of goods comply with relevant international conventions and obligations.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. Resident legal entities, entrepreneurs, and natural persons may effect payments for purchase abroad of collective investment securities only through resident investment firms and investment fund management companies, according to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations. Insurance companies may invest assets covering technical reserves in EU or OECD countries’ government or CB securities, or securities issued by international institutions, as well as in shares of foreign legal entities listed on financial market, up to 25%, and of one issuer, up to 5% for life insurance and non-life insurance, but also in investment funds, only for unit-linked products. An insurance company may invest insurance funds abroad, observing the following limitations:

1. that assets acquired abroad cannot be acquired under the same or more favorable terms in the Republic of Serbia (an insurance company cannot invest in assets abroad if the same type of assets already exists in the Republic of Serbia and if it would be the same or more favorable to invest in it in the Republic of Serbia than abroad);

2. that assets are not acquired in countries whose credit rating was degraded over the last year by Standard & Poor’s, Fitch IBCA, or Moody’s to a level equal to or lower than the credit rating awarded to the Republic of Serbia by the same agencies.

Sale or issue abroad by residents No. Investment Fund Law regulates the issuance of collective investment securities only in Serbia. The Investment Fund Law does not regulate the issuance of the investment units abroad by residents; hence, it is nor forbidden nor explicitly approved. As it is not forbidden, the issuance of investment units abroad by resident investment funds can be undertaken.

The Law on Foreign Exchange Operations prescribes that residents legal entities, entrepreneurs, and natural persons may make collection under investment into foreign investment funds through intermediation of resident investment companies and investment fund management companies, within the meaning of the law governing the capital market.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments Yes. Controls on derivatives and other instruments traded on regulated markets and multilateral trading facilities are under the supervision of the SC. Payments on financial derivatives transactions are regulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations and the NBS Decision on Performance of Financial Derivatives Transactions. Banks and other residents may effect payments on financial derivatives transactions abroad under the conditions prescribed by the NBS. Financial derivatives transactions between nonresidents and local banks in the OTC market are unrestricted. Derivatives transactions are allowed for other residents for hedging against specific risks prescribed by the NBS without restriction. The regulations are provided for a master agreement on financial transactions, netting, and detailed reporting on these transactions.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. Nonresidents may freely effect payments for the purpose of purchasing financial derivatives that are standardized and traded in regulated markets and/or multilateral trading facilities as well as for transactions outside these markets with local banks.

Financial credits
Yes.

By residents to nonresidents
Yes. Effective April 28, 2018, resident legal entities other than banks may grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents in accordance with the provision of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, which stipulates the NBS may prescribe conditions and manner of performing these operations which may be subject to limitations justified on grounds of public policy and macrofinancial stability, and the NBS bylaw was adopted which prescribes these limitations in cases where they are assessed as justified (case-by-case assessment principle) and taking into account the fulfillment of the objectives of the limitations (targeting principle) and that limitations are proportional. A resident legal entity other than a bank may grant a financial loan to a nonresident debtor with the seat in an EU member state. A resident legal entity may also grant a financial loan to a nonresident debtor without the seat in an EU member state provided the resident is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor. When granting the financial loan to a nonresident, a resident legal entity contracts and obtains collateral instruments from a nonresident.
Previously, resident legal entities other than banks were allowed to grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents, provided the resident creditor is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor and the resident legal entity contracts and acquires collateral instruments for the payment from a nonresident.

Banks may grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents without any restrictions, provided they contract and acquire collateral instruments for the payment from a nonresident. Banks may also grant dinar loans to an international financial organization, a development bank, or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation. Claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions may be transferred between residents (except natural persons), nonresidents, and residents (except natural persons) and nonresidents, while resident public enterprises and legal entities with state-owned capital require government consent. Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign exchange may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities as prescribed by the NBS.

Yes. Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may borrow in foreign currency for purposes other than imports of goods and services and financing construction works abroad (settlement of obligations in the local currency, bank liquidity, etc.) in the manner and under the conditions specified by the NBS. The maturity of such loans to residents other than banks must exceed 12 months (with an obligatory grace period of six months) from each disbursement, except for loans intended for agriculture financing and for export financing, which may have a maturity exceeding three months from each disbursement. Funds from nonresidents may also be borrowed for direct investment abroad. Banks may borrow short-term financial loans in foreign currency from nonresidents. Effective April 30, 2018, resident legal entities and entrepreneurs may borrow short-term financial credits and loans from nonresidents with the head office and/or permanent residence in an EU member state. Resident branches of foreign legal entities may borrow from a nonresident founder in foreign currency at maturities longer than a year, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Effective April 28, 2018, resident branches of foreign legal entities may borrow from a nonresident founder with the head office in an EU member state at maturities shorter than a year, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident natural persons may borrow from nonresidents financial loans at maturities longer than a year for imports of goods and services and other purposes, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Effective April 28, 2018, resident natural persons may borrow from nonresidents with the head office and/or permanent residence in an EU member state at maturities shorter than a year, provided the loans are disbursed to a foreign exchange account with a domestic bank. Resident banks, legal entities, and entrepreneurs may borrow dinar loans from international financial organizations, development banks, and financial institutions founded by foreign states without a foreign currency clause and with maturity longer than one year except for loans for agriculture financing or for export financing, which may have a maturity of more than three months. Dinar loans may be granted with the possibility of prepayment and change of currency in accordance with the lending program/business standards of an international financial organization whose articles of agreement or an agreement regulating its activities in Serbia has been ratified. Dinar loans may be granted from the proceeds of current and capital transactions, including the proceeds of the primary sale of long-term dinar debt securities, issued by a foreign creditor. Banks report on drawdown and repayment under residents’ foreign borrowing to the NBS in electronic format. Claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions may be transferred between residents (except natural persons), nonresidents, and residents (except natural persons) and nonresidents, while resident public enterprises and legal entities with state-owned capital require government consent. Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign exchange may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities as prescribed by the NBS. Banks are subject to minimum reserve requirements on foreign borrowing (credits and deposits).

Guarantees and sureties deemed to be foreign credit transactions in line with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations are reported to the NBS. and other means of collateral under credit operations between nonresidents abroad in accordance with the provision of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, which stipulates the NBS may prescribe conditions and manner of performing these operations which may be subject to limitations justified on grounds of public policy and macrofinancial stability, and the NBS bylaw was adopted which prescribes these limitations in cases where they are assessed as justified (case-by-case assessment principle) and taking into account the fulfillment of the objectives of the limitations (targeting principle) and that limitations are proportional. A resident legal entity other than a bank may issue warranties and provide other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents with the seat in an EU member state. A resident legal entity may also issue warranties and provide other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents without the seat in an EU member state provided the resident is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor. When issuing warranties and providing other collaterals in favor of a nonresident creditor under credit operations between nonresidents, a resident legal entity contracts and obtains collateral instruments from a nonresident. Previously, resident legal entities other than banks were allowed to issue warranties and other means of collateral under credit operations between nonresidents abroad if the resident issuing warranties and other means of collateral is the majority owner of the nonresident debtor and the resident legal entity contracts and acquires collateral instruments from a nonresident. Banks may issue guarantees to nonresidents under credit operations between nonresidents without any restrictions, provided they contract and acquire collateral instruments for the payment from a nonresident. In addition to guarantees and warranties, which are considered foreign credit transactions, banks and resident legal entities are allowed to issue guarantees and warranties not deemed to be foreign credit transactions. In that sense, banks may issue guarantees, sureties, warranties, and other means of collateral in accordance with banking regulations. Resident legal entities founded by the Republic of Serbia by a separate law for export financing purposes may perform guarantee operations in accordance with that separate law. A resident legal entity may issue a guarantee to a nonresident against claims from another resident in connection with imports of goods and services, as well as to a nonresident performing construction work in Serbia. A resident public enterprise and legal entity with government-owned capital or a legal entity in the process of restructuring or privatization may issue a guarantee to a nonresident under these operations only under the terms and conditions prescribed by the government.

Nonresidents may issue guarantees and sureties to residents under credits granted by residents to nonresidents. Nonresidents may also issue guarantees and sureties to other nonresidents under credits granted by nonresidents to residents. These transactions are deemed to be foreign credit transactions and reported to the NBS. In addition to these guarantees, banks and resident legal entities may obtain guarantees and warranties, which are not deemed to be foreign credit transactions. In that sense, banks may obtain guarantees, sureties, warranties, and other means of collateral in accordance with banking regulations. A resident legal entity may obtain guarantees and warranties from a nonresident against claims from another nonresident in connection with exports of goods and services and construction work abroad, as well as against claims arising from the operations between that resident and another resident legal entity in Serbia.

To residents from nonresidents

No,
Effective April 28, 2018, as the Law on Amendments and Supplement to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations entered into the force, resident legal entity may obtain guarantees and warranties from a nonresident against imports of goods and services and construction works of the nonresident in the Republic.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions

Yes. Bylaws and other regulations in effect include provisions on the classification of balance sheet assets and off-balance-sheet items, capital adequacy, risk management (including a more detailed definition of bank compliance risk), preliminary approvals for bank founding and subsequent issuing of full operating licenses, approvals for acquiring bank shares, bank resolution, details regarding the conditions and manner of conducting bank supervision by the NBS, and regulations on external bank audits. The NBS Executive Board implemented the following decisions (published in the RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016) which introduce Basel III standards in the Republic of Serbia:

• Decision on Capital Adequacy of Banks.
• Decision on Disclosure of Data and Information by Banks.
• Decision on Reporting on Capital Adequacy of Banks.
• Decision Amending the Decision on Reporting Requirements for Banks.
• Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks.
• Decision Amending the Decision on Risk Management by Banks.

In addition to ensuring alignment with relevant acquis communautaire in the field of banking, implementation of Basel III standards introduced significant and numerous novelties, in terms of both capital adequacy and the liquidity ratio. In accordance with the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-balance Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette Nos. 94/2011, 57/2012, 123/2012, 43/2013, 113/2013, 135/2014, 25/2015, 38/2015, 61/2016, 69/2016, 91/2016, 101/2017, 114/2017, 103/2018, and 8/2019), the requirements on the classification of banks’ balance sheet assets and off-balance-sheet items (1) harmonize the specifications and conditions for the recognition of prime and adequate collateral with the Decision on Capital Adequacy; (2) minimize the prescribed indicators of financial condition as criteria for classification, with a required commitment to banks’ internal policies and procedures, and define the criteria for assessing the financial condition and method of classification into Categories A through E based on that assessment; (3) set the percentages for calculation of reserves for Categories B at 2%, C at 15%, D at 30%, and E at 100%; (4) set the materially significant threshold for determining the delay in settlement of obligations of debtors at 1% of the individual claims of the debtor’s legal entity (the same level as for individuals); and (5) detail the due process of calculating the allowance and provisions for losses.

According to Section 461 of the Decision on Capital Adequacy of Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016), a bank may assign, until the date of its accession to the EU, the weight of the risk of exposures to the Republic of Serbia and the NBS, including exposures to EU member states and their CBs which are expressed and settled in the currency of any member state, in the same manner as it assigns the weight of the risk of exposures to these persons which are expressed and settled in their national currencies. In this regard, Paragraph 3 of Section 41 of this Decision stipulates that exposures to the Republic of Serbia, the NBS, and central governments and CBs of EU member states denominated and funded in their domestic currency must be assigned a risk weight of zero.

Banks may assign receivables from a legal entity, entrepreneur, and farmer to another bank. Exceptionally, to reduce distressed assets, a bank may assign the following receivables from a legal entity, entrepreneur, and farmer also to another legal entity:

- due receivables;
- receivables not yet due but considered non-performing within the meaning of the decision governing the classification of bank balance sheet assets and off-balance sheet items, and classified as non-performing exposures on the cutoff classification date which immediately precedes the submission of the notification. Banks may assign receivables from a natural person – financial services consumer in accordance with the law governing the protection of financial services consumers. Banks are required to notify the NBS of a planned receivable assignment at least 30 days before conclusion of the assignment contract and to assess the effects of the planned assignment on the bank’s credit risk-weighted assets, reserves for estimated losses, and capital adequacy ratio; – the amount and structure of the bank’s non-performing loans (NPLs), within the meaning of the decision on reporting requirements for banks; – the bank’s expenses and financial result; (Decision on Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette Nos. 45/2011, 94/2011, 119/2012, 123/2012, 23/2013 – other decision, 43/2013, 92/2013, 33/2015, 61/2015, 61/2016, 103/2016, 119/2017, and 76/2018)). On August 13, 2015, the government adopted the national NPL Resolution Strategy and on the same day the NBS Executive Board adopted Decision on the adoption of Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy to fulfill strategic objectives. The Decision Amending the Decision on Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 61/2016) was adopted to regulate money laundering and the financing of terrorism risk, as well as to implement Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy, by introducing the concept of bad assets and regulation of risk management relating to the management of bad assets, and with the aim of complying with Law on Payment Services. For the purpose of implementing the Action Plan for Implementation of the NPL Resolution Strategy, on June 29, 2016, the NBS Executive Board implemented the Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 61/2016) which has changed the definition and treatment of the restructured receivables, taking into account definitions and treatment of the forborne receivables as envisaged by the European Banking Authority’s implementing technical standard on supervisory reporting on forbearance and non-performing exposures. The Decision envisages the introduction of new definitions of non-performing (NPE), performing, and forborne exposure (in line with technical standards published by the European Banking Authority), prescribes additional requirements for classification for the purpose of additional monitoring of asset quality, so that banks would be obliged in addition to assigning exposures into categories (A, B, C, D, E), to mark the exposures as non-performing, performing, and forborne exposure, with no impact on the calculation of the amount of required reserves for estimated losses, and defines the conditions and the time required for the transition of receivables from one category to another. The Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 69/2016) introduced the model of reducing the amount of required reserve, which is conditional on the level of NPL ratio, earlier than Basel III standards implementation date (and it will be applied until January 1, 2019) to have a longer implementation period for this model and thus to give banks stronger incentive to reduce the level of NPLs and/or increase the lending activity. Given that the adopted amendments to the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items, among others, envisage that banks, which had an NPL ratio of non-state and non-financial sector equal to or lower than 10% on June 30, 2016, and they still have this ratio equal to or lower than 10% on reporting date, can calculate their required reserve, treated as deductible from regulatory capital and credit-risk-weighted assets, to the level of zero. With additional aim to stimulate banks to increase lending activity, the adopted amendments to the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items prescribe possibility for the banks to change the percentage from 2% to 0% applicable to the base for the calculation of reserves for estimated losses for the receivables classified in category B which were created on the basis of contracts signed after September 30, 2016, provided their aim is not refinancing or restructuring. NBS Executive Board implemented the Decision Amending the Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 91/2016) to equalize the treatment of bank refinanced exposure to borrower (forborne exposure on earlier valid solution), and the treatment of “refinancing” exposure of another legal entity other than a bank to whom the receivable from that borrower was assigned to (which was not treated as forborne exposure on earlier valid solution). Consequently, the definition of refinancing of exposures has been changed.

The Decision Amending the Decision on Consolidated Supervision of Banking Group (RS Official Gazette No. 58/2017) enabled introduction of Basel III standards on consolidated basis with simultaneous harmonization with Basel III standards implemented on individual level. The minimum prescribed level of capital adequacy ratio of the banking group is reduced from 12% to 8%, which is equal to the requirement for individual banks. Capital requirement for other risks has been introduced (capital requirement for credit valuation adjustment (CVA) risk and a capital requirement for large exposures for each member of the banking group). Obligations for the ultimate parent company to establish a system for liquidity risk management at the level of the banking group are stipulated, as well as the obligation to calculate the LCR and accordingly apply the appropriate restrictions relating to a bank’s exposure to liquidity risk. Guidelines for the identification of default (RS Official Gazette No. 69/2017) were adopted in July 2017. The maturity of the exposures is specified in such a way that, for the purposes of determining that status, the bank considers the exposure to be past due if any amount of the principal amount, interest, or fees was not paid at due date, and that the counting of days past due for exposures with changed terms of repayment is based on the changed repayment schedule.
Guidelines also prescribe the manner of calculating a materially significant amount, indications of unlikeliness to pay, conditions for return to a non-defaulted status and the new occurrence of default, application of the definition of default, monitoring the fulfillment of conditions for classification into non-defaulted status, the risk management process as well as requirements regarding the principles of management for banks applying the internal ratings-based (IRB) approach. Provisions that regulate the manner of calculating a materially significant amount must apply as of January 1, 2019. Decision on the accounting write-off of bank balance sheet assets (RS Official Gazette No. 77/2017) applies as of September 30, 2017. In accordance with this decision, banks are obliged on direct write-off of NPLs which are fully impaired if the calculated amount of loan impairment recorded by the bank in favor of allowances equals 100% of its gross book value.

In February 2018, the Decision on Guidelines for the Application of the Provisions of the Law on the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing for Obligors Supervised by the NBS (RS Official Gazette No. 13/2018) is introduced. These Guidelines regulate the manner in which an obligor supervised by the NBS carries out an analysis of the money laundering and terrorism financing risk, the procedure to determine whether the customer or the beneficial owner of the customer is an official, as well as the manner of applying other provisions of the law regulating the prevention of money laundering and the financing of terrorism. Decision on Measures for Preserving Stability of the Financial System in the Context of Foreign Currency-Indexed Loans (RS Official Gazette Nos. 21/2015 and 51/2015).

Authorized banks may hold foreign currency abroad only in accounts with banks.

Banks may grant credits in dinars to nonresidents in the manner and under the conditions specified by the NBS. Banks may grant commercial credits in foreign currency to nonresidents and short-term bank credit facilities as well as short-term bank deposits in foreign currency to foreign banks without any restrictions and may also grant financial loans in foreign currency to nonresidents, provided they contract and acquire from a nonresident payment collateral instruments. Banks may also grant dinar loans to an international financial organization, a development bank, or a financial institution founded by a foreign state without any limitation; other dinar lending by banks to nonresidents is subject to conditions specified by the NBS. Lending to nonresidents in dinars and foreign currency is deemed a foreign credit transaction and reported to the NBS. Claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions may be transferred between residents other than natural persons, nonresidents, and residents other than natural persons and nonresidents, except for resident public enterprises and legal entities with state-owned capital, which requires government consent. Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign currency may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities in the manner prescribed by the NBS.

Offsetting of claims and liabilities under foreign credit transactions in foreign currency may be performed by resident banks, legal entities, entrepreneurs, and branches of foreign legal entities in the manner prescribed by the NBS.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes.

Banks may extend to resident legal entities and entrepreneurs credits in foreign currency for payment for imports of goods and services from abroad and to resident natural persons for the purchase of real estate in the country. Banks may approve loans to natural persons that are indexed to a foreign currency, provided the currency is the euro and the borrower has made a down payment or deposit of at least 30% of the loan amount. Banks may approve a mortgage to a natural person, provided the loan amount does not exceed 80% of the value of the property (reduced by the amount of other receivables secured by the first-rank mortgage on the same property). This requirement does not apply to loans in dinars that are not indexed to foreign currency. Banks were required to treat the amount overcharged by unilateral raising of variable indefinable elements of the interest rate as early loan repayment and notify each borrower with a modified loan repayment schedule within 30 days. With respect to Cooperative Housing Foundation-indexed housing loans, banks were required to offer their borrowers, within 30 days, four sample annex proposals containing modified terms of loan repayment while keeping the existing loan collateral. Borrowers must be given at least three months to decide on the offer and may accept it at any time before the deadline. Banks may not offer conversion, under any of the modalities envisaging such an option for the extension of euro-indexed loans if such terms are less favorable than the terms applied on December 31, 2014, and may not charge any fees for undertaking these measures and carrying out these activities nor obtain compensation for costs related to such measures and activities (NBS Decision on Measures for Preserving Stability of the Financial System in the Context of Foreign Currency-Indexed Loans). The NBS Executive Board adopted the Decision Amending Decision on the Classification of Bank Balance Sheet Assets and Off-Balance-Sheet Items (RS Official Gazette No. 25/2015), with the aim of aligning with the Decision on Measures for Preserving Stability of the Financial System in the Context of Foreign Currency-Indexed Loans, by providing more precise conditions for the calculation of default in accordance with the subsequently agreed maturity date. The Executive Board of the NBS adopted the Decision on Intra-Group Financial Support.

Purchase of locally issued securities Yes.

denominated in foreign exchange

Purchases of locally issued debt securities are permitted in accordance with the Law on the Capital Market.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts Yes.
in foreign exchange

Reserve requirements Yes.

Banks are subject to a minimum reserve requirement on sources of banking funding. Local currency (dinar) liabilities are treated differently from foreign currency liabilities. There is no reserve requirement for local currency (dinar) liabilities with maturity of more than two years and on banks’ dinar and foreign currency liabilities from international financial institutions, governments, and financial institutions of foreign states through intermediation of the governments as the main debtor and/or owner of these funds or received directly. Effective October 17, 2018, when banks reinvest these funds, the loan margins must be lower than the average margins on loans approved by the bank from other sources of funds. A 5% reserve ratio applies to local currency liabilities with maturity of up to two years. A 100% reserve requirement ratio applies to the portion of the foreign exchange base composed of liabilities under foreign-exchange-indexed dinar liabilities regardless of the maturity. The mandatory reserve requirement ratio on foreign currency liabilities differs according to maturity. The reserve requirement ratio on foreign currency liabilities was 20% on liabilities with maturity of up to two years; and it was 13% on liabilities with maturity of more than two years. A portion of the required reserves must be allocated in foreign exchange. The allocation differs according to maturity: for debt with maturity of up to two years effective 62% of the reserve requirement must be allocated in foreign exchange and for debt with maturity of more than two years the ratio is 70%.

Liquid asset requirements

Liquidity ratios are transferred in the Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks (RS Official Gazette No. 103/2016), which must be applied as of that day. The Decision on Liquidity Risk Management by Banks introduced the liquidity coverage ratio. In accordance with this decision, the bank must maintain the LCR ratio at a level of at least 100%. According to provisions of this Decision, the liquid assets are the sum of level 1 liquid assets and level 2 liquid assets whereby level 1 liquid assets mean assets of extremely high liquidity and credit quality and level 2 liquid assets mean assets of high liquidity and credit quality comprising level 2A liquid assets and level 2B liquid assets. Level 1 liquid assets must include assets prescribed in Section 26 of this Decision, assets which could be included in Level 2A liquid assets are stipulated in Section 28 of this Decision and Section 30 determines what Level 2B liquid assets consist of. Previously, in accordance with the Decision on Risk Management by Banks, since 2012, the level of a bank’s liquidity is expressed by the liquidity ratio and the narrow liquidity ratio. Liquidity ratio is the ratio of the sum of the bank’s liquid first- and second-degree receivables to the sum of the bank’s sight liabilities or liabilities without determined maturity and the bank’s liabilities with maturity within one month from the date of liquidity ratio calculation. Narrow liquidity ratio is the ratio of the sum of the bank’s liquid first-degree receivables to the sum of the bank’s sight liabilities or liabilities without determined maturity and the bank’s liabilities with maturity within one month from the date of liquidity ratio calculation. A bank’s first-degree liquid receivables include cash and receivables for which the agreed maturity falls within one month of the date of calculation of liquidity ratio: (1) vault cash, gyro-account balances, and gold and other precious metals; (2) funds in the accounts with banks with available credit rating of the chosen credit rating agency equivalent to credit quality 3 or better, determined in accordance with the decision on capital adequacy of banks (investment rank); (3) deposits with the NBS; (4) checks and other monetary receivables in the process of execution; (5) irrevocable credit facilities approved by the bank; (6) shares and debt securities quoted on the stock exchange; and (7) 90% of the fair value of securities denominated in dinars with no foreign currency clause, issued by Serbia with minimum maturity of three months/90 days, which the bank has classified as securities traded or securities available for sale.

Interest rate controls

No.

Credit controls

No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents: No.

Reserve requirements: No. Local currency (dinar) liabilities are treated differently from foreign currency liabilities; the differential treatment of liabilities depends on currency and maturity, not on residential/nonresidential status.

Liquid asset requirements: No.

Interest rate controls: No.

Credit controls: No.

Investment regulations: Yes.

Abroad by banks: Yes. NBS approval is required and issued under the conditions set forth in the decision on the granting of approval for capital investment in banks abroad.

In banks by nonresidents: Yes. NBS approval is required for the acquisition of 5%–20%, 20%–33%, 33%–50%, and more than 50% of voting rights. NBS procedures for processing applications for bank founding permits and acquisition of ownership have been simplified. Criteria for the assessment of solvency of a potential founder/acquirer of ownership that is a legal entity with an investment grade credit rating are the same as for banks, and if the potential founder/acquirer is a special-purpose vehicle, the assessment of solvency is made for the persons financing the special-purpose vehicle’s investment in the bank’s capital rather than for the special-purpose vehicle itself.

Effective June 1, 2018, the Decision Amending the Decision on Implementing the Provisions of the Law on Banks Relating to Granting of a Preliminary Bank Founding Permit, Bank Operating License and Consents and Approvals by the NBS came into force and prescribed that the NBS must assess the business reputation of the bank founders, the acquirer of participation in the bank, or the persons nominated for membership in the management bodies of the bank when granting licenses or approvals.

Open foreign exchange position limits: Yes. The definition of total net open foreign exchange position is the higher of the absolute value of the total long or total short foreign exchange position. A bank’s total net open foreign exchange position (including the absolute value of its net open position in gold) limit is 20% of its capital. In accordance with the Decision on Bank Capital Adequacy (Section 368 Paragraph 2), foreign exchange assets and liabilities include all foreign exchange assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currency, assets and liabilities denominated in dinars with a currency clause, where the currency clause is a contractual provision indexing the agreed amount to some other currency.

On resident assets and liabilities: Yes. There are no specific open foreign exchange limits on resident assets and liabilities, the only limit is the one described in Point 9 above.

On nonresident assets and liabilities: Yes. There are no specific open foreign exchange limits on resident assets and liabilities, the only limit is the one described in Point 9 above.

Provisions specific to institutional investors: Yes. Securities transactions by institutional investors are regulated in accordance with the Law on the Capital Market, which has been applied since November 2011 and bylaws of the SC.

Insurance companies: Yes. Insurance companies as institutional investors are regulated by the Insurance Law. The Insurance Law and bylaw of December 26, 2014, and June 27, 2015, and amendments introduced in December 2017 are respectively in effect.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents: Yes. Insurance companies may invest technical reserves in EU or OECD countries’ government or CB securities, or securities issued by international institutions, as well as in shares of foreign legal entities.
Insurance companies may deposit and invest up to 25% of prescribed core capital abroad, with prior approval of the NBS. Technical provisions may be invested in types of assets designated in Article 131 of the Law, separately for life insurance and non-life insurance, while observing the following limitations: (1) Securities and money market instruments issued by Serbia, member states of the EU or OECD, CBs of member states of the EU or OECD, and securities and money market instruments underwritten by any of the above – without limitation; (2) Securities issued by international financial organizations in which Serbia is a member of – without limitation; (3) Debt securities issued by autonomous provinces and local self-government units, as well as debt securities underwritten by any of the above – up to 35% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 10% of technical provisions; (4) Debt securities traded in the securities market in compliance with law where the issuer is a legal person with the head office in Serbia – up to 35% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 5% of technical provisions; (5) Debt securities not traded in the securities market if issued by a legal person having the head office in Serbia – up to 3% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 0.5% of technical provisions; (6) Shares traded in the securities market in compliance with law – up to 25% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 5% of technical provisions; (7) Shares not traded in the securities market if issued by a legal person whose head office is in Serbia – up to 5% of technical provisions and in securities of the same issuer – up to 1% of technical provisions; (8) Equity interests of companies having the head office in Serbia – up to 5% of technical provisions and in equity interests in one legal entity – up to 1% of technical provisions; (9) Investment units of investment funds – up to the level of technical provisions calculated for a class of life insurance referred to in Article 8, item (5) of the Law, and in investment units of a single investment fund – up to 50% of those technical provisions; (10) Immovable property and other proprietary rights on immovable property – if entered in the land registry or other public register in Serbia, if they bring income, if their purchase price is determined in accordance with valuation by a certified appraiser, and if they are not encumbered by a lien – up to 30% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 20% of technical provisions of non-life insurance, provided not more than 10% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 7% of technical provisions of non-life insurance is invested in one and/or several spatially connected immovable properties which make up one whole. Up to 20% of technical provisions of life and non-life insurance may be deposited with banks having a head office in Serbia, provided no more than 5% of those technical provisions are deposited with a single bank. Technical provisions may be held as cash in the insurance company’s cash box or in its bank account, in the amount of up to 7% of technical provisions of life insurance and/or 10% of technical provisions of non-life insurance, provided the sum of deposits and funds in the accounts of one bank does not exceed 5% of technical provisions of life and/or non-life insurance. Other types of assets that may be acquired using technical provisions, apart from those specified in Articles 131 and 133 of the Law must be the following: (1) unearned premium reserves, outstanding claims reserves, and other technical provisions charged to reinsurer, retrocessioner, up to the level of their book value.
determined by taking into account the creditworthiness of the coinsurer, reinsurer, and retrocessioner; (2) unearned premium receivables under unexpired non-life insurance, coinsurance, and reinsurance – up to 10% of technical provisions of non-life insurance (until December 31, 2020). Up to 20% of mathematical reserves of life insurance may be invested in prepayments up to the amount of the total surrender value of concluded life insurance contracts.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition
Yes. Assets and liabilities of an insurance company must be considered currency matched if the insurance company’s total assets in all currencies equal its total liabilities in all currencies and the difference between assets and liabilities in any currency does not exceed 20% of the value of the assets and/or liabilities.

Pension funds
Yes. Pension funds are regulated by the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds and Pension Schemes. Investment limits are regulated by a supplementary regulation on more detailed conditions and maximum amounts of voluntary pension fund assets investment and the manner of investment of such assets abroad. Each pension fund must establish an investment policy statement that defines investment limits within the regulatory framework.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents
Yes. Pension fund assets may be invested (1) up to 10% in (a) debt securities issued abroad by international financial institutions, (b) debt securities issued by foreign governments or foreign legal entities with a credit rating no less than A from Standard & Poor’s and Fitch IBCA or no less than A2 from Moody’s, (c) listed shares of foreign legal entities traded on stock exchanges of EU/OECD member countries, and (d) depository receipts issued by banks headquartered in EU/OECD member countries, based on deposited securities; and (2) up to 5% in investment units of open-end investment funds managed by investment fund management companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU/OECD member countries.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad
Yes. Up to 10% of the assets of a pension fund may be invested abroad. The maximum levels, conditions, and manner of investing voluntary pension fund assets are determined by regulation.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally
Yes. A pension fund’s assets may be invested without any limitations in debt securities issued by the NBS and Serbia, as well as in debt securities issued by legal entities and accompanied by the guarantee of Serbia. In addition, changes to the Voluntary Pension Fund Law (RS Official Gazette No. 31/11) allow investment in instruments such as (1) short-term debt securities issued or guaranteed by banks headquartered in Serbia, and (2) investment units of open-end investment funds managed by companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU and OECD member countries. Detailed limits on investments are prescribed in the Decision on More Detailed Conditions and Maximum Amounts of Voluntary Pension Fund Assets Investment and Manner of Investing Such Assets Abroad (RS Official Gazette No. 43/11). Accordingly, the assets of a pension fund may be invested as follows: (1) up to 50% in (a) debt securities issued by autonomous provinces and local government units in Serbia, except securities with the guarantee of Serbia; (b) debt securities issued in Serbia by international financial institutions to which Serbia belongs; (c) mortgage bonds issued in Serbia; (d) debt securities issued by legal entities headquartered in Serbia and traded in the Serbian regulated market, except securities with the guarantee of Serbia; (e) short-term debt securities issued or guaranteed by banks headquartered in Serbia, as prescribed by the law governing the capital market; and (f) securities issued by nonresidents, such as debt securities issued abroad by international financial institutions and debt securities issued by foreign governments or foreign legal entities, provided their credit rating is no less than A from Standard & Poor’s and Fitch IBCA or no less than A2 from Moody’s; (2) up to 40% in (a) shares issued by legal entities headquartered in Serbia, traded in the Serbian regulated market; and (b) securities issued by nonresidents, such as listed shares of foreign legal entities, traded on stock exchanges of EU/OECD member countries; (3) up to 35% in money deposits in banks headquartered in Serbia; (4) up to 5% in investment units of open-end investment funds managed by investment fund management companies headquartered in Serbia and/or EU/OECD member countries; (5) up to 10% in (a) depository receipts of banks headquartered in Serbia, and (b) securities issued by nonresidents, such as depository receipts issued by banks headquartered in EU/OECD member countries, based on deposited securities; and (6) up to 5% in real estate in Serbia. Up to 10% of pension funds’ assets may be invested in securities of a single issuer or of two or more issuers that are related parties, with the exception of securities issued by Serbia or the NBS.

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

Stabilized arrangement 03/02/2018 Since March 2018, the exchange rate has stabilized within a 2% band against the euro. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to “stabilized” from “crawl like.”

Foreign exchange market 01/01/2018 The National Bank of Serbia Executive Board adopted the new Decision on the Types of Foreign Exchange and Foreign Cash to be Purchased and Sold in the Foreign Exchange Market. Trading in the form of foreign exchange was enabled for those currencies for which until then was allowed to trade only in the form of foreign cash, namely the Hungarian forint, Polish zloty, Czech koruna, convertible mark, and Croatian kuna.

01/01/2018 The National Bank of Serbia Executive Board adopted the new Decision on the Types of Foreign Exchange and Foreign Cash to be Purchased and Sold in the Foreign Exchange Market. The most important novelties introduced by this Decision are adding two new currencies in the list of foreign currencies that may be traded in the foreign exchange market in the Republic of Serbia, in the form of foreign exchange and foreign cash – the Bulgarian lev and Romanian leu.

02/01/2018 The new Decision on the Types of Foreign Exchange and Foreign Cash to be Purchased and Sold in the Foreign Exchange Market (RS Official Gazette No. 3/2018) came into force.

04/28/2018 The Law on Amendments and Supplement to the Law on Foreign Exchange operations came into the force, which prescribes that from January 1, 2019, the National Bank of Serbia will undertake the activities of supervising exchange offices and issuing and revoking authorizations for the performance of exchange operations as well as the activities of supervising the foreign exchange operations of residents and nonresidents.

01/01/2019 In the exchange rate list of the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealer, the buying rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be lower than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%, and/or selling rate per unit of foreign currency – the euro – cannot be higher than the official middle rate of the dinar against the euro applicable on that day by more than 1.25%.

01/01/2019 When the public postal operator and authorized exchange dealers purchase foreign cash from natural persons, their commission may not exceed 1% of the value of undamaged banknotes from natural persons, and/or circulating banknotes within the meaning of the provisions of Decision on Terms and Manner of Performing Exchange Operations. Previously, the maximum commission limit was 3%.

Spot exchange market 04/28/2018 As the Law on Amendments and Supplements to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations came into the force, resident humanitarian organizations may receive funds and donations for humanitarian purposes from abroad, which takes place through the electronic money issuer.

01/01/2019 The threshold that determines the excess amount of dinars exchange bureaus must transfer to their current account with a bank is triple the average daily amount of dinars used for the purchasing of foreign cash in the month with the highest purchase in the preceding 12 months. If the foreign exchange dealer works less than a month, the triple average daily amount of dinars is determined according to the week with the highest purchase. Previously, the threshold was double the average daily amount of dinars used for purchasing foreign cash in the month (week if exchange dealer worked less than a month).
with the highest purchase in the preceding 12 months.

rupee is determined by supply and demand in the market. The CBS intervenes only to smooth excessive exchange rate volatility. The CBS occasionally participates in the foreign exchange market for reserve accumulation. The CBS discloses intervention data to the IMF on a weekly basis. On average, the Seychelles rupee depreciated vis-à-vis the dollar and appreciated with respect to the euro in 2018. A strong tourism performance (both in terms of higher arrivals and spending) was observed in 2018. In addition, lower services imports and strong performance of tuna exports resulted in an improvement in the trade balance. Despite an increase in supply of foreign exchange in the economy relative to 2017, demand for foreign exchange remained strong. During 2018, the CBS intervened in the foreign exchange market for reserves accumulation purposes and purchased a total of US$21.5 million. The reserves accumulation exercise was necessary to maintain a stable level of international reserves. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. The reference exchange rate is calculated as a weighted average of all foreign currency buying and selling transactions by ADs (banks and exchange bureaus) and wire transfers and drafts and is used for accounting and conversion of payments in foreign currency.

Yes. Effective January 1, 2019, the Monetary Policy Framework transitioned from reserve money targeting to an interest rate-based framework whereby the focus of monetary policy shifted from indirectly influencing the intermediate target of money supply growth to guiding short-term interest rates. This was done through the introduction of a Monetary Policy Rate. The Monetary Policy Rate serves as the key policy variable used for signaling the prevailing monetary policy stance. Previously, the operational target of the monetary policy was reserve money. It was complemented by the overnight interest rate corridor which was used to provide clearer guidance to the financial market for appropriate evolution of short-term interest rates.

Foreign exchange market Yes. Commercial banks and exchange bureaus are free to set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients. The aforementioned ADs are also free to determine their foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Spot exchange market Yes. The spot foreign exchange market comprises commercial banks and bureaux de change (BDCs). These financial institutions are licensed and regulated by the CBS. There are two classes of BDCs: (1) Class B may engage only in purchases and sales of foreign currency in the form of banknotes, coins, and traveler’s checks. (2) Class A may also engage in the purchase and sale of foreign currency without the limitation that applies to a Class B BDC. However, Class A BDCs may engage in services of money transmission and remittances subject to having a Payment Service Provider License as per the National Payment System Act of August 18, 2014. As of December 31, 2018, there were 36 institutions licensed under the Financial Institutions Act of 2004, to deal in foreign exchange with the public: 10 commercial banks and 14 Class A and 12 Class B BDCs. Only commercial banks may engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the CBS. BDCs and commercial banks must comply with the Anti-Money-Laundering Act of 2006 and Prevention of Terrorism Act of 2004 and report transactions to the CBS. BDCs may open local and international bank accounts for themselves.

Operated by the central bank: Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility: No.
Allocation: No.
Auction: Yes. The multiple price foreign exchange auction allows the CBS to buy and sell foreign exchange (US dollars, euros, and pounds sterling only) as part of its foreign exchange and monetary operations. Auctions are held as necessary in the context of foreign exchange and monetary policies as well as reserves management. The CBS determines and announces the amount of foreign exchange to be purchased or sold on the day of the auction through its web portal. Financial institutions that are liable to reserve requirements of the CB or as prescribed in the Monetary Policy Framework are eligible to participate in the auction. Successful bidders pay the price they bid. The Monetary Policy Technical Committee/Investment Committee may decide on the bids according to guidelines based on price and amount (buying or selling). Auctions are announced through an online portal with all relevant information (for example, auction date, time frame, reference number, foreign currency to be purchased or sold, amount intended to be purchased or sold by the CBS, and value and settlement date of the rupee equivalent). Auction results are sent via the web portal. If payment is delayed, the CBS imposes a fine as indicated in the Penalty Clause of the Monetary Policy Framework. There are no restrictions on the use of the foreign exchange purchased at the auction. Auction rules are included in the Monetary Policy Framework, Operational Guidelines and Procedures for Foreign Exchange Auction. Bids may not breach the MCP Rule stipulated in the Guidelines.

Fixing: No.
Interbank market: Yes. The CBS and eight commercial banks licensed under the Financial Institutions Act of 2004, excluding those that do business only with nonresidents, participate in the foreign exchange interbank market. Banks may trade among themselves. Currently, participation in the interbank market is less prominent. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread and commission of market participants. According to the interbank market regulations, the CBS may either intervene directly at the participants’ quoted rates or make its own quote (one-sided). The interbank market in Seychelles has been inactive.

Over the counter: No.
Brokerage: No.
Market making: Yes. The following policies guide market operations through the Seychelles Interbank Foreign Exchange Market. The eight commercial banks provide two-way quotes (that is, buying and selling rates) at regular intervals through an interbank blog administered and maintained by the CBS. Foreign exchange transactions may be concluded via telephone, but a written confirmation of each deal must always be sent by both parties to the counterparty immediately after conclusion of the transaction. The netting and settlement process is then undertaken by the CBS, and the rupee settlement is executed across the participants’ demand deposit accounts with the CBS on a T+0 basis (same day settlement). The seller undertakes delivery transfer using a correspondent banking arrangement on a T+0 basis.

- Crawl-like arrangement
- Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
- Other managed arrangement: Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating, as the exchange rate of the Leone is market determined. The BSL does not target a specific level of the exchange rate. The foreign exchange auction data is published on the BSL website. Actual foreign exchange auction data is published as soon as the auction is concluded. Auction data includes amount offered, amount sold, and the auction weighted average exchange rate. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed.

Floating

Free floating

Official exchange rate

- Yes. The BSL official exchange rate is market determined. The BSL determines the exchange rate used in official transactions, including transactions for customs valuation purposes. The official exchange rate is based on the weighted average of commercial banks’ and foreign exchange bureaus’ purchase transactions during the preceding five business days. The weighted average exchange rate derived is the BSL mid-rate to which a ±1% spread is applied to determine the selling and buying rates. The daily official BSL exchange rate is published on the Bank’s website and the Thomson Reuters platform.

Resident Accounts

| Foreign exchange accounts permitted | Yes. |
Held domestically: Yes. Residents may hold foreign currency accounts in any foreign currency. These accounts, whose minimum balances vary from bank to bank, earn interest at a rate determined by commercial banks. They may be credited with funds from abroad or from another foreign currency account in compliance with the AML/CFT Act 2012 or with foreign currency banknote deposits. Withdrawal of banknotes for current international account payments is limited to US$10,000 and must comply with anti-money-laundering regulations. Larger payments are permitted by SWIFT transfers supported by documentation and in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. OTC foreign currency banknote withdrawals from customer foreign currency accounts are permitted up to US$10,000 or its equivalent in other convertible foreign currencies a transaction. Holders of foreign currency accounts may withdraw up to US$10,000 cash a transaction for the purpose of travel and for per diem allowances. Payments above US$10,000 for traveling are permitted via SWIFT transfer, if supported by underlying documents. Customer foreign currency accounts may be used to make payments and transfers for current international transactions supported by underlying documentation and in compliance with the AML/CFT Act. All documented inward transfers by nonresidents through the banking system done in compliance with that law to customer foreign currency accounts may be externalized without restriction. Payments of salaries and other emoluments in foreign currency banknotes to foreign expatriate staff of international organizations with valid work permits are permitted. Accredited foreign and diplomatic missions in Sierra Leone may withdraw foreign currency banknotes to meet their operations. Payments for capital account transactions by SWIFT transfers from residents’ foreign currency accounts require BSL approval. There is no restriction on foreign currency transactions done through the banking system in compliance with the Exchange Control regulations and the AML/CFT Act. The Leone remains the legal tender in Sierra Leone and must be used for the pricing of goods and services.

Exchange Measures

| Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices | No. |
| Exchange measures imposed for security reasons | Yes. |
| In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51) | Yes. |

Singapore maintains exchange restrictions in accordance with UNSC resolutions. These include requirements for financial institutions to freeze the funds, financial assets, and economic resources of, and prevent financial transactions with, designated individuals and entities with respect to the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Eritrea, the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, South Sudan, and Yemen, as well as individuals and entities associated with terrorism (see Terrorism (Suppression of Financing) Act). The MAS regulations on the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea were amended effective May 4, 2018, and December 7, 2018.

In accordance with UNSC resolutions, Singapore also prohibits nonfinancial institutions from dealing with property or assets, providing certain services, and supplying certain items to designated entities and individuals with respect to the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Iran, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Sudan, South Sudan, and Yemen, as well as designated entities and individuals associated with terrorism.

Other security restrictions No.

Classification
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is other managed. The authorities manage the exchange rate as an intermediate target of monetary policy, with the objective of maintaining price stability as a sound basis for sustainable economic growth. The Singapore dollar is allowed to fluctuate within a targeted policy band and is managed against a basket of currencies of the country’s major trading partners. Currencies in the basket are assigned weights in accordance with the importance of the countries in Singapore’s trade relations with the world. The exchange rate policy is announced every six months in the Monetary Policy Statement, typically in terms of changes to the slope, central rate, and width of the policy band. In response to changing macroeconomic conditions, the policy parameters may also be adjusted outside the regular biennial cycle. The US dollar is the intervention currency. The Singapore dollar has been appreciating and, since February 2018, meets the criteria of a crawl-like arrangement. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from stabilized, effective February 9, 2018. The MAS intervenes through agents and does not publish information on its interventions.

The MAS publishes bilateral rates on its website, which are taken directly from Thomson Reuters.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis a composite.

Foreign exchange market Yes. Commercial banks freely set their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

Money-changing and remittance businesses are licensed by the MAS under the Money-Changing and Remittance Businesses Act (MCRB Act). Money-changing licenses allow only money changing, defined in the MCRB Act as the business of buying and selling foreign currency notes. A separate license is required for remittance business, which involves accepting money for transmission to persons resident abroad. As of December 31, 2018, there are 395 licensed money changers and 110 licensed remittance agents. Money changers do not transact directly with the MAS, and the maintenance of accounts abroad is not regulated by the MAS.

Interbank market Yes. No exchange control formalities or approvals are required for payments or capital transfers under MAS Notice No. 754 of May 1978. The MAS intervenes through agents at market rates and does not publish information on its intervention. All licensed banks may operate in the interbank foreign exchange market.

Over the counter Yes. Banks are free to purchase or sell foreign exchange to each other in the over-the-counter foreign exchange market.
Brokerage Yes. The foreign exchange market generally operates via brokers, with no restriction on bid-ask spreads or commissions.
Market making Yes. There is no designated market maker.
Forward exchange market Yes. Banks may hedge their exchange rate risk through forward foreign exchange transactions. The MAS participates in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

Official cover of forward operations No. The MAS covers its own forward positions fully; however, forward positions of other entities in the interbank foreign exchange market are managed without official cover.

There are several types of import permits, and certain situations do not require a permit (details can be found on the Customs website referenced below).

Singapore prohibits the importation of some products, mainly for health, safety, security, and environmental reasons, including those under UNSC resolutions or other international conventions and agreements.

Singapore does not control or restrict imports based on quotas; however, for some goods importers must apply for approval or a license prior to importation or transshipment.

Import restrictions and licensing are imposed to fulfill obligations under international agreements and/or for health, safety, environmental, and national security reasons.

Customs duties are levied on imports of beer, stout, samsu, and medical samsu.

Banks may lend in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions for any purpose in Singapore or elsewhere as long as the aggregate credit facilities do not exceed S$5 million an entity. For larger amounts, the following conditions apply: (1) If the proceeds in Singapore dollars are to be used outside Singapore, banks must ensure that they are swapped or converted to foreign currency on drawdown. (2) Banks may extend temporary overdrafts in any amount to vostro accounts of nonresident financial institutions to prevent settlement failure, but must make a reasonable effort to ensure that overdrafts are covered within two business days. (3) Banks must not extend credit facilities in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions if there is reason to believe that the proceeds will be used for local currency speculation. Banks must report monthly to the MAS their aggregate outstanding lending in Singapore dollars to nonresident financial institutions. This requirement does not apply to lending in Singapore dollars to individuals and nonfinancial institutions (including corporate treasury centers).

Foreigners may freely buy all types of residential units, except landed property and public housing. Foreigners who wish to purchase landed properties must obtain approval from the Singapore Land Authority. ABSD is imposed on certain categories of residential property purchases as follows: ABSD rate of, effective July 6, 2018, 12% (previously 7%) applies for Singapore citizens buying a second residential property; 15% (previously 10%) for citizens buying a third or subsequent property; 5% for permanent residents buying first residential property; 15% (previously 10%) for permanent residents buying a second or subsequent property; 20% (previously 15%) for foreign individuals buying any residential property; and 25% (previously 15%) for local and foreign nonindividuals (that is, entities) buying any residential property, as well as an additional ABSD of 5% was introduced for developers, which is nonremittable (that is, nonrefundable) and must be paid on purchase of the residential property. Developers who meet certain conditions may qualify for a refund from the government of the ABSD of 25%.

There are no specific restrictions for foreigners on the sale of nonlanded private property. However, the seller stamp duty was introduced in February 2010 for all residential property and residential land sold within one year of purchase. Subsequently, the holding period was extended progressively from one to four years as of January 2011. The seller stamp duty rates were also raised to 16%, 12%, 8%, and 4% for residential property sold in the first, second, third, or fourth year of purchase, respectively. Foreigners who buy landed private property with approval may not sell it before five years from the date of purchase—if the property is under construction, before five years from the issuance of the temporary occupation permit or certificate of statutory completion, whichever is earlier. Foreigners may not buy or own public housing.

| Lending locally in foreign exchange | No. |
| Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange | No. |
| Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange | Yes. |
| Reserve requirements | Yes. |

Foreign currency deposits accepted by banks in Singapore are not subject to reserve requirements. Banks must maintain a minimum cash balance with the MAS in Singapore dollars, averaging at least 3% of their Singapore dollars qualifying liabilities over a two-week maintenance period.

| Liquid asset requirements | Yes. |

The liquid asset requirements for banks incorporated and headquartered in Singapore were revised, after January 1, 2015, in line with the global implementation of the liquidity coverage ratio (LCR) rules. For all other banks in Singapore, the requirements came into force January 1, 2016. Banks in Singapore must comply either with the LCR or with the minimum liquid asset (MLA) requirement. Banks complying with the LCR must ensure that they hold sufficient high-quality liquid assets in any currency to meet their expected net cash outflow in any currency. In addition, banks must ensure that they hold sufficient high-quality liquid assets in Singapore dollars to meet their expected net cash outflow in Singapore dollars. The expected net cash outflow also includes outflows expected from deposits. As of January 1, 2016, banks incorporated and headquartered in Singapore must maintain at all times a Singapore dollar LCR of at least 100% and an all-currency LCR of at least 70%. The all-currency LCR requirement will increase by 10% each year, reaching 100% by 2019. Accordingly, effective January 1, 2018, the all-currency LCR requirement for these banks increased to 90% from 80% and effective January 1, 2019, to 100% from 90%. From January 1, 2016, any other bank notified by the authority that it is Domestic-Systemically Important Bank (D-SIB) or a bank that elects to comply with the LCR framework must maintain at all times a Singapore dollar LCR requirement of 100% and an all-currency LCR requirement of 50%.

Banks complying with the MLA requirement must ensure that they hold sufficient liquid assets in any currency to meet their qualifying liabilities (a subset of the bank’s liabilities) in any currency. In addition, banks must ensure that they hold sufficient liquid assets in Singapore dollars to meet their qualifying liabilities in Singapore dollars. In banks by nonresidents Yes.

Such investment is subject to prudential limits and approvals, but the provisions are not exchange related. No person may become a substantial shareholder (that is, 5%), 12% controller, 20% controller or indirect controller of (1) a bank incorporated in Singapore or (2) a financial holding company without approval of the minister. The minister may approve the application, if the authority is satisfied that (1) the person is a fit and proper person; (2) under the likely influence of the person, the designated financial institution will or will continue to conduct its business prudently and comply with the provisions of the law; and (3) if the minister is satisfied that the acquisition is in the national interest. These sections apply to all individuals, regardless of their residency or citizenship status, and to all bodies corporate and unincorporated, whether operating in Singapore or not.

No limits are set by the MAS, but it reviews the internal control systems of banks to ensure that adequate limits and controls are established for treasury activities.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes.

No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2018.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)
Yes.

The Slovak Republic maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU Council regulations solely for national and international security reasons. These include the freezing of funds and economic resources of those responsible for the violation of international electoral standards in the presidential elections in Belarus on March 19, 2006, and the crackdown on civil society and democratic opposition and natural or legal persons, entities, and bodies associated with them; certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia in Bosnia and Herzegovina; Democratic Republic of the Congo; certain persons who threaten the peace and national reconciliation process in Côte d’Ivoire; Egypt; Eritrea; Guinea (Conakry); Guinea-Bissau; and the Islamic Republic of Iran; certain persons and entities in Iraq; the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea; Lebanon; persons and entities associated with former President Charles Taylor in Liberia; listed persons, entities, and bodies of Libya; Russia; Somalia; former President Slobodan Milosevic and natural persons associated with him and certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia in Serbia and Montenegro; Sudan; Syria; Tunisia; Ukraine (as amended); Zimbabwe; persons and entities associated with Osama bin Laden, Al-Qaida, and the Taliban; and certain other persons, groups, and entities, with a view to combating terrorism. On May 22, 2014, the authorities notified the IMF of certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU Council regulations solely for national and international security reasons.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
Yes. The currency of the Slovak Republic is the euro.

Other legal tender
No.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary
Yes.

Dual
The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. The Slovak Republic participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The reference rates are usually updated around 16:00 Central European Time on every working day, except on TARGET (Trans-European Automated Real-time Gross Settlement Express Transfer) closing days. They are based on a regular daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Price stability is commonly defined as inflation rates at levels below, but close to, 2% over the medium term.

The foreign exchange authorities are the MOF and the NBS. The MOF has jurisdiction in matters relating to other ministries and central bodies of government administration, budgetary and subsidized government organizations, special-purpose government funds, legal entities established by separate legislation with financial ties to the national budget, and local communities and their budgetary and subsidized organizations. The MOF maintains foreign exchange records and documents pertaining to interstate negotiations on property claims and implements the results of these negotiations within the country. The NBS exercises jurisdiction over residents other than those specified above and over nonresidents.

Open general licenses | Yes. Act No. 392/2011 Coll. on Trading with Defense Industry Product and on amendments and supplements to certain acts.
The EU import licensing system is in place to manage imports of specific products subject to quantitative restrictions, safeguard measures, or import surveillance. The EU currently maintains more than 130 tariff quotas, mostly on agricultural products, which allow certain goods to be imported into the EU at a lower level of duty than would usually apply. These quotas are administered through import licenses and apply to imports of certain items under the EU Common Customs Tariff related to beef, sheep, goats, chicken, turkey, fish, milk, eggs, potatoes, fruit and vegetables, wheat, barley, rice, maize, mushrooms, sausages, sugar, fruit juice, chocolate, pasta, and wine.

Certain measures are imposed for environmental, health, safety, sanitary, and phytosanitary reasons. Moreover, the EU imposes trade and economic sanctions in accordance with resolutions of the UNSC.

The EU Common Customs Tariff system, including preferential tariffs, applies; the EU GSP applies to imports from developing economies. The availability and scope of tariff preferences within the GSP depend on the arrangement with the beneficiary country. The following arrangements are available under the GSP: (1) a general arrangement, (2) a special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance, and (3) a special arrangement for the least developed countries. Import duties are subject to VAT and excise duties (mineral oil, alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, electricity, coal, and natural gas, with certain exceptions). Tariffs are based on Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No. 2018/1602 – Common Customs Tariff for 2019. Council Regulation (EU) No. 2016/2390 amended Council Regulation (EU) No. 1387/2013. The Union surveillance of imports of certain aluminum products was introduced by Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No. 2018/640, effective May 12, 2018.

Sales or issue locally by nonresidents are allowed if certain conditions are met, under the category of provision of investment services, which is a regulated activity. Nonresidents are allowed to provide investment services in the Slovak Republic, if they are granted a license issued by the NBS or after notification from another EEA member, if they are granted a license in that particular EEA member country. Specifically, nonresidents from EEA member countries selling UCITS-compliant products may engage in this activity after notifying the NBS. Nonresidents from non-EEA countries, and nonresidents from EEA countries selling non-UCITS products, may engage in this activity through establishment of a branch in the Slovak Republic or on an agreement basis without establishing a branch, provided they receive authorization from the NBS. The issuance of securities in the Slovak Republic is, as a general rule, regulated, whether this activity is carried out by residents or nonresidents.

The provision of investment services in another EEA member, by residents licensed by the NBS, is subject to notification from the NBS to that particular EEA member.

In general, the sale or purchase of financial instruments in the Slovak Republic falls, if certain conditions are met, under the category of provision of investment services, which is a regulated activity. Effective March 1, 2019, Act No. 30/2019 Coll. on Gambling Games entered into force, creating a new license structure that covers online gambling and establishing the Gambling Regulatory Authority responsible for licensing, supervision, sanctioning, and levies management. Licenses may be issued to corporate entities domiciled in the Slovak Republic or in another EU Member State or domiciled in the Slovak Republic with foreign shareholders that are domiciled or have permanent residence in another EU Member State or in a Member State of the OECD. A corporate entity domiciled in a Member State other than the Slovak Republic may be issued a license if it has a representative registered with the Regulatory Office for Gambling. (2) Air services, which may be granted an operating license, provided EU members and/or nationals of EU members own more than 50% and effectively control it, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediate enterprises, except as provided for in an agreement with a third country to which the EU is a party; and (3) the extent that under Directive (EU) No. 2009/65, a depository of a UCITS must either have its registered office in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country.

Natural and legal persons from EU (including Slovak Republic) or EEA member countries and Switzerland may acquire agricultural land without any limitations, effective February 11, 2019, as the rules regarding the offering the agricultural land established by Act No. 140/2014 Coll. were cancelled by the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic. Previously, natural and legal persons from EU (including Slovak Republic) or EEA member countries and Switzerland could acquire agricultural land located outside town limits provided they had been operating an agricultural production business for at least three years within the municipality where the land was situated. Residents in the Slovak Republic for longer than 10 years who were EU or EEA members and Swiss (natural or legal persons) could acquire agricultural land located outside town limits provided they had been operating an agricultural production business for at least three years within the area adjacent to the municipality where the land was situated or without any regard to the place of providing agricultural production. If none of these persons acquired ownership of agricultural land, ownership could be acquired by physical or legal persons of the Slovak Republic, an EU or EEA member country, or Switzerland who had not been involved in agricultural production, provided they had been a resident for longer than 10 years. These restrictions did not apply to nonresidents who inherit property. These restrictions did not apply to agricultural land located within town limits, to agricultural land outside town limits where its management was limited by special regulations, to agricultural land outside town limits where its management was limited by the local plan, to agricultural land outside town limits under 2000 m², to agricultural land outside town limits which was functionally connected with the adjacent building and to the gardens. The prohibition for acquirers from other states is not cancelled and is still in effect. Acquisition of agricultural land by any physical or legal persons who are citizens or residents of other state than Slovak Republic, an EU or EEA member country, or Switzerland, is forbidden, provided the acquisition of agricultural land in this state is forbidden for Slovak citizens or residents. General rules remain against the fragmentation of the agricultural and forest land (prohibition of creating new land or new co-owner’s deal with smaller area than 2000 m² of agricultural land and 5000 m² of forest land; Act. No. 180/1995 Coll.) and the rules regarding the right of first refusal for the co-owners (Civil Code).

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

Yes.

Currency-matching rules are applied to assets relating to technical provisions, except unit-linked provisions. An insurance company or domestic branches of a foreign insurance company are required to invest a minimum of 80% of their liabilities in the given currency. This requirement does not apply if (1) assets in this currency do not exceed 7% of the assets in other currencies or (2) commitments are payable in a currency other than the currency of one of the EEA members. Reinsurance companies and domestic branches of foreign reinsurance companies must invest their technical provisions by matching assets at a minimum of 70% of their liabilities in a given currency.

Act No. 30/2019 Coll. on Gambling Games entered into force, creating a new license structure that covers online gambling and establishing the Gambling Regulatory Authority responsible for licensing, supervision, sanctioning, and levies management. Licenses may be issued to corporate entities domiciled in the Slovak Republic or in another EU Member State or domiciled in the Slovak Republic with foreign shareholders that are domiciled or have permanent residence in another EU Member State or in a Member State of the OECD. A corporate entity domiciled in a Member State other than the Slovak Republic may be issued a license if it has a representative registered with the Regulatory Office for Gambling.
Natural and legal persons from EU (including Slovak Republic) or EEA member countries and Switzerland may acquire agricultural land without any limitations as the rules regarding the offering the agricultural land established by Act No. 140/2014 Coll. were cancelled by the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic. Previously, natural and legal persons from EU (including Slovak Republic) or EEA member countries and Switzerland could acquire agricultural land located outside town limits provided they had been operating an agricultural production business for at least three years within the municipality where the land was situated. Residents in the Slovak Republic for longer than 10 years who were EU or EEA members and Swiss (natural or legal persons) could acquire agricultural land located outside town limits provided they had been operating an agricultural production business for at least three years within the area adjacent to the municipality where the land was situated or without any regard to the place of providing agricultural production. Floating

Free floating: Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Slovenia participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate: Yes. The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:30 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rates against the euro are the average of the buying and selling rates.

To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and noninflationary growth.” Price stability is commonly defined as inflation rates at levels below, but close to, 2% over the medium term.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes. Authorization is required for residents and nonresidents for a public offering/listing of money market instruments.

Purchase abroad by residents
No.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
No. Effective December 15, 2018, no special authorization or notification regarding the sale or issuance abroad by residents is required by the Market in Financial Instruments Act (ZTFI-1) compared to sale or issuance on the domestic market by residents.

On collective investment securities
Yes. The units of alternative investment funds, EU alternative investment funds, and non-EU alternative investment funds may be marketed in Slovenia only to professional investors (according to Directive 2011/61/EU). They may also be marketed to retail investors if the terms and conditions of the Investment Funds and Management Companies Act have been satisfied (option from Directive 2011/61/EU). The Act on Alternative Investment Fund Managers (Uradni list Republike Slovenije, No. 32/15, May 23, 2015) implemented the Directive 2011/61/EU on alternative investment fund managers, which aims at establishing common requirements governing the authorization and supervision of alternative investment fund managers to provide a coherent approach to the related risks and their impact on investors and markets in the Union. The current Investment Funds and Management Companies Act (Uradni list Republike Slovenije, Nos. 31/15, 81/15, and 77/16) implements provisions of Directive 2009/65/EC on the coordination of laws, regulations, and administrative provisions relating to UCITS, Directive 2013/14/EU regarding amendments of Directive 2009/65/EC in respect of overreliance on credit ratings issued by credit rating agencies, and Directive 2014/91/EU regarding depository functions, remuneration policies, and sanctions.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
No.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes. The following may sell investment coupons to retail investors: (1) Slovene mutual funds; (2) mutual funds from EU member countries, if the company that manages the mutual fund in the member country is authorized to sell units of the mutual fund in Slovenia; and (3) Slovene alternative mutual funds.

Purchase abroad by residents
No.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
Yes. No restrictions apply to sales of investment coupons in the EU.
Domestic management companies may provide services for the management of investment funds (including marketing of investment funds and selling of investment coupons and/or investment fund shares) through either their branches or a person authorized by the management company to manage investment funds or directly, if the management company meets the conditions stipulated in the regulations of the EU member country. Securities Market Agency (SMA) permission is required for the establishment of a branch abroad.

Conventional peg
Yes.  The exchange rate arrangement is a conventional peg. The Solomon Islands dollar is pegged to an invoice-based basket of currencies consisting of the US dollar (with the weight of 58%), the Australian dollar (AUD) (32%), the New Zealand dollar (5%), the Japanese yen (3%), and the British pound (2%). The Central Bank of Solomon Islands (CBSI) sets the exchange rate vis-à-vis the US dollar in such a way as to maintain the value of the basket constant in Solomon Islands dollars given the movements of currencies in the basket relative to each other.

Official exchange rate: Yes.

The SBD per US dollar value is the value of the index multiplied by the SBD per US dollar value on the day the basket peg was introduced. The exchange rate (midrate) is expressed in SBDs per US dollar and is determined by the total index of the basket multiplied by the initial base rate expressed in SBDs. The midrate is then announced as the official rate. Commercial banks can exchange the Solomon Islands dollar against other currencies and are free to set the bid-ask spread for all currencies, except the US dollar and AUD on which there is a spread limit of ±20 and ±25 basis points (bps), respectively. In addition, the CB maintains a standing facility through which it will buy and sell foreign exchange with commercial banks and the government at spot offer and sell rates. Customs uses a monthly average of commercial banks’ exchange rates for valuation of imports and exports.

The monetary aggregate target is mainly domestic price stability with limited monetary policy tools such as liquid asset ratios, CB bills, and the exchange rate policy/ regime.

A tax of SI$3 is levied on sales of foreign exchange exceeding SI$3,000.

Commercial banks may freely determine their bid-ask spread for all currencies (except the US dollar and AUD, for which a spread limit of ±20 and ±25 basis points, respectively, around the midpoint applies) and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

The CBSI’s foreign exchange standing facility allows commercial banks and the government to buy and sell foreign exchange at the spot rate (CBSI offer and sell rates).

The CBSI provides a standing foreign exchange facility to the commercial banks and the government at official spot buying and selling rates with a margin of ±12 basis points around the midpoint. The same spot rate is applied to both the government and the commercial banks.
There is an interbank foreign exchange market in which commercial banks may trade among themselves. Four commercial banks are licensed to participate. These banks may freely set their exchange rates for all foreign currencies except the AUD and the US dollar, for which the CBSI sets limits. The US dollar and AUD spread limit on commercial banks’ foreign exchange transactions is ±20 basis points for US dollar and ±25 basis points for AUD around the midpoint. The spread limit applies to interbank transactions as well as transactions with clients. The interbank market is generally active, and the CBSI can also provide foreign exchange to the commercial banks. As of December 31, 2018, all four banks (Bank of South Pacific (BSP), Australia-New Zealand (ANZ), and Pan Oceanic Bank (POB)) and Bred Bank were participating in the interbank foreign exchange market.

The market operates over the counter on the basis of market makers.

Commercial banks may enter into forward contracts with resident clients in any foreign currency but subject to CBSI approval if the deal is in US dollars and AUDs. The CBSI, however, does not participate nor provide guarantees in foreign exchange in the market for foreign exchange derivatives.

The CBSI does not provide official cover.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Contractual commitments in a foreign currency to nonresidents may be met by payments only in the currency specified in the contract. Exports are normally priced in foreign currency as agreed to between exporters and buyers; therefore, export proceeds are bought by commercial banks that deliver the SBD equivalent to the exporter’s local account. However, exporters with approved foreign currency accounts may receive foreign currency payments in their foreign currency account.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. SBDs are used for domestic transactions only. The Foreign Exchange Control Regulations restrict the exportation of banknotes except with CBSI approval. Solomon Islands notes and coins may be exported up to SI$250.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Domestic currency may be used to buy foreign currency to settle all trade and current transactions and payments. Commercial banks may effect without CBSI approval payments up to SI$30,000 for personal and travel remittances and up to SI$100,000 for trade and services payments. Larger payments require CBSI approval. All capital and financial repayments require CBSI assessment and approval.

For capital transactions Yes. Domestic currency may be used to buy foreign currency to settle foreign capital transactions only with CBSI approval. All capital and financial repayments require CBSI assessment and approval.

Transactions in capital and money market Yes. The use of domestic currency to buy foreign currency requires CBSI approval.

For transactions in derivatives, such as forwards and swaps, CBSI approval is required. Borrowing abroad requires CBSI approval. The assessment is based on prudential debt equity requirements for exchange control purposes. Residents may settle transactions in foreign exchange only with CBSI approval.

The Solomon Islands participates in the Melanesian Spearhead Group Trade Agreement, PACER, and PICTA.

Exchange control Act is administered by the CBSI through the foreign exchange (exchange control) regulations. The CBSI delegates extensive power to commercial banks, which are appointed ADs in foreign exchange and may approve certain transactions. Commercial banks may approve applications for trade and service payments of up to SI$100,000 and SI$30,000 for travel and personal remittances. All capital-related payment approvals are not delegated to ADs and must be approved by the CBSI. Other legitimate requests for foreign exchange require CBSI approval.

Only licensed gold dealers and licensed gold producers and exporters are permitted to export and trade in gold. Only Solomon Islands citizens may be granted a license to pan for alluvial gold. The CBSI may buy, sell, and hold gold and has participated in gold investments. A gold holding policy and trading agreement is in effect between the CBSI and the members of the London Bullion Market Association. Commercial mining companies are licensed by the Ministry of Mines, Energy and Rural Electrification to mine gold. Controls relating to domestic ownership of gold are subject to Ministry of Mines and Energy Act and other related laws; however, the CBSI exchange control restricts offshore investment in gold without CBSI approval.

Commercial banks and all other residents are required to obtain a permit issued by the Ministry of Mines, Energy and Rural Electrification to mine, buy, or export gold. Residents are obliged to get CBSI approval if they decided to buy and hold gold abroad.

Travelers may not take out more than SI$250 without the approval of the CBSI, which is not normally given. The CBSI sells banknotes to collectors abroad.

Both resident and nonresident banks are obliged to get approval from the CBSI on the amount of foreign currencies to be exported. Travelers may carry with them foreign banknotes up to the equivalent of SI$50,000 without CBSI approval. Beyond this limit, travelers must provide evidence and explanation of the need of foreign exchange and approval can be granted.

On imports

Yes.

Foreign currency

Yes. Both resident and nonresident banks are obliged to get approval from the CBSI on the amount of foreign currencies to be imported. Nonresident travelers visiting the Solomon Islands may bring in foreign currency up to the equivalent of SI$50,000 without CBSI approval. Beyond this limit, travelers must provide evidence and explanation of the need of foreign exchange and approval can be granted.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. The CBSI permits eligible export companies and organizations to operate foreign currency accounts. There are 38 active foreign currency accounts of which 35 accounts are held onshore and 3 offshore, totaling about US$92 million as of December 31, 2018. Each account is approved with a foreign currency benchmark (maximum) it may hold at any one time within a renewable period of one year subject to CBSI approval. At present, this facility is not available or permitted to individual accounts for both onshore and offshore.

Held domestically

Yes. Resident companies may obtain CBSI approval to hold these accounts when there is a genuine need. Exporters are allowed to hold 20% of their export proceeds in foreign exchange accounts. Such accounts may be opened in only one currency, chosen by the exporter. The balance of 80% of export proceeds must be sold to local commercial banks and the SBD equivalent deposited in a local bank account. The remainder may be transferred abroad freely. Resident individuals are not permitted to hold foreign exchange accounts domestically.

Approval required

Yes. The CBSI gives approval based on its assessment. Opening of accounts abroad by banks does not require CBSI approval.

Held abroad

Yes. These accounts are permitted for resident companies, but approval by CBSI is required. Resident individuals are not permitted to hold foreign exchange accounts abroad.

Approval required

Yes. The CBSI gives approval based on its assessment.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

Yes. These accounts are permitted, but approval is required.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes. These accounts are permitted, but approval is required. CBSI approval is required for conversion of local currency to foreign currency.

Changes during 2018 and 2019

No significant changes occurred in the exchange and trade system.
SOMALIA
(Position as of December 31, 2018)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

Date of membership	August 31, 1962.

Article VIII

Article XIV	Yes.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	No.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	No.

Other security restrictions	No.

This information can be found at the AREAER ONLINE database: http://www.elibrary-areaer.imf.org/Pages/Reports.aspx.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency	Yes.

While the Somali shilling is the official currency, the de facto currency in use in Somalia is the US dollar. All government transactions are conducted and denominated in US dollars, and most financial transactions are settled in US dollars. The Somali shillings are used for small payments between private parties (virtually all counterfeits). Such notes are used as sub-denominations to US dollar banknotes. Also, neighboring countries’ currencies are used in border areas.

To combat the existing counterfeiting, restore confidence in the national currency, and support access to financial instruments, the Central Bank of Somalia (CBS) is in the process of implementing a comprehensive currency reform program.

Other legal tender	Yes.

All transactions are converted to US dollars.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary	Yes.

The Somalia exchange market is composed of private money traders. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate. The CBS publishes a daily, weighted average exchange rate measured in the various regional foreign exchange markets. The CBS does not set this rate. Depending on local liquidity and demand conditions, exchanges rates can differ between regional foreign exchange markets. The CBS also does not conduct significant foreign exchange operations nor transactions in the Somali shilling.

Dual

Multiple

Classification

No separate legal tender
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is undetermined. Because of the absence of administrative measures controlling the level of the exchange rate, and the inoperative status of the CBS in the foreign exchange market, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a free floating arrangement. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate. The CBS publishes a daily, weighted average exchange rate measured in the various regional foreign exchange markets. Depending on local liquidity and demand conditions, exchange rates can differ between regional foreign exchange markets.

Yes. All public sector transactions are denominated in US dollar.

Other monetary framework Yes. The economy is de facto dollarized with no active monetary policy.

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. There is a foreign exchange market in which the exchange rate is negotiated freely among resident holders of foreign exchange accounts.

Spot exchange market Yes. The Somalia exchange market is composed of private money traders. The rate is a freely determined, market clearing rate. The CBS has licensed and supervises eleven money transfer companies and ten commercial banks, including their capital base, liquidity, transparency, and accountability, in accordance with best practices.

Operated by the central bank No.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices

No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons

Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)

No.

Other security restrictions

Yes.

The Financial Intelligence Centre Act (Act No. 38 of 2001, as amended) (FIC Act) imposes certain duties to accountable institutions (including banks, life insurance companies, ADLAs) to provide for the implementation of financial sanctions and to administer measures pursuant to resolutions adopted by the Security Council of the UN. Sections 26A, 26B, 26C, and 28A deal with financial sanctions by UNSC. The Prudential Authority and the Financial Surveillance Department (FinSurv) of the South African Reserve Bank (SARB) conducted banks’ and ADLAs’ client screening systems examination in 2014 and again in 2017 to ensure that their screening and monitoring systems are capable of identifying persons and property listed in the UNSC lists (for example, UNSC lists 1267/1989/2253). South Africa maintains restrictions on payments and transfers to UNSC-listed persons and countries as well as on the transfer of funds to the Taliban, Al-Qaida, and ISIL in accordance with UNSC resolutions. The Bank Supervision Department (now the Prudential Authority) issued Guidance Note 8/2008 (of June 17, 2008) regarding Section 6(5) of the Banks Act of 1990 in response to the FATF call for enhanced scrutiny of transactions with certain jurisdictions and to UN sanctions in relation to the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. Because the FATF list of high-risk and non-cooperative jurisdictions was amended subsequent to Banks Act Guidance Note 8/2008, the Prudential Authority will, in addition to the aforementioned Banks Act Guidance Note, also issue a new Banks Act Guidance Note informing banks and mutual banks of the FATF list of high-risk and non-cooperative jurisdictions. Anti-money-laundering and combating the financing of terrorism on-site inspections by the Prudential Authority assess banks’ compliance with UNSC resolutions to prevent business relationships with sanctioned countries, entities, and individuals and dealing in sanctioned goods, etc. In addition, anti-money-laundering and combating the financing of terrorism on-site inspections by FinSurv assess ADLAs compliance with UNSC resolutions.

<td>Floating</td>
<td>Yes</td>
<td>The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free-floating. The exchange rate of the rand is determined by market forces (that is, demand and supply) in the foreign exchange market. The SARB has a publicly announced foreign exchange policy of purchasing foreign currency in the local foreign exchange market when market conditions permit. The main objective for conducting spot purchases is to accumulate foreign exchange reserves. However, in certain exceptional cases, the SARB’s involvement in the spot market is aimed at facilitating the smooth functioning of interbank foreign exchange market, for example, when there are relatively large foreign direct inflows into the country. In implementing its foreign exchange policy, the SARB does not seek to influence the level of the exchange rate. The SARB interacts with ADs as the price taker for official and commercial purposes. The market makers and brokers quote prices to other market participants; the SARB does not quote prices for market participants. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.</td>

The rates are based on the four big banks’ (Standard Bank, ABSA, FirstRand, and Nedbank) foreign exchange quotes on the Reuters electronic trading system. The SARB also calculates the nominal effective exchange rate (NEER) for the rand and publishes it at 10:30 a.m. daily. The NEER is calculated according to South Africa’s largest international trading partners in manufactured goods. The NEER is currently</td> calculated against 20 currencies: the five largest weights are euros (29.26%), Chinese yuan (20.54%), US dollar (13.72%), Japanese yen (6.03%), and British pound sterling (5.82%). The NEER is also calculated and published monthly on the SARB’s website, together with the real effective exchange rate (REER). Historical exchange rates are available in the SARB’s quarterly bulletin. The SARB uses the US dollar–rand exchange rate at 2:30 p.m. for daily valuation.

Target horizon No.

Operating target (policy rate) Yes.
The main refinancing operation is the weekly seven-day repurchase auction, which is conducted with the commercial banks, at the repo (policy) rate as determined by the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC). The Bank lends funds to the banks against eligible collateral, which comprises assets that also qualify as liquid assets in terms of the prudential liquid asset requirement.

In addition to the main repo facility, the Bank offers a range of end-of-day facilities for the commercial banks to square off the daily positions on their settlement accounts, for example, access to their cash reserve balances held with the Bank, supplementary repos/reverse repos conducted at the repo rate and an automated standing facility whereby the end-of-day balances on the banks’ settlement accounts are automatically settled at a rate of 100 basis points below or above the policy rate.

The Governor appears at least once a year in Parliament before the Select Committee on Finance to explain the monetary policy stance adopted by the MPC.

The Governor of the Bank is required to submit annually a report on the implementation of monetary policy to the Minister of Finance.

The Bank’s commitment to transparent monetary policy has resulted in several initiatives to improve the communication of its policies to the public. At the conclusion of every MPC meeting, an MPC statement is issued through a press conference by the Governor of the Bank explaining the reasons for the MPC’s policy stance. This press conference is broadcast live on national television and at the same time the MPC statement is released on the Bank’s website. Monetary Policy Forums are also held to develop a better understanding of monetary policy. These Forums are held twice a year in the major centers of South Africa, across all provinces.

The Bank also publishes its Monetary Policy Review (MPR) twice a year. This Review is aimed at broadening the understanding of the intentions and conduct of monetary policy. Moreover, the Review analyzes the domestic and international developments that have impacted on inflation and motivates the monetary policy reaction to these developments. An assessment of the future outlook for the factors determining inflation as well as the Bank’s forecast of the future path of inflation is provided in the Monetary Policy Review. The Bank also publishes its inflation forecasts and assumptions simultaneous to the release of the monetary policy statement. Other materials are published from time to time, to increase awareness and understanding of its monetary policy function.

Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients.

FinSurv is authorized by the National Treasury to appoint ADs and ADLAs. As of June 30, 2019, there are 25 ADs, 2 restricted ADs, and 19 appointed ADLAs. ADLAs are classified as follows: Category one—(one ADLA in the market) authorized to operate as a bureau de change; Category two—(10 ADLAs in the market) authorized to operate as a bureau de change, to transfer gifts and study allowances within the single discretionary allowance (SDA) limit, to transfer earnings of migrant workers and foreign nationals, and to offer money remittance services in partnership with external money transfer operators; Category three—(seven ADLAs in the market) authorized to operate as an independent money transfer operator and/or value transfer service provider; and Category four (one ADLA), which is a combination of Categories two and three. ADLAs must maintain minimum unimpaired capital in a savings or investment type bank account separate from their business and clients’ funds as follows: Category one: R 2 million; Category two: R 3 million; Category three: R 5 million; and Category four: R 8 million. All transactions undertaken by an AD or an ADLA must be reported to FinSurv. ADLAs may only maintain accounts abroad with approval from FinSurv.

Operated by the central bank
No. The SARB conducts spot transactions and foreign exchange swaps in the foreign exchange market. The SARB conducts spot purchases to accumulate foreign exchange reserves and service foreign exchange obligations of its clients. In addition, the SARB conducts foreign exchange swaps for the purpose of liquidity management in the money market and to sterilize the money market impact of foreign exchange purchases for the accumulation of reserves.

Foreign exchange standing facility
No.

Allocation
No.

Auction
No.

Fixing
No. The SARB does not conduct any ZAR fixings.

Interbank market
Yes. Twenty-five ADs are authorized to participate in the foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads, and commissions vary between ADs and their clients. The SARB interacts with ADs as the price taker for official and commercial purposes. The market makers and brokers quote prices to other market participants; the SARB does not quote prices for market participants.

Over the counter
Yes. Foreign exchange swaps, options, and outright forwards are the most important foreign exchange derivatives traded over the counter.

Brokerage
Yes. The foreign exchange market operates based on a system of brokers (via brokers and electronic brokering systems).

Market making
Yes. There is a market-making agreement between ADs and their clients.

Forward exchange market
Yes. ADs are permitted to conduct forward exchange operations, including providing cover for transactions by nonresidents (subject to certain limitations). ADs are also permitted to provide forward exchange cover in any foreign currency to residents for firm and ascertained foreign exchange commitments and for accruals due to or from nonresidents arising from authorized trade and nontrade transactions. Forward exchange contracts may cover the entire period of the outstanding commitments or accruals. For the purpose of managing domestic money market liquidity, the SARB may conduct foreign exchange swaps in varying maturities with ADs for up to 12 months.

Official cover of forward operations
No. The SARB does not participate in the provision of forward exchange cover.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

| Prescription of currency requirements | Yes. | Countries outside the CMA constitute the nonresident area. The rand is legal tender in Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia. Lilangeni banknotes from Eswatini, loti banknotes from Lesotho, and Namibian dollar banknotes from Namibia are convertible to rand at par, but are not legal tender in South Africa. |
| Controls on the use of domestic currency | Yes. | Rand may not be used in foreign exchange transactions; however, settlements between residents of the CMA and the nonresident area may be made in rand to and from a local nonresident account and in any foreign currency (except the currencies of Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia). |
| For current transactions and payments | Yes. | There are no restrictions on current account transactions conducted within the ambit of the Exchange Control Regulations. Rand may be used freely for current transactions and payments inside of the CMA and up to the limit of R 1 million in terms of the SDA via the Vostro system for current account payments. |
| For capital transactions | Yes. | Where parties wish to transact outside of the ambit of ADs, prior approval is required. |
| Transactions in capital and money market instruments | Yes. | Certain types of transactions require FinSurv approval, such as outward direct investment if the total of the new investment exceeds R 1 billion a company a calendar year. |
| Transactions in derivatives and other instruments | Yes. | Approval is required where the instruments are issued by nonresident parties. |
| Credit operations | Yes. | Certain types of transactions will require FinSurv approval, for example, entities that are 75% or more nonresident owned who require to borrow funds from an AD for, for example, the purchase and sale of any securities, repurchase agreements, and any derivative transactions on securities and/or the acquisition of residential property in South Africa, where the funds that they wish to borrow exceed the 1:1 ratio. |
| Use of foreign exchange among residents | Yes. | South African residents may invoice each other locally in foreign currency; however, settlement must be in rand. |
| Payments arrangements | Yes. | |
| Bilateral payments arrangements | No. | |
| Operative | No. | |
| Inoperative | No. | |
| Regional arrangements | Yes. | South Africa is a member of the CMA. Payments within the CMA are unrestricted. |
| Clearing agreements | No. | |
| Barter agreements and open accounts | No. | |
| Administration of control | Yes. | The Treasury has delegated the administration of exchange controls to FinSurv with the authority to appoint ADs and ADLAs. FinSurv permits ADs to handle most foreign exchange transactions within the prescribed authorities and limits identified in the Currency and Exchanges Manual for ADs and the Currency and Exchanges Manual for ADLAs. The Manuals are available on the SARB website. |
| Payments arrears | No. | |
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes.

Residents may purchase, hold, and sell gold coins for numismatic purposes as well as minted gold bars in accordance with South African regulations, but only the monetary authorities, ADs, registered gold producers, and authorized parties may purchase, hold, or sell gold in any form other than jewelry. Gold producers may elect to sell their total output to approved buyers, with clearance from the South African Diamond and Precious Metals Regulator. The South African Mint strikes gold coins, such as the Krugerrand, Natura, and Protea, which are legal tender, without face value, and these are available in limited numbers to the local market.

On external trade Yes.

Exports of gold are subject to Exchange Control Regulations. Exchange Control Regulations pertaining to the repatriation of export proceeds remain applicable to gold exports. Export proceeds are required to be received not later than six months from the date of shipment. ADs may authorize South African exporters to grant credit up to a total of 12 months to foreign importers, provided the AD is satisfied that it is necessary. ADs are permitted by FinSurv to approve exports of jewelry up to an insurance value of R 200,000 constituting the personal effects of a traveler (with written declaration that it will be brought back on the traveler’s return or within six months). Exports of gold jewelry by manufacturing jewelers require a written declaration that the articles are in fully manufactured form and that the gold content of each does not exceed 85% of the selling price to the ultimate consignee. Export of gold jewelry by manufacturing jewelers should be referred to the Precious Metals Act of 2005 by South African Diamond and Precious Metals Regulator. With FinSurv approval, residents may export currency coins, including certain gold coins, for sale to numismatists.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes Yes.

Domestic currency Yes.

Visitors and residents may take with them up to R 25,000 a person, a trip, for incidental expenses. The amount is not considered part of the basic travel allowance, which is part of the SDA of R 1 million, an individual a calendar year. Residents who are under the age of 18 years may be accorded a travel allowance not exceeding an amount of R 200,000 a calendar year. This limit does not apply to migrant workers returning to neighboring countries, who are permitted to take with them reasonable amounts in banknotes representing their earnings in South Africa. There are no limits on the exportation of domestic currency to Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia. South African banknotes repatriated from Angola, Botswana, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Madagascar, Malawi, Mauritius, Mozambique, Seychelles, Tanzania, Zambia, and Zimbabwe may be remitted on submission of documentary evidence that they were not exported from South Africa in violation of the Exchange Control Regulations. The consignment of banknotes must be accompanied with confirmation by the repatriating bank that they were acquired from bona fide travelers from South Africa in amounts not exceeding R 25,000 a traveler.

Foreign currency Yes.

Residents and contract workers leaving South Africa for destinations outside the CMA may take out their allowance in foreign banknotes.
This allowance forms part of the SDA of R 1 million, an individual, a calendar year. Residents who are under the age of 18 years may be accorded a travel allowance not exceeding an amount of R 200,000 a calendar year. Foreign visitors leaving South Africa may take with them any amount of foreign banknotes brought into the country or obtained through the disposal of instruments of exchange brought into and converted in South Africa. CMA residents in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency at local international airports to cover unforeseen incidental costs while in transit abroad, subject to viewing an air ticket confirming a destination outside the CMA.

On imports

Domestic currency

Yes.

The maximum amount of rand banknotes that may be imported from countries outside the CMA is R 25,000 an individual. There are no limits on such imports from Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia. FinSurv approval is required to import notes in excess of the prescribed amounts.

Foreign currency

No.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes. Natural persons may hold up to the equivalent of R 11 million a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance in foreign currency deposits with ADs for foreign investment purposes, of which R 1 million a calendar year does not require a tax clearance certificate). The proceeds of other approved foreign assets may also be held in such accounts. Legal persons involved in international trade may maintain a single customer foreign currency (CFC) account for trade- and services-related payments, as well as for a wider variety of permissible transactions.

Approval required

Yes. Transfer of funds in excess of R 11 million (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) by resident individuals requires FinSurv approval.

Held abroad

Yes. Businesses and individuals may hold such accounts abroad for the proceeds of permissible transactions. Only South African companies that have legal/bona fide sources of income abroad are permitted to open foreign bank accounts. All foreign credits to such bank accounts are subject to the provisions of Exchange Control Regulation 6, except in respect of foreign-earned dividends. Funds that accrue in foreign bank accounts must be in respect of transactions permissible in terms of the Manuals or a specific authority granted by FinSurv. Applicants must give written undertakings to ADs that no debits other than transfers to South Africa, debits permissible in terms of a specific authority from FinSurv or bank charges, will be passed over the account.

Approval required

No. South African companies may, without FinSurv approval, open foreign bank accounts for the proceeds of permissible transactions. South African natural persons may keep their R 10 million foreign capital allowance, income earned abroad after July 1, 1997, and authorized foreign assets in a foreign bank account, without FinSurv approval.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No. Resident rand accounts may not be held abroad but residents may open a foreign currency account offshore.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

No. Resident rand accounts may not be converted to foreign currency.

South African residents traveling abroad for business or pleasure are allowed a travel allowance within the overall limit of the SDA equivalent to R 1 million a calendar year for each person 18 years and older and R 200,000 a calendar year for each person under 18, without any daily limit, regardless of the country of destination. Residents whose visits overseas extend from the current year into the following year may be accorded foreign currency in respect of the next year’s facilities without returning to South Africa. Businesses qualify for a global travel allowance of R 20 million a calendar year at the discretion of the company. Residents may be allowed a cash float in foreign currency, not exceeding the equivalent of R 100,000 at any one time, if they must make cash payments related to the transportation of goods on a regular basis to nonresidents. Residents embarking on coastal cruises in South African territorial waters and cruises without a destination have access to foreign currency within the R 1 million SDA, provided a valid passenger ticket in their name has been issued in the South Africa. Exchange allowances in excess of the above limits may be provided with FinSurv approval. CMA residents in South Africa may be accorded foreign currency at local international airports to cover unforeseen incidental costs while in transit abroad, subject to viewing an air ticket confirming a destination outside the CMA.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

| Yes. |

Exchange allowances in excess of the above limits may be provided with FinSurv approval.

Natural persons, who are 18 years and older, are permitted to avail of a SDA within an overall limit of R 1 million an individual a calendar year.
year, without the requirement to obtain a Tax Clearance Certificate, which may be used for any legal purpose (including for investment purposes abroad). This dispensation may be utilized solely at the discretion of the resident without any documentary evidence having to be produced to the AD, except for travel purposes outside the CMA where a passenger ticket needs to be produced. The resident individual must produce a valid green bar-coded South African Identity Document or Smart ID card for identification purposes and the identity number is mandatory when reporting the transaction. FinSurv approval is required for amounts in excess of the limit. An exemption from the Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Control Regulations, 2002, made under the Financial Intelligence Centre Act, 2001, allows residents and nonresidents to transfer or remit funds to a destination outside of South Africa up to an amount of, effective June 21, 2019, R 5,000 (previously R 3,000) a transaction, a day, within a limit of R 25,000 (previously R 10,000) an individual, a calendar month, without the need for ADs and ADLAs to obtain and verify income tax numbers and residential addresses as well as exemption from various record-keeping provisions. It remains a requirement that the accountable institution still obtains, verifies, and records the names, date of birth, identity, or passport numbers as well as the transaction details.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

Yes. Monthly pension payments to former residents are permitted, provided their emigration was placed on record with FinSurv. South African residents temporarily abroad may receive transfers from their retirement pensions or annuities, as well as monetary gifts and loans.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Approval is required for foreign entities to list collective investment securities on a South African exchange. The sale of such securities by nonresidents does not require approval. The funds raised by the issuer are freely transferable. The classification of collective investment securities issued or sold locally by nonresidents depends on the reference assets and may be classified as domestic or foreign.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) or from the proceeds of any authorized foreign asset.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Approval is not required for the sale of authorized foreign assets. For the issue of instruments abroad, FinSurv approval is required, depending on the type of instrument to be issued.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments

Yes. Currency and commodity derivatives as well as derivative instruments with a foreign underlying asset are included on the list of instruments that may be listed on a South African exchange. South African companies, trusts, partnerships, and individuals may participate without restriction in approved inward-listed instruments. Institutional investors and banks may participate in currency and commodity derivatives as well as derivative instruments with a foreign underlying asset up to the applicable foreign exposure limits. South African companies may obtain forward cover for up to 75% of budgeted import commitments or export accruals for the forthcoming financial year without reference to FinSurv. The dispensation for a South African exchange to list Zambian-referenced grain derivative contracts in US dollars to nonresidents and qualifying South African and CMA corporate entities expired effective January 19, 2019.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. Nonresidents may freely purchase derivative instruments, options, and futures on the local formal market.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Approval is required for foreign entities to issue derivative and other instruments on a South African exchange. These instruments are classified as foreign. Investments in these instruments by institutional investors and ADs affect their foreign exposure limits.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. Residents who wish to hedge directly with an offshore counterparty require FinSurv approval.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Approval is not required for the sale of authorized foreign assets. For the issue of instruments abroad, FinSurv approval is required, depending on the type of instrument to be issued.

Controls on credit operations

Yes.

Commercial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Export credits may be granted for up to six months. ADs may, under certain circumstances, allow a further extension of six months. Longer-term credit requires approval of FinSurv. With respect to services, payment must be received under the terms of the contract between the parties within a reasonable period after the service is rendered.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

Financial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Financial credits, such as loans, may not be extended without approval, except within the annual discretionary limit—that is, R 1 million a resident lender to nonresident individuals and South African residents temporarily abroad. Foreign investors may borrow domestically, without restriction, to finance FDI. Nonresidents who use the funds for financial transactions and/or to acquire residential property in South Africa must adhere to the 1:1 ratio that currently applies to these transactions. Loans to emigrants or for the acquisition of residential property by nonresidents or affected persons and other financial transactions, such as portfolio investments by nonresidents, securities lending, hedging, and repurchase agreements, are limited to 100% of assets brought into South Africa.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes.

Approval is required and is generally granted, subject to specific criteria. Companies may borrow abroad to finance approved offshore investments using their South African balance sheets as collateral. Unlisted technology, media, telecommunications, exploration, and other research and development companies may apply to FinSurv for approval to raise loans abroad and operating capital.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

Yes.

Guarantees and sureties for financial loans require FinSurv approval except for trade transactions. Performance bonds may be issued.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

Controls on direct investment

Yes.

Approval is not required for outward FDI, if the total of such new investment does not exceed R 1 billion a company a calendar year. Investment exceeding the limit is subject to approval. Firms’ requests are considered in light of national interest—for example, according to the benefit to South Africa’s international reserves as a result of exports of goods and services. South African companies may make bona fide new outward FDI outside their current line of business and may acquire, effective February 21, 2018, up to 40% (previously between 10% and 20%) equity and/or voting rights, whichever is the higher, in a foreign target entity that may hold investments and/or make loans to CMA countries. The requirement that South African companies investing outside the CMA must obtain at least 10% of the foreign target entity’s voting rights was abolished during the 2018 Budget Speech, effective February 21, 2018. Companies with headquarters in South Africa may also make outward FDI into companies, branches, and offices outside the CMA that are outside their current line of business if the total cost does not exceed R 1 billion a company in a calendar year. FinSurv approval is required for re-domiciliation, that is, moving its base of operations from South Africa. Additional amounts of up to 25% of the listed company’s market capitalization are considered on application to FinSurv, provided there are demonstrated benefits to South Africa. Unlisted entities may establish one HoldCo for African and foreign operations, which is not subject to exchange control restrictions. Unlisted technology, media, telecommunications, exploration, and other research and development companies may apply to FinSurv for approval for primary listing abroad or establishment of an offshore company to raise loans abroad and operating capital. Offshore companies mentioned above may in turn hold investments and/or make loans into South Africa and the intellectual property must remain registered in South Africa but may be assigned offshore subject to appropriate tax treatment. Companies listed on a South African exchange may have a secondary listing and/or list depository receipt programs on foreign exchanges to facilitate local and FDI expansion. Treasury outsourcing companies (TOCs) and foreign exchange brokers (FEBs) in the domestic foreign exchange market must obtain FinSurv approval to conduct foreign exchange business.
Such business must be conducted through an AD. The transfer of South African-owned intellectual property by way of sale, assignment or cession, and/or the waiver of rights in favor of related nonresident parties in whatever form, directly or indirectly, is not allowed without the prior approval of FinSurv. ADs may, however, approve the outright sale, transfer, and assignment of intellectual property by South African residents, excluding mandated state-owned companies as defined in Schedule 2 of the Public Finance Management Act, 1999 (Act No. 1 of 1999), to unrelated nonresident parties at an arm’s length and a fair and market related price, provided ADs view the sale, transfer, or assignment agreement and an auditor’s letter or intellectual property valuation certificate confirming the basis for calculating the sale price. The above-mentioned dispensation excludes sale and lease back agreements. ADs may approve the licensing of intellectual property by South African residents to nonresident parties at an arm’s length and a fair and market related price for the term of the agreement, provided ADs view the license agreement and an auditor’s letter confirming the basis for calculating the royalty or license fee.

The sale, transfer, assignment, and/or licensing of intellectual property is subject to appropriate tax treatment. Exemption from Regulation 10(1)(c) is, however, granted to institutions as defined in terms of the Intellectual Property Rights from Publicly Financed Research and Development Act, 2008 (Act No. 51 of 2008). Such institutions may transfer copyrighted material to an international publishing house when publishing an article in an international journal and/or transfer material in terms of a material transfer agreement provided the value of the transaction does not exceed R 50,000. ADs must refer transactions in excess of the stipulated amount to FinSurv. The maximum individuals may, without FinSurv approval, invest abroad or deposit in a foreign exchange account in South Africa for natural persons 18 years and older is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA without a tax clearance certificate and R 10 million foreign capital allowance). There are no restrictions on the type or use of investment funds. Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. The application must be accompanied by a tax clearance certificate from the SARS. South Africans’ income earned abroad and foreign capital brought into South Africa on or after July 1, 1997, may be retransferred abroad with supporting documentation that the income and/or capital was previously converted to rand. ADs may allow private equity funds to apply for annual approval from FinSurv to invest in Africa.

The International Headquarters (IHQ) Company rules eliminated the requirement for approval, adopted a reduction in shareholding to 10%, and streamlined reporting. IHQ shares and/or debt can be listed on a South African exchange and directly or indirectly held by a shareholder with shares or debt listed on a South African exchange. IHQ companies may raise and deploy capital abroad without Exchange Control approval, but must register with FinSurv for reporting purposes. The IHQ dispensation applies for nonresident companies. Listed entities on a South African exchange may establish one subsidiary in South Africa for African and offshore operations. This subsidiary is not subject to foreign exchange restrictions. This dispensation is extended to unlisted entities. Entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers from the parent company to the “HoldCo” up to, effective February 21, 2018, R 3 billion a calendar year (previously R 2 billion). Up to this amount, there is no restriction on transfers in and out of the

Yes. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance) from the proceeds of authorized foreign assets. Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. Such an application must be accompanied by a SARS tax clearance certificate.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. There are no controls on local purchases by nonresidents if they do not borrow domestically. Since October 27, 2009, foreign investors are allowed to borrow domestically, without restriction, to finance FDI. Affected persons and nonresidents who use the funds for financial transactions and/or to acquire residential property in South Africa are subject to a 1:1 ratio where funds introduced in South Africa by nonresidents, emigrants, and affected companies need to be utilized to pay for 50% of the value of the financial transaction or residential property and the remaining 50% may be raised locally. Local financial assistance to emigrants is also subject to the 1:1 ratio.

Sale locally by nonresidents

No. The individual limit for investments abroad without FinSurv approval is R 11 million an individual a calendar year (R 1 million SDA and R 10 million foreign capital allowance). Applications to transfer more than the current R 10 million foreign capital allowance an individual a calendar year may be submitted to FinSurv. Such an application must be accompanied by a SARS tax clearance certificate.

Loans

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents Yes. Residents may lend to nonresidents through ADs within their overall discretionary limit of R 1 million an individual a calendar year. South African corporates may advance shareholders loans to approved subsidiaries within the FDI limits.

To residents from nonresidents Yes. ADs may approve applications by residents to avail of inward foreign loans and foreign trade finance facilities from any nonresident, subject to certain criteria and the reporting of the loans to FinSurv. Any loan application that falls outside of the specific criteria or any amendments to approved loans must be submitted to FinSurv.

Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents Yes. ADs may allow the transfer of monetary gifts, including donations to missionaries, maintenance transfers, and travel allowances, within an overall discretionary limit of R 1 million a calendar year to a person 18 years and older. Cash bequests and the cash proceeds of legacies and distributions from resident estates may be remitted abroad subject to the Liquidation and Distribution Account bearing a Master of the High Court reference number. In cases where the total assets of the resident estate are less than R 250,000, cash bequests and the cash proceeds of legacies due to nonresident legatees, including emigrants, may be remitted abroad, provided the Last Will and Testament and Letter of Executorship/Authority have been viewed.

To residents from nonresidents Yes. Any foreign asset received by a resident from a nonresident as a gift or donation is not exempt from the provisions of Regulations 6 and 7 and must be declared and repatriated to South Africa. Alternatively, a fully motivated application to retain the assets abroad must be... submitted to FinSurv.

ADs may provide immigrants with foreign exchange to repay loans received in their previous country of domicile, provided documentary evidence of the debt is available and the immigrant is not in possession of foreign currency to repay the debt.

Transfer of assets

Yes.

Emigrants may transfer up to the equivalent of R 20 million a family or R 10 million an individual a calendar year, including assets previously transferred abroad, without FinSurv approval. Emigrants may also transfer abroad funds in excess of the aforementioned limits, on application to FinSurv. Emigrants’ remaining assets may be released without an exit levy. ADs may export household and personal effects, motor vehicles, caravans, trailers, motorcycles, stamps, coins, and minted bars (excluding coins that are legal tender in South Africa) for an emigrating family unit or single person, within an overall insured value of R 2 million or its equivalent. FinSurv approval is required for exports of the above items valued at more than R 2 million.

Transfer into the country by immigrants

No.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings

Yes.

South African residents may not participate in any gambling activities not authorized by the National Gambling Act of 2004. Residents may not participate in lotteries organized abroad, which is prohibited by Lotteries Act No. 57 of 1997.

Investment regulations

Yes.

A bank that invests money in immovable property or shares of a company—or lends or advances money to its subsidiaries whose principal objective is acquisition and holding or development of immovable property—must manage its transactions in such investments, loans, or advances in such a way that the sum of the amounts does not at any time exceed the bank’s qualifying common equity Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, additional Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, and Tier 2 capital and reserve funds related to risks other than market risk. A bank must manage its business so that the aggregate amount of (1) its investments in debentures or preference shares of its associates, excluding subsidiaries whose main objective is the acquisition and holding or development of immovable property, a bank, or mutual bank whose debentures or preference shares are not convertible to ordinary shares; plus (2) advances to any such associates; plus (3) guarantees and/or other instruments related to its associates’ liabilities or contingent liabilities; minus (4) excess qualifying common equity Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, additional Tier 1 capital and reserve funds, and Tier 2 capital and reserve funds envisaged above does not at any time exceed 10% of the bank’s aggregate deposits, current accounts, and amounts owed to other creditors. Banks and their associates may not, without the Prudential Authority’s written approval, jointly or individually acquire or hold shares in a registered long-term insurer or in a registered short-term insurer as to the extent to which the nominal value exceeds 49% of the nominal value of all the insurer’s issued shares. Bank controlling companies investing money (a) in enterprises other than banks, institutions that conduct business similar to the business of a bank in a country other than South Africa, controlling companies or companies whose main objective is holding or developing property used or intended to be used mainly for the business of a bank or (b) in fixed property not used or intended to be used mainly for the purpose of conducting the business of a bank, or providing loans and advances to (a) enterprises other than banks, institutions that conduct business similar to the business of a bank in a country other than South Africa, controlling companies or companies whose main objective is holding or developing property used or intended to be used mainly for the business of a bank or (b) in fixed property not used or not intended to be used mainly for the purpose of conducting the business of a bank, must manage transactions in such investments and loans and advances in such a way that the aggregate amount of such investments and loans and advances does not at any time exceed 40% of the aggregate amount of the share capital and reserve funds of the controlling company, calculated on a consolidated basis as prescribed. Branches of foreign institutions must ensure that the value of their unencumbered assets as defined never amounts to less than 60% of their total reported liabilities in South Africa. “Foreign member funds” are not subject to the macroprudential foreign exposure limit on the amount that may be invested abroad. These funds, however, must be domiciled, managed, and tax compliant in South Africa and are subject to registration with FinSurv as well as with the Financial Sector Conduct Authority, which replace the Financial Services Board, effective April 1, 2018. ADs may participate in foreign syndicated loans regardless of whether the borrower is a resident, provided they are within their macroprudential foreign exposure limit.

Abroad by banks

Yes. A bank may not, without written approval of the Prudential Authority and as determined by the Prudential Authority (1) establish or acquire a subsidiary within or outside South Africa or enter into an agreement leading to a company becoming its subsidiary within or outside South Africa; (2) invest in a joint venture within or outside South Africa if the investment, or the investment together with one or more previous investments by the bank in that joint venture, results in exposure to more than 5% of its capital and reserves. If a bank is exposed to the aforementioned extent, approval must be obtained whenever it seeks to make a further investment in that joint venture; (3) open or acquire a branch office outside South Africa; (4) acquire an interest in an enterprise whose registered office or principal place of business is outside South Africa; (5) establish or acquire outside of South Africa a trust of which the bank is a major beneficiary or establish or acquire a financial or other business enterprise under its direct or indirect control; (6) establish or acquire a representative office outside South Africa; or (7) establish or acquire a division within or outside South Africa under an arrangement or agreement with a person with the effect that such a person conducts does business through or by means of that division. In addition to the current macroprudential limit of 25%, ADs may invest 5% of their total liabilities, for expansion in Africa.

Changes during 2018 and 2019

Imports and Import Payments

Import taxes and/or tariffs

04/01/2018  The VAT levied on imports from Botswana, Eswatini, Lesotho, and Namibia was increased to 15% from 14%.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Personal payments

Quantitative limits

06/21/2019  The exemption from the Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Control Regulations, 2002, made under the Financial Intelligence Centre Act, 2001, which allows residents and nonresidents to transfer or remit funds to a destination outside of South Africa without the need for ADs and ADLAs to obtain and verify income tax numbers and residential addresses as well as exemption from various record-keeping provisions was increased to R 5,000 from R 3,000 a transaction, a day, within a limit that was also increased to R 25,000 from R 10,000 an individual, a calendar month.

Capital Transactions

Capital market securities

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Purchase abroad by residents

02/21/2018  The requirement that South African companies investing outside the CMA must obtain at least 10% of the foreign target entity’s voting rights was abolished during the 2018 Budget Speech.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments

01/19/2019  The dispensation for a South African exchange to list Zambian-referenced grain derivative contracts in US dollars to nonresidents and qualifying South African and CMA corporate entities expired.

Outward direct investment

02/21/2018  The requirement that South African companies investing outside the CMA must obtain at least 10% of the foreign target entity’s voting rights was abolished during the 2018 Budget Speech.

Inward direct investment

02/21/2018  South African companies may make bona fide new outward FDI outside their current line of business and may acquire up to 40% (previously between 10% and 20%) equity and/or voting rights, whichever is the higher, in a foreign target entity that may hold investments and/or make loans to CMA countries.

Entities listed on a South African exchange may authorize transfers... from the parent company to the “HoldCo” up to R 3 billion a calendar year (previously R 2 billion). Up to this amount, there is no restriction on transfers in and out of the HoldCo, provided such transfers are not undertaken to avoid tax.

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report on the 2016 Article IV Consultation with South Sudan states that, as of March 1, 2017, South Sudan maintained exchange restrictions and a MCP under the transitional arrangements of Article XIV. The exchange restrictions arise from: imposing absolute ceilings on the availability of foreign exchange for certain invisible transactions (travel, remittances for living expenses of students and families residing abroad, transfers of salaries by foreign workers). The MCP, which also gives rise to an exchange restriction because of extra burden, arises from the spread of more than 2% between the parallel market exchange rate and the formal commercial exchange market rate. (Country Report No. 17/73).

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The Bank of South Sudan (BSS) supplies foreign exchange to commercial banks in auctions, and an indicative market rate is determined from the auction rate and the rate charged by commercial banks. All government transactions are carried out using the indicative market rate. Since September 2017, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to crawl-like from other managed, effective September 6, 2017.

There is an “indicative rate” for foreign exchange purchases originating from a system of special accounts. These accounts are intended for all the foreign diplomatic missions, UN agencies, and offices of other organizations established by international and regional treaties, International Non-Governmental Organizations (INGOs), Oil & Mining companies, and the accounts of projects funded by international and regional partner bodies, which are subject to special rules as described in BSS Circular No. DCB/2/2017 of July 2, 2017 “Guidelines on the Management of Accounts, Designated by the Bank of South Sudan as Special Accounts.” For the special account holders, the indicative rate (from the day before) must be used, while for all other transactions, banks are free to set any rate. The 25% bought from special account holders at the indicative rate from the previous day will be reported as part of banks’ buying rate that day. Currently, a large share of banks’ purchases of foreign exchange comes from this 25%.

Exchange Arrangement

Classification
Crawl-like arrangement
01/01/2018

Since September 2017, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to crawl-like from other managed, effective September 6, 2017. The change is reflected as of January 1, 2018, corresponding to the first day of the period covered in this year’s Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions.
SPAIN

(Position as of December 31, 2018)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

Date of membership

September 15, 1958.

Article VIII

Yes. Date of acceptance: July 15, 1986.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices

No. No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2018.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons

Yes. Spain maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU regulations solely for the preservation of national and international security. These measures include the provision (directly or indirectly) of financing or financial assistance or the freeze of funds and economic resources of certain individuals, groups, companies, and entities in several countries. Besides, it also includes the freezing of funds and economic resources of certain persons and entities associated with Al-Qaida and the Taliban; and certain other persons, groups, and entities with a view to combating terrorism.

Other security restrictions

Yes. Spain maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU regulations solely for the preservation of national and international security. These measures include the freezing of funds and economic resources of certain individuals, groups, companies, and entities in several countries. Restrictive measures were amended on certain persons and entities associated with Al-Qaida and the Taliban and certain other persons, groups, and entities with a view to combating terrorism.

Floating

Free floating

Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Spain participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:30 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

In accordance with EC Regulation No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. The EU regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of EU regulation. Nonetheless, the regulation foresees that member countries may also decide to implement a declaration obligation related to movements of cash within the EU. According to Article 34 of Act 10/2010 on the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, a declaration must be made in any cross-border movement (both with EU and non-EU countries) of means of payment of €10,000 or more or its equivalent in foreign currency. This declaration is also mandatory for movements within the national territory of means of payment of €100,000 or more. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance, customs authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash is seized. Under Spanish legislation, there are administrative sanctions for those who fail to comply with the obligation to declare the movements of cash above specific thresholds indicated in Article 34 of Act 10/2010. Effective September 4, 2018, the penalty for non-compliance with the obligation to declare cash movements above €600 (minimum fine) to 50% of the value of the means of payment. Previously, the penalty ranged from €600 (minimum fine) to twice the value of the means of payment. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, the authorities of one member country may exchange information with the authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EU regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries.

On exports No.

Domestic currency No.

In accordance with Article 34 of Act 10/2010 of April 28, 2010, on the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving Spain with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving Spain and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the customs authorities.

Foreign currency No. In accordance with Article 34 of Act 10/2010 of April 28, 2010, on the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving Spain with a value of €10,000 or more. Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes.

There are no differences between operations allowed in these accounts and in domestic currency accounts.

Approval required

No.

Held abroad

Yes.

Collections and payments between residents and nonresidents through credits or debits to these accounts may be made freely. For statistical and administrative purposes, every resident in Spain, other than payment services providers entered in the official register of the BOS, engaged in transactions with nonresidents or maintaining assets or liabilities overseas, is required to report the following if the sum of transactions during the immediately preceding year or stocks of assets and liabilities as of December 31 of the previous year equal or exceed €50 million: (1) any transactions they perform with nonresidents; and (2) the balances of assets and liabilities, and any changes in those foreign positions. Furthermore, if the threshold of €50 million is exceeded during the current year, those residents would be required to perform the corresponding declaration of transactions and/or assets and liabilities in the current year. The frequency of reporting can be monthly, quarterly, or annually depending on the volume of transactions or the balances of assets and liabilities. Controls apply to assets at credit entities outside the EU, if these assets form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company.

Purchase abroad by residents: Yes. Controls apply to operations in instruments and claims on a foreign market if the assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company, except for derivatives instruments, such as options, futures, and swaps in connection with assets representing the technical provisions, to the extent that they help reduce the investment risk or permit effective management of the portfolio if (1) the instruments are traded on a regulated derivatives market or (2) the counterparties are financial establishments controlled by the EU authorities or are subject to the prudential control of supranational bodies to which Spain belongs and they deal habitually and professionally with such transactions and are sufficiently solvent. For statistical and administrative purposes, every resident in Spain, other than payment services providers entered in the official register of the BOS, engaged in transactions with nonresidents or maintaining assets or liabilities overseas, is required to report the operations and balances held on financial derivatives in organized and non-organized foreign markets, if the sum of transactions during the immediately preceding year or stocks of assets and liabilities as of December 31 of the previous year equal or exceed €50 million. Furthermore, if the threshold of €50 million is exceeded during the current year, those residents would be required to perform the corresponding declaration of transactions and/or assets and liabilities in the current year. The frequency of reporting can be monthly, quarterly, or annually depending on the volume of transactions or the balances of assets and liabilities.

EU investors—even authorized credit institutions in other EU countries—must give administrative notice. Non-EU institutions may be denied authorization if there is no reciprocity for corporate credit institutions in the investor’s country of origin.

Open foreign exchange position limits

There are no limits on banks’ open foreign exchange positions. Article 351 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 requires banks whose overall net foreign exchange position exceeds 2% of their own funds to calculate capital requirements for foreign exchange risk. The regulation is directly applicable in Spain.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Controls apply to (1) the purchase of securities that are not admitted for trading on a regulated market if the assets in question form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company, except for (a) securities issued or guaranteed by international organizations to which an EU member country belongs and (b) fixed-income securities, provided they have a real guarantee or unconditional and several surety from a credit or insurance entity authorized to operate through a branch in an EU member country, or when the shares of the issuing company are traded on a regulated market; and (2) holdings of collective investment companies established outside the EU if the assets in question are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Controls apply to (1) assets deposited with credit entities outside the EU if the assets in question form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company; (2) operations in instruments and claims on a foreign market in connection with assets representing the technical provisions, except (a) mortgage market assets and securities issued by companies in the EU and traded on a regulated OECD market; (b) bills of exchange and notes when issued, accepted, endorsed without a nonresponsibility clause, or secured by credit entities authorized to operate through a branch in the EU; these assets may also be secured by insurance provided by insurance entities authorized to operate through a branch in the EU; (c) shares of credit entities, brokerage companies and agencies, and insurance and reinsurance entities, to the extent that they are subject to authorization and supervision by an EU member control authority; and (d) derivatives instruments, such as options, futures, and swaps, in connection with assets representing the technical provisions, to the extent that they help reduce the investment risk or permit effective management of the portfolio if (1) the instruments are traded on a regulated derivatives market or (2) the counterparties are financial establishments controlled by the EU authorities or subject to the... prudential control of an EU member control authority and they deal habitually and professionally with such transactions and are sufficiently solvent; and (3) credits and loans by residents to nonresidents if the assets form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company, except (a) credits or quotas or parts thereof granted to companies domiciled in the EU whose shares are admitted for trading on a regulated OECD market; (b) credits secured by a credit entity or insurer authorized to operate through an establishment in an EU member country; (c) financing granted to public corporations of the EU, provided they offer sufficient guarantees of the quality either of the borrower or of the guarantees provided; (d) mortgage credits, provided these are first mortgages on real estate in the EU; (e) pledge credits, provided the object of the guarantee is suitable for the cover of technical provisions; (f) credits with reinsurers for their participation in the claims provision, to the extent that deposits were not received because of them; and (g) credits for interest income and dividends accrued on instruments that have not matured and on instruments that have matured and are pending collection but are not likely to be collected, provided in all cases they originate in suitable assets.

Crawl-like arrangement  Yes.  The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating since its introduction by the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (CBSL) on January 23, 2001. The external value of the Sri Lanka rupee remained relatively stable, in 2017, under a more market-based exchange rate policy implemented by the CB during the year, limiting CB intervention in the foreign exchange market only to build up international reserves. The CBSL purchased foreign exchange from the market in early 2018 as part of the reserves building strategy. However, global market conditions tightened since April 2018, triggering balance of payments pressures. In 2018, the CBSL intervened in the market and sold US$1.1 billion on a net basis. In 2019, the CBSL resumed foreign exchange purchases to rebuild reserves, having bought US$134 million in net terms by end-April. The rupee depreciated to Rs 182.75 as of end-2018 (around 16% versus end-2017). While the rupee appreciated by around 4% to Rs 175.5 as of end-April 2019, more observations are necessary to determine its new trend. Until then, the de facto exchange rate arrangement remains classified as a crawl-like arrangement. The CBSL intervention data in the foreign exchange market is published on a monthly basis with a two-week lag.

The CBSL currently operates within an enhanced monetary policy framework with features of both monetary targeting and flexible inflation targeting. Accordingly, while broad money serves as an indicative intermediate target, the average weighted call money rate (AWCMR) serves as the operating target of this framework. The CBSL plans to move to a flexible inflation targeting framework with an inflation target in the range 4%-6% by 2020.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts, irrespective of the residential status of the person eligible to open such foreign exchange accounts, for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017.

Personal Foreign Currency Accounts (PFCAs): Individuals including minors who are Sri Lankan nationals and non-nationals resident in Sri Lanka are eligible to open and maintain PFCAs in the form of current (without check drawing facility), savings, or term deposit accounts in any designated foreign currency. PFCAs maintained by individuals may be held as sole or joint accounts with another eligible person. Holders of PFCAs are allowed for the following debits: (1) to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka; (2) to withdraw in foreign currency notes up to US$10,000 or equivalent for travel purpose; (3) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (4) to transfer funds for any investment permitted to be made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency utilizing funds in PFCAs; (5) to transfer funds to other PFCAs or accounts maintained in the Offshore Banking Unit (OBU); (6) to withdraw foreign currency, where the account holder is a non-national resident outside Sri Lanka who is on temporary visit to Sri Lanka; (7) to transfer funds for uploading Foreign Travel Cards (FTCs); and (8) to transfer funds to an IIA of the same account holder who is a resident outside Sri Lanka. These accounts may be credited with inward remittances, unutilized foreign currency obtained by the account holder by debiting the PFCA for travel purpose, foreign currency brought into the country by the account holder on appropriate declaration, funds transferred from other PFCA, Business Foreign Currency Accounts (BFCAs), Diplomatic Foreign Currency Accounts (DFCAs), or accounts maintained in the OBU, where the account holder is a resident outside Sri Lanka or a non-national resident in Sri Lanka—funds transferred from IIA of the same account holder, unutilized balance remaining in the FTC up to the amount that FTC had been loaded from the PFCA, capital, capital gains, and other receipts arising from investments made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency, if the original transfer had been made by debiting the PFCA; transfers from employer’s Sri Lanka rupee account as monthly salary, employment and other related benefits and amounts in Sri Lanka rupees authorized by the CBSL for remittance abroad converted at the rate of exchange obtained on the day of credit and interest payments on the accounts.

PFCA holders who are Sri Lankans employed abroad (other than emigrants) are also permitted to obtain loans and advances denominated in foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees from ADs for any purpose to be utilized in Sri Lanka.

BFCAs: BFCAs may be opened and maintained as current (without check drawing facility), savings, or term deposit accounts in designated foreign currency with ADs by the following persons resident in Sri Lanka who earns foreign exchange: (1) individuals resident in Sri Lanka; (2) sole proprietorships or partnerships registered in Sri Lanka where the proprietor or a majority of partners are resident in Sri Lanka; (3) companies incorporated in Sri Lanka; (4) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka which are registered as overseas companies under the Companies Act No. 7 of 2007; (5) state institutions with the recommendation of the secretary to the relevant ministry or appropriate authority; (6) persons authorized to carry on business as a shipping agent or a general sales agent in Sri Lanka on behalf of a foreign shipping line or airline (foreign principal) with a valid license or authorization letter issued by the Director General of Merchant Shipping and Director General of Civil Aviation Authority of Sri Lanka. However, a non-governmental organization is not permitted to open and maintain BFCAs. Further, under no circumstances Sri Lanka rupees may be converted to foreign currency and be credited into a BFCA.

Holders of BFCAs are permitted for the following debits: (1) to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka; (2) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (3) to withdraw in foreign currency notes up to US$10,000 (or equivalent in any other foreign currency) for travel purpose and up to US$ 50,000 by gem and jewelry dealers and shipping agents for such specific purposes; (4) to transfer funds for uploading FTCs; (5) to transfer funds in respect of any investment permitted to be made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency utilizing funds in the BFCA; (6) transfer of funds to an Outward Investment Account (OIA) of the same account holder; (7) transfer of funds to an IIA of a resident outside Sri Lanka for the purpose of repayment of a foreign currency loan obtained from such foreign lender by the account holder; (8) transfer funds to other BFCAs, PFCA, and accounts in the OBUs; (9) transfer funds for any investment permitted to be made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency.
utilizing funds in BFCAs; and (10) make payments of claims to eligible customers and co-insurers in respect of foreign-currency-denominated policies, premia to local or overseas re-insurers and National Insurance Trust Fund and brokerage by insurance companies registered with the Insurance Board of Sri Lanka.

Holders of BFCAs are permitted for the following credits: (1) inward remittances in respect of export of goods and services, entrepot trade, overseas projects undertaken by the account holder, investments made outside Sri Lanka, and goods supplied locally to a person resident outside Sri Lanka; (2) foreign currency in the form of traveler’s checks, bank drafts, or currency notes accepted by the account holder in Sri Lanka in respect of goods and services supplied by such person to a person resident outside Sri Lanka; (3) foreign currency brought into Sri Lanka by the account holder on appropriate declaration; (4) proceeds of foreign currency loans and advances obtained by the account holder from the Domestic Banking Unit (DBU) or OBU of an AD; (5) proceeds or any part thereof from sale of any foreign asset of the account holder, where the asset had been acquired by debiting the BFCA; (6) funds transferred from other BFCAs or accounts maintained in the OBU; (7) capital, capital gains, and other receipts arising from investments made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency, if the original transfer had been made by debiting the BFCA; (8) unutilized balance remaining in the FTC of the same account holder, up to the amount such FTC had been loaded from the BFCA; and (9) insurance premia received by the account holder on foreign-currency-denominated policies issued to eligible customers and co-insurers and claims received from re-insurers and National Insurance Trust Fund by insurance companies registered with the Insurance Board of Sri Lanka.

Further, persons’ residents in Sri Lanka who earn foreign exchange and maintain BFCAs are also permitted to obtain loans in foreign currency, to be utilized for any purpose in Sri Lanka, as may be decided by the ADs as part of their business decisions in the course of normal banking business.

OIAs: OIAs may be opened and maintained with an LCB for making payments in respect of permitted capital transactions outside Sri Lanka by persons resident in Sri Lanka (that is, shares and debt

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.

The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts, irrespective of the residential status of the person eligible to open such foreign exchange accounts, for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017.

PFCAs: Individuals of Sri Lankan origin including minors who are resident outside Sri Lanka or non-nationals either on temporary visit to Sri Lanka or intending to visit Sri Lanka may open and maintain PFCAs in the form of current (without check drawing facility), savings, or term deposit accounts in any designated foreign currency. PFCAs maintained by individuals may be held as sole or joint accounts with another eligible person. These accounts may be credited with inward remittances, unutilized foreign currency obtained by the account holder by debiting the PFCA for travel purpose, foreign currency brought into the country by the account holder on appropriate declaration, funds transferred from other PFCAs, BFCAs, DFCAs, or accounts maintained in the OBU, where the account holder is a resident outside Sri Lanka or a non-national resident in Sri Lanka—funds transferred from IIA of the same account holder, unutilized balance remaining in the FTC up to the... amount that FTC had been loaded from the PFCA, capital, capital gains, and other receipts arising from investments made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency, if the original transfer had been made by debiting the PFCA; transfers from employer’s Sri Lanka rupee account as monthly salary, employment and other related benefits and amounts in Sri Lanka rupees authorized by the CBSL for remittance abroad converted at the rate of exchange obtained on the day of credit and interest payments on the accounts.

Holders of PFCAs are allowed for the following debits: (1) to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka; (2) to withdraw in foreign currency notes up to US$10,000 or equivalent for travel purpose; (3) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (4) to transfer funds for uploading FTC; (5) to transfer of funds for any investment permitted to be made in Sri Lanka in foreign currency utilizing funds in PFCAs; (6) to transfer funds to other PFCAs or accounts maintained in the OBU; (7) to withdraw foreign currency, where the account holder is a non-national resident outside Sri Lanka who is on temporary visit to Sri Lanka; and (8) to transfer funds to an IIIA of the same account holder who is a resident outside Sri Lanka.

IIAs: Accounts for nonresident Sri Lankan capital investments are titled as IIAs which can be held either in Sri Lanka rupees or in any designated foreign currency in the DBUs of LCBs. IIAs maintained by individuals may be held as sole or joint accounts with another eligible person. The following persons are eligible to open IIAs: (1) non-national residents in or outside Sri Lanka; (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka; (3) Sri Lankan citizens, resident outside Sri Lanka; (4) companies incorporated outside Sri Lanka; and (5) country and regional funds, mutual funds, unit trusts, and other institutional investors who are established outside Sri Lanka. IIAs may be used for the following types of permitted investments in Sri Lanka: (1) shares in companies (listed and unlisted); (2) units in unit trusts; (3) government securities (treasury bonds and bills); (4) securities issued by the CBSL or any other statutory body; (5) Sri Lanka Development Bonds; (6) deposits in licensed financial institutions; (7) loans and debt securities; and (8) immovable property.

DFCAs: DFCAs are permitted for foreign diplomatic missions, diplomatic personnel and their family members in Sri Lanka who have been exempted from the requirement of obtaining resident visa issued by the Department of Immigration and Emigration. DFCAs may be opened in designated foreign currency. Holders of DFCAs are permitted to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka and to withdraw in foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees for local expenses of the account holder.

The types of accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017.

Capital Transactions Rupee Accounts (CTRAs): ADs may open CTRAs for (1) Sri Lankan individuals, permanently residing outside Sri Lanka, (2) non-nationals of Sri Lankan origin, who are residents outside Sri Lanka, (3) Sri Lankan dual citizens, (4) non-nationals resident outside Sri Lanka, (5) Sri Lankan nationals residing outside Sri Lanka, and (6) foreign firms and companies registered outside Sri Lanka. CTRAs may be opened and maintained as current (without check drawing facility), savings, or term deposit accounts in Sri Lanka rupees in the DBU of LCBs and may be held jointly with another eligible person. Interest may be paid on the funds held in these accounts.
Diplomatic Rupee Accounts (DRAs): DRAs can be opened by foreign diplomatic missions and diplomatic personnel and their family members in Sri Lanka who have been exempted from the requirement of obtaining resident visa issued by the Department of Immigration and Emigration in Sri Lanka rupees. Holders of DRAs are permitted (1) to make outward remittances of visa fees, refunds, reimbursements, and sale proceeds of motor vehicles owned by the account holder; (2) to transfer funds to IIA of the same account holder; (3) for disbursements in Sri Lanka in Sri Lanka rupees; (4) to transfer funds to other DFCAs and DRAs and; (5) to make any other transaction approved by the relevant ministry.

Resident Guest Rupee Current Accounts: Resident Guest Rupee Current Accounts may be opened for prospective investors and professionals who come to Sri Lanka under the “Resident Guest Scheme” implemented by the Department of Immigration and Emigration. Investors are required to remit or bring a sum of US$35,000 or its equivalent in other foreign currency a person for the upkeep in Sri Lanka of such investor and dependents. Professional are required to remit or bring into Sri Lanka a sum of US$2,000 a month and a further sum of US$1,000 a month for each dependent.

Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts: Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts may be opened in the form of savings or current accounts with a minimum deposit of US$1,500 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency brought into the country on appropriate declaration, and converted to Sri Lanka rupees. Inward remittances or foreign currency brought into the country by the account holder on declaration for upkeep (US$1,500 a month) and for the upkeep of dependents (US$750 a dependent a month) must be deposited to Senior Foreign Nationals’ Rupee Accounts.

Convertible into foreign currency: Yes. These accounts are convertible, but approval is required.

Approval required: Yes. Approval is granted in accordance with the FEA.

Blocked accounts: No. Emigrants, defined as (1) an individual Sri Lankan, permanently residing outside Sri Lanka, (2) a Sri Lankan dual citizen, or (3) a foreign national of Sri Lankan origin may transfer their eligible migration allowance through a CTRA as follows: (1) an initial migration allowance of US$200,000 an individual aged 18 years and above; (2) an annual migration allowance of US$30,000 where first such annual allowance is transferable after lapse of 12 months from the full utilization of the initial allowance of US$200,000; and (3) an annual allowance of US$30,000 in respect of foreign nationals as proceeds from sale of inherited property and assets in Sri Lanka.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget: No.

Financing requirements for imports: Yes.

Minimum financing requirements: No. ADs may remit foreign exchange abroad or credit nonresident accounts against applications for the opening of an LC on Documents against Payment (DP) or Documents against Acceptance (DA) terms, Advance payments, Open account, or Consignment account based on the submission of proof of a valid import license, where applicable. These payment term requirements do not apply if the value of a consignment does not exceed the equivalent of US$5,000 (c.i.f.) for the use of the particular importer (for personal use and not for commercial purpose). ADs may make outward remittances with respect to payment on interest for supplier credit facilities offered to an importer by the supplier of such goods.

The limit on advance payments for imports is US$50,000 if such payments are made from a Sri Lanka rupee account. However, such limit does not apply to payments made from foreign currency accounts. Effective October 10, 2018, a restriction to release foreign exchange for making payments for imports of non-essential consumer goods under advance payment (Cash-in-Advance) terms was introduced. It was eliminated effective March 26, 2019.

Effective March 7, 2019, the 100% cash margin required to open LCs for imports of some vehicles and certain non-essential consumer goods was eliminated. Previously, these cash margin requirements were imposed as follows:
(1) for importation of some motor vehicles, 100% cash margin requirement against LCs, effective September 19, 2018; subsequently modified, effective October 1, 2018, to 200% and effective November 26, 2018, to 100% for opening LCs through foreign currency;
(2) for importation of some non-essential consumer goods, 100% cash margin requirement against LCs, effective October 1, 2018. Effective March 13, 2019, the 100% cash margin required for imports on DA terms of some non-essential consumer goods was eliminated. Previously, this cash margin requirement was introduced effective October 11, 2018.

Imports may be on DP or DA terms or under LCs with original commercial invoices and transport or delivery documents.

Inspection is required for certain consumer goods. LCs are required for importation of vehicles. No cash margin or other nontariff measures are required for importation of vehicles. About 1,100 HS line items are subject to import controls because of concerns on public health, public morals, environmental protection, preservation of antiques, or national security. Broadly, these items are categorized as drugs; used vehicles and vehicle parts; chemicals, animal products, alcohol, petroleum, and petroleum products; telecommunication equipment and miscellaneous items; and selected food items. Paddy is also subject to licensing to protect domestic producers from low prices. International quality certificate is required to import petroleum products, an analytical report from manufacturer to import pharmaceutical products. Standards were set to importation of taps, cocks, and valves categorized under HS code 84.81. The number of commodity categories subject to Sri Lanka standards (SLS) certification was reduced to 122 from 124, effective March 29, 2018. Lower vehicular exhaust emission limits in compliance with the EURO IV standards, and new safety measures and standards were introduced for selected motor vehicles effective July 13, 2018.

These are items that are not on the negative import list.
Negative list

Yes. About 63 HS lines including some fish, pharmaceutical waste, glyphosate and chemicals such as polychlorinated biphenyls, ethylene dichloride, chloropentafluoroethane, etc., may not be imported, under Import and Export Control Act No. 1 of 1969. Glyphosate was removed from the negative list effective June 18, 2018, and was added to the list of products requiring an import license.

Open general licenses

No.

Licenses with quotas

Yes. Importation of hydrochlorofluorocarbon was limited by imposing quotas; import licenses are issued by the Import and Export Control Department to quota holders to import hydrochlorofluorocarbon.

Other nontariff measures

No.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

Yes. There is a three-band tariff structure (0%, 15%, and 30%). Preferential tariffs apply to imports under bilateral and regional trade agreements. In addition to customs duties, some imports are subject to domestic taxes such as export taxes (cess), the port and airport development levy, and excise duty (on alcohol, tobacco products, vehicles, etc.). As a composite levy, a special commodity levy is imposed on selected food items. In line with the government policy on trade liberalization, cess on 253 items and Ports and Airports Development Levy of about 1,200 items were removed November 28, 2017, as proposed in the Budget 2018. Further, cess on 25 items was removed effective March 6, 2019, as announced in the Budget 2019. Under the economic relief package granted to the tourism industry affected by the Easter Sunday attacks, the importation of handheld metal detectors, walk-through metal detectors, baggage x-ray inspection equipment, and vehicle scanners is exempted from the Ports and Airports Development Levy of 7.5% effective May 7, 2019.

Taxes collected through the exchange system

No.

State import monopoly

No.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

Yes. Special arrangements apply to exports carried out under trade and payments agreements and to exports to ACU member countries. Every exporter of goods must repatriate to Sri Lanka payments received for the exportation of goods within 120 days from the date of exportation. A grace period of 30 days may be granted by the CBSL after the completion of 120 days prior to instituting any action against non-compliance. Every exporter of goods must submit related documentary evidence on each exportation to the respective AD that receives the payment. These export proceeds must be credited to any Sri Lanka rupee account or to a BFCA.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers: Yes.
Remittances of premiums for general insurance and reinsurance may be effected through ADs without approval, subject to documentary requirements and other regulations of the country. The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017.

An Electronic Fund Transfer Card (EFTC) issued to a person in Sri Lanka may be used for making any payment to a person resident outside Sri Lanka for a current (international) transaction of personal nature other than for the use of payment for import of goods to Sri Lanka for commercial purposes. Any payment to a person resident outside Sri Lanka for any purpose is freely permitted where an EFTC is issued against a BFCA or a PFCA. Any payment to a person resident outside Sri Lanka for any purpose is permitted, where a debit card is issued against a DFCA or an IIA.

ADs may make outward remittances with respect to payment of interest for importer supplier credits. Holders of PFCAs, BFCAs, and DFCAs are permitted to make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka through the funds available in such foreign currency accounts.

Prior approval: No.
Quantitative limits: No.
Indicative limits/bona fide test: Yes.
Reasonable commissions are permitted for merchandise exports or business transactions secured through agents abroad, provided export proceeds or inward remittances have been repatriated to Sri Lanka.
The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017. Holders of PFCAs and BFCAs may make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka. Outward remittances in respect of permitted capital transactions undertaken outside Sri Lanka by eligible resident investors in Sri Lanka, in respect of payments where conversion of Sri Lanka rupees is involved, must be made through an OIA maintained at one LCB.

Payment for travel
Yes. Sri Lankans traveling abroad may purchase foreign currency notes as part of the travel allowance up to US$10,000 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency. LCBs may issue FTCs to persons’ residents in Sri Lanka who obtain travel allowance when leaving Sri Lanka.

Personal payments
Yes. The types of foreign exchange accounts are amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017. ADs may facilitate transactions of students to open foreign bank accounts for study abroad and remit funds in advance to meet living expenses of students residing in Sri Lanka who apply for student visa (student’s visa approved in principal). Such payments may also be remitted through a PFCA or BFCA. PFCA and BFCA account holders may make any outward remittances outside Sri Lanka.

Foreign workers’ wages
Yes. The types of foreign exchange accounts were amalgamated and categorized based on the purpose of maintaining such accounts for simplification under the new FEA No. 12 of 2017. Capital Transactions Controls on capital transactions Yes.

Repatriation requirements Yes. Residents may invest in shares of companies incorporated abroad, units in unit trusts, debt securities, and sovereign bonds issued by foreign governments and governmental organizations. Such investments must be made through an OIA. Any income from such investments and disposal proceeds must be brought into Sri Lanka through the same OIA through which the initial investment was made within three months from the date of payment of realization of such investment. Funds available in PFCAs and BFCAs may also be utilized for investments in and outside Sri Lanka.

Surrender requirements No.

Surrender to the central bank No.

Surrender to authorized dealers No.

Controls on capital and money market instruments Yes. Except for permitted capital investments in Sri Lanka by nonresidents, investments in all capital market securities and money market instruments are controlled.
On capital market securities  Yes.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Nonresidents may invest up to 100% of the equity capital (ordinary shares and preference shares) of listed and unlisted companies without approval, subject to certain exclusions, limitations, and conditions of the general permission granted by regulations issued under the FEA.

Funds must be channeled through an IIA.

Excluded areas of investment for nonresidents include pawn broking, retail trade where a capital contributed by persons resident outside Sri Lanka is less than US$5 million or its equivalent, and coastal fishing.

Sectors in which foreign investment is limited to a 40% of the stated capital of the business include: (1) production of goods where Sri Lanka’s exports subject to internationally determined quota restrictions; (2) growing and primary processing of tea, rubber, coconut, cocoa, rice, sugar, and spices; (3) mining and primary processing of non-renewable national resources; (4) timber-based industries using local timber; (5) deep-sea fishing; (6) mass communications; (7) education; (8) freight forwarding; (9) travel agencies; and (10) shipping agencies.

Investment is permitted only up to the limit approved by the government or any legal or administrative authority in the businesses of (1) air transportation; (2) coastal shipping; (3) industrial undertaking in the Second Schedule of the Industrial Promotion Act No. 46 of 1990, as follows: (a) manufacture of arms, ammunitions, explosives, military vehicles and equipment, aircraft, and other military hardware; (b) manufacture of poisons, narcotics, alcohol, dangerous drugs, and toxic, hazardous, or carcinogenic materials; and (c) production of currency, coins, or security documents; (4) large-scale mechanized mining of gems; and (5) lotteries.

Pursuant to Direction No. 2 of December 21, 2018, effective December 21, 2018, foreign institutional investors are also permitted to route their investments to Sri Lanka via an account maintained in Sri Lanka by a Nonresident Intermediary (NRI). In the event an NRI is a bank that is incorporated outside Sri Lanka or branch of such bank, such account must be a Vostro account or an IIA, and in the event of any other NRI such account must be an IIA. Sale or maturity proceeds and returns received on the investments made with the funds received may be repatriated via the Vostro account or an IIA following the same way that the investment was routed.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Issuance of securities locally by nonresidents is not permitted.

Nonresident investments made through an IIA may be sold in Sri Lanka under the general permission.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.

Residents may buy shares issued by foreign companies as follows: listed companies—up to US$2 million a calendar year; unlisted companies—up to US$500,000 a calendar year; partnerships—up to US$300,000 for lifetime; and individuals—up to US$200,000 for lifetime. The funds must be channeled through an OIA.

Any investment exceeding these limits requires a special approval of the Monetary Board in terms of Section 7 of the FEA on applications submitted to the Director—DFE of the CBSL.

Funds available in PFCAs and BFCAs may also be utilized for investment in capital market securities issued outside Sri Lanka.

Investments made through PFCAs/BFCAs are not subject to any investment ceiling imposed under the FEA, but are limited up to the foreign currency balances available in such accounts.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.

Approval is not required for sales of shares. However, all income from investments outside Sri Lanka and disposal proceeds (including any subsequent shares devolving on such investor by virtue of a corporate action by the issuer, exercise of a right, entitlement, or conversion) must be brought into Sri Lanka through the same OIA through which the initial investment was made within three months from the date of payment of realization of such investment. Permission has not been granted to issue shares abroad.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Nonresident Sri Lankans which include foreign country funds, regional funds, mutual funds, entities incorporated outside Sri Lanka, and citizens of foreign countries may invest in any permitted real or financial assets through IIAs. The rupee-denominated government treasury bill and bond market is open to foreign investors. Effective January 27, 2019, such foreign investors may hold 5% (previously 10%) of the total value of treasury bills and bonds outstanding at any given time. Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka may issue debentures. There is no ceiling on interest rates on foreign investments in debenture. The minimum term of a debenture issued by a company incorporated in Sri Lanka to foreign investors is one year. Issuance and transfer of convertible, nonconvertible, redeemable, and nonredeemable debentures in rupees of listed or non-listed companies on the Colombo Stock Exchange are permitted for foreign institutional investors, companies incorporated abroad, individuals resident outside Sri Lanka, and Sri Lankans resident abroad, up to 100% of the total. IIAs must be used for the related transactions.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Issuance is not permitted. Nonresident investments made through an IIA may be sold in Sri Lanka under the general permission.

Purchase abroad by residents

Residents may invest in sovereign bonds issued by foreign governments and governmental institutions as follows: listed companies—up to US$2 million a calendar year; unlisted companies—up to US$500,000 a calendar year; partnerships—up to US$300,000 for lifetime; and individuals—up to US$200,000 for lifetime. The funds must be channeled through an OIA. Funds available in PFCAs and BFCAs may also be utilized for investment in bonds or other debt securities, including corporate bonds, issued outside Sri Lanka. However, investments made through these foreign currency accounts are not subject to any investment ceiling imposed under the FEA and are limited up to the foreign currency balances available in such accounts.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Approval is not required for sale of bonds. However, any sale proceeds from such investments must be brought into Sri Lanka through the same OIA through which the initial investment was made within three months from the date of payment of realization of such investment. Resident companies are not permitted to issue bonds abroad.

On money market instruments

Companies incorporated in Sri Lanka are treated as residents for the purposes of the FEA. Resident companies, including nonresident-controlled companies incorporated in Sri Lanka, may obtain rupee borrowings without any special approval under the FEA. Offshore bank branches may lend in foreign currency to nonresidents and resident companies approved by the Board of Investment of Sri Lanka.

ADs may grant loans and advances denominated in foreign currency or in Sri Lanka rupees to Sri Lankans employed abroad for any purpose in Sri Lanka against repayment in foreign currency through inward remittances or balances in the PFCA of the borrower. ADs may grant loans in Sri Lanka rupees or in foreign currency to Sri Lankans who have obtained PR visa in another country and dual citizens (irrespective of the residential status) for the purpose of acquisition, construction, development, or renovation of a residential property in Sri Lanka. Any person who has not been in Sri Lanka for a period of 183 days or more in aggregate during the preceding 12 months is considered a nonresident for the purposes of the FEA (Order issued under Section 31 of the FEA, Gazette No. 2045/56 of November 17, 2017).

Any person resident outside Sri Lanka, including country funds, regional funds, investment funds, and mutual funds established outside Sri Lanka, may invest in debt securities or grant loans with a tenure of three or more years in designated foreign currencies or in Sri Lanka rupees to companies incorporated in Sri Lanka (other than LCBs, LSBs, Licensed Finance Companies (LFCs), Specialized Leasing Companies (SLCs) and Companies Limited by Guarantee and overseas companies) in foreign exchange or in Sri Lanka rupees. They may also grant loans to or invest in debt securities issued in designated foreign currencies or Sri Lanka rupees by LCB, LSB, LFC, and SLC subject to the approval of the relevant regulatory authorities.

ADs may issue and renew financial guarantees (bank guarantees, bonds, or standby LCs) in terms of the general permission granted under the FEA in respect of current transactions and capital transactions by persons resident in Sri Lanka in favor of the persons resident outside Sri Lanka as follows: (1) guarantees as collateral to secure payments of members’ obligations on membership and reimbursement of visa expenses on behalf of card centers of LCB or LSB; (2) bid bonds, performance bond, or advance payment guarantees in respect of overseas contracts undertaken by the person resident in Sri Lanka; (3) with a counter guarantee on identical terms from the principal obligor who is a resident outside Sri Lanka issued by a reputed International Bank outside Sri Lanka with a rating acceptable to the AD, a guarantee on behalf of a principal obligor who is a resident outside Sri Lanka issued by a reputed International Bank outside Sri Lanka with a rating acceptable to the AD, a guarantee on behalf of a principal obligor who is a resident outside Sri Lanka in favor of a person resident in Sri Lanka in respect of a contract in Sri Lanka; (4) a guarantee to be given by an agent in Sri Lanka on behalf of a person resident outside Sri Lanka in favor of a person resident in Sri Lanka in respect of a contract in Sri Lanka; (5) a guarantee subject to a maximum of US$1 million where the investor company incorporated in Sri Lanka (being shareholder) requires to enable investee company incorporated outside Sri Lanka to raise facilities from overseas financial institutions; (6) a guarantee subject to a maximum of US$500,000 where the investor company incorporated in Sri Lanka (being parent) requires to enable a branch company established outside Sri Lanka to raise facilities from overseas financial institutions; (7) a guarantee by a sub-contractor in Sri Lanka in favor of the contractor who is a person resident outside Sri Lanka in respect of a project in Sri Lanka;
(8) a guarantee subject to a maximum of US$2 million where a company incorporated in Sri Lanka acts as an agent of a company incorporated outside Sri Lanka (the principal) as per the agency agreement between the parties.

To residents from nonresidents
Yes. Counter guarantees in the form of security may be issued.
Counter guarantees are issued on the same terms as for the categories of guarantees from residents to nonresidents.

Controls on direct investment
Yes.

Outward direct investment
Yes. Investment in shares issued by overseas companies is permitted subject to the following limits: listed companies—up to US$2 million a calendar year; unlisted companies—up to US$500,000 a calendar year; partnerships—up to US$300,000 for lifetime; and individuals—up to US$200,000 for lifetime.
Funds must be channeled through an OIA. Any investment exceeding these limits requires a special approval of the Monetary Board in terms of Section 7 of the FEA on applications submitted to the Director—DFE of the CBSL.
Local companies and partnerships (other than individuals) may make payments to nonresidents for the purpose of setting up and maintaining overseas offices such as a branch, liaison, marketing, agency, project, representative, or other similar office in a foreign country up to US$300,000 a calendar year.
Funds available in PFCAs and BFCAs may also be utilized for investment in any security issued outside Sri Lanka.

Inward direct investment
Yes. Foreign investment is permitted based on the type of business.
Funds for investments must be routed through an IIA opened in the name of nonresident investor.
Excluded areas of investment for nonresidents include pawn broking, retail trade where a capital contributed by persons resident outside Sri Lanka is less than US$5 million or its equivalent, and coastal fishing.
Sectors in which foreign investment is limited to a 40% of the stated capital of the business include: (1) production of goods where Sri Lanka’s exports subject to internationally determined quota restrictions; (2) growing and primary processing of tea, rubber, coconut, cocoa, rice, sugar, and spices; (3) mining and primary processing of non-renewable national resources; (4) timber-based industries using local timber; (5) deep-sea fishing; (6) mass communications; (7) education; (8) freight forwarding; (9) travel agencies; and (10) shipping agencies.
Investment is permitted only up to the limit approved by the government or any legal or administrative authority in the businesses of (1) air transportation; (2) coastal shipping; (3) industrial undertaking in the Second Schedule of the Industrial Promotion Act
No. 46 of 1990 as follows: (a) manufacture of arms, ammunitions, explosives, military vehicles and equipment, aircraft, and other military hardware; (b) manufacture of poisons, narcotics, alcohol, dangerous drugs, and toxic, hazardous, or carcinogenic materials;
and (c) production of currency, coins, or security documents; (4) large-scale mechanized mining of gems; and (5) lotteries.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment
Yes. All income, proceeds on disposal, liquidation, maturity of investments, along with any associated capital appreciation, must be remitted by a nonresident investor in full, through an IIA. Any device from the IIA mechanism requires special approval.

As of December 31, 2018, nine Money Services Businesses were licensed by the Financial Services Regulatory Commission. The Act provides for Class A to Class E licenses. Three licensees hold a Class A license which permits (1) transmission of money or monetary value in any form; (2) check cashing; (3) currency exchange; and (4) issuance, sale, or redemption of money orders or traveler’s checks. Six licensees hold a Class E license which permits payday advances. The Class B license permits (1) check cashing; (2) currency exchange; and (3) issuance, sale, or redemption of money orders or traveler’s checks; the Class C license permits check cashing; and the Class D license permits currency exchange. No licenses have been issued for Classes B, C, and D.

The ECCB sets an indicative rate for commercial banks. This rate has been EC$2.6882–EC$2.7169 per US dollar for a long time. Commercial banks may set commissions freely in transactions with their clients (for non-US currency). Commercial banks generally purchase US currency at EC$2.6882 and sell at EC$2.7169.

Banks are allowed to purchase or sell foreign currency from each other as well as to and from the ECCB. The commercial banks are not required to report their daily foreign exchange activity to the ECCB. Commercial banks are viewed as the exchange bureaus. There are also foreign exchange transfer institutions such as MoneyGram and Western Union. Neither foreign exchange bureaus nor foreign exchange transfer institutions are licensed by the ECCB, and they do not do business with the ECCB.

The ECCB trades US currency with Bank of America.

The ECCB is committed to buying and selling US dollars at a fixed exchange rate of EC$2.7 per US dollar. Actual rates may differ slightly so that the ECCB can cover its administrative expenses. There is no bid-ask spread.

There is no formal interbank foreign exchange market. However, banks may trade with each other.

Settlements must be made in either Eastern Caribbean dollars or US dollars.

There are no limits on the use of foreign currency among residents.

St. Lucia is a member of CARICOM and the OECS.

The MOF is responsible for policy decisions related to exchange control, and its banking section is responsible for administration of control. Commercial banks have been delegated the authority to approve payments and transfers exceeding the equivalent of EC$250,000; in the case of imports with proper customs documentation, banks may approve transactions for any amount.

Exports of domestic currency outside the ECCU are limited to EC$10,000, as prescribed by the ECCB.

Currency board
Yes. The exchange rate arrangement is a currency board. St. Vincent and the Grenadines participates in a currency union with seven other members of the ECCU and has no separate legal tender. The Eastern Caribbean dollar is pegged to the US dollar under a currency board arrangement at EC$2.70 per US dollar. The ECCB officially covers at least 60% of base money with its foreign reserves. The operational guideline is set at 80%, although in practice the coverage has been close to 100%.

Conventional peg

Stabilized arrangement

Crawling peg

Crawl-like arrangement
The Eastern Caribbean dollar is pegged to the US dollar under a currency board arrangement at ECS2.70 per US dollar. This rate is used for accounting and valuation purposes.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar.

Changes during 2018 and 2019

No significant changes occurred in the exchange and trade system.
SUDAN

(Position as of April 30, 2019)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

- Date of membership: September 5, 1957.
- Article VIII: Yes. Date of acceptance: October 29, 2003.
- Article XIV

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2017 Article IV Consultation with Sudan states that, as of November 15, 2017, Sudan maintained the following measures subject to IMF jurisdiction under Article VIII, Sections 2 (a) and 3: (1) an exchange restriction arising from the government’s limitations on the availability of foreign exchange and the allocation of foreign exchange to certain priority items; (2) a MCP and exchange restriction arising from the establishment by the government of a system of multiple exchange rates used for official and commercial transactions (that is, the Central Bank of Sudan (CBOS) rate, the wheat rate, and the commercial bank incentive rate), which gives rise to effective exchange rates that deviate by more than 2%; (3) a MCP and exchange restriction arising from large spreads between the CBOS rate and the parallel market exchange rate because of the CBOS’ limitation on the availability of foreign exchange which channels current international transactions to the parallel market; and (4) an exchange restriction and a MCP arising from the imposition by the government of a cash margin requirement for most imports. (Country Report No. 17/364)

Exchange Arrangement

- Currency: Yes. The currency of Sudan is the Sudanese pound (SDG).
- Other legal tender: No.

Exchange rate structure

- Unitary
- Dual
- Multiple: Yes. The exchange rate structure is classified as multiple. Sudan’s multiple exchange rate regime includes (1) a CB rate that also applies to payment of government obligations, (2) a customs rate that is applied on customs valuation, (3) a gold exchange rate used by the CBOS for gold transactions, and (4) a fuel exchange rate to value fuel products. Effective October 9, 2018, the cash margin on imports... is completely removed as per CBOS Circular No. 12/2018. Previously, a 100% cash margin was applied to most imports. Effective April 24, 2019, the CBOS determines the exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound and publishes it daily through its website. For other convertible currencies, exchange rates are applied in US dollar terms, according to the CBOS’ daily announcement on its website. Banks and exchange companies must apply the exchange rate announced by the CB to all transactions. They are allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question. Previously, the indicative exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound was announced by the exchange rate announcement mechanism, and the indicative exchange rate of other convertible currencies was based on the prices of those currencies against the US dollar announced by the CB on its website. Banks and exchange companies were allowed to deviate from the indicative rate by a range of +/− 4%. In addition, they were allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question.

Classification

No separate legal tender
Currency board
Conventional peg
Stabilized arrangement  Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is classified as managed floating. A managed float rate used by commercial banks is determined in the interbank market, in which participants deal directly with each other. The main objective of the policy is exchange rate stability. On October 7, 2018, the CBOS devalued the official exchange from SDG 18 per US dollar to SDG 47.5 per US dollar and removed the commercial bank incentive rate, allowing the commercial banks to set up a money market committee to determine the daily exchange rate. Because the Sudanese pound has stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar since end-January 2018, with one realignment in October 2018, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to stabilized from other managed, effective January 22, 2018. The CBOS does not disclose information on its interventions to the public.

Official exchange rate  Yes. Effective April 24, 2019, the CBOS determines the exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound and publishes it daily through its website. For other convertible currencies, exchange rates are applied in US dollar terms, according to the CBOS’ daily announcement on its website. Banks and exchange companies must apply the exchange rate announced by the CB to all transactions. They are allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question. Previously, the indicative exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound was announced by the exchange rate announcement mechanism, and the indicative exchange rate of other convertible currencies was based on the prices of those currencies against the US dollar announced by the CB on its website. Banks and exchange companies were obligated to apply the exchange rate announced by means of the exchange rate announcement mechanism to all transactions, including the valuation of assets and discounts, but they were allowed to deviate from the indicative rate by a range of +/- 4%. In addition, they were allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question.

Other monetary framework Yes. The monetary policy framework is primarily a nominal exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar. The operational target is the reserve money. The CBOS aims to control broad money as a monetary target and intervenes directly in the market by lending to banks in the event of a liquidity shortage.

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. As a temporary arrangement, each client is permitted only one foreign currency check not exceeding US$100,000 in the clearinghouse.

Spot exchange market Yes. Foreign exchange bureaus may sell and buy foreign exchange freely and may set their bid and ask prices within the upper and lower indicative limits. Exchange bureaus operate under a license from the CBOS, which organizes and monitors them. As of December 31, 2017, there were about 18 licensed bureaus. Exchange bureaus may not buy foreign exchange from the CBOS. The maximum allowed bid-ask spread is 0.5% for all currencies. The operations of foreign exchange bureaus are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes. They may maintain accounts abroad with their correspondents, but may not make foreign exchange transactions directly with the CBOS.

Operated by the central bank Yes. The CBOS sells foreign exchange to commercial banks in accordance with the importance of the imported commodity, with priority for strategic needs. The CBOS does not deal with government and public entities directly. In rare cases, there may be a direct deal with the government, such as a “clean payment.” Clean payments are unconverted currency payments—for example, profit transfers, transfers meant for embassies abroad and for government travel, airline transfers, etc.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation Yes. The CBOS sells foreign exchange to commercial banks in accordance with the importance of the imported commodity, with priority on strategic needs.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. All commercial banks are licensed. As of December 31, 2017, there were 37 commercial banks participating in the interbank market. The CBOS sells foreign exchange to commercial banks in accordance with the importance of the imported commodity, with priority on strategic needs. The CBOS intervenes directly with market participants at their quoted rates or its own rate, whichever is higher. The maximum allowed bid-ask spread is 0.5% for all currencies.

Over the counter Yes.
Brokerage No.
Market making No.
Forward exchange market No. Forward exchange contracts are prohibited.
Official cover of forward operations No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. The CBOS and the government have committed to a switch from dealing in US dollars to dealing in other foreign currency. The purpose of the measure is to avoid the economic sanctions imposed on Sudan and stabilize and decrease the demand for US dollars in the foreign exchange market by encouraging dealers to use the currency of the country in the contract.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. Local currency may not be used in the free zone. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international current or capital transactions.

For current transactions and payments Yes. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international current transactions.
For capital transactions Yes. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.
Credit operations Yes. The domestic currency cannot be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. The Sudanese pound (SDG) is the legal tender used for the settlement of transactions among residents inside the country.

Payments arrangements Yes.
Bilateral payments arrangements Yes. Bilateral payments agreements are inoperative.
Operative No.
Inoperative Yes. There was an agreement with Egypt that has been suspended since 1992.

Regional arrangements Yes. Sudan is a member of COMESA.
Clearing agreements Yes. Sudan is a member of the COMESA clearinghouse.
Barter agreements and open accounts No.
Administration of control Yes. The administration of exchange controls has been delegated to commercial banks.
Payments arrears No.
Official No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

On domestic ownership and/or trade  No.

On external trade  Yes.

Effective December 4, 2018, the export of gold is permitted by any natural or legal person, subject to controls. Previously, the export of gold was restricted to the CB, companies with a concession in the field of gold mining, and companies working in the field of mining waste and small mining companies.

Companies that have a concession in the field of gold mining are allowed to export 70% of the remaining production in accordance with the signed agreements after deducting zakat, sovereign returns, and business profits in kind, and keeping them in their own accounts inside or outside the Sudan for their various purposes. The other 30% must be sold to the CB or its authorized representative.

Companies operating in the area of mining waste and micro mining companies may export 15% of their remaining production after the operating profits, sovereign returns, and zakat (tax) have been deducted in kind from the total production of these companies, provided the earnings are repatriated and kept in special accounts for this purpose within Sudan and used in accordance with the regulations. The other 15% must be sold to the CB or its authorized representative.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

On exports

Domestic currency  Yes.

Travelers may carry Sudanese banknotes up to SDG 200 outside the country to meet sudden expenses. The nature of control is quantitative limitations.

Foreign currency  No.

Travelers leaving the country must declare any amount exceeding €10,000 in cash. This measure aims to combat money laundering and financing of terrorism.

On imports

Domestic currency  Yes.

Travelers may carry Sudanese banknotes not exceeding SDG 200, for the purpose of meeting sudden expenses.

Foreign currency  No.

Travelers entering the country must declare any amount exceeding €10,000 in cash. This measure aims to combat money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Export proceeds must be repatriated. Export proceeds based on sight LCs must be repatriated as soon as the documents are examined by the foreign importer’s correspondent bank but no later than one month from shipment (previously within three months from the date of bill of lading). Pursuant to Circular No. 10/2014, proceeds of cash against documents (CAD) exports must be repatriated as soon as the documents are delivered to the correspondent bank abroad but no later than two months from shipment. Gold exports must be paid in advance. Partial export shipments are allowed, provided a separate export form is approved for each shipment and the export proceeds of the portion shipped are monitored by the relevant bank and repatriated within the period specified by the CBOS. Export proceeds... of mining companies that have agreements with the government may be used to meet their business needs.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  Yes. Effective February 6, 2019, banks must allocate at least 10% of the export earnings in favor of importing human medicines and raw materials for the manufacture of medicine. Effective October 7, 2018, exporters must sell their export proceeds at the exchange rate announced by means of the exchange rate announcement mechanism for the date on which they received the earnings (previously at the commercial bank rate plus commission).

All methods of payment may be used for export-related payments, including documentary credits (sight), documentary credits (demand), prepayment, CAD, documents against acceptance. The export earnings recovery period for transactions carried out by means of documentary credits (sight) or CAD must be on acceptance of the documents, within a maximum of 30 days from the date on which the documents are received by the importer’s bank. Facilities may be granted for the payment of export transactions by means of documentary credits (demand) or documents against acceptance, provided the period of the facilities does not exceed 90 days from the shipment date. This applies to the goods announced by the Ministry of Industry and Trade for the purposed of promoting trade and opening new markets.

Changes during 2018 and 2019
Exchange Arrangement

Exchange rate structure

- Multiple
  - 10/09/2018 The cash margin on imports is completely removed as per Central Bank of Sudan Circular No. 12/2018. Previously, a 100% cash margin was applied to most imports.
  - 04/24/2019 The Central Bank of Sudan (CBOS) determines the exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound and publishes it daily through its website. For other convertible currencies, exchange rates are applied in US dollar terms, according to the CBOS’ daily announcement on its website. Banks and exchange companies must apply the exchange rate announced by the CB to all transactions. They are allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question. Previously, the indicative exchange rate of the US dollar against the Sudanese pound was announced by the exchange rate announcement mechanism, and the indicative exchange rate of other convertible currencies was based on the prices of those currencies against the US dollar announced by the CB on its website. Banks and exchange companies were allowed to deviate from the indicative rate by a range of +/− 4%. In addition, they were allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question.

Classification

- Stabilized arrangement
  - 01/22/2018 Since end-January 2018, the Sudanese pound has stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar, with one realignment in October 2018. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to stabilized from other managed.

Banks and exchange companies were obligated to apply the exchange rate announced by means of the exchange rate announcement mechanism to alltransactions, including the valuation of assets and discounts, but they were allowed to deviate from the indicative rate by a range of +/− 4%. In addition, they were allowed a maximum profit margin of 0.5% on selling over the buying rate for the currency in question.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

- Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)
  - 12/04/2018 The export of gold is permitted by any natural or legal person, subject to controls. Previously, the export of gold was restricted to the CB, companies with a concession in the field of gold mining, and companies working in the field of mining waste and small mining companies.

Imports and Import Payments
The Central Bank of Sudan (CBOS) removed the cash margin on imports. Previously, the CBOS required a 100% cash margin on LCs and import credit.

Nil value imports are prohibited except for importation for investment purposes in accordance with the policies and procedures of the National Investment Commission or import for investments established under agreements with the Government of Sudan approved by the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning. Previously, nil value imports were prohibited except for goods not exceeding €10,000, luggage and goods for personal purposes, urgently needed machinery parts shipped by air, goods for investment purposes, agricultural and industrial production inputs, importation of medicine and medicine production inputs, and imports of oil derivatives.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Exporters must sell their export proceeds at the exchange rate announced by means of the exchange rate announcement mechanism for the date on which they received the earnings (previously at the commercial bank rate plus commission).

Banks must allocate at least 10% of the export earnings in favor of importing human medicines and raw materials for the manufacture of medicine.

Classification

- No separate legal tender
- Currency board
- Conventional peg
- Stabilized arrangement: Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. In accordance with a July 1994 presidential decree, the exchange rate is determined based on the demand and supply of foreign exchange. On February 6, 2016, the Central Bank of Suriname (Centrale Bank van Suriname, CBvS) announced that it would start conducting a weekly foreign exchange auction with commercial banks. On March 22, 2016, the authorities floated the currency based on a system of foreign exchange auctions aimed at ensuring a convergence of the official exchange rate to the market rate. On May 10, 2016, the CBvS authorized commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus to freely determine exchange rates. Because the exchange rate has stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar since February 2017, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized

Official exchange rate

Yes. The commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus are allowed to freely determine exchange rates. The CBvS determines the daily weighted average exchange rate of the sales transactions of commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus in the afternoon, which will be the indicative exchange rate for the US dollar for the next working day. The exchange rates for other currencies than the US dollar are being derived from this indicative exchange rate, using the international cross-currency rates relative to the US dollar. The indicative exchange rates apply to transactions committed by the bank and serve for the valuation of goods whose value is denominated in foreign currency. The published daily indicative exchange rate provides guidance to the foreign exchange market.

The regulation on foreign currency open position came into force for all banks in April 2015. The following limits apply:

1. No bank may have a net open position in any one foreign currency exceeding 10% of its Tier I capital.
2. No bank may have an aggregate open position in all foreign currencies exceeding 20% of its Tier I capital.

Open position is defined as the difference between the assets and liabilities including off-balance-sheet commitments denominated in foreign currencies. Open positions may be long or short for individual currency exposures and for the aggregate of all currency exposures.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency Yes. The currency of Sweden is Swedish krona.

Other legal tender No.

Exchange rate structure
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate of the krona is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. Foreign exchange interventions are allowed under extraordinary circumstances (for example, participation in concerted interventions with other CBs). In January 2016, the Executive Board adopted a mandate that facilitates rapid intervention on the foreign exchange market for monetary policy purposes. The mandate was extended several times thereafter, but the Executive Board chose not to extend it further after the last extension, effective July 2, 2018, which expired February 12, 2019. No intervention has been reported since June 14, 2001.

The krona exchange rate is determined in a CB-concerted teleconference managed by the ECB every banking day at 2:15 p.m. This ECB reference exchange rate is used, among other purposes, for commercial contracts. The use of the exchange rate is not mandatory in commercial contracts.

The monetary framework is flexible inflation targeting.
As of 1999 the Sveriges Riksbank Act states that the objective of the Riksbank’s operations is to maintain price stability. When the inflation target was introduced in 1993, the Riksbank specified price stability as being that the annual change in the consumer price index (CPI) should be 2%.

On January 15, 1993, the Governing Board at the SR specified that the objective of monetary policy was to limit the annual increase in the CPI in 1995 and onwards to 2%, with a target interval of ±1%. The tolerance limits were later dropped.

The Governing Board at the SR applies a variation band of 1%–3% for the outcomes of CPIF (consumer price index with a fixed interest rate) inflation to illustrate that inflation will not be exactly 2% every month. The variation band is not the same as the target interval.

The Riksbank is led by an Executive Board consisting of six members. The Board holds six scheduled monetary policy meetings every year. At these meetings, the Executive Board establishes its majority view of what is considered a well-balanced monetary policy. If there is no majority for a decision, the governor of the Riksbank has the casting vote.

The Riksbank and other CBs with inflation targets conduct a policy of flexible inflation targeting. This means that at the same time as trying to attain the inflation target, they take into account developments in the real economy.

According to the Sveriges Riksbank Act, the objective of monetary policy is to “maintain price stability.” The Riksbank has interpreted this objective to mean a low, stable rate of inflation. More precisely, the Riksbank’s objective is to keep inflation around 2% a year.

The Riksbank’s inflation target variable is the CPIF. CPIF is the CPI with a fixed interest rate. The CPIF is calculated using the same data and in the same way as the CPI, excluding the effect of changes to mortgage rates. The reason for changing the target variable from the CPI to the CPIF is that the former has had drawbacks as guidance for monetary policy. One such drawback is that changes to the repo rate affect household mortgage rates, which then has an effect on the CPI, as households’ living costs also change. In the same monetary policy meeting the Riksbank announced the introduction of a variation band around the inflation target (1%–3%), which is not an inflation target band, but rather a way to communicate the variation of inflation around the 2% target. Previously, the inflation target had been defined as keeping the annual rise in the CPI at 2% within a few years’ horizon.
Operating target (policy rate) Yes.

Policy rate Yes. The SR uses the repo rate as its key signaling rate. With this rate, the SR indicates what the overnight rate will be one week ahead. If there is a liquidity deficit in the banking system, the SR supplies funds by buying securities through weekly repos. In the event of a liquidity surplus, the SR issues Riksbank Certificates. The banking system as a whole has a liquidity surplus at present.

Target corridor band

Once a week, normally on Tuesdays, the Riksbank issues Riksbank Certificates at an interest rate that is the same as the repo rate. By issuing Riksbank Certificates, the Riksbank withdraws liquidity from the banking system, which currently has a surplus. Also, if the banking system does not have a balance in its liquidity in relation to the Riksbank at the end of the day, the Riksbank is prepared on a daily basis to carry out what are known as fine-tuning transactions with the banks. In these fine-tuning transactions, the Riksbank withdraws the remaining surplus liquidity from the banks; that is, they deposit money with the Riksbank, at present at the repo rate minus 0.1 percentage point.

RIX participants (that is, participants in the Swedish payment system) that are credit institutions domiciled or with a branch in Sweden and which are monetary policy counterparties have access to the standing deposit and lending facilities. The standing deposit facility means that the counterparty may have a positive balance on its account in RIX at the end of the day. The counterparty then receives interest calculated as the repo rate minus 0.75 percentage points. If this entails a negative interest rate, the counterparty pays interest to the Riksbank. Vice versa applies if the counterparty has a deficit at the end of the day.

Other No.

Accountability Yes.

Open letter No.

Parliamentary hearings Yes. The governor of the SR appears before the Riksdag Committee on Finance twice a year for a discussion on monetary policy.

Other Yes. In accordance with Sveriges Riksbank Act, the Riksbank compiles an Account of monetary policy every year. The account is used as a basis for the Parliamentary Committee on Finance’s examination and assessment of monetary policy.

Transparency Yes.

Publication of votes Yes. Press releases state how the individual members had voted and provide the main motivation for any reservations entered.

Publication of minutes Yes. The minutes of the Executive Board’s monetary policy meetings are published approximately two weeks after the respective meeting. The minutes are attributed, so it is possible to see who has put forward which argument.

Publication of inflation forecasts Yes. Decisions on the repo rate are normally made six times a year and on each occasion a Monetary Policy Report is also published. This contains analyses of the factors that determine inflation and forecasts for the repo rate, inflation, and the development of the real economy over the coming years—in other words, the most important factors on which the monetary policy decisions are based.

The implementation of the Solvency II Directive has resulted in that Swedish insurance companies, as a main rule, are no longer bound by explicit restrictions on the currency and location of the assets covering technical provisions. The localization of the assets of Swedish insurance companies must be made in a manner which ensures their availability. Moreover, the assets must be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance/reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective. Moreover, the assets must be invested in a manner which seeks to avoid excessive reliance on a certain asset, issuer or group of companies, geographical area, and risk accumulation in the portfolio in its entirety. If another country within the EEA has provisions that impose restrictions on the location of assets within occupational pension businesses, Swedish insurance companies carrying out occupational pension business in such country must, at the request of such country, also apply such provisions. For the part of the businesses of Swedish insurance companies which constitute occupational pension businesses, and Swedish pension funds, there are certain restrictions on the location of the assets covering technical provisions. As a rule, these assets must be located within the EEA or, if the risk is outside the EEA, in Sweden. These assets may be in other jurisdictions if the preferential claim of the policyholders of these assets is not adversely affected. The geographical restrictions do not apply to conditional bonuses or unit-linked insurance for which the policyholder holds the risk. Assets used to cover debt must be invested in a manner which limits the risk for currency exchange losses, but no explicit restrictions on the currency of the assets covering technical provisions apply.

Controls apply to the following types of investment: (1) Investments in airlines established in Sweden must be owned by more than 50% and effectively controlled by EU countries and/or nationals of EU countries, unless otherwise provided for through an international agreement to which the EU is a signatory. (2) A vessel must be considered to be Swedish and entitled to fly the Swedish flag if owned to the extent of more than one half by Swedish nationals or Swedish legal persons. A ship may fly the Swedish flag even if the holder is not a Swedish national or a Swedish legal person under the following conditions: (a) It is registered with the Swedish Register of Ships. (b) It is part of an economic activity set up in Sweden. (c) Operation of the ship is supervised and managed from Sweden, and the ship is more than 50% owned by a citizen of an EEA country or a legal person established in accordance with the legislation of that country whose registered office, headquarters, or principal place of business is within that area. (3) Natural persons who own periodicals printed in Sweden must reside in Sweden or be citizens of the EEA. Juridical persons who own such periodicals must be established in the EEA. Periodicals, radio programs, and technical recordings must have a responsible editor domiciled in Sweden. (4) Law firms doing business under the title “advokat” must be owned by members of the Swedish Bar Association unless the Bar grants a waiver. Only EEA and Swiss residents may be admitted as members of the Swedish Bar Association. (5) Less than 50% of the votes in a limited auditing company may be held by non-EEA residents. The Supervisory Board of Public Accountants may grant exemptions. (6) A depositary of a UCITS under EU Directive No. 85/611 must either have its registered office in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country.

For Swedish credit institutions, there are no limits on net open foreign exchange positions, but if the sum of an institution’s overall net foreign exchange and net gold positions, calculated as set out in Capital Requirements Regulation Article 352 (Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013), including for foreign exchange and gold positions for which own funds requirements are calculated using an internal model, exceeds 2% of its total own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk. This requirement is the sum of its overall net foreign exchange and net gold positions in the reporting currency multiplied by 8%.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)
Yes.

Switzerland’s Federal Act on the Implementation of International Sanctions (Embargo Act, EmbA; CC 946.231) is the legal basis for coercive measures (asset freezes, transfer prohibitions) to implement sanctions by the UN, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), or Switzerland’s major trading partners, aiming to restore compliance with international public law, and in particular the respect for human rights. Such measures are adopted in the form of ordinances of the Federal Council (the Swiss government). In implementation of UNSC resolutions and/or in accordance with EU regulations, Switzerland maintains certain restrictions on current international payments and transfers with respect to Belarus, Burundi, the Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, the Islamic Republic of Iran, Iraq, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Lebanon, Libya, Mali, Myanmar, Somalia, South Sudan, Sudan, Syria, Ukraine/Russia, Venezuela, Yemen, Zimbabwe, and individuals and entities associated with Osama bin Laden, Al-Qaeda, or the Taliban.

Effective December 7, 2018, restrictions were removed with respect to Eritrea.
Effective March 28, 2018, restrictions were imposed with respect to Venezuela.
Effective December 20, 2018, restrictions were imposed with respect to Mali.

Other security restrictions
No.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
Yes. The currency of Switzerland is the Swiss franc.

Other legal tender
No.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary
Yes.

Dual
The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate of the Swiss franc is determined by market forces in the foreign exchange market. However, the Swiss National Bank (SNB) reserves the right to intervene in the foreign exchange market. All settlements are made at free-market rates. In 2018, the SNB intervened with modest amounts in the foreign exchange market to counter an undesired tightening of monetary conditions. These interventions occurred mainly at times of heightened uncertainty, when the Swiss franc was particularly sought after as a safe investment. In H1 2018, the trade-weighted exchange rate remained broadly stable with temporary appreciation pressure amid equity market volatility and uncertainties surrounding the Italian election and budget. In H2 2018, the Swiss franc appreciated against the backdrop of political and macroeconomic uncertainties. This development continued in the first half of 2019. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. The SNB publishes information regarding its foreign exchange transactions in its annual accountability report.

There is no official or reference exchange rate.
The monetary policy implementation is based on an explicit definition of price stability—an annual consumer price index (CPI) inflation rate of less than 2%—as a long-term anchor. Policy decisions are guided by an inflation forecast over a three-year horizon. For taking and communicating monetary policy decisions, the SNB uses the SNB policy rate. The SNB seeks to keep secured short-term Swiss franc money market rates, of which the Swiss Average Rate Overnight (SARON) is the most representative, close to the policy rate. A key communication device is an inflation forecast chart, which indicates the SNB’s policy bias.
Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. All transactions in the foreign exchange market are made at free-market rates.

Spot exchange market Yes. The foreign exchange market operates predominantly on a market-making agreement. Apart from legal requirements, no restrictions apply to market participants in this over-the-counter market.

Operated by the central bank No.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. Banks are free to determine their bid-ask spreads and commissions in interbank transactions. In case of intervention, the SNB intervenes directly with market makers and market participants at their quoted rates and proposes its own quotes to market participants.

Over the counter No.

Brokerage Yes. Brokers operate in the foreign exchange interbank market.

Market making Yes. The interbank foreign exchange market operates predominantly on a market-making agreement, with various, mainly electronic, broker, and interbank market systems used for trading.

Forward exchange market Yes. There are no officially fixed premiums and discount rates applicable to forward exchange contracts. All contracts are negotiated at free-market rates. The SNB may be active in the swap market for monetary policy operations.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Deposit accounts held abroad are permitted to cover the technical reserves of an insurance company, if the legal framework applicable to the investment recognizes the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority (FINMA’s) insolvency procedures and the seniority of the claim to the tied assets in accordance with Swiss law so that no special enforcement or other interventions by an authority or third party become necessary.
For occupational pension funds, there is a limit of 30% of total assets for the investment in foreign currency without hedge. This limit is non-binding for pension funds that demonstrate to have prudential portfolio management practices.

Import taxes and/or tariffs  Yes.  In general, customs duties are levied based on the gross weight of goods. On industrial goods, import tariffs are generally very low (average 0.20% ad valorem equivalent). On agricultural goods, they average 5.9% ad valorem equivalent. The tariff rates on agricultural goods that are imported above quota may range up to several hundred percent (in ad valorem terms). In the framework of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) Uruguay Round, all quantitative restrictions and measures with equivalent effects concerning agricultural products have been converted to tariffs. To maintain the market access opportunities prevailing during 1986–88, 28 tariff rate quotas were set for specific agricultural and livestock goods (fruits, vegetables, meats, wines, etc.).

Taxes collected through the exchange system  No.

State import monopoly  Yes.  The government has a monopoly on imports of 80 proof or higher undenatured ethyl alcohol, but private sector imports are permitted with authorization. Cantons have a monopoly on imports of salt.

While the general investment principles (Asset Liability Management orientation, safety, profitability, diversification, liquidity) of the FINMA Circular No. 2016/5 apply to all insurance companies, the specific guidelines refer to those insurance companies.
who need to hold tied assets according to the law. These are of qualitative as well as of quantitative nature. Quantitative limits such as counterparty exposure limit (5%) or foreign currency exposure limit (20%) intend to mitigate various risks, for example, concentration risk or currency mismatch risk. The FINMA Circular No. 2016/5 also sets out asset-class-specific guidelines and investment restrictions (mentioned in the sections above), which are in line with the stipulated general investment principle.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents Yes. Besides the asset-type-specific limits (for example, 30% for equity), securities issued by nonresidents need to be securitized and traded on a market so that a market price can be identified or the legal framework applicable to the investment must recognize FINMA’s insolvency procedures.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad Yes. To ensure the enforceability of the invested assets in case of bankruptcy, the investments held abroad can only be assigned to the tied assets, if the legal framework applicable to the investment recognizes FINMA’s insolvency procedures and the seniority of the claim to the tied assets in accordance with Swiss law so that no special enforcement or other interventions by an authority or third party become necessary.

According to the FINMA Circular No. 2016/05, “Investment Guidelines – Insurance Companies” generally allows a foreign custody abroad (instead of the previously three specific countries Belgium, Liechtenstein, and Luxemburg) as long as the aforementioned preconditions are fulfilled.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally No.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes. According to the Asset Liability Management principles of the FINMA Circular No. 2016/5, liabilities arising from insurance contracts should match with the assets of the relevant currencies. Assets in currencies other than the reference currency should not exceed 20% of the required amount of the tied assets. This limit takes into consideration the effects of hedging.

Pension funds Yes. There are transparency requirements for occupational pension funds in the area of nontraditional bonds (especially securitized vehicles). Furthermore, securities lending and repo agreements must fulfill certain minimal conditions. As before, pension funds are usually not allowed to leverage their assets.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents Yes. The Ordinance on Occupational Benefit Plans Concerning Old Age, Survivors, and Disability of January 1, 2017, regulates occupational pension funds. It treats residents and nonresidents mostly in the same way, stresses the need for supervision of counterparty risks and for sophisticated portfolio diversification, and strengthens the prudent investor principle. For occupational pension funds, there is a limit of 10% of total assets for the investment in real estate located outside Switzerland derived as follows: There is a limit for the investment in real estate of 30% of total assets, and real estate located outside Switzerland is not permitted to exceed one-third of all investment in real estate. There is also a limit of 30% of total assets for the investment in foreign currency without hedge. There is also a limit of 15% for alternative investments, including claims with alternative character. Swiss property title deeds and debt acknowledgments by Swiss public entities are exempted from this category. Exchange Measures

Yes. The IMF staff report for the 2009 Article IV Consultation with Syria states that, as of February 12, 2010, Syria maintained under Article XIV restrictions on payments and transfers for current international transactions, including administrative allocation of foreign exchange. Syria also maintained exchange measures that are subject to IMF approval under Article VIII: (1) prohibition against purchases by private parties of foreign exchange from the banking system for some current international transactions; (2) a MCP resulting from divergences of more than 2% between the official exchange rate and officially recognized market exchange rates; (3) a non-interest-bearing advance import deposit requirement of 75%–100% for public sector imports; and (4) an exchange restriction arising from the net debt under inoperative bilateral payments arrangements with the Islamic Republic of Iran and Sri Lanka. (Country Report No. 10/86)

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
No.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)

No.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary

Dual
Yes. The exchange rate system is dual because it consists of two rates: (1) the official rate of LS 11.20/11.25 per US dollar, which applies to interest arising from former bilateral payments agreements, pending agreements on their rescheduling and (2) the exchange rate for all other transactions (foreign exchange market exchange rate), which unifies the other exchange rates and is announced by the Central Bank of Syria (CBS) daily.

Each business day at 9:30 a.m. the foreign exchange management team, comprising the governor and representatives from across the CBS, convenes to determine the official exchange rate for the pound against the SDR basket. The information that contributes to their decision includes the previous close-of-business information regarding foreign exchange operations and positions of the local banks. The governor, or the governor’s deputy if the governor is absent, makes the final decision on the US dollar–pound exchange rate. After this rate is set, all other cross-rates for currencies in the basket are calculated and published. The official exchange rate of the pound is used for imports of certain materials specified by Prime Ministerial Decision No. 14184 of August 10, 2011, and its amendments.

Official exchange rate Yes. The official exchange rate of the US dollar is calculated on the basis of the weighted average exchange rates in transactions involving the purchase and sale of the US dollar for somoni in the interbank and intrabank foreign exchange markets as of 4:00 p.m. of the current day. The NBT has the right to adjust the calculated base weighted average exchange rate within a range of ±1.5%, but has not done so in 2018.

A decision to make an adjustment is made by the NBT working group on exchange rate policy. The official exchange rates of other foreign currencies are calculated according to the rules for determining cross-rates using the ratio of the official exchange rate of the US dollar against the somoni and the exchange rates of the US dollar against other foreign currencies as established by their CBs or in international foreign exchange markets on that day.

The official exchange rate is used for accounting purposes and for recording foreign exchange funds in somoni on the balance sheets of economic entities, for recalculation into somoni of mandatory state payments expressed in foreign currency, for calculating main macroeconomic indicators, and for analyzing the results of foreign economic activity.

In accordance with the NBT Executive Board Resolution No. 127 of September 29, 2017, the exchange rate in somoni for the purchase and sale of foreign currency for clients of the NBT is set by the NBT by agreement between the parties, taking into consideration the following conditions:
- the exchange rate in somoni for the purchase of foreign currency must be no higher than the official exchange rate in effect on the day the transaction is performed;
- the sale of foreign currency for somoni to the MOF must be performed at the official exchange rate in effect on the day the transaction is performed;
- the sale of foreign currency for somoni to other public enterprises and organizations serviced by the Main Central Treasury Administration of the MOF must be performed at the official exchange rate in effect on the day the transaction is performed, plus a margin of 1.5%.

In the event that the difference between the official and market exchange rates of the US dollar is greater than 2%, buying and serving transactions with the MOF and other institutions supported by the budget should be performed at the weighted average selling rate in the interbank and intrabank markets in effect at the time the transaction is performed.

The Monetary and Exchange Policy Strategy for 2016-2020 states that the mechanism of monetary policy of the NBT is officially implemented under the reserve money targeting regime and its regulation is carried out to ensure stable money supply growth in the economy, maintaining a stable level of demand and inflation. However, there is a gradual transition to an inflation-targeting regime. The Monetary and Exchange Policy Strategy for 2016-2020 provides for the transition to the inflation-targeting monetary regime in 2020.

The main focus of monetary and exchange policy is on the development of institutional reforms, instruments and on increasing their impact on short-term interest rates in the money market, the level of aggregate demand and inflation, and its aim is to create a favorable climate and reliable foundation for making a gradual transition from a reserve money framework (quantity) to a new inflation-targeting framework (quality) for the implementation of monetary policy.

Monetary policy targets are specified in the document “Projection of the main directions of the Monetary Policy of the Republic of Tajikistan for 2019-2021.” This document is reviewed by the NBT Executive Board and approved by the Republic of Tajikistan Parliament.

To identify the maintenance of price stability as a top priority, a quantitative medium-term inflation target of 7.0% (+/−0.2 percentage points) is published on the home page of the NBT’s website. During the transition from reserve money to short-term interbank operations, a corridor for fluctuations in interbank operations was set at the refinancing rate (+/−2 percentage points). The upper limit of the corridor is overnight credits (refinancing rate +2 percentage points), and the lower limit of the corridor is overnight deposits (refinancing rate −2 percentage points).

ADs are allowed to determine freely their bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients. Participants in this market include the NBT and all lending institutions (banks and microfinance organizations) licensed to perform banking operations in foreign exchange. Currency exchange transactions are performed exclusively through cash offices of banking institutions (head office, branch, and bank service centers). As of December 31, 2018, there were 26 lending institutions (12 banks and 14 microfinance institutions) participating in the interbank market. As of August 1, 2019, there were 28 lending institutions (12 banks and 16 microfinance institutions) participating in the interbank market.
As of December 31, 2018, there were a total of 1,129 cash offices entitled to perform currency exchange transactions within branches of lending institutions, of which 734 belong to authorized banks and 395 to authorized microcredit organizations. As of August 1, 2019, there were a total of 1,229 cash offices entitled to perform currency exchange transactions within branches of lending institutions, of which 804 belong to authorized banks and 425 to authorized microcredit organizations.

The interbank market was created to provide to all market participants access to liquidity, given that the only principal players in providing foreign funds in Tajikistan are a couple of large market participants.

Auctions are held on the basis of regulations. All auctions are conducted without any limits. The amount of funds put up for auction is not announced in advance, but on receiving an automatic mailing concerning the start of an auction, the participants have time to learn in the system the amount before the auction begins. The automatic message is sent to the e-mail addresses of each registered participant in the auction system.

In the history of the auctions, there has never been a single case of default by a market participant, since the bid amounts always match the requirements and capabilities of the participants. Accordingly, no measures involving the imposition of monetary sanctions have been provided for.

The auction system as an effective tool on the interbank market does not imply any limitations, including criteria for the participants themselves and acquired funds. Market participants themselves dispose of acquired funds.

In accordance with the NBT Directive No. 07.03-99/366 of February 2, 2016, the requirement on the conversion of Russian rubles transferred by individuals without opening a bank account, and their disbursement in somoni, was introduced. Fifty percent of these funds acquired by banks for their own position in Russian rubles by 4 p.m. on any day must be offered for sale in the interbank market (rubles purchase and sale auctions) at a variation of 0.5% of the rate at which they purchased them. Auction participants are the NBT and all lending institutions (banks and microfinance organizations) licensed to perform banking operations in foreign exchange. The NBT acts as a temporary intermediary for these transactions, and a volume-based auction is conducted to distribute the rubles to banks. The portion of funds in Russian rubles not purchased by other auction participants remains at the disposal at the NBT.

Participants in this market include the NBT and all lending institutions (banks and microfinance organizations) licensed to perform banking operations in foreign exchange. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread and commission of market participants. The NBT is not a market maker and does not quote buying and

| The customs authorities of Tajikistan have control over imported and exported cash currencies and securities in the domestic and foreign currencies in accordance with the customs legislation. According to Article 6 of the Law on Combating Money Laundering, Financing of Terrorism, and Financing of the Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction, import to and export from Tajikistan (with the exception of the NBT, commercial banks, and organizations providing postal services) of cash currency in an amount equal to or greater than 1,750 times the reference indicator are subject to mandatory control. Organizations conducting these transactions must execute the customer due diligence procedures as provided for by the above-mentioned law. In the event that information provided in a declaration of the importation or exportation of foreign exchange assets is found to be incorrect, or if imported or exported foreign exchange assets subject to mandatory declaration are not reported, the Customs Service of Tajikistan may require that the sender provide additional information about the source of the foreign exchange assets and about their further use. The Customs Service of Tajikistan may, when necessary, establish cases of money laundering, financing of terrorism, and financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, to suspend and restrict the movement of foreign exchange assets, including the following cases:

(1) in the event that money laundering, financing of terrorism, and financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, or the commission of predicate crimes, are suspected;

(2) in the event of an incorrect mandatory declaration or failure to provide information about the exportation and importation of foreign exchange assets.

According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Foreign Exchange Control, resident individuals must conduct settlements on foreign exchange operations through bank accounts with authorized banks, except as indicated under Article 8. Resident legal entities must conduct settlements on foreign exchange operations through bank accounts with authorized banks, except as indicated under Article 13, part 2.

According to this law, residents and nonresidents conducting foreign exchange transactions in Tajikistan must provide reports, data, and documentation as required by law. Authorized banks must obtain from residents and nonresidents information on the purpose and destination of payments and transfers in foreign exchange.

The NBT Directive No. 07.06-1359/4352 of September 29, 2017, established the threshold for the deposit of foreign exchange cash in legal entities’ bank accounts without a supporting document to confirm the source of the funds at the equivalent of 1,750 times the reference indicator. Effective January 1, 2019, in accordance with the Republic of Tajikistan Law on the State Budget for 2019, one reference indicator is equal to TJS 55 (previously, it was TJS 50). In accordance with the NBT Directive No. 07.03-532/3797 of November 05, 2015, individuals deposit foreign currency in their own bank accounts with no restrictions on the amounts and without the presentation of supporting documents to confirm the source of the funds.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers Yes. The rules described here apply to all types of invisible current transactions and transfers specified in this section.

Payments to nonresidents by residents require supporting documentation. Residents and nonresidents may make transfers unrelated to commercial activity without opening a bank account. From September 29, 2017, the threshold for the undocumented transfer of foreign currency without opening a bank account for all purposes is set at 1,750 times the reference indicator. Effective March 2, 2018, the limit on payment for the cost of executed (completed) imports of goods, work, and services equivalent to up to TJS 500,000 without opening a bank account has been eliminated and all payments by legal entities and individuals related to payment for the cost of imported goods, work, and services received by them must be performed only through their bank accounts.

Previously, residents and nonresidents could transfer currency abroad without opening a bank account for and in the name of legal entities and individuals to pay for the cost of executed (completed) imports of goods, work, and services in an amount equivalent to TJS 500,000 on the condition that a resident complies with the documentary requirements of paragraph 14 of Instruction No. 204 and the regulations for combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

From September 29, 2017, the threshold of 1,750 times the reference indicator was established for the deposit of foreign exchange cash for the purpose of its transfer by individuals without opening a bank account, without the presentation of supporting documents to confirm the source of the foreign exchange cash (previously, the threshold was TJS 28,000).

Effective January 1, 2019, in accordance with the Republic of Tajikistan Law on the State Budget for 2019, one reference indicator is equal to TJS 55 (previously, it was 50).

The threshold level of 1,750 times the reference indicator is higher than before (previously, the threshold was 28,000 somoni).

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. Exchange rate arrangement is floating. The BOT participates in the interbank foreign exchange market (IFEM) for liquidity management purposes and intervenes occasionally to smooth out short-term volatility in the exchange rate. In carrying out these operations, the Bank remains mindful of the need to maintain adequate level of international reserves within the statutory requirement. Trading in the IFEM is conducted using the Reuters trading platform in a two-way quote system. The BOT is not required to indicate two-way quotes when it... participates in the interbank market. In 2018, the shilling followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from stabilized, effective January 1, 2018. The BOT does not publish information on foreign exchange interventions on the website.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The official exchange rate is market determined and is weighted by the volume traded in the respective foreign currency. The official rate is published on the BOT website and is used for foreign exchange transactions by the BOT. Commercial banks use the official exchange rate as a reference rate in determining their trading rates.

Monetary aggregate target

Yes. The monetary policy aims to control monthly average reserve money as the operational target, and extended broad money as the intermediate target, but inflation is the ultimate target of monetary policy—medium-term target for headline inflation is 5% with an upper bound of 8% agreed at EAC level. The consumer price index (CPI) measures the change over time in the cost of a fixed basket of goods and services that are purchased by a representative sample of households. The basket includes a list of 278 goods and services of which 97 are food and nonalcoholic beverages and 181 are nonfood items.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes. Commercial banks use the official exchange rate as a reference rate, and the commissions charged by commercial banks are mainly based on the transaction costs, among other considerations.

Spot exchange market  Yes. The BOT licenses banks and foreign exchange bureaus to carry out foreign exchange transactions. As of June 30, 2019, there were 39 fully fledged commercial banks (currently, the active IFEM members), 19 nonbank financial institutions, and 5 foreign exchange bureaus operating in Tanzania. There is no parallel market. Foreign exchange bureaus do not do business directly with the BOT. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to operate accounts abroad. The bureaus are required to maintain local and foreign currency accounts with a commercial bank or a nonbank financial institution for their day-to-day transactions. The bureaus transact only on spot basis.

Operated by the central bank  No. The BOT sells and purchases foreign exchange at the bank’s quotes when participating in the interbank market.

Foreign exchange standing facility  No.

Allocation  No.
The exchange rate is market determined. Commercial banks participating in the IFEM use the Reuters trading platform. Currently, 39 banks participate in the IFEM. The spread for the bid-ask is ± T Sh 10. Quotes are good for US$2,50,000. The BOT sells and purchases foreign exchange from banks at their quoted rates. All licensed banks by the BOT qualify to be members in the IFEM. As of June 30, 2019, the banking sector was composed of the BOT as the regulatory authority and 56 banking institutions consisting of 39 commercial banks, 6 community banks, 3 financial institutions, 2 development finance institutions, 5 deposit taking microfinance banks, and 1 mortgage refinancing company.

A few banks perform forward and swap contracts with their customers, especially those engaged in export and import transactions. The BOT does not conduct forward contracts with banks, but has occasionally engaged in swap transactions with them. Some banks trade foreign exchange derivatives products on a small scale.

The BOT does not offer forward cover against exchange rate risk arising from forward operations of banks.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

It is an offense for any person without BOT approval to operate a Tanzanian shilling account for a nonresident, granting loans in Tanzanian shillings to nonresidents, and/or granting any intraday overdraft in Tanzanian shillings to nonresidents.

General permission is granted with respect to trade transactions with the rest of the world.

General permission is only granted to EAC residents with respect to capital transactions. EAC residents can issue equity shares, debt securities, collective investment schemes (CIS) in Tanzania; and can purchase debt securities issued in Tanzania up to 40% of the securities issued but the amount acquired by residents of a single EAC country should not exceed two-thirds of the 40%. Tanzanians can purchase equity shares, debt instruments, and CIS issued in EAC countries, and can purchase debt securities issued by non-EAC residents using funds exclusively obtained from foreign sources. Tanzanians can issue equity shares, debt instruments, CIS and engage in outward direct investment in EAC countries. Non-EAC residents can purchase equity shares of a listed company or an issuer making a public offer in Tanzania. Nonresidents (including non-EAC residents) can engage in direct investments in Tanzania.

Clearing agreements: Yes. There are agreements with Kenya, Uganda, and Rwanda.

Barter agreements and open accounts: No.

Administration of control

Yes. The Foreign Exchange Act of 1992 authorizes the BOT to administer and manage exchange transactions in Tanzania. The BOT delegates authority to all licensed banks to effect foreign exchange transactions.

Payments arrears

Yes.

Official: Yes.

Private: n.r.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

Yes. Only authorized persons may buy, borrow, sell, lend, hold, or otherwise deal in gold coins and gold bullion.

On domestic ownership and/or trade: Yes.

On external trade: Yes. Dealers must operate in the authorized gold market. All earnings, payments, or receivables derived from or in respect of mining operations or activities must be received in and accounted for in Tanzania.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

Yes.

On exports: Yes.

Domestic currency: Yes. Nonresidents are allowed to export domestic currency for numismatic purposes only. Following a currency convertibility agreement reached within EAC Partner States, residents may carry any amount of currency across borders to settle cross-border transactions with these countries.

Foreign currency: Yes. Foreign currency exports are allowed only for bona fide purposes.

On imports: Yes.

Domestic currency: Yes. Permission from the BOT is required.

Foreign currency: No. Residents and nonresidents may import any amount of foreign currency in the form of notes, coins, traveler’s checks, and bank drafts from any country as long as they observe the Anti-Money Laundering/Combating the Financing of Terrorism (AML/CFT) requirements.

The BOT applies a uniform reserve requirement across banks as well as on deposits and liabilities to nonresidents and residents.

The liquid asset requirement is the same for deposits and liabilities to nonresidents and residents.

All interest rates are determined by individual banks based on prevailing money market interest rates.

The net open foreign exchange position limit is ±7.5% of core capital.

General permission is granted to investments within EAC countries. The regulations governing the purchase abroad (other than Partner States) by residents of shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as... floating. Under the inflation-targeting monetary policy framework, the value of the baht is allowed to be determined by market forces, reflecting demand and supply in the foreign exchange market. In the case that the resulting movements in Thai baht (THB) are deemed excessive and unjustified by fundamentals, foreign exchange intervention can be undertaken to avoid disorderly market conditions. The data on interventions is not publicly available. However, the weekly and monthly data on gross international reserve is published on the CB’s website, where international reserve assets comprise monetary gold, SDRs, reserve position in the fund, and foreign currency assets.

During 2018, the real effective exchange rate (REER) appreciated, resulting in 2.7% real effective appreciation and 5% nominal appreciation versus the US dollar. The large current account surplus and sizable portfolio inflows were the main drivers, only partially offset by net outflows in FDI and other investment. In the recent period, the appreciation of the baht was particularly supported by flows from gold traders, which became increasingly active as gold price rose in response to heightened uncertainties in the global financial markets.

Yes.

Point target

Target with tolerance band
Yes. Since January, 2015, the BOT has changed its nominal anchor from core inflation to headline inflation. The annual average headline inflation target of 2.5% with a tolerance band of ±1.5% was set as the monetary policy target for the medium term and remains as the target for 2019.

Band/Range

Target measure
Yes. The average headline inflation over 12 months in a calendar year is reviewed annually, although the target is set for the medium term.

CPI
Yes. Headline inflation is defined as the year-on-year (y-o-y) change in consumer price index (CPI) (all commodities) published monthly by the Ministry of Commerce.

Core inflation

Target horizon
Yes. The target is intended for the medium-term horizon. However, the law requires the target to be reviewed annually.

Operating target (policy rate)
Yes.

Policy rate

Nonresidents may open two types of nonresident baht accounts: nonresident baht accounts for securities and nonresident baht accounts for general purposes. The total daily outstanding amount for each type of account may not exceed B 300 million a nonresident. Transfers are not allowed between different types of accounts. However, residents may open resident baht accounts without limitation.

Interest on nonresident baht accounts may be paid only on fixed deposit accounts with maturities of at least six months.

Financial institutions—commercial banks, finance companies, and credit foncier companies (credit foncier company is a public limited company licensed to undertake credit foncier business by accepting deposit from public, granting mortgage loan, and purchasing immovable property under contract of sale with right of redemption)—may invest, purchase, and hold directly or indirectly shares of any company up to the following amounts, including the shares of nominee shareholders of financial institutions: (1) 20% of the total capital of the financial institution for shares in all companies; (2) 5% of the total capital for shares in each company; and (3) 10% of the total shares sold. In cases of debt restructuring or as security for a loan, financial institutions may seek BOT approval to hold more shares. The BOT may grant waivers, but with certain conditions.

In principle, Thailand allows up to 25% foreign equity participation in commercial banks, finance companies, and credit foncier companies.

The BOT may consider allowing foreign holdings between 25% and 49%. If deemed necessary to improve the condition or business of these institutions, the minister of finance, on recommendation of the BOT, may allow foreign investors to hold up to 100% of these institutions’ shares for 10 years. After 10 years, foreign investors do not have to sell their shares but may not purchase additional shares, unless they hold less than 49% of total shares. Additional shares may then be acquired to bring foreign holdings up to the 49% maximum.

- Conventional peg | Yes. |

The currency of Togo is the CFA franc (XOF).

The exchange rate arrangement of the WAEMU is a conventional peg. Togo participates in a currency union with seven other members of the WAEMU and has no separate legal tender. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAEMU member countries and France was concluded December 4, 1973. It was maintained after the French franc was replaced by the euro by the Council of the European Union decision of November 23, 1998. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement is based on three pillars: (1) a common issuing institution, (2) fixed parity with the euro, and (3) a guarantee. of unlimited convertibility. In exchange for the unlimited convertibility of the CFA franc to euros, the WAEMU members are required to deposit 50% of their reserve holdings to the operations account with the French Treasury in accordance with the Amendment to the Operations Account Convention signed by France and the BCEAO on September 20, 2005.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The CFA franc is officially pegged to the euro at the fixed exchange rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. Exchange rates for other currencies are derived from the rates for the currency concerned in the Paris foreign exchange market vis-à-vis the euro. The official rate is used for accounting and valuation. The Conference of Heads of State and Government may decide to amend the Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAMU member countries and France.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor

Yes.

U.S. dollar

Euro

Yes. The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro. The operational target of price stability is defined as an annual inflation rate in the WAEMU that falls within a band of ±1% around a central rate of 2%. The Harmonized Consumer Price Index is the benchmark rate to measure inflation.

Exchange tax  Yes.  Authorized intermediaries charge a commission of 0.6% on transfers to countries outside the WAEMU. This commission is transferred in full to the National Treasury and makes up part of its tax revenue.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  Authorized intermediaries (authorized intermediary banks and authorized nonelectronic exchange dealers) freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which must be traded against CFAF at the fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. The commission on foreign exchange transactions may not exceed 2%. Instruction No. 013-11-2015 on the terms and conditions for conducting rapid money transfers as a subagent within the WAEMU is in effect.

Spot exchange market  Yes.  Entities authorized to conduct nonelectronic foreign currency transactions are authorized intermediary banks and individuals or companies authorized by the minister of finance, with the consent of the BCEAO. As of December 31, 2018, there were 31 institutions, consisting of 13 banks and 18 licensed exchange dealers, currently authorized to trade on the foreign exchange market. Authorized intermediaries must comply with the provisions for nonelectronic exchange operations with euro banknotes and issue a receipt for all operations with customers. In addition, authorized intermediaries must (1) permanently post at their windows the rates actually charged for the different currencies and (2) post notification that a transaction slip must be issued for all foreign exchange transactions on presentation of the requestor’s identity document. As of December 31, 2018, there were 24 institutions licensed to deal in the foreign exchange market. The minister of finance issues approvals, after consulting the BCEAO authorized intermediaries must comply with the provisions for executing banknote foreign exchange transactions involving foreign currency and issue a receipt for all transactions with clients. Banks and registered banknote exchange houses are intermediaries authorized by the Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF) to carry out foreign exchange transactions with the public. The exchange houses may perform transactions in foreign currencies other than euros with the BCEAO. Registered banknote exchange houses may not make transfers or payment in foreign currencies with other countries or maintain accounts abroad.

In operations with customers, authorized intermediaries (authorized intermediary banks and OTC dealers) freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 and may be subject to a maximum commission of 2.0%.

Operated by the central bank: Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility: Yes.
The BCEAO exchanges foreign currency for CFA francs at the rates published in the international markets, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of 655.957 per euro. The nonelectronic currency exchange windows are open to owners of accounts on the BCEAO books and to the general public. A commission of 0.5% is charged on all transactions with the public (purchases and sales) and all withdrawals by banks and financial institutions (including euro withdrawals). However, commissions are not charged on cash foreign exchange transactions conducted by governments, officials of Member States of the WAMU on missions abroad, officials of the CB and their beneficiaries, and on payments made by banks and financial institutions.

Allocation: No.

Auction: No.

Fixing: No.

Interbank market: Yes.
Transactions in CFA francs between authorized intermediaries are allowed. At December 31, 2018, there were 13 commercial banks in Togo that participate in the domestic currency interbank market. There is no regulated foreign currency interbank market in the WAEMU.

Over the counter: Yes.

Brokerage: No.

Market making: No.

Forward exchange market: Yes.
Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to conduct the following transactions on the foreign exchange derivatives market... with authorized intermediary banks established in the WAMU or with foreign banks: outright forward foreign exchange contracts (over the counter), foreign exchange options, foreign exchange swaps, and cross-currency swaps.

Transactions in foreign exchange options are limited to the following two types of transactions: options to purchase foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign bank, or options to sell foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Authorized intermediary banks are required to simultaneously cover the exchange risk they incur with respect to derivative instruments traded with their customers.

The underlying commercial and financial operations must relate to imports and exports of goods and services by a resident, foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments), or FDI in a resident company.

All legitimate foreign currency needs are ultimately met by the BCEAO.

Official cover of forward operations  No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements  Yes.

Togo is linked to the French Treasury via the BCEAO through an operations account, through which settlements with France, Monaco, the Comoros, and the CEMAC member countries are made, mainly in euros. Trade with other WAEMU countries is settled in CFA francs.

Controls on the use of domestic currency  Yes.

The CFA franc may not be used as payment for current international transactions and for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU.

For current transactions and payments  Yes.

CFA francs may not be used for settlement of international transactions outside the WAEMU. However, the CFA franc is guaranteed unlimited convertibility through an open operating account with the French Treasury.

For capital transactions  Yes.

The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Investments by residents of the WAEMU zone outside the WAEMU are subject to prior authorization by the minister of finance, and at least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes.

Foreign investment by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to authorization by the MOF. At least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing. The interested party must request authorization through a letter designating the authorized intermediary to settle the payment. Purchases of foreign negotiable securities authorized by the regional capital markets authority to be issued or sold in WAEMU members do not require MEF authorization.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes.

Residents of WAEMU member countries may engage in the following operations on derivatives and other instruments with accredited banks established in the WAEMU or foreign banks: (1) forward contract, foreign exchange swaps, and options. Operations on derivatives with foreign banks outside the WAEMU can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.
Credit operations Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted by authorized intermediaries to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to prior authorization by the Directorate of External Financial Relations of the Ministry of Finance, after BCEAO approval.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. The CFA franc is the only legal tender, and residents of the WAEMU zone may not use foreign exchange for domestic transactions.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements No.

Operative No.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements Yes. An operations account is maintained with the French Treasury that links operations account countries. All purchases and sales of foreign currency and euros against CFA francs are ultimately settled through a debit or credit to the operations account.

Clearing agreements Yes. There is a multilateral clearing agreement between the WAEMU countries and the other ECOWAS member countries (Cabo Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone) as part of the WAMA. All payments for current transactions between countries whose CBs are WAMA members may be made under the clearing agreement. However, this excludes transactions specified by the committee of governors of the CBs of ECOWAS members and payments for exports from one member country to another member country of finished products originating in countries whose CB or monetary authority is not a WAMA member.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes. The institutional reform of the WAMU and the BCEAO went into effect April 1, 2010, with the adoption of the following new basic instruments: (1) the WAMU Treaty, (2) the BCEAO Charter, (3) the Bank Regulation Act, and (4) the Convention governing the WAMU Banking Commission. Exchange control is administered jointly by the MOF and the BCEAO. Most of the authority to supervise foreign exchange transactions is delegated to authorized banks, which are required to report these operations to the MOF. The BCEAO is also authorized to collect—either directly or through banks, financial institutions, the postal administration, or judicial agents—information necessary to compile balance of payments statistics. Customs officers monitor outflows of foreign exchange and confirm importation and exportation of goods. All WAEMU residents are treated as residents of Togo for the purposes of calculating the external position of banks, domiciliation and repatriation of export revenue, issuance and sales of securities, gold imports and exports, investment and lending transactions, and the material exportation of means of payment and of securities by postal package or ordinary mail. However, for statistical purposes with regard to the balance of payments, all countries other than Togo are considered foreign countries. Moreover, all transfer transactions with other countries must be made through the registered intermediary banks, the postal service, or the BCEAO.

Payments arrears No.

Official No.

Private No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

On domestic ownership and/or trade: No.

On external trade: Yes. Gold imports and exports require MOF authorization, except (1) imports and exports by the Public Treasury and the BCEAO; (2) imports and exports of items with a low gold content (lined or plated objects); and (3) imports and exports, by travelers, of objects made of gold limited to a total weight of 500 grams.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

On exports:

- Domestic currency: Yes. Travelers may freely export CFA franc banknotes from one WAEMU member country to another. Resident individuals (from a WAEMU member country) and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving CFA franc banknotes issued by the BCEAO.

- Foreign currency: Yes. The reexportation of foreign banknotes by nonresident travelers (that is, residing outside of a WAEMU member country) is permitted up to the equivalent of CFAF 5,00,000; reexportation of foreign banknotes above this ceiling requires documentation demonstrating either the importation of the foreign banknotes or their purchase against other means of payment registered in the name of the traveler or through the use of nonresident deposit accounts in local banks. Nonresident travelers must declare to customs foreign currency exceeding the equivalent of CFAF 1 million on exit. Residents of the WAEMU zone traveling to countries that are not WAEMU members are required to declare foreign currency on their person in excess the equivalent of CFAF 1 million. They are allowed to carry up to the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person in banknotes not issued by the BCEAO. Amounts in excess of this ceiling may be exported in the form of traveler’s checks, prepaid debit and payment cards, conventional debit and payment cards, or other means of payment. Foreign exchange allowances issued by authorized intermediaries in the form of traveler’s checks or prepaid debit and payment cards must be based on the need to cover customary, personal travel expenses, if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person. The issue of foreign currency to resident travelers is subject to the presentation of travel documents and a valid passport or national identification card.

On imports:

- Domestic currency: Yes. Resident and nonresident travelers may freely import domestic currency. However, WAEMU resident individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from receiving banknotes in domestic currency.

- Foreign currency: No. There are no restrictions on resident and nonresident travelers’ importation of foreign-currency-denominated means of payment, which must be declared to customs authorities if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 1 million. Resident travelers must surrender foreign banknotes and other foreign-currency-denominated means of payment exceeding CFAF 5,00,000 to an authorized intermediary within eight days of arrival in any WAEMU member country.

Individuals who are resident of the WAEMU temporarily staying or traveling outside of WAEMU may open bank accounts outside the WAEMU to deposit foreign currency legally exported and any income acquired outside of the WAEMU during their travel or temporary stay outside of the WAEMU. These individuals are required to repatriate balances on such accounts within 30 days of return to the WAEMU. In any circumstance other than the foregoing, opening of foreign accounts by WAEMU residents is subject to MOF authorization by after non-objection from the BCEAO. The MOF authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on such accounts. In the event of a failure to obtain a new MOF authorization, the accredited intermediary must request that the account be closed by the end of the term authorized and that any balance be repatriated to a WAEMU member country within eight days.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements

Yes. Proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be repatriated. Residents of the WAEMU zone are required to surrender to an authorized intermediary all revenues and income in foreign currency collected abroad or received from a nonresident. Such operations must be conducted within no more than one month after the payment due date.

Surrender requirements

Yes.

Surrender to the central bank

Yes. Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers

Yes. Proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be surrendered to an AD within one month. Residents of the WAEMU zone must surrender foreign currency revenue and proceeds received abroad or remitted by a nonresident to an authorized intermediary bank within one month of the payment due date. Resident travelers must surrender to an authorized intermediary, within eight days of their arrival in Togo, foreign banknotes and other means of payment denominated in foreign currency worth more than the equivalent of CFAF 5,00,000. Resident travelers must surrender foreign banknotes and other foreign-currency-denominated means of payment exceeding the equivalent of CFAF 5,00,000 to an authorized intermediary within eight days of arrival in Togo.

Restrictions on use of funds

No.
Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions  Yes.  Capital transactions between WAEMU countries are unrestricted. Outward capital transfers require MOF authorization, except (1) amortization of debts and repayment of short-term loans to finance industrial and commercial operations, (2) payments required on foreign exchange derivatives transactions or raw material or commodity derivatives transactions, and (3) transfers of the proceeds of liquidated investments or the sale of foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. Capital receipts from non-WAEMU countries are generally permitted.

Repatriation requirements  Yes.  Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated within one month through a registered intermediary, if the resident does not have a reinvestment authorization.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  Yes.  Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes.  The proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated and surrendered, if the resident has no reinvestment authorization, within one month through an authorized intermediary. The surrender requirement applies to proceeds from all capital transactions.

Controls on capital and money market instruments  Yes.  RCPSFM authorization is required for the following operations: (1) issuance or marketing of securities and real assets of foreign entities, (2) canvassing, and (3) publicity or advertising for investment abroad. Nonresident entities that solicit the public of the WAEMU must obtain BCEAO authorization as the entity in charge of regulating the external financial relations of the WAEMU countries. Securities and mutual funds issued outside the WAEMU by a private or public entity that is not a resident of a member country may not be listed on a regional securities exchange. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

On capital market securities  Yes.  The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  No.  Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are unrestricted. However, these purchases are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.  The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization, with the prior authorization of the BCEAO.
acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the MOF for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad is subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of Togolese entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. Residents of the WAEMU zone may also issue securities abroad, except for those constituting a loan.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes. The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. These purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. There is no minimum holding period.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires an exchange authorization from the MOF and supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries is authorized by the RCPSFM. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad is subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of domestic establishments, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. Issuance of securities abroad constituting a loan to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized intermediary bank and must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes.

On money market instruments

Yes. The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to declaration for statistical purposes only.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The issuance and sale of money market instruments by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization, with authorization of the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of money market instruments resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of money market instrument transactions by transfer abroad or credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the MOF for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation (Article 8, Rule No. 09/10/CM/UEMOA).

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. The purchase of foreign money market instruments by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign money market instruments whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. The sale of money market instruments to liquidate an investment abroad is subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue abroad by residents No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell money market instruments abroad, except those constituting a loan. Sales liquidating an investment abroad are subject to declaration to the minister of finance for statistical purposes.

On collective investment securities Yes. The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents No. These purchases are subject to prior declaration to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization with the authorization of the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority regulating external financial relations. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the MOF for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

Sale or issue abroad by residents No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial and financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using derivatives. They must be backed by the residents of the WAEMU zone imports or exports of raw materials and commodities. Residents of the WAEMU zone are not authorized to purchase raw materials or commodities on foreign markets for delivery within the framework of a derivatives transaction in raw materials or commodities.
Purchase locally by nonresidents

No.

The purchase of derivatives by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone on the domestic market is treated as a loan contracted by a resident with a nonresident. As such, it is permitted. The purchase must be executed through an authorized intermediary and must be reported to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

No.

These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone do not require prior authorization to purchase foreign exchange derivatives from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone may freely purchase abroad or from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone call or put options on primary commodities or securities transactions. Residents of the WAEMU zone may not purchase commodities or securities in foreign markets to be delivered in complying with a put option contract. Put options must be placed on assets that can be acquired locally by the resident seller for delivery abroad in execution of the contract. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency purchase options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes.

Residents of the WAEMU zone do not require prior authorization to purchase foreign currency put options in the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Controls on credit operations

Yes.

Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be conducted through authorized intermediaries (whenever borrowed funds are made available for use in the country), unless otherwise indicated by the MOF.

Commercial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

There are no controls on credits related to exports of goods, provided the date on which payment falls due is not more than 120 days after the date of shipment.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally conducted without prior authorization, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered, as well as the payment due date, to the licensed intermediary bank responsible for handling the repayment.

Financial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

These credits require MOF approval. Outward transfers necessary to service such facilities require an exchange authorization, subject to the approval of the MOF and substantiated by documentation.

To residents from nonresidents

No.

There are no controls on these credits, but they must be reported for statistical purposes to the MOF and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid, except for the following credits: (1) mail overdrafts: CFA franc overdrafts for durations not to exceed the normal mail delivery times; (2) LCs available by acceptance, issued to exporters at the request of the authorized intermediaries’ foreign correspondent banks; and (3) credit provided pursuant to a financial agreement between a WAEMU member country and a foreign government or pursuant to an interbank arrangement approved by the Directorate of External Finance. The necessary funds must be transferred from abroad through an authorized agent. There are no controls on repayment of loans, provided the authorized agent handling the settlement is furnished with documentation attesting to the validity of the transaction. Borrowing abroad is unrestricted.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions | Yes. | The Uniform Act concerning dormant accounts on the books of financial institutions of WAMU member countries, adopted by the WAMU Council of Ministers, took effect September 28, 2012. WAMU Council of Ministers Decision No. CM/UMOA/023/12/2012 of December 14, 2012, establishes the deadline (December 31, 2013) for insertion of the uniform act into the WAMU members' national legal systems. The relevant provisions were adopted by the Togolese National Assembly on June 12, 2014, and formally enacted by the President of the Republic on June 16, 2014.

Borrowing abroad | No. | Foreign borrowing is unrestricted. For statistical purposes, these transactions must be declared to the MOF and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid.

Maintenance of accounts abroad | No. | Banks and financial institutions are authorized to open accounts with their correspondent banks for settling transactions on their own behalf or on behalf of their customers. However, banks are not authorized to hold in these accounts amounts that exceed their current requirements. In accordance with Regulation No. 09/2010/CM/UEMOA on the External Financial Relations of the WAEMU Member States, to cover their foreign currency...
requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency. The total amount of these assets may not exceed 5% of the clients’ outstanding demand deposits. Assets in excess of foreign currency requirements must be surrendered to the BCEAO.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes. Commercial lending is allowed. Financial credits are subject to MOF authorization following BCEAO approval.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. There are no explicit regulations regarding these transactions, but MOF authorization is required with BCEAO approval.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange Yes. These purchases require MOF authorization if their issuance was not approved by the RCPSFM (Conseil Régional de l'Epargne Publique et des Marchés Financiers – CREPMF in French).

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange

Reserve requirements Yes. A reserve requirement of 3% applies to WAEMU banks. Demand deposits, other deposit accounts, and loan accounts are included in the base for the calculation of the required reserves. The base for the calculation of the required reserves to be held with the CB includes customer foreign currency deposits.

Liquid asset requirements Yes. According to the prudential framework applicable to WAEMU banks and financial institutions that perform banking operations, the minimum standard liquid asset requirement is 75%.

Interest rate controls No.

Credit controls Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to MOF authorization, after BCEAO approval. These claims are included in the external position of banks and financial institutions, which is subject to special monitoring.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents

Reserve requirements No.

Liquid asset requirements No.

Interest rate controls No.

Credit controls Yes. Any overdraft or advance granted to a nonresident requires MOF authorization and BCEAO approval.

Investment regulations Yes. The regulations governing direct investment apply.

Abroad by banks Yes. All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM (Conseil Régional de l'Epargne Publique et des Marchés Financiers – CREPMF in French).

In banks by nonresidents Yes. These transactions may, depending on their volume, be subject to MOF authorization. According to the banking law, investment in a bank by any person that would change the blocking minority and/or the majority of voting rights requires authorization of the MOF.

Open foreign exchange position limits Yes. No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts to assist in the smooth completion of international payments, up to the equivalent of 5% of total customer demand deposits. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

On resident assets and liabilities

No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts to assist in the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

On nonresident assets and liabilities

No prudential ratios apply. Banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions because of the surrender requirement. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts to assist in the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Yes.

Insurance companies

Yes. Controls are imposed by the Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) of the CFA franc area members.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes. Insurance companies may subscribe up to 40% of the total amount of regulated commitments of securities issued by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone that are offered publicly and traded regularly in a regulated market controlled by a CIMA member and listed by the Control Commission after approval by the appropriate CB or after being officially listed on a stock exchange of a CIMA member country (Paragraph 2 of Article 335-1 of the Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets).

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
Yes. The exchange rate arrangement is a pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands. The external value of the pa'anga is determined on the basis of a weighted currency basket comprising the US dollar, Australian dollar, New Zealand dollar, and Fijian dollar. The basket weights are determined based on the proportions of trade with trading partners. The weights are not published. The exchange rate of the pa'anga in terms of the US dollar, the intervention currency, is fixed.
daily by the NRBT within a band of ±5% a month. The NRBT does not publish intervention data. Under Section 34 of the NRBT Act, the external value of the pa’anga is determined from time to time in a manner approved by the NRBT board, after consultation with the Ministry of Finance and National Planning, in view of Tonga’s obligations connected with international monetary agreements in which it takes part. Section 35(1) of the NRBT Act empowers the NRBT to set the exchange rate.

Official exchange rate  Yes. The NRBT sets the US dollar–pa’anga exchange rate daily which the banks use to set their exchange rates for the public. The official exchange rate set by the NRBT is the rate applicable for the transactions conducted by the NRBT for its customers which are the banks, government, public enterprises, and other international agencies. The value of the pa’anga, which is the official exchange rate, is determined on the basis of a weighted currency basket comprising the US dollar, Australian dollar, New Zealand dollar, and Fijian dollar.

The monetary policy framework includes an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis a composite comprising the US dollar, Australian dollar, New Zealand dollar, and Fijian dollar. The exchange rate basket is intended to reduce exchange rate variability, maintain external competitiveness, and minimize imported inflation. The monetary policy framework also includes monitoring the monetary aggregates but no targets are set. A policy rate is also set which is equivalent to the interest rate paid on commercial banks’ exchange settlement account with the CB. The policy rate floor system is currently set at zero. The CB board determines the monetary policy settings, and the board’s decision is published on a monthly basis following the board’s monthly meetings.

A levy is imposed on foreign exchange transactions. It is assessed and paid at a rate of one half of a cent imposed as part of the spread of the pa’anga value of every purchase and sale of foreign currency. Levy only applies if the spread is more than one half of a cent.

Commercial banks and the authorized foreign exchange dealers may freely set their exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients, with the exception of banks’ spreads on telegraphic transfers in US dollar, Australian dollar, and New Zealand dollar which are limited to 220 basis points, 300 basis points, and 350 basis points, respectively.

The NRBT has licensed four commercial banks and twelve foreign exchange dealers (FEDs). Only licensed banks may make spot foreign exchange transactions directly with the NRBT, while FEDs transact only with the commercial banks. FEDs can conduct money conversion (conversion of foreign currency notes to/from Tongan pa’anga) and/or remittances business (inward and outward remittances). Five of the FEDs holds license Type A, six holds license Type B and only one with license Type C. FEDs with Type A are authorized to conduct money conversion, make foreign currency payments on behalf of their clients, and receive fund from overseas (both inward and outward remittances). FEDs with license Type B are authorized to receive funds from overseas only (inward remittances), and license Type C is for money conversion only. Licensed banks are authorized under their banking license to conduct foreign exchange business. Licensed banks and FEDs can maintain accounts abroad.

Operated by the central bank
Yes. The NRBT operates a foreign exchange fixing arrangement.

Foreign exchange standing facility
Yes. The NRBT sets the US dollar–pa’anga rate on a daily basis and buys and sells foreign exchange at these exchange rates with commercial banks. The NRBT deals with commercial banks and the government, public enterprises, and international agencies on demand. For the commercial banks’ transactions, they are required to list all the underlying customers. All foreign currency payments from Tongan pa’anga accounts, through either the commercial banks or the NRBT, are subject to the Exchange Control requirements, so supporting documents are provided accordingly which would verify if the transactions are bona fide.

Allocation
No.

Auction
No.

Fixing
No.

Interbank market
Yes. There are four commercial banks, which are licensed by the NRBT, and they may trade among themselves. The NRBT does not intervene directly with market participants at their quoted rates. The NRBT sets the US dollar–Tongan pa’anga exchange rate which is used for the NRBT’s daily foreign currency transactions with the commercial banks, and these deals are at the commercial banks’ initiative. Commercial banks also maintain nostro accounts, and their total balances must not exceed T$1 million daily, with the exception of one commercial bank with a temporary limit of T$2.5 million which was necessary to allow this bank to meet the minimum requirements for a US dollar correspondent bank account in Australia. Excess foreign exchange must be sold to the NRBT within two business days. The NRBT imposes limits on commercial banks’ spread on telegraphic transfers in US dollar, Australian dollar, and New Zealand dollar of 220 bp, 300 bp, and 350 bp, respectively. There are no limits on the spreads for the interbank foreign currency transactions (among commercial banks only).

Over the counter
No.

Brokerage
No.

Market making
Yes. The foreign exchange market operations (commercial banks and their own customers) are based on a market-making agreement.

Forward exchange market
Yes. Commercial banks may provide forward exchange cover for their own customers up to the equivalent of each bank’s capital position as of September 30, 2013. The NRBT does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

Official cover of forward operations
No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) No.

On domestic ownership and/or trade No.

On external trade No.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes Yes. Removal or export of cash across the border equivalent to or more than T$10,000 must be approved by the NRBT.

On exports Yes.

Domestic currency Yes. Cash exports of T$10,000 or more (both domestic and foreign currency cash totaling to an equivalent of T$10,000 or more) require NRBT approval under the Foreign Exchange Control Act 2018. The Customs Act restricts exports of cash except with written permission of the NRBT governor. It is required to present valid passport, airline ticket, and evidence of source of cash.

Foreign currency Yes. Cash exports of T$10,000 or more (both domestic and foreign currency cash totaling to an equivalent of T$10,000 or more) require NRBT approval under the Foreign Exchange Control Act 2018. The Customs Act restricts exports of cash except with written permission of the NRBT governor. It is required to present valid passport, airline ticket, and evidence of source of cash.

All exports of cash cargo and hand carry of cash of T$10,000 or more must be declared to Customs. Failure to declare to Customs amounts to a false misleading declaration under the Customs and Excise Management Act Order 2007; the sanctions include administrative penalties under Section 82 and prosecution under Section 93B of the Act.

On imports No.

Domestic currency No. Cash imports of T$10,000 or more are restricted under customs laws and must be declared on the arrival card. Approval is not required.

Foreign currency No. Cash imports equivalent to T$10,000 or more are restricted under customs laws and must be declared on the arrival card. Approval is not required.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Held domestically Yes. Foreign exchange accounts can be opened for both residents and nonresidents. The NRBT allows banks to open these accounts as long as the funds come from abroad. Effective November 1, 2018, outward transfers from foreign currency accounts require NRBT approval for amounts above T$100,000 (previously, such transfers did not require approval). Any deposit and/or withdrawal to/from the foreign currency accounts from/to a local Tongan pa'anga account or another local foreign currency account must be converted to its Tongan pa'anga equivalent first before they are converted back to the relevant foreign currency.

Approval required Yes. NRBT approval is required to open foreign currency accounts or make payments to these accounts that are sourced from local funds.

Held abroad Yes. Residents may freely open and maintain foreign exchange accounts abroad. NRBT approval is required for the transfer of funds from Tongan pa'anga accounts held locally (subject to the Exchange Control requirements) to accounts held abroad.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts can be opened for residents and nonresidents. The NRBT allows banks to open these accounts as long as the funds come from abroad. Effective November 1, 2018, outward transfers from foreign currency accounts require NRBT approval for amounts above T$100,000 (previously, such transfers did not require approval). Any deposit and/or withdrawal to/from the foreign currency accounts from/to a local Tongan pa’anga account or another local foreign currency account must be converted to its Tongan pa’anga equivalent first before converted back to the relevant foreign currency.

NRBT approval is required to open these accounts or make payments to these accounts if they are sourced from local funds.

Nonresidents may convert the balances of their pa’anga accounts held domestically with banks to foreign currency and transfer abroad in compliance with the Exchange Control requirements. Nonresident withholding tax on interest of 15% of the gross amount is applicable.

NRBT approval is required for transfers from domestic currency accounts to foreign currency accounts held in Tonga as per the Exchange Control requirements. Tax clearance is required if funds are sent overseas for amounts above T$10,000.

Imports and Import Payments

An accumulated delegated limit of T$500,000 an applicant on advanced import payments is granted to banks. Once this limit is exceeded, NRBT approval is required. An invoice is required and once the goods arrived and were cleared by customs, the customs import entry forms need to be submitted to the NRBT.
Letters of credit | No.
Import licenses used as exchange licenses | No.
Other | Yes.
Import licenses and other nontariff measures | Yes.

The NRBT’s Exchange Control requirements for import payments include an invoice and customs import entry forms.

Licenses are required for selected imports, such as firearms, explosives, alcoholic beverages, tobacco and cigarettes and other restricted imports. A business license is required for all commercial imports and other commercial merchandise. Goods imported under this license must not (1) be counterfeit; (2) be labeled in a way that is false, misleading, or deceptive as to the nature or character of the goods; or (3) be described or presented on any label by words or pictures or in any way that suggests any other goods with which such goods may be confused. Labeling must be in Tongan or English.

Positive list | No.
Negative list | Yes.

Imports of noxious gases and fireworks are prohibited. The following are prohibited under Business Licenses Act 2002, Schedule 1: (1) storage, disposal, or transportation of nuclear or toxic waste; (2) pornography; (3) exportation, importation, or production of products prohibited under the laws of Tonga; (4) prostitution; (5) processing or exportation of endangered species; and (6) production of weapons. The following are prohibited under the Customs and Excise Management Act Order 2007: (1) Base or counterfeit or imitation currency or banknote or fictitious postage or revenue stamps of any country and any dye, plate, instrument, or materials capable of making any such coin, currency, or banknote or any such revenue or postal stamps. (2) Counterfeit goods. (3) Indecent or obscene books, paintings, drawings, cards, lithographic or other engravings, photographs, prints, films, or other indecent products which depict child pornography. (4) Goods bearing the Royal Arms of the Kingdom or arms so closely resembling such arms as to be calculated to deceive unless the importer of such goods holds His Majesty’s written authority to use them in connection with his trade, business, calling, or profession. (5) All books, written or printed matter, and sounds and visual recordings which the chief commissioner by notice declares to be prohibited imports on account of any copyright or intellectual property right laws which apply in the Kingdom. (6) All books and any written or printed matter and sound and visual recordings which the chief commissioner by notice declares to be seditious or which advocate violence, lawlessness, or disorder. (7) All toxic or hazardous wastes. (8) Goods the importation of which is prohibited by any other law in force in the Kingdom.

Open general licenses | No.
Licenses with quotas | Yes.
Other nontariff measures | No.
Import taxes and/or tariffs | Yes.

Imports of certain items are restricted for cultural, environmental, health, or security reasons. Imports of ozone-depleting substances and imports of firearms and ammunition have predetermined quotas.

Ad valorem import tariffs on most goods range up to 20%. Some items (including petroleum, tobacco, vehicles, alcoholic beverages) are subject to specific excise tax rates (petroleum, T$0.65 a liter; tobacco, effective July 1, 2018, T$600 for 1,000 sticks/1 kg (imported) (previously T$450) and T$500 for 1,000 sticks/1 kg —locally manufactured (previously T$350)); vehicles, T$0.25–T $1.00 a cc of engine capacity; and alcohol, effective July 1, 2018, T $65 per lal (lal stands for liters of alcohol contained in a mixture) for imports (previously T$60), T$25 per lal for locally produced beer.
(previously T$20), and T$35 for locally produced spirits (previously T$30). The government is not exempt from duty or taxes. Imports are also subject to a 15% consumption tax, which registered businesses may claim back as input tax. Imports by public international organizations, foreign governments, participants in agreements with the government of Tonga, and charitable organizations do not pay consumption tax, and the rate is zero on fuel, aircraft, and vessel parts for use in public domestic air and shipping services. Imports by diplomatic missions, international organizations, officers under technical assistance agreements, charitable organizations, and returning residents (absent for two years) are exempt from tariffs and taxes. Electricity is zero rated for consumption tax, and there are exemptions from duty and consumption tax for agricultural and fishing sector inputs. Some manufacturing inputs are also duty free.

NRBT Prudential Statement No. 11 imposes limits on overall net positions (25% of eligible capital) and single currency net positions (12.5% of eligible capital).
Changes during 2018 and 2019

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Administration of control

11/01/2018  Lending institutions in Tonga were delegated authority to lend to nonresident individuals and businesses without the prior approval of the Reserve Bank. Previously, National Reserve Bank of Tonga approval was required for loans in excess of T$50,000 to nonresident individuals and any entity in Tonga that was controlled (directly or indirectly) by persons residing outside Tonga. The foreign controlled entity was required to submit its latest audited accounts and a tax clearance as required by the Ministry of Revenue and Customs.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Held domestically

11/01/2018  Outward transfers from foreign currency accounts require National Reserve Bank of Tonga approval for amounts above T$100,000. Previously, such transfers did not require approval.

11/01/2018  Any deposit and/or withdrawal to/from the foreign currency accounts from/to a local Tongan pa’anga account or another local foreign currency account must be converted to its Tongan pa’anga equivalent first before they are converted back to the relevant foreign currency.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

11/01/2018  Outward transfers from foreign currency accounts require National Reserve Bank of Tonga approval for amounts above T$100,000. Previously, such transfers did not require approval.

11/01/2018  Any deposit and/or withdrawal to/from the foreign currency accounts from/to a local Tongan pa’anga account or another local foreign currency account must be converted to its Tongan pa’anga equivalent first before converted back to the relevant foreign currency.

Imports and Import Payments

Import taxes and/or tariffs

07/01/2018  The excise taxes were increased as follows: tobacco, T$600 for 1,000 sticks/1 kg (imported) (previously T$450) and T$500 for 1,000 sticks/1 kg —locally manufactured (previously T$350); and alcohol, T$65 per lal (lal stands for liters of alcohol contained in a mixture) for imports (previously T$60), T$25 per lal for locally produced beer (previously T$20), and T$35 for locally produced spirits (previously T$30).

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

11/01/2018  Exporters of goods are required to repatriate back to a Tongan pa’anga account with a bank that is licensed in Tonga within six months from the date of export at least 60% of foreign exchange earnings from the sale of goods, unless approval has been granted by the Reserve Bank for an extension of this period or the retention of funds in a foreign currency account with a local bank or overseas.
Surrender to authorized dealers 1/1/2018
Repatriated export proceeds must be surrendered on repatriation, unless approval has been granted by the Reserve Bank for an extension of this period or the retention of funds in a foreign currency account with a local bank or overseas.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions 1/1/2018
Lending institutions in Tonga were delegated authority to lend to nonresident individuals and businesses without the prior approval of the Reserve Bank. Previously, National Reserve Bank of Tonga approval was required for loans in excess of T$50,000 to nonresident individuals and any entity in Tonga that was controlled (directly or indirectly) by persons residing outside Tonga. The foreign controlled entity was required to submit its latest audited accounts and a tax clearance as required by the Ministry of Revenue and Customs.

Repatriation requirements 1/1/2018
In the event that the level of foreign reserves falls to critical levels of two months equivalent of imports of goods and services, local companies will be required to take all reasonable steps to realize their offshore investment and any amount that is due or has been accrued on the investment must be repatriated back to Tonga. The repatriation of funds is to be conducted within two months from the date of notification from National Reserve Bank of Tonga, and funds must be transferred and held in an account with a bank that is licensed in Tonga. Failure to comply with such requirements is an offence under the Foreign Exchange Control Act 2018 and will be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding T$10,000 in the case of an individual or a fine not exceeding T$200,000 in a case of a body corporate.

Controls on credit operations 1/1/2018
Lending institutions in Tonga were delegated authority to lend to nonresident individuals and businesses without the prior approval of the Reserve Bank. Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2018 Article IV Consultation with Trinidad and Tobago states that, as of August 6, 2018, Trinidad and Tobago maintained an exchange restriction and two MCPs subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a) and Section 3. The exchange restriction arises from the authorities’ restriction of the exchange rate (that is, by restricting the maximum market buying and selling rates, and prohibiting foreign exchange transactions beyond the maximum rates), while not providing enough foreign exchange (that is, through the Central Bank of Trinidad and Tobago (CBTT’s) foreign exchange interventions) to meet all demand for current transactions at that rate. The CBTT also limits sales of its foreign exchange intervention funds to meeting only “trade-related” demand, which do not include non-trade transactions that are, however, current international transactions as defined under Article XXX(d) of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement, and encourages ADs to similarly prioritize sales of foreign exchange obtained from other sources. Further, the authorities prioritize provision of foreign exchange to certain manufacturers through a special foreign exchange facility using the Export–Import Bank of Trinidad and Tobago (EximBank). These actions result in undue delays in access to foreign exchange to make payments or transfers for current international transactions and external payment arrears. The two MCPs arise from the absence of a mechanism to prevent the potential deviation of more than 2% at any given time among several effective exchange rates regulated by the authorities, for spot exchange transactions; namely: (1) The potential 2% deviation between: (a) on the one hand, the CBTT’s intervention rate and the ADs’ selling rates (the maximum of which is anchored on the intervention rate plus fixed margins), and (b) on the other hand, the ADs’ buying rates (the maximum of which is limited at the previous day’s mid-rate). (2) The potential 2% deviation between: (a) on the one hand, the buying and selling rates for foreign exchange transactions between the CBTT and the government, and (b) on the other hand, the ADs’ selling rates. (Country Report No. 18/285)

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
The system is multiple as the authorities’ actions give rise to several exchange rates for spot exchange transactions, resulting in MCPs. The exchange rates for spot transactions in effect include: (1) the CBTT’s intervention rate, (2) the ADs’ selling rates, the ceiling of which is set by the CBTT based on fixed margins over the latest intervention rate, (3) the ADs’ buying rates for purchases from the market, the ceiling of which is established at the prior day’s mid-rate as guided and monitored by the CBTT, (4) the CBTT to government’s selling rate, which is set at the prior day’s average selling rate, and (5) the CBTT from government’s buying rate, which is set at the prior day’s mid-rate. The two MCPs arise from the absence of a mechanism to prevent the potential deviation of more than 2% at any given time among these multiple effective exchange rates regulated by the authorities, for spot exchange transactions, namely:

- (1) the potential 2% deviation between: (a) on the one hand, the CBTT’s intervention rate and the ADs’ selling rates (the maximum of which is anchored on the intervention rate plus fixed margins), and (b) on the other hand, the ADs’ buying rates (the maximum of which is limited at the previous day’s mid-rate).
- (2) the potential 2% deviation between: (a) on the one hand, the buying and selling rates for foreign exchange transactions between the CBTT and the government, and (b) on the other hand, the ADs’ selling rates.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The CBTT intervenes regularly, and with no significant developments in the domestic foreign exchange market, the exchange rate has remained relatively stable. Because the Trinidad and Tobago dollar stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as stabilized. It publishes monthly purchases and sales by the CB and ADs, with a one-day lag.
process specific transactions and is calculated as the weighted average exchange rate for the US dollar of all transactions settled during a business day by commercial banks and other ADs. The selling and buying rates have a ceiling that is defined by a fixed margin over the latest intervention rate, and the prior day’s mid-rate as guided and monitored by the CB. The intervention rate is not published.

Eight commercial banks and four nonbank financial institutions may conduct foreign exchange transactions, both spot and forward, with the public without limitation. ADs will determine their trading rates to maintain a maximum spread of 1% above the CB intervention rate with fixed margins thereafter for all spot transactions. (Please refer to section III.D)

As of June 30, 2019, there were 12 institutions: 8 commercial banks and 4 nonbank financial institutions, licensed by the CBTT to deal in foreign exchange with the public. These institutions constitute the group of ADs. Foreign exchange bureaus are also licensed by the CBTT, but they may only buy currency notes, coins, and traveler’s checks and sell currency notes and coins (Clause 1 of the Terms and Conditions agreed to by all operators on the issuance of a license from the CBTT). As of June 30, 2019, there were six authorized foreign exchange bureau operators with 60 locations; they do not conduct foreign exchange transactions directly with the CBTT. On April 24, 2018, following a directive from the MOF on behalf of the government, the CBTT granted one limited AD license to the EximBank. The terms and conditions of this license are in accordance with the existing laws and regulations. The authorities prioritize provision of foreign exchange to certain manufacturers through the EximBank. Effective May 4, 2018, the US$100-million EximBank Facility was launched, through which eligible small and medium exporters would be able to obtain foreign exchange to finance inputs for export operations.

Until May 2012, the CBTT intervened in the foreign exchange market solely through a predetermined allocation system. In May 2012, the CBTT introduced an auction system that operated alongside its usual fixed allocation system for a portion of its intervention. The last auction held under this system was in June 2014.
Auction
Yes.

In May 2012, the CBTT introduced an auction system that operated alongside its usual predetermined allocation system for a portion of its intervention. The last auction held under this system was in June 2014. The system used was a multiple price auction, with no restriction on prices bid by dealers, except for the ceiling set on the selling rate. The amount of foreign exchange sold by the CBTT is publicly disclosed periodically. The timing of interventions/auctions depends on prevailing market conditions. Dealers may sell funds acquired at the auctions to satisfy their clients' demands and are not bound by specific transactions. ADs may resell foreign exchange proceeds obtained in a competitive auction up to the price of their successful bidding rate. ADs must abide by the rules governing the conduct of the foreign exchange market.

Fixing
No.

There is an interbank foreign exchange market, which comprises 12 ADs licensed by the CB. The ADs trade among themselves at freely determined rates, without any additional conditions. The CBTT does not intervene directly with individual participants.

Over the counter
Yes.

The market operates over the counter. The CBTT intervenes directly by selling, at its discretion, foreign currency to ADs in amounts and at prices that it determines based on market conditions.

Brokerage
No.

Market making
No.

Forward exchange market
Yes.

Only ADs may engage in forward transactions, which are used on a very limited basis.

Official cover of forward operations
No.

The FIA defines “credit exposures” as amount at risk arising through the extension of credit or funds by a licensee and includes, inter alia “… investments including equities, participations, guarantees and acceptance.”

All institutions licensed under the FIA, 2008 must comply with the limits on credit exposures under Section 42(1) of the FIA, whether securities are purchased locally and/or abroad / if denominated in local and/or foreign currency (lending is limited to 25% of capital base, except for exposures which are exempted under Section 42(1)(a) – (g)).

Foreign currency deposits are not covered by deposit insurance.

The reserve requirement applicable to domestic currency deposits in banks is 17%. From time to time, the CB may also request licensed bank and nonbank financial institutions to hold a certain percentage of their prescribed liabilities in a secondary reserve, usually on a remunerated basis. A secondary (remunerated) reserve requirement of 2% was removed August 2, 2018.

In addition to the primary and secondary reserves requirement, the CB has from time to time, requested that commercial banks deposit some proportion of their prescribed liabilities in an interest-bearing facility at the CB for an agreed timeframe.

A reserve requirement of 9% applies to nonbank institutions. There are no reserve requirements on foreign currency deposits.

A liquid asset ratio of 20% on foreign currency deposits is required.
The second schedule (SS) of the Insurance Act imposes controls and lists assets approved for pledging to the statutory fund. Allowable investment assets include (1) bonds, debentures, and other evidence of indebtedness by issuers approved by the Act; (2) guaranteed investment certificates issued by a trust company in approved countries; (3) ordinary or preferred shares of a company incorporated in Trinidad and Tobago and approved by the CBTT; (4) ordinary or preferred shares of a company incorporated in any country approved by the CBTT; (5) units, certificates, and other evidence of participation in an indebtedness program of the Unit Trust Corporation of Trinidad and Tobago; (6) unit certificates and other evidence of participation in financial assets not exceeding 10% of the statutory fund requirement and whose portfolio is regulated by approved countries; (7) mortgages and real estate in Trinidad and Tobago; and (8) cash deposits in any bank or other financial institution licensed under the FIA.

Restrictions under the SS are as follows: (1) Investments in ordinary shares may not exceed 50% of the statutory fund requirement in Trinidad and Tobago. (2) Investments in real estate or leaseholds may not exceed 20% of the value or assets required to satisfy the statutory fund requirement of a company engaged in long-term insurance business. (3) No single mortgage may exceed 10% of the total assets of the company. (4) Investment is not allowed in trust bonds, debentures, or other evidence of indebtedness on which payment of principal or interest is in default. (5) Investments in a single corporation may not exceed 30% of the ordinary shares of the corporation. (6) Life insurance companies may not, with respect to that business, purchase the shares of a company incorporated in Trinidad and Tobago and engaged in such business.

Securities issued by nonresidents approved to be pledged to the statutory fund must be issued by companies incorporated in any Commonwealth country or dependency of Ireland, any member country of the OECD, the USA, the country in which the head office of the company is situated or a country specifically approved by the CB.

The Insurance Act stipulates that foreign assets held in the statutory fund are limited to 20% of the statutory fund liability.

Insurance companies are required to hold at least 80% of their investment assets locally (that is, investments denominated in Trinidad and Tobago dollars).

The Insurance Act stipulates that the value of assets in the statutory fund that are denominated in a currency other than the denomination of the statutory fund liability cannot exceed 20% of that liability.

The SS of the Insurance Act (the Act) also applies to pension plans with one additional amendment. The SS imposes controls and lists assets approved for the pension funds. Allowable investment assets include (1) bonds, debentures, and other evidence of indebtedness by issuers approved by the Act; (2) guaranteed investment certificates issued by a trust company in approved countries; (3) ordinary or preferred shares of a company incorporated in Trinidad and Tobago and approved by the CBTT; (4) ordinary or preferred shares of a company incorporated in any country approved by the CBTT; (5) units, certificates, and other evidence of participation in an indebtedness program of the Unit Trust Corporation of Trinidad and Tobago; (6) mortgages and real estate in Trinidad and Tobago; and
(7) cash deposits in any bank or other financial institution licensed under the FIA.
Restrictions under the SS are as follows: (1) Investments in ordinary shares may not exceed 50% of the assets in Trinidad and Tobago except for a well-funded pension plan (with a funding ratio in excess of 150%) for which the limit is 70%. (2) Investments in real estate or leaseholds may not exceed 20% of the total value or assets. (3) No single mortgage may exceed 10% of the total assets. (4) Investment is not allowed in trust bonds, debentures, or other evidence of indebtedness on which payment of principal or interest is in default. (5) Investments in a single corporation may not exceed 30% of the ordinary shares of the corporation.

The Insurance (Pension Fund Plan Investments) Regulations of the Insurance Act state that at least 80% of a registered plan’s total assets must originate in Trinidad and Tobago; hence, a pension plan’s assets abroad are limited to 20%.

The Insurance (Pension Fund Plan Investments) Regulations of the Insurance Act state that at least 80% of a registered plan’s total assets must originate in Trinidad and Tobago; hence, at least 80% of a pension plan’s assets must be held locally.

Collective investment fund certificates of participation are limited to 10% and may not include securities issued by the Unit Trust.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating, as indicated on the Central Bank of Tunisia (BCT—Banque Centrale de Tunisie) website. The BCT intervenes in the foreign exchange market mostly to cover banks’ short net open positions in foreign exchange. Effective August 1, 2018, the BCT introduced competitive foreign exchange auctions to support price discovery in the foreign exchange market but maintained bilateral transactions. The results of the auctions are published daily after each auction on the BCT contribution pages on Reuters. Effective January 1, 2019, the foreign exchange auctions became more frequent and the BCT ceased interventions outside the auction mechanism, and calls for tender (appel d’offre) became the sole intervention method. Previously, the BCT intervened in the foreign exchange market when market rates differed substantially from the day’s fixing rates, to smooth excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate for the dinar. While the exchange rate has stabilized within a 2% band against the euro since February 2019, more observations are necessary to determine its new trend. Until then, the de facto exchange rate arrangement remains classified as a crawl-like arrangement.

Official exchange rate

Effective January 1, 2019, the BCT reference exchange rate is based on the results of foreign exchange auctions to allow for price discovery. Previously, a fixing arrangement (that is, the average of market participants’ quotes) determined the reference exchange rate published by the BCT until end-2018. At the start of the business day, the most active banks in the market were consulted to get their dinar–US dollar quotes. The BCT calculated the average of these quotes and used the average rate obtained as the daily reference exchange rate. At the close of the business day, banks reported a second quote to the BCT. The BCT’s reference exchange rates are used for transactions between the BCT and the government. Customs also uses the BCT’s reference rates for valuation. Effective August 1, 2018, the BCT introduced competitive foreign exchange auctions but maintained bilateral transactions. Effective January 1, 2019, the foreign exchange auctions became more frequent to support price discovery in the foreign exchange market and the BCT ceased interventions outside the auction mechanism, and calls for tender (appel d’offre) became the sole intervention method. Previously, the BCT intervened in the foreign exchange market when market rates differed substantially from the day’s fixing rates, to smooth excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate for the dinar and to cover a share of banks’ short net open positions in foreign exchange with a prorated allocation.

The Central Bank Board was instituted pursuant to Law No. 2016-35 of April 25, 2016, Establishing the Charter of the BCT. Pursuant to Article 7, the main objective of the BCT is to ensure price stability. The Monetary Policy Committee was instituted pursuant to Regulatory Decision No. 743 of November 5, 2012, as an advisory body responsible for providing the BCT Board with information and analysis necessary for monetary policy decision making. It may propose to the Board measures related in particular to changing the policy rate, modifying the reserve ratio, and modifying the rules governing monetary policy operations. It is chaired by the governor and has, in addition, 8 members of which 2 are members of the Board. The Board is a decision-making body vested with the powers defined in Article 63 and comprised of members according to Article 57 of Law No. 2016-35.

Despite progress made in developing macro-forecasting models and establishing an interest rate corridor system, the BCT is still working on a number of prerequisites for the move to an inflation-targeting framework (macroeconomic stabilization, exchange rate flexibility, markets deepening, and monetary policy communication).

Under the current monetary policy framework, the interest rate is BCT’s preferred monetary policy instrument, while inflation projections constitute the intermediate target. The regulatory framework for conducting monetary policy was overhauled in 2017. Circular No. 2017-02 on the Implementation of Monetary Policy by the BCT defines the monetary policy instruments, the money market participants, and eligible collateral.

The BCT aims to keep the overnight interbank rate close to its policy rate (taux directeur). To contain inflationary pressures, the BCT has increased its policy rate by a cumulative 275 basis points since March 2018, bringing it to the level of 7.75% in February 2019. The overnight standing deposit and lending facilities have been in place since February 2009 and established a firm floor and ceiling for the interest rate corridor system.

On the operational front, the BCT follows developments in autonomous liquidity factors and provides banks with refinancing on the basis of its forecasts of their weekly liquidity requirements and its monetary policy objectives.

The obligation, under the IMF-supported Extended Fund Facility arrangement, to comply with quantitative criteria for net domestic assets (NDA) led the BCT to cap its primary refinancing operations at TD 7 billion since July 12, 2017; however, the total volume of refinancing has increased since then, in particular as a result of the dinar liquidities injected in connection with foreign currency swaps, structural open market operations, and the overnight lending facility. Foreign exchange swaps are carried out through auctions at the initiative of the BCT.

The further tightening of monetary policy (in terms of both prices... and quantities), the introduction of, effective November 1, 2018, a credit/deposit ratio, and the introduction of heightened consistency in monetary policy instruments (reduction in the outstanding volume of foreign exchange swaps) have made it possible to put the overall volume of refinancing on a gradually declining trend.

The BCT intervenes in the interbank market through, effective August 1, 2018, competitive foreign exchange auctions to support price discovery. Effective January 1, 2019, the foreign exchange auctions became more frequent and the BCT ceased interventions outside the auction mechanism, and calls for tender (appel d’offre) became the sole intervention method. Previously, the BCT intervened in the interbank market through bilateral transactions when market quotes deviated substantially from the daily fixing rate.

All authorized intermediaries (resident and nonresident banks) may act as counterparties in spot exchange transactions. Twenty-three banks participate actively in the exchange market.

Over the counter | Yes. Most of the transactions in the foreign exchange market occur over the counter.

Brokerage | No.

Market making | Yes. There is an electronic bank interlinking platform which was established to compile and monitor in real time the transactions conducted on the foreign exchange market. Ten banks are currently classified as market makers. Market makers are required to post a spread of 15 pips between their buying and selling rates for a minimum amount of 0.5 million and maximum amount of 3 million euros or US dollars.

Forward exchange market | Yes. Importers, exporters, and persons who provide services are authorized to obtain forward exchange cover on the interbank market as of the date a contract is signed or the date on which foreign commercial paper is domiciled, depending on the arrangements for the product concerned. Forward rates are freely negotiated by the authorized counterparty bank.

The maturity of the forward exchange contract must coincide with the date of contractual settlement of the underlying operation. For financial operations involving the repatriation or transfer of capital or income, the maximum term of cover is set at 12 months. Persons who provided services were eligible for exchange cover for up to 12 months, to be provided within 30 days of the date on which the claim originated. Resident enterprises may purchase, in the forward market, futures maturing in up to 12 months to hedge against exchange rate risk related to the repayment of their foreign currency loans. They may also sell foreign currency drawn on external loans or from foreign currency investments.

Nonresidents may enter into contracts with resident authorized intermediaries for forward purchases of convertible dinars where the maturity of the forward exchange contract must coincide with the date of contractual settlement of the underlying transaction. Authorized intermediaries are authorized to engage in foreign exchange–dinar forward exchange transactions among themselves, in the context of their efforts to manage their foreign exchange positions.

Resident authorized intermediaries may engage, among themselves or with resident enterprises, in foreign currency and convertible dinar swaps where the maturity of cover must correspond to the term of the lending or borrowing agreement. They may also engage in foreign currency and convertible dinar swaps with nonresident banks in Tunisia, their foreign correspondent banks, and nonresident enterprises operating in Tunisia to make spot purchases and forward sales of convertible dinars. For the purpose of hedging against foreign currency interest rate risk, forward rate agreements are permitted between resident banks and foreign correspondent banks and by resident enterprises with resident banks and nonresident banks operating in Tunisia. The term of cover must correspond to the term of the lending or borrowing agreement. Authorized intermediaries may list foreign currency and dinar exchange options for their resident customers to allow them to hedge against exchange rate risk of their commercial operations involving goods and services and financial transactions. In the context of one particular commercial or financial operation, authorized intermediaries may propose to their customers a buying or selling exchange option or a mix of foreign exchange operations. They may engage among themselves in foreign currency and dinar exchange options to hedge against the exchange risk associated with their customers’ transactions. Prices for the option and the premium are freely negotiated between the authorized intermediaries and the customer. The maturity of the foreign exchange option must coincide with the contractual settlement date of the underlying transaction. For transactions to repatriate or transfer capital and revenue, the maximum term of the foreign exchange options is 12 months. The BCT does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

Official cover of forward operations  Yes.  The national reinsurance company manages the exchange cover mechanism for banks and financial institutions with respect to their borrowing abroad.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted
Yes.

Pursuant to Circular No. 2017-04 of June 23, 2017, the following resident individuals may open accounts in foreign exchange: (1) Tunisian nationals transferring their normal residence and/or assets legitimately acquired abroad to Tunisia; (2) foreign nationals resident in Tunisia; (3) individuals holding capital stakes in resident legal entities that export goods or services; (4) individuals having status as foreign exchange subagents or those holding capital stakes in resident legal entities having status as foreign exchange subagents; (5) service providers targeting nonresidents established outside of Tunisia as defined in Annex 1 to this Circular; (6) diplomatic staff and public sector officers seconded abroad; and (7) individuals hired by resident employers to carry out missions having a minimum duration of six months in connection with contracts that can be executed abroad. The same individual cannot simultaneously hold a Resident Physical Persons (PPR) account in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars and a business travel allowance.

PPR accounts in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars may be freely credited with revenue or proceeds from assets legitimately acquired abroad or funds deriving from the closing of one of the account holder’s foreign accounts in foreign exchange or convertible dinars; 20% of the earnings distributed in connection with the previous fiscal year and paid in dinars to persons holding capital stakes in resident legal entities that export goods or services; the account will be funded in proportion with the holder’s capital stakes in the company; 5% of the amount of foreign exchange surrendered during the previous year in connection with subagency foreign exchange activities carried out by the account holder or by a company in which the account holder owns capital stakes; in this case, the account is funded proportionally with the holder’s capital stakes in the company; remuneration for service providers for their services to nonresidents outside of Tunisia; wage savings of diplomatic staff and public officers seconded abroad; remuneration in dinars accrued to persons hired by resident employers under a contract that can be executed abroad in connection with an expatriation indemnity; proceeds from the surrender and/or transfer of revenue deriving from assets acquired abroad by debiting this account; interest accrued on funds deposited to the PPR account calculated as provided under the current regulatory texts. All account credit operations are subject to prior authorization from the BCT. Credits to PPR accounts through the deposit of foreign banknotes require a valid foreign exchange import declaration in the name of the account holder and approved by the customs authorities. PPR accounts in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars may be freely debited with the surrender of foreign exchange on the foreign exchange market and any payments in dinars; any outward payments for duly justified personal expenses on behalf of the account holder, his or her spouse, parents, or children resident for purposes of foreign exchange; any transfers for the acquisition directly by the account holder of real and movable property located abroad, outward rights and claims, and to execute any act of management in connection with assets legitimately held abroad. However, the account holder is not permitted to place assets in bank accounts abroad; any transfers involving final payments in connection with the final departure of the foreign national who is the account holder, justified with a certificate of change of residence issued by the competent authorities, along with a certificate that the interested party’s tax situation has been regularized, or a certificate of exemption. Any other debits to the account are subject to prior authorization from the BCT.

Transfers by debiting PPR accounts may take place by credit transfer, check drawn on the authorized intermediary with which the account is opened, by international payment card, or in cash, exclusively to cover subsistence expenses. PPR account holders are subject to the obligations incumbent on residents under the regulatory texts governing foreign exchange and foreign trade, and particularly to the requirement to declare foreign assets provided under the foreign exchange code.

Professional accounts in foreign currency may be opened by (1) resident individuals, (2) Tunisian legal entities, and (3) foreign legal entities in Tunisia with foreign currency assets in connection with their activities. These accounts may be credited with (1) up to 100% of foreign exchange proceeds from the account holder’s exports and foreign currency loans contracted in under current regulations, (2) interest accrued on the balances of these accounts, (3) transfers from the account holder’s other professional accounts in the same foreign currency or any other foreign currency, and (4) deposits of banknotes imported by foreigners and declared at customers. Foreign banknotes are deposited on the basis of a copy of the foreign currency import declaration accompanied by the original. After signing off on the two documents and indicating the amount paid in foreign currency, the authorized intermediary returns the original to its holder. Credit operations on the account must be performed on the basis of appropriate documents (contracts, pro forma, final invoices, etc.). Accounts may be debited for (1) payment of current operations pertaining to the activity for which they were opened and (2) other transactions with general or specific authorization. Balances may be sold in the foreign exchange money market.

Holders of professional foreign exchange accounts must first use the cash in their account and should retain in the account only amounts they actually need to pay their expenses in foreign currency. Any surplus must be surrendered for dinars in the foreign exchange market. Further, authorized intermediaries may sell foreign currency spot or through hedging to account holders with funds in their professional foreign exchange account(s) only to acquire funds for payments exceeding the amount available in these accounts. Foreign currency term deposits are deemed to be deposits available in the account.

Authorized intermediaries must require operators to certify that they do not have the necessary funds available in their professional foreign exchange accounts with another authorized intermediary before selling foreign exchange to them.

Special accounts in foreign currency may be opened freely by (1) Tunisians returning to Tunisia from abroad, (2) resident Tunisians or Tunisian legal entities for their nontransferable assets legitimately acquired abroad, (3) foreigners residing in Tunisia, (4) foreign legal entities with branches in Tunisia, and (5) Tunisian diplomats and civil servants stationed abroad. Funds legitimately acquired abroad, not from the exportation of goods or services from Tunisia, may be credited to these special accounts. They may be debited for (1) foreign exchange sold in the interbank market; (2) foreign exchange remitted to account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring for foreign travel; (3) credit to another special account in foreign currency or convertible dinars; and (4) payments abroad, including for the acquisition of movable property or real estate abroad or ownership rights abroad, foreign claims, and payments for imports, subject to foreign trade requirements.

Residents may freely open foreign currency international trading accounts for payments related to their international trade and brokerage operations and associated expenses. These accounts may be credited with (1) the proceeds from exports of goods for which advance payment was received, (2) profits and/or commissions from international trade and brokerage operations, (3) foreign currency loans contracted to finance trade operations, (4) foreign currency from trade operations repurchased in the exchange market after it is sold in the market, and (5) interest generated by deposits in the account. They may be debited for (1) payments for purchases made within the framework of international trade operations and associated expenses, (2) settlement of expenses related to international brokerage operations, (3) repayment of foreign currency loans, (4) settlement of current operations carried out under exchange and foreign trade regulations and any operation carried out with general or special authorization, and (5) sales of foreign currencies in the exchange market.

Service providers’ accounts in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars may be opened freely by any resident individual holding foreign exchange received in payment for services to nonresidents abroad. These accounts may be freely credited with (1) proceeds from payment in foreign currency for services, (2) income or proceeds in foreign currency from holdings acquired abroad by debiting those accounts, and (3) interest generated by deposits in the account calculated in accordance with the terms and conditions for special accounts in convertible foreign currency. The accounts may be freely debited for (1) sales of foreign currency in the exchange market; (2) remittances to account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring for foreign travel; (3) remittances to residents who are salaried employees of the account holder to travel abroad on business; (4) payments made in accordance with exchange and foreign trade regulations in connection with current operations; and (5) payments abroad for (a) the acquisition of movable property or real estate abroad, ownership rights abroad, foreign claims, or claims in foreign currency, whether or not represented by securities; and (b) the management of assets legitimately constituted abroad.

Under Law No. 2007-41 of June 25, 2007, which granted amnesty for foreign exchange and tax-related violations, resident Tunisians, foreign residents, and Tunisian and foreign legal entities, for their establishments in Tunisia, may open Law No. 2007-41 special accounts in foreign currency. These accounts may be credited with (1) transfers of convertible foreign currency generated by revenue or proceeds from foreign assets and foreign exchange holdings abroad reported to the BCT and with foreign currency held in Tunisia and remitted to an authorized intermediary; (2) funds originating from Law No. 2007-41 special accounts in foreign currency or convertible dinars; (3) income or proceeds in foreign currency from holdings acquired abroad by debiting the account; and (4) interest generated by deposits in the account, calculated in accordance with the terms and conditions for special accounts in convertible currencies. These accounts may be debited for the following purposes: (1) surrender of foreign exchange in the foreign exchange market against dinars; (2) foreign exchange remitted to account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring for foreign travel; (3) credit to another Law No. 2007-41 special account in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars; and (4) payments abroad for (a) the acquisition of movable property or real estate abroad or ownership rights abroad or foreign claims or claims in foreign currency, whether or not represented by securities; and (b) the management of assets legitimately constituted abroad.

Outside of the above-mentioned categories of accounts, resident individuals may not open foreign exchange accounts to meet their foreign currency expenditures.

To open special accounts, Tunisians must submit a declaration of foreign holdings to the BCT. Export earnings accounts in convertible foreign currencies are subject to BCT approval. These accounts may be opened by Tunisian or foreign residents who earn profits from the exportation of goods or services and/or who are shareholders or partners in a resident company earning profits from the exportation of goods or services. These accounts may be credited with (1) the equivalent in foreign currency of 20% of the export earnings of account holders and/or received from companies in which they are a shareholder; (2) foreign exchange proceeds from income or revenue from assets acquired abroad by debiting the account; and (3) interest on balances in the account. They may be debited for (1) payments in Tunisia; (2) purchases in the interbank foreign exchange market to be used for foreign travel by account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring; and (3) payments abroad in connection with a current operation or acquisition of rights and interests abroad, regardless of whether these are represented by securities, including their related management fees.

No approval is required to open the following resident accounts: special accounts in foreign currencies or in convertible dinars, service providers’ accounts in foreign currencies or in convertible dinars, tourist allowance accounts in convertible dinars, professional accounts in foreign currencies, and foreign currency international trading accounts.

Resident firms that are holders of contracts abroad (whether involving the performance of services or the execution of work) may open accounts denominated in the local currency of the country where the contract is performed to deposit the portion of the price earmarked to finance local expenses.

However, resident banks may freely open correspondent current accounts abroad.

| Accounts in domestic currency held abroad | No. |
| Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency | Yes. |

Professional accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by resident individuals or legal entities with resources in foreign exchange, subject to BCT authorization. These accounts may be credited and debited in accordance with the terms specified by the BCT in the authorization to open such accounts. To pay their expenses in foreign currency, holders of professional foreign exchange accounts must first use the cash in their account and retain in the account only amounts they actually need. Surplus must be surrendered for dinars in the foreign exchange market. Further, authorized intermediaries may sell foreign currency spot or through...
hedging to account holders that have deposits in their professional foreign exchange account(s) only to acquire funds to make payments in excess of the amount available in these accounts. Foreign currency term deposits are deemed to be deposits available in the account. Authorized intermediaries must require operators to certify that they do not have the necessary funds available in their professional foreign exchange accounts with another authorized intermediary before selling foreign exchange to them.

Special accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by the same individuals and legal entities that may open special foreign exchange accounts. These special accounts may be credited with the dinar proceeds from sales in the interbank market of fundslegitimately acquired abroad, but not from the exportation of goods or services. They may be debited for (1) payments of any kind in Tunisia; (2) the acquisition of foreign currency either for remittance to account holders or their spouse, parents, and offspring or for payments abroad, particularly for the acquisition of movable property or real estate, ownership rights, or foreign claims and for payments for imports subject to applicable foreign trade formalities; and (3) amounts credited to another special account in foreign currency or in convertible dinars. To open special accounts, Tunisians must submit a declaration of foreign holdings to the BCT.

With BCT authorization, special export earnings accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by Tunisian or foreign residents who earn profits from the exportation of goods or services and/or who are shareholders or partners in a resident company earning profits from the exportation of goods or services. These accounts may be credited with (1) 20% of the export earnings of account holders and/or received from companies in which they are a shareholder; (2) proceeds from sales of foreign currency in the foreign exchange market representing income or revenue from assets acquired abroad by debiting the account; and (3) interest on balances in the account. They may be debited for (1) payments in Tunisia; (2) purchases of foreign currency in the foreign exchange market either for foreign travel by account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring; and (3) payments abroad in connection with a current operation or the acquisition of rights and interests abroad, regardless of whether these are represented by securities, including their related management fees.

With BCT authorization, foreign exchange subagency accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by a resident individual acting as a foreign exchange subagency on behalf of an authorized intermediary or a resident individual with equity in a resident legal entity acting as a foreign exchange subagency for an authorized intermediary. These accounts may be freely credited with (1) 5% of the dinar equivalent of foreign exchange sold to an authorized intermediary by a person acting as a subagent; (2) 5% of the dinar equivalent of foreign exchange sold by a legal entity acting as a subagency, prorated in accordance with the equity of the account holder; (3) the dinar proceeds from the sale of foreign exchange, revenue, or assets acquired abroad by debiting this account; and (4) interest on the accounts. The accounts may be freely debited for (1) payments in Tunisia and (2) purchases of foreign exchange for (a) travel abroad by account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring; (b) payments for current transactions, subject to exchange and foreign trade regulations; (c) payments for the purchase of movable or real property abroad, ownership rights abroad, and foreign claims—whether or not represented by securities; and (d) payments for fees for the management of assets legitimately acquired abroad. Service providers’ accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by any resident individual with foreign exchange received in payment for services to nonresidents established abroad. These accounts may be freely credited with (1) the equivalent in dinars from the sale in the exchange market of foreign currency from the proceeds of payment for services; (2) the proceeds in dinars from the sale in the exchange market of foreign currency from the income or proceeds of holdings acquired abroad through debiting those accounts; and (3) interest generated by deposits in the account. Interest is calculated in accordance with the terms and conditions for special accounts in convertible dinars. The accounts may be freely debited for (1) payments of any kind in Tunisia and (2) the purchase of foreign currency in the exchange market for (a) remittance to account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring for foreign travel; (b) remittance to a resident who is a salaried employee of the account holder to travel abroad on business; (c) payments carried out under exchange and foreign trade regulations in connection with current operations; and (d) payments abroad for (i) the acquisition of movable property or real estate abroad, ownership rights abroad, foreign claims, or claims in foreign currency, whether or not represented by securities; and (ii) the management of assets legitimately constituted abroad.

Under Law No. 2007-41 of June 25, 2007, granting amnesty for foreign exchange and tax-related violations, Tunisian and foreign residents and Tunisian and foreign legal entities may open Law No. 2007-41 accounts for their establishments in Tunisia. These accounts may be credited with (1) the dinar equivalent of convertible foreign currency generated by revenue or proceeds from foreign assets and foreign exchange holdings abroad reported to the BCT and foreign currency holdings in Tunisia and remitted to an authorized intermediary; (2) funds originating from a Law No. 2007-41 special account in foreign currency or in convertible dinars; (3) income or proceeds in foreign currency from holdings acquired abroad by debiting the account; and (4) interest generated by deposits in the account, calculated in accordance with the terms and conditions set for special accounts in convertible dinars. These accounts may be freely debited for (1) payments in Tunisia; (2) the purchase of foreign currency in the exchange market for (a) remittance to account holders or their spouse, parents, or offspring for foreign travel; (b) payments abroad, in particular for (i) the acquisition of movable property or real estate abroad, ownership rights abroad, foreign claims or claims in foreign currency, or rights and interests abroad, whether or not represented by securities; (ii) the management of assets legitimately constituted abroad; and (iii) credit to another Law No. 2007-41 special account in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars.

“Tourist travel” accounts in convertible dinars may be opened by resident individuals with the balance of a travel allowance not fully used up abroad. These accounts may be freely credited no later than 15 days after returning to Tunisia with (1) the unused amount of the allowance and (2) interest earned on the amounts deposited in the accounts. The accounts may be freely debited for (1) payments in Tunisia, (2) the purchase of foreign exchange or the issuance of an international payment card linked to the account of its holder for payment of living expenses abroad, and (3) payment from Tunisia of foreign hotel booking expenses on behalf of the account holder by means of an international payment card.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes. Foreign accounts in convertible currency may be opened by all nonresidents regardless of nationality. These accounts may be credited with (1) receipts in convertible foreign currency (banknotes must be declared at customs); (2) foreign exchange remitted to the account holder by a nonresident; (3) authorized payments by residents in favor of the account holder; (4) interest payable by authorized intermediaries on foreign exchange deposits in these accounts; (5) transfers from other foreign accounts; and (6) the proceeds of cashed checks, traveler’s checks, or drafts in convertible currency and made out by a nonresident to the order of the account holder. Other credits require BCT authorization, either directly or by delegation. These accounts may be debited freely for (1) payments of any kind in Tunisia; (2) transfers abroad or delivery of foreign currency to the account holder, another nonresident beneficiary, or residents who are permanent representatives or salaried employees of the account holder; and (3) transfers to other foreign accounts.

Nonresident Libyans may open accounts in foreign exchange called foreign currency accounts of nonresident Libyans. These accounts may be credited with funds from (1) sales of foreign banknotes in any amount without customs declaration of importation, as set out in the foreign exchange notice published in the Official Journal of the Tunisian Republic of February 3, 2006, and Circular to Authorized Intermediaries No. 94-13 of September 7, 1994; and (2) interest on the account in accordance with BCT regulations. These accounts may be freely debited for (1) payments of any kind in dinars and (2) investment in currency in accordance with the regulations. Other debits and credits are subject to BCT approval. These accounts may not be overdrawn.

Approval required

No.

Domestic currency accounts

Yes. Domestic nonresident accounts may be opened by authorized intermediaries in the name of nonresident individuals of foreign nationality residing temporarily in Tunisia. These accounts may be credited without authorization from the BCT with the following: (1) transfers of funds from abroad in convertible currency; (2) revenue of any kind accruing in Tunisia to the account holder; (3) liquid assets from estates settled in Tunisia; (4) proceeds from the repayment of loans in dinars by debiting the account; and (5) transfers from another domestic nonresident account opened in the name of the account holder. They may be debited for (1) support of account holders and their family in Tunisia, (2) payment of costs of managing property in Tunisia, (3) lending to residents, and (4) transfers to another domestic nonresident account opened in the name of the account holder.

Special dinar accounts may be opened freely by nonresident foreign enterprises with contracts in Tunisia. These enterprises are authorized to open for each contract a single special account in dinars, in which they may deposit the portion of the contract price payable in dinars to cover their local expenses. These accounts may also be credited with funds from a foreign account in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars, the dinar equivalent of any transfer in convertible foreign currency from abroad, and interest accruing on funds deposited in the account. The accounts may be freely debited for enterprises’ contract-related expenses in Tunisia. These enterprises are free to retransfer dinar equivalents credited to their foreign exchange accounts, provided the funds available in the account are sufficient to cover the transfer. Any transfer operations from such accounts must be authorized by the BCT. Interest is paid at the same rates as those applied to resident demand accounts in dinars.

Capital accounts may be opened freely in the name of a nonresident individual of foreign nationality or by a nonresident legal entity. Subject to certain conditions, capital accounts may be credited, without the approval of the BCT, with the proceeds of sales on the stock exchange or the contractual or advance redemption of transferable Tunisian securities; the sales proceeds of real estate through an attorney at the Supreme Court, or of rights to real estate situated in Tunisia; and funds from another capital account.

Regardless of the account holder’s country of residence, capital accounts may be freely debited for the living expenses in Tunisia of account holders and their family, up to TD 100 a person a week, provided the total withdrawals from one or more capital accounts in a calendar year do not exceed TD 2,000. In addition, a capital account holder traveling in Tunisia between November 1 and March 31 may withdraw from the account an amount equal to the foreign exchange imported for the trip and surrendered to the BCT, an authorized intermediary, or a subagency, provided the total withdrawals for the living expenses of account holders and their family do not exceed TD 2,000 a year. Such accounts may also be debited, subject to certain conditions, for expenses connected with the management of Tunisian securities; the maintenance, repair, and insurance of real estate and all taxes; and transfer for credit to another capital account. Balances on capital accounts are freely transferable between nonresidents of foreign nationality, with the exception of legal entities governed by public law. Subject to certain conditions, they may also be debited to assist the account holder’s parents and offspring residing in Tunisia, up to TD 50 a person a month. These accounts do not pay interest and may not be overdrawn. French or Italian individuals and legal entities with capital accounts may, with BCT authorization, transfer all funds in their accounts regardless of the date of deposit but subject to the condition, in the case of Italian account holders, that the funds are the proceeds from the sale of real property; no restriction with respect to the origin of funds applies to French account holders.

Suspense accounts may be opened by all nonresidents regardless of nationality and may be used for crediting all proceeds accruing to nonresidents and awaiting use. These proceeds may, on general or specific approval, be used in Tunisia for specific purposes, transferred abroad, or transferred to other nonresident accounts. Suspense accounts may be debited, without the authorization of the BCT, for payments to the Tunisian government or public institutions or payment of the expenses for managing securities deposited in a suspense file opened in the name of the account holder. They may also be debited for settlement of living expenses in Tunisia by account holders and their family, up to TD 100 a person a week, provided the total withdrawals in any calendar year from one or more accounts do not exceed TD 2,000 a family. In addition, a suspense account holder traveling in Tunisia between November 1 and March 31 of the following year may withdraw from the account an amount equal to the foreign exchange imported for the trip and surrendered to the BCT, an authorized intermediary, or a subagency, provided the total withdrawals for the living expenses of account holders and their family do not exceed TD 2,000 a year. Up to TD 50 a person a month may be debited to assist the offspring or parents of the account holder. Individuals or legal entities of French or Italian nationality holding suspense accounts may, with BCT authorization, transfer all funds in their accounts regardless of the date of deposit but subject to the condition, in the case of Italian account holders, that the funds are the proceeds from the sale of real property; no restriction with respect to the origin of funds applies to French account holders. These accounts do not pay interest and may not be overdrawn. Nonresident individuals of Libyan nationality may freely open accounts in Tunisian dinars. These accounts may be freely credited with funds from (1) cash payments in dinars made by the account holder or by any other nonresident individual of Libyan nationality; (2) the dinar equivalents of funds from convertible currency accounts of nonresidents; (3) convertible dinar accounts of nonresidents; (4) an account in dinars opened in the name of a nonresident Libyan; (5) investment income from funds in the account as prescribed by the BCT for dinar accounts. These accounts may be debited freely for (1) payments in Tunisia in dinars, including for credit to dinar accounts of nonresident Libyans opened in the name of a nonresident Libyan; and (2) investment in dinars in accordance with the regulations. Other debits and credits are subject to approval by the BCT. These accounts may not be overdrawn.

Nonresident Libyans may open accounts in convertible dinars called “accounts in convertible dinars of nonresident Libyans.” These accounts may be credited with funds from (1) the sale of foreign banknotes, in any amount without customs declaration of importation, as set out in the foreign exchange notice published in the Official Journal of the Tunisian Republic of February 3, 2006, and Circular to Authorized Intermediaries No. 94-13 of September 7, 1994; and (2) interest earned on funds deposited in the account as determined by the BCT for foreign currency accounts of nonresidents. These accounts may be debited for (1) payments in Tunisia in dinars and (2) investment in convertible dinars in accordance with the regulations. Other debits and credits are subject to approval by the BCT. These accounts may not be overdrawn.

Imports are free of licensing requirements, except those that affect security, law and order, hygiene, health, morals, protection of fauna and flora, or cultural heritage, and are effected by a commercial invoice domiciled with an authorized intermediary. Goods not liberalized need an import authorization granted through the Ministry of Trade. Imports of raw materials, semifinished products, spare parts, and equipment that are paid for by sources outside Tunisia and do not involve the payment or delivery of foreign currency may be effected by enterprises for their own use without foreign trade formalities, up to TD 100,000 or its equivalent a year. Furthermore, companies exclusively engaged in exporting goods or services or established in an industrial park and holders of permits for exploration, research, and the operation of concessions in the hydrocarbon sector and contractors or subcontractors employed by such companies may import freely, without foreign trade formalities, any goods required for their production process, subject only to customs declaration.</td>

Goods not covered by the liberalization of foreign trade and those that have an impact on security, law and order, hygiene, health, morals, protection of flora and fauna, and cultural heritage are included in a list issued by decree, published on the BCT website.

Imports from Israel are prohibited. Some items, a list of which is drawn up by the Ministry of Trade, are subject to technical import controls.

In addition to customs duties, imports are subject to VAT and, in some cases, to consumption tax. Certain imports destined for domestic investment projects are eligible for full or partial exemption from import duties.

Export proceeds must be repatriated within 10 days of the payment due date. If no credit is extended, payment is due within 30 days of the date of shipment. Nonresident companies exclusively engaged in exporting goods or services and covered by the Investment Incentives Code, as well as nonresident international trading companies and nonresident enterprises established in an economic business park, are not required to repatriate or surrender their export proceeds.

Authorized intermediaries must repatriate to their CB accounts any positive balance on correspondent accounts related to residents’ foreign exchange transactions at the end of every business day. Balances resulting from nonresident transactions may be kept in correspondent accounts and invested abroad. Exports by nonresidents are subject only to customs declaration.

Resident exporters may retain in their professional accounts up to 100% of their foreign exchange export proceeds and their foreign currency loans contracted in accordance with existing exchange regulations. To pay their expenses in foreign currency, holders of professional foreign exchange accounts must first use the funds in their account and should retain in the account only amounts they actually need. Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Residents are required to repatriate promptly all remuneration for services rendered to nonresidents and all proceeds from invisible transactions received from abroad.

Surrender requirements
No. Resident corporate exporters may retain in their professional foreign exchange accounts 100% of their foreign currency from export earnings as well as from their foreign exchange borrowing contracted in accordance with the exchange regulations in effect. To pay their expenses in foreign currency, holders of professional foreign exchange accounts must first, under their authority, use the funds in their account and should retain in the account only amounts they actually need, which may potentially amount to 100% of the proceeds repatriated. Resident individuals providing services abroad are exempted from surrendering foreign currency proceeds, which are earmarked for deposit in an account called a service providers’ account.

Surrender to the central bank
No.

Surrender to authorized dealers

Controls on capital transactions
- Yes.

Repatriation requirements
- Yes. Residents are required to repatriate promptly all income from investment abroad as well as all proceeds from the divestiture or liquidation of such investments.

Surrender requirements
- Yes.

Surrender to the central bank
- Yes. All proceeds from an investment abroad (dividends, interest, proceeds from the sale or liquidation of investment, etc.) must be surrendered.

Surrender to authorized dealers
- Yes. Repatriated foreign currency must be sold in the foreign exchange market. Currency must be repatriated promptly.

Controls on capital and money market instruments
- Yes.

On capital market securities
- Yes.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature
- Yes. Stocks in existing companies in Tunisia may be acquired freely with foreign exchange transferred from abroad by foreign nonresidents. Authorization from the Higher Investment Commission (HIC) for acquisition by foreigners of shares with voting rights when the foreign ownership in the capital of the companies is equal to or more than 50% is no longer required.

The following two operations are no longer subject to prior authorization from the BCT: (1) Acquisition, through outward payment of the relevant price, of stock or equity stakes in resident companies operating in Tunisia in accordance with the relevant legislation, by a nonresident individual or legal entity of foreign nationality from a nonresident individual or legal entity of foreign nationality; and (2) subscription by nonresidents to increase capital in companies established in Tunisia in accordance with the relevant legislation, by conversion of advances on their partner current accounts arranged in foreign exchange into capital stakes in accordance with the current foreign exchange regulations.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
- Yes. Nonresidents may sell freely shares of companies established in Tunisia. They may also transfer freely net real proceeds from the sale of shares that were purchased with foreign exchange transferred from abroad for an investment made in accordance with the legislation in effect, pursuant to Article 1 of the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Code.

Purchase abroad by residents
- Yes. The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, resident exporters may transfer freely the equivalent of TD 100,000–1 million a year, or up to TD 3 million a year for those who use the foreign exchange export proceeds held in their professional accounts to finance equity participation in companies abroad. Nonexporting companies may transfer funds abroad for equity participation in the amount of TD 100,000–500,000.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
- Yes. Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of persons abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT.
All residents are required to declare to the BCT and to repatriate their foreign assets invested from Tunisia.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. Subscription by nonresident foreigners of debt securities issued by the government or resident companies is subject to approval, except (1) 20% of the estimated semiannual amount of treasury bond issues and (2) 20% of bonds issued by resident companies listed on the stock exchange or with a rating from a rating agency. Such bonds are not subject to a minimum holding period requirement.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Transfers linked to the redemption of public securities are made on the basis of a notification of execution delivered by the intermediary authorized to engage in transactions involving such securities and after verification—with respect to the latter, as in the case of private securities—that the initial acquisition was financed by means of imported foreign exchange, pursuant to the provisions of Circular No. 93-16 of October 7, 1993.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, the holders of special accounts in foreign currency or in convertible dinars, special export earnings accounts, exchange subagency accounts, service provider accounts, or Law No. 2007-41 special accounts may purchase securities abroad by debiting these accounts.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of residents abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT.

On money market instruments

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. Transfers linked to the redemption of public securities are made on the basis of a notification of execution delivered by the intermediary authorized to engage in transactions involving such securities and after verification—with respect to the latter, as in the case of private securities—that the initial acquisition was financed by means of imported foreign exchange.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, the holders of special accounts in foreign currency or in convertible dinars, special export earnings accounts, exchange subagency accounts, service provider accounts, or Law No. 2007-41 special accounts may purchase securities abroad by debiting these accounts.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of residents abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT.

On collective investment securities

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. Nonresidents may acquire freely shares of Tunisian mutual funds with foreign exchange transferred from abroad. However, the approval of the HIC is required if the acquisition raises the foreign ownership to more than 50% of the mutual fund’s capital.

Nonresidents may transfer freely net real proceeds from sales of Tunisian mutual fund shares acquired with foreign exchange transferred from abroad. The issuance of SICAV (Société d'investissement à capital variable—an open-ended collective investment scheme) and other collective investment securities on the domestic market by nonresidents is governed by Law No. 2009-64 of August 12, 2009, promulgating the code on financial services rendered to nonresidents.

The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, resident exporters may transfer freely the equivalent of TD 100,000–1 million a year or, using funds from their professional accounts, up to TD 3 million a year to finance equity participation in companies located abroad. Nonexporting companies may transfer funds abroad for equity participation in the amount of TD 100,000–500,000.

Residents must promptly repatriate any proceeds from an investment abroad, as well as the proceeds from the eventual sale or liquidation of such investment pursuant to the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Code.

Controls apply to all transactions in derivatives and other instruments. However, resident banks may engage in (1) foreign currency swaps maturing in up to 12 months with nonresident banks operating in Tunisia and with foreign correspondent banks; (2) foreign currency/dinar swaps maturing in up to 12 months among themselves and with resident enterprises, provided the transactions in question back actual commercial or financial transactions; and (3) foreign currency/convertible dinar swaps, by making spot purchases and forward sales of convertible dinars to nonresident banks operating in Tunisia, foreign correspondent banks, and nonresident enterprises operating in Tunisia. For the purposes of hedging against foreign exchange rate risk, resident and nonresident authorized intermediaries may enter into forward rate agreements for terms of up to 12 months with resident enterprises or with their foreign correspondent banks.

These credits require BCT approval, except for credits in foreign currency granted on the money market to refinance import or export operations of nonresident industrial enterprises established in Tunisia. Authorized intermediaries may finance, out of resources from the foreign exchange money market, the imports and exports of nonresident service companies established in Tunisia, as well as exports of products of local origin by nonresident international trading companies established in Tunisia. These nonresident companies may also be granted operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market. In addition, resident banks may extend short-term dinar loans to nonresident companies to finance local operating expenses and to finance the purchase, on the local market, of products and merchandise necessary for the nonresidents’ operations.

Resident banks may extend operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market to nonresident service companies in Tunisia engaged in imports and exports as well as to nonresident international trading companies in Tunisia engaged in exports of products of local origin.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. Resident credit institutions and other resident enterprises may freely contract foreign currency commercial loans from nonresidents up to the limit of TD 10 million and TD 3 million, respectively. Resident credit institutions and other enterprises with a rating from a credit rating agency or listed on the stock exchange may freely contract foreign currency commercial loans from nonresidents in maturities of more than 12 months without limit for the former and up to TD 10 million for the latter. Decree No. 77-608 of 07/27/1977 applies to credits outside the limits set by Circular No. 93-16 of October 7, 1993.

Financial credits

Yes. The granting of such credits is subject to approval by the BCT.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. The granting of such credits is subject to approval by the BCT.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. Resident credit institutions and other resident enterprises may freely contract foreign currency financial loans from nonresidents up to an annual limit of the equivalent of TD 10 million and TD 3 million, respectively. Resident credit institutions and other enterprises with a rating from a credit rating agency or listed on the stock exchange may freely contract foreign currency commercial loans from nonresidents in maturities of more than 12 months without limit for the former and up to TD 10 million for the latter. Decree No. 77-608 of 07/27/1977 applies to credits outside the limits set by Circular No. 93-16 of October 7, 1993.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

Yes. Resident banks may freely grant bid bonds, performance bonds, advance payment bonds, contract holdback bonds, or any other bonds to resident exporters of goods or services to guarantee their obligations to nonresidents. They may also freely grant guarantees for the payment by resident importers of their purchases from nonresident suppliers, pursuant to foreign exchange notice 12. The issuance and establishment of repayment guarantees for foreign currency loans freely contracted by residents are not subject to approval.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. At the request and with the counter guarantee of a nonresident bank, resident banks may grant the usual bank guarantees required of nonresident service providers by residents in connection with business contracts, work contracts, service contracts, and so on.

Controls on direct investment

Yes. Direct investment by residents abroad is generally subject to BCT approval. However, resident exporting companies may freely transfer the equivalent of TD 50,000–500,000 a year to finance representative or liaison offices abroad; TD 100,000–1 million a year for foreign investment in the form of branches, subsidiaries, and equity participation in companies; and up to TD 3 million a year for investments funded from foreign exchange export proceeds held in professional accounts. For nonexporting companies, the limit on transfers abroad for the same types of investment is TD 50,000–250,000 to finance representative or liaison offices and TD 100,000–500,000 for branches, subsidiaries, and equity participation abroad.
Residents may freely participate in the capital of nonresident companies established in Tunisia, at the time either of incorporation or of a capital increase and through the purchase of shares or equity in such companies.

Inward direct investment

Yes. Foreigners may invest in most economic sectors. However, the participation of foreigners in certain service activities not wholly exported remains subject to HIC approval if such participation exceeds 50% of the enterprise’s capital. Foreign nonresidents may, using foreign exchange transferred from abroad, purchase shares or equity in companies in Tunisia under the code of investment at the time of a capital increase beyond their preferential subscription rights without exchange authorization. Foreign nonresidents may purchase land and buildings in industrial zones and land in tourism areas for economic development projects with foreign exchange transferred from abroad.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment

No. All FDIs carried out legitimately in Tunisia with foreign exchange transferred from abroad are guaranteed the right to repatriate the net proceeds from the sale or liquidation of the invested capital, even if the net proceeds exceed the initial value of the foreign exchange invested.

Controls on real estate transactions

Yes. Purchases require BCT approval, except transactions debited from special accounts in foreign currencies or convertible dinars; Law No. 2007-41 special accounts in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars; special export earnings accounts in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars or exchange subagency accounts in convertible dinars; and service providers’ accounts in foreign currency or convertible dinars.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. Purchases by nonresident foreigners require BCT approval. However, foreign nonresidents may freely purchase land and buildings in industrial zones and land in tourism areas for economic projects with foreign exchange transferred from abroad.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. Authorization is required for sales other than those made to a resident and involving real estate that is the subject of a land title. These sales are recorded in the Land Registry solely on presentation of documentation showing that the price was deposited by the buyer in a suspense or capital account maintained in the name of the seller on the books of an authorized intermediary.

Sale locally by nonresidents

Yes. Authorization is not required to take possession of an inheritance established in Tunisia for the benefit of a nonresident. The transfer of proceeds from gifts, endowments, and inheritances not previously guaranteed is subject to approval.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants

Yes. Repayment of debt contracted in foreign currencies by nonresident immigrants from dinar accounts is subject to approval by the BCT.

Resident credit institutions may contract all types of foreign currency loans (for example, buyer credits, supplier credits, financial loans, financial leases) for their business needs from nonresidents, up to TD 10 million a year. There is no limit on such loans if their maturity is longer than 12 months and they are contracted by credit institutions rated by a rating agency and by credit institutions listed on the stock exchange.

Resident banks may freely open correspondent accounts with foreign banks. Authorized intermediaries must repatriate to their CB account at the end of every business day any balance on their correspondent accounts related to residents’ foreign exchange transactions. Balances resulting from nonresident transactions may be kept in correspondent accounts and invested abroad.

BCT approval is required for loans granted by resident banks to nonresidents. However, resident banks may freely extend loans in the foreign exchange money market to nonresident industrial enterprises in Tunisia for operating expenses and to finance their imports and exports. Authorized intermediaries may finance, out of resources from the foreign exchange money market, the imports and exports of nonresident service companies in Tunisia, as well as exports of products of local origin by nonresident international trading companies in Tunisia. These nonresident companies may also receive operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market. Resident banks may extend dinar loans to nonresident companies to finance local (dinar-denominated) operating expenses and purchases of products and merchandise necessary for their operations. Such loans may not be used to purchase foreign exchange and must be placed in special accounts.

Resident banks may freely finance in the foreign exchange money market the import and export operations of resident entities. They may lend foreign exchange to exporting resident companies to finance investments made under current foreign exchange regulations. They may also freely lend their foreign currency surpluses to other resident banks and to their correspondent banks in exchange for loans with the same maturity in another currency.

Purchases of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange are subject to BCT approval.

Tunisia does not impose reserve requirements on foreign currency.
TUNISIA

deposit accounts. Only deposits in dinars are taken into account in the calculation of the reserve requirement at a rate of 1%. To determine the reserve requirement, a rate of 1% is imposed on demand deposits and other liabilities to customers.

Liquid asset requirements
Yes.
The liquidity ratio requirement takes foreign currency deposits into account and is calculated as the ratio between readily convertible assets and callable liabilities. The numerator is primarily composed as follows: cash and holdings with the BCT and banks (100%); short-term discount portfolio (60%); advances on deposit accounts, cash vouchers, and other financial income (100%); debtor accounts (7%); and collection portfolio and security holdings in portfolio and listed on the stock exchange (100%). The denominator of the liquidity ratio is primarily composed of the following, weighted as follows: borrowing from the BCT, banks, and specialized financial institutions (100%); required credit balance on the required reserve (100%); demand accounts (60%); special savings accounts (3%); time accounts; other financial instruments (13%); certificates of deposit (CDs) (40%); and funds in transit (comptes exigibles après encaissement—accounts payable after cashing—100%).

Interest rate controls
Yes.
The remuneration on foreign exchange accounts is freely negotiated with banks. Dinar balances in suspense accounts and capital accounts do not earn interest.

Credit controls

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents
Yes.

Reserve requirements
Yes.
Dinar deposits of nonresidents are included in the calculation of the reserve requirement ratios.

Liquid asset requirements
Yes.
The liquidity ratio requirement takes nonresidents’ deposits into account.

Interest rate controls
Yes.
Interest rates on dinar and convertible dinar deposits of nonresidents are freely negotiated, except for demand accounts, for which there is a cap of 2%. The annual interest rate on foreign exchange accounts in convertible dinars held by Tunisian residents abroad and special accounts in convertible dinars must equal at least the average overnight money market rate minus 2 percentage points (pps). The minimum interest rate on savings in dinars is 3.50%.

Abroad by banks
Yes.
Approval of the MOF and the BCT is required for a credit institution to open an office or branch. Resident banks may invest abroad up to 20% of the foreign exchange assets belonging to their resident customers, according to the terms and conditions specified by the BCT. However, this measure has not yet been implemented.

In banks by nonresidents
Yes.
Approval is required for any acquisition of capital in a bank or other financial institution and, in all cases, for the acquisition of a proportion of the voting rights equal to or exceeding one-tenth, one-fifth, one-third, one-half, or two-thirds of the voting rights, as well as of any instrument that may result in the transfer of a significant proportion of the assets, potentially changing its financial structure or the focus of its activities.

Open foreign exchange position limits
Yes.
Net open positions of banks operating in the foreign exchange market resulting from both spot and forward transactions are limited to 10% of banks’ net own funds in each currency, with a limit of 20% for positions in all currencies. The net open position regulation also includes a provision that banks must liquidate a foreign exchange position if it has lost more than 3% of its value if it is equal to or market but maintained bilateral transactions.

01/01/2019  The foreign exchange auctions became more frequent to support price discovery in the foreign exchange market and the Central Bank of Tunisia (BCT) ceased interventions outside the auction mechanism, and calls for tender (appel d’offre) became the sole intervention method. Previously, the BCT intervened in the foreign exchange market when market rates differed substantially from the day’s fixing rates, to smooth excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate for the dinar.

Official exchange rate

08/01/2018  The Central Bank of Tunisia introduced competitive foreign exchange auctions to support price discovery in the foreign exchange market but maintained bilateral transactions.

01/01/2019  The Central Bank of Tunisia (BCT) reference exchange rate is based on the results of foreign exchange auctions to allow for price discovery. Previously, a fixing arrangement (that is, the average of market participants’ quotes) determined the reference exchange rate published by the BCT until end-2018. At the start of the business day, the most active banks in the market were consulted to get their dinar–US dollar quotes. The BCT calculated the average of these quotes and used the average rate obtained as the daily reference exchange rate. At the close of the business day, banks reported a second quote to the BCT.

01/01/2019  The foreign exchange auctions became more frequent and the Central Bank of Tunisia (BCT) ceased interventions outside the auction mechanism, and calls for tender (appel d’offre) became the sole intervention method. Previously, the BCT intervened in the foreign exchange market when market rates differed substantially from the day’s fixing rates, to smooth excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate for the dinar.

For the implementation of the UNSC Resolution No. 1267 and its successor resolutions related to individuals and entities associated with Al-Qaida, Taliban, and Da'esh, and UNSC Resolution No. 1373 related to combating terrorism and the financing of terrorism, Turkey maintains an asset freezing mechanism under provisions of the Law No. 6415 on the Prevention of Financing of Terrorism (Official Gazette of February 16, 2013, Number 28561). Turkey maintains the following exchange measures in accordance with EU regulations: Iraq, the Islamic Republic of Iran, Liberia, certain individuals associated with the previous government of the former Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, and Zimbabwe. Turkey maintains security restrictions imposed by the following UNSC resolutions: (1) Resolution No. 1737, which bans the supply of nuclear-related materials and technology, and calls for a freeze of the assets of key individuals and companies related to the Iranian nuclear program; (2) Resolution No. 1747, which imposes an arms embargo and expands the freeze on Iranian assets; (3) Resolution No. 1803, which extends the asset freeze and directs states to monitor the activities of Iranian banks, inspect Iranian ships and aircraft, and monitor the movement of individuals involved with the program; (4) Resolution No. 1929, which bars Iran from activities related to ballistic missiles, tightens the arms embargo, imposes travel bans on individuals involved with Iranian shipping lines, and recommends that countries inspect Iranian cargo, prohibit servicing of Iranian vessels involved in prohibited activities, closely watch Iranian individuals and entities when dealing with them, prohibit Iranian banks from opening on their territory and entering into relationships with their banks if it could contribute to the nuclear program, and prevent financial institutions operating in their territory from opening offices and accounts in Iran; and (5) Resolutions Nos. 1970 and 1973, which impose an arms embargo on Libya, freeze assets, and impose a travel ban on those listed in the annexes of the resolutions.

Floating  Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. Under the current regime, the foreign exchange supply and demand is mainly determined by economic fundamentals, the monetary and fiscal policies implemented, international developments and expectations. The CBRT has no nominal or real exchange rate target. Nevertheless, if the exchange rates are at odds with economic fundamentals or excessive volatility poses risk to financial stability, the CBRT will not remain indifferent to these developments. If the exchange rate movements permanently affect price stability, the CBRT will change its monetary policy stance and give the necessary reaction. The CBRT will continue to closely monitor exchange rate developments and any risk factors related to it and will take necessary measures and use the relevant instruments to make sure that the foreign exchange market operates efficiently. The CBRT announced the general framework of the monetary and exchange rate policies envisaged for 2019 in a presentation titled “Monetary and Exchange Rate Policy for 2019” on December 5, 2018. The CBRT applies a reserve option mechanism (ROM) as a monetary policy tool. In this framework, the CBRT allows banks to hold a fraction of their mandatory reserves for lira liabilities in foreign currency and gold. The CBRT may increase or decrease the reserve option coefficients (ROCs), the amount of foreign currency or gold required to meet one unit of Turkish lira required reserves (RR). Typically, the ROC is an increasing function of different tranches of lira RR; the tranches of the mechanism and the corresponding levels of ROC are determined by the CBRT. The ROM has been used as an active policy tool by the CBRT and has contributed to stabilization of capital flow volatility, indirectly influencing exchange rate movement.

In 2018, the CBRT contributed to banks' foreign exchange liquidity management through the instruments it used. The CBRT provided foreign exchange liquidity to the financial system via the reserve requirement ratios (RRRs) and ROM. Accordingly, the CBRT reduced foreign exchange and Turkish lira (TL) RRRs, and lowered the upper limit for the foreign exchange maintenance facility under the ROM, thereby providing approximately US$13.4 billion of liquidity to the financial system. The CBRT continued to conduct Foreign Exchange Deposits against Turkish lira deposits auctions, and with revisions made throughout the year, the auction amount was reduced to US$500 million from US$1.5 billion, the highest level in 2018. With a view to providing depth in foreign exchange markets and contributing to the corporate sector’s management of exchange rate risk, the CBRT continued to hold Turkish lira-settled forward foreign exchange sale auctions, which were launched in November 2017. In addition to these auctions, effective August 31, 2018, the TL-settled forward foreign exchange transactions were also launched at the Derivatives Market (VIOP) operating under BIST to contribute to the effective functioning of the foreign exchange markets. Total position amount of Turkish lira-settled forward foreign exchange transactions against TL at the CBRT and BIST VIOP has recently registered a decline. Effective November 1, 2018, TL currency swap market was opened at the CB to enhance banks’ efficiency in TL and foreign exchange liquidity management. Moreover, CBRT, in line with its current monetary policy, conducts swap transactions in the BIST Swap Market. The CBRT continued with the efforts to bring out domestic gold savings into the financial system in this period as well. At the same time, transactions at the gold against foreign exchange market were launched, and banks were provided with the location swap facility in gold transactions. In 2018, the foreign exchange demand of US$7.2 billion of energy-importing state-owned enterprises was met by the CBRT. Given the CBRT’s policy focus on limiting exchange rate volatility through the various instruments used, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

Free floating

Official exchange rate  Yes.  There is no official exchange rate determined by the CBRT. However, there is an indicative rate, which is determined through six CBRT observations between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m., at one-hour intervals, taking the average value of the averages of the buying and selling rates as quoted by banks in the interbank foreign exchange market for US$1. The arithmetic average of the six observed values thus obtained is the CBRT’s midrate for US$1. The buying and selling rates for US$1 are calculated based on the midrate. Similarly, the respective cross-rates of the currencies for which the CBRT announces indicative exchange rates are collected between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. at one-hour intervals. The indicative exchange rates are announced at 3:30 p.m. and used for accounting transactions and some branch transactions of the CBRT, but there are no mandatory rates for individuals or entities.

Foreign market operated by the central bank

The CBRT was an intermediary in the foreign exchange market until it gradually phased out its functions in 2002 by reducing banks’ transaction limits to zero. By abandoning intermediation, the CBRT aimed to enhance the depth of the foreign exchange market to allow for pricing that fully reflects risk perception. However, CBRT has temporarily resumed intermediation in several instances since then, to enhance foreign exchange liquidity in the interbank market. Most recently, the CBRT resumed its intermediary function at the Foreign Exchange Deposit Market effective August 13, 2018. Effective September 27, 2018, the selling rate for foreign exchange deposits at one-week maturity was increased from 2.75% to 4.25% for USD and from 1.25% to 2% for EUR and the selling rate for foreign exchange deposits at one-month maturity was increased from 3% to 5% for USD and from 1.4% to 2.5% for EUR. Effective August 1, 2019, the selling rate for foreign exchange deposits at 1-week maturity was reduced from 4.25% to 4% and at 1-month maturity from 5% to 4.75% for USD. Also, when deemed necessary, without any need for a press release, these rates, the rates applied to banks’ borrowings of the USD and EUR from the CB as a last resort facility, may be adjusted in either direction at 9:30 a.m. on business days and will be valid for the same business day. The rates are announced through Anadolu Agency DV006, Reuters CBTJ, and Bloomberg CBT pages.

To support the foreign exchange liquidity, the transaction limits of the banks in the CBRT Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Markets were increased by approximately 130% to US$50 billion (as calculated by current EURUSD parity) on September 1, 2015. The CBRT accepts foreign exchange deposits as a collateral, and on November 11, 2016, the limits were set as US$20 billion and EUR 7.2 billion. Effective August 13, 2018, collateral foreign exchange deposit limits for Turkish lira transactions of banks were raised to 20 billion euros from 7.2 billion euros. The buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the USD was raised to 2% from 1.50% effective September 27, 2018, and to 2.25% effective December 24, 2018, for 1-week, 2-week, and 1-month maturities. Effective August 1, 2019, the buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the USD was reduced from 2.25% to 2% for 1-week, 2-week, and 1-month maturities. The buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the EUR remains at 0%.

Effective November 1, 2018, TL currency swap market was opened to enhance banks’ efficiency in TL and foreign exchange liquidity management. These transactions are conducted at one-week maturities via quotation method with banks, and the maximum amount for these transactions is limited to 10% of the banks’ predetermined transaction limits at the Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Market. Currently, the amount of TL swap transactions against foreign exchange is at US$295 million as of November 30, 2018.

The CBRT, in line with its current monetary policy, conducts bilateral transactions in the BIST Swap Market at various maturities.

The CBRT may intervene directly or through flexible auctions in the market, in case of unhealthy price formations because of speculative behavior stemming from a loss in market depth. The CBRT has issued the following auction guidelines for Foreign Exchange Buying-Selling Auctions against Turkish lira: (1) Only banks authorized to operate in Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Markets in the CB may participate in intraday auctions. (2) The number and other details of the auction are announced through Reuters CBTQ, Bloomberg CBT/Foreign Exchange Auctions, and Anadolu Agency DV007 pages. Following the announcement of the auction, banks may submit their offers within 15 minutes. (3) Offers may be sent via the CBRT Payment Systems Auction System (İhS). (4) Auctions are held under the multiple price method. (5) The results of the auctions are announced through Reuters CBTQ, Bloomberg CBT/Foreign Exchange Auctions, and Anadolu Agency DV007 pages within 15 minutes of the deadline for submission of the offers. (6) The minimum offer amount is US$1 million and larger amounts in multiples thereof. (7) The maximum bid amount for each bank is limited to 10% of the total auction amount. (8) Banks may not change their offer amounts and/or prices during the auction. (9) The full amount of offers received is met up to the auction amount. (10) If there is more than one offer at the price at which the auction is finalized, the distribution is made on pro-rata basis. (11) Banks that do not fulfill their obligations arising from the auctions are subject to the sanctions specified in the Implementation Instructions of the Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Markets.

Between February 2015 and April 2016, the foreign exchange auction selling amount was set on a daily basis depending on the conditions in the foreign exchange market. The CBRT suspended the foreign exchange sale auctions from April 28, 2016. CBRT did not conduct foreign exchange buying or selling transactions, neither directly nor via auctions since then. However, the CBRT continues to supply foreign exchange to energy state-owned enterprises (SOEs) which started in December 2014. With the aim of enhancing flexibility and instrument diversity of the Turkish lira and foreign exchange liquidity management within the current monetary and exchange rate policy framework, the CBRT held foreign exchange deposits against Turkish lira deposit auctions between January 18, 2017, and March 22, 2019, and conducted Turkish lira-settled forward foreign exchange sale auctions between November 20, 2017, and December 31, 2018.

In accordance with the Foreign Trade Regime, exports and imports of precious metals and stones or articles containing them may be conducted freely. However, imports and exports of standard and nonstandard unwrought precious metals must be declared to the customs administration and are not subject to the provisions of the Imports and Exports Regime, Decrees and Regulations. Only the CBRT and intermediary institutions dealing in precious metals that are members of the BIST may import standard unprocessed precious metals (gold, silver, platinum, palladium) without being subject to the provisions of the Foreign Trade Regime, but the latter must surrender the gold to the BIST within three days. Nonstandard unprocessed precious metals may be imported by BIST members and nonmembers. However, if these nonstandard unprocessed precious metals are imported by a member of the BIST, they must be delivered to the BIST within three business days as in the case of standard unprocessed precious metal imports. Selling operations of gold imported by BIST members must initially take place in the BIST.

Banks may open gold deposit accounts for natural and juridical entities in Turkey and abroad. However, the processed gold must be delivered to banks by account holders or transferred through bank accounts in Turkey or abroad or sold by banks to open gold deposit accounts. Banks may trade in precious metals according to Article 4/h of the Banking Law. Within the framework of the foreign exchange regulations, banks may extend gold credits to customers. The buying and selling prices of gold are freely determined by banks.
Intermediary institutions dealing in precious metals may obtain gold credits from abroad on their own behalf and/or on behalf of their customers. However, unprocessed gold obtained and brought into Turkey as a credit must be transferred to the BIST within three days. Travelers may import and export ornamental articles of precious metals and stones valued at not more than the equivalent of US$15,000. Articles exceeding this value may be exported only if they were declared on arrival or with proof that they were purchased in Turkey.

According to the provision of Article 16 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime (Official Gazette of October 18, 2006, Number 26323), travelers making a physical cross-border transportation of Turkish currency, foreign currency, or payment instruments, shall disclose them fully and accurately on the request of Customs Administration. In case no explanations are made or are false or a misleading explanation is made on the request by the authorities, values carried along by the travelers shall be sequestrated by the Customs Administration. The Customs Administration shall impose an administrative fine equal to one tenth of the amount carried along on travelers who do not make a disclosure and one tenth of the difference between the value carried along and the value disclosed on travelers who make a false disclosure about the amount. Besides, the case shall be considered as suspicious and shall be conveyed to MASAK (Mali Suçları Araştırma Kurulu—the Financial Crimes Investigation Board) and other related authorities. The provisions of this paragraph may not apply to the differences up to TRY 1,500. (According to Article 28 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime, fixed amounts, which is stated in the Articles 13 and 16 of this Law, are applied at the beginning of each year by increasing the rate of revaluation determined in accordance with the Tax Procedure Law No. 213 of April 1, 1961, for the previous year. The amounts up to ten new Turkish liras are not considered in the calculations. According to calculations, the amount for 2019 is TRY 4,400.) Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Turkey are obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are officially invited to disclose.

On exports

Yes.

Travelers may freely take abroad up to TRY 25,000 (Amendment to the Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency by the Decree No. 2015/7603 – April 14, 2015). Amounts permitted to be freely taken out of the country in cash were changed to TRY 25,000 for national currency and €10,000 or its equivalent for foreign currencies.

According to Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency (as amended) the limits for a person taking out foreign currency banknotes and Turkish currency abroad without any obligations are as follows: for Turkish currency, the equivalent of TRY 25,000; for foreign currency banknotes, the €10,000 or its equivalent.

Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, published in Official Gazette No. 29578 of June 11, 2015, was amended to authorize the ministry to set principles for taking out Turkish currency greater than TRY 25,000 and foreign currency banknotes greater than €10,000 or its equivalent abroad.

Communiqué No. 2008-32/34 attached to the Decree No. 32 Regarding the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, published in Official Gazette No. 29578 of December 30, 2015, was amended. to set principles for taking out Turkish currency and foreign currency banknotes as follows: taking out foreign exchange greater than €10,000 or its equivalent or Turkish currency and payment instruments denominated in Turkish currency greater than TRY 25,000, accompanied by a traveler shall be declared to customs authorities with cash declaration form issued by the Trade Ministry. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or misleading. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash shall be sequestrated and the matter reported to MASAK, the Financial Crimes Investigation Board as suspicious case. Also, it shall be reported to the public prosecution office to impose a fine for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. On imports

No.

According to the provision of Article 16 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime (Official Gazette of October 18, 2006, Number 26323), travelers making a physical cross-border transportation of Turkish currency, foreign currency, or payment by them, shall disclose them fully and accurately on the request of Customs Administration. In case no explanations are made or false or misleading explanation is made on the request by the authorities, values carried along by the travelers shall be sequestrated by the Customs Administration. The Customs Administration shall impose an administrative fine equal to one tenth of the amount carried along on travelers who do not make a disclosure and one tenth of the difference between the value carried along and the value disclosed on travelers who make a false disclosure about the amount. Besides, the case shall be considered as suspicious and shall be conveyed to MASAK and other related authorities. The provisions of this paragraph may not apply to the differences up to TRY 1,500.
According to Article 28 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime, fixed amounts, which is stated in the Articles 13 and 16 of this Law, are applied at the beginning of each year by increasing the rate of revaluation determined in accordance with the Tax Procedure Law No. 213 of April 1, 1961, for the previous year. The amounts up to ten new Turkish liras are not considered in the calculations. According to calculations, the amount for 2019 is TRY 4,400. Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Turkey are obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are officially invited to disclose.

Imports of certain items are restricted or prohibited for environmental, security, health, or public morality reasons or in accordance with international obligations. These items include certain carcinogenic dyes, chemicals used in the production of chemical weapons or other arms and ammunition, counterfeit labels, gambling instruments, narcotics, and ozone-depleting substances. Import licenses, which are issued by the relevant authorities, are required for a limited group of items, including some machinery, motor vehicles, and chemicals, and a number of items related to civil aircraft. Imports of old, used, renovated, faulty, or obsolete goods are subject to permission from the Ministry of Trade.

With the expiration of the WTO Agreement on Textiles and Clothing, quotas on textiles and clothing under that agreement, and those implemented to harmonize Turkey’s import policy with that of the EU, were abolished. Quotas remain in place for one non-WTO member.

Turkey applies the EU’s GSP (except some countries as India, Vietnam, Indonesia, etc., and GSP+) the GSP rates that are indicated in List II and List III of the Import Regime. In this context, preferences are granted for all industrial products and industrial components of processed agricultural products covered by the EU’s GSP program. Least developed countries have duty- and quota-free access to the Turkish market for all industrial products under Chapters 25–97 (except Chapter 93) and for processed agricultural products in terms of industrial components covered by the customs union between Turkey and the EU. In accordance with the EU’s GSP program, for developing economies duties have been suspended or reduced in accordance with the sensitivity of the product. Beneficiary countries are announced annually in annexes to the import regime decree. The simple average tariff rates that apply to imports of (1) industrial products are 4.2% and (2) agricultural products listed in Annex 1 of the Import Regime are 58%. Turkey also provides additional market access possibilities to countries with which it has preferential agreements. Duty rates that are lower than MFN rates are applied for industrial and certain agricultural products originating in these countries. Effective December 31, 2017, India, Indonesia, and Vietnam were excluded from GSP of Turkey.

Taxes collected through the exchange system  No.

State import monopoly  Yes.  CBRT is the sole importer of special types of paper used for printing banknotes and similar valuable papers, treasury bills, and securities issued by the Privatization Administration.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements  Yes.  Effective September 4, 2018, Communiqué No. 2018-32/48 Regarding the Decree No. 32 on Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency was put into force for 6 months. Effective March 3, 2019, the validity period of the regulation was extended to one year with the Communiqué No. 2018-32/53 Amending the Communiqué No. 2018-32/48 Regarding the Decree No. 32 on Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency (published on March 3, 2019, at Official Gazette Number 30703). In other words, the regulation is in force until September 3, 2019. According to the regulation, export proceeds relating to export transactions carried out by residents in Turkey shall be transferred or brought to the intermediary bank directly and without delay following the importer’s payment. The period of bringing export proceeds to country cannot exceed 180 days from the date of actual export. At least 80% of the export proceeds shall be sold to a bank.

Surrender requirements  Yes.

Surrender to the central bank  No.

Surrender to authorized dealers  Yes.  Export proceeds, relating to export transactions carried out by residents in Turkey, shall be transferred or brought to the intermediary bank directly and without delay following the importer’s payment. The period of bringing export proceeds to country cannot exceed 180 days from the date of actual export. At least 80% of the export proceeds shall be sold to a bank.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

According to Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, purchases and sales of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents and of foreign securities by residents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks). Securities and derivative instruments issued or offered to the public by resident legal persons other than public institutions may be freely sold abroad if the prospectus or issue documents are approved by the CMB. According to Communiqué No. III-37.1 on Principles Regarding Investment Services, Investment Activities and Ancillary Services, investment services and activities obtained by persons residing in Turkey, including from investment firms on their own initiative and from financial institutions abroad, accounts opened at such institutions, cash and other assets transferred to such accounts, and transactions in these accounts are beyond the scope of this Communiqué, provided activities such as promotion, advertisement, and marketing are not intended for persons residing in Turkey. CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) was amended to provide some exemptions for the sale of capital market instruments other than those giving shareholder rights by foreign issuers of which the Ministry of Treasury and Finance or CB is a member/shareholder or for listing on the Turkish stock exchange of these types of instruments already issued abroad.

On capital market securities

Yes. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation.

Istanbul Clearing, Settlement and Custody Bank Inc. (Takasbank) is authorized to provide cash and securities settlement transactions as the central clearing and settlement institution to BIST equities, debt securities, foreign securities, derivatives, and precious metals markets. Securities delivery/receipt as well as cash obligations of BIST members arising from the buy-sell transactions in the related markets are executed via Takasbank. Additionally, rights related to dematerialized capital market instruments are monitored by the Central Registry Agency. Central Registry Agency is the central securities depository for capital market instruments which are decided by CMB to be dematerialized.

Purchases locally by nonresidents

No. Purchases of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions, except for investments in (1) mining, except through a company established in Turkey; (2) exploration and exploitation of petroleum by enterprises controlled or owned by foreign countries, unless authorization is granted; (3) radio and television broadcasting, whose foreign partner share may not exceed 50%. Further, Law No. 6112 on the Establishment of Radio and Television Enterprises and Their Media Services Article 19f reads as follows: “A foreign real or legal person can directly become a partner of maximum two media service providers. If foreign real or legal persons hold shares in companies that are shareholders of media service providers and become an indirect partner of the broadcasters, the chair, the deputy chair and the majority of the Board of Executives and the general director of the broadcasting enterprises have to be the citizens of Republic of Turkey, and the majority of the votes in the general assemblies of broadcasting enterprises should belong to real or legal persons having Turkish citizenship. In main contracts of such corporations, the arrangements ensuring these provisions shall be stated clearly”; (4) the accounting sector; (5) transportation, in accordance with cabotage rights; and (6) electricity, in the scope of privatization activities; foreign individuals and legal entities may not have a controlling market share in electricity generation, transmission, and distribution. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Foreign capital markets instruments and related terms are defined in the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) as follows: “Foreign capital market instruments” refers to securities issued by foreign corporations or foreign states and local administrations, except for foreign investment fund units, as further defined in subparagraph (ș) of first paragraph of Article 3 of the Capital Market Law (No. 6362); a “Foreign corporation” refers to a corporation or, an establishment issuing capital market instruments according to laws of the relevant country, out of persons resident abroad, as defined in the Governmental Decree on Protection of Value of Turkish Currency No. 32 and “Foreign investment fund units” refer to securities which are issued by a foreign investment fund classified as a collective investment scheme founded abroad, and are considered as other capital market instruments.

The issuance, public offering, private placement, and sale of foreign capital market instruments, fund units, and depository receipts by nonresidents are subject to the provisions of the capital markets legislation. Under New Capital Markets Law No. 6362, nonresident and resident issuers must submit the prospectus to the CMB for approval before a public offering. The principles regarding public offering, private placement, sales to qualified investors, and sales must conform to the provisions of the relevant Communiqué appropriate for the nature of the relevant capital market instrument, unless specified otherwise by the regulations of the CMB. Under the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4, published in the Official Gazette of October 23, 2013, along with annulment of Communiqué Serial VII, No. 14, on Principles Regarding the Registration with the Board and Sale of Foreign Mutual Funds), issuers must apply to the CMB for approval of prospectus or issue documents prepared for foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts for the following transactions: (1) public offerings of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts; (2) sales of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts through private placement and/or to qualified investors; (3) shares issued by foreign corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange through capital contributions and capital contributions to be paid from equities. Further, the Communiqué (1) modifies the requirements for public disclosure, auditing, and independent auditing reports of foreign corporations in line with the new Capital Market Law and related subregulations; (2) establishes a new tool of public disclosure called the Investor Information Document that replaces the circular to inform investors; (3) sets the minimum requirement for net asset value of the fund at €10 million or the equivalent in other currencies and stipulates that they must have been traded for at least three years; (4) indicates that controversy among representative and foreign fund units may be solved through arbitration; and (5) requires that foreign investment fund units sold in Turkey be recorded collectively or individually by rightful owners in accounts opened in the name of the fund representative in the organization of registry where ownership records are kept abroad. In addition, foreign investment fund units must be registered electronically but separately for rightful owners in a subaccount of the fund representative in the Central Registry Agency. Foreign capital market instruments offered to the public must comply with the following: (1) They must not have been rejected for trading on an exchange of the country of issue by the exchange or capital market authority for protection of investors or on similar grounds. (2) The foreign capital market instruments must have been drawn up in liras or foreign currency whose daily exchange rates are announced by the CBRT. (3) Foreign debt instruments must have received an investment rating for long-term demand according to the rating scale of the rating agency of the issuing partnership. This rating must be received one year before application to the CMB. (4) In case of public offering of foreign capital market instruments, foreign companies must appoint a representative agent whose qualifications and obligations are set by Communiqué No. VII-128.4. (5) The financial reports to be drawn up by foreign corporations (financial statements, annual report of the board of directors, statement of responsibility reports) and their preparation must comply with the accounting standards accepted in CMB regulations for corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange or, if deemed appropriate by the CMB, with internationally accepted accounting standards. (6) Foreign corporations are subject to the same principles as corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange, in terms of independent audit obligations of financial statements. The independent auditing of financial tables must be conducted by an independent auditing firm included on the list of authorized independent auditing firms of the CMB or an international independent auditing firm to which these firms belong, in compliance with internationally accepted independent auditing standards. (7) Foreign corporations must fulfill all obligations concerning public disclosure to which similar corporations in Turkey are subject.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. There are no restrictions with regard to assets, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Turkey. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. The sale, issuance, and public offering of capital market instruments abroad by resident legal entities, except public institutions and establishments, are not restricted, provided the document regarding the issue is submitted to and approved by the CMB, pursuant to the capital markets legislation. The Capital Markets Law regulates the registration of capital market instruments. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. Nonresidents (including investment partnership and investment funds abroad) may purchase all kinds of securities and other capital market instruments through banks and intermediary institutions that are authorized under the capital market legislation.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Foreign capital markets instruments and related terms are defined in the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) as follows: “Foreign capital market instruments” refer to securities issued by foreign corporations or foreign states and local administrations, except for foreign investment fund units, as further defined in subparagraph (§) of the first paragraph of Article 3 of the Capital Market Law (6362); a “Foreign corporation” refers to a corporation or, an establishment issuing capital market instruments according to laws of the relevant country, from persons resident abroad, as defined in the Governmental Decree on Protection of Value of Turkish Currency No. 32, and “Foreign investment fund units” refer to securities issued by a foreign investment fund classified as a collective investment scheme founded abroad, and are considered as other capital market instruments. The issuance, public offering, private placement, and sale of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts by nonresidents are subject to the provisions of the capital markets legislation. Nonresident and resident issuers must apply to the CMB for the approval of the prospectus before public offering. The principles regarding public offering, private placement, sales to qualified investors, and sales must be carried out within the framework of the provisions of the Communiqué appropriate for the nature of the capital market instrument, unless specified otherwise by the regulations of the CMB. In accordance with the CMB Communiqué on Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4), issuers must apply to the CMB for approval of the prospectus or issuance document of the following foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts: (1) public offerings of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts, (2) sales of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts through private placement and/or to qualified investors, and (3) shares issued by foreign corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange through capital contributions and capital contributions to be paid from equities. Foreign capital market instruments offered to the public in Turkey (1) must not have been rejected for trading on the exchange of the country of issue by the exchange or capital market authority on protection of investors and on similar grounds; (2) must have been drawn up in liras or foreign currencies whose daily exchange rates are announced by the CBRT; (3) must have received an investment rating for long-term demand according to the rating scale of the rating agency of the issuing partnership; this rating must be received one year before application to the CMB; (4) in case of public offering of foreign capital market instruments, foreign companies must appoint a representative agent whose qualifications and obligations are set by Communiqué No. VII-128.4; (5) must have financial reports drawn up by foreign corporations (financial statements, annual report of board of directors, statement of responsibility reports) prepared in compliance with the accounting standards accepted in CMB regulations for corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange or, if deemed appropriate by the CMB, with internationally accepted accounting standards; (6) are subject to the same principles as corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange, in terms of independent audit obligations of financial statements; independent auditing of financial tables must be conducted by the independent auditing firms listed by the CMB or the international independent auditing firms of which they are members, in compliance with internationally accepted independent auditing standards; and (7) must fulfill all obligations concerning public disclosure to which similar corporations residing in Turkey are subject.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes.

There are no restrictions with regard to assets, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries to cover risk held outside Turkey. These assets are also held as collateral, provided they are at TAKASBANK (Istanbul Settlement and Custody Bank Inc.). Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | Yes. | The sale, issuance, and public offering of capital market instruments abroad by resident legal entities, except public institutions and establishments, are not restricted, provided the document regarding the issue is approved by the CMB, pursuant to the capital markets legislation. The Capital Markets Law regulates the registration of capital market instruments. In addition to the regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature, issuers are required to submit the issue document regarding the issued capital market instrument to be approved by the CMB pursuant to the Communiqué Prospectus and Issue Document (II-5.1). |
| On money market instruments | Yes. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. | Purchases of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks). |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | Controls apply to the issuance and public sale of money market securities, except for securities that are not regulated under the current legislation on capital markets, such as certificates of deposit (CDs) and bankers’ acceptances. Commercial paper, bank bills, and bank-guaranteed bills with a maturity of less than one year are subject to CMB regulations. Nonresidents are required to apply to the CMB for approval of the prospectus and offer these securities to the public according to Communiqué on Foreign Capital Market Instruments Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4). |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | There are no restrictions with regard to assets, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries with regard to their risk held outside Turkey. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks). |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | Yes. | Commercial paper, bank bills, and bank-guaranteed bills with a maturity of less than one year are subject to the regulations of the CMB. Issuers must apply to the CMB for the approval of the issue document before issuing these securities in a foreign capital market. |
| On collective investment securities | Yes. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | No. |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | Pursuant to Communiqué No. VII-128.4, the sale through active marketing or issuance of these instruments is subject to CMB legislation. Foreign collective investment companies are required to apply to the CMB for approval of fund rules just as domestic collective investment companies must do, before offering their securities to the public. Foreign collective investment companies must have a representative that is a bank or a broadly authorized intermediary institution in Turkey. Public offerings are made by this representative and/or through banks or intermediary institutions authorized by the representative. Fund representative must apply to the CMB for approval of prospectus. |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | There are no restrictions with regard to purchase of assets abroad by residents, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries with regard to their risk held outside Turkey.

Resident collective investment funds may invest up to 20% of the fund’s net asset value in foreign exchange-traded funds.

According to Capital Markets Law No. 6362, national collective investment companies must apply to the CMB for approval when issuing or selling securities in Turkey or abroad.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
Yes.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments
Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
No.

Purchases of derivatives and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes.

According to Capital Markets Law No. 6362, the performance of investment services and activities as a regular occupation, business, or a professional activity requires permission from the CMB.

Investment services and activities may only be performed by investment firms, which are defined as intermediary institutions as well as other capital market institutions established to perform investment services and activities, the establishment and operation principles of which are designated by the CMB, and banks. Sale and issuance of derivatives are regarded as investment service and activity, which require permission of the CMB. The only exception is noncommercial or nonoccupational sale and purchase of derivative instruments by natural or legal persons among themselves without intermediation of an investment firm.

According to Communiqué No. III-37.1 on Principles Regarding Investment Services, Investment Activities and Ancillary Services, investment services and activities obtained by persons residing in Turkey, including from investment firms on their own initiative and from financial institutions abroad, accounts opened at such institutions, cash and other assets transferred to such accounts, and transactions in these accounts are beyond the scope of this Communiqué, provided activities such as promotion, advertisement, and marketing are not intended for persons residing in Turkey.

Purchase abroad by residents
Yes.

There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in financial institutions established in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Turkey. There are no controls on derivatives traded abroad whose underlying instruments are the same as those traded in local derivative exchanges.

According to Decree No. 32, leveraged transactions and derivative transactions determined to be subject to the same provisions as the former must be conducted by the people resident in Turkey only through competent institutions authorized by the CMB.

Starting March 13, 2017, leveraged transaction of foreign exchange, precious metals, and other assets designated by the CMB must only be conducted by resident through competent institutions authorized by the CMB.

Leveraged transactions are defined as “sale and purchase transactions through leverage of the foreign exchange, precious metals, and other assets designated by the CMB, on an electronic platform, in consideration of collateral deposited” in the Communiqué No. III-37.1.

Furthermore, Article 99 of the Capital Markets Law states that unauthorized leveraged transaction activities which have been carried out via Internet and directed to persons residing in Turkey by companies abroad must be banned by blocking off the access to the relevant website by the Information and Communications Technologies Authority on the request of the CMB.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

No.

Controls on credit operations

Yes. Credits extended by nonresidents with a maturity of more than one year that are obtained by the public sector or guaranteed by the Treasury must be registered in the External Financing Information System maintained by the Ministry of Treasury and Finance. All other credits are monitored by the CBRT for statistical purposes.

Commercial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Restrictions apply only to commodity credits of more than two years for exports of nondurable goods and of more than five years for exports of other goods.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. Residents may freely obtain Turkish lira credits from abroad, provided they use such credits through banks (including participating banks). With an amendment to Decree No. 32, the authority to determine the maximum maturity period for pre-financing credits is delegated to the Ministry of Treasury and Finance. These credits can be utilized to finance exportation.

An amendment on foreign exchange legislation has been put into force effective May 2, 2018 (Official Gazette No. 30312 of January 25, 2018). With the new legislation, in general Turkish residents, who do not have income in foreign currency, cannot take loans in foreign currency domestically or from abroad. The rule will be applied to all Turkish residents apart from those which have some special conditions. For residents that have income in foreign currency who have foreign exchange liabilities less than US$15 million, can borrow in foreign exchange according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of their foreign exchange income of the last three fiscal years. Previously, no such limit was in place. Natural persons resident in Turkey cannot use foreign currency credits domestically or from abroad. Residents in Turkey cannot use foreign currency indexed credits domestically or from abroad.

Financial credits

Yes.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Banks, financial leasing companies, factoring companies, financing companies resident in Turkey, and other persons determined by the ministry can extend foreign currency and Turkish lira loans to nonresidents. Residents may extend financial credits in foreign exchange and liras to their parent companies, group companies, affiliates, and subsidiaries abroad. There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in financial institutions established in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Turkey.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. An amendment on foreign exchange legislation has been put into force effective May 2, 2018 (Official Gazette No. 30312 of January 25, 2018). With the new legislation, in general Turkish residents, who do not have income in foreign currency, cannot take loans in foreign currency domestically or from abroad. The rule will be applied to all Turkish residents apart from those which have some special conditions. For residents that have income in foreign currency who have foreign exchange liabilities less than US$15 million, can borrow in foreign exchange according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of their foreign exchange income of the last three fiscal years. Previously, no such limit was in place and residents in Turkey could freely obtain credits from abroad, provided such credits were disbursed by means of banks. Natural persons resident in Turkey cannot use foreign currency credits domestically or from abroad. Residents in Turkey cannot use foreign currency indexed credits domestically or from abroad.

Controls apply to investment in (1) mining, except through a company established in Turkey; (2) exploration and exploitation of petroleum by enterprises controlled or owned by foreign countries, unless authorization is granted; (3) radio and television broadcasting, whose foreign partner share may not exceed 50%. Further, Law No. 6112 on the Establishment of Radio and Television Enterprises and Their Media Services Article 19f reads as follows: “A foreign real or legal person can directly become a partner of maximum two media service providers. If foreign real or legal persons hold shares in companies that are shareholders of media service providers and become an indirect partner of the broadcasters, the chair, the deputy chair and the majority of the Board of Executives and the general director of the broadcasting enterprises have to be the citizens of Republic of Turkey, and the majority of the votes in the general assemblies of broadcasting enterprises should belong to real or legal persons having Turkish citizenship. In main contracts of such corporations, the arrangements ensuring these provisions shall be stated clearly”; (4) the accounting, auditing, and bookkeeping services sector; (5) transportation, in accordance with cabotage rights; (6) electricity, in the scope of privatization activities; foreign individuals and legal entities may not have a controlling market share in electricity generation, transmission, and distribution; (7) education; foreign real or legal persons may not set up education institutions unless all students are foreigners. International private education institutions may be set up by real or legal persons on authorization of the Council of Ministers. For tertiary education institutions, the majority in the administrative bodies must be Turkish nationals; (8) aviation; no more than 49% equity participation by foreigners is allowed. Licenses to operate airlines are only granted to locally incorporated companies whose management is under the control of Turkish citizens and the majority of voting shares are owned by Turkish citizens. Airlines, of which the majority of shares are controlled by foreigners, are not permitted to carry passengers from one national airport to another. To obtain ground handling services licenses (A and C Group Licenses), the majority authorized administration and representation of the company must be Turkish. The contract of such a company has to guarantee that the votes of its majority shareholders belong to Turkish nationals; (9) fishing; foreign persons may not obtain a fishing license. Enterprises that are established in Turkey in conformity with the legislation on FDI are subject to prior authorization and license requirements of the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry. According to Communiqué No. 2012/66 of August 18, 2012, on Regulation of Fish Hunting, foreign persons cannot operate in tuna fishing by renting Turkish vessels; (10) banking; permission to establish a bank, which has to be founded in the form of a joint-stock company, or to open the first branch of a foreign bank in Turkey, shall be given by the Banking Regulation and Supervision Board; (11) port services; port services are provided under concession agreements; (12) advisory services on foreign and international law by foreign lawyers in the Turkish territory; except for establishment in the form of “foreign attorney partnership (yabancı avukatlık ortaklığı)” and based on reciprocity; (13) health-related services; foreign persons can only establish private hospitals with the permission of the Ministry of Health; (14) pharmaceuticals and medical products; an enterprise, which will produce pharmaceuticals or medical products, has to be managed by a responsible director who shall be Turkish National.

| Controls on liquidation of direct investment | No. | Proceeds may be transferred abroad freely but must be reported to the CBRT. |
| Controls on real estate transactions | Yes. | There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in real estate located in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Turkey. |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | There is no reciprocity requirement in real estate acquisitions of foreign real persons, and the Council of Ministers, in compliance with legal restrictions, bilateral international relations, and national interests, is authorized to determine the countries authorized to acquire real estate in Turkey. The total area of the real estate acquired by foreign real persons may not exceed 10% of the privately owned land in the town and 30 hectares a person across the country. The Council of Ministers may also authorize an increase of 30 hectares not more than twice. If a foreign real or legal person acquires vacant land, a project must be developed within two years and submitted to the relevant ministry for approval. The project must be monitored by the same ministry. These restrictions for foreign real and legal persons do not apply to the pledge on real estate. In case of national interest, the Council of Ministers may limit, suspend, or prohibit the acquisition of immovable and/or limited rights in rem of foreign real and legal persons in terms of country, person, geographic area, duration, number, ratio, sort, qualification, area, or quantity. |
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | Yes. | In principle, foreign capital companies established in Turkey may freely acquire and use real estate to conduct business activities listed in the articles of association of their companies. Within this context, companies controlled by foreign investors (the companies in which foreign shareholders own at least 50% of the shares or have the authority to assign or dismiss the majority of the managers), willing to acquire immovable and/or limited rights in rem in Turkey, must apply to the Provincial Planning and Coordination Directorate (Prefecture Office) at the location of the property by presenting the required documents. Moreover, acquisitions in military zones and special security zones require permission from the Turkish military authorities and province governorships, respectively. These restrictions for foreign capital companies do not apply to the pledge on real estate, liquidation of such pledges, acquisitions of real estate within the context of mergers and divisions of the companies, acquisitions in specific investment areas such as organized industrial zones, technology development zones, or free zones, and acquisitions of banks for the collection of their receivables. However, the banking regulation stipulates liquidation of such properties within a specific time frame. Golden visa scheme is in place with the amendment of the Regulation on the Implementation of the Turkish Citizenship Law such that foreign persons may acquire Turkish citizenship by purchasing real estate of at least US$1 million, which is validated by the Ministry of Environment and Urbanization.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes.

Borrowing abroad No. Banks and financial leasing companies, factoring companies, and financing companies, which are resident in Turkey, can freely use foreign currency credits from abroad.

Maintenance of accounts abroad No.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes. Banks, financial leasing companies, factoring companies, financing companies resident in Turkey, and other persons determined by the ministry operating in Turkey may extend credit in foreign exchange to nonresidents. Such credit may also be extended in liras.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. In an attempt to contain risks associated with resident foreign exchange borrowing, an amendment on foreign exchange legislation has been put into force effective May 2, 2018 (Official Gazette No. 30312 of January 25, 2018). With the new legislation, in general Turkish residents, who do not have income in foreign currency, cannot take loans in foreign currency domestically or from abroad. The rule will be applied to all Turkish residents apart from those which have some special conditions. For residents that have income in foreign currency who have foreign exchange liabilities less than US$15 million, can borrow in foreign exchange according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of their foreign exchange income of the last three fiscal years. Previously, no such limit was in place.

Natural persons resident in Turkey cannot use foreign currency credits domestically or from abroad. Residents in Turkey cannot use foreign currency indexed credits domestically or from abroad.

With the amendment, most of the exceptions in the former regulation were preserved. However, according to previous regulation, banks could extend foreign exchange credit to residents without considering whether they have foreign currency income or not, if the credit has an average maturity exceeding one year and is in an amount not less than US$5 million. With the new regulation, this exception was removed and the rule of borrowing in foreign currency according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of foreign currency income of last three fiscal years has been put into practice for ensuring the firms borrow prudently and manage their foreign exchange risk efficiently.

Reserve requirements

Banks (including participation banks) and financing companies must maintain reserve requirements at the CBRT for deposits and other liabilities. RRRs of financing companies have been 0% effective June 14, 2019 (previously, these RRRs were the same as those of banks subject to RRRs).

RRRs on Turkish lira liabilities were changed as follows:

- Demand deposits, notice deposits, private current accounts, and deposits and participation accounts with maturities up to one month and three months:
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 10.5% to 8%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 8% to 7%.

- Deposits and participation accounts with maturities up to six months:
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 7.5% to 5%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 5% to 4%.

- Deposits and participation accounts with maturities up to one year:
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 5.5% to 3%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 3% to 2%.

- Deposits and participation accounts with one year or longer maturity:
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 4% to 1.5%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 1.5% to 1%.

- Other liabilities up to one-year maturity (including one year):
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 10.5% to 8%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 8% to 7%.

- Other liabilities up to three-year maturity (including three years):
  - (1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 7% to 4.5%.
  - (2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 4.5% to 3.5%.
Other liabilities longer than three-year maturity:
(1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 4% to 1.5%.
(2) As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 8, 2019, decreased from 1.5% to 1%.
The CBRT raised the RRRs of foreign currency noncore liabilities of banks and financing companies as a way to incentivize maturities of longer than three years as noted below.
The RRRs on foreign currency liabilities (including gold deposit accounts) were changed as follows:
Demand deposits, notice deposits, private current accounts, and deposits/participation accounts up to one-month, three-month, six-month, and one-year maturities:
(1) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 12% to 13%.
(2) As announced May 27, 2019, and effective May 17, 2019, increased from 13% to 15%.
Deposits/participation accounts with one-year or longer maturity:
(1) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 8% to 9%.
(2) As announced May 27, 2019, and effective May 17, 2019, increased from 9% to 11%.
Other liabilities up to one year (including one year):
(1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 24% to 20%.
(2) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 20% to 21%.
Other liabilities up to two-year maturity (including two years):
(1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 19% to 15%.
(2) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 15% to 16%.
Other liabilities up to three-year maturity (including three years):
(1) As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, decreased from 14% to 10%.
(2) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 10% to 11%.
Other liabilities up to five-year maturity (including five years):
(1) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 6% to 7%.
Other liabilities longer than five-year maturity:
(1) As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, increased from 4% to 5%.
According to the Press Release No. 2016/2, development and investment banks’ borrower funds were subject to reserve requirements and RRRs for these liabilities are equal to RRRs of “Demand deposits, notice deposits, private current accounts, and deposits and participation accounts with maturities up to one month and three months.”
With the aim of narrowing the cost differential of meeting the lira reserve requirements in liras or foreign exchange, the ROM was launched September 16, 2011. The ROM expresses the structure that allows banks and financing companies to keep a certain ratio of lira reserve requirements in foreign exchange and standard gold and from September 1, 2016, wrought or scrap gold collected by banks from residents.
As announced May 7, 2018, and effective April 20, 2018, the upper limit for the foreign exchange maintenance facility within the ROM was lowered to 45% from 55%, the first six tranches were reduced by 5 points, and the last five tranches were dropped.
As announced August 6, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, the upper limit for the foreign exchange maintenance facility within the ROM has been lowered to 40% from 45%.

As announced August 13, 2018, and effective July 27, 2018, in addition to US dollars, euro can be used for the maintenance against Turkish lira reserves under the ROM.

As announced February 16, 2019, and effective February 22, 2019, the upper limit of the facility of holding standard gold converted from wrought or scrap gold collected from residents has been increased from 5% to 10% of Turkish lira reserve requirements.

As announced May 9, 2019, and effective May 3, 2019, the upper limit for the foreign exchange maintenance facility within the ROM has been lowered from 40% to 30%.

RR for banks and finance companies must be held in US dollars for liabilities in US dollars, and in US dollars or euros for liabilities in other foreign currencies.

Gold deposit accounts are subject to a reserve requirement. Total RR for precious metal deposit accounts may be maintained as standard gold. Domestic currency reserve requirements are maintained on a two-week-average basis. Banks may carry over 5% of excess or deficiency of their lira RR in one maintenance period to be used or made up only in the following maintenance period; the RR for foreign exchange liabilities must be held in special accounts with the CBRT; 4% may be maintained on a two-week-average basis.

In case of noncompliance with the required reserve obligations, banks and financing companies must hold non-interest-bearing deposits with the CBRT. The deposit must be twice the deficient amount of domestic currency RR and three times the deficient amount of foreign exchange RR and must be in liras and US dollars, respectively.

Effective October 23, 2018, the CBRT pays interest on banks’ and financing companies’ foreign exchange component of RR at 2% for US-dollar-denominated RR (increased from 1.5%) and 0% for euro-denominated RR.

Liquid asset requirements Yes.

Foreign currency deposits/participation funds are treated as less stable deposits/participation funds and 10% run off rate is applied to foreign exchange retail deposits, whereas 5% run off rate is applied to national currency deposits. This implementation is in compliance with Basel III LCR Framework. The two LCRs deposit and participation banks must maintain are such that the total LCR must be at least 90% (previously 80%) (in line with the transition rules of the Basel III LCR standard) and foreign currency LCR must be at least 70% (previously 60%), from January 1, 2018. Effective January 1, 2019, total LCR requirement is 100% and foreign exchange LCR requirement is 80%.

Interest rate controls No.

Credit controls No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents No.

Reserve requirements No.

Liquid asset requirements No.

Interest rate controls No.

Credit controls No.

Investment regulations Yes.
Abroad by banks

Yes. The opening of branches or representative offices, establishment of companies, and participation in existing companies abroad by banks founded in Turkey are subject to BRSA approval, on the condition of compliance with the corporate governance and protective provisions set forth in the Banking Law and the principles established by the BRSA.

In banks by nonresidents

Yes. Acquisition of shares that results in one person directly or indirectly owning shares representing 10% or more of the capital of a bank; acquisition of shares that results in one person owning capital shares exceeding 10%, 20%, 33%, or 50% of the capital of a bank; and transfers of shares that result in one person’s capital shares falling below these limits are subject to BRSA approval. Transactions that result in a reduction in the number of shareholders to fewer than five, or in shares being assigned without permission, may not be registered. These rules apply to the acquisition of voting rights and establishment of rights to usufruct in connection with shares. The assignment and transfer of preferential shares that confer the right to promote a member to the board of directors or audit committee or issue new shares require BRSA approval, regardless of the above limits. In the application of these regulations, there is no distinction between residents and nonresidents.

Open foreign exchange position limits

Yes. The BRSA regulates, supervises, and monitors all banks’ open foreign exchange positions. All foreign-exchange-indexed assets and liabilities must be accounted for fully as foreign assets and foreign liabilities. Banks are required to maintain a balance in their foreign exchange assets and liabilities and maintain foreign exchange positions that are in line with their own funds. The absolute value of the weekly arithmetic mean of daily ratios between net foreign exchange positions and own funds must be no greater than 20%. If the maximum is exceeded, banks must inform the BRSA. The weekly excess must be eliminated within two weeks. The weekly excess may not exceed more than six times in a calendar year, even if it is eliminated.

Policy rate

06/01/2018
The CB simplified its operational framework of monetary policy and decided to adopt the one-week repo rate as the sole monetary policy rate. The CB overnight borrowing and lending rates since this date are determined at 150 basis points below/above the one-week repo rate, and the Monetary Policy Committee does not make separate announcements for these rates.

Target corridor band

06/01/2018
The target corridor band is determined between 150 basis points below/above the policy rate, that is, the one-week repo rate.

Other

06/01/2018
The CB overnight borrowing and lending rates are determined at 150 basis points below/above the one-week repo rate (the policy rate). The CB borrowing rate for Late Liquidity Window operations is 0%, whereas the lending rate for these operations is determined by adding 150 basis points to the Central Bank of the Republic of Turkey’s overnight lending rate.

Free floating

Official exchange rate  Yes.  The CBT established a unified exchange rate at TMT 2.85 per US dollar after redenomination on May 1, 2008. After having maintained an exchange rate of TMT 2.85 per US dollar since May 2008 until December 31, 2014, from January 1, 2015, the CBT devalued the currency to TMT 3.50 per US dollar. Transactions in foreign currency may be reflected in accounting records at nominal value and for accounting purposes may be converted to domestic currency at the official exchange rate in effect at the time of its completion. With each change in the official exchange rate, balances in foreign currency accounts (deposits) in domestic currency must be recalculated without changing the nominal value of the foreign currency balance.

Exchange tax  No.
Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes. The official rates are used in all official transactions, including mandatory foreign exchange sales, and for accounting and valuation purposes. For all other transactions, the exchange rates in all foreign exchange market segments may deviate from the official exchange rates only by up to 0.25% for selling and 0.5% for buying, including fees and commissions.

Spot exchange market  Yes. Foreign currency is generated through the purchase of foreign exchange by authorized credit institutions at the Interbank Currency Exchange of Turkmenistan (ICET), interbank OTC market, and by foreign exchange bureaus from individuals. There were 204 foreign exchange bureaus operating in the country, opened by authorized credit institutions on the basis of a permit by the CBT. Foreign exchange bureaus only perform exchange operations (with individuals).

State-owned enterprises (SOEs) are required to conduct their foreign exchange transactions in the ICET, either directly or through banks’ intermediation. Banks and individual entrepreneurs and private legal entities, through banks’ intermediation, can conduct foreign exchange transactions in the ICET or the interbank OTC market. Authorized banks may conduct their clients’ foreign exchange transactions (except for government-owned institutions and enterprises) with their own resources and without recourse to the ICET.

 Operated by the central bank  Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility  Yes. In trading at the ICET, resident legal entities, whatever their organizational or legal form, may sell and purchase foreign currency directly or through intermediaries. Participants pay the ICET a commission on transactions as determined by a resolution of the president of Turkmenistan. The exchange rate of foreign currency is defined as the weighted average price of all transactions with a specific foreign currency. The CBT intervenes in the ICET to prevent adverse currency fluctuations.

There is an established interbank foreign exchange market in Turkmenistan. Authorized credit institutions may sell and purchase foreign exchange directly in the exchange market and/or through correspondent banks. When selling or buying foreign exchange, rates established by participants in the interbank market may not deviate more than 0.25% and 0.5% from the official rate for the sale and purchase transactions, respectively, including fees and commissions.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. International transactions take place through correspondent accounts. Settlements with countries with which Turkmenistan has bilateral payments agreements are made in accordance with the terms of these agreements. Both domestic and foreign currency may be used for foreign trade transactions. Settlements and payments between residents are made in domestic currency only. The use of foreign currency for payments in Turkmenistan is governed by Turkmen legislation.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. Controls apply in accordance with the Law of Turkmenistan on the CBT, Law of Turkmenistan on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Control in Foreign Economic Relations, and the CBT instructions on provision of loans, bank accounts, noncash settlements, and cash operations of banks in Turkmenistan.

For current transactions and payments Yes. These transactions and payments are regulated by the general rules according to the foreign exchange legislation, and there are no special restrictions.

For capital transactions Yes. According to the Law of Turkmenistan on the CBT and Law of Turkmenistan on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Control in Foreign Economic Relations, the manat is the sole legal tender. Foreign currency may not be used for payments between residents, except as stipulated by law.

Uganda (BOU) intervenes in the interbank foreign exchange market (IFEM) at the banks’ quoted rates using the best bid-ask principle. The BOU publishes information on its interventions in its monthly, quarterly, and annual reports, including amounts purchased and sold through the reserve buildup program, interventions, and targeted transactions. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is floating.

Official exchange rate

- The daily official exchange rate is calculated as the midrate computed from the simple average interbank exchange rates for purchases and sales of foreign exchange. The average rate for the previous month is used by the customs authority for tax computation on imports. The BOU’s foreign exchange transactions with government (ministries, departments, and agencies) are conducted at the day’s opening spot rates.

Other monetary framework

| Exchange tax | No. |
| Exchange subsidy | No. |
| Foreign exchange market | Yes. | Commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus are free to set exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients. |
| Spot exchange market | Yes. | The BOU is authorized to grant licenses to deal in foreign exchange. ADs include commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus. ADs may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions in transactions in the retail market with their clients. However, ADs that participate in the wholesale market (IFEM) must maintain a U Sh 10 spread on the bid-ask quotes they post on the Reuters Dealing System. Foreign exchange bureaus may operate if they are licensed by the BOU and adhere to the Foreign Exchange Act (FEA) and regulations. There were 277 authorized foreign exchange bureaus as of March 31, 2019, which engaged in transactions with commercial banks and the public, but not with the BOU. There are no restrictions on foreign exchange bureaus’ accounts abroad, although their operations are limited to spot transactions and OTC purchases and sales of foreign currency. There are special licenses permitting foreign exchange bureaus to transfer or receive funds to or from abroad on behalf of their clients, which they must perform through international money transfer agencies or | domestic banks, with which they must maintain an account for clients’ funds.

Operated by the central bank Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility No.
Allocation No.
Auction Yes. The BOU occasionally intervenes in the interbank foreign exchange rate market to stem volatility. It also conducts opportunistic purchases of US dollars in order to build up reserves. These interventions take place through auctions conducted using the Reuters Dealing System. Participation in the IFEM is restricted to Tier 1 financial institutions. The BOU Act 2000, Section 19, authorizes the auctioning of foreign currency and states that “the bank may buy and sell foreign currency at rates determined by market conditions and on terms that may be determined by the Board.” Since August 2010, the BOU has been conducting opportunistic purchases for reserve building through auctions on a daily basis depending on the prevailing IFEM conditions, as ensuring smooth and stable exchange rate movements takes precedence over reserve buildup. Interventions in the IFEM are only conducted when the market experiences high volatility of the shilling. Intervention amounts are not announced in advance. In conducting intervention, the banks that are hit on the Reuters Dealing System by the CB at their quoted rate are obligated to execute a transaction for a minimum of US$250,000. Participants that default to deliver/settle are charged interest on the amount owed for each day of the default at the prevailing LIBOR rate. Participants are not required to use the acquired foreign currency for any specific purpose. Commercial banks that are members of the IFEM may participate. The intervention amounts are announced with a lag in the CB’s Monetary Policy, State of the Economy, and Annual reports.

Fixing No.
Interbank market Yes. In the IFEM, as of December 31, 2018, 24 banks (excluding the CB) traded among themselves. The BOU intervenes in the IFEM at the commercial banks’ quoted rates, using the best bid-ask principle. Participants in the IFEM must maintain a 10 shilling spread on the bid-ask quotes they post on the Reuters Dealing System.

Over the counter Yes.
Brokerage No.
Market making Yes.
Forward exchange market Yes. Authorized banks may deal with customers in the forward exchange market.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements No. Authorized payments, including import payments to nonresidents, may be made in shillings for credit to a nonresident’s account in Uganda or in the currency of the country of residence of the payee. Other convertible currencies may also be accepted for international payments.
Controls on the use of domestic currency No.

For current transactions and payments No.

For capital transactions No.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments No.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments No.

Credit operations No.

Use of foreign exchange among residents No. Except with the permission of the CB, individuals and institutions do not engage in foreign exchange business.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements Yes.

Operative Yes.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements Yes. Uganda remains a signatory to the East African Payment System (EAPS) master agreement, which it signed in 2011. The agreement allows the connection of the Real-Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) systems of the EAC partner states into a regional RTGS system. Uganda went live on the EAPS in November 2013 and as of the end of March 2015, four countries—namely, Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania, and Uganda—were live on the system.

Uganda is also a signatory to the COMESA Regional Payment and Settlement System (REPSS) agreement, which allows member countries to directly transfer funds within the region, through member countries’ CBs, the settlement bank (Bank of Mauritius), and the COMESA Clearing House. The system went live in Uganda on February 28, 2014, and is currently operational in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Eswatini, Kenya, Malawi, Mauritius, Rwanda, Sudan, Uganda, and Zambia.

Clearing agreements Yes. The REPSS is an electronic platform that facilitates cross-border payments within COMESA. The REPSS operates through the COMESA Clearing House, located in Harare and through the Bank of Mauritius, which serves as the Settlement Bank. Payments are settled in convertible currencies, namely: US dollars and euros.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control No.

Payments arrears Yes.

Official Yes. As of end March 2019, external debt legacy arrears stood at US$77.1 million owed to three countries: Tanzania (US$58.25 million), Nigeria (US$18.85 million), and Iraq (US$1,580.01 million).

Private No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes. Residents may hold and acquire gold coins for numismatic purposes. Only monetary authorities and licensed dealers are allowed to hold or acquire gold in any form other than jewelry.

On domestic ownership and/or trade Yes. Dealing in gold in any form other than jewelry constituting the personal effects of a traveler requires a license issued by the Ministry of Energy and Mineral Development. On the basis of these licenses, the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Cooperatives issues export and import permits.

- Borrowing abroad: Yes. Commercial banks may borrow from abroad however, should they need to classify the borrowing as part of Tier 2 capital or as administered funds they would need to consult with the BOU.

- Maintenance of accounts abroad: Yes. Account balances may range between 20% and 50% of total capital, depending on the rating of the correspondent financial institution. See Section 8 of the Financial Institutions (Foreign Exchange Business) rules, 2010, referenced in Section C below.

- Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits): Yes. A financial institution may not open or set up a subsidiary, branch, or representative office or transact financial institution business outside Uganda or acquire an interest in any enterprise conducting business outside Uganda, except with the consent of the CB.

- Lending locally in foreign exchange: Yes. Lending in foreign currency may have a maximum maturity of no more than one year unless the borrower has a clearly defined income stream in the currency being borrowed that matches the longer-term maturity of the loan, and it may not exceed in aggregate 80% of a bank’s total foreign currency deposits. See Section 7 of the Financial Institutions (Foreign Exchange Business) rules, 2010, referenced in Section C below.

- Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange: No.

- Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange: No.

  - Reserve requirements: No. Banks must maintain with the BOU unremunerated cash reserves of 8.0% against all deposit liabilities, irrespective of the denomination and term.

  - Liquid asset requirements: No. It is 20% against deposit liabilities for both domestic and foreign currency accounts.

  - Interest rate controls: No.

  - Credit controls: No.

Exchange Measures

- Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices: Yes. The IMF staff report for the Request for Stand-By Arrangement and Cancellation of Arrangement under the Extended Fund Facility with Ukraine states that as of December 7, 2018, Ukraine maintained exchange restrictions and MCPs, but a road map is in place to gradually phase them out. The exchange restrictions arise from: (1) absolute limits on the availability of foreign exchange for certain non-trade current international transactions; and (2) a partial ban on the transfer abroad of dividends received by nonresident investors from foreign investments in Ukraine. The MCPs arise from: (1) the use of multiple price foreign exchange auctions conducted by the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) without a mechanism to prevent a spread deviation of more than 2% between the auction and market exchange rates; (2) the use of the official exchange rate for exchange transactions with the government without a mechanism to prevent a spread deviation of more than 2% between the official exchange rate and market exchange rates; and (3) the requirement to transfer any gains from the purchase of foreign exchange to the state budget if it is unused and resold. (Country Report No. 19/3)

- In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51): Yes. Restrictions established by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine in accordance with UNSC resolutions for certain transactions with the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the Democratic Republic of Somalia, the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, Lebanon, and Sudan, as well as restrictions with respect to the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, the Taliban, and Al-Qaida, remain in place. The sanctions against Iran also remain in place but the mechanism for their introduction has been changed. Resolution No. 1092 of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine of September 5, 2007, on Implementation of UNSC Resolutions Concerning the Islamic Republic of Iran was in effect until November 9, 2016. Sanctions are now introduced by a decision of the Ukraine National Security and Defense Council, and in particular with respect to Iran: Ukraine National Security and Defense Council Decisions of May 20, 2016, on Implementation of UNSC Resolution No. 2231 of July 20, 2015, Concerning the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action with Respect to Sectoral Sanctions (introduced by Decree No. 253/2016 of the President of Ukraine of June 15, 2016, and approved by Ukraine Supreme Council Resolution No. 1471-VIII of July 14, 2016), and on Implementation of UNSC Resolution No. 2231 of July 20, 2015, Concerning the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action with Respect to Personal Sanctions (introduced by Decree No. 254/2016 of the...
President of Ukraine of June 15, 2016). From the moment of the entry into force (May 17, 2017) of Decree No. 133/2017 of the President of Ukraine of May 15, 2017, on the Decision of the Ukraine National Security and Defense Council of April 28, 2017, on the Application of Personal Special Economic and Other Restrictive Measures (Sanctions) pursuant to which sanctions were applied to 1,228 individuals and 468 legal entities, the following were repealed: Decree No. 549/2015 of the President of Ukraine of September 16, 2015, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of September 2, 2015, on the application of special economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions) with respect to 388 individuals and 105 legal entities; Decree No. 121/2016 of the President of Ukraine of March 29, 2016, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of March 25, 2016, on the application of special economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions) with respect to 84 individuals; Decree No. 224/2016 of the President of Ukraine of May 27, 2016, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of May 20, 2016, on the application of additional special economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions) with respect to 17 individuals; Decree No. 467/2016 of the President of Ukraine of October 17, 2016, on the Decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of September 16, 2016, on the Application of Special Personal Economic and Other Restrictive Measures (Sanctions), which in due course extended special personal economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions) established by the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of September 2, 2015 (as amended by decisions of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of September 17, 2015, and May 20, 2016), that was implemented by Decree No. 549/2015 of the President of Ukraine of September 16, 2015 (with respect to 347 individuals and 104 legal entities), and also applied sanctions to 335 individuals and 167 legal entities; Decree No. 63/2017 of the President of Ukraine of March 15, 2017 [sic], which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of March 15, 2017, on the application of special economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions) with respect to 5 banks for a period of one year; Decree No. 57/2018 of the President of Ukraine of March 6, 2018, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of March 1, 2018, on the application of special economic and other restrictive measures (sanctions), extended these sanctions against 4 of the 5 banks. In addition, Decree No. 126/2018 of the President of Ukraine of May 14, 2018, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of May 2, 2018, on the Application of Special Personal Economic and Other Restrictive Measures (Sanctions), applied sanctions to 1,748 individuals and 756 legal entities. Furthermore, pursuant to the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of June 21, 2018, on the Application and Amendment of Special Personal Economic and Other Restrictive Measures (Sanctions), which was implemented by Decree No. 176/2018 of the President of Ukraine of June 21, 2018, new versions of the lists of persons subject to sanctions pursuant to the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of May 2, 2018 (which was implemented by Decree No. 126/2018 of the President of Ukraine of May 14, 2018) were prepared, as a result of which sanctions were applied to 1,759 individuals and 786 legal entities. Pursuant to Decree No. 82/2019 of the President of Ukraine of March 19, 2019, which implemented the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of March 19, 2019, on the Application, Repeal, and Amendment of Special Personal Economic and Other Restrictive Measures (Sanctions), sanctions were imposed on 848 individuals and 294 legal entities.

Other security restrictions No.

Other legal tender No.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary

Multiple Yes. The exchange rate structure is classified as multiple because of MCPs, which arise from the use of the official rate for government transactions without establishing a mechanism to ensure that the official rate does not deviate from the market rate by more than 2%.

Floating Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as floating. The Monetary Policy Guidelines for 2018 and Medium Term (approved by the NBU Council September 21, 2017) call for the NBU to maintain a floating exchange rate arrangement, meaning that monetary policy will not be aimed at achieving a certain exchange rate target or range. At the same time, the NBU will use foreign currency interventions for the purpose of accumulating international reserves, smoothing out the functioning of the foreign exchange market, and maintaining the transmission of the key interest rate as the core monetary policy instrument.

In the first half of 2018, the supply of foreign currency in the domestic currency market prevailed over the demand, which allowed the NBU to buy foreign currency to accumulate international reserves. In August, because of the deterioration of expectations, the demand for foreign currency increased. To level out the foreign exchange rate fluctuations, the NBU sold US dollars in the foreign exchange market. The purchase and sale of foreign currency by the NBU was not aimed at changing the trend of the exchange rate.
formed under the influence of market forces. The NBU publishes foreign exchange intervention data (weekly amounts purchased or sold, by type of intervention) on its website.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. Effective August 1, 2018, the NBU calculates the official hryvnia exchange rate to the US dollar according to the new method based on the information about all transactions on the purchase and sale of US dollars on the terms “tod,” “tom,” and “spot,” which on the day of calculation of the official exchange rate were concluded by banks on the interbank currency market of Ukraine with other banks and the NBU, and information whereof was provided by the NBU trading information systems up to 3:30 p.m. of the current business day. The new method of calculation provides for a two-stage system of cutting off transactions, the parameters whereof for various reasons deviate from the parameters of most transactions of the current day. The official exchange rates of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and bank metals are calculated using the official hryvnia–US dollar exchange rate and cross-rates: foreign currencies against the US dollar—according to the ECB, the CB, and international trade and information systems; bank metals against the US dollar—according to the London Bullion Market Association (LBMA).

The official exchange rate of hryvnia to foreign currencies and bank metals is used by residents and nonresidents for reflecting transactions with foreign currencies and bank metals in their accounting records, in other cases determined by the legislation of Ukraine, as well as for currency operations of the NBU with the State Treasury Service of Ukraine.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework

Yes. The NBU Board proposed the draft “Basic Principles of Monetary Policy for 2016–2020” (August 2015) to the NBU Council stating that the NBU will conduct the monetary policy based on the principles of price stability in the form of inflation targeting. This proposal established the unchanged inflation targets for 2016–20 and subsequent years. On December 21, 2016, the NBU Council approved the basic principles of monetary policy for 2017 and the medium term and officially established the inflation-targeting framework as the monetary policy framework in Ukraine. The inflation targets set earlier remained unchanged.

On July 13, 2018, the NBU Council adopted the Monetary Policy Strategy of the NBU, which confirms that the NBU will pursue its monetary policy on the basis of inflation targeting, and its medium-term inflation target is 5% (the constant inflation target starting at end-2019).
The NBU established quarterly inflation targets for 2019 in the Monetary Policy Guidelines for 2019 and the Medium Term (September 11, 2018):
March 2019 – 5.75% ± 2 percentage points;
June 2019 – 5.5% ± 2 percentage points;
September 2019 – 5.25% ± 2 percentage points;
From December 2019 on – 5% ± 1 percentage point.

Target with tolerance band
Yes. According to the basic principles of the monetary policy for 2017 and the medium term (December 21, 2016), the NBU targets the general inflation indicator (that is, annual growth of the consumer price index [CPI]), for which a disinflationary trajectory toward the medium-term inflation target is set at 5% ±1 percentage point. Specifically, this trajectory assumed the following targets for the annual change in the CPI:
December 2017: –8% ± 2 pp;
December 2018: –6% ± 2 pp;
December 2019 (and onward): –5% ± 1 pp.

The Monetary Policy Strategy of the NBU, approved by the NBU Council (July 13, 2018), confirmed the unchanged medium-term inflation target at the level of 5% ± 1 percentage point. The medium-term inflation target may be revised downward given a decrease in the exchange rate volatility, the alignment of relative prices, and the weakening effects of convergence of the economy of Ukraine with the economies of its major trading partners.

The Monetary Policy Guidelines for 2019 and the Medium Term (September 11, 2018) confirmed the unchanged medium-term inflation target at the level of 5% ± 1 percentage point and defined the inflation targets for 2019:
March 2019 – 5.75% ± 2 percentage points;
June 2019 – 5.5% ± 2 percentage points;
September 2019 – 5.25% ± 2 percentage points;

Changes in the key rate have the greatest impact on inflation over the course of 9 to 18 months.

Operating target (policy rate)

Yes.

Policy rate

Yes. The NBU reaches the inflation target indicators mainly because of changes in its key rate. The key rate is set by the NBU Board and reflects the nature of monetary policy, acting as an operational target for short-term interest rates in the interbank lending market. The key rate is supplemented by a symmetrical fixed corridor of interest rates for permanent access operations.

Target corridor band

Yes. The ceiling is determined by the rate on overnight loans, and the floor by the rate on overnight certificates of deposit (CDs). The corridor width is ±2% of the key monetary policy rate.

Other

Yes. As an accountability mechanism, the NBU mainly uses public information (primarily, regular press briefings after the NBU Board meetings on monetary policy, as well as the quarterly Inflation Report). According to the legislation, the NBU Board is accountable to the NBU Council, which monitors the monetary policy of the Board (that is, the implementation of the key principles of monetary policy).

The legislation does not provide for other specific forms of reporting by the NBU to the government on the results of monetary policy/achieving the inflation target. The law “On the NBU” calls for the chairman to present in the parliament a report on the activities of the NBU; once a year, the NBU presents information to the President, the Cabinet of Ministers, and the Parliament on forecasts of monetary indicators for the next year; twice a year, the NBU presents a report to the President and the Parliament on the condition of the monetary and credit market; on a quarterly basis, the NBU presents information to the President, the Cabinet of Ministers, and the Finance Committee of the Parliament on cashless emission (namely, foreign exchange interventions, refinancing of banks, and stock market operations).

Transparency

Yes.

Publication of votes

No.

Publication of minutes

Yes. In February 2018, the NBU began to regularly publish the results of the discussion of the members of the Committee on Monetary Policy (CMP) on the level of the discount rate. The CMP serves as a platform for discussion and includes all members of the NBU Board and Directors of NBU departments involved in monetary policy. Publication of results of the discussion is intended to provide market participants with a better understanding of the motives and justifications of the NBU Board decisions (the meeting of the Board is held the day after the CMP meeting). This will improve the ability of market participants to anticipate further changes in the NBU’s monetary policy and, as a result, increase the efficiency of the interest rate channel of the transmission mechanism and allow more effective management of inflation expectations by the NBU. This document sets out, in detail, the impersonal positions of all members of the CMP on the necessary decisions on monetary policy with relevant arguments, not only from the majority, but also from alternative views.

Publication of inflation forecasts

Yes. The inflation report with an inflation forecast is published quarterly. Effective July 25, 2019, the NBU began to publish a key rate forecast as part of the quarterly revision of the macroeconomic forecast. Publication of the key rate forecast increases the transparency and predictability of monetary policy. The NBU will update the key rate forecast together with other indicators every quarter and will publish it in the Inflation Report.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax

No. Previously, Law of Ukraine No. 400/97-VR of June 26, 1997, on the Fee for Mandatory Government Pension Insurance imposes a 2% tax on individuals’ foreign currency cash purchases (except for loan repayment) to replenish the State Pension Fund. Banks must remit to the Special Fund of the State Budget the proceeds of this tax, and a monthly report is made by the Pension Fund of Ukraine to the NBU on the tax amount accrued/withheld (Article 1 of Law of Ukraine No. 400/97-VR of June 26, 1997, on the Fee for Mandatory Government Pension Insurance). Law No. 1791-VIII of December 20, 2016, repealed this tax, on January 1, 2017.

Exchange subsidy

No.

Foreign exchange market

Yes. Foreign currency may be traded in the interbank foreign exchange market of Ukraine and in the international foreign exchange market via the NBU and market participants (banks that have obtained a banking license, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators that have obtained a license from the NBU to perform foreign exchange operations). Market participants may perform the following operations: (1) purchase and/or sale of foreign currency for hryvnias in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine; (2) banks perform the purchase and/or sale of bank metals for hryvnias in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine; (3) banks are allowed without limitation to exchange one foreign currency for another foreign currency, or one bank metal for another bank metal or foreign currency, in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine and in the international foreign exchange market. Foreign currency is traded on “tib,” “tom,” “spot,” “swap,” and “forward” terms.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on swap terms in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine: with the NBU – with foreign currency; with other banks and bank customers (including international financial institutions (IFIs) – with foreign currency and bank metals. Banks are prohibited from performing swap transactions with customers: (1) who are residents, if the first part of the transaction involves the sale of foreign currency/bank metals to the customer; (2) who are nonresidents, if the first part of the transaction involves the purchase of foreign currency/bank metals from the customer.
Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on forward terms (with or without the delivery of the underlying asset) in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine with other banks and bank customers. Bank customers may perform forward transactions:
(1) for the hedging of risk associated with a change in the exchange rate of foreign currency against the hryvnia in transactions:
(a) involving exports/imports of goods;
(b) of resident borrowers under credit agreements (loan agreements) for the attraction of funds from nonresidents or banks;
(2) transactions with customers that are nonresident legal entities, if the nonresident is receiving funds in hryvnias for the purpose of purchasing Ukrainian domestic government bonds and the deadline for the fulfillment of obligations to the bank under the forward transaction is not more than 14 business days from the date the funds in hryvnias are provided.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on the basis of a banking license issued by the NBU in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on Banks and Banking. Banks perform their own transactions involving trade in foreign currency/bank metals within the open foreign exchange position limits established by the NBU. Banks perform transactions with customers involving the purchase, sale, and exchange of foreign currency/bank metals at the exchange rate specified in the request or instruction to perform such a transaction.

Banks receive commission fees for transactions performed on behalf of customers, which are paid exclusively in the domestic currency of Ukraine.

Effective August 1, 2018, banks can use both the Transaction Confirmation System (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm interbank transactions involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the currency market of Ukraine. At the same time, banks were able to conclude deals at any time, regardless of the time of work set for the Transaction Confirmation System.

Banks confirm transactions with the NBU involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency through the Transaction Confirmation System if the NBU uses this system for the confirmation of transactions.

The Transaction Confirmation System operates on business days (Monday through Friday) from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Kyiv time. Banks engage in trading in foreign currency/bank metals regardless of the operating hours of the Transaction Confirmation System.

Effective July 27, 2018, Resolution No. 86 of July 24, 2018, clarifies that the banks can carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident customers who are subjects of foreign economic activity, and/or with other authorized banks.

Currency exchange transactions include:
(1) the purchase of foreign currency cash from (resident and nonresident) individuals for cash hryvnias;
(2) the sale of foreign currency cash to (resident and nonresident) individuals for cash hryvnias;
(3) the exchange of foreign currency cash of one country for foreign currency cash of another country.

These transactions may be performed by banks, nonbank financial institutions, postal service operators, and currency exchange offices of banks.

Banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators

Spot exchange market Yes.
have the right to change the purchase and sale exchange rates for the performance of currency exchange transactions during the course of a business day.

Currency exchange offices of banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators begin operation following registration of an electronic cash register with tax authorities and after the NBU has been informed of the opening of a currency exchange office.

As of August 1, 2019, a total of 29 nonbank financial organizations and the national postal operator “Ukrposhta” have the right to carry out currency exchange operations (in their local branches, offices, and exchange points); moreover, as of August 1, 2018 [sic], a total of 76 banks have the right to perform foreign currency exchange operations.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Under the Foreign Exchange Intervention Strategy of the NBU for 2016–2020 (of September 6, 2016), the NBU will conduct four types of interventions:

- foreign currency auction,
- single exchange rate intervention,
- intervention at the best rate,
- targeted intervention.

The possibility of conducting currency interventions in the form of intervention at the best rate was introduced in October 2016; the first currency intervention in this form was carried out January 13, 2017.

The Strategy was amended in 2018, whereby the NBU deemed it feasible to cease prioritizing specific forms of interventions. Instead, feasibility of each form of intervention will be determined according to conditions on the interbank foreign exchange market. Since 2018, the NBU has been relying more on matching interventions.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction Yes.

The NBU may organize single and multiple price auctions.

The NBU resumed foreign currency auctions on September 17, 2015, after suspending them on February 5, 2015. Competitive and noncompetitive bids are considered: the competitive ones are fulfilled at the exchange rate indicated in the bid, while the noncompetitive ones are fulfilled at the weighted average exchange rate of the competitive bids.

In holding an auction at which bids are fulfilled at the exchange rate indicated in a bid, the cutoff rate may not deviate by more than 2% from the highest/lowest exchange rate declared by banks (depending on the type of transaction—sale or purchase).

The NBU informs about the auction to market participants by posting the information on the official website of the NBU, as well as by means of the trade and information system, if the auction is held with the help of its functionality. Conditions are specified in the notification. Banks that have submitted bids must honor them. Bids must be submitted no later than the time indicated in the notification.

Following the auction, the NBU publishes the results on its website. The intervention on a single exchange rate is carried out: either by collecting applications of market participants for the purchase/sale of foreign currency at a single exchange rate and their further proportional satisfaction within the limits of the volume determined for currency intervention; or by placing an offer to buy/sell foreign currency at a single exchange rate in the trading information system (Bloomberg or Reuters) and conducting transactions with market participants in the procedure of acceptance of the offer before the
The list of banks entitled to participate in the intervention at the best exchange rate, which is carried out by requesting the market entities’ prices for the purchase/sale of foreign currency through the trading information system (updated every quarter), was first published October 31, 2016. This list includes 20 banks selected on the basis of a set of such criteria: the volume of interbank transactions, the volume of transactions with customers, and the size of bank assets.

The NBU engages in trading in foreign currency and/or bank metals for the purpose of performing the functions assigned to it by the legislation of Ukraine.

The NBU can carry out currency interventions on the interbank currency market of Ukraine by holding currency auctions, interventions at a single rate, or interventions at the best rate.

Banks perform their own transactions involving trade in foreign currency/bank metals within the open foreign exchange position limits established by the NBU.

Banks perform transactions with customers involving the purchase, sale, and exchange of foreign currency/bank metals at the exchange rate specified in the request or instruction to perform such a transaction.

Banks receive commission fees for transactions performed on behalf of customers, which are paid exclusively in the domestic currency of Ukraine.

Effective August 1, 2018, banks can use both the Transaction Confirmation System (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm interbank transactions involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the currency market of Ukraine.

Banks confirm transactions with the NBU involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency through the Transaction Confirmation System if the NBU uses this system for the confirmation of transactions.

The Transaction Confirmation System operates on business days (Monday through Friday) from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Kyiv time.

Banks engage in trading in foreign currency/bank metals regardless of the operating hours of the Transaction Confirmation System.

Effective March 30, 2018, the requirement to comply with the limit on a bank’s daily net foreign exchange purchase in the interbank and retail market for its own position with respect to all transactions related to the purchase and sale of foreign currency and banking metals was abolished.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on swap terms in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine: with the NBU – with foreign currency;
with other banks and bank customers (including IFIs – with foreign currency and bank metals.
Banks are prohibited from performing swap transactions with customers:
(1) who are residents, if the first part of the transaction involves the sale of foreign currency/bank metals to the customer;
(2) who are nonresidents, if the first part of the transaction involves the purchase of foreign currency/bank metals from the customer.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on forward terms (with or without the delivery of the underlying asset) in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine with other banks and bank customers. Bank customers may perform forward transactions:
(1) for the hedging of risk associated with a change in the exchange rate of foreign currency against the hryvnia in transactions:
   (a) involving exports/imports of goods;
   (b) effective February 7, 2019, of resident borrowers under credit agreements (loan agreements) for the attraction of funds from nonresidents or banks;
(2) transactions with customers that are nonresident legal entities, if the nonresident is receiving funds in hryvnias for the purpose of purchasing Ukrainian domestic government bonds and the deadline for the fulfillment of obligations to the bank under the forward transaction is not more than 14 business days from the date the funds in hryvnias are provided.

The new foreign exchange legislation does not prohibit the performance of transactions with other foreign currency derivatives, or transactions in foreign currency with other derivative financial instruments based on underlying assets in foreign currency, foreign currency exchange rates, interest rates, and indices. Banks may perform transactions with derivatives both in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine and on stock exchanges.

On April 2, 2016, a Regulation on the Performance of Swap Transactions by the NBU for the Purchase and Sale of Foreign Currency (NBU Board Resolution No. 222 of March 31, 2016) entered into force. Currency swap transactions between the NBU and banks are performed with US dollars and euros. The NBU Executive Board determines the maximum term for which swap transactions may be performed. The NBU does not perform forward swap transactions for which the size of the haircut has not been approved. Effective March 30, 2018, the requirement to comply with the limit on a bank’s daily net foreign exchange purchase in the interbank and retail market for its own position with respect to all transactions related to the purchase and sale of foreign currency and banking metals was abolished.

Effective July 27, 2018, banks were allowed to carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident customers who are subjects of foreign economic activity, and/or with other authorized banks.

For the purpose of preventing the spread of systemic risks resulting from activities by market participants to conclude foreign currency derivative contracts, the NBU may adopt a decision regarding the date on which banks’ obligations arise to create and hold reserves for forward transactions. Reserves must be created by banks in the monetary unit of Ukraine and held on a correspondent account at the NBU in excess of the amount of required reserves that have been created.

The requirements of this provision do not extend to foreign currency forwards that are the second part of foreign currency swaps.

As of August 1, 2019, the NBU had not adopted any decision regarding the date on which banks’ obligations arise to create and... hold reserves for forward transactions.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments

Yes.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments

Yes. In certain circumstances, authorization is required from the National Securities and Stock Market Commission (NSSMC).

Credit operations

Yes. Only foreign exchange may be used for loan payments and settlements between residents and nonresidents. Commercial credit in hryvnias is extended to economic agents by authorized banks.

Effective February 7, 2019, if the delivery time of goods and services exceeds 365 calendar days (previously, 180 calendar days), it may be extended with approval of the central executive government body implementing economic development policy. Certain IFIs (EBRD, International Finance Corporation [IFC], Nordic Environment Finance Corporation [NEFCO]) may make payments and settlements in hryvnias within Ukraine with residents (banks and other legal entities) pursuant to lending agreements or guarantees. The EBRD may use correspondent accounts in hryvnias with authorized banks to settle loans to residents in hryvnias. Hryvnias received by the EBRD from authorized banks from interbank lending may be credited to EBRD correspondent accounts in hryvnias. Other IFIs (IFC, IFC Bank, NEFCO) must open a current account in Ukraine in hryvnias.

Use of foreign exchange among residents

Yes.

The hryvnia is the sole legal tender in Ukraine, taking into account the special considerations established by the second part of Article 5 of the Law of Ukraine on Foreign Exchange and Foreign Exchange Operations (referred to hereinafter as the Law on Foreign Exchange). Effective February 7, 2019, foreign currency may be used by residents:
(1) in the performance of operations by banks to provide banking and other financial services on the basis of a banking license;
(2) in the performance of operations by nonbank financial institutions and postal service operators that have a license from the NBU to perform foreign exchange operations;
(3) in the performance of operations involving the placement of, payment of monetary income on, and redemption of bonds and treasury bills of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency, if so provided for by the securities prospectus (by the terms of their placement);
(4) in the performance of operations involving the purchase/sale of government securities denominated in foreign currency, if the initiator or recipient of such a foreign exchange operation is a bank;
(5) for other operations defined by the Customs Code of Ukraine and/or regulatory legal acts of the NBU. Previously, an NBU license was required.

Barter agreements and open accounts

Yes. Barter is one of the forms of trade for Ukrainian companies in their transactions, used largely with the Baltic countries, Russia, and other FSU countries. The use of barter in foreign trade transactions is prohibited for a group of goods determined by the Ukrainian Cabinet of Ministers.

Administration of control

Yes. Foreign exchange supervision in Ukraine is administered by foreign exchange supervisory bodies and foreign exchange supervisory agents. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange, foreign exchange supervisory bodies are the NBU and the central executive branch authority responsible for the development and implementation of state tax and customs policy. Authorized institutions (banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators that have obtained a license in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange) are foreign exchange supervisory agents that are accountable to the NBU. When foreign exchange transactions are being performed, authorized institutions perform direct supervision of compliance with the requirements of the foreign exchange legislation by residents (with the exception of other authorized institutions) and nonresidents who are performing foreign exchange transactions through these authorized institutions. Effective February 7, 2019, foreign exchange supervision is not performed with regard to transactions involving exports and imports in an amount that is below the threshold established for financial transactions that are subject to mandatory financial monitoring in accordance with the legislation on combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. The procedure for the performance of foreign exchange supervision by foreign exchange supervisory agents is established by the NBU. Foreign exchange supervisory agents have the right to request documents related to the performance of foreign exchange transactions from participants in foreign exchange transactions, and participants in foreign exchange transactions are required to provide such documents at the request of foreign exchange supervisory agents within the deadlines specified by them. In order for authorized institutions to prevent their customers from using these institutions to perform foreign exchange transactions that do not meet the requirements of Ukrainian law, an authorized institution is required to perform a comprehensive analysis and verification of documents (information) concerning foreign exchange transactions, if the presentation of the relevant documents (information) is provided for by Ukrainian law for certain transactions identified by the NBU. In accordance with Ukrainian legislation pertaining to money laundering and combating the financing of terrorism, banks must report the following to the specially authorized agency: financial transactions that are subject to mandatory financial monitoring (if the amount of the transaction is equal to or greater than 150,000 hryvnias (30,000 hryvnias for entities that hold lotteries or that offer casino gambling and other kinds of gambling, including virtual casinos) or its equivalent in foreign currency, bank metals, and other assets, and there are one or more indications that the transaction is subject to mandatory financial monitoring; financial transactions that are subject to internal financial monitoring (a financial transaction is subject to internal financial monitoring if there are suspicions based in particular on risk criteria, a determination on the basis of the results of an analysis that the financial transaction(s) is(are) inconsistent with the customer’s financial condition and/or nature of the customer’s business, as well as typological investigations in the area of combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, prepared and published by the specially authorized agency, as well as information about their suspicions regarding the activities of persons or their assets, if there is reason to believe that they are related to a crime as provided for by the Criminal Code of Ukraine; financial transactions with regard to which there are grounds to suspect that they are related to, involve, or are intended for the financing of terrorism or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

Banks engage in trade in bank metals on the basis of a banking license issued by the NBU in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on Banks and Banking. Banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving the sale of bank metals without physical delivery for noncash hryvnias to customers (individuals, legal entities, individual entrepreneurs) above a small amount [the amount of a foreign exchange transaction that is less than the threshold established for financial transactions that are subject to mandatory financial monitoring in accordance with the legislation on preventing and combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, and the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction].
weapons of mass destruction] in one calendar day a customer. Conversion is performed at an exchange rate determined on the basis of the official exchange rates for bank metals established by the National Bank on the day the transaction is performed. The above prohibition does not apply to:
(1) interbank transactions and transactions involving the sale of bank metals by banks to enable resident customers to fulfill their obligations to the bank in bank metals under credit agreements;
(2) transactions involving the purchase by legal entities/individual entrepreneurs of bank metals for noncash hryvnias on the condition that they need to do so as a result of their business activities.
Banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving the sale of bank metals with physical delivery to one individual on the same transaction (business) day within the same bank, with the exception of the performance of such transactions in small amounts.
The restriction concerning the amount of a transaction involving the sale of bank metals does not apply to coins made of precious metals (including Ukrainian investment coins).

On external trade

| Permission for residents to export precious metals and precious stones is granted by the Ministry of Economic Development and Trade in consultation with the MOF. Legal entities (including banks) may import or export bank metals into or from Ukraine without restriction subject to written declaration to the customs authority of the full amount, if such import/export is necessitated by their business activities.

A contract with a counterparty or a document serving in its place serves as the grounds for the import or export of bank metals into or from Ukraine by a legal entity.

A contract with a counterparty or a document serving in its place, or a contract for the delivery of bank metals to the NBU, serves as the grounds for the import of bank metals into Ukraine by a legal entity, when they were refined from precious metals (which were previously exported outside the customs territory of Ukraine).

Banks perform the cross-border movement of bank metals on the basis of a banking license and the relevant contracts with counterparties or a document serving in the place of such contracts.

Legal entities/banks export bank metals manufactured by Ukrainian producers with a written notice from the National Bank declining to purchase the bank metals.

An individual imports into or exports from Ukraine bank metals whose value does not exceed the equivalent of 10,000 euros without written declaration to the customs authority.

An individual imports into or exports from Ukraine bank metals whose value is equal to or greater than the equivalent of 10,000 euros, subject to written declaration of the full amount to the customs authority.

When bank metals whose value is greater than the equivalent of 10,000 euros are exported from Ukraine, in addition to a written declaration to the customs authority, resident individuals also need to present documents confirming the acquisition of the bank metals from banks and/or the NBU in the amount that exceeds the equivalent of 10,000 euros on the day of export.

The conversion of the value of bank metals to euros is performed at the cross-rate determined on the basis of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia to the euro/the corresponding bank metals established by the NBU on the day they cross the customs border of Ukraine.

According to NBU Board Resolution No. 142 of December 26, 2017, individuals can export bank metals weighing more than 500 grams,

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes. Certain conditions apply. Resident legal entities and resident individuals who are entrepreneurs may freely open accounts in foreign currency with banks for the performance of settlements with respect to current transactions and transactions associated with capital flows, in accordance with Ukrainian law.
Term foreign currency deposits can be withdrawn before the expiration date in a domestic currency equivalent (at the exchange rate of purchase of the authorized bank at the date of transaction) if the bank’s agreement allows.

Approval required

No.

Held abroad

Yes.

Residents have the right to open accounts at foreign financial institutions and to perform foreign exchange transactions through these accounts. Residents notify tax authorities of the use of their foreign currency accounts and they also provide statistical reporting to the NBU.

Article 13 of the Law on Foreign Exchange states that in the event that the NBU establishes a deadline for the performance of settlements under transactions by residents involving exports of goods, funds must be credited to the residents’ accounts at Ukrainian banks within the deadlines specified in the contracts, but no later than the deadline and in the amount established by the NBU.

Effective February 7, 2019, the NBU has established a deadline of 365 calendar days (previously, 180 calendar days) for settlements under transactions by residents involving exports of goods.

Effective February 7, 2019, a license from the NBU was no longer required to transfer foreign currency by residents to their own accounts opened abroad as long as the amount was within the established limits (NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 5 of January 2, 2019, on Approval of the Regulation on Protection Measures and Determination of the Procedure for the Performance of Certain Operations in Foreign Currency).

Resident legal entities are allowed to purchase and transfer foreign currency for the purpose of placing it in their own accounts abroad in an amount that does not exceed 2,000,000 euros or the equivalent in another currency a year.

The given limit does not extend to banks’ own operations and the transfer of funds by resident legal entities to accounts of their own branch offices, representative offices, and other separate subdivisions without the creation of a legal entity, opened abroad, with the exception of those opened in a state (territories) included by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine on a list of offshore zones and/or recognized by the Supreme Council of Ukraine as an aggressor state/occupying state, and/or that does not comply with or does not comply properly with the recommendations of international or intergovernmental organizations operating in the sphere of combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, and/or has strategic deficiencies in the sphere of combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction according to a statement by the FATF.

Resident individuals are allowed to purchase and transfer foreign currency for the purpose of placing it in their own accounts abroad in an amount that does not exceed 50,000 euros or the equivalent in another currency a year.

The given limits do not extend to residents’ placement on foreign accounts of foreign currency originating outside of Ukraine, for example, funds received by residents outside of Ukraine in the form of wages, stipends, pensions, child support, dividends, cash, etc., may be placed on foreign accounts without restriction.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

- Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency: Yes.
- Accounts in domestic currency held abroad: No.

Foreign currency may be purchased in cases in which there are grounds/obligations, which are supported by the relevant documents. These requirements do not apply to transactions involving the purchase of noncash foreign currency by individuals in small amounts (see the definition under IV.E.1.). These transactions are performed without grounds/obligations. A bank performs such transactions (with the same individual on the same calendar day at the same bank) on the basis of a request or a remote instruction from a customer without the presentation of documents that are related to the performance of the foreign exchange transaction.

Effective February 7, 2019, the requirement on residents to use the foreign currency within 10 business days of the day it is posted to their account, and sell unused foreign exchange in Ukraine’s interbank exchange market was abolished.

The return of a time deposit prior to the expiration of the term established by the agreement is permitted if provided for under the bank time deposit agreement (Amendment to NBU Board Resolution No. 516 of December 3, 2003).

Nonresident Accounts

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.

Ukrainian banks may open accounts for nonresidents (legal entities, investors, representative offices of legal entities in Ukraine, individuals).

The procedure for the use of accounts by nonresidents is established by Resolution No. 5 of January 2, 2019 (effective February 7, 2019).

Direct foreign investors may open nonresident corporate accounts, investment accounts, deposit accounts, and escrow accounts in Ukraine.

An investment account of a foreign investor in foreign currency may be used in accordance with the legislation of Ukraine for the performance of:

- foreign investments in Ukraine and the return of foreign investments, income, profits, and other funds earned by the foreign investor from investment activity in Ukraine;
- trading in foreign currency;
- the posting/transfer of funds from/to other accounts held by the foreign investor in Ukraine/abroad;
- the posting of funds transferred by other nonresidents from abroad as authorized by the holder of the investment account for the performance of operations involving investment activity in Ukraine by the holder of the investment account;
- operations involving the posting of funds from a deposit account of another foreign investor opened at a bank in Ukraine, in connection with the assignment to the holder of the investment account by said foreign investor of rights of claim under a bank deposit agreement with regard to the payment of a monetary sum (deposit) and interest earned on the deposit;
- the posting of interest accrued on balances of funds on the foreign investor’s own investment account;
- the posting of funds which were previously transferred from the account in error;
- settlements with customs authorities in those cases specified by the legislation of Ukraine;
- the return of funds received in error.

The posting of foreign currency cash to investment accounts is not permitted.

Effective July 10, 2019, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor was abolished. Previously, the following changes had been made to the ban:

- On June 13, 2016, pursuant to NBU Resolution No. 342 of June 9, 2016, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for 2014 and 2015, provided the following conditions are simultaneously met: (1) purchase/transfer of foreign currency to repatriate dividends abroad is performed by the issuer of the corporate rights/shares under which dividends are paid, or by the depository servicing the foreign investor’s accounts, or by the foreign investor directly; (2) within one calendar month, the person/entity indicated in clause 2 of this sub-article acquires/transfers foreign exchange for the repatriation abroad of dividends within a total amount not to exceed one of the following two thresholds: US$1,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction) or 10% of the aggregate amount of the dividends subject... to repatriation by that person/entity. If 10% of the aggregate amount of the dividends subject to repatriation abroad by said person/entity exceeds US$5,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction), then during one calendar month, the purchases/transfers of foreign exchange for repatriation abroad by said person/entity within the framework of the total amount may not exceed US$5,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction).

- On April 14, 2017, investors were allowed to repatriate dividends accrued in 2016, in addition to dividends accrued in 2014 and 2015. Dividend repatriations for 2014–16 were allowed within a monthly limit of US$5,000,000 (equivalent of this amount in another foreign currency at the official UAH rate to foreign currencies set by the NBU, as of the date of relevant transaction).

- On November 15, 2017, foreign investors were allowed to repatriate dividends under corporate rights/shares for years 2013 and earlier, within a monthly limit of US$2,000,000 (equivalent of this amount in another foreign currency at the official UAH rate to foreign currencies set by the NBU, as of the date of relevant transaction).

- Effective March 2, 2018, pursuant to NBU Resolution No. 19 of March 1, 2018, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for the period up to 2017, inclusive, in the amount not exceeding US$7,000,000 (or the equivalent).

Effective February 7, 2019, the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is permitted for the purpose of returning abroad funds obtained by foreign investors from transactions entailing the sale of securities, corporate rights, funds obtained as a result of reduction of the authorized capital of legal entities, and foreign investors’ withdrawal from companies, provided the following conditions are simultaneously met: (1) the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is performed by a resident (buyer of securities, whose authorized capital is reduced, and from which a foreign investor participant is withdrawing), intermediary, or foreign investor; (2) throughout a calendar month, the aforementioned person/entity performs the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for that purpose in an amount not exceeding 5,000,000 euros (or the equivalent); (3) such purchase/transfer is performed through a single bank (a change of banks is permitted under certain conditions).

This limit does not apply to the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange/hryvnias for the purpose of returning funds:

(1) to investment accounts of foreign investors within Ukraine;
(2) abroad from current accounts of nonresidents (other than investment accounts);
(3) earned by foreign investors from operations involving the sale of Ukrainian government bonds on securities exchanges and over the counter, and from the sale of debt/listed securities on securities exchanges.

Effective May 7, 2019, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign
The investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for the period up to 2017 inclusive, in the amount not exceeding €12,000,000 (or the equivalent of this amount). Previously, the threshold was US$7,000,000.

Effective September 10, 2019, the monthly limit of €5,000,000 was abolished on the repatriation of funds received from selling securities and equity rights as well as the funds received from a reduction of authorized capital of a legal entity or a foreign investor’s exit from an economic partnership.

Nonresident banks may open correspondent accounts in hryvnias with banks for settlements between residents and nonresidents under foreign trade agreements. The EBRD may use correspondent accounts in hryvnias with authorized Ukrainian banks for settlements by residents with the EBRD under lending agreements in hryvnias. Funds in hryvnias received by the EBRD from authorized Ukrainian banks based on interbank lending operations may be credited to EBRD correspondent accounts in hryvnias. Certain IFIs (IFC, NEFCO) may make payments and settlements in hryvnias in Ukraine with residents (banks and other legal entities) pursuant to lending agreements or guarantees through current accounts in hryvnias opened with a banking institution in Ukraine. Accounts of IFIs authorized to open current accounts in Ukraine under international treaties with Ukraine may be used for hryvnia bond issuance of these organizations in Ukraine.

Term foreign currency deposits can be withdrawn before the expiration date in domestic currency equivalent (at the exchange rate of purchase of the authorized bank on the date of the transaction) if the bank’s agreement allows.

The return of a time deposit before the expiration of the term established by the agreement is permitted if provided for under the bank time deposit agreement (Amendment to NBU Board Resolution No. 516 of December 3, 2003).

Convertible into foreign currency  Yes.

The purchase of foreign currency from current accounts of permanent representative offices of foreign legal entities that do all or some of their business in Ukraine through these representative offices is performed for the purposes of: (1) transferring foreign currency to the account of the nonresident legal entity whose interests in Ukraine are represented by this representative office, within the limits of the balance of funds on the account; (2) the payment of expenses related to business travel outside Ukraine and operating expenses for vehicles traveling outside Ukraine; (3) payment for participation in international symposiums, seminars, conferences, exhibitions, and athletic events.

The purchase of foreign currency from current accounts of an official representative office and representative offices of nonresident legal entities that are not doing business is performed for the purposes of: (1) transferring foreign currency to the account of the relevant bodies of a foreign state or to the account of the nonresident legal entity whose interests in Ukraine are represented by the given representative office; (2) the payment of expenses related to business travel outside Ukraine; (3) the payment of wages to employees of official representative offices (including supplemental payments, allowances, bonuses, and other incentive and compensation payments) if the individuals are not Ukrainian citizens or are not permanent residents of Ukraine, are accredited by the Ukrainian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and work in Ukraine under employment agreements (contracts) that have been concluded.

The ban on transfers of dividends and proceeds from the sale of securities not traded on the stock exchange and from corporate rights not represented by shares was extended to dividends and proceeds from the sale of securities traded on the stock exchange (except for from the sale of debt securities in stock exchanges). Authorized banks may not transfer hryvnias from investment accounts for the purchase of Ukrainian government bonds, except for purchases on the stock exchange with hryvnias originating from the sale of foreign exchange or from the sale and income of Ukrainian government bonds.

Nonresident individuals may purchase foreign currency from hryvnia accounts within the limits of the balance of funds on these accounts (other than investment accounts) without providing to the bank documents related to the performance of a foreign exchange operation.

The EBRD may convert funds in correspondent accounts in hryvnias opened at authorized banks and transfer them out of the country. IFC and NEFCO may purchase foreign currency for hryvnias to return funds previously provided to residents under loan agreements and guarantee agreements.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget
No.

Financing requirements for imports
Yes.

Minimum financing requirements
No.

Advance payment requirements
Yes.

In the event that the NBU establishes a deadline for the performance of settlements on operations by residents involving imports of goods, their delivery may be performed within the deadlines specified in the agreements, but no later than the deadline established by the National Bank for settlements starting from the date of the advance payment (prepayment).

Effective February 7, 2019, for certain operations involving imports of goods, the deadline for settlements (365 days) may be extended with approval of the central executive government body responsible for the implementation of economic development policy. Previously, the deadline was 180 calendar days.

The settlement deadlines do not extend to operations involving imports of goods (including incomplete settlements on operations), the amount of which (in the hryvnia equivalent at the official exchange rate against foreign currencies set by the National Bank on the date the operation is performed) is less (up to 150,000 hryvnias) than the amount established for financial transactions that are subject to mandatory financial monitoring in accordance with the legislation.
on combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, with the exception of cases in which foreign exchange operations are broken down into smaller transactions.

Advance import deposits No.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports Yes.

Residents may purchase foreign currency in the Ukrainian foreign exchange market for import payments based on import contracts. When transferring and/or purchasing foreign currency under reinsurance agreements with nonresident reinsurers, resident insurers and resident insurance (reinsurance) brokers must provide the authorized bank with copies of these agreements.

Domiciliation requirements Yes.

Settlements on import operations are performed exclusively through current accounts at banks.

Preshipment inspection No.

Inspection is not mandatory but may be undertaken by the Ukrainian Chamber of Commerce and Industry at the request of nonresidents.

Letters of credit Yes.

The requirement of bank’s LCs for advance payments for imports of goods in foreign currency (on contracts exceeding US$5 million) has been abolished, and Resolution No. 125 has been repealed. The Law of Ukraine “On the ways of stabilization of balance of payments of Ukraine according to Article XII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994” No. 73-VIII of December 28, 2014, which approved the list of essential goods, has lost its force in accordance with the Law of Ukraine of December 24, 2015, No. 912-VIII.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses No.

Other Yes.

Foreign exchange purchased, but unused within 10 days, must be sold in the interbank foreign exchange market of Ukraine within five days.

Effective May 16, 2019, the deadlines for settlements on foreign trade operations (365 days effective February 7, 2019) do not extend to the following operations:

- imports of goods under government defense procurement contracts;
- imports of services or medicines under transactions of the Ukrainian Ministry of Health with specialized organizations, as well as imports of services for the treatment of persons with rare (orphan) diseases;
- imports of goods used for the production of space and aviation equipment and assemblies;
- exports/imports of goods under production-sharing agreements;
- exports of work, services (other than transportation and insurance services and work), and intellectual property rights (NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 67 of May 14, 2019).

Residents and nonresidents perform foreign exchange operations involving the purchase of noncash foreign currency and/or the transfer of foreign currency/domestic currency if there are grounds/obligations for the performance of such operations, which are confirmed by the relevant documents that are presented to banks for the performance of the purchase or to authorized institutions for the performance of the transfer (NBU Executive Board Resolution of January 2, 2019).

Banks perform a thorough analysis and verification of the documents (information) concerning foreign exchange operations which serve as the grounds for the purchase of foreign currency for the purpose of performing settlements/transfers of funds outside Ukraine or to current accounts of nonresident legal entities opened in Ukraine, if the presentation of the relevant documents (information) is provided for by the legislation of Ukraine (NBU Executive Board Resolution.
No. 8 of January 2, 2019).

Exports and Export Proceeds

Yes. Exemption from the 365-day deadline may be granted by the central executive authority that implements government policy in economic development.

According to NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 5 of January 2, 2019 (effective February 7, 2019), the deadline for settlements on operations involving exports of goods is 365 calendar days (previously, 180 calendar days).

The deadline for the payment of debt is calculated from the date of the customs processing of products being exported, and in the case of the export of work, services, intellectual property rights, and/or other non-property rights, from the date that a certificate, bill (invoice), or other document confirming their delivery is prepared in written form (in hard copy or in electronic form).

Funds received by a resident from a nonresident under an export operation are to be posted to the resident’s account at a bank in Ukraine.

Effective May 16, 2019, the deadlines for settlements on foreign trade operations (365 days effective February 7, 2019) do not extend to the following operations:

• imports of goods under government defense procurement contracts;

• imports of services or medicines under transactions of the Ukrainian Ministry of Health with specialized organizations, as well as imports of services for the treatment of persons with rare (orphan) diseases;
• imports of goods used for the production of space and aviation equipment and assemblies;
• exports/imports of goods under production-sharing agreements;
• exports of work, services (other than transportation and insurance services and work), and intellectual property rights (NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 67 of May 14, 2019).

Surrender requirements
Surrender to the central bank No.
Surrender to authorized dealers No.

The NBU may institute temporary surrender requirements for mandatory proceeds in foreign currency, including for export transactions for a period of up to six months. Effective March 1, 2019, export proceeds subject to surrender requirement were reduced to 30% from 50%. Effective June 20, 2019, surrender requirement on export proceeds was abolished. Previously, it was 30% of certain export proceeds (NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 78 of June 18, 2019, on an Amendment to the Regulation on Protection Measures and the Procedure for the Performance of Certain Operations in Foreign Currency).

On June 26, 2017, authorized banks may conduct forward foreign exchange operations without restriction in terms of Classification Group, times, and types of operations for hedging (pair of currencies/currency; hryvnia/currency). Effective July 27, 2018, Resolution No. 86 of July 24, 2018, clarifies that the banks can carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident customers who are subjects of foreign economic activity, and/or with other authorized banks. Effective February 7, 2019, banks were also allowed to carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident borrowers to hedge debt operations. Business entities can carry out foreign currency exchange (conversion) operations on the “forward” terms without restrictions on the Classifier group, times, and types of operations for hedging purposes; forward transactions entailing the purchase/sale of a foreign currency for hryvnias for hedging the risk of a change in the exchange rate of the foreign currency against the hryvnia for trading transactions may be performed without restriction in terms of Classification group and time of transaction. Previously, forward transactions were performed by authorized banks to hedge exchange rate risk between foreign currencies, provided both currencies were in NBU Group 1. Residents engaged in foreign economic activity may hedge the risk of exchange rate changes between hryvnias and foreign currency in their foreign trade transactions with local banks, and between foreign currencies under a foreign economic agreement, provided both currencies are in Group 1. Forward foreign exchange operations had Authorized banks could perform foreign exchange transactions of purchases/sales of Group 1 foreign currency under swap terms with other banks within 365 days and perform purchases/sales of foreign currency under swap terms with the NBU for a period of no more than three months. Transactions in other foreign exchange derivatives or other foreign exchange derivative instruments, whose core assets are foreign exchange assets, foreign currency exchange rates, interest rates, or indices, were not allowed.

On November 23, 2016, banks may perform stock market transactions involving derivatives. Previously, such transactions were prohibited.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
Yes. There are no provisions allowing nonresidents to participate in transactions with derivatives in the Ukrainian domestic foreign exchange market.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents
Yes. There are no provisions allowing nonresidents to participate in transactions with derivatives in the Ukrainian domestic foreign exchange market.

Purchase abroad by residents
Yes. Effective February 7, 2019, a license from the NBU was no longer required to purchase and transfer foreign currency for the purpose of making investments abroad if the total amount does not exceed established limits.

The purchase of property, securities, and corporate rights outside Ukraine is considered investment abroad and is performed within the limits established by NBU Executive Board Resolution No. 5 of January 2, 2019, on Approval of the Regulation on Protection Measures and Determination of the Procedure for the Performance of Certain Operations in Foreign Currency.

Resident legal entities are allowed to purchase and transfer foreign currency for the purpose of making investments abroad in a total amount that does not exceed 2,000,000 euros or the equivalent in another currency a year.

Resident individuals are allowed to purchase and transfer foreign currency for the purpose of making investments abroad in a total amount that does not exceed 50,000 euros or the equivalent in another currency a year.

Sale or issue abroad by residents
Yes. The placement of securities by residents outside Ukraine is subject to permission of the NSSMC.

Controls on credit operations
Yes. Initially, restrictions on the provision by financial institutions of loans, credits in foreign currency to individual residents and nonresidents who are not engaged in entrepreneurial activities, were established by the law on November 24, 2009, and were effective until January 1, 2011 (except for loans, and credits in foreign currency to pay for the services of nonresidents for treatment and education abroad).

Later, the ban on the provision of consumer loans to individuals in foreign currency had been legislated since October 16, 2011, and as of June 10, 2017, the relevant rule on the prohibition of consumer loans in foreign currency in Ukraine was established by the Law of Ukraine, on Consumer Lending.

Commercial credits
Yes. On May 26, 2017, residents may extend commercial credit to nonresidents with a maturity of up to 180 days. The limitation is related to the requirement to repatriate export proceeds and receive imports within 180 days of delivery and payment, respectively.

By residents to nonresidents
Yes.

To residents from nonresidents
No.

Financial credits
Yes.
By residents to nonresidents  Yes.

Residents provide financial credits to nonresidents in foreign currency. Banks provide credits with no restrictions on the amount, while individuals, legal entities, and individuals involved in entrepreneurial activity may provide loans within established limits. Thus, a resident individual is allowed to perform foreign exchange operations involving: the transfer of funds outside Ukraine/to current accounts of nonresident legal entities in Ukraine (other than investment accounts)/under life insurance agreements/the performance of investments abroad/the placement of funds on his own account abroad, and also the granting of loans to nonresidents up to 50,000 euros (or the equivalent in another currency) in a calendar year.

Legal entities and individual entrepreneurs are allowed to perform foreign exchange operations involving the transfer of funds outside Ukraine/to current accounts of nonresident legal entities in Ukraine (other than investment accounts) up to 2,000,000 euros (or the equivalent in another currency) in a calendar year.

Residents are allowed to engage in lending to nonresidents in hryvnias, with the exception of:

1. The granting of consumer credits to nonresident individuals by banks and nonbank financial institutions;
2. The granting of credits by banks to nonresidents for the purpose of the purchase by the nonresident of Ukrainian domestic government bonds, if the repayment date for the given credit is not later than 14 days from the date the funds in hryvnias are posted.

To residents from nonresidents  No.

Residents engage in borrowing from nonresidents both in foreign currency and in hryvnias. The requirement concerning the registration of external borrowing with the NBU previously established was lifted effective February 7, 2019, and a notification system has been put into place instead.

Also effective February 7, 2019, the NBU does not set a maximum interest rate on external borrowing.

Effective February 16, 2018, the NBU allowed residents to take loans from nonresidents, under conditions when the loan amount is determined in UAH, and all calculations are carried out in foreign currency, provided:

1. The creditor is an IFI of which Ukraine is a member, or an IFI of which Ukraine is obliged to provide the same legal regime;
2. The borrower is an authorized bank, and the lender of the IFI, or another person. Such a loan agreement does not require registration with the NBU.

Effective March 3, 2018, the NBU allowed residents to make early repayment of loans within the monthly limit of US$2 million (for one resident borrower under loan agreements serviced by one authorized bank).

Effective March 30, 2018, the NBU allowed residents to make early repayment of loans in which a foreign person takes part (by way of crediting, insurance, guarantee, or surety) in full or in part, one of the participants of which is a foreign state or a foreign bank with a shareholder that is a foreign state.

Effective April 27, 2018, the NBU established an exception to the general procedure for controlling the level of the maximum interest rate on foreign loans for credit projects that are implemented with the participation (in the form of guarantee, insurance, surety) of a foreign state.

Effective May 5, 2018, the NBU lifted the restriction on credit funds in foreign currency, as a means of payment in the territory of Ukraine, received from the international financial institution by the state or under state guarantees.
Effective May 17, 2018, the NBU simplified the procedure for purchasing foreign currency through authorized banks for repayment of loans by resident borrowers.

The reserve requirement to be placed in the NBU by banks on short-term (up to six months) deposits or loans in foreign exchange from nonresidents is zero. The requirement does not apply to funds: (1) with a term of no more than one business day, (2) under government guarantees, or (3) from IFIs of which Ukraine is a member.

FDI in Ukraine may be made in foreign currency and hryvnias and does not have to be performed through investment accounts with authorized Ukrainian banks. Foreign investments do not require registration. State registration of investments has been discontinued.

Effective July 10, 2019, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor was abolished. Previously, the following changes had been made to the ban:

- On June 13, 2016, pursuant to NBU Resolution No. 342 of June 9, 2016, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for 2014 and 2015, provided the following conditions are simultaneously met: (1) purchase/transfer of foreign currency to repatriate dividends abroad is performed by the issuer of the corporate rights/shares under which dividends are paid, or by the depository servicing the foreign investor’s accounts, or by the foreign investor directly; (2) within one calendar month, the person/entity indicated in clause 2 of this sub-article acquires/transfers foreign exchange for the repatriation abroad of dividends within a total amount not to exceed one of the following two thresholds: US$1,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction) or 10% of the aggregate amount of the dividends subject to repatriation by that person/entity. If 10% of the aggregate amount of the dividends subject to repatriation abroad by said person/entity exceeds US$5,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction), then during one calendar month, the purchases/transfers of foreign exchange for repatriation abroad by said person/entity within the framework of the total amount may not exceed US$5,000,000 (the equivalent in another foreign currency at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies established by the NBU, as of the date of the relevant transaction).

- Effective March 2, 2018, pursuant to NBU Resolution No. 19 of March 1, 2018, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for the period up to 2017, inclusive, in the amount not exceeding US$7,000,000 (or the equivalent).

Effective February 7, 2019, the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is permitted for the purpose of returning abroad funds obtained by foreign investors from transactions entailing the sale of securities, corporate rights, funds obtained as a result of reduction of the authorized capital of legal entities, and foreign investors’ withdrawal.
from companies, provided the following conditions are simultaneously met: (1) the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is performed by a resident (buyer of securities, whose authorized capital is reduced, and from which a foreign investor participant is withdrawing), intermediary, or foreign investor; (2) throughout a calendar month, the aforementioned person/entity performs the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for that purpose in an amount not exceeding 5,000,000 euros (or the equivalent); (3) such purchase/transfer is performed through a single bank (a change of banks is permitted under certain conditions).

This limit does not apply to the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange/hryvnias for the purpose of returning funds: (1) to investment accounts of foreign investors within Ukraine; Further transfer of these funds from an investment account abroad and/or to a current account of a nonresident (other than an investment account) may be performed provided the above limit is observed; (2) abroad from current accounts of nonresidents (other than investment accounts); (3) earned by foreign investors from operations involving the sale of Ukrainian government bonds on securities exchanges and over the counter, and from the sale of debt/listed securities on securities exchanges.

Effective May 7, 2019, the ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for the period up to 2017 inclusive, in the amount not exceeding €12000,000 (or the equivalent of this amount). Previously, the threshold was US$7,000,000.

Effective September 10, 2019, the monthly limit of €5,000,000 was abolished on the repatriation of funds received from selling securities and equity rights as well as the funds received from a reduction of authorized capital of a legal entity or a foreign investor’s exit from an economic partnership.

Borrowing abroad
No.
Effective February 7, 2019, foreign currency loans no longer require registration with the NBU.

Effective February 7, 2019, the NBU no longer sets interest rate ceilings (allowing for commissions and fees) for the borrowing of funds abroad.

Banks may purchase foreign currency for hryvnias to discharge obligations on foreign loans (loan principal, interest, other payments under the loan agreement). Early repayment of loans from nonresidents is prohibited with some exceptions.

On April 14, 2017, the NBU allowed Ukrainian banks to repay loans early to nonresidents in such cases:

1. Lender is a bank with a rating of at least A-;
2. Loan was funded by issuance of Eurobonds.

On July 11, 2017, the NBU allowed early loan repayments to nonresidents:

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
• Banks allowed to repay loans early to all nonresidents;
• Residents allowed to repay loans early to nonresidents, in case a shareholder of such a borrower or nonresident creditor is an IFI;
• Resident-borrowers allowed to repay loans early to nonresident banks.

On August 24, 2017, early repayments on loans from nonresidents were allowed in cases when a foreign state (at least single A rated by Fitch Ratings, Standard & Poor’s, Moody’s) or a foreign bank (with a rated foreign state in the stake) owning shares in the capital of this nonresident have been exempted from the ban of the early loan repayments.

On October 8, 2017, the NBU simplified, for the banks, the procedure to repurchase early own Eurobonds (issued abroad to finance loans granted to these banks by nonresidents) without individual licenses.

On December 14, 2017, (1) the NBU extended the list of exemptions for early loan repayments, including the repayment of loans in cases when a foreign state via the persons authorized by that state is participating (through crediting, insurance, guaranteeing) in the realization of such a loan (fully or partially);

Effective February 16, 2018, by NBU Board Resolution No. 12 of February 15, 2018, the NBU allowed residents to take loans from nonresidents under the conditions when the loan amount is determined in UAH, and all calculations are carried out in foreign currency, provided:

(1) The creditor is an IFI of which Ukraine is a member or an IFI of which Ukraine is obliged to provide the same legal regime;
(2) When the borrower is an authorized bank, and the lender of the IFI, or another person. Such a loan agreement does not require registration with the NBU.

Effective April 27, 2018, the NBU Board of Directors by its Resolution No. 45 of April 26, 2018, established an exception to the general procedure for controlling the level of the maximum interest rate on foreign loans for credit projects that are implemented with the participation (in the form of guarantee, insurance, surety) of a foreign state.

Effective May 5, 2018, NBU Board Resolution No. 48 of May 3, 2018, lifted the restriction on credit funds in foreign currency, as a means of payment in the territory of Ukraine, received from the IFI by the state or under state guarantees.

The reserve requirement to be placed in the NBU by authorized banks on short-term (up to six months) deposits or loans in foreign exchange from nonresidents is zero.

Maintenance of accounts abroad  Yes.

Banks may open correspondent accounts in Classification Groups 1, 2, and 3 foreign currency in nonresident banks of countries whose domestic currency belongs to Classification Group 2 and Group 3. Previously, authorized banks could open correspondent accounts in Classification Group 1 foreign currency only with nonresident banks of the countries whose national currency was in Group 1. This requirement does not affect bank transactions for fulfillment of agreements with payment systems registered by the NBU, liabilities under credit agreements of residents with nonresidents before June 5, 2009, or correspondent accounts in foreign currency with banks in Russia for settlement of imports of energy products.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)  Yes.

Financial institutions, including banks, may lend in foreign exchange only to nonresident banks. Authorized banks may carry out EBRD interbank lending through EBRD correspondent accounts in hryvnias at authorized banks.

Lending locally in foreign exchange  Yes.

Initially, restrictions on the provision by financial institutions of... loans, credits in foreign currency to individual residents and nonresidents who are not engaged in entrepreneurial activities, were established by the law on November 24, 2009, and were effective until January 1, 2011 (except for loans, and credits in foreign currency to pay for the services of nonresidents for treatment and education abroad).

Later, the ban on the provision of consumer loans to individuals in foreign currency had been legislated since October 16, 2011, and as of June 10, 2017, the relevant rule on the prohibition of consumer loans in foreign currency in Ukraine was established by the Law of Ukraine, on Consumer Lending.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange Yes.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange No.

Reserve requirements No. Banks maintain reserve requirements on their correspondent accounts in the NBU in domestic currency. The following ratios are set: for demand deposit funds and funds on current accounts in domestic and foreign currencies, 6.5; for term deposits in domestic and foreign currencies, 3.0.

Liquid asset requirements No.

Investment regulations Yes.

Abroad by banks Yes. An NBU license is required. Pursuant to Article 50 of the Law of Ukraine on Banks and Banking, a bank may make a direct investment on the basis of the NBU’s written permission.

In banks by nonresidents Yes. Legal entities or individuals who intend to acquire substantial interest in a bank, or increase it, such that an individual or entity directly and/or indirectly, independently or together with other entities or persons, owns 10%, 25%, 50%, or 75% or more of the authorized capital or voting rights in the authorized capital of a bank, and/or regardless of formal ownership, has significant influence over the management or activities of a bank must notify that bank and the NBU of their intentions three months before acquiring or increasing substantial interest (except for strategic investors who apply for participation in the tender in accordance with the Law of Ukraine, on the Features of the Sale of Blocks of Shares That Are Owned by the State in the Authorized Capital of Banks in the Capitalization of Which the State Participated) and submit the relevant package of documents for clearing said acquisition with the NBU. The National Bank may take a decision to prohibit the acquisition of, or increase in, material participation in a bank.

Open foreign exchange position limits Yes. Following the NBU’s methodology, banks calculate limits for total... long and short open foreign exchange positions, taking into account reserves that have been created for a bank’s asset-related operations in foreign exchange, and financial instruments with an indexed value. Off-balance-sheet items are included in the calculation of the open foreign exchange positions. The limits of the total (short/long) open currency position are set as a percentage of the regulatory capital.

The limit of the total long open currency position of the bank (L13-1) may not exceed 5% of the regulatory capital; the limit of the total short open currency position of the bank may not exceed 5% of its regulatory capital (the new limits are set effective July 1, 2018, in accordance with the decision of the NBU Board No. 347-RS of June 19, 2018, which amended the decision 184-RS of March 29, 2018.

Earlier, effective May 1, 2018, L13-1: no more than 3%, and L13-2: no more than 8% of the regulatory capital of the bank, according to the decision of the NBU Board No. 184-rsh of March 29, 2018.

Earlier from September 2, 2014, L13-1 – no more than 1%, L 13-2 – 10% of the regulatory capital of the bank in accordance with the decisions of the NBU Board No. 205 of June 22, 2011, and No. 540 of August 29, 2014, extended by resolutions.

No. 758 of 01 December 2014, No. 124 of February 23, 2015, No. 160 of March zero free, [sic] 2015, No. 354 of June 03, 2015, No. 581 of September zero free, [sic] 2015, No. 863 of December 04, 2015, No. 140 from March 3, 2016, No. 342 of July 7, 2016, No. 386 of September 14, 2016, No. 410 of December 13, 2016. From June 29, 2011, L13-1: no more than 5%, L 13-2: 10% of the regulatory capital of the bank in accordance with NBU Board Resolution No. 205 of June 22, 2011. NBU Resolution No. 847 on Approval of the Methodology for the Calculation of the Open Foreign Exchange Position by Authorized Banks, on December 1, 2015, repealed Resolution No. 182 of March 31, 2014, which previously established the timetable for the inclusion of provisions on asset-related operations, since these provisions have now been included in their entirety. According to the new methodology, 100% of the reserves created for asset-related banking operations in foreign currency are included in the calculation of the total (long/short) open foreign exchange position limits.

On September 1, 2016, as per NBU Board Decision No. 158-rsh of July 26, 2016, that amended Resolution No. 847, financial instruments with an indexed value (loans, deposits, securities, and other instruments held by banks) are taken into account in calculating the foreign exchange position. Effective March 30, 2018, a maximum net level for transactions related to the purchase and sale of foreign currency and banking metals relative to capital was annulled (NBU Board Resolution No. 31 of March 29, 2018).

Effective May 1, 2018, the limit of the total long open currency position of the bank (L13-1) was set at 3% (previously, 1%), and the limit of the total short open currency position of the bank L13-2 was set at 8% (previously, 10%) of the regulatory capital of the bank.

Effective July 1, 2018, the limit of the total long open currency position of the bank (L13-1) may not exceed 5% of the regulatory capital (previously, 3%); the limit of the total short open currency position of the bank may not exceed 5% of its regulatory capital (previously, 8%).

Changes during 2018 and 2019

Exchange Arrangement

The National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) calculates the official hryvnia exchange rate to the US dollar according to the new method based on the information about all transactions on the purchase and sale of US dollars on the terms “tod,” “tom,” and “spot,” which on the day of calculation of the official exchange rate were concluded by banks on the interbank currency market of Ukraine with other banks and the NBU, and information whereof was provided by the NBU trading information systems up to 3:30 p.m. of the current business day.

The new method of calculation provides for a two-stage system of cutting off transactions, the parameters whereof for various reasons deviate from the parameters of most transactions of the current day.
The National Bank of Ukraine began to publish a key rate forecast as part of the quarterly revision of the macroeconomic forecast. Resolution No. 86 of July 24, 2018, clarifies that the banks can carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident customers who are subjects of foreign economic activity, and/or with other authorized banks.

Banks were allowed to use both the Transaction Confirmation System (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the interbank currency market of Ukraine. At the same time, banks were able to conclude deals at any time, regardless of the time of work set for the Transaction Confirmation System.

The requirement to comply with the limit on a bank’s daily net foreign exchange purchase in the interbank and retail market for its own position with respect to all transactions related to the purchase and sale of foreign currency and banking metals was abolished. Banks were allowed to use both the Transaction Confirmation System (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the interbank currency market of Ukraine. Banks may enter into transactions at any time, regardless of the operating time set for the operation of the Transaction Confirmation System. Earlier, transactions involving the purchase and sale of foreign currency for hryvnias were performed during the operating hours of the Agreement Confirmation System.

The requirement to comply with the limit on a bank’s daily net foreign exchange purchase in the interbank and retail market for its own position with respect to all transactions related to the purchase and sale of foreign currency and banking metals was abolished. Banks were allowed to carry out transactions on the “forward” terms with resident customers who are subjects of foreign economic activity, and/or with other authorized banks.

Banks were allowed to perform forward transactions with residents for the purpose of hedging debt operations. Previously, they were only allowed for hedging export and import payments.

If the delivery time of goods and services exceeds 365 calendar days (previously, 180 calendar days), it may be extended with approval of the central executive government body implementing economic development policy.

Foreign currency was allowed to be used by residents: (1) in the performance of operations by banks to provide banking and other financial services on the basis of a banking license; (2) in the performance of operations by nonbank financial institutions and postal service operators that have a license from the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) to perform foreign exchange operations; (3) in the performance of operations involving the placement of, payment of monetary income on, and redemption of bonds and treasury bills of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency, if so provided for by the securities prospectus (by the terms of their...
(4) in the performance of operations involving the purchase/sale of government securities denominated in foreign currency, if the initiator or recipient of such a foreign exchange operation is a bank;
(5) for other operations defined by the Customs Code of Ukraine and/or regulatory legal acts of the NBU.

Previously, an NBU license was required.

Foreign exchange supervision is no longer performed with regard to transactions involving exports and imports in an amount that is below the threshold established for financial transactions that are subject to mandatory financial monitoring in accordance with the legislation on combating money laundering, the financing of terrorism, or the financing of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

Resident Accounts

The National Bank of Ukraine extended the deadline to 365 calendar days (previously, 180 calendar days) for funds to be credited to the residents’ accounts at Ukrainian banks in relation to settlements under transactions by residents involving exports of goods.

A license from the National Bank of Ukraine was no longer required to transfer foreign currency by residents to their own accounts opened abroad as long as the amount was within the established limits.

The requirement on residents to sell unused foreign exchange within 10 days in Ukraine’s interbank exchange market was abolished.

Nonresident Accounts

The ban on the purchase and transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends abroad to a foreign investor may not apply to cases of the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for the repatriation of dividends on equity participation/shares for the period up to 2017 inclusive, in the amount not exceeding US$7,000,000 (or the equivalent of this amount). Previously, the threshold was US $5,000,000 and US$2,000,000 for dividends for the years 2014–2016 and prior to 2014, respectively.

The purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is permitted for the purpose of returning abroad funds obtained by foreign investors from transactions entailing the sale of securities, corporate rights, funds obtained as a result of reduction of the authorized capital of legal entities, and foreign investors’ withdrawal from companies, provided the following conditions are simultaneously met: (1) the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange is performed by a resident (buyer of securities, whose authorized capital is reduced, and from which a foreign investor participant is withdrawing), intermediary, or foreign investor; (2) throughout a calendar month, the aforementioned person/entity performs the purchase/transfer of foreign exchange for that purpose in an amount not exceeding

The exchange rate arrangement is a conventional peg. The dirham was pegged to the US dollar in 1980. A January 2003 decision made the peg official. The United Arab Emirates Central Bank (UAECB) does not publish its intervention data.
The dirham is pegged to the US dollar, the anchor currency, at the midrate of Dh 3.6725 per dollar (1 dirham = US$0.2723). The official selling and buying rates are Dh 3.6720 and Dh 3.6730 per dollar, respectively. The official midrate is used for accounting and valuation. The authority to change the exchange rate regime is vested in the federal government.

The exchange rate mechanism is a fixed peg regime with the US dollar as the anchor currency.

Foreign exchange market Yes. The bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions are determined at banks’ discretion.

Spot exchange market Yes. As of December 2018, there were 60 commercial and Islamic banks operating in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) (22 local, 27 foreign) and 11 wholesale banks. All banks may engage in foreign exchange transactions. In addition, 123 foreign exchange bureaus, commonly called exchange companies or moneychangers, are licensed by the UAECB. These institutions may maintain accounts and engage in foreign exchange transactions with the UAECB and may have nostro accounts abroad with the UAECB approval. There are three types of exchange companies: (1) Category 1, which may buy and sell only currency notes and traveler’s checks; and (2) Category 2, which may process remittances and buy and sell currency notes and traveler’s checks, and (3) in addition to transactions allowed for Category 2, they may also process wage protection systems (WPS) payments.

Operated by the central bank Yes. The UAECB offers the following funding facilities with terms of one week and one and three months: (1) in dirhams and dollars against the UAECB certificates of deposit for conventional banks; (2) in dirhams against the UAECB Islamic certificates of deposit; and (3) dollar swaps against dirhams for Islamic banks. The facilities regulate the amount and use of the US dollars obtained. The UAECB also offers a dirham funding facility against US dollars via swaps with terms of one week and one, two, three, six, nine, and twelve months. The swap facility is available to all banks in the UAE, whether or not they have a shortfall in their dirham net position.

Foreign exchange standing facility Yes. The UAECB buys and sells unlimited dollars and dirhams to registered counterparties at the official exchange rate. Counterparties use the Reuters dealing code CBEM to deal with the UAECB, which also executes purchases and sales of foreign currency against dirhams with the federal government and ministries, local governments, and public institutions through their UAECB accounts.
Interbank market

- Yes. All licensed banks participate in the interbank market. There are no limits set by the UAECB on bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants.

Over the counter

- Yes. Some dealing is conducted via money brokers.

Market making

- Yes. The foreign exchange market operates on the basis of a market-making arrangement.

Forward exchange market

- Yes. The UAECB provides a facility for dirham funding against US dollars via swaps with terms of one week and one, two, three, six, nine, and twelve months. The swap facility is provided to all banks in the UAE, whether or not they have a shortfall in their dirham net position. The operations began with the UAECB simultaneous purchase of US dollars against dirhams (spot) and sale of US dollars against dirhams (forward).

Official cover of forward operations

- Yes.

Companies listed on the UAE exchange make their own decisions regarding foreign ownership. At least 51% of the equity of companies other than foreign company branches must be held by Emirati citizens. Citizens of GCC countries may hold (1) up to 75% of the equity of companies in the industrial, agricultural, fisheries, and construction sectors; and (2) up to 100% of the equity of companies in the hotel industry. In free zones, foreign ownership is permitted up to 100%.

The issuance of capital market securities by nonresidents is allowed, provided the sellers/issuers comply with the listing requirements of the Emirates Securities and Commodities Authority (SCA).

These transactions are subject to approval by the relevant regulatory authority.
Purchases by GCC residents are exempt from controls.

The issuance of shares of some mutual funds is permitted.

At least 51% of the equity of companies other than foreign company branches must be held by Emirati citizens. Citizens of GCC countries may hold (1) up to 75% of the equity of companies in the industrial, agricultural, fisheries, and construction sectors; and (2) up to 100% of the equity of companies in the hotel industry. GCC citizens may also engage in wholesale and retail trade activities; if they engage in such activity as a company, they are subject to the company law. In free zones, foreign ownership is permitted up to 100%.

class portfolio: “A” by Standard & Poor’s (S&P), Fitch, A.M. Best, or “A2” by Moody’s.

The limits apply to total invested assets.

The limits on aggregate exposure differentiate between investment abroad and at home pursuant to Article 3 of the Financial Regulations for Insurance Companies.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents
Yes. Pursuant to Article 3 of the Financial Regulations for Insurance Companies, the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in government securities/instruments issued by A-rated countries is 80%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 25%, and the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in equity instruments of listed and unlisted companies outside the UAE is 20%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 10%.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad
Yes. Requirement on domiciling of investments (Article 6): Insurance companies are permitted to hold, for the purpose of investment, assets of its insurance fund for the UAE policies in a foreign jurisdiction with a sovereign rating, which is better or at least equivalent to the sovereign rating of the UAE. Total invested assets held outside the UAE may not exceed 50% of the total invested assets or 100% of the total technical provisions for policies outside the UAE only (excluding unit-linked funds), whichever is greater. The maximum limit for aggregate exposure in equity instruments of listed and unlisted companies outside the UAE is 20%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 10%.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally
Yes. Insurance companies must at all times invest inside the UAE the assets required to match the technical provisions, for policies inside the UAE only.

The minimum limit and the maximum exposure to a single counterparty for aggregate exposure in cash and deposits with banks in the UAE (for example, current account, demand deposits, term deposits, notice deposits, certificates of deposit, etc.) are 5% and 50%, respectively.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition
Yes. Insurance companies adhere to the International Financial Regulations Standards regarding currency-matching. The Financial Regulations for Insurance and Takaful Companies in Section 1 (Regulations Pertinent to the Basis of Investing the Rights of the Policyholders), Article 1 (General Requirements for Investments) states that (1) for the purpose of matching of assets and liabilities, the assets held by an insurance company to cover its technical provisions and all other long-term insurance liabilities must: (a) have characteristics of safety, yield, and marketability which are appropriate to the type of business carried on by the company; and (b) be diversified and adequately spread. (2) The assets must be of a sufficient amount, and of an appropriate currency and maturity, to ensure that the cash inflows from those assets will meet the expected cash outflows from the company’s insurance liabilities as they become due.

The International Financial Regulations Standards 17 Insurance Contracts was issued on May 18, 2017, and is set to enter into force on January 1, 2021.

(2) The Public Close-ended Mutual Fund. (3) The Real Estate Investment Fund. (4) The Venture Capital Fund. (5) The Cash Investment Fund. The regulations for collective investment schemes are in-depth and cover detailed requirements. Applications for the registration of foreign and domestic mutual funds (collective investment schemes (CISs)) are sent to the Emirates SCA for review and approval, which will grant or deny application within a 30-day period. Licenses are renewable on an annual basis. Mutual funds established in the UAE are subject to the SCA jurisdiction and are required to prepare a detailed prospectus which must be approved by the SCA and which must include information on the management, the company’s board of directors, capital requirements, internal governance of the fund, investment policy, the manner in which the CIS units are issued and redeemed, subscription rights, redemption, rights of shareholders, method of evaluating fund assets and net asset value (NAV), safe custody rules, policy and limits and controls of borrowing or funding as well as the funds’ investments guidelines and scope of investment. The regulations also ensure that provisions for certain types of mutual funds including master funds, feeder funds (a public mutual fund affiliated to an umbrella fund excluded from investing in tradable securities and some other investments as determined by the SCA, with approximately 85% of their assets invested in the units of a public master fund or public foreign fund), umbrella funds, and fund of funds. Master funds and feeder funds must satisfy the conditions for licensing. Management companies are required to obtain licenses from the SCA to establish and run mutual funds or CISs. Management companies are obliged to meet and adhere to the following standards: (1) regulate the management of the fund as well as management of administrative services; (2) legally represent the fund before third parties; (3) manage risks; (4) ensure the separation of client assets and correct custody; (5) appoint an SCA approved safe custodian; (6) assess and value assets, calculate NAV of units, distribute profits as well as abide by all disclosure requirements; and (7) execute sale and purchase transaction in the markets using the principle of “best execution” and maintaining strict fiduciary duty/responsibilities for their clients.</td>

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating. The exchange rate of the pound sterling is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. The Bank of England (BOE) has a separate pool of foreign exchange reserves, which it uses at its discretion to intervene in support of its monetary policy objectives. A monthly press release issued by Her Majesty’s Treasury (HMT) reports HMT and BOE intervention. There were no foreign exchange interventions during 2018.

The BOE calculates indicative exchange rates on a daily basis and publishes these on its website. These are not official rates. Exchange rates are determined as middle spot rates prevailing in the market at a given point in time. Separately, the BOE provides exchange rates to the IMF for SDR calculations and these rates are published daily by the IMF on their website.

The BOE’s monetary policy objective is to deliver price stability—low inflation—and, subject to that, to support the government’s economic objectives including those for growth and employment. Price stability is defined by the government’s inflation target of 2%. The remit recognizes the role of price stability in achieving economic stability more generally, and in providing the right conditions for sustainable growth in output and employment. The government’s inflation target is announced each year by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Annual Budget statement.

<td>CPI</td>
<td>Yes. The inflation target of 2% is expressed in terms of an annual rate of inflation based on the consumer price index. The remit is not to achieve the lowest possible inflation rate. Inflation below the target of 2% is judged to be just as bad as inflation above the target. The inflation target is therefore symmetrical.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Core inflation</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Target horizon</td>
<td>Yes. A target of 2% does not mean that inflation will be held at this rate constantly. That would be neither possible nor desirable. Interest rates would be changing all the time, and by large amounts, causing unnecessary uncertainty and volatility in the economy. Even then it would not be possible to keep inflation at 2% in each and every month. Instead, the Monetary Policy Committee’s (MPC’s) aim is to set interest rates so that inflation can be brought back to target within a reasonable time period without creating undue instability in the economy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operating target (policy rate)</td>
<td>Yes. The 1998 BOE Act made the BOE independent to set interest rates. The BOE is accountable to parliament and the wider public. The legislation provides that if, in extreme circumstances, the national interest demands it, the government has the power to give instructions to the BOE on interest rates for a limited period. The BOE seeks to meet the inflation target by setting an interest rate. The level of interest rates is decided by a special committee – the MPC. The MPC consists of nine members – five from the BOE and four external members appointed by the chancellor. It is chaired by the governor of the BOE. Decisions are made by a vote of the Committee on a one-person one-vote basis. The MPC meets over three days eight times a year. The format of the meetings follows the recommendations of the Warsh Review and is set out in the BOE and Financial Services Act 2016. At the first meeting, normally held the Thursday prior to the MPC decision, the members discuss their views on how to interpret the most recent economic data. At the MPC’s second meeting – the first of the two policy meetings, normally held the following Monday – the MPC members debate on what the appropriate stance of the policy should be. The MPC’s final meeting – its second policy meeting – is normally held the Wednesday. Following further discussion on the appropriate stance of monetary policy, the governor puts to the meeting the policy which he believes will command a majority and members of the MPC vote. Any member in a minority is asked to say what level of interest rates he or she would have preferred. The decision is published at 12:00 noon the Thursday.</td>

Accountability
Yes.

Each year the Chancellor of the Exchequer writes a letter to the governor confirming the inflation target and the BOE’s remit for monetary policy. If the target is missed by more than 1 percentage point on either side, that is, if the annual rate of consumer price index inflation is more than 3% or less than 1%, the governor of the BOE must write an open letter to the chancellor explaining the reason why inflation has increased or fallen to such an extent and what the BOE proposes to do to ensure inflation comes back to the target.

Four times a year, typically when the BOE publishes its Inflation Report, it also attends a public meeting with the House of Commons Treasury Committee.

Publication of votes
Yes. The minutes of the MPC meetings publish the votes of the individual members of the Committee.

Publication of minutes
Yes. The MPC is committed to the greatest possible degree of transparency around its decision-making. The minutes of the MPC meetings are published simultaneously with the interest rate decision. They also record the votes of the individual members of the Committee. The minutes give a full account of the policy discussion, including differences of view.

Publication of inflation forecasts
Yes. In addition to the MPC minutes, the BOE publishes its Inflation Report every quarter. This report gives an analysis of the UK economy and the factors influencing policy decisions. The Inflation Report also includes the MPC’s latest forecasts for inflation and output growth.

Yes.

Foreign exchange bureaus engaged only in spot foreign exchange transactions are not subject to licensing or regulation by the BOE as CB, the Prudential Regulation Authority as prudential regulator, or the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) as financial conduct regulator. Spot contracts which meet the criteria in Article 10(2) of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/565 are specifically excluded from the scope of financial instruments for the purposes of MiFID II, so that firms only doing business in relation to such contracts are not subject to MiFID II-based authorization requirements. However, businesses that conduct spot foreign exchange transactions may engage in other activities that require FCA authorization. In addition, some firms may be subject to the separate authorization and registration obligations of the Payment Services Regulations 2017. Also, many foreign exchange bureaus that do not engage in activities that require FCA authorization must register with Her Majesty’s Revenue and Customs (HMRC) under the Money Laundering, Terrorist Financing and Transfer of Funds (Information on the Payer) Regulations 2017, which require foreign exchange bureaus (as well as money transmitters and check cashers) to investigate customers as part of... customer due diligence. Banks and investment firms engaged in foreign exchange services connected with the provision of investment services are subject to certain conduct and other obligations for foreign exchange services pursuant to the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID II), effective January 3, 2018.

The United Kingdom is a member of the EU.

Gold bullion and coins are not subject to control. Section 10 of the 1971 Coinage Act provides, among other things, that no person may, except under the authority of a license granted by the Treasury, melt down or break up any metal coin in use in the United Kingdom or that was once in use but ceased to be so after May 16, 1969. There is a gold market in London in which gold bars are traded freely.

The exportation of gold in manufactured form more than 50 years old and valued at £41,018 or more for each item or set of matching items requires a license from the Department for Digital, Culture, Media and Sport.

People who are either entering the United Kingdom from a non-EU country or traveling from the United Kingdom to a non-EU country and carrying €10,000 or more (or the equivalent in other currencies) are required to declare the cash to HMRC at the place of their departure from, or arrival in, the United Kingdom.

Export restrictions are in effect for public safety reasons and to satisfy international obligations. There is an import ban on a range of goods from the Islamic Republic of Iran and Syria as a result of EU/UN sanctions.

Most imports are admitted to the United Kingdom under an OGL.

Textile and clothing imports from the Democratic People's Republic of Korea are restricted under the terms of autonomous arrangements; and textile imports from Belarus, as well as imports of certain steel products from Kazakhstan, Russia, and Ukraine, are subject to EU bilateral agreements. There are EU surveillance licensing arrangements for imports of certain steel products from all sources, except the EU.

Imports of cereals and cereal products, beef and veal, mutton and lamb, poultry meat, and dairy products other than butter and cheese are subject to minimum import prices enforced through autonomously imposed variable import levies. Imports of many other agricultural, horticultural, and livestock products are subject to EU regulations. Imports of rough diamonds are permitted only if accompanied by a Kimberley Process certificate that has been validated by the exporting government and if secured within a tamper-resistant container with the original seals intact. The importation of antipersonnel mines is subject to a ban. Licensing requirements apply to imports of firearms and ammunition, nuclear materials from outside the EU, and certain torture equipment.

As a member of the EU, the UK applies the CET, set by the EU for all members of the Customs Union.

Laws on inward direct investment and establishment apply.
Under the Enterprise Act of 2002, ministers have certain powers to intervene in mergers that raise specified public interest considerations. To date, three considerations have been specified: national security, plurality of the media, and financial stability. Under Section 58 of the Enterprise Act, ministers may add considerations with parliamentary approval. Use of the intervention powers means the competition authorities must consider the public interest issue identified by the minister in addition to competition issues raised by the merger. Ministers are bound by the findings of the competition authorities on the competition issues raised by the case, but decide whether a merger should be cleared, cleared subject to conditions, or blocked on the grounds of the specified public interest consideration. There are statutory timetables for considering a case and reaching decisions. In addition, controls apply to the following: (1) non-EU investment in EU-based airlines is capped at 49% to ensure that the controlling stake remains within the EU; exceptions are allowed but require a signed agreement between the EU and the non-EU country; (2) investment in certain broadcasting licenses (including, in particular, commercial television, teletext, and radio licenses) other than by nationals of, or enterprises originating in, EU member countries; (3) acquisition of UK flag vessels, except through an enterprise incorporated in the United Kingdom; and (4) to the extent that under EC Directive No. 85/611, a depository of a UCITS must have its registered office either in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country. Restrictions apply to operations between residents of the Channel Islands and nonresidents: (1) Acquisition in Alderney of real property by non-EU nationals and enterprises from non-EU countries requires authorization unless the investor is forming or investing in a land-owning company. (2) Ownership in Sark of tenements is reserved for British nationals. Purchases of real estate in Jersey depend on economic and social needs tests or acquisition through the purchase of shares in a property holding company.

Interest rate controls No.
Credit controls No.
Investment regulations No.
Abroad by banks No.
In banks by nonresidents No.
Open foreign exchange position limits Yes. Net spot liabilities in foreign currencies (that is, the net amount of foreign currency resources funding sterling assets) form part of a bank’s liabilities subject to a non-interest-bearing deposit requirement with the BOE. The required deposit is based on the average of reported eligible liabilities over a six-month period in excess of the equivalent of £600 million. This rule applies to building societies as well as to banks.
On resident assets and liabilities Yes. If the sum of an institution’s overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position exceeds a 2% threshold of own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk by multiplying the net open position by 8%. This requirement is applied to all firms and is reported via Common Reporting.
On nonresident assets and liabilities Yes. If the sum of an institution’s overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position exceeds a 2% threshold of own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk by multiplying the net open position by 8%. This requirement is applied to all firms and is reported via Common Reporting.
Provisions specific to institutional investors Yes. UK insurers are subject to Solvency II, and are therefore subject to risk-based capital requirements to cover the risk of loss of own funds over a one-year period, to the 99.5% confidence level. In addition to capital requirements, firms must ensure that their investments are consistent with the Prudent Person Principle, a qualitative set of risk management requirements.
Insurance companies Yes. UK insurers are subject to Solvency II, and are therefore subject to capital requirements and the Prudent Person Principle. The most relevant requirement of the Prudent Person Principle in this case is the requirement that assets backing technical provisions (insurance liabilities) are invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the liabilities.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad No.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes. UK insurers are subject to Solvency II, and are therefore subject to capital requirements and the Prudent Person Principle. The most relevant requirement of the Prudent Person Principle in this case is the requirement that assets backing technical provisions (insurance liabilities) are invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the liabilities.
Pension funds No. The United Kingdom uses the “prudent person” principle: there are no explicit quantitative restrictions on pension funds’ investments. Firms that manage personal or stakeholder pensions are subject to FCA authorization and Prudential Regulation Authority Handbook requirements.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad No.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally No.
| held locally | No. |
| Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition | No. |
| Investment firms and collective investment funds | Yes. |

There are no explicit limits on the amount of assets an investment firm may hold in the form of foreign exchange products or that must be held locally. However, investment firms subject to Capital Requirements Directive (EU) No. 2013/36 and Capital Requirements Regulation No. 575/2013 (together known as Capital Requirements Directive IV), including firms executing client orders, managing portfolios, and dealing on their own behalf, are subject to risk requirements comprising foreign exchange components and own funds requirements relating to foreign exchange.

Authorized retail investment funds (UCITS and non-UCITS retail schemes) are subject to limits on investment in certain types of financial instruments [see Chapter 5 of the FCA COLL sourcebook: www.handbook.fca.org.uk/handbook/COLL/5.pdf and, for UCITS schemes, the UCITS Directive]. There are also investment restrictions under the UK’s qualified investor scheme regime [see Chapter 8 of the FCA COLL sourcebook: www.handbook.fca.org.uk/handbook/COLL/8/?view=chapter], and at an EU level, for money market funds subject to the requirements of Money Market Funds Regulation, European long-term investment funds under the European long-term investment funds (ELTIF) Regulation, European venture capital funds under the European venture capital funds (EuVECA) Regulation and European social entrepreneurship funds under the European social entrepreneurship fund (EuSEF) Regulation. As regards other collective investment funds, there are generally no regulatory limits on their investments in securities issued by nonresidents, investment portfolios held abroad, and asset and liability composition. A collective investment fund may also impose its own limits according to its prospectus and investment objectives, and managers of alternative investment funds may be subject to the requirements of Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive (EU) No. 2011/61.

| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | No. |
| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | No. |

- In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51): Yes.

The United States maintains certain restrictions on payments and transfers for current international transactions to respond to threats to its national security, foreign policy, or economy. The Department of the Treasury (Treasury) administers economic sanctions programs having such restrictions with respect to Cuba and its nationals; the Islamic Republic of Iran; the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea; Libya; Syria; Yemen; the Crimea region of Ukraine; certain persons contributing to the situations in Ukraine; Burundi; certain persons contributing to the situation in Venezuela, as well as certain transactions with respect to that country; certain persons undermining democratic processes or institutions in Belarus and Zimbabwe; certain persons undermining the sovereignty of Lebanon or its democratic processes and institutions; certain persons contributing to the conflicts in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Somalia, and the Central African Republic; certain persons with respect to South Sudan; certain persons with respect to Darfur; certain persons who threaten international stabilization efforts in the Western Balkans, including certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia; the former Iraqi regime of Saddam Hussein, its senior officials, and their family members; certain persons who threaten stabilization efforts in Iraq; foreign terrorists who threaten to disrupt the Middle East peace process; governments supporting terrorism; foreign terrorist organizations; designated global terrorists; certain foreign financial institutions for engaging in certain activities in support of Hizballah; certain persons subject to sanctions with respect to Iran, North Korea, and Russia pursuant to the Countering America’s Adversaries Through Sanctions Act (CAATSA); designated proliferators of weapons of mass destruction (WMD); significant transnational criminal organizations; designated narcotics traffickers; certain persons responsible for the detention, abuse, or death of Sergei Magnitsky and certain persons responsible for extrajudicial killings, torture, or other gross violations of internationally recognized human rights in Russia; persons engaged in certain significant, malicious cyber-enabled activities; and certain persons engaged in human rights abuse or corruption. Treasury also prohibits the provisions of financing for, and other dealings in new debt of longer than 14-day maturity (Directive 1) or 30-day maturity (Directive 3) or 60-day maturity (Directive 2) or new equity (Directive 1) of, persons identified on the Sectoral Sanctions Identification List (SSI List); and prohibits US banks from participating in the primary market for non-ruble-denominated bonds issued by the Russian sovereign or lending non-ruble-denominated funds to the Russian sovereign effective August 29, 2019 (Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 (CBW) Directive 1). Restrictions on transactions imposed by Treasury are specified under the following: (1) the Cuban Assets Control Regulations, 31 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) part 515; (2) the Iranian Assets Control Regulations, 31 CFR 515.535, the Iranian Transactions and Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 560, the Iranian Financial Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 561, and the Iranian Human Rights Abuses Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 562 and Executive Orders 13606 (April 22, 2012), 13608 (May 1, 2012), and Subtitle D of Title XII of Public Law No. 112-239, Executive Order 13846 (August 6, 2018), Executive Order 13871 (May 8, 2019, and Executive Order 13876 (June 24, 2019); (3) the Darfur Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 546; (4) the Syrian Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 542; (5) the Zimbabwe Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 541; (6) the Belarus Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 548; (7) the Western Balkans Stabilization Regulations, 31 CFR part 588; (8) the Terrorism Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 595; (9) the Terrorism List Government Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 596; (10) the Foreign Terrorist Organizations Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 597; (11) the Global Terrorism Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 594; (12) the WMD Proliferators Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 544; (13) the Narcotics Trafficking Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 536; (14) the Foreign Narcotics Kingpin Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 598; (15) the Democratic Republic of the Congo Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 547 and Executive Order 13671 (July 8, 2014); (16) the Iraq Stabilization and Insurgency Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 576; (17) the Lebanon Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 549; (18) the North Korea Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 510 (March 15, 2016); (19) the Libyan Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 570 and Executive Order 13726; (20) the Yemen Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 552 and Executive Order 13611 (May 16, 2012); (21) the Somalia Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 551 and Executive Order 13620 (July 20, 2012); (22) the Transnational Criminal Organizations Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 590; (23) the Sergei Magnitsky Rule of Law Accountability Act of 2012, Public Law No. 112-208; (24) the South Sudan Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 558; (25) the Central African Republic Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 553; (26) the Ukraine-Related Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 589; (27) the Cyber-Related Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 578 and Executive Order 13757 (December 28, 2016), 31 CFR part 578 and Executive Order 13694 (April 1, 2015); (28) Executive Order 31712, Blocking Property of Certain Persons Contributing to the Situation in Burundi; (29) the Hizballah Financial Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 566; (30) the Venezuela Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 591, and Executive Orders 13692 (March 8, 2015), 13808 (August 24, 2017), 13827 (effective March 19, 2018), 13835 (effective May 21, 2018), 13850 (effective November 1, 2018), 13857 (effective January 25, 2019), and 13884 (effective August 5, 2019); (31) the Global Magnitsky Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 583, and Executive Order 13818 (December 21, 2017); and (32) Mali Executive Order 13882 (effective July 26, 2019). Treasury administers measures imposed against sanctions targets, including those related to blocked accounts. The assets of many individuals, entities, and some governments are blocked, and most transactions with them are prohibited, pursuant to the above-listed sanctions.
including, for example, specified foreign persons and foreign persons determined to have committed or to pose a significant risk of committing acts of terrorism that threaten national security, foreign policy, the US economy, or the security of US nationals; persons owned or controlled by, or acting for or on behalf of, terrorists or their supporters; persons providing assistance or financial, material, or technological support for, or financial or other services to or in support of, terrorists or acts of terrorism; and persons otherwise associated with any of the foregoing persons. Certain funds and other properties blocked under these sanctions programs will remain blocked until provisions are made to address claims or encumbrances with respect to such funds and property. Treasury also (1) prohibits imports and exports of rough diamonds that are not controlled through the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme (under the Rough Diamonds Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 592); and (2) prohibits imports from certain entities that proliferate nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons, under the WMD Trade Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 539. The United States has introduced the following measures on payments and transfers for current international transactions: Executive Order 13599, Blocking Property of the Government of Iran and Iranian Financial Institutions; Iranian Financial Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 561; Executive Order

Floating

Free floating
Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating; the exchange rate of the US dollar is determined freely in the foreign exchange market. Foreign exchange interventions are not formally ruled out in the United States, but they are rarely used. The secretary of the Treasury is responsible for the formulation and implementation of international monetary and financial policy, including foreign exchange market intervention policy. The Federal Reserve (Fed) has separate legal authority to engage in foreign exchange operations, which are conducted in close and continuous consultation and cooperation with the Treasury to ensure consistency with US international monetary and financial policy. The Treasury and the Fed have closely coordinated their foreign exchange operations since early 1962, when the Fed commenced such operations at the request of the Treasury. Operations are conducted through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as fiscal agent of the United States and as the operating arm of the Federal Reserve System. Interventions are announced when they occur and the size of the interventions is reported in the Treasury and Federal Reserve Foreign Exchange Operations quarterly bulletin. US authorities last intervened in the foreign exchange market in March 2011, following the earthquake in Japan, in a coordinated G7 effort to sell Japanese yen. The United States did not intervene in the foreign exchange market during 2018.

The United States neither computes nor publishes an official or reference exchange rate.

Monetary policy aims at maintaining the long-term growth of the monetary and credit aggregates commensurate with the economy’s long-term potential to increase production, so as to promote maximum employment, stable prices, and moderate long-term interest rates. On January 25, 2012, the Federal Open Market Committee announced that inflation at the rate of 2%, as measured by the annual change in the price index for personal consumption expenditures, is most consistent over the longer term with the Fed’s statutory mandate. In setting monetary policy, the Federal Open Market Committee will seek to mitigate deviations in inflation from its longer-term goal and deviations in employment from the Federal Open Market Committee’s assessment of its maximum level.

ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients. There are no licensing requirements to deal in foreign exchange. In addition, there are no restrictions on the types of foreign exchange transactions institutions or individuals may engage in or the types of foreign accounts they may have. There are, however, various reporting requirements.
banks, investment and insurance firms, branches and subsidiaries of foreign banks, brokerage firms, and principal trading firms. Some of these participants serve as market makers. A fraction of total foreign exchange trading takes place on futures and options exchanges; most trading takes place through direct dealing, on electronic trading systems using either multibank dealing or single-bank proprietary platforms, or through electronic brokerage systems.

Some market participants are brokerage firms.

Some market participants are market makers.

The Fed does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

The Islamic Republic of Iran, Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, and the Crimea region of Ukraine; petroleum or petroleum products of Syrian origin; and charcoal of Somali origin are prohibited unless specifically authorized by the US government. The importation of rough diamonds is prohibited unless controlled by the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme. Previously, from October 7, 2016, sanctions that restricted certain imports from Myanmar ended. In addition, the importation of most good and services originating in Cuba is prohibited.

| Open general licenses | Yes. |

With certain exceptions, general licenses authorize among other things (1) the importation of goods or services into the United States for the conduct of official business by missions of the Islamic Republic of Iran to international organizations in the United States and the Iranian Interests Section of the Embassy of Pakistan in the United States; and (2) the importation of foodstuffs and carpets into the United States from Iran. There are also broad exemptions for the importation of informational materials. This is not an exhaustive list of general licenses available under these sanctions programs, and many of these general licenses are subject to various conditions and restrictions that must be satisfied to comply with the terms of the license. The general licenses can either be found in the regulations referred to in Section II.B.1 above and/or on this website within the individual sanctions programs www.treasury.gov/resource-center/sanctions/Pages/legal-index.aspx.

Exports and Export Proceeds

| Repatriation requirements | No. |
| Surrender requirements | No. |
The Department of Commerce controls exports and reexports of dual-use products, technology, and software for reasons of national security, foreign policy, nonproliferation, and short supply. Except for shipment to US territories and possessions, which are treated as part of the United States, most exports outside the United States are subject to the Export Administration Regulations. Several agencies of the US government maintain export controls on products other than dual-use articles and services. For example, the Treasury and, in certain circumstances, the Department of Commerce prohibit exports of most goods, services, and technology to sanctioned countries and regions, individuals, and entities, and certain exports to sanctioned countries require specific licenses that are issued on a case-by-case basis, pursuant to established policies and procedures. Likewise, the Department of Agriculture controls exports of livestock and dairy and poultry items. The exportation of rough diamonds is prohibited unless controlled by the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme.

In accordance with 22 U.S.C. 2778-2780 of the Arms Export Control Act (AECA) and the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (22 CFR parts 120–130), the Directorate of Defense Trade Controls in the Department of State is charged with controlling exports and temporary imports of defense articles and defense services covered by the United States Munitions List (USML) in the International Traffic in Arms Regulations. Generally, ammunition for military use may be exported only under a license issued by the Directorate of Defense Trade Controls. The Department of Commerce administers controls on exports of crime-control items, detection equipment, and related technologies to most countries that depend on these commodities.

Controls apply to investment transactions with or involving Cuba and Cuban nationals; the Islamic Republic of Iran; certain persons with respect to Democratic People’s Republic of Korea; the Libyan Investment Authority and its subsidiaries and certain persons contributing to the situation in Libya; certain persons and entities with respect to Somalia; Syria; the Crimea region of Ukraine; certain persons contributing to the situation in Ukraine; persons who commit, threaten to commit, or support terrorism; foreign terrorists who disrupt the Middle East peace process; certain persons who threaten international stabilization efforts in the Western Balkans, including certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia; certain persons undermining democratic processes or institutions in Belarus and Zimbabwe; certain persons contributing to the conflict in Burundi and the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Darfur, and the Central African Republic; certain persons with respect to South Sudan; the former Iraqi regime of Saddam Hussein, its senior officials, and their family members; certain persons who threaten stabilization efforts in Iraq; certain persons who undermine the sovereignty of Lebanon or its democratic processes and institutions; certain persons in connection with the national emergency with respect to Syria; proliferators of WMD and their associates; significant transnational criminal organizations; designated narcotics traffickers; certain persons who have committed grave human rights abuses against the people of Iran and Syria; certain persons who aim to evade US economic and financial sanctions with respect to Iran and Syria; certain persons who have engaged in acts that directly or indirectly threaten the peace, security, or stability of Yemen; certain persons determined responsible for the detention, abuse, or death of Sergei Magnitsky; certain persons responsible for extrajudicial killings, torture, or other gross violations of internationally recognized human rights in Russia; certain persons engaged in human rights abuse or corruption; and persons engaged in certain significant, malicious cyber-enabled activities.

Inward direct investment

Controls apply to investments that may be restricted by laws on inward direct investment and on establishments in (1) atomic/nuclear energy; (2) broadcasting (radio and television), common carrier, aeronautical en route, or aeronautical fixed radio station licenses in accordance with 47 US Code Section 310, except as authorized under 47 US Code Section 310(b)(4); (3) air transport; (4) coastal and domestic shipping (including dredging and salvaging in coastal waters and transporting offshore supplies from a point within the United States to an offshore drilling rig or platform on the continental shelf); (5) ocean thermal energy, hydroelectric power, geothermal steam, or related resources on federal lands; mining on federal lands, the outer continental shelf, or the deep seabed; fishing in the “exclusive economic zone”; and deepwater ports, except through a company incorporated in the United States; (6) branches of foreign insurance companies, to the extent that they are not permitted to provide surety bonds for US government contracts. Investments involving ownership interest in banks are subject to federal and state banking laws and regulations. Controls apply to investment transactions with Cuba and Cuban nationals; Executive Order 13722, Blocking Property of the Government of North Korea and the Workers’ Party of Korea and Prohibiting Certain Transactions with respect to Democratic People’s Republic of Korea, was issued; the Islamic Republic of Iran; certain persons with respect to the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea; Libya; Somalia; Syria; the Crimea region of Ukraine; Executive Order 31712, Blocking Property of Persons Contributing to the Situation in Burundi, was issued for certain persons contributing to the situation there and Ukraine; persons who commit, threaten to commit, or support terrorism; foreign terrorists who disrupt the Middle East peace process; certain persons who threaten international stabilization efforts in the Western Balkans, including certain persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia; certain persons undermining democratic processes or institutions in Belarus and Zimbabwe; certain persons contributing to the conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Darfur, and the Central African Republic; certain persons with respect to South Sudan; the former Iraqi regime of Saddam Hussein, its senior officials, and their family members; certain persons who threaten stabilization efforts in Iraq; certain persons who undermine the sovereignty of Lebanon or its democratic processes and institutions; certain persons in connection with the national emergency with respect to Syria; WMD proliferators and their associates; significant transnational criminal organizations; designated narcotics traffickers; 31 CFR part 578 and Executive Orders 13694 and 13757 sanctioning persons engaged in certain significant, malicious cyber-enabled activities were issued; certain persons determined to be responsible for the detention, abuse, or death of Sergei Magnitsky and certain persons responsible for extrajudicial killings, torture, or other gross violations of internationally recognized human rights in Russia; and certain persons engaged in human rights abuse or corruption. Section 721 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Section 721) authorizes the interagency Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States to review transactions that could give control of a US business to a foreign person (“covered transactions”) to determine their effect on national security. It further authorizes the president, on making certain findings, to suspend or prohibit any covered transaction that threatens national security.

See Securities Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-1, 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1. A broker-dealer may pledge certain foreign sovereign debt and foreign currencies as collateral when borrowing fully-paid securities from a customer. A certain amount of additional collateralization is required when the securities or currency that is pledged differs from the securities that are borrowed. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 47683 (April 16, 2003). For purposes of this response, the term “broker-dealer” includes any entity registered with the US SEC as a broker or dealer.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes.

Although broker-dealers are not subject to a quantitative limit on the number or value of securities issued by nonresidents, foreign securities must have a “ready market” to have value for broker-dealer regulatory “net capital” purposes, as described above. See also response to Question XII.B.3.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes.

Broker-dealers that hold securities abroad generally must have the foreign locations approved by the Commission. See Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-3(c), 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1(c).

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

No.

See response to Question XII.B.3.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes. Under Article 17 of Law No. 17,835 of September 23, 2004, on Strengthening the Control and Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing, financial intermediation institutions are required to inform the Central Bank of Uruguay’s (CBU’s) financial intelligence unit of assets linked to (1) persons identified as terrorists or as belonging to terrorist organizations on the relevant lists prepared by the UN and (2) persons declared terrorists by final decision of a national or foreign court of law. In addition, Article 6 authorizes the financial intelligence unit to prevent all transactions giving rise to reasonable suspicion of a link with criminal organizations related to money laundering, as described in Article 17, from being carried out for a period of 72 hours. The law further provides that the financial intelligence unit’s decision must be communicated immediately to the criminal courts, which will determine whether the assets should be frozen without notice.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The exchange rate of the peso is determined on the basis of supply and demand, although the CBU reserves the right to intervene to cushion abrupt changes in a concentrated market of few transactions. The intervention currency is the US dollar. The CB periodically intervenes in the exchange market to smooth excess exchange rate volatility without affecting fundamentals-driven trends. In 2018, the peso depreciated close to 12% against the US dollar. The exchange rate movement was impacted by the crisis in Argentina. The CBU publishes information on intervention on its website.

The exchange rate is freely determined by the market. The end-of-day official exchange rate is the weighted average of all spot operations undertaken in the interbank market (BEVSA, Bolsa Electrónica de Valores del Uruguay S.A., Electronic Stock Exchange).

The inflation-targeting framework entered into force in 2005. The Monetary Policy Committee (COPOM in Spanish) consists of the three Board of Directors as members and three other senior officers appointed by the Board according to their specific tasks in the monetary policy. The Committee serves the following functions: (1) provides advice to the Board for determining monetary policy guidelines and parameters; (b) monitors and evaluates the money market, the short-term macroeconomic situation, and the financial program. COPOM decisions are taken by consensus. The COPOM meets after the Macroeconomic Coordination Committee, which is composed of the Minister of Economy and Finance, two officials appointed by him, and the three members of the Board of Directors of the CBU. The roles of this Committee are: (1) to share information related to the CB’s responsibilities and the economic policy in general; (2) to establish the price stability target and the exchange rate regime undertaken by the CBU.

One of the main targets of the CB is price stability, to preserve the currency value—the purchasing power of the Uruguayan peso. To achieve this, our institution implements an inflation-targeting regime through which it undertakes to make every necessary effort to keep end-year inflation within the target range established by the Macroeconomic Coordination Committee.

Since June 2013, the CBU has used the trajectory of monetary aggregate M1-plus (M1+)—which is the sum of the issuance of money held by the public, demand deposits, and savings of the public in the banking system—as a monetary policy reference indicator. The CBU has started setting reference ranges for M1+ year-over-year (y-o-y) quarterly growth for the quarter ahead. The M1+ data are published monthly on the CBU website. The Macroeconomic Coordination Committee, composed of CBU authorities and MOF members, set the reference range for M1+ at 9%–11% for the third quarter of 2018.

Publication of inflation forecasts Yes.

The Monetary Policy Report is published four times a year, in compliance with Article 42 of the Organic Charter. It includes an evaluation of the macroeconomic context, an inflation analysis, the fundamentals and aims of the Monetary Policy, as well as an assessment on monetary management according to the targets established.

Other monetary framework

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes.
The peso is freely traded, primarily on the Electronic Securities Exchange of Uruguay (Bolsa Electrónica de Valores del Uruguay S.A., BEVSA), although there is also an OTC market through exchange brokers. Formal exchanges in the foreign currency market must accept offers to buy or sell foreign currency with a minimum price fluctuation of UrS$0.01 (US$0.01) of a preexisting offer, if the counterparty is dealing in pesos. Authorized intermediaries may freely determine the bid-ask spread and exchange commissions with their customers (Circular No. 2095).

Spot exchange market Yes.

Institutions authorized to operate in the foreign exchange market are banks, finance houses, foreign financial institutions, financial intermediation cooperatives, financial services firms, and exchange houses. Eleven banks (including 2 state-owned), one finance house, one foreign financial institution, one financial intermediation cooperative, 23 financial services firms, and 54 exchange houses operate in the market. These institutions are supervised by the Superintendency of Financial Services. Exchange houses and financial service firms may deal with the CB by phone, maintain accounts abroad, and make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

Operated by the central bank No.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes.

Sixteen authorized institutions (including 11 banks) may trade among themselves at freely determined rates through the BEVSA and may operate in the OTC market through dealers. Banks and provident savings fund administrators (administradoras de fondos de ahorro previo) are the primary interbank market participants. They determine the daily closing exchange rate, defined as a weighted average of the day’s foreign exchange transactions, on the basis of their operations. The CBU grants the licenses. The minimum bid-ask spread is UrS$0.01. There are no limits on commissions, and each institution manages them independently. Generally, the CBU does not intervene in the spot foreign exchange market. But when it does, it intervenes directly with market participants at their quoted levels or proposes its own quotes. Authorized institutions are allowed to trade among themselves under the regulatory framework established by the CBU and BEVSA.

Over the counter Yes.
The market operates over the counter.

Brokerage Yes.
Participants may also operate in the OTC market, through brokers.
The CBU established a market for forward purchases and sales of US dollars. The CBU resumed operations on the US dollar forward market on November 3, 2009, operating with foreign exchange forwards and being the main counterparty in all operations. In December 2010, it began operating with foreign exchange futures. These are standardized daily settlement contracts. Currently, the CBU trades futures and forwards (with and without delivery). Interbank swap operations have not yet been implemented. In 2019, the regulation authorized specialized investors to participate in the foreign exchange market. These are large enterprises whose business activity necessitates the use of hedging instruments. In addition, there are two formal venues for forward exchange market trading (BEVSA and UFEX), which employ the central counterparty method.

The securities market and all participants, stock exchanges, other markets involved in the trading of publicly offered securities and other securities, and the issuers of publicly offered securities are subject to the Securities Market Law, regulations issued by the executive branch, and the general regulations and special instructions issued by the CBU Superintendency of Financial Services. Under Law No. 18,401, the CBU’s authority to regulate, supervise, and impose penalties under Law No. 16,749 of May 30, 1996, concerning the Securities Market, is not limited by the exercise of powers granted to stock exchanges. Law No. 18,627 was enacted in 2009 to (1) ensure transparent and efficient operations; (2) adequately inform and protect investors; (3) rebuild the confidence essential to the market’s development; and (4) promote the securities market.
law represents a shift from market self-regulation under the former law to a regulatory focus in which the Superintendency of Financial Services plays a more significant role.

Reserve requirements

Reserve requirements for deposit accounts in foreign currency differ according to depositor status (resident or nonresident), the term of the deposit, and the type of financial entity (see below).

Minimum reserve requirements for liabilities in pesos and in indexed units for banks, financial intermediation cooperatives, and finance houses are 22% (Circular No. 2284), 11%, 7%, and 5% for liabilities maturing in less than 30 days, 30–90 days, 91–180 days, and 181 to less than 367 days, respectively (Circular No. 2284).

For retail banks and retail financial intermediation cooperatives, the corresponding percentages are 18% (Circular No. 2252), 11%, 7%, and 5% for liabilities maturing in less than 30 days, 30–90 days, 91–180 days, and 181 to less than 367 days, respectively (Circular No. 2284). The percentages apply to the daily balances (weekends and holidays included) of the corresponding liabilities (Circular No. 2153, Circular No. 2224, Circular No. 2252, and Circular No. 2284).

The reserve requirements for banks, financial intermediation cooperatives, and exchange houses on foreign currency liabilities to residents are 28% for terms of up to 180 days and 20% for longer terms (Circular No. 2252 and Circular No. 2224).

For retail banks and retail financial intermediation cooperatives on foreign currency liabilities to residents the corresponding percentages are 12% for terms of up to 180 days and 7% for longer terms (Circular No. 2252 and Circular No. 2224).

Minimum reserve requirements for foreign currency liabilities to nonresidents are 28% (Circular No. 2252 and Circular No. 2224), calculated net of foreign assets in the currency in question.

Beginning in September 2013, following the issuance of Circular No. 2153, the minimum reserve requirements are computed contemporaneously and consist only of coins, banknotes, and demand deposits in the CBU. Term deposits are no longer accepted. The reserve in indexed units applies to liabilities of all maturities, including on demand. The reserve position is calculated by currency, according to the currency of the liability. The reserve position in pesos, foreign currency, and indexed units is based on the daily average for the month in question, including weekends and holidays. The domestic currency and the indexed unit are considered jointly. In the case of indexed units, liabilities are converted to pesos by multiplying by the value of each day.

According to Communication No. 2016/074 and Circular No. 2230, the minimum reserve requirement in domestic currency earns interest at 5% per annum; the minimum reserve requirement in US dollars earns interest at 0.15% per annum, and for currencies other than the US dollar, it is calculated as the Monetary Policy Rate minus 0.25% per annum. No interest is earned on required reserves in indexed units.

Liquid asset requirements

Bank deposit accounts, in addition to minimum reserve requirements, are subject to minimum liquidity requirements that are set at the... following levels: (1) for domestic-currency-denominated deposits: 17%, 9%, 6%, and 4% for liabilities with maturities of less than 30 days, 30–90 days, 90–180 days, and 180–360 days, respectively; and (2) for foreign currency deposits of residents: 25% and 19% for liabilities with maturities less than 180 days and more than 180 days, respectively. A 30-day liquidity coverage ratio was introduced in 2017, taking into account possible cash outflows during the period and the liquid assets backing them. The ratio must be greater than 80% for domestic currency and 100% for foreign and consolidated currencies.

Banks, finance houses, and financial intermediation cooperatives may not have asset or liability positions in foreign currency that exceed 150% of their net assets, minus operating fixed assets. The asset or liability position is the difference between assets—excluding operating fixed assets, given that they are not computed within assets—and liabilities. Part of the assets and liabilities in question consist of operations to be settled (basically OTC derivatives). The foreign currency position arising from these derivatives may not exceed the 150% limit. The foreign currency position arising from other assets and liabilities may not exceed 170% of the net assets, minus operating fixed assets. Operating fixed assets are claims more than two years overdue that have not been provisioned, investments in companies other than portfolio investment companies, assets constituting the category of property, plant and equipment, and intangible assets.

On resident assets and liabilities: Yes. The limits on foreign currency positions do not distinguish between assets and liabilities based on residence.

On nonresident assets and liabilities: Yes. The limits on foreign currency positions do not distinguish between assets and liabilities based on residence.

Provisions specific to institutional investors: Yes.

Insurance companies: Yes.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents: Yes. Investment in foreign securities rated at least “international investment grade” by internationally recognized risk rating agencies and supervised by the appropriate authority in the country of origin may not exceed 30% of the minimum capital requirement and the nonpension obligations to be covered. Investment in foreign securities rated at least “international investment grade” by internationally recognized risk rating agencies and supervised by the appropriate authority in the country of origin may not exceed 30% of the minimum capital requirement and the nonpension obligations to be covered.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes. No minimums are expressly established by the current laws and regulations. However, of the maximum for investment in foreign securities, set at 30%, at least 70% must be held locally.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

Yes. Insurance companies must match assets with liabilities in each currency. Nonpension obligations derived from insurance and reinsurance contracts payable in foreign currency, or in currency with a readjustment clause, must be covered by investments in the same currencies, with the same readjustment clauses or, failing that, in other currencies authorized by the Superintendency of Financial Services.

Pension funds

Yes. For foreign currency, the same-day buy and sell ceiling for pension funds is 0.4% of assets or the equivalent of US$8 million. However, if 0.4% of assets is less than US$4 million, pension funds may trade up to that amount daily. Trading the same instrument on the same day is limited to 1.5% of the pension fund assets for the previous day. Pension funds are subdivided into accumulation funds and retirement funds, depending on the age of the contributor. Accumulation funds may invest up to 75% in government securities and 15% in instruments issued by multilateral institutions or foreign governments with high credit ratings. The maximum investment in foreign currency for accumulation funds is 35% of the total. In the case of retirement funds, these percentages are 90%, 20%, and 20%, respectively.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

No.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes. Private pension funds are prohibited from investing in securities issued abroad other than fixed-income securities issued by multilateral lending institutions or highly rated sovereign countries, subject to a limit of 15% of the total value of their assets.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes. Private pension funds may hold up to 75% of total assets in government and CB securities. Pension funds may maintain up to 35% of their assets in foreign currency. There are other limits applicable, for instance, on types of issuers and instruments.

Exchange rate structure

- Unitary Yes. Effective January 1, 2018, Uzbekistan has a unitary exchange rate structure (as in September 2017, the official and parallel market exchange rates were unified) that led to a depreciation of the domestic currency by 50%. This unification along with other implemented measures resulted in unrestricted access to foreign exchange and elimination of the additional cost for purchasing foreign exchange.

- Dual

- Multiple
The de jure exchange rate arrangement of Uzbekistan is floating. The exchange rate is determined based on supply and demand for foreign currency on Uzbekistan’s currency exchange. The CBU is a direct buyer of monetary gold produced in Uzbekistan, acting as supplier in the foreign exchange market in amounts equivalent to the volume of gold purchased from producers. The CBU also intervenes in the foreign exchange market to smooth out undue short-term volatility. Foreign exchange sales by the CBU in the foreign exchange market are not directed at affecting fundamental trend of the exchange rate and are driven exclusively by the aim of sterilizing additional liquidity from the CBU purchases of monetary gold. The sum–US dollar exchange rate is used as an operational benchmark, because the vast majority of the country’s trading operations are carried out in US dollars. From May 2018, the exchange rate increased its volatility and departed from the stabilized arrangement but followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar since mid-July 2018 (with one realignment in September 2018). Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) to other managed from stabilized, effective May 8, 2018, and (2) to crawl-like from other managed, effective July 19, 2018. Data on the CBU interventions are published on the CBU website in quarterly “Survey of the Domestic Exchange Market” publications.

The official exchange rate of sum against the US dollar and the euro is determined by the CBU once a week as the weighted average exchange rate in trading sessions on the Currency Exchange for the previous week, and it remains in effect until the exchange rate is determined in the following week. Exchange rates of currencies not traded on the currency exchange are calculated using the cross rate with respect to the US dollar on the basis of the rate at the close of the previous trading day from the Reuters (or Bloomberg) system. In the event that a change in the exchange rate based on the results of trading in the currency exchange with respect to the CBU exchange rate exceeds 2%, the CBU sets a new exchange rate for foreign currencies. The new CBU exchange rate will be equal to the rate based on the results of trading in the currency exchange on the day of a sharp change in the exchange rate of the foreign currency. The CBU exchange rate is used for accounting purposes, statistical and other reporting on foreign exchange operations, and calculating customs and other mandatory payments within the Republic of Uzbekistan.

In the medium term, there will be a gradual transition to an inflation-targeting regime. At present, the monetary policy regime can be characterized as transitional, which covers the 2017–2021 period. Monetary policy decisions are made on the basis of an analysis and forecast of macroeconomic indicators. Until recently, the goal of the CBU was to ensure the stability of the national currency. Starting with 2018, the CBU oriented its monetary policy on the stability of prices in the economy. The ultimate goal in that regard was determined as slowing the growth rate of the level of inflation on the basis of the consumer price index and to maintain it at the sustainably low level by means of conducting appropriate monetary measures.

In the transition to inflation targeting, the inflation forecast becomes the intermediate goal of monetary policy, and the short-term interest rates in the money market become the operational goal.

The consumer price index is the basis for measuring a targeted inflation indicator. The consumer price index is calculated by the State Committee on Statistics based on IMF standards (using fixed weights for all types of goods and services) according to the results of the observation of prices and rates. A representative sample of 386 types of goods and services is included in observations. Of those, 112 are foodstuffs, 206 are nonfoods, and 68 are services. In calculating consumer price indices, a modified Laspeyres formula with annual fixed weights is used. The structure of consumer spending based on household survey data is used as weights for calculating the indices.

The CBU is accountable to the Republic of Uzbekistan Oliy Majlis Senate that considers the annual report and the auditor’s conclusion. Annually, before the beginning of the reporting year, the CBU submits “Basic Guidelines of Monetary Policy” to the Oliy Majlis Senate.

The foreign exchange market consists of: (1) the Republic of Uzbekistan Currency Exchange, where participants on trading sessions are commercial banks and the CBU; (2) the interbank foreign exchange market; (3) operations involving the purchase and sale of foreign currency between banks and their customers, which are performed directly at banks; (4) cash foreign exchange operations through exchange bureaus of commercial banks. Commercial banks’ operations with foreign currency are performed on the basis of a banking license. Effective January 12, 2018, banks are allowed to determine freely their bid/ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Along with foreign exchange transactions on the Currency Exchange, commercial banks (30 banks as of August 27, 2019) may perform foreign exchange transactions with each other (interbank foreign exchange market) and with clients by mutual agreement. Foreign Exchange transactions with individuals are performed through banks and their foreign exchange bureaus. Exchange bureaus buy cash foreign exchange from individual residents and nonresidents and sell it to individual nonresidents and, effective August 20, 2019, to individual residents (previously, the sale of foreign exchange to resident individuals was performed in cashless form through crediting their international bank cards). There are no private exchange bureaus. All exchange bureaus operate under commercial banks. Their operation is limited to the purchase and sale of and transactions related to cash foreign currency, such as exchanging damaged banknotes, providing change, etc. There are 992 exchange bureaus (as of July 1, 2019). Direct transactions are not performed between the CBU and exchange bureaus. In addition, there are 618 automatic currency exchange machines in operation (as of July 1, 2019).

According to the Cabinet of Minister Resolution No. 294 of July 10, 2001, the interbank trading sessions of the Uzbekistan Currency Exchange are held at least twice a week (de facto – daily), as follows: All banks may participate in trading sessions on the Currency Exchange. Before trading hours, banks place bids for the purchase and sale of foreign currency, which make up the total demand and supply on the Currency Exchange. The exchange rate set at the preceding interbank trading session serves as the starting exchange rate of a foreign currency to the national currency, sum. If the total supply of a foreign currency at the start of the trading session exceeds the total demand for it, the exchange operator lowers the exchange rate of the foreign currency to the sum. If the total supply of a foreign currency is less than the total demand for it, the exchange operator raises the exchange rate of the foreign currency to the sum. The minimum increment of change in the exchange rate of a foreign currency to the sum is 0.01 of a sum. A successive change in the exchange rate is made after the dealers have entered additional bids into the trading system to buy or sell foreign exchange at the last exchange rate announced by the exchange operator. Based on the difference between supply and demand, the exchange operator, with the consent of the trading session’s participants, may increase or decrease the increment of change in the exchange rate. If the sign of the difference between supply and demand changes on the receipt of a further additional bid to buy or sell, the last submitted bid is satisfied in an amount necessary to accomplish a fixing. A fixed exchange rate for a foreign currency to the national currency, the sum, is set for current trading when a balance is reached between supply and demand for that foreign currency. In such cases, the exchange operator announces a fixing and declares an end to the
As of December 31, 2018, there were 28 commercial banks. All banks may participate in interbank trading sessions on the Currency Exchange. Transactions in the interbank trading sessions of the Currency Exchange are performed in US dollars and, effective May 3, 2018, in euros on a spot basis at the exchange rate determined in trading. Uzbekistan Currency Exchange is responsible for trading and settlement. Before trading hours, banks place bids for the purchase and sale of foreign currency (including on behalf of their clients), which make up the total demand and supply in interbank trading sessions on the Currency Exchange. The CBU intervenes in interbank trading sessions on the Currency Exchange to smooth out undue short-term volatility. Being a direct supplier of monetary gold produced in Uzbekistan, the CBU acts as supplier in the foreign exchange in amounts equivalent to the volume of gold purchased from producers. The exchange rate in interbank trading sessions is established through fixing and is applied to all transactions concluded during the trading session. Banks buy and sell foreign exchange traded in interbank trading sessions on the Currency Exchange for their clients at the exchange rate set in interbank trading sessions on the Currency Exchange, plus/minus a margin that usually does not exceed 1%. In addition to the Currency Exchange, there is also a smaller-volume foreign exchange market in Uzbekistan when commercial banks may perform transactions with each other. Effective January 12, 2018, banks have been allowed to determine freely their bid/ask spread and commissions with their clients. (Previously, the commissions for these transactions could not exceed 2%.)

The OTC market consists of the interbank foreign exchange market and the market for foreign exchange transactions performed by banks with their clients, including cash currency exchange transactions with individuals.

Banks perform OTC swap transactions with clients. Swap transactions between banks and between the CBU and banks must be performed through the trading system of the Uzbekistan Currency Exchange.

The opening of accounts and transfer of funds abroad are performed on the basis of decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan; the purposes and rules for the use of foreign accounts are determined by those government decisions/treaties.

Banks may hold correspondent and other bank accounts with foreign banks for international remittances and placement of deposits without the CBU permission.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes.

Legal entities may convert funds in their accounts to foreign exchange through their commercial banks by purchasing funds for use for current international transactions. For the purchase of foreign exchange, enterprises and entities that are commercial banks’ customers must submit to their banks:

1. an application for conversion; and
2. a contract (agreement) with a foreign partner.

The sale of foreign exchange to individuals is performed without restriction and without submission of supporting documents, with the exception of the submission of a document identifying the individual (passport). Effective August 20, 2019, the sale of foreign exchange to resident individuals is also carried out in cash (previously, the purchased foreign exchange had to be credited to individuals’ bank cards). No document identifying the individual is required for the sale to him or her of cash foreign exchange in an amount equal to or under the equivalent of US$100.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Nonresidents may open and use bank accounts in Republic of Uzbekistan banks in foreign exchange and Republic of Uzbekistan currency.

For nonresident legal entities to open and use bank accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan, there is a mandatory requirement that they carry out activities in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

The CBU Procedures for Maintenance by Commercial Banks of Accounts in Foreign Exchange (Reg. No. 511 of September 5, 1998) provides for the following on the nonresident accounts in foreign currency.

Nonresident individuals may open accounts in foreign exchange in commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan and use foreign exchange funds in such accounts independently pursuant to law. The following may be credited to the accounts of nonresident individuals:

1. foreign exchange transferred from abroad in the name of the account owner and also from the owner’s accounts opened in other Republic of Uzbekistan banks;
2. foreign exchange payable by commercial banks:
   - according to payment documents in foreign exchange sent from abroad in the name of an account owner;
   - according to payment document in foreign exchange and bank cards imported from abroad;
   - according to registered payment documents in foreign exchange presented to a bank that do not have endorsements executed in the Republic of Uzbekistan;
3. cash foreign exchange:
   - imported from abroad by an account owner and registered by a customs authority on import into the Republic of Uzbekistan, or sent by registered mail to the address of a commercial bank for an account owner;
- not registered by customs on import into the Republic of Uzbekistan if completion of a customs declaration is not required;
- sent from abroad to the address of an account owner by mail;
- received and issued through international money transfer systems on the basis of supporting documents;
- withdrawn from bank payment cards of an account owner on the basis of an ATM (terminal) check;
- lawfully received in the Republic of Uzbekistan on the presentation of the relevant supporting documents;
- withdrawn from a bank account on the basis of supporting documents;

(4) interest in foreign exchange;
(5) other amounts transferred or received in cash under current law and Republic of Uzbekistan Central Bank regulatory acts.

Amounts held in the accounts of nonresident individuals may, on an account owner’s orders, be:
(1) transferred to the account owner’s other accounts with other Republic of Uzbekistan banks or abroad in the bank’s customary form (bank transfer, check, etc.);
(2) paid out in cash foreign exchange (payment documents in foreign exchange), including for export abroad. In this connection, permission for the export of foreign exchange is issued in an amount determined pursuant to current regulatory acts;
(3) paid out or transferred within the republic in sum at the current exchange rate for the purchase of foreign exchange as of the transaction date;
(4) used for the payment of commercial banks’ transaction fees;
(5) transferred to the account holder’s other accounts opened at other banks of the Republic of Uzbekistan, and also used for other purposes pursuant to current law and regulatory acts of the Republic of Uzbekistan Central Bank.

Foreign exchange accounts for nonresident legal entities are opened for foreign diplomatic and other official representative offices, and international organizations and their branches that enjoy immunity and diplomatic privileges, and the representative offices of foreign organizations in the Republic of Uzbekistan not engaged in business or other commercial activities.

The following may be credited to those accounts:
(1) foreign exchange transferred from abroad in the name of an account owner and also from an account owner’s accounts with other Republic of Uzbekistan banks;
(2) foreign exchange payable by commercial banks:
- in accordance with payment documents in foreign exchange sent from abroad in the name of an account owner;
- in accordance with payment documents in foreign exchange and bank cards imported from abroad by an account owner;
- in accordance with registered payment documents in foreign exchange presented to a bank that lack endorsements executed in the Republic of Uzbekistan;
(3) cash foreign exchange:
- imported from abroad by an account owner and registered by a customs authority on import into the Republic of Uzbekistan, or sent by registered mail to the address of a commercial bank or account owner;
- not registered by customs on import into the Republic of Uzbekistan if the completion of a customs declaration is not required;
- sent from abroad to the address of an account owner by mail;
(4) effective March 25, 2019, dividends and other income from investment activity in the Republic of Uzbekistan of a nonresident legal entity that created a representative office (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 511-12).

(5) other amounts transferred or received in cash form under current law and regulatory acts of the Republic of Uzbekistan Central Bank.

Amounts held in those accounts may, on an account owner’s orders, be:
(1) transferred abroad in a bank’s customary form (bank transfer, LC, check, etc.);
(2) used for the payment of a bank’s foreign exchange transaction fees, payment of expenses associated with employees’ business travel outside the Republic of Uzbekistan (including in cash form);
(3) paid or transferred within the republic in sum at the current exchange rate for the purchase of foreign exchange as of the transaction date;
(4) transferred to an account owner’s other accounts opened in other Republic of Uzbekistan banks, and used for other purposes pursuant to current law.

Foreign exchange funds of nonresidents engaged in activity in the Republic of Uzbekistan through a permanent establishment are kept in foreign exchange accounts with commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan and used by them pursuant to law.

The following may be credited to those accounts:
- foreign exchange transferred from abroad from the account of the nonresident that has established the permanent establishment;
- foreign exchange transferred from accounts of the permanent establishment opened in other Republic of Uzbekistan banks;
- effective July 28, 2018, foreign exchange purchased in the domestic foreign exchange market (amendments of July 28, 2018, No. 511-11);
- effective March 25, 2019, dividends and other income from investment activity in the Republic of Uzbekistan by a nonresident legal entity that has created a permanent establishment (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 511-12).

Funds in those accounts may, on an account owner’s orders, be:
- used for sale through commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan;
- used for the payment of expenses associated with employee business travel outside the Republic of Uzbekistan (including in cash) in accordance with established procedures;
- effective March 25, 2019, transferred to accounts outside the Republic of Uzbekistan (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 511-12);
- transferred to an account owner’s other accounts opened in other Republic of Uzbekistan banks, and also used for other purposes specified in current law.

Effective February 1, 2018, nonresident legal entities are authorized to open accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan commercial banks and perform the purchase (sale) of foreign exchange using funds obtained from the sale of products in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges.

According to the amendments to the Procedures for Maintenance by Commercial Banks of Accounts in Foreign Exchange (Reg. No. 511 of September 5, 1998), foreign exchange funds of the following nonresident legal entities could be kept in accounts opened with... commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan:
- effective July 28, 2018, nonresident legal entities participating in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges and
- effective March 25, 2019, nonresident legal entities purchasing (selling) shares of companies in organized trading.

Effective July 28, 2018, the following may be credited to those accounts:
- foreign exchange purchased in the internal foreign exchange market;
- foreign exchange transferred by an exchange broker on the basis of a brokerage agreement; and
- effective March 25, 2019, funds received from the purchase (sale) of shares in organized trading (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 511-12).

Effective July 28, 2018, funds held in those accounts may, on an account owner’s orders, be transferred to an account owner’s other accounts opened in banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan or outside the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Nonresidents may open and use bank accounts in banks of the Republic of Uzbekistan in foreign exchange and Republic of Uzbekistan currency.

For nonresident legal entities to open and use bank accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan, there is a mandatory requirement that they carry out activities in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

The CBU Procedures for Maintenance by Commercial Banks of Nonresidents’ Accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan Domestic Currency (CBU Reg. No. 510 of October 22, 1998) provides for the following on the nonresident accounts in domestic currency.

Accounts in domestic currency are opened for nonresident legal entities and individuals and foreign banks that have entered into the relevant agreements with Republic of Uzbekistan commercial banks.

Accounts of nonresident individuals in domestic currency are opened for foreign citizens temporarily located in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

The following funds in domestic currency may be credited to those accounts:
- funds imported by them into the Republic of Uzbekistan in accordance with the procedures established by law,
- funds acquired at exchange bureaus for foreign exchange in accordance with current procedures, and
- other amounts lawfully obtained in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Funds in domestic currency may be spent for payment of a nonresident individual’s current expenses during the time of his or her sojourn in the republic.

Accounts in domestic currency for nonresident legal entities are opened for:
- foreign diplomatic and other official representative offices,
- international organizations and their branches that enjoy diplomatic immunity and privileges,
- the representative offices of foreign organizations in the Republic of Uzbekistan that are not engaged in business or other commercial activities;
- participants in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges.
The following may be credited to the accounts of nonresident legal entities in domestic currency:
- proceeds from the sale of foreign exchange in the domestic foreign exchange market in accordance with procedures established by law;
- amounts of consular fees and other amounts lawfully obtained in the Republic of Uzbekistan;
- amounts received from the loro accounts of foreign banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan commercial banks from a parent enterprise abroad;
- amounts received in the form of donations and financial assistance;
- effective July 28, 2018, funds received from the sale of product in open electronic trading of commodities exchange;
- effective March 25, 2019, dividends and other income from investment activity in the Republic of Uzbekistan by a nonresident legal entity that has created a representative office or a permanent establishment (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 510-5);
- effective March 25, 2019, funds received from the purchase (sale) of shares in organized trading (amendments of February 16, 2019, No. 510-5);
- in other cases specified by the Republic of Uzbekistan Central Bank.

Funds from nonresidents’ accounts in domestic currency may, on an account owner’s orders, be used for payment of current expenses for their maintenance in the Republic of Uzbekistan (including rent; payment for utilities and other like services; the acquisition of goods and materials for supporting current activities; payment of rent for telecommunications channels; payment for the sending and delivery of cargo, mail, and periodicals; payment of wages and other employee compensation under employment contracts; employee business travel expenses; transfers of insurance premiums for mandatory and voluntary types of insurance; payment for treatment of employees in the event of accidents and illness), and for other purposes pursuant to current law.

Cash in domestic currency may be obtained from the account of a nonresident legal entity within the limits required for the payment of wages and other employee compensation under employment contracts, payment for employee business travel expenses, and for other purposes in accordance with the procedures established for resident legal entities. The limit on a nonresident’s cash is established by the servicing commercial bank in agreement with the account owner. A nonresident’s representative offices and branches must comply with the procedures for performing cash transactions established for Republic of Uzbekistan residents.

Domestic currency accounts of nonresidents at commercial banks of the Republic of Uzbekistan are convertible into foreign currency.

The Procedures for Commercial Banks’ Maintenance of Nonresidents’ Accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan Domestic Currency (Reg. No. 510 of October 22, 1998) were amended and

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
Effective February 8, 2018, pursuant to the Republic of Uzbekistan Presidential Resolution No. PP-3512 of February 6, 2018, “On Measures to Further Regularize the Movement of Goods by Individuals Across the Customs Border,” limits for duty-free imports of goods into the republic by an individual are set at: US$2,000 (two thousand) – when the customs border is crossed through Republic of Uzbekistan international airports; US$1,000 (one thousand) – when the customs border is crossed at rail and inland waterway crossings on the Republic of Uzbekistan state border, and US$300 (three hundred) – when the customs border is crossed at highway (pedestrian) crossings on the Republic of Uzbekistan state border; US$1,000 (one thousand) within one calendar quarter – for goods received to the address of an individual in international courier shipments; and US$100 (one hundred) – for goods received to the address of an individual in international postal shipments.

Previously, the limits for duty-free imports of goods by individuals were (1) US$10 for consumer goods imported from neighboring countries (Afghanistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan); and (2) US$1,000 for goods imported or received in international postal shipments from countries not indicated above. This provision did not apply to goods received from outside Uzbekistan and addressed to individuals.

For certain consumer goods, certificates of safety and quality are required. Certification is performed by the Uzbekistan’s Agency of Standardization, Metrology and Certification (Uzbekstandart).

In addition, certain goods are subject to hygiene certification (a sanitary-epidemiological finding). Furthermore, certain goods subject to control that cross the state border of the Republic of Uzbekistan must undergo a mandatory state veterinary inspection.

Import customs duty rates are approved in Resolution No. PP-1169 of August 5, 2009.

Ad valorem customs duty rates are applied at seven levels: 0%, 5%, 10%, 20%, 30%, 40%, and 70% of the customs value. Tariff concessions in the form of exemptions from the customs duty are granted for a number of goods as provided for in Article 297 of the Customs Code.

Pursuant to international agreements of the Republic of Uzbekistan, customs duties are not applied to goods (Article 300 of the Customs Code): (1) originating and imported into the customs territory from countries that are part of a free trade zone with the Republic of Uzbekistan or with which the Republic of Uzbekistan has established a free trade arrangement; (2) originating from Uzbekistan and exported from its customs territory to countries that are part of a free trade zone with Uzbekistan or with which Uzbekistan has established a free trade arrangement.

Customs duties are applied at the rates established by the customs tariff to goods originating from countries to which MFN status in terms of trade and economic relations has been granted, or the country of origin of which has not been determined, customs duty rates are doubled.

For goods imported into the customs territory and originating from developing countries, and from least developed countries, a national system of preferences granted by Uzbekistan may be established in accordance with the law.
Pursuant to Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 204 of April 30, 1999, on Rates for Customs Fees, customs fees for the customs processing of goods imported into the Republic of Uzbekistan are charged at the rate of 0.2% of the customs value, but not less than US$25 and not more than US$3,000. Pursuant to Article 299 of the Customs Code, a range of goods are exempted from the payment of customs fees for customs processing.

Pursuant to the Tax Code and Resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan No. PP-2455 of December 22, 2015, all goods imported into Uzbekistan are subject to a 20% VAT, with a number of exceptions.

An excise tax at a rate of 5–200% is levied on excisable goods imported into Uzbekistan (No. PP-2455 of December 22, 2015), with exceptions provided for in Article 230 of the Tax Code. Exemptions from customs duties, the VAT, and the excise tax may be granted in accordance with individual decisions of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Pursuant to Article 202 of the Republic of Uzbekistan Tax Code, turnover for the sale of goods (work, services) is subject to the VAT if the place of their sale is the Republic of Uzbekistan territory. Pursuant to Article 207 of the Tax Code, work and services provided by a Republic of Uzbekistan nonresident constitute the taxable turnover of the Republic of Uzbekistan taxpayer that receives the work or services, if the place of the sale is the Republic of Uzbekistan, and they are subject to the VAT.

Exports and Export Proceeds

The Republic of Uzbekistan has procedures according to which:

1. The period for the receipt of proceeds or reimportation of goods (work and services) in export transactions must not exceed:
   - 180 days from the day of the actual export of goods exported by resident founders to the address of entities abroad (trading houses, trading offices, subsidiaries, company stores, dealer networks, and consignment warehouses), or export by business entities that are members of the Republic of Uzbekistan Chamber of Commerce and Industry to the address of the Chamber’s trade investment houses; and
   - 120 days from the actual export of goods, work and services for all other exporters.

2. In the event of force majeure circumstances, the time period for the receipt of proceeds in foreign exchange is extended for the duration of the force majeure circumstances, as confirmed by the competent state authority where the force majeure circumstances occurred;

3. Exporters that are responsible for a delay in the receipt of proceeds in foreign exchange from abroad, and importers that have not arranged for the import into the republic and clearance of goods under the “release for free circulation” regime, the performance of work and provision of services for more than 30 banking days (60 banking days for small business entities and business sole proprietors), after the end of the established period, pay a fine to the republic budget:

- in the equivalent of 10% of the amount of the foreign exchange that has not been received or goods that have not been cleared under the “release for free circulation” regime (work not performed, services not provided) – in the case of a delay of up to 180 days above the established time period;
- in the equivalent of an additional 20% of the amount of the foreign exchange that has not been received or goods that have not been cleared under the “release for free circulation” regime (work not performed, services not provided) – in the case of a delay of from 180 to 365 days above the established time period;
- in the equivalent of an additional 70% of the amount of the foreign exchange that has not been received or goods that have not been cleared under the “release for free circulation” regime (work not performed, services not provided) – in the case of a delay of more than 365 days above the established time period.

In the event of the imposition of fines established in the Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 245 of June 29, 2000, regardless of the time period of the collection of overdue accounts receivable for foreign trade operations, repeat sanctions are not imposed for the same object of arrears and amount of the actual export of goods (work, services) on business entities;

(4) on the receipt in the account of business entities of the amount of an insurance payment (in the domestic currency and/or foreign exchange) under a policy insuring a foreign trade contract, the amount of accounts receivable under that foreign trade contract for purposes of the imposition of financial sanctions is reduced by the amount of the received insurance payment.

Business entities may export goods, work and services, excluding raw commodities, for foreign currency, without advance payment, opening of an LC, securing of a bank guarantee, or the existence of an insurance policy protecting export contracts against political and commercial risk.

The conditions of this subparagraph do not apply to exports of fruits and vegetables performed by individual entrepreneurs.

The raw commodities include cotton fiber, cotton yarn, cotton lint, crude oil, gas condensate, petroleum products, natural gas, electric power, precious metals, nonferrous metals, rolled nonferrous metals, nonferrous metal scrap and by-products, ferrous metals, rolled ferrous metals, and ferrous metal scrap and by-products.

The performance of clearing settlements for export-import operations of Republic of Uzbekistan enterprises and entities with foreign partners through firms’ accounts in foreign banks is prohibited. All funds in foreign exchange obtained from enterprises’ business activities must be credited to their accounts in foreign exchange in commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan. Enterprises are liable for the timely and complete receipt in their accounts of proceeds for shipped goods and services provided. Enterprises’ crediting of foreign exchange proceeds to accounts opened in foreign banks without authorization of the Republic of Uzbekistan Central Bank is classified as concealment.

At the same time, in the event of a decision by the President or government, or an international agreement, accounts may be opened at foreign banks by residents and used exclusively for the purposes provided for by decisions of the President or government, or the terms of an international agreement.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions | Yes. Foreign exchange transactions in connection with loans from nonresidents guaranteed by the Government of the Republic of Uzbekistan must be registered for accounting purposes with the MOF.
Other foreign exchange transactions associated with the movement of capital that are not guaranteed by the government are subject to banks’ accounting regulations and they are reported to the CBU.
Credits not guaranteed by the Government of the Republic of Uzbekistan are subject to CBU registration based on a notification procedure.
The following residents’ transactions involving the placement of capital abroad are permitted if there are relevant decisions of the President or Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international agreements of Republic of Uzbekistan:
- investment activity in an amount in excess of US$10,000 through the transfer of funds by residents to accounts abroad as a contribution to the authorized capital of foreign companies or for replenishment of working assets of their own foreign subsidiaries;
- providing loans in the form of cash and goods (services), or leasing operations;
- transfer of funds to deposits at foreign banks, and also for the purchase of real property abroad.

The Agency’s main tasks are:
- implementation of a common state policy in the formation, development, and regulation of the securities market and corporate governance;
- protection of the rights and lawful interests of investors performing transactions with securities as well as securities’ holders;
- oversight of compliance with the legislation on the securities market and the legislation on joint-stock companies and protection of shareholders’ rights;
- keeping investors and the public informed of the development status of the domestic capital market and its professional participants;
- facilitating the introduction of new types of financial instruments to allow for the attraction of the necessary resources for the financing of investment projects;
- licensing of stock exchanges and professional participants in the securities market;
- effective cooperation with foreign and international institutions in the development and regulation of the capital market.

Oversight of procedures for the circulation of securities in foreign currency, acquisition by residents of securities in foreign currency, and acquisition by nonresidents of securities issued by residents is established by the Agency for Development of the Capital Market and the CBU.

Settlement and clearing (SCH) activities for foreign currency and deposits of foreign currency for securities transactions are also regulated. There are procedures for the interaction among trading participants, payments for securities, controls on SCH transactions, and SCH liability.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No. Nonresidents may purchase for domestic and foreign currency any securities admitted for circulation in Uzbekistan, unless their terms of issue prohibit nonresidents from holding these securities. Nonresidents must obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition of the securities of resident banks. Legal entity acquirers registered in offshore zones may not acquire the shares of resident banks. Obtaining the prior CBU permission for the acquisition of bank shares by nonresidents is performed pursuant to the Republic of Uzbekistan Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 56 of March 10, 2014, “On Approving Regulations on the Procedures for Business Entities to Undergo Permitting Procedures in the Banking Sector.” The need to obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition by nonresidents of shares of resident banks is not a form of control of the capital movement.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014, establishes quotas and the procedure for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. Item 4 of the Regulation establishes the conditions for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. According to item 5 of the Regulation, securities issued by nonresidents may be placed in Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), through the issuing of an Uzbek Depositary Receipt (UDR) representing the given securities. UDRs are subject to state registration by the authorized government agency.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. The placement of assets by legal entities outside Uzbekistan is governed by foreign exchange regulation law. The procedure for the acquisition of securities in foreign currency by residents is established by the Agency for Development of the Capital Market, together with the CBU. The acquisition of securities by institutional investors is performed within the limits established by law. The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that investment activities above US$10,000 by transferring the funds by residents on accounts abroad to directly invest in share capital of foreign companies, or to add operational funds to own foreign subsidiaries are permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Pursuant to the Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014: securities issued by a resident may be placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), unless otherwise established by the laws of the Republic of Uzbekistan; the placement and circulation of securities issued by a resident outside Uzbekistan are carried out according to the laws of the respective country on securities of foreign issuers, unless otherwise established by international agreements of the Republic of Uzbekistan; securities issued by a resident are placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in the form of depositary receipts issued by a foreign depositary, in accordance with the laws of the country in which their placement and circulation are allowed. The placement and circulation outside Uzbekistan of securities issued by a resident that is a commercial company in which the state holds a stake, and that is of strategic importance to the country’s economy, are subject to prior review by the Commission to Increase the Efficiency of Joint-Stock Companies and Improve the Corporate Governance System. Effective October 1, 2018, the activity of this Commission was terminated.

The Republic of Uzbekistan Law on the Securities Market (No. ZRU-387 of June 4, 2015), the Law on Joint-Stock Companies and Protection of Shareholders’ Rights (No. ZRU-370 of May 7, 2014), and the Regulations on the Issuing of Securities and State Registration of Issuable Securities (Reg. No. 2000 of August 30, 2009) establishes the conditions for the issuing and procedures for the state registration of corporate and infrastructure bonds. According to Article 6 of the Law on the Securities Market of June 4, 2015, corporate bonds are issued in observance of the following conditions: within the limits of the issuer’s equity capital as of the date the decision is made to issue the bonds, as confirmed by an auditing firm; by issuers that have posted positive profitability, solvency, financial stability, and liquidity indicators over the past three years, as confirmed by an auditing firm, and that have also received an independent rating following the procedure established by law; with the participation of commercial banks performing the functions of payment agents when issuers pay funds because of investors.

In addition, Article 30 of the Law on Joint-Stock Companies and Protection of Shareholders’ Rights states that a joint-stock company has the right to issue secured corporate bonds up to the amount of its equity capital as of the date the decision is made to issue the bonds. Pursuant to Article 53 of the Law on the Securities Market of June 4, 2015, the issuing of corporate bonds prior to the formation of the issuer’s statutory capital is prohibited (with the exception of cases involving the formation of commercial banks’ statutory capital), and it is also prohibited to issue bonds for the purpose of replenishing statutory capital or covering losses related to the issuer’s financial and commercial activities; after a bond issue has been registered, the issuer may not make changes to a decision to issue bonds with regard to the rights under the bonds as established in the decision.

Pursuant to Items 13 and 14 of the Regulation on the Procedure for the Circulation of Securities in Foreign Currency in the Republic of Uzbekistan, the Acquisition of Securities in Foreign Currency by Residents, and the Acquisition by Nonresidents of Securities Issued by Residents (Reg. No. 1692 of June 22, 2007), nonresidents may purchase for domestic and foreign currency any securities admitted for circulation in Uzbekistan, unless their terms of issue prohibit nonresidents from holding these securities. A minimum holding period requirement is not regulated by the law.

The Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014, establishes quotas and the procedure for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. Item 4 of the Regulation establishes the conditions for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. According to item 5 of the Regulation, securities issued by nonresidents may be placed in Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), through the issuing of a UDR representing the given securities. UDRs are subject to state registration by the authorized government agency.

The legislation on foreign exchange regulation governs the placement of assets by legal entities outside Uzbekistan. The procedure for the acquisition of securities in foreign currency by residents is established by the Agency for Development of the Capital Market, together with the CBU. The acquisition of securities by institutional investors is performed within the limits established by law.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.

Pursuant to the Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014; securities issued by a resident may be placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), unless otherwise established by the laws of the Republic of Uzbekistan; the placement and circulation of securities issued by a resident outside Uzbekistan are carried out according to the laws of the respective country on securities of foreign issuers, unless otherwise established by international agreements of the Republic of Uzbekistan; securities issued by a resident are placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in the form of depositary receipts issued by a foreign depositary, in accordance with the laws of the country in which their placement and circulation are allowed.

The placement and circulation outside Uzbekistan of securities issued by a resident that is a commercial company in which the state holds a stake, and that is of strategic importance to the country’s economy, are subject to prior review by the Commission to Increase the Efficiency of Joint-Stock Companies and Improve the Corporate Governance System. Effective October 1, 2018, the activity of this Commission was terminated.

On money market instruments  Yes.

Resident commercial banks and other legal entities may hold certificates of deposit. Resident legal entities may be dealers in the short-term government bond market and may hold bonds. Medium-term government treasury bonds are placed among resident commercial banks and legal entities and may be used for collateralization of loans and for repo and reverse repo transactions (transactions of purchase and sale of securities with buyback).

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.

On collective investment securities  Yes.

The Republic of Uzbekistan Law on Investment and Mutual Funds of August 26, 2015 (No. ZRU-392 of August 25, 2015), and the Regulation on Investment Funds, approved by the Cabinet of Ministers Resolution of September 25, 1998, establish procedures governing the activities of investment and mutual funds that stipulate that they must be managed by licensed management companies (investment fund fiduciary managers).

The recording of titles to securities issued and belonging to investment funds is handled by the Central Depository, unless otherwise established by law.

The registration of a mutual fund is performed by the Central Securities Depository through the recording of investment shares after the mutual fund has been entered in the Uniform Registry of Mutual Funds.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Nonresidents may purchase for domestic and foreign currency any securities admitted for circulation in Uzbekistan, unless their terms of issue prohibit nonresidents from holding these securities.

Founders establish entities abroad by a decision of a founder’s governing authority whose competence includes, under constituent documents, the decision to establish entities abroad. The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that investment activities above US$10,000 by transferring the funds by residents on accounts abroad to directly invest in share capital of foreign companies, or to add operational funds to own foreign subsidiaries are permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.

Inward direct investment: No.

Pursuant to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, there are no restrictions on the attraction of FDIs into Uzbekistan and the repatriation of them, or on the exercise of rights acquired in connection with making direct foreign investments. Investors may establish foreign investment enterprises (FIEs), a form of direct investment, by registering with the Ministry of Justice and its regional offices. Effective August 2, 2018, a firm may acquire FIE status as follows: (1) It must have at least US$50,000 (SUM 400 mil.) in statutory capital (previously, US$150,000). (2) One participant must be a foreign legal entity or individual (previously, it was the requirement for the mandatory participation of a foreign legal entity as a member of an FIE). (3) At least 15% of its statutory capital must be foreign investment (previously, 30%).

Nonresidents must obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition of the securities of resident banks. Legal entities registered in offshore zones may not acquire shares of resident banks. The need to obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition by nonresidents of shares of resident banks is not a form of control of the movement of capital.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment: No.

Pursuant to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, there are no restrictions on the attraction to Uzbekistan of FDIs or their repatriation or the exercise of rights acquired in connection with the execution of FDIs.

The Ministry of Justice and its regional offices oversee FIEs’ compliance with their statutory obligations and the procedures for their registration and liquidation.

Controls on real estate transactions: Yes.

The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that transferring of funds by residents to nonresidents for the purpose of purchasing real estate is permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.

Investment funds are legal entities in the form of open joint-stock companies that issue shares for the purpose of placing investors’ resources in securities and other assets in accordance with the law and in bank accounts and deposits. Investment funds may not be converted to other types of legal entities. Pursuant to Article 13 of the Republic of Uzbekistan Law on Investment and Mutual Funds of August 26, 2015, an investment fund does not have the right: to operate without a license; to issue corporate and infrastructure bonds, or preferred shares; to invest more than 10% of the investment fund’s net assets in the securities of a single issuer or in the shares of a limited liability company; to attract loans and/or borrowed funds if the aggregate amount of debt to be repaid will exceed 15% of the value of the investment fund’s net assets as of the date the credit and/or loan agreement is signed (and the duration of the credit and/or loan may not exceed three months); to serve as a surety, or to pledge property or property rights; to make investments in securities and shares of commercial companies whose organizational-legal form imposes additional liability on their partners; to make investments in securities issued by a fiduciary manager or by auditing firms, or to acquire stakes in their statutory capital; to acquire and hold shares of other investment funds; to enter into transactions not related to investment activity, or to acquire options or futures; to make investments in a total amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s net assets (other than investments in securities issued by or in the shares of the fund itself). | securities).

According to Article 17 of the Law, the monetary assets of a mutual fund may not be: invested in the securities of a single issuer or in shares of a limited liability company in an amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s investment assets; invested in securities and shares of commercial companies whose organizational-legal form imposes additional liability on their partners; invested in securities issued by a fiduciary manager or by auditing firms, or used to acquire stakes in their statutory capital; used for purposes not related to investment activity; invested in a total amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s investment assets (other than investments in securities).

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes. Pursuant to Article 15 of the Law on the Securities Market of June 3, 2015, the issuance and circulation of securities in Uzbekistan are subject to registration, unless the legislation provides otherwise. The cabinet of ministers establishes quotas and the procedure for circulation in Uzbekistan of securities issued by nonresidents. The quotas and procedures are the same as for capital market securities.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes. Investment funds may not invest in securities of enterprises that have not been registered by the government or that conduct their business principally outside Uzbekistan.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes. Investment funds may not (1) acquire the common stock of any joint-stock company if the acquisition leads to ownership of more than 10% of the stock by entities affiliated with the investment fund; (2) invest more than 10% of their net assets in the securities of a single issuer or in the stakes (participation shares) of a limited liability company established on the basis of a privatized enterprise, with the exception of government securities; or (3) exchange stocks issued by the fund for stocks of joint-stock companies established in the process of denationalization (privatization) in an amount exceeding 5% of the net assets of the investment fund.

Pursuant to Article 13 of the Republic of Uzbekistan Law on Investment and Mutual Funds of August 26, 2015, an investment fund does not have the right: to serve as a surety, or to pledge property or property rights; to make investments in securities and shares of commercial companies whose organizational-legal form imposes additional liability on their partners; to make investments in securities issued by a fiduciary manager or by auditing firms, or to acquire stakes in their statutory capital; to acquire and hold shares of other investment funds; to enter into transactions not related to investment activity, or to acquire options or futures; to make investments in a total amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s net assets (other than investments in securities).

According to Article 17 of the Law, the monetary assets of a mutual fund may not be: invested in the securities of a single issuer or in shares of a limited liability company in an amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s investment assets; invested in securities and shares of commercial companies whose organizational-legal form imposes additional liability on their partners; invested in securities issued by a fiduciary manager or by auditing firms, or used to acquire stakes in their statutory capital; used for purposes not related to investment activity; invested in a total amount that exceeds 10% of the fund’s investment assets (other than investments in securities).

Exchange Arrangement

Exchange rate structure

Unitary 01/01/2018  Uzbekistan has a unitary exchange rate structure (as in September 2017, the official and parallel market exchange rates were unified) that led to a depreciation of the domestic currency by 50%. This unification along with other implemented measures resulted in unrestricted access to foreign exchange and elimination of the additional cost for purchasing foreign exchange.

Classification

Crawl-like arrangement 07/19/2018  From mid-July 2018, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar, with one realignment in September 2018. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from other managed.

Other managed arrangement 05/08/2018  From May 2018, the exchange rate increased its volatility and departed from the stabilized arrangement. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to other managed from stabilized.

Foreign exchange market

01/12/2018  Banks are allowed to determine freely their bid/ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Spot exchange market 08/20/2019  Exchange bureaus were allowed to sell foreign exchange in cash to individual residents. Previously, the sale of foreign exchange to resident individuals was performed in cashless form through crediting their international bank cards.

Operated by the central bank

Fixing 05/03/2018  In addition to US dollars, spot transactions at Uzbekistan Currency Exchange are performed in euros.

Interbank market 01/12/2018  Banks have been allowed to determine freely their bid/ask spread and commissions with their clients. Previously, the commissions for these transactions could not exceed 2%.

05/03/2018  In addition to US dollars, transactions in the interbank trading sessions of the Currency Exchange are performed in euros on a spot basis at the exchange rate determined in trading.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Administration of control 07/24/2018  The Accounting Office became the foreign exchange oversight authority in addition to the Central Bank of Uzbekistan, the MOF, the State Tax Committee, and the State Customs Committee.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) 03/01/2019  Industrial producers, as well as legal entities and individual entrepreneurs engaged in the production of jewelry and other articles made of precious metals and gemstones, may purchase precious metals in exchange trading.

05/18/2019  Commercial banks and jewelry makers were granted the right to buy gold from producers, as well as to sell purchased precious metals to other jewelry makers.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

On exports

Foreign currency 01/01/2018  The export of cash foreign exchange by individuals within an amount equivalent to US$5,000 may be performed without any permission. The completion of customs declaration in case of export by an individual (resident or nonresident) of cash foreign exchange up to the equivalent of US$2,000 is not required. In the case of the export by an individual of cash foreign exchange in excess of an amount equivalent to US$2,000, the total amount of exported cash foreign exchange is declared in writing. Export of an amount more than US$5,000 is carried out as follows: by residents – with the Central Bank of Uzbekistan (CBU) permission; by nonresidents – based on the customs declaration completed at the time of entry of the Uzbekistan, where the amount of cash foreign exchange is not less than the amount to be exported. In case of export of foreign exchange cash in excess of the established amount by nonresidents who are prizewinners or participants in competitions, contests, and Olympiads organized in Uzbekistan, the basis for the export of foreign exchange cash is a document confirming the legality of receipt of the foreign exchange cash.

Previously, resident individuals were allowed to export foreign currency cash up to the equivalent of US$2,000 without restriction; amounts of US$2,000 to US$5,000 required the permission from the CBU or an authorized bank; amounts greater than US$5,000 required the CBU permission. Nonresident individuals were allowed to export foreign currency cash up to the amount imported and declared to customs; exports of foreign currency cash in excess of this amount require permission from the CBU or a bank.

Resident Accounts

The sale of foreign exchange to resident individuals is also carried out in cash (previously, the purchased foreign exchange had to be credited to individuals’ bank cards). No document identifying the individual is required for the sale to him or her of cash foreign exchange in an amount equal to or under the equivalent of US$100.

Nonresident Accounts

Nonresident legal entities are authorized to open accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan commercial banks and perform the purchase (sale) of foreign exchange using funds obtained from the sale of product in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges.

The Procedures for Maintenance by Commercial Banks of Accounts in Foreign Exchange (Reg. No. 511 of September 5, 1998) were amended and provide that foreign exchange funds of nonresident legal entities participating in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges are kept in accounts opened in commercial banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan.

The following may be credited to those accounts:
- foreign exchange purchased in the internal foreign exchange market;
- foreign exchange transferred by an exchange broker on the basis of a brokerage agreement.

Funds held in those accounts may, on an account owner’s orders, be transferred to an account owner’s other accounts opened in banks in the Republic of Uzbekistan or outside the Republic of Uzbekistan.

07/28/2018

The Procedures for Commercial Banks’ Maintenance of Nonresidents’ Accounts in the Republic of Uzbekistan Domestic Currency (Reg. No. 510 of October 22, 1998) were amended and provide that funds received from the sale of products in open electronic trading on commodity exchanges by nonresident legal entities may be deposited to their accounts at commercial banks and used for the purchase of foreign currency.

Nonresident legal entities performing the purchase/sale of companies’ shares in organized trading may open accounts in domestic currency in the Republic of Uzbekistan commercial banks and perform the purchase/sale of foreign exchange.

Imports and Import Payments

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports

Preshipment inspection

Preshipment inspection of goods imported into the Republic of Uzbekistan is performed on a voluntary basis. Previously, preshipment inspection was mandatory for imports of meat and edible meat by-products; dairy products; oils, seeds, and fruits; alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages; tobacco products; and equipment, mechanical devices, and electrical machinery imported as part of the Uzbekistan Investment Program. Preshipment inspection was not required for delivery of goods under contracts of less than US$10,000 or for specific goods imported under MFERIT licenses.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures

Preshipment inspection 03/26/2018

Pursuant to Presidential Decree No. PP-4422 of August 22, 2019, a ban was imposed on imports of used generator equipment, step-down transformers, electric motors, and energy consuming equipment with an energy efficiency rating of D.

Pursuant to the Republic of Uzbekistan Presidential Resolution No. PP-3512 of February 6, 2018, “On Measures to Further Regularize the Movement of Goods by Individuals Across the Customs Border,” limits for duty-free imports of goods into the republic by an individual are set at: US$2,000 (two thousand) – when the customs border is crossed through Republic of Uzbekistan international airports; US$1,000 (one thousand) – when the customs border is crossed at rail and inland waterway crossings on the Republic of Uzbekistan state border; US$1,000 (one thousand) within one calendar quarter – for goods received to the address of an individual in international courier shipments; and US$100 (one hundred) – for goods received to the address of an individual in international postal shipments.

Previously, the limits for duty-free imports of goods by individuals were (1) US$10 for consumer goods imported from neighboring countries (Afghanistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan); and (2) US$1,000 for goods imported or received in international postal shipments from countries not indicated above. This provision did not apply to goods received from outside Uzbekistan and addressed to individuals.

The main objectives of monetary policy are (1) low and stable inflation and (2) a sufficient level of official foreign exchange reserves. Specifically, the RBV aims for consumer price index (CPI) inflation in the 0%–4% range and aims to maintain foreign reserve cover of at least four months of imports. The RBV achieves these objectives by pegging the vatu to an undisclosed basket of currencies, targeting excess reserves in the banking system through its open market operations, and periodically adjusting its rediscount rate and the statutory reserve requirement in line with economic and financial conditions.

The importation of frozen chicken pieces, T-shirts bearing a Vanuatu motif, firearms and ammunition, animals and plants, and transistor and telephone equipment is restricted through import-licensing arrangements. A similar restriction is applied to the importation of rice, sugar, flour, canned fish, and tobacco products. Bans are in effect for health reasons on imports of animals and animal products from Europe and the United Kingdom, as well as on imports of chicken and poultry products from Victoria and New South Wales, Australia.

The import duty structure consists of eight rates, ranging from 0% to 30%, with the 30% rate applying to most goods. Most basic items are subject to a 5% duty. Approved goods imported under the MSG, PICTA, and PACER trade agreements are duty free. These goods require certificates of origin issued to exporters and importers by the member countries. Goods imported or delivered from bonded houses are also duty free. A 35% duty applies to certain imported products in the protected goods category, except for six items covered under the MSG trade agreement, to which a 40% duty applies. In addition, a 40% duty, which decreases by 2% a year, is applied to ice cream, fruit juice, meat, and soap, and duties of VT 350 and VT 315 are applied to fuel and paint, respectively. As a result of free trade under the MSG trade agreement, excise tax rates have been increased and extended to additional excisable products (domestic and imported). Customs uses the harmonized system of tariffs (2007 version). Vanuatu became a WTO member in 2012 and has agreed to bind all its tariff rates.

Export licenses
Yes. The exportation of logs and flitches is banned for environmental reasons. Under special circumstances, small parcels of logs may be exported if they cannot be processed in Vanuatu. Proposals to export logs require approval of the council of ministers. Export permits—whose issuance is coordinated by the Environment Unit and the Forestry Department—are required for rare and endangered species. The exportation of sandalwood logs is banned, and sandalwood must be processed locally before exportation.

Without quotas
Yes. For conservation purposes, exports of certain products, including trochus, green snails, bêches-de-mer, mother-of-pearl, aquarium fish, crustaceans, and coconut crabs, are subject to authorization. The annual quota of bêches-de-mer that may be exported from Vanuatu is 26 tons, and they must be of a specified size. Exports of copra and cocoa take place through the Vanuatu Commodities Marketing Board. Exports of kava, a prescribed commodity under the Vanuatu Commodities Marketing Board, must be authorized by the Quarantine Office. Exports of artifacts of exceptional value, either as a result of ceremonial use or because they are more than 10 years old, are subject to authorization from the Vanuatu Cultural Center.

The Vanuatu Investment Promotion Authority has recommended a few amendments for the control of investment in Vanuatu; however, these have not yet been implemented. The Vanuatu Investment Promotion Authority board, however, has decided to limit the operation of land transport services and wholesale and retail business to the central business district of Port Vila.

Following the most recent Land Summit, reports have been submitted to facilitate controls on real estate transactions. However, no action has been taken yet.

In accordance with the Vanuatu Financial Transactions Reporting Act for the Prevention of Money Laundering, all inflow and outflow... transactions exceeding VT 1 million must be reported to the Vanuatu Financial Intelligence Unit. An exemption list, including transactions exceeding VT 1 million of certain banks’ customers, is specified. Amendments are currently under consideration to review the amount.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency: Yes. The monetary unit of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela is the bolivar “soberano,” in accordance with Article 318 of the Effective February 14, 2018, Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at BsF/US$5,189.56 (buying) and BsF/US$5202.57 (selling) on May 13, 2019. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 13, 2019, the parallel exchange rate stood at 5698.53 bolivars per dollar, according to DolarToday. Previously, the following exchange rates existed. Since March 10, 2016, a fixed exchange rate called the Protected Exchange Rate (DIPRO) (Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 published in the Official Gazette G.O. No. 40,865 on March 9, 2016) was set at Bs 10.000/US$ (selling) and Bs 9.975/US$ (buying). After the entry into force of Exchange Arrangement (EA) No. 35, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the acquisition of foreign currency for the importation of the goods determined by the Ministries of Industry and Commerce and of Banking and Finance—with the previous opinion of the Vice-presidency of the Republic and the Venezuelan Central Bank (in English: VCB or in Spanish: BCV—Banco Central de Venezuela) in lists of products and tariff codes of the food and health sectors and raw materials and consumable supplies associated with the production of the same. The list of the relevant customs tariff codes will be published on the Foreign Trade Center’s website CENCOEX (National Foreign Trade Center). The DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for conversion of pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors paid by the Venezuelan Institute of Social Security (Instituto Venezolano de los Seguros Sociales—IVSS) to persons residing abroad. Also, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for expenses for recovery of health, sports, culture, scientific research, and other cases of special urgency defined in the exchange rules. The DIPRO rate was used for the payment of foreign public debt, and for the settlement of imports of goods published in the list of customs tariff codes, channeled through the Reciprocal Payments and Credits Agreements entered into with the CBs of the LAIA (in Spanish: ALADI) member countries, the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic, as well as the operating banks authorized to process transactions through the Unitary System of Regional Payment Compensation (SUCRE). Variable exchange rates: There were additional four official exchange rates, namely: (1) The rate produced by the Complementary Foreign Exchange Administration System (Sistema complementario de administracion de divisas—SICAD) in special auctions or from securities denominated in foreign currencies issued through the system, which stood at Bs/US$13.15 at end-2015—no auctions were held in 2016 (Exchange Agreement (EA) No. 26 of April 3, 2014, published in G.O. No. 40,391 of April 10, 2014). (2) The rate derived from the Alternative Foreign Exchange System (SICAD II), which corresponds to the weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis through this system. However, it should be noted that SICAD II operations were suspended February 12, 2015, therefore the applicable exchange rate is the rate from the system’s last trading session published on the website of the BCV, which is Bs/US$51.9710 (buying) and Bs/US$52.1013 (selling). (3) The weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis in highly liquid markets and in securities regulated under Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015, which stood at Bs/US$672.0772 (buying) and Bs/US$673.7617 (selling) at end-2016. Since March 10, 2016, the rate established as the DICOM under Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 of March 9, 2016 (G.O. No. 40,865 of the same date). Pursuant to Article 17 of that Agreement, until the alternative foreign exchange markets provided for in Exchange Agreement No. 33 are replaced, the DICOM will be the rate referenced in Article 24 of the latter Exchange Agreement. It should also be noted that, pursuant to Article 13 of the aforesaid Exchange Agreement No. 35, all foreign exchange operations not expressly stated in the Exchange Agreement (EA) will be settled through the alternative foreign exchange markets regulated by the exchange regulations at the DICOM. The transactions of sale of foreign currency for payment of consumption and advances of cash with credit cards and acquisition of cash for minors, because of trips abroad, were applied the DICOM rate of exchange in effect at the time when the transaction is made or when the cash is delivered. The sale of foreign currency from the activities of exportation to the VCB made by natural persons and private legal persons was made at the DICOM rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%.

Effective May 2, 2019, individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interacted under BCV’s control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks. The BCV continues publishing the DICOM rate daily, resulting in two legal foreign exchange rates.

Yes. The de jure exchange rate is a conventional peg against the US dollar. Effective February 14, 2018, the DICOM is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at BsF/US$5,189.56 (buying) and BsF/US$5202.57 (selling) on May 13, 2019. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 13, 2019, the parallel EXR stood at 5698.53 bolivars per dollar, according to DolarToday. Previously, the following exchange rate existed. Since March 10, 2016, a fixed exchange rate called the Protected Exchange Rate (DIPRO) (Exchange Agreement No. 35 published in the Official Gazette G.O. No. 40,865 on March 9, 2016) was set at Bs 10.000/US$ (selling) and Bs 9.975/US$ (buying). After the entry into force of Exchange Arrangement (EA) No. 35, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the acquisition of foreign currency for the importation of the goods determined by the Ministries of Industry and Commerce and of Banking and Finance—with the previous opinion of the Vice-presidency of the Republic and the Venezuelan Central Bank (in English: VCB or in Spanish: BCV—Banco Central de Venezuela) in lists of products and tariff codes of the food and health sectors and raw materials and consumable supplies associated with the production of the same. The DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for conversion of pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors paid by the Venezuelan Institute of Social Security (Instituto Venezolano de los Seguros Sociales—IVSS) to persons residing abroad. Also, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for expenses for recovery of health, sports, culture, scientific research, and other cases of special urgency defined in the exchange rules. The DIPRO rate was used for the payment of foreign public debt, and for the settlement of imports of goods published in the list of customs tariff codes, channeled through the Reciprocal Payments and Credits Agreements entered into with the CBs of the LAIA (in Spanish: ALADI) member countries, the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic, as well as the operating banks authorized to process transactions through the Unitary System of Regional Payment Compensation (SUCRE). Variable exchange rates: There were additional four official exchange rates, namely: (1) The rate produced by the Complementary Foreign Exchange Administration System (Sistema complementario de administracion de divisas—SICAD) in special auctions or from securities denominated in foreign currencies issued through the system, which stood at Bs/US$13.15 at end-2015—no auctions were held in 2016 (Exchange Agreement (EA) No. 26 of April 3, 2014, published in G.O. No. 40,391 of April 10, 2014). (2) The rate derived from the Alternative Foreign Exchange System (SICAD II), which corresponds to the weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis through this system. However, it should be noted that SICAD II operations were suspended February 12, 2015, therefore the applicable exchange rate is the rate from the system’s last trading session published on the website of the BCV, which is Bs/US$51.9710 (buying) and Bs/US$52.1013 (selling). (3) The weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis in highly liquid markets and in securities regulated under Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015, which stood at Bs/US$672.0772 (buying) and Bs/US$673.7617 (selling) at end-2016. Article 31 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 establishes that the conversion of foreign currency for the determination of the taxable amount of tax obligations derived from customs operations will be carried out at the DICOM exchange rate in effect on the date of the operation. Article 33 indicates that the exchange rate to be used for foreign currency conversion for the determination of the amounts to be paid because of the customs and tax penalties regimes will be the DICOM exchange rate at the date of the corresponding sanction. The tax obligations established in special laws, as well as the rates, commissions, surcharges, and public prices that have been set in the corresponding regulations in foreign currency, may be paid alternatively in the currency in which they are denominated, in their equivalent in other foreign currency in accordance with the price published for that purpose by the Central Bank of Venezuela (BCV), or in bolivars applying the DICOM in force at the date of the transaction. (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 34).

Effective May 2, 2019, individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interacted under BCV’s control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks. The BCV continues publishing the DICOM rate daily. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed.

Official exchange rate  Yes. Effective February 14, 2018, DICOM is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at Bs/US$79,800 (buying) and Bs/US$80,000 (selling) on May 29, 2018. The operations of sale of foreign currencies to the BCV must be carried out at the exchange rate set forth in Article 11 of Exchange Agreement No. 39, reduced by 0.25% (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 28). The value of the exchange rate in bolivars resulting from the auction will be the lowest price proposed by the legal entities demanding foreign currency that is awarded, that is, the marginal value on the claims awarded to legal persons (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 3). All operations for settlement of foreign currencies not expressly provided for in this Exchange Agreement will be processed through the alternative markets regulated in the exchange regulations, at the DICOM (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 30). Previously, the following official rates applied. Since March 10, 2016, a fixed exchange rate called the Protected Exchange Rate (DIPRO) (Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 published in the Official Gazette G.O. No. 40,865 on March 9, 2016) was set at Bs 10.000/US$ (selling) and Bs 9.975/US$ (buying). sectors and raw materials and consumable supplies associated with the production of the same. The list of the relevant customs tariff codes will be published on the Foreign Trade Center’s website CENCOEX. The DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for conversion of pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors paid by the National Institute of Social Security (IVSS) to persons residing abroad. Also, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for expenses for recovery of health, sports, culture, scientific research, and other cases of special urgency defined in the exchange rules. (4) Since March 10, 2016, the rate established as the DICOM under Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 of March 9, 2016 (G.O. No. 40,865 of the same date). Pursuant to Article 17 of that Agreement, until the alternative foreign exchange markets provided for in Exchange Agreement No. 33 are replaced, the DICOM will be the rate referenced in Article 24 of the latter Exchange Agreement. It should also be noted that, pursuant to Article 13 of the aforesaid Exchange Agreement No. 35, all foreign exchange operations not expressly stated in the Exchange Agreement will be settled through the alternative foreign exchange markets regulated by the exchange regulations at the DICOM. Effective May 2, 2019, as per BCV’s Resolution No. 2019-05-01 establishes that the price published daily by BCV will be the official rate as per Article 9 of Exchange Agreement No. 1: New Exchange...
Framework. The BCV will publish a reference rate based on the daily weighted average exchange rate of the transactions conducted by exchange operators. The reference exchange rate must apply to all foreign currency settlement operations of public and private sector banks. Foreign currency sales operations carried out by the BCV will be carried out at the reference exchange rate while foreign currency purchase operations will be at the references rate reduced by 0.25%.

In light of the regulatory framework for foreign exchange, monetary policy is a result of the interaction of exchange and fiscal policy and is tailored to both these policies.

Since March 10, 2016, the concepts associated with imports of goods on the list of food and health sector products, pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors, and with the recovery of health, sports, culture, scientific research, and face-to-face academic activities abroad under Exchange Agreement No. 35 of March 9, 2016, are settled at the selling rate of Bs/US$10.00.

Effective February 14, 2018, DICOM is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at Bs/US$79,800 (buying) and Bs/US$80,000 (selling) on May 29, 2018. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 30 2018, the parallel rate stood at 1,684,848 bolivars per US dollar, according to BolivarCucuta; at 1,614,820 bolivars per dollar according to AirTM; at 2,151,163 bolivars per dollar according to Cotizaciones. In comparison, DICOM was trading at only 80,000 bolivars per dollar during the same period. Exchange Agreement No. 39 regulates three types of transactions: (1) auctions of foreign currency, conducted through the new system at the supplementary floating market exchange rate (DICOM), (2) direct sales of foreign currency, and (3) transactions involving the negotiation in local currency of securities denominated in foreign currency issued by private sector issuers. Exchange Agreement No. 39 revokes Exchange Agreement Nos. 38 and 35. Article 37 stipulates that Exchange Agreement No. 39 has precedence over any other regulation issued in the past. Individuals and legal entities who wish to sell foreign currency for an amount of €8,500 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency, or less, can sell such foreign currency directly to the authorized exchange operators (which are, essentially, universal banks incorporated or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to act in such capacity by the exchange control governmental authorities), at the DICOM exchange rate in force and effect as of the date of such sale, without having to resort for that purpose to the auctions of foreign currency conducted through the new DICOM system (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 15). The authorized exchange operators must make the sale of the foreign currencies received: (1) In the case of foreign currencies acquired on the occasion of the settlement of purchase operations through bank account transfers, they must be offered in full in the Market Floating Supplementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%. If said position is not awarded, it may be acquired by the BCV. (2) In the case of foreign currency in cash, they must be sold weekly to the BCV, at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%, under the terms indicated in the instructions issued for this purpose (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 15). The exchange rate of reference for the sale of the securities referred to in this Chapter must be that provided for in Article 11 of this Exchange Agreement, and the exchange rate applicable for the purchase must be the same rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%, applicable to the market value of the negotiable instrument, or to the value freely agreed by the parties involved in the transaction, when the instrument has no reference value in the market (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 22).

Foreign exchange allocated by CENCOEX is sold by foreign exchange dealers licensed by the BCV once CENCOEX has approved the foreign currencies in question. Trading, in domestic currency, of foreign exchange regulated by Chapter II of Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6,171 of the same date) is settled on the second business day following the agreement. Retail foreign exchange operations regulated by Chapter III of Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6,171 of the same date) are settled by foreign exchange dealers the same day. Trading, in domestic currency, of securities regulated by Chapter IV of Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6,171 of the same date) is settled three bank business days from the date of the agreement for value on that day.

Effective May 2, 2019, individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interact under BCV’s control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks.

| Operated by the central bank | Yes. |
| Foreign exchange standing facility | No. |
| Allocation | Yes. Allocations of foreign exchange are authorized by CENCOEX in accordance with the availability of foreign exchange and the country’s needs. |
| Auction | Yes. Effective February 14, 2018, DICOM is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM system allows the sale and purchase of foreign currency (typically, euros) in exchange for local currency, through auctions of foreign currency administered, regulated, and directed by the Committee of Foreign Currency Auctions (the Committee), which is an internal specialized body within the BCV. Individuals and legal entities of the private sector can participate in the new DICOM system as offering parties (sellers) or bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency. On the other hand, public sector legal entities cannot participate in such system. To participate | in the DICOM system, the respective person must electronically register with the system and provide certain information, make a sworn statement as to the origin and destination of the funds, hold a demand or term account denominated in foreign currency with a universal bank organized or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to operate as such under Venezuelan banking legislation (a Local Account in Foreign Currency), and be up to date with the national tax obligations and the social security. The Committee must call auctions at least once a week and the calls must be made two banking days prior to the date of the auction. To participate in an auction of foreign currency, the bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency must submit their bids in terms of price and amount, and the offering parties (sellers) of foreign currency must submit their offers in terms of amount, electronically through the system, and indicate the validity term for their bids and offers (which can be no less than seven days nor greater than 30 days). The award of foreign currency starts by awarding foreign currency to the purchaser-bidders of foreign currency who have submitted bids for the highest admissible exchange rate and thereafter to the other purchaser-bidders of foreign currency based on the exchange rate submitted in their bids from the highest to the lowest exchange rate, until the point where the foreign currency offered (and, therefore, the foreign currency that can be awarded) at the respective auction is exhausted. In addition, the system is designed so that at least 10% of the foreign currency offered at each auction is awarded to individuals. The exchange rate applicable to each sale and purchase transaction of foreign currency conducted through the auctions can differ for each transaction because the same will be, for each such transaction, the exchange rate that the respective purchasing-bidding party of foreign currency, to whom the foreign currency has been awarded, submitted in its bid. The settlement of the foreign currency awarded through the auctions will be made by crediting them to a Local Account in Foreign Currency. The auctions of foreign currency are conducted on the basis of a floating exchange rate system, based on an American auction type, where the offer (sale) and demand (purchase) bids of foreign currency are technologically matched (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 2). The BCV publishes on its website the exchange rate resulting from every auction of foreign currency. This exchange rate will be the lowest exchange rate at which a bid for the purchase of foreign currency was submitted in the auction by a legal entity (as opposed to by an individual) and was awarded foreign currency at the auction (which the rules refer to as the “marginal value of the awarded bids”). The exchange rate in force and effect at any given moment will be this exchange rate published by the BCV for the latest auction conducted as of the relevant moment (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 3). The Committee has discretion to determine the methodology for the award of the foreign currency under the new DICOM system. The DICOM system has limitations on the maximum amount of foreign currency purchases made through it. Individuals can purchase up to a maximum of €420 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a calendar quarter. Private sector legal entities can purchase a monthly amount equal to 30% of the average monthly gross income declared for income tax purposes in the immediately preceding fiscal year, provided such amount does not exceed €340,000 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a month. On the other hand, said system has no limitations on the maximum amount of the sales of foreign currency (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 9). The current exchange rate will be that of the last auction. As well as the amounts awarded of foreign currencies, the list of individuals and legal entities (who won the auction) will be published on the website of the BCV, as well as on the website www.dicom.gob.ve, of the Market Floating Complementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), corresponding to every auction made (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 11). The institutions of banking, insurance and securities market sectors, as well as savings banks and funds, trust funds, companies, and reciprocal guarantee and venture capital funds may not participate in the DICOM (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 19). Special foreign exchange and/or securities auctions are held by CENCOEX through SICAD and are administered and managed directly by it in accordance with the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 26 of April 3, 2014 (G.O. No. 40,391 of April 10, 2014). CENCOEX is solely responsible for regulating the terms and conditions of these special auctions. CENCOEX handles the bid selection process for each auction based on the methodology approved for this purpose by its board of directors and informs the CB so that it may determine the exchange rate applicable to the auction in question, or the implicit exchange rate generated by the bid price for the purchase and sale in bolivars of securities denominated in foreign currencies, as appropriate.

Under the provisions of Article 26 of Exchange Agreement No. 1 of February 5, 2003, the purchase of foreign exchange by individuals or legal entities for imports of goods and services is limited and subject to the requirements and conditions established by CENCOEX. The prior authorization of CENCOEX is required for the purchase of foreign exchange, subject to compliance with the provisions of Ordinance No. 119 of September 24, 2013, which establishes the relevant requirements and procedure for the authorization of the purchase of foreign exchange intended for imports. Decree No. 6,168 of June 17, 2008, establishes temporary guidelines to streamline the procedures for obtaining authorization for the purchase of foreign exchange (AAD) and authorization for payments in foreign exchange (ALD) intended for imports of capital goods, inputs, and raw materials by companies in Venezuela’s manufacturing and processing sectors. Resolution No. 3,276 issued by the then Ministry of Popular Power for Economy and Finance establishes the said guidelines and updates the list of goods that benefit from the streamlined procedures for obtaining the AADs and ALDs, which may not exceed US $50,000. Ordinance No. 121 of October 30, 2013, corrected for material error by the Official Notice of November 19, 2013, regulates the requirements and procedure for obtaining the AAD and ALD intended for imports of capital goods, inputs, and raw materials indicated by Resolution of the Ministry of Popular Power for Economy and Finance under Decree No. 6,168 of June 17, 2008. As well, applications for authorization to purchase foreign exchange referred to in the said ordinance may be made up to a maximum amount of US$50,000 or its equivalent in other currencies for each customs import operation, as understood in the terms indicated in the said ordinance. Commission for Foreign Exchange Administration (CADIVI) Ordinance No. 063 of November 30, 2004, establishes the regime for obtaining authorizations for the purchase of foreign exchange (AADs) for the payment, inter alia, of imports of non-tangible goods. Joint Resolution Nos. DM/3240, DM/044, DM/077, DM/063, DM/086, DM/073, and DM/024 issued by the Ministries of Popular Power for Planning and Finance; Trade; Basic Industries and Mining; Agriculture and Land; Health; Energy and Oil; Science, Technology and Intermediate Industries; and Food establish the lists of goods that do not require a Certificate of Insufficient Production or Certificate of No National Production (CIP) or (CNP) and the goods that do require such certificates for purposes of AAD. Under Decree No. 1,192 of August 25, 2014, CENCOEX is responsible for the centralized issuance, modification, granting, and revocation of Import Licenses, Certificates of No National Production (CNPs) and Certificates of Insufficient Production (CIPs); authorization may be granted only with the prior approval of the Executive Vice-President. CADIVI Ordinance No. 119 of September 24, 2013, establishes the requirements and procedure for the authorization of the purchase of foreign exchange for imports. Under Resolution No. 13-07-01 of July 2, 2013, issued by the BCV and containing the “General Rules of the Complementary Foreign Exchange Administration System (SICAD),” only individuals and legal entities residing or domiciled in the national territory, respectively, may submit bids for the purchase of foreign exchange or securities denominated in foreign currencies through SICAD. In accordance with the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015, only persons holding accounts in the national financial system, as referred to in Exchange Agreement No. 20 of June 14, 2012, and its regulations, may bid for foreign exchange or securities on the high-value or securities markets. Similarly, requests for foreign exchange via retail foreign exchange operations may be made only by resident individuals.

Preshipment inspection No.

Letters of credit Yes. Other payment instruments are also admissible.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses Yes. The import of some products may be subject to restrictive licensing.

Other Yes. Joint Resolution Nos. DM/3240, DM/044, DM/077, DM/063, DM/086, DM/073, and DM/024 issued by the Ministries of Popular Power for Planning and Finance; Trade; Basic Industries and Mining; Agriculture and Land; Health; Energy and Oil; Science, Technology and Intermediate Industries; and Food establish the lists of goods for which a CIP or a CNP is not required (List No. 1) and goods requiring such certificates (List No. 2). Under Decree No. 1,192 of August 25, 2014, CENCOEX is responsible for the centralized issuance, modification, granting, and revocation of Import Licenses, CNPs, and CIPs; authorization may be granted only with the prior approval of the Executive Vice-President.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures Yes. Some imports are subject to licensing for environmental, health, or security reasons. Other imports paid for with foreign exchange granted by CENCOEX are subject to prior certification that the goods are not produced locally or are produced locally in insufficient quantities.

Positive list Yes. Joint Resolution Nos. DM/3240, DM/044, DM/077, DM/063, DM/086, DM/073, and DM/024 issued by the Ministries of Popular Power for Planning and Finance; Trade; Basic Industries and Mining; Agriculture and Land; Health; Energy and Oil; Science, Technology and Intermediate Industries; and Food establish, in the lists mentioned therein, the goods that do not require a CIP or a CNP, as well as the goods that do require such certificates for purposes of the issuance of the AAD. Under Decree No. 1,192 of August 25, 2014, CENCOEX is responsible for the centralized issuance, modification, granting, and revocation of Import Licenses, CNPs, and CIPs; authorization may be granted only with the prior approval of the Executive Vice-President.

Negative list Yes. The importation of goods produced locally is prohibited, as is the importation of used motor vehicles, except for some pickup-style vehicles indicated in items 8703 and 8704 of Joint Resolution Nos. DM/3240, DM/044, DM/077, DM/063, DM/086, DM/073, and DM/024 issued by the Ministries of Popular Power for Planning and Finance; Trade; Basic Industries and Mining; Agriculture and Land; Health; Energy and Oil; Science, Technology and Intermediate Industries; and Food, which establish, in the lists mentioned therein, the goods that do not require a CIP or a CNP, as well as the goods that do require such certificates for purposes of the issuance of the AAD.

Open general licenses No.

Licenses with quotas Yes. A number of agricultural products are subject to tariff barriers and quotas.

Other nontariff measures Yes. See comment in subsection D of this section.

Import taxes and/or tariffs Yes. There are four basic ad valorem tariff rates on manufactured goods (5%, 10%, 15%, and 20%). The tariffs on imported components for vehicles are 35% for passenger cars; 15% for freight and commercial vehicles, except for vehicles weighing less than 4,500 kilograms, such as pickup trucks, for which the rate is 35%; and 3% for vehicle components. The industrial free zone of Paraguaná and the free port of Margarita Island enjoy a special customs regime that includes exemption from customs tariffs. Numerous trade agreements have been signed, ranging from agreements with partial coverage to free trade agreements and integration agreements. There is a customs handling fee of 1%. Effective February 14, 2018, the conversion of the foreign currency for the determination of the taxable base of the tributary obligations derived from the customs operations will be carried out at the exchange rate of complementary floating market, in force for the date of the liquidation of the tax obligation. The same exchange rate will apply for the determination of the amounts to be paid for services rendered by auxiliaries of the Customs and Tax Administration and other related services, in force on the date of the settlement of the obligation (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 31).

Taxes collected through the exchange system No.
State import monopoly No.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements Yes. In accordance with the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 27 of March 10, 2014, individuals or private legal entities involved in the export of goods and services must sell 40% of their foreign exchange proceeds from their export activities to the BCV via foreign exchange dealers. They may retain and manage the remaining 60% of the foreign exchange from their exports to cover expenses incurred in connection with their export activities, to carry out sales transactions through SICAD II, or to be held in accounts maintained by the exporter in Venezuela in accordance with Article 2 of Exchange Agreement No. 20. Public sector exporters must sell all the foreign exchange received to the BCV unless they obtain authorization to hold foreign exchange accounts.

Surrender requirements Yes.

Surrender to the central bank Yes. In accordance with the provisions of Article 125 of the Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Law on the Central Bank of Venezuela and Exchange Agreement No.9, under which the foreign exchange obtained from the export of gaseous and other hydrocarbons must be sold to the BCV. In accordance with the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 34 of October 3, 2003, the Foreign Trade Bank (Banco de Comercio Exterior—BANCOEX) receives the payments made to its borrowers for their exports, retains the appropriate amounts for debt repayment, and sells the surplus foreign exchange to the BCV.

Effective September 7, 2018, private individuals and legal entities, dedicated to the export of goods and services, may freely retain and manage up to 80% (previously 60%) of the income they receive in foreign currency, because of the exports made, to meet expenses, payments, and any other expenses that must be carried out during their activities, including those necessary for the fulfillment of tax obligations in accordance with the regulations governing the matter. The rest of the currencies must be sold at the official exchange rate to the BCV. Previously, the remainder had to be sold to the BCV at the DICOM in effect on the date of the transaction less 0.25%. These sales must take place within five banking days of the end of the period established under the terms of payment of the applicable trade

* Banks may maintain accounts abroad for their regular operations.

* The regulations establish rules for the credits and types of credit, terms and requirements, and the processes to be followed. Articles 58 and 62 of the Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Law on Banking Sector Institutions (G.O. No. 40,557 of December 8, 2014).

* The financial sector grants loans only in domestic currency, except for the export promotion loans granted by public banking institutions under the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 4 of October 3, 2003, and Article 5 of Exchange Agreement No. 34 of August 30, 2016.

* Individuals and legal entities can sell and purchase foreign currency indirectly from any other individual or legal entity (except for the persons indicated below, as regards the purchase of foreign currency) through the negotiation in bolívares of securities denominated in foreign currency issued by any private sector issuer, whether domestic or foreign, which is listed in a regulated market and is subject to public offering. The only exception to the above broad base of participants is that institutions from the banking, insurance and securities market sectors, savings funds, trusts, and reciprocal guarantee and venture capital entities and funds, cannot participate in those transactions as purchasers (indirectly) of foreign currency.

* Exchange Agreement No. 20 of June 3, 2012, allows the holding of funds in foreign currencies in national financial system banks. Exchange Agreement No. 31 allows the opening of foreign exchange accounts in microfinance banks. BCV Resolution No. 12-09-01 of Article 2, sole paragraph, and Articles 8 and 10 of which were amended by BCV Resolution No. 13-02-01 of February 8, 2013, partially amended by BCV Resolution No. 13-03-01 of March 22, 2013, on “Foreign Exchange Accounts in the National Financial System,” which establishes that individuals who are of age and resident in the national territory and legal entities domiciled in Venezuela may hold funds in foreign exchange in sight or term accounts in universal banks. BCV Resolution No. 14-08-01 of August 21, 2014, which repeals Article 7 of Resolution No. 12-09-01 of September 6, 2012, and Article 1 of which establishes the possibility for the board of directors of the BCV to grant exceptions to the requirement for authorized banks that receive deposits in foreign exchange to credit said deposits to the BCV, within the framework of its exchange policy implementation strategy. BCV Official Notice of July 30, 2013, containing the Regulations for the Opening of accounts with universal banks authorized to receive foreign exchange deposits in accordance with the provisions of Exchange Agreement No. 20.

Reserve requirements

Yes. Article 6 of BCV Resolution No. 14-03-02 established that the reserve requirement for foreign exchange operations must be established in legal tender (bolívares); however, the calculation, reporting, and monitoring of the reserve requirement for foreign exchange operations will take place separately from the reserve requirements for operations in domestic currency. As well, Articles 13 and 15 establish that a minimum reserve requirement of 21.5% applies to these operations. Article 1 of BCV Resolution No. 14-08-01 of August 21, 2014, establishes the possibility for the board of directors of the BCV to grant exceptions to the requirement for authorized banks that receive foreign exchange deposits to credit said deposits to the BCV within the framework of its exchange policy implementation strategy. Article 55 of the Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Law on the BCV provides that the portion of the reserve requirement deposited with the BCV may be interest-bearing for monetary and financial policy reasons under the relevant terms and conditions established by the board of directors of the BCV.

Multiple

02/14/2018

Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. Previously, the following exchange rates existed. Since March 10, 2016, a fixed exchange rate called the Protected Exchange Rate (DIPRO) (Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 published in the Official Gazette G.O. No. 40,865 on March 9, 2016) was set at Bs 10,000/US$ (selling) and Bs 9,975/US$ (buying). After the entry into force of Exchange Arrangement (EA) No. 35, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the acquisition of foreign currency for the importation of the goods determined by the Ministries of Industry and Commerce and of Banking and Finance—with the previous opinion of the Vice-presidency of the Republic and the Venezuelan Central Bank (in English: VCB or in Spanish: BCV—Banco Central de Venezuela) in lists of products and tariff codes of the food and health sectors and raw materials and consumable supplies associated with the production of the same. The list of the relevant customs tariff codes will be published on the Foreign Trade Center’s website CENCOEX (National Foreign Trade Center). The DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for conversion of pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors paid by the Venezuelan Institute of Social Security (Instituto Venezolano de los Seguros Sociales—IVSS) to persons residing abroad. Also, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for expenses for recovery of health, sports, culture, scientific research, and other cases of special urgency defined in the exchange rules. The DIPRO rate was used for the payment of foreign public debt, and for the settlement of imports of goods published in the list of customs tariff codes, channeled through the Reciprocal Payments and Credits Agreements entered into with the CBs of the LAIA (in Spanish: ALADI) member countries, the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic, as well as the operating banks authorized to process transactions through the Unitary System of Regional Payment Compensation (SUCRE).

Individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interacted under Banco Central de Venezuela’s (BCV’s) control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) with government-owned banks. The BCV continues publishing the DICOM rate daily, resulting in two legal foreign exchange rates.

The Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at Bs/US$79,800 (buying) and Bs/US$80,000 (selling) on May 29, 2018. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 30 2018, the parallel EXR stood at 1,684,848 bolivars per dollar, according to BolivarCucuta; at 1,614,820 bolivars per dollar according to AirTM; at 2,151,163 bolivars per dollar according to Cotizaciones. In comparison, DICOM was trading at only 80,000 bolivars per dollar during the same period. Previously, the following exchange rates existed. Since March 10, 2016, a fixed exchange rate called the Protected Exchange Rate (DIPRO) (Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 published in the Official Gazette G.O. No. 40,865 on March 9, 2016) was set at Bs 10.000/US$ (selling) and Bs 9.975/US$ (buying). After the entry into force of Exchange Arrangement (EA) No. 35, the DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the acquisition of foreign currency for the importation of the goods determined by the Ministries of Industry and Commerce and of Banking and Finance—with the previous opinion of the Vice-presidency of the Republic and the Venezuelan Central Bank (in English: VCB or in Spanish: BCV—Banco Central de Venezuela) in lists of products and tariff codes of the food and health sectors and raw materials and consumable supplies associated with the production of the same. The DIPRO rate of exchange was applied to the foreign currency intended for conversion of pensions for old age, retirement, partial disability, incapacity, and survivors paid by the Venezuelan Institute of Social Security (Instituto Venezolano de los Seguros Sociales—IVSS) to persons residing abroad. Also, the Spanish: ALADI) member countries, the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic, as well as the operating banks authorized to process transactions through the Unitary System of Regional Payment Compensation (SUCRE). Variable exchange rates: There were additional four official exchange rates, namely: (1) The rate produced by the Complementary Foreign Exchange Administration System (Sistema complementario de administracion de divisas—SICAD) in special auctions or from securities denominated in foreign currencies issued through the system, which stood at Bs/US$13.15 at end-2015—no auctions were held in 2016 (Exchange 40,391 of April 10, 2014). (2) The rate derived from the Alternative Foreign Exchange System (SICAD II), which corresponds to the weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis through this system. However, it should be noted that SICAD II operations were suspended February 12, 2015, therefore the applicable exchange rate is the rate from the system’s last trading session published on the website of the BCV, which is Bs/US $51.9710 (buying) and Bs/US$52.1013 (selling). (3) The weighted average of purchase and sales operations in foreign currency or securities denominated in foreign currencies, conducted on a daily basis in highly liquid markets and in securities regulated under Exchange Agreement No. 33 of February 10, 2015, which stood at Bs/US$672.0772 (buying) and Bs/US$673.7617 (selling) at end-2016.

The price published daily by Banco Central de Venezuela (BCV) will be the official rate as per Article 9 of Exchange Agreement No. 1: New Exchange Framework. The BCV will publish a reference rate based on the daily weighted average exchange rate of the transactions conducted by exchange operators. The reference exchange rate must apply to all foreign currency settlement operations of public and private sector banks. Foreign currency sales operations carried out by the BCV will be carried out at the reference exchange rate while foreign currency purchase operations will be at the references rate reduced by 0.25%.

Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. Exchange Agreement No. 39 regulates three types of transactions: (1) auctions of foreign currency, conducted through the new system at the supplementary floating market exchange rate (DICOM), (2) direct sales of foreign currency, and (3) transactions involving the negotiation in local currency of securities denominated in foreign currency issued by private sector issuers. Exchange Agreement No. 39 revokes Exchange Agreement Nos. 38 and 35. Article 37 stipulates that Exchange Agreement No. 39 has precedence over any other regulation issued in the past. Individuals and legal entities who wish to sell foreign currency for an amount of €8,500 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency, or less, can sell such foreign currency directly to the authorized exchange operators (which are, essentially, universal banks incorporated or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to act in such capacity by the exchange control governmental authorities), at the DICOM exchange rate in force and effect as of the date of such sale, without having to resort for that purpose to the auctions of foreign currency conducted through the new DICOM system (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 15). The authorized exchange operators must make the sale of the foreign currencies received: (1) in the case of foreign currencies acquired on the occasion of the settlement of purchase operations through bank account transfers, they must be offered in full in the Market Floating Supplementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%. If said position is not awarded, it may be acquired by the Central Bank of Venezuela (BCV). (2) In the case of foreign currency in cash, they must be sold weekly to the BCV, at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%, under the terms indicated in the instructions issued for this purpose (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 15). The exchange rate of reference for the sale of the securities referred to in this Chapter must be that provided for in Article 11 of this Exchange Agreement, and the exchange rate applicable for the purchase must be the same rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%, applicable to the market value of the negotiable instrument, or to the value freely agreed by the parties involved in the transaction, when the instrument has no reference value in the market (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 22).

Operated by the central bank

02/14/2018

Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM system allows the sale and purchase of foreign currency (typically, euros) in exchange for local currency, through auctions of foreign currency administered, regulated, and directed by the Committee of Foreign Currency Auctions (the Committee), which is an internal specialized body within the Central Bank of Venezuela (BCV). Individuals and legal entities of the private sector can participate in the new DICOM system as offering parties (sellers) or bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency. On the other hand, public sector legal entities cannot participate in such system. To participate in the DICOM system, the respective person must electronically register with the system and provide certain information, make a sworn statement as to the origin and destination of the funds, hold a demand or term account denominated in foreign currency with a universal bank organized or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to operate as such under Venezuelan banking legislation (a Local Account in Foreign Currency), and be up to date with the national tax obligations and the social security. The Committee must call auctions at least once a week and the calls must be made two banking days prior to the date of the auction. To participate in an auction of foreign currency, the bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency must submit their bids in terms of price and amount, and the offering parties (sellers) of foreign currency must submit their offers in terms of amount, electronically through the system, and indicate the validity term for their bids and offers (which can be no less than seven days nor greater than 30 days). The award of foreign currency starts by awarding foreign currency to the purchaser-bidders of foreign currency who have submitted bids for the highest admissible exchange rate and thereafter to the other purchaser-bidders of foreign currency based on the exchange rate submitted in their bids from the highest to the lowest exchange rate, until the point where the foreign currency offered (and, therefore, the foreign currency that can be awarded) at the respective auction is exhausted. In addition, the system is designed so that at least 10% of the foreign currency offered at each auction is awarded to individuals. The exchange rate applicable to each sale and purchase transaction of foreign currency conducted through the auctions can differ for each transaction because the same will be, for each such transaction, the exchange rate that the respective purchasing-bidding party of foreign currency, to whom the foreign currency has been awarded, submitted in its bid. The settlement of the foreign currency awarded through the auctions will be made by crediting them to a Local Account in Foreign Currency. The auctions of foreign currency are conducted on the basis of a floating exchange rate system, based on an American auction type, where the offer (sale) and demand (purchase) bids of foreign currency are technologically matched (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 2). The BCV publishes on its website the exchange rate resulting from every auction of foreign currency. This exchange rate will be the lowest exchange rate at which a bid for the purchase of foreign currency was submitted in the auction by a legal entity (as opposed to by an individual) and was awarded foreign currency at the auction (which the rules refer to as the “marginal value of the awarded bids”). The exchange rate in force and effect at any given moment will be this exchange rate published by the BCV for the latest auction conducted as of the relevant moment (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 3). The Committee has discretion to determine the methodology for the award of the foreign currency under the new DICOM system. The DICOM system has limitations on the maximum amount of foreign currency purchases made through it. Individuals can purchase up to a maximum of €420 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a calendar quarter. Private sector legal entities can purchase a monthly amount equal to 30% of the average monthly gross income declared for income tax purposes in the immediately preceding fiscal year, provided such amount does not exceed €340,000 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a month. On the other hand, said system has no limitations on the maximum amount of the sales of foreign currency (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 9). The current exchange rate will be that of the last auction. As well as the amounts awarded of foreign currencies, the list of individuals and legal entities (who won the auction) will be published on the website of the BCV, as well as on the website www.dicom.gob.ve, of the Market Floating Complementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), corresponding to every auction made (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 11). The institutions of banking, insurance and securities market sectors, as well as savings banks and funds, trust funds, companies, and reciprocal guarantee and venture capital funds may not participate in the DICOM (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 19).

Imports and Import Payments

- Import taxes and/or tariffs
  - 02/14/2018
  - The conversion of the foreign currency for the determination of the taxable base of the tributary obligations derived from the customs operations will be carried out at the exchange rate of complementary floating market, in force for the date of the liquidation of the tax obligation. The same exchange rate will apply for the determination of the amounts to be paid for services rendered by auxiliaries of the Customs and Tax Administration and other related services, in force on the date of the settlement of the obligation (Exchange Agreement No. 39, Article 31).

Exports and Export Proceeds

- Repatriation requirements
  - Surrender requirements
  - 09/07/2018
  - Private individuals and legal entities, dedicated to the export of goods and services, may freely retain and manage up to 80% (previously 60%) of the income they receive in foreign currency, because of the exports made, to meet expenses, payments, and any other expenses that must be carried out during their activities, including those necessary for the fulfillment of tax obligations in accordance with the regulations governing the matter. The rest of the currencies must be sold at the official exchange rate to the Banco Central de Venezuela (BCV). Previously, the remainder had to be sold to the BCV at the Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate in effect on the date of the transaction less 0.25%.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

- Repatriation requirements
  - Surrender requirements
  - 09/07/2018
  - Private individuals and legal entities, dedicated to the export of goods and services, may freely retain and manage up to 80% of the income they receive in foreign currency, because of the exports made, to meet expenses, payments, and any other expenses that must be carried out during their activities, including those necessary for the fulfillment of tax obligations in accordance with the regulations governing the matter. The rest of the currencies must be sold at the official exchange rate to the Banco Central de Venezuela (BCV). Previously, Articles 28 and 34 of Exchange Agreement No. 1 provide that, apart from the exceptions mentioned therein, all foreign exchange entering the country for transport services, tourism and travel operations, remittances, transfers, investment income, leasing contracts, and other commercial, industrial, professional, personal, or construction services or activities must be sold at the official exchange rate to the BCV via authorized banks and financial institutions, exchange houses and other exchange dealers authorized by the BCV. As well, all foreign exchange entering Venezuela for purposes other than those indicated above must be sold at the official exchange rate to the BCV via authorized banks and financial institutions. The providers of the following tourist services: accommodation, transport, travel agencies, and tours, as well as duty-free shops, are authorized to retain and manage up to 60% of the foreign exchange they receive from those services and must sell the remainder to the BCV.

Clause 2, Article 15 Decree No. 70/2014/ND-CP of July 17, 2014, clarifies the following: (1) The official exchange rate is determined based on demand and supply in the foreign exchange market under State Bank of Vietnam (SBV) regulations. The SBV regulates the exchange rate by deploying monetary policy instruments and intervening in the foreign exchange market. (2) The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating, and is determined by the SBV based on a currency basket of countries with trade, financing, and... investment relationships with Vietnam, consistent with macroeconomic targets of each period. Decision No. 2730/QD-NHNN specifies that the central exchange rate is announced daily, based on reference of the interbank-weighted exchange rate, exchange rate developments in global markets of some currencies that are of Vietnam’s major investment, credit, and trading partners, monetary and macroeconomic balances, and monetary policy targets. The dong–US dollar exchange rate might fluctuate around the average interbank foreign currency market exchange rate announced by the SBV within a daily transaction band of ±3%. In 2018, the dong remained stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar, with a realignment in July 2018. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement.

Official exchange rate Yes. Decision No. 2730/QD-NHNN stipulates that the SBV announces the central dong–US dollar exchange rate on its website on daily basis. The central dong–US dollar exchange rate referred in this Decision means the average interbank foreign currency market exchange rate. Decision No. 1636/QD-NHNN specifies that the dong–US dollar exchange rate may fluctuate around the average interbank foreign currency market exchange rate within a daily transaction band of ±3%.

Euro

Composite Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement (Clause 2, Article 15 Decree No. 70/2014/ND-CP of September 5, 2014) is a managed floating system and is determined by the SBV based on a currency basket of countries with trade, financing, and investment relationships with Vietnam, consistent with macroeconomic targets of each period. The dong–US dollar exchange rate may fluctuate around the average interbank foreign currency market exchange rate within a daily transaction band of ±3%.

The exchange rate band applies only to dong–US dollar transactions. CIs may set their own rates in transactions for all foreign currencies, except US dollars. ADs may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients within the dong–US dollar band.

As of December 31, 2018, there were 120 CIs and foreign bank branches authorized by the SBV to provide foreign exchange services, including four state-owned commercial banks and joint-stock commercial banks in majority state ownership, including Agribank, Vietinbank, Vietcombank, and Bank for Investment and Development of Vietnam (BIDV); 31 joint-stock commercial banks, 3 joint-venture banks, 9 banks that are 100% foreign owned, and 49 foreign bank branches. Foreign exchange bureaus operate as agents for CIs. There were 590 such bureaus licensed by SBV branches in cities and provinces as of December 31, 2018. These bureaus may not conduct foreign exchange transactions directly with the SBV. They may use dong to buy foreign exchange from individuals, but may not sell foreign exchange to individuals for dong (except bureaus located at international border gates in isolated areas).

Foreign exchange standing facility | No.
Allocation | No.
Auction | No.
Fixing | No.

Interbank market | Yes.

The CIs must have permission and register with the SBV to become members of the foreign exchange interbank market as follows: they must be credit organizations and/or foreign bank branches (1) permitted under the Law on Credit Organizations; (2) licensed by the SBV for the operation, business, and provision of foreign exchange services in Vietnam’s foreign exchange market; and (3) have the necessary systems to carry out foreign exchange transactions, such as the Reuters Dealing System or other means approved by the SBV from time to time. Currently, 70 CIs and foreign bank branches are members of the foreign exchange interbank market. The SBV grants the license. The limit on the bid-ask spread is the SBV trading band (±3%). The CB intervenes directly with market participants at their quoted rates set by the CB from time to time.

Over the counter | No.
Brokerage | No.
Market making | No.

There has been no regulation on market maker. The SBV intervenes directly with interbank market participants.

Forward exchange market | Yes.

The SBV permits authorized CIs to enter into dong and foreign currency forward and swap transactions with minimum maturities of 3–365 working days since the transaction day. The maturities of forward and swap transactions of foreign currencies are negotiated between authorized CIs and their customers. The dong–US dollar forward rate is based on (1) the spot rate on the day the contract is signed; (2) the difference between the spot refinancing rate announced by the SBV and the Federal Funds Target Rate (announced by the Federal Reserve); and (3) the maturity of the contract. Authorized CIs may not purchase options from economic entities or other organizations and individuals. Nonresidents are allowed to enter into spot transactions with authorized CIs only, as stipulated in Paragraph 4, Article 4, Circular No. 15/2015/TT-NHNN of October 2, 2015.

Official cover of forward operations | No.

Implementation of Provisions Restricting the Use of Foreign Exchange within the Territory of Vietnam—specifies the following cases when foreign exchange may be used in Vietnam: (1) Customs offices, public security (police) offices, border-guard forces offices, and other government agencies at border points and in bonded (customs) warehouses may list in and collect in foreign exchange or cash foreign currency from nonresidents various types of taxes, entry and exit visa fees, fees for services and other types of fees, and charges in accordance with the law. (2) Banks, nonbank CIs, and foreign bank branches authorized to conduct foreign exchange business and provide foreign exchange services (hereinafter referred to as authorized CIs) may transact, make payments, list, advertise, quote, set prices, and record prices in contracts and agreements in foreign exchange within the scope of their foreign exchange business and provision of foreign exchange services authorized by the SBV in accordance with the law. (3) Other institutions authorized to provide foreign exchange services may transact and list prices in foreign currency within the scope of their permitted foreign exchange services. (4) Resident legal entities may transfer capital internally by foreign currency transfers—for example, between the account of such an organization and accounts of its subsidiaries that are not legal entities and vice versa. (5) Residents may contribute foreign currency capital to implement a foreign investment project in Vietnam. (6) Residents may perform contracts entrusting imports or exports in accordance with the following provisions: (a) Resident importers may record prices in import authorization contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the import entrusting party. (b) Resident exporters may record prices in export authorization contracts in foreign currency and make payments in foreign currency to the export entrusting party. (7) Residents who are domestic or foreign contractors are permitted the following: (a) With respect to foreign expenses for a tender package via international tendering in accordance with the Law on Tendering, tenderers may submit their tenders in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the investor or head contractor to make payments and disbursements and remit money overseas. (b) With respect to implementation of tender packages in accordance with the Law on Petroleum, tenderers may submit their tenders in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the investor or head contractor to make payments and disbursements and remit money overseas. (8) Resident insurance enterprises are permitted as follows: (a) They may quote, set, and record prices of insurance services in contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from insurance purchasers in the case of... goods and services for which offshore reinsurance must be purchased. (b) If losses arise that are covered by offshore reinsurance, resident organizations purchasing insurance may receive the amount of insurance indemnity in foreign currency from the foreign reinsurer via the domestic insurance enterprise to make payment of expenses for remedying the loss offshore. (9) Resident organizations conducting business in duty-free goods may list prices of goods in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency or cash for the supply of goods. Foreign currency used in transactions at duty-free shops must be handled in accordance with the Law on the Business of Sales of Duty-Free Goods. (10) Resident organizations providing services in separated areas at international border gates or organizations conducting business in bonded warehouses may list, quote, fix prices, and record prices in contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency or cash for the supply of goods and services. (11) Resident organizations acting as agents for foreign transportation firms on the basis of agency contracts signed between the two parties are permitted (a) to represent the foreign transportation firm in quoting, setting, and recording prices in contracts in foreign currency with respect to international freight charges. Payment must be made in dong; (b) to make payment in foreign currency on behalf of a foreign transportation firm of the purchase price of goods and services at international seaports and at separate areas of international airports; and (c) to make payment in foreign currency cash on behalf of a foreign shipping firm of salaries, bonuses, and allowances to nonresidents when so delegated with authority by a foreign shipping firm. (12) Resident export processing enterprises are permitted (a) to record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make payment in foreign currency when purchasing goods from the domestic market to produce, process, recycle, or assemble export goods or export them, except for prohibited export goods. Domestic enterprises may quote and set prices in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency when selling goods to export processing enterprises; and (b) to quote, set, and record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make and receive payments in foreign currency with respect to other export processing enterprises. (13) Resident organizations conducting business in the aviation transport, hotel, and tourism sectors may list and advertise prices of goods and services in dong and the equivalent in foreign currency on websites and in specialized publications (excluding menus and service price lists) in foreign languages. (14) Residents and nonresident organizations may agree to pay salaries, bonuses, and allowances in labor contracts in foreign currency or cash to nonresidents and residents who are foreigners working for such organizations. (15) Nonresident diplomatic offices and consulates may list in foreign currency and collect fees for entry and exit visas and other types of fees and charges in foreign currency or cash. (16) Nonresidents are permitted (a) to send foreign currency to other nonresidents; (b) to record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make payments for the exportation of goods and services in foreign currency to residents. Residents may quote and set prices in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency when they supply goods and services to nonresidents; and (c) the nonresident can deposit via transferring foreign exchange to participate in auctioning to buy the shares at initial public offering and disinvestment of the state-owned enterprise approved by the Prime Minister. (17) For cases related to national security and defense, oil, and other necessary cases, entities may be able to use foreign exchange within Vietnam’s Territory subject to the consideration and approval of the SBV in written form.

30% of the charter capital of any Vietnamese commercial bank. For public companies not covered by the above-mentioned cases, the FOL is not limited, unless otherwise provided in the charter of the company.

Foreign organizations and individuals must open a portfolio investment capital account in dong to sell or purchase listed securities on the stock exchange. Payments for and receipts from securities transactions must take place through these accounts. Supplemental regulations are introduced on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam and Vietnam’s outward portfolio investment. Regarding foreign portfolio investment in Vietnam, the ordinance stipulates the responsibility of foreign investors regarding the use of dong accounts for portfolio investment, supplements guidance on the use of nonresident foreign investors’ legitimate income, and prescribes SBV authority to issue regulations on capital transfer transactions.

Foreign indirect investment in Vietnam must continue to be executed in dong through an account at a licensed bank in Vietnam. Foreign investors must register with, and receive a trading code from, the Vietnam Securities Depository (VSD) through depository members prior to investing in the Vietnam stock market.

Foreign organizations and individuals must open a securities trading account denominated in dong to sell or issue listed securities on the stock exchange. All payments for and receipts from securities transactions must be effected through these accounts.

Shares denominated in dong may be issued only in Vietnam. Circular No. 40/2015/TT-NHNN of December 31, 2015, regulates the opening and using of securities issuance account denominated in dong of nonresident organizations in Vietnam. Article 62 of Government Decree No. 58/2012/ND-CP on public offerings of securities of foreign institutions stipulates that foreign institutions are eligible for listing issued securities on Vietnam’s Stock Exchanges, subject to specific requirements.

Decree No. 58/2012/ND-CP stipulates detailed conditions on the public offering of securities abroad by resident enterprises and guidance on documents related to public offering of securities abroad. In particular, Article 29 regulates the conditions for security offerings as the basis for offerings of depository certificates overseas;
Article 30 stipulates the registration of security offerings overseas. Chapter VII, Circular No. 162/2015/TT-BTC also gives detailed guidance on security issuance of Vietnamese enterprises overseas. As stipulated in Article 10, Decree No. 70/2014/ND-CP Guiding the Implementation of Ordinance on Foreign Exchange and Amended Ordinance on Foreign Exchange, and Article 6, Circular No. 39/2015/TT-NHNN on Opening Foreign Exchange-Denominated Capital Account for Securities Issue Abroad by Resident, resident organizations issuing or selling foreign-currency-denominated securities abroad are required to open a securities issuance account in foreign currency at an authorized CI. All payments and receipts related to the issuance of securities must be effected through this account. When a resident institution is permitted to issue foreign currency securities abroad, it must do so under the guidance of the SBV (for example, on the use of foreign exchange accounts at authorized CIs for payments and receipts in connection with securities issued). This does not imply that the SBV is authorized to grant licenses for issuance of securities abroad. The issuance of securities by resident institutions must comply with the Securities Law and other relevant laws.

Circular No. 39/2015/TT-NHNN of December 31, 2015, provides detailed guidance on the opening and using of overseas securities issuance account denominated in foreign currency of resident organizations. Securities issuer must open a securities trading account denominated in foreign currency at an eligible CI prior to each public offering of securities.

As stipulated in Section 3, Article 6 of Law on Securities and Article 28 of Circular No. 212/2015/TT-BTC of December 5, 2015, guiding the establishment, organization, and operations of fund management companies, Vietnamese fund management companies are allowed to mobilized capital to register to fund establishment as per host country’s law and regulations.

Bonds or other debt securities Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. Foreign investors can invest in government, government guaranteed, local government, and corporate bonds without limitation, unless otherwise provided by relevant laws of issuing organizations. There is no requirement about minimum holding period for such bonds. Foreign organizations and individuals must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in dong to sell or purchase listed securities on the stock exchange. All payments for and receipts from securities transactions must be effected through these accounts. Prior to any investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members.

Supplemental regulations introduced on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam stipulate the responsibility of foreign investors on the use of dong accounts for portfolio investment activities; supplement guidance on the use of nonresident foreign investors’ legitimate income; and prescribe SBV authority regarding legitimate capital transfer transactions related to portfolio investment activities.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. Conditions for foreign organizations’ securities listing on Vietnam Stock Exchanges are as follows:

1. Foreign organizations’ securities offered through initial public offering in Vietnam must be placed in accordance with the Vietnamese Law on Securities.

2. The number of securities registered for listing is equivalent to the number of securities eligible for sale in Vietnam.

3. The listing requirements in Article 53 or Article 54 of this Decree.
(4) A commitment must be made to fully implement the legal obligations and liabilities of listing companies under Vietnamese law.

(5) Consultation must be received from a securities company established and operating in Vietnam on securities listing.

(6) Vietnamese regulations on foreign exchange management must be followed.

Prior to taking investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members.

After receiving a permit to issue securities in Vietnam, nonresident organizations must open securities trading account denominated in dong at authorized CIs to sell or issue listed securities on the stock exchange. All transactions related to security issuance in Vietnam must be conducted via this account. Nonresidents must comply with regulations in the Law on Securities and other related regulations on issuing securities by nonresidents in Vietnam.

Decree No. 58/2012/ND-CP of the government stipulates the requirements of issuing bonds denominated in Vietnamese dong by international financial institutions.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

Resident individuals and entities may invest abroad in securities, subject to the requirements set by the SBV. CIs may conduct offshore indirect investment, subject to the legal regulations on investment and the SBV law. Residents other than CIs, after receiving a license for indirect investment abroad, may open an account to transfer capital overseas and transfer legal capital, profits, and earnings from indirect investment abroad to Vietnam under the SBV regulations.

Supplemental regulations are introduced on outward investment. Regarding outward portfolio investment, the ordinance supplements regulations to establish a transparent legal basis for such investment. The SBV provides guidance on the use of accounts, transfers of investment capital overseas, and transfers of the original capital and profits from outward portfolio investment activities to Vietnam.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes.

Resident organizations that issue or sell foreign-currency-denominated securities abroad must open a securities issuance account in foreign currency at an authorized CI prior to each public offering, and payments and receipts must be effected through this account. Companies and government-owned commercial banks must receive approval from the appropriate authority and the SBV, respectively, before issuing international or foreign bonds that are not guaranteed by the government and must follow guidelines and restrictions in SBV Circular No. 17/2013/TT-NHNN of July 16, 2013, and Government Decree No. 163/2018/ND-CP on Companies’ Issuance of International Bonds.

Decree No. 58/2012/ND-CP stipulates detailed conditions on the public offering of securities abroad by resident enterprises and guidance on documents related to public offering of securities abroad.

Public offering of bonds in the international market must comply with Decree No. 163/2018/ND-CP (Chapter III).

On money market instruments

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes.

Foreign organizations and individuals must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in dong to sell or purchase listed securities on the stock exchange. All payments for and receipts from securities transactions must be effected through these accounts. Prior to any investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members.

Supplemental regulations introduced on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam stipulate the responsibility of foreign investors on the use of dong accounts for portfolio investment activities; supplement guidance on the use of nonresident foreign investors’ legitimate income; and prescribe SBV authority regarding legitimate capital transfer transactions related to portfolio investment activities.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.  CIs may conduct offshore indirect investment, subject to the legal regulations on investment and the SBV law. Residents other than CIs, after receiving a license for indirect investment abroad, may open an account to transfer capital overseas and transfer legal capital, profits, and earnings from offshore indirect investment to Vietnam under the SBV regulations.

Ordinance No. 06/2013/UBTVQH13 of March 18, 2013, amending and supplementing Ordinance on Foreign Exchange No. 28/2005/PL-UBTVQH of December 13, 2005, introduced supplemental regulations on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam and Vietnam’s outward investment. Regarding outward portfolio investment, the ordinance supplements regulations to establish a transparent legal basis for such investment. The SBV provides guidance on the use of accounts, transfers of investment capital overseas, and transfers of the original capital and profits from outward portfolio investment activities to Vietnam.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.  Resident organizations that issue or sell foreign-currency-denominated securities abroad must open a securities issuance account in foreign currency at an authorized CI, and payments and receipts must be effected through this account.

On collective investment securities  Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.  According to Section 2, Article 1 of Decree No. 60/2015/ND-CP of June 26, 2015, amending and supplementing some articles of Decree No. 58/2012/ND-CP of July 20, 2012, of the Government guiding the implementation of some Articles of Laws on Securities, foreign investors may make unlimited investment in securities investment fund certificates, shares of securities investment companies, nonvoting shares of public companies, derivatives or custody certificates, unless otherwise stipulated in the charter of the issuing organization. Foreign organizations and individuals must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in dong to sell or purchase listed securities on the stock exchange. All payments for and receipts from securities transactions must be effected through these accounts. Prior to any investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members.

Decree No. 60/2015/ND-CP states that (1) in the sectors that Vietnam is a signatory to international commitments thereof, the foreign ownership ratios must be abided by these commitments; (2) in the sectors that there are already legislations/regulations on the foreign ownership, public companies are to follow these legislations/regulations (specific foreign ownership ratios and legislation may apply in certain sectors and professions according to Clause 2, Article 3, Decision No. 88/2009/QD-TTg, of the Prime Minister on issuing the Regulation on Capital Contribution and the Purchase of Shares of Vietnamese Enterprises by Foreign Investors, issued June 18, 2009); (3) in case of conditional businesses where there is not yet specific regulation on the foreign ownership, the maximum foreign ownership is 49%; (4) in case a state-owned company goes equitized by offering securities to the public, the foreign ownership is pursuant to the regulations on equitization; (5) for other public companies and securities business organizations, the foreign ownership is unlimited, unless otherwise stipulated in the company charter.

Supplemental regulations are introduced on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam and Vietnam’s outward investment. Regarding foreign portfolio investment in Vietnam, the ordinance stipulates the responsibility of foreign investors on the use of dong accounts for portfolio investment activities, supplements guidance on the use of nonresident foreign investors’ legitimate income, and prescribes SBV authority regarding legitimate capital transfer transactions related to portfolio investment activities. Foreign indirect investment activities in Vietnam must continue to be executed in dong through an account at a licensed bank in Vietnam.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. These transactions must be approved by the appropriate authority and are subject to SBV guidelines. Prior to taking investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members. Foreign organizations and individuals must open a securities trading account denominated in dong to sell or issue listed securities on the stock exchange. All payments for and receipts from securities transactions must be effected through these accounts.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. These transactions are subject to approval by the SBV and/or relevant agencies. CIs may conduct offshore indirect investment, subject to the legal regulations on investment and the SBV law. Residents other than CIs, after receiving a license for indirect investment abroad, may open an account to transfer capital overseas and transfer legal capital, profits, and earnings from indirect investment abroad to Vietnam under the SBV regulations. Supplemental regulations are introduced on direct and inward portfolio investment in Vietnam and Vietnam’s outward investment. Regarding outward portfolio investment, the ordinance supplements regulations to establish a transparent legal basis for such investment. The SBV provides guidance on the use of accounts, transfers of investment capital overseas, and transfers of the original capital and profits from outward portfolio investment activities to Vietnam.

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes. Resident organizations that issue or sell foreign-currency-denominated securities abroad must open a securities issuance account in foreign currency at an authorized CI, and payments and receipts must be effected through this account.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments Yes. Foreign investors can invest in derivatives without limitations. Prior to taking investment activities in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members. In addition, foreign investors must open a derivatives trading account at trading members and depository account at the appointed clearing member, to be able to perform derivatives transactions.

Purchase locally by nonresidents No. Prior to investing in Vietnam’s stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members. In addition to be able to perform derivatives transactions, foreign investors must open a derivatives trading account at trading members and depository account at the appointed clearing member. After getting license to issue securities in Vietnam, nonresident institutions must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in Vietnamese dong at an authorized CI to perform receipts and payments in Vietnamese dong from securities transactions through this account, as regulated by the SBV’s Circular 3737.
No. 40/2015/TT-NHNN of December 31, 2015, on opening and use of VND-denominated account for securities issuance domestically by institutional nonresidents.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

Resident investors can invest only in permitted instruments. Investment abroad in derivatives and other instruments by residents is not allowed.

According to Article 4, Circular No. 10/2016/TT-NHNN of June 29, 2016, guiding some regulations in Decree No. 135/2015/ND-CP of December 31, 2015, on Offshore Portfolio Investment, proprietary traders and trust organizations can trade on a proprietary basis or invest on behalf of their clients in: (1) shares listed on a foreign stock exchange; (2) security investment fund certificates; and (3) bonds, T-bills, bills issued by governments and organizations rated by international rating agencies: Standard and Poor’s, Moody’s Investors Service, and Fitch Ratings.

Also, as stipulated in Circular No. 16/2016/TT-NHNN (Chapter II), individual investors of Vietnamese nationality are allowed to invest in bonus shares issued abroad by bonus share issuers after receiving registration from the SBV. Revenues and payments generated from trading of bonus shares must be performed through an account open by the bonus share issuer at an eligible domestic CI.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes.

After receiving the license to issue securities denominated in foreign currencies overseas in the form of stock investment fund certificate, resident organizations must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in foreign currencies at an authorized CI. All receipts and payments from securities transactions must be performed through this account as regulated by the SBV’s Circular No. 39/2015/TT-NHNN.

Controls on credit operations

Yes.

Enterprises are subject to annual overall external borrowing ceilings and the fulfillment of certain other conditions.

Commercial credits

Yes.

Resident CIs may extend commercial credits in accordance with SBV regulations. Lending by resident economic entities must be approved by the prime minister. Once approved, firms must open a foreign exchange account with an AD for loan disbursement and collection. All transactions for capital disbursements, interest payments, and related fees must be conducted through this account.

By residents to nonresidents

Yes.

Enterprises (including CIs) can borrow from abroad without government guarantee subject to conditions. The purposes of offshore borrowing include the restructuring of loans with lending costs not exceeding the cost of the current offshore loan. Medium- and long-term offshore borrowings without the government’s guarantee (except for deferred payment for imported goods) must be registered with the SBV. For medium- and long-term loans, firms must register the borrowing and repayment schedules with the SBV before disbursement, within 30 days of signing the loan contract. For extended loans, firms must register loans within 30 days of signing an extension contract for short-term loans whose total period, including the extension, exceeds one year. Firms’ external borrowing must be within the government-approved annual limit and meet the SBV’s requirements. The borrowing and repayment schedules must be reported periodically to the SBV.

Resident individuals must borrow and repay overseas loans based on the principle of self-borrowing and are self-liable in accordance with government regulations. Enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving offshore loans without government guarantee are subject to stricter regulation. Government-owned economic groups and general
Corporations must be approved by line ministries and the MOF before borrowing from abroad. Commercial banks with more than 50% state-owned charter capital follow the same process and procedure of offshore loan and offshore loan adjustment registration as other kinds of enterprises do, except that commercial banks with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving high-value offshore loans as stipulated by 2014 Law on Enterprise must gain approval from the representative of state ownership (the SBV). Enterprises with offshore loans with government guarantee are subject to guidance of the MOF and registration with the SBV.

Lending by resident legal entities, except CIs, is subject to permission by the prime minister. The SBV provides guidance on account opening and use, outward fund transfers, overseas debt collection, registration for lending and collection of overseas debts, and other fund transfers for overseas lending and debt collection of economic entities.

Enterprises with offshore loans with government guarantee are subject to guidance of the MOF and registration with the SBV.

Medium- and long-term offshore borrowings without the government’s guarantee (except for deferred payment for imported goods) must be registered with the SBV following Circular No. 03/2016/TT-NHNN of February 26, 2016, providing guidelines on some issues related to the foreign exchange management of borrowing and repayment of overseas loans applied to enterprises (replacing Circular No. 25/2014/TT-NHNN of September 15, 2014, and Circular No. 09/2004/TT-NHNN of December 21, 2004). Circular No. 03/2016/TT-NHNN provides guidelines on some new issues, including (but not limited to) the following:

- Regulations on management principles for deferred payment for imported goods: Deferred payment for imported goods is not subject to registration requirements under foreign borrowing regulations.
- Regulations on opening and using borrowing and repayment accounts: in principle, borrowers may open borrowing and repayment accounts at an eligible bank providing account services in Vietnam. This account may only be used for the purposes of withdrawing fund, repayment of foreign loans and other money transfers related to borrowing, repaying, and guaranteeing overseas borrowings.

Enterprises may be able to make registration, registration on changing foreign loans online via the enterprises’ borrowing, and repayment of overseas loans management website.

Enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving offshore loans without the government’s guarantee are subject to stricter regulation under MOF Circular No. 153/2014/TT-BTC of October 20, 2014, on reviewing, investigating, and approving offshore loans of enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital.

Enterprises with offshore loans with the government’s guarantee are subject to guidance of the MOF and registration with the SBV as guided by Circular No. 22/2013/TT-NHNN of September 24, 2013, on the registration and modification procedure of offshore loans and international bond issuance with the government’s guarantee.

For medium- and long-term loans, firms must register the borrowing and repayment schedules with the SBV before disbursement, within 30 days of signing the loan contract. For extended loans, firms must... register loans within 30 days of signing an extension contract for short-term loans whose total period, including the extension, exceeds one year. Firms’ external borrowing must be within the government-approved annual limit and meet the SBV’s requirements. The borrowing and repayment schedules must be reported periodically to the SBV. Resident individuals must borrow and repay overseas loans based on the principle of self-borrowing and are self-liable in accordance with government regulations.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities
- Yes. Resident commercial banks may provide guarantees to nonresidents in accordance with regulations in Circular No. 28/2012/TT-NHNN on bank guarantees.
- Economic entities other than CIs may provide guarantees to nonresidents if they obtain the prime minister’s approval.
- In exercising the guarantee’s liability, the nonresident guarantee does not pay back to the guarantor, in this case an economic entity/CI, within 30 days of the guarantor’s payment of the guarantee’s debt, the guarantor must register its guaranteed debt collection plan.

Controls on direct investment
- Yes.

Outward direct investment
- Yes. Outward direct investment requires an MPI permit. Firms engaged in these investments must open an account with a bank with foreign exchange authorization and register such accounts and outward investment flows with SBV branches. All related transactions must go through these accounts. Firms engaged in outward direct investment in the gas and petroleum sector that need to transfer foreign currency abroad before receiving a license for investment to study and prepare for the gas and petroleum projects under the current legal provisions on outward direct investment must register with the SBV regarding the overseas transfer of foreign currency and obtain SBV confirmation of the registration in writing before transferring foreign currency abroad.

Inward direct investment
- Yes. The authority to grant foreign investment licenses in Vietnam depends on the scope and areas of investment. Foreign investment projects must be approved by the government, the MPI, or the Provincial People’s Committee. The types of foreign investment are regulated by the Investment Law. Foreign firms engaged in this type of investment must open a specialized capital account, and all payments for and receipts relating to FDI projects in Vietnam must take place through this account. The account is a basis for compiling statistics and monitoring capital flows related to FDI.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment
- No. When closing an investment project, investors must inform the license-granting agency, follow liquidation procedures, and return the investment certificate. Liquidation must be completed within six months of the decision to close the project. There is no limit on the amount that may be transferred abroad.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions
Lending locally in foreign exchange 01/01/2019

Short-term foreign currency lending for meeting domestic capital needs for producing exports when the borrower has adequate foreign exchange revenues generated from export. On receipt of loan disbursements from the credit institutions or foreign bank branch, the borrower must sell such foreign currency proceeds to the lender through a spot foreign exchange transaction, except for loans to cover transactions that must be settled in foreign currencies as defined by applicable laws.
Short-term foreign currency lending is limited only for imports required for production of exports on condition that the borrower has sufficient foreign exchange revenues to repay the debt and short-term foreign currency lending for imports of goods and services for producing goods and services for domestic purpose is no longer permitted.

Medium- and long-term foreign currency lending for imports of goods and services on condition that the borrower has sufficient foreign exchange revenues to repay the debt is no longer permitted.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The official exchange rate is determined on each working day by reference to the market rate as quoted by banks and money changers for the US dollar against the rial. Cross-rates for the other currencies are then derived from Reuters. The official exchange rate is used for CBY transactions vis-à-vis commercial banks and the government, which include (1) settlement of installments and interest due on official foreign debt, (2) transfers of salaries and other embassy allowances abroad, (3) transfers of grants and allowances of Yemeni students on government scholarships abroad, and (4) LCs for public sector companies and government agencies and purchases and sales of foreign exchange from and to these entities. The CBY sells foreign exchange to commercial banks only for the importation of basic commodities and budget transactions related to international liabilities at the official rate.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market  Yes.  There are 19 banks, including the CBY, and 556 licensed money changers (exchange bureaux) in operation. Of these, 30 are incorporated companies that exchange foreign currency and transfer money in and out of Yemen. All are licensed by the CBY. Exchange bureaus may maintain accounts abroad. Individual dealers may only purchase and sell foreign currency and traveler’s checks. Foreign exchange bureaus incorporated as companies may also accept transfers and bank drafts issued by banks operating in Yemen or abroad.

Operated by the central bank  Yes.  There is no formal interbank market. The CBY is the main supplier of foreign exchange, because it receives most foreign exchange inflows and facilitates interbank transactions before an intervention (sale).

Foreign exchange standing facility  Yes.  The CBY sells foreign exchange to banks to finance imports of basic commodities.

Allocation  No.

Auction  No.  Foreign exchange auctions are currently suspended.

Fixing  No.

Interbank market  No.  There is no formal interbank market. The CBY is the main supplier of foreign exchange, because it receives most foreign exchange inflows and facilitates interbank transactions before an intervention (sale). Banks and money changers also obtain foreign exchange from sources other than the CBY, such as remittances, export proceeds, etc.

Administration of control Yes. Exchange control authority is vested in the CBY.

Payments arrears Yes.
Official Yes. After the 1996–2001 Paris Club agreements, official creditors had to renegotiate the terms of their loans to Yemen to conform to Paris Club conditions. Rescheduling agreements have been signed with almost all creditors. With the start of the conflict in 2014, new arrears with respect to some external creditors have accumulated. Agreements have not yet been reached with a few creditors, and there is still a payment moratorium on installments and interest due to them.

Pegged exchange rate within horizontal
The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as floating. The official exchange rate is determined in the interbank market. The BOZ intervenes primarily through transactions with ADs, which are registered commercial banks that meet the prescribed eligibility criteria under the Interbank Foreign Exchange Market Framework. The BOZ interventions are published as historical data, and its foreign exchange transactions are published in the biweekly statistics.

In September 2018, there was a 20% depreciation of the Kwacha against the US dollar due to a weakening of economic fundamentals coupled with broader exchange market pressures and a downgrade by all major international rating agencies. Since then, there have been periods of relative stability and periods of depreciation of the currency. With the increased demand for US dollars as the debt service burden increases as well as lower export earnings from copper along with higher imports, reserves have declined. The exchange rate has reached 12.88 as of early-May 2019. Daily data on intervention is published on a biweekly basis with a 3-month lag. The data is published with a 3-month lag.

The interbank rates determine the BOZ exchange rates: the BOZ buying rate is the simple average of the AD bid rates, and the selling rate is the simple average of the AD offer rates. The official rates published on the BOZ website for 09:30 hrs, 12:30 hrs, and 15:30 hrs are simple averages of the real-time rates collected from the ADs at these respective times. The official exchange rate is used by the BOZ when buying foreign exchange from the market especially in situations when the market is awash with dollar liquidity. Further, transactions between the BOZ and the government use the mid-exchange rate, calculated as the average of the bid and offer exchange rate quotes provided by ADs in the interbank foreign exchange market. Other members of the public like research institutions and academia use historical exchange rate data published on the BOZ website to conduct research works. In some instances, members of the public request for this information to facilitate awards and compensation for court cases.
In April 2012, the BOZ introduced the policy rate as a key policy instrument to signal the monetary policy stance and anchor inflation expectations. Under this framework, the BOZ manages liquidity conditions in the market so as to ensure that the interbank rate remains within the policy rate corridor, defined as ±2 percentage points around the policy rate. The policy rate corridor is ±1 percentage point around the policy rate.
Foreign exchange market

Yes.

Commercial banks negotiate rates for transactions with their nonbank counterparts. For interbank transactions, commercial banks designated as ADs are obliged to provide firm two-way quotes to fellow ADs for the market lot ranging from US$0.5 million to US$1.0 million. For amounts outside the market lot, the two-way quotes provided are subject to negotiation.

Spot exchange market

Yes.

Eighteen commercial banks are licensed by the BOZ to trade in the Interbank Foreign Exchange Market. Commercial banks are the only financial institutions that may engage directly with the BOZ in buying and selling foreign exchange. Foreign exchange bureaus may operate in Zambia and are also licensed by the BOZ. As of December 31, 2018, there were 75 licensed exchange bureaus. They may transact with the public and commercial banks but may not maintain accounts abroad. Transactions of foreign exchange bureaus are limited to the over-the-counter sale and purchase of foreign exchange banknotes and traveler’s checks.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices | Yes. The IMF staff report for the 2017 Article IV Consultation with Zimbabwe states that, as of June 19, 2017, the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe (RBZ) released a foreign exchange priority list to direct the allocation of foreign exchange by commercial banks to certain domestic import substitution industries, exporters, and strategic imports. This measure gives rise to an exchange restriction subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a). Staff is also monitoring the authorities’ imposition of other measures to assess whether they give rise to any exchange restriction or MCP subject to Article VIII, Section 2(a) and Section 3. Zimbabwe has also a long-standing exchange restriction subject to IMF jurisdiction arising from unsettled balances under an inoperative bilateral payments agreement with Malaysia. (Country Report No. 17/196) |

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons | No. |

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51) | No. |

Other security restrictions | No. |

Exchange Arrangement

Currency | Yes. Effective June 24, 2019, the currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender. All other foreign currencies will no longer be legal tender. Previously, effective February 20, 2019, the trading of Real Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) balances and bond notes was formalized, and thus, the RTGS dollars became part of the multicurrency system. The multicurrency system included nine foreign currencies—the US dollar, South African rand, euro, pound sterling, Botswana pula, the Australian dollar, Chinese renminbi, Indian rupee, and Japanese yen. Earlier in 2016, the RBZ issued bond notes and bond coins, at parity with the US dollar, to alleviate the domestic liquidity conditions. The SI prescribed that a tender of payment of bond notes and coins issued by the RBZ was exchangeable at par value with any specified currency prescribed as legal tender in Zimbabwe and was legal tender in all transactions in Zimbabwe. |

Other legal tender | No. Effective June 24, 2019, the nine foreign currencies that had official status—the US dollar, South African rand, euro, pound sterling, Botswana pula, Australian dollar, Chinese renminbi, Indian rupee, and Japanese yen—no longer were legal tender. |

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution
Effective February 20, 2019, Zimbabwe adopted a de jure floating exchange rate arrangement, previously a “no separate legal tender” arrangement. The RBZ denominated legally, through SI No. 33 of 2019, the existing RTGS balances, bond notes, and coins in circulation as RTGS dollars making them part of the multi-currency system in Zimbabwe. An interbank foreign exchange market was established to formalize the trading of RTGS dollar balances and bond notes with the US dollars and other currencies on a willing seller-willing buyer basis through banks and bureau de changes. This decision to establish a flexible exchange rate market was taken in consultation with Government and business taking into consideration the distortions in the market caused by multi-pricing. The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to floating from other managed, effective February 20, 2019.

Effective June 24, 2019, the currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender, replacing at par with the previous RTGS dollar, and the multi-currency system in place since 2009 was discontinued.

There is no official exchange rate.

The monetary policy framework is based on targeting monetary aggregates. The RBZ will use reserve money as the operational target for monetary policy. Specifically, the RBZ... will target an appropriately calibrated growth in broad money (M3) of about 15% in 2019 (excluding revaluation changes), with a view to help stabilize the macroeconomic environment, support the new currency, and restore investor confidence. To achieve this, the RBZ will use base money (comprised of bond notes and coins, and RTGS dollar balances of banks with RBZ) as an operational target for monetary policy. To achieve these targets, the RBZ will use all instruments at its disposal, including interest rates, changes in the minimum reserve requirements, and open market operations (securities discount window), as needed. Previously, the monetary framework was an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements
Yes. International payments may take place only through foreign exchange accounts, which may hold funds in the nine official foreign currencies.

Controls on the use of domestic currency
No. There are no controls in the use of domestic currency.
For current transactions and payments  No.
For capital transactions  No.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments  No.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  No.
Credit operations  No.
Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes. Effective June 24, 2019, residents may not use any foreign currency for transactions in Zimbabwe. Previously, residents could conduct business in any of the nine official foreign currencies.

Payments arrangements  Yes.
Bilateral payments arrangements  Yes.
Operative  Yes. There are arrangements with Botswana, Libya, Malawi, Malaysia, Namibia, and South Africa.
Inoperative  No.
Regional arrangements  Yes. Zimbabwe is a member of several regional economic blocks—that is, the SADC and COMESA.
Clearing agreements  Yes. Zimbabwe is a member of the COMESA Clearing House.
Barter agreements and open accounts  No.

Administration of control  Yes. Exchange Control is administered by the RBZ under authority delegated to it by the Ministry of Finance and Economic Development (MOFED) through the Exchange Control Act (Chapter 22:05), Exchange Control SI No. 145 of 1997 and Nos. 109 and 110 of 1996, and Exchange Control directives. The SIs are being amended to reflect the liberalization of the Exchange Control framework and are awaiting promulgation through the government gazette.

Payments arrears  No.
Official  No.
Private  No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)  Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade  Yes. No one, either as principal or agent, may deal in or possess gold unless that person is (1) the holder of a license or a permit, (2) the holder or the distributor of a registered gold mining location, or (3) an employee or an agent of (1) or (2) and is authorized to deal in or possess gold already in the lawful possession of the employer or principal. A mining commissioner may issue to any person a permit authorizing the acquisition, possession, or disposal of less than one troy ounce of gold. For larger amounts, permission must be issued by the secretary for mines. Under the Gold Trade Act, three types of licenses may be issued: gold dealing, gold recovery, and gold assaying. Gold obtained from a registered mining location must be turned over to the holder of its gold dealing license no later than the 10th day of the month, except with specific permission from the mining commissioner or the appropriate minister. Smelting of gold or articles containing gold requires a license from a district commissioner in accordance with the Secondhand Goods Act, which authorizes the possession of smelting equipment. The 2014 National...
Budget Statement presented by the minister of finance and economic development on December 19, 2013, states that only Fidelity Printers and Refiners (an RBZ subsidiary) may buy and export gold.

Exportation of unmanufactured gold is controlled and licensed by the Ministry of Mines and Mining Development and the MOFED; these controls do not apply to the RBZ. Producers and exporters must apply to the MOFED for a gold license and to Fidelity Printers and Refiners for a gold export certificate after assaying. Exporters must apply to the RBZ for authorization to export gold. The importation of gold is controlled by the Gold Trade Act. Gold producers may sell their gold for foreign currency and retain the proceeds indefinitely in their foreign exchange accounts. Fidelity Printers and Refiners is the sole buyer and exporter of gold.

Individuals and firms may open with an AD up to nine foreign exchange accounts denominated in US dollars, South African rand, Botswana pula, pounds sterling, euros, Chinese renminbi, Australian dollars, Japanese yen, and Indian rupees. These may be (1) individual foreign exchange accounts—the balance may be transferred abroad without restriction, including for capital account transfers; (2) general corporate foreign exchange accounts—these hold balances of locally earned foreign currency of companies, state enterprises, and public entities and may be freely transferred abroad for current account transactions. Capital account transfers require Exchange Control approval; and (3) export corporate foreign exchange accounts—these hold foreign currency earned by resident companies (including state enterprises and public entities) through exports and may be freely transferred abroad for current account transactions. Capital account transfers require Exchange Control approval. Funds may be held in these accounts indefinitely. Account holders may withdraw any amount of cash from their foreign exchange accounts. Individuals may deposit any amount with banks on a know-your-customer basis. The designation of Foreign Currency Accounts (FCAs) was changed in 2015. To reduce the administrative burden on ADs and account holders, the CB transformed the FCA framework that was based on Source of Funds Concept into a new FCA framework based on the Account Holder Concept. Under the new framework, the CB re-designated FCAs with a view to providing operational simplicity, convenience to the account holder, and reduction in costs. The FCAs were re-designated and consolidated using the Account Holder Concept into the following two categories: (1) Corporate FCAs (CFCAs) and (2) Individual FCAs (IFCAs).

Changes during 2018 and 2019

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
The trading of Real Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) balances and bond notes was formalized, and thus, the RTGS dollars became part of the multicurrency system.

The currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender, and the multi-currency system in place since 2009 was discontinued.

The currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender, and the multi-currency system in place since 2009 was discontinued.

Zimbabwe adopted a de jure floating exchange rate arrangement, previously a “no separate legal tender” arrangement. The RBZ denominated legally, through Statutory Instrument No. 33 of 2019, the existing Real Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) balances, bond notes, and coins in circulation as RTGS dollars making them part of the multi-currency system in Zimbabwe. An interbank foreign exchange market was established to formalize the trading of RTGS dollar balances and bond notes with the US dollars and other currencies on a willing seller-willing buyer basis through banks and bureaux de changes. This decision to establish a flexible exchange rate market was taken in consultation with Government and business taking into consideration the distortions in the market caused by multi-pricing. The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to floating from other managed.

The currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender, replacing at par with the previous Real Time Gross Settlement dollar, and the multi-currency system in place since 2009 was discontinued.

The monetary policy framework was changed from exchange rate anchor to monetary aggregate target.

The existing Real Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) balances, bond notes, and coins in circulation were denominated as RTGS dollars, and trading was formalized of RTGS balances and bond notes with US dollars and other currencies on a willing-buyer willing-seller basis through banks and bureaux de change. Previously, the RBZ issued bond notes and bond coins, traded at parity with the US dollar.

Residents may not use any foreign currency for transactions in Zimbabwe. Previously, residents could conduct business in any of the nine official foreign currencies.

Surrender requirement to the CB was set as follows: (1) Exporters in agriculture and manufacturing sectors must surrender 20%, (2) gold producers must surrender 45%, and (3) all other mineral exporters must surrender 50%.
