The net debtor interbank position between a Lebanese bank and its subsidiaries and sister companies abroad may not exceed 25% of Tier 1 capital. This limit also applies to credit from banks in Lebanon to affiliated nonfinancial entities abroad.

Commercial banks may not lend to specialized or Islamic banks of the same group.

Credit counters are not allowed to grant loans for one individual.
borrower or group of borrowers more than 5% of their equity or the equivalent of US$0.1 million whichever is less, provided the monthly payments for all loans granted by any credit institution do not exceed 35% of the family income (BDL Basic Circular to credit counters No. 2).

Banks are not allowed to grant loans to credit counters (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 410).

Banks are allowed to purchase shares and securities of a participating nature irrespective of currency, within the limits set by Article 153 of the Code of Money and Credit. They may purchase up to 20% of Tier 1 capital in corporate bonds issued locally. Banks may repurchase their own securities and global depositary receipts (GDRs) issued against their shares within the limit of 5% of their total shares and with BDL approval. The total amount purchased by Banks of GDRs issued against their shares and of its shares traded in the financial markets is limited to 10% of its total shares.

Purchase of bank CDs or bonds issued by banks or nonbank financial institutions is limited to 100% of the issuer’s own funds. Shares or other securities of a participating nature in any nonfinancial company may not exceed 10% of a bank’s or financial institution’s equity. Shares, stocks, and other capital participation may not lead to a bank’s or financial institution’s unlimited liability or responsibility.

The reserve requirement on Lebanese pound deposits is 25% for demand and 15% for term deposits. Banks are subject to a mandatory placement (remunerated) at the BDL of 15% of their foreign currency deposits, bonds, and CDs issued by banks in foreign currency, in addition to loans from financial sector entities with a maturity of one year or less. No differential reserve requirement applies to foreign currency deposits except mandatory placement, which is 15% as mentioned above. However, effective reserve requirements on Lebanese pounds are lower than statutory requirements because the BDL introduced subsidy plans that allow banks to deduct qualifying loans from required reserves on customer deposits, up to 90% of the reserve requirement. Deduction is no longer applicable against loans granted after October 20, 2017 (Intermediate Circular No. 475).

Net liquid assets must not be less than 10% of all foreign-exchange-denominated deposits, CDs, bonds, and loans from the financial sector with a remaining maturity of one year or less. Effective March 8, 2018, in addition to the above requirement, banks should abide by the Basel III LCR per significant currency which requires banks to hold liquid assets covering more than 100% of net cash outflows.

There is no differential treatment for nonresident deposits. The reserve requirement on Lebanese pound deposits is 25% for demand and 15% for term deposits. Banks are subject to a mandatory placement (remunerated) at the BDL of 15% of their foreign currency deposits, bonds, and CDs issued by banks in foreign currency, in addition to loans from financial sector entities with a maturity of one year or less. No differential reserve requirement applies to foreign currency deposits except mandatory placement as mentioned above, which is 15%. However, effective reserve requirements on Lebanese pounds are lower than statutory requirements because the BDL introduced subsidy plans that allow banks to deduct qualifying loans from required reserves on customer deposits, up to 90% of the reserve requirement. Deduction is no longer applicable against loans granted after October 20, 2017 (Intermediate Circular No. 475).

Effective April 9, 2020 fresh funds resulting from cash transactions in foreign currencies and incoming transfers from abroad are not subject to the 15% mandatory reserves provided the following:

1. Freedom to use these funds by the depositor and to benefit from all banking services, including transfers abroad, cash withdrawals and bank card services in Lebanon and abroad.
2. Necessary accounting procedures are taken by banks to track the use of these funds (opening a special account or a sub-account).

BDL approval is required for investments by banks and financial institutions in mutual funds in Lebanon.

BDL approval is required for banks to acquire shares in financial entities abroad within the limits set by Article 153 of the Code of Money and Credit. The following limits and terms apply to banks’ and financial institutions’ holdings of financial instruments, including by their foreign branches and subsidiaries abroad:

1. A 25% equity limit applies to the nominal value of structured financial products held and purchased abroad, provided (a) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or a guarantor rated at least A and (b) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed.
2. A 10% equity limit applies to CLNs related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs denominated in foreign currencies and purchased from abroad, provided (a) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed, (b) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or guarantor rated at least A, and (c) they provide for mandatory physical settlement in case of a credit event, such as default on Eurobonds or BDL CDs, whereby changes in prices of credit default swaps on Lebanese treasury bills not induced by an internationally recognized credit event are not categorized as a credit event and do not call for mandatory physical settlement.
3. A 50% equity limit on non-G10 sovereign bonds rated at least BBB and bonds issued by an issuer rated at least BBB; if guaranteed, the guarantor must be rated at least BBB by S&P or an equivalent rating agency. The 50% limit includes the 25% structured financial products’ equity limit and the 10% CLNs related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs in foreign currencies equity limit and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more.
4. A 10% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except from G10 countries) and other bonds, structured financial products, and CLN operations with one issuer.
5. A 10% limit applies to deposits abroad with maturity of one year or longer.
6. A 50% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except from G10 countries) and corporate bonds, structured financial products, CLNs, and interbank deposits.
7. Investments by Lebanese affiliates abroad in sovereign bonds in the currency of the host country may not exceed deposits in the same currency at the affiliate.

With respect to item (3), the BDL may authorize banks and financial institutions to exceed the 50% limit, if they have a high capital adequacy ratio and if they abide by BCC and BDL circulars, particularly related to the fulfillment of ethical and technical qualifications required to practice specific functions in the banking and financial sector. In the calculation of all ratios mentioned, the investments of banks’ and financial institutions’ branches and subsidiaries abroad are included in the portfolio of bonds, structured financial products, CLNs, and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more. When placing bids, banks and financial institutions must also abide by the statutory limits.

Banks are not allowed, directly or indirectly, to conduct any transactions with bearer shares companies and mutual funds or companies and mutual funds owned by other companies and mutual funds with bearer shares (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 411).

| In banks by nonresidents | Yes. | Approval is required for acquisition of shares in a bank if (1) it leads directly or indirectly to the acquisition by the purchaser more than 5% of total shares or voting rights; (2) the purchaser already holds more than 5% or more of total shares or voting rights; (3) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member or an elected member of the board of directors of the bank involved; (4) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member of the senior management or an employee of the bank involved and holds 1% or more of the total shares if such shares are listed; or (5) the purchase of shares by an employee leads directly or indirectly to his or her acquisition of more than 1% of the total shares if such shares are listed. Authorization and regulations also apply to ascendants, spouses, and descendants of sellers and purchasers. Foreign banks may establish wholly owned branches, subject to BDL approval. Banks and financial institutions require BDL approval to issue shares locally or abroad.

When purchasers of shares in banks are companies or mutual funds, their respective by-laws or Articles of Association must explicitly include that all their shares are in registered form, and are fully and continuously owned, whether directly or indirectly, by natural persons or companies whose shares are in registered form (BDL Intermediary Circular No. 411).

| Open foreign exchange position limits | Yes. | For banks, the net trading foreign exchange position is limited to 1% of net Tier 1 capital, and the global position is limited to 40% of net Tier 1 capital. Banks may hold a fixed position in foreign currencies up to 60% of their Tier 1 equity after deduction of assets subject to Article 153 of the law of Money and Credit and Equity instruments in foreign currencies. Other structural positions are subject to BDL approval (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 474 of October 5, 2017). Nonbank financial institutions may hold (1) a long net trading position up to 100% of their free equity in Lebanese pounds. This includes positions held for hedging their capital in Lebanese pounds; and (2) a short net trading position up to 5% of Tier 1 equity.

| On resident assets and liabilities | Yes. |
| On nonresident assets and liabilities | Yes. |
| Provisions specific to institutional investors | No. |
| Insurance companies | Yes. | Decree No. 2441 of June 29, 2009, imposes a number of limitations on the invested assets of insurance companies for the sake of measuring admissible assets in comparison with insurance liabilities. Companies need to observe strict currency matching in respect of the written liabilities. |

| Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents | Yes. | There are no absolute limits for investing in nonresident securities for insurance companies. However, a maximum of 50% of assets backing life insurance liabilities relating to polices denominated in foreign currencies (whether for life or composite insurance companies) may be invested | in securities issued by nonresidents. No securities issued by nonresidents are considered in the computation of admitted assets for non-life companies (or for the non-life operations in composite insurance companies). These investments to be admitted must be quoted and approved by Insurance Control Commission (ICC).

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad
Yes. There are no absolute limits for investing in these securities for insurance companies. However, a maximum of 50% of assets backing life insurance liabilities relating to policies denominated in foreign currencies (whether for life or composite insurance companies) may be invested in portfolios held abroad. No portfolios held abroad are considered in the computation of admitted assets for non-life companies (or for the non-life operations in composite insurance companies). These investments to be admitted must be quoted and approved by ICC.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally
Yes. For life insurance companies (or for the life operations of composite insurance companies), a minimum limit for cash investments and investments in treasury bills and bonds held locally is set at 10% of the company’s life insurance obligations, of which no less than 5% should be in cash deposits only. For non-life-insurance companies (or for the non-life operations in composite insurance companies), these minimums are, respectively, 20% and 10%.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition
Yes. For life insurance companies, the 50% limit on admissible foreign investments is applied to the insurance liabilities relating to policies issued in foreign currencies.

Pension funds
No.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents
No.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Investment firms and collective investment funds
Yes. The CMA is the authority responsible for regulating the establishment, sale, and distribution of local and foreign collective investment schemes.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents
Yes. In general, no limits are imposed, but CMA approval is required for promotion and sale of foreign collective investment securities. Collective investment fund managers may not own more than 15% of the securities of a single issuer. Effective January 24, 2019, new provisions were added to the regulations regarding portfolio investment abroad by investment firms and collective investment funds. Specifically:

A feeder fund may invest up to 100% of the NAV of the fund into a designated master fund or sub-fund which holds a diversified portfolio of investments. A feeder fund investing in a master fund or sub-fund is exempted from the below-mentioned 15% limit on investment in one issuer.

Not more than 100% of the NAV of a fund may be hedged. The manager must not borrow on behalf of an open-ended scheme or interval scheme by any method except for borrowing of a maximum of 10% of the total asset value of the fund for a maximum of 8 days by way of overdraft. Such borrowing must not be rolled over, must only be used to meet redemptions, and must not be used for investment or to finance payment of investment returns to unit holders.

The manager must not borrow on behalf of a closed-ended fund more than 20% of the total asset value of the fund.
In the case of a closed-ended fund investing in real estate, the manager must ensure that no more than 60% of the value of any one piece of real estate is secured by mortgage.
Not more than 15% of the NAV of a collective investment fund is permitted to be invested in a specific class of securities of any one issuer or to be deposited with one bank except that: (1) up to 35% of its NAV may be invested in one issue of Lebanese government securities or government securities issued by G10 countries; (2) a fund may only invest up to 15% of its NAV in one other scheme, provided fund is not a sub-fund within the same umbrella fund as the investing fund; (3) a fund is permitted to have an aggregate exposure of not more than 20% of its NAV to the securities issued by any one issuer and its associates and deposits of the same body corporate and its associates; (4) a fund is permitted to invest up to 100% of its NAV in government securities, provided it does not invest more than 35% of its NAV in any one issue of such securities.
A collective investment fund is permitted to invest up to 100% of its NAV in foreign government securities subject to the following: (1) the sovereign foreign government securities are rated investment grade BBB or equivalent; and (2) at no time such fund invests more than 35% of its NAV in any one issue of such securities.
Not more than 15% of the NAV of a collective investment fund must be invested in any one real estate investment.
The collective investment fund manager of an open-ended fund or an interval fund may invest not more than 10% of the NAV of that fund in shares that are not listed or traded on a securities exchange.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes.

Collective investment funds that acquire shares in a Lebanese bank must include in their by-laws the following provisions: (1) Their shares must be owned by individuals, banks, or financial institutions and may not be sold, except to individuals, banks, or financial institutions. (2) If their participation and beneficiary rights equal or exceed 5% of the common shares of the Lebanese bank, they must send the BDL and BCC all the requested information related to their balance sheet and shareholders. (3) BDL approval is required to modify the above provisions and in case of the following: (a) acquisition of more than 5% of common shares, directly or indirectly, by the beneficiary, purchaser, assignee or assignee’s spouse or children, or any related economic group; (b) acquisition of more than 5% of the bank’s common shares by the purchaser, assignee or assignee’s spouse or children, or any related economic group; or (c) the assignor or the assignee or any beneficiary is a current or elected board member or partner of the collective investment fund, regardless of the number of transferred shares. BDL approval is not required if shares are transferred when shareholders exercise their preemptive right in the event of a capital increase.
Effective January 24, 2019, new provisions were added related to locally held investment portfolio of investment firms and collective investment funds. Specifically, a collective investment fund manager must insure that at least 50% of the real estate constituting fund property is occupied and income-producing.
A collective investment fund manager must invest a substantial proportion of its assets in a representative sampling of securities constituting a specified index or must replicate a specified index. The manager of a money market fund must not invest its capital in any instrument with a maturity or remaining maturity at acquisition of more than one year and not less than 50% of the value of the fund must be invested in instruments with a maturity or remaining maturity at acquisition of 90 days or less. The manager of a fund of funds must invest at least 90% of the NAV of the fund in other collective investment funds that are eligible for investment and up to 10% of the value of the fund in cash, deposits, and money market instruments.

Foreign exchange market
- Yes. Commercial banks may set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients freely.
- Yes. Three ADs participate in the spot exchange market. Foreign exchange bureaus, referred to as ADLAs (ADs with limited authority), which operate under the provisions of the Financial Institutions (Foreign Exchange Bureau) Regulations, 2014, also participate in foreign exchange market. There are two ADLAs, and their operations are limited to spot purchases and sales of foreign currency and traveler’s checks from travelers for rand and maloti, and remittances for individuals on discretionary allowance for domestic purposes (such as donations, maintenance, monetary gifts and loans, travel allowance, study allowance, alimony and child support, wedding, and other special occasion expenses). Other transactions may be approved by the commissioner. ADLAs may also make transfers on behalf of clients. Currently, ADLAs may not make import payments and other transfers.

In total, there are five participants in the spot foreign exchange market as of December 31, 2019.

Operated by the central bank
- Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility
- Yes.

- The Central Bank of Lesotho (CBL) buys and sells maloti for rand at the official rate plus a commission. Excess rand are repatriated; excess maloti are collected from a designated bank in South Africa.
ADs are permitted to conduct forward exchange operations through their correspondent banks abroad at rates quoted by the latter. The CBL does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

| Domestic currency accounts | Yes. |
| Convertible into foreign currency | No. |
| Approval required | No. |
| Blocked accounts | Yes. |

Funds in emigrants’ blocked loti accounts may be invested in securities and other CBL-approved investments. Free transfer of income from emigrants’ blocked assets is limited to M 4 million an individual and M 8 million a family a year. However, in cases where the aforementioned amounts exceed the mentioned amounts, an application together with a copy of written confirmation from the Revenue Authority confirming that tax commitments have been met should be submitted to the CBL for approval. It should also be noted that the above amounts exclude household and personal effects, caravans, motor vehicles, motorcycles, and trailers to be exported.

Imports and Import Payments

| Foreign exchange budget | No. |
| Financing requirements for imports | Yes. |
| Minimum financing requirements | No. |
| Advance payment requirements | Yes. |

Foreign exchange may be provided for advance payment for up to 100% of the ex-factory cost of capital goods to be imported not exceeding a total value of M 10 million. Advance payment for capital goods in excess of M 10 million may be provided up to 100% of the ex-factory cost. The CBL will approve requests for the purchase of foreign exchange in respect of advance payment for capital goods up to 100% of the ex-factory cost of goods to be imported, when the total payments exceed M 10 million, subject to the verification of the bona fide nature of the transaction for which the foreign exchange is being requested.

| Advance import deposits | Yes. |
| Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports | Yes. |

These deposits are subject to approval.

The following documents are needed to meet the domiciliation requirements: (1) commercial invoices, (2) transport documents prescribed by UCP 600 (Uniform Customs and Practice for Documentary Credits), (3) Freight Forwarder’s Certificate of Receipt, and (4) consignee’s copy of the electronic SAD 500 Customs Declaration Form.

Yes.  The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating. The Central Bank of Liberia (CBL) intervenes in the foreign exchange market to smooth volatility. Since July 2018, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as crawl-like. While the exchange rate has appreciated since November 2019, more observations are necessary to determine its new trend. Until then, the de facto exchange rate arrangement remains classified as a crawl-like arrangement. The foreign exchange

Official exchange rate
Yes. There is no official or reference exchange rate. The prevailing market rate published by the CBL is used for customs and valuation. The CBL bases the buying and selling exchange rates of the Liberian dollar vis-à-vis the US dollar on a daily survey of the major commercial centers and selected cities in the 15 counties. These rates are published in the local newspapers and the CBL website. They are also submitted based on request.

Yes. The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar. The exchange rate is the intermediate target that guides the CBL’s setting of the level of the Monetary Policy Rate (MPR), which, effective November 1, 2019, became the operational target, by which the CBL influences monetary conditions in the economy to stabilize exchange rate and inflation and guide inflation expectations.

Foreign exchange market Yes.

Spot exchange market Yes. Foreign exchange dealers, including banks, may buy and sell currency, including US dollars, at market-determined exchange rates. Licensed commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus may deal in foreign exchange with the public. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to maintain accounts abroad. As of December 31, 2019, nine licensed commercial banks were operational. Licenses to deal in foreign exchange are granted by the CBL. As of December 31, 2019, there were 166 registered authorized foreign exchange bureaus in Liberia. Foreign exchange bureaus do not engage in transactions with the CBL. They do not have accounts with the CBL, nor do they make foreign currency payments or transfers on behalf of their clients.

Operated by the central bank No.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No. With the adoption of a new monetary policy approach – interest rate targeting – the foreign exchange auctions were discontinued effective November 1, 2019. Previously, the CBL sold foreign exchange at a regular weekly auction and announced in advance the amount of US dollars to be sold. There was no maximum bid, but there was a minimum bid of US$1,000. All banks and registered foreign exchange bureaus could participate. Clients could bid through their banks. Foreign exchange was allocated on the marginal approach; that is, the clearing rate was applied to all successful bids. Bids were rejected if they did not comply with the auction rules. Auctions were announced and results were published in the bimonthly Liberia Financial Statistics. There was no noncompetitive window for foreign exchange bureaus, and the CBL required all businesses to participate through the regular auction. The regulations stipulated sanctions for default, such as fines and exclusion from the auction. Bidders who violated auction rules were sanctioned by the CBL, including suspension or exclusion from future auctions or a penalty of L$0.1 million. Participants were not required to finance specific international transactions with the foreign exchange obtained at the retail auction.

- Import licenses and other nontariff measures
  - Yes.
There is no general system of import controls, but the importation of many items, including safety matches, electrode welding rods, and liquefied petroleum gas, is subject to quantitative restrictions. Licenses to import inexpensive, widely consumed varieties of rice are issued to private distributors by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. The importation of more expensive rice is not subject to official controls.

By law, import declaration is required only for items on the negative list—that is, fuel and selected chemicals, explosives, hazardous waste, cultural artifacts, obscene materials, military vehicles, and aircraft. In practice, customs officials also require declaration of items not included on the negative list.

In January 2017, Liberia migrated to the 2017 version of the Harmonized System, and Customs commenced a phase (migration plan) implementation of the ECOWAS CET. The CET has five tariff bands including Basic Social Goods, Basic Goods, Intermediate Goods, Finished Products, and Selected Finished Products. In addition to the import duty, a Goods and Services Tax (GST) is also paid on all imported goods. The GST rate over the last three years including the current year is 10%. Excise tax is also paid on a limited number of products, such as alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages, tobacco products, and jewelries.

Due to the phase approach to implementing the ECOWAS CET, Liberia’s current duty rates vary from that of the ECOWAS CET. The average import duty rate for all 5899 tariff lines of the ECOWAS CET is 11.7%, whereas the average duty rate for Liberia over the last three years is 4.5%.

Effective September 16, 2019, the import duty rates for beverages and tobacco were adjusted from the ECOWAS ad valorem rates to specific rates based on liters for beverages and number of sticks for cigarettes. This makes Liberia’s current import duty rate on beverages and tobacco about 200% higher than the ECOWAS CET. A new excise law was legislated in 2018 and became effective July 1, 2019. The combination of excessive duty and excise rates on imported beverages and tobacco has resulted in a reduction in importation through formal channels and has increased smuggling of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products by seacoast and unofficial land border crossing points, thereby reducing revenue. This is expected to remain the case until the rates on alcoholic and tobacco products are harmonized with those in neighboring countries.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes.

Borrowing abroad No.
Maintenance of accounts abroad: Yes.

Under the Guidelines Concerning the Management of Foreign Exchange Risk Exposure and Placements Abroad by Commercial Banks, banks may not place aggregate liquid assets abroad in an amount exceeding 40% of their foreign currency deposits, except with the CBL executive governor’s approval. Banks may place funds with foreign banks with a minimum rating of A from an internationally recognized rating agency. Funds placed abroad must, at all times, be available to meet banks’ liquidity needs abroad and at home.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits): No.

Lending locally in foreign exchange: No.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange: No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange: Yes.

Reserve requirements: Yes.

The requirement ratios are 25% for Liberian dollar deposits and 10% for US dollar deposits.

Liquid asset requirements: No.

The minimum liquidity requirement for licensed commercial banks is 15%, measured as the percentage of liquid assets to deposit and other designated liabilities. It applies to both domestic and foreign currency deposits.

Interest rate controls: No.

Credit controls: No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents: No.

Reserve requirements: No.

Nonresidents’ deposit accounts are included in the calculation of the reserve requirement.

Liquid asset requirements: No.

The minimum liquidity requirement for licensed commercial banks is 15%, measured as the percentage of liquid assets to deposit liabilities.

Interest rate controls: No.

Credit controls: No.

There are no credit controls that differentiate the treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents from those held by residents.

Investment regulations: Yes.

Abroad by banks: Yes.

Banks may invest in short-term financial instruments issued by foreign banks with a minimum rating of A or fiscal authorities of countries with a minimum rating of AA from an internationally recognized rating agency. These instruments must be readily convertible to cash, without undue loss to banks, and must be available to meet banks’ liquidity needs abroad and at home.

In banks by nonresidents: No.

There are no restrictions on investments in banks by nonresidents.

Open foreign exchange position limits: Yes.

On resident assets and liabilities: Yes.

The limit on the overall open foreign exchange position of banks is 40% of regulatory capital; the limit on single currency exposure is 20% of regulatory capital. These limits apply to the bank as a single entity or as a consolidated entity.

On nonresident assets and liabilities: Yes.

The limit on the overall open foreign exchange position of banks is 40% of regulatory capital; the limit on single currency exposure is 20% of regulatory capital. These limits apply to the bank as a single entity or as a consolidated entity.

The Monetary Policy Rate became the operational target, by which the CBL influences monetary conditions in the economy to stabilize exchange rate and inflation and guide inflation expectations.

With the adoption of a new monetary policy approach – interest rate targeting – the foreign exchange auctions were discontinued. Previously, the CBL sold foreign exchange at a regular weekly auction and announced in advance the amount of US dollars to be sold. There was no maximum bid, but there was a minimum bid of US$1,000. All banks and registered foreign exchange bureaus could participate. Clients could bid through their banks. Foreign exchange was allocated on the marginal approach; that is, the clearing rate was applied to all successful bids. Bids were rejected if they did not comply with the auction rules. Auctions were announced and results were published in the bimonthly Liberia Financial Statistics. There was no noncompetitive window for foreign exchange bureaus, and the CBL required all businesses to participate through the regular auction. The regulations stipulated sanctions for default, such as fines and exclusion from the auction. Bidders who violated auction rules were sanctioned by the CBL, including suspension or exclusion from future auctions or a penalty of L$0.1 million. Participants were not required to finance specific international transactions with the foreign exchange obtained at the retail auction.

Imports and Import Payments

| Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports | 11/01/2019 | Foreign exchange auctions were discontinued. Previously, importers were required to indicate evidence of their importation by means of import permit declaration to take part in the CBL foreign exchange auction. |
| Import taxes and/or tariffs | 07/01/2019 | The new excise law legislated in 2018 became effective. The combination of excessive duty and excise rates on imported beverages and tobacco has resulted in a reduction in importation through formal channels and has increased smuggling of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products by seacoast and unofficial land border crossing points, thereby reducing revenue. This is expected to remain the case until the rates on alcoholic and tobacco products are harmonized with those in neighboring countries. |
| 09/16/2019 | The import duty rates for beverages and tobacco were adjusted from the ECOWAS ad valorem rates to specific rates based on liters for beverages and number of sticks for cigarettes. This makes Liberia’s current import duty rate on beverages and tobacco about 200% higher than the ECOWAS CET. |

On September 19, 2018, a new surtax on sales of foreign currency for commercial or personal purposes (excluding family allowance) was introduced and on September 23, 2018, the rate was set at 183%, devaluing the exchange rate for certain transactions to about LD 3.9 per US dollar. On July 30, 2019, it was decided to reduce it to 163%, effective August 4, 2019, appreciating the exchange rate to about LD 3.70 per US dollar.

Commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients within the range decided by the CBL. The conversion to Libyan dinars of oil export proceeds is conducted at the official rate of about LD 1.4 per US dollar.

As of December 31, 2019, there were 18 institutions licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public. The CBL is the only institution that grants licenses. Recently, a number of foreign exchange bureaus and companies were licensed to conduct foreign currency transactions. These bureaus and companies have not started operations yet.

The CBL buys and sells foreign exchange for dinars at the official rate with a margin of 0.5% on sales. For foreign exchange cash sales, the CBL adds 0.5% to the noncash selling rate to account for cash transportation and insurance costs. The margin on selling rates applicable to money orders and drafts is 1.0%. Commercial banks and government-owned banks may access the CBL’s foreign exchange facility.

Allocation is handled in accordance with foreign exchange market needs.

There are no auctions in the foreign exchange market.

There is no foreign exchange interbank market.

Foreign exchange accounts permitted | Yes. | |
| Approval required | No. | Nonresident accounts are permitted based on the account holder’s length of residence in accordance with the IMF’s Balance of Payments Manual. Nonresidents working in Libya may open these accounts for deposit of legitimate earnings. Other credits to nonresident accounts require the CBL approval. Funds brought in by nonresidents working under contracts in their own name must be kept with an authorized bank. Payments received under contracts may also be credited to these accounts, but, in general, remittances may not exceed the net-of-tax amount in the contract. Funds brought in by nonresidents may be reexported if not used, with documentation. Accounts of foreign contractors licensed under Law No. 5 (1997) for the promotion of foreign capital investment are exempt from restrictions. Remittances from nonresident accounts are not restricted and do not require the CBL approval.

Floating
Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Lithuania participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate
Yes. The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:15 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates. The Bank of Lithuania (BOL) republishes daily the euro foreign exchange rates published by the ECB and publishes monthly non-ECB euro foreign exchange reference rates published by the BOL.

To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1).
“Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Price stability is commonly defined as inflation rates at levels below, but close to, 2% over the medium term.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes No. In accordance with EC Regulation No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders subject to Council Regulation (EEC) No. 2913/92 (Community Customs Code). The Act of Accession to the EU included Lithuania in the Community Customs Area (12003TN02/19/A1). Transactions exceeding the equivalent of €15,000 or more must be reported to the Financial Crime Investigation Service.

ECB minimum reserve regime is in effect with the introduction of the euro. According to the Regulation (EC) No. 1745/2003 of the ECB of September 12, 2003, on the application of minimum reserves (ECB/2003/9), the institutions subject to the minimum reserve requirements should comply with the reserve requirements and are to hold required reserves on the accounts of the BOL. The minimum reserve requirement is the same for deposits in euro and in foreign currencies. The reserve base consists of deposits and issued debt securities. If an institution has liabilities in relation to a branch of the same entity, or in relation to the head office or registered office of the same entity, which are located outside participating Member States, it must include such liabilities in the reserve base. Liabilities which are owed to the ECB, to the participating national central bank, or to credit institutions which are subject to reserve requirements, are excluded from the reserve base. The amount of required reserves for a particular maintenance period should be calculated by applying the reserve ratios defined by the ECB. A reserve ratio of 0% is applied to the deposits with agreed maturity over two years, deposits redeemable at notice over two years, repos, and debt securities issued with an original maturity over two years. A reserve ratio of 1% applies to all other liabilities included in the reserve base.
Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 on Prudential Requirements for Credit Institutions and Investment Firms CRR applies. In particular, CRR Article 351 states, “De minimis and weighting for foreign exchange risk—If the sum of an institution’s overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position, calculated in accordance with the procedure set out in Article 352, including for any foreign exchange and gold positions for which own funds requirements are calculated using an internal model, exceeds 2% of its total own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk. The own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk must be the sum of its overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position in the reporting currency, multiplied by 8%.”

On resident assets and liabilities Yes.

On nonresident assets and liabilities Yes.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Insurance companies Yes. In line with provisions of Article 132 of the Directive 2009/138/EC (Solvency II), assets held to cover the technical provisions must be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies may only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. Free floating
Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Luxembourg participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information on its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks, which normally takes place at 2:15 p.m. Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients.

In accordance with Council Regulation (EU) No. 1024/2013, no entity may engage in the business of a credit institution without having been granted authorization by the ECB. As of December 31, 2019, there were 127 licensed credit institutions in Luxembourg. Foreign exchange bureaus are authorized by Article 28-2 of the Law of April 5, 1993, and must be licensed by the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier (CSSF). They may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB. However, Article 28-2 of the Law of April 5, 1993, states that “persons carrying out foreign exchange cash operations are professionals who carry out operations involving the purchase or sale of foreign currencies in cash. Such persons must be required to display the rates applied to the various currencies dealt in and to issue to clients, with respect to each operation, a statement indicating the name of the foreign exchange office, the amounts in the currencies dealt in, the rates applied, and the date of the operation.

Authorization to perform cash-exchange transactions is conditional on the production of evidence showing the existence of a capital base of not less than €50,000.” As of December 31, 2019, there are no foreign exchange bureaus in operation in Luxembourg.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements

In principle, Luxembourg may not impose any kind of restriction on capital movement and payment within the EU and with third countries.

Luxembourg is, however, allowed to implement relevant tax provisions creating a distinction between taxpayers in different tax situations based on their residence or the location of their investment. Measures may also be adopted with a view to avoid breaches of national tax law and prudential supervision over financial institutions, organize declaration on movement of capital for the sake of administrative or statistical information, or take measures intended to protect public security.

Under exceptional circumstances, movements of capital coming from or going to third countries may also be restricted if they may cause or threaten to cause serious difficulties for the functioning of the economic and monetary union.

Floating                                           | Yes. |

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate is determined in the official interbank market. Banky Foiben'î Madagasikara (the Central Bank of Madagascar or CBM) intervenes... in the interbank market to smooth large exchange rate fluctuations and meet foreign reserve targets. The CBM publishes its interventions daily and only in terms of volume through the interbank foreign exchange market (MID) for participating banks. It also publishes the reference exchange rate and the lowest rate and the highest rate and submits them daily and weekly by courier to the Ministry of Finance and Budget (MFB) and the Presidency.

In the context of substantially lower exports caused by the disruption of trade flows relating to the pandemic, the exchange rate depreciated by 7.7% vis-à-vis the euro and 6.6% vis-à-vis the dollar between end-December 2019 and end-June 2020. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

The official exchange rate is the reference rate published at 2:45 p.m., which is computed daily in the interbank market and is used for government transactions. This rate is also used for customs valuation but not on an instantaneous basis. (In practice, customs duties paid by importers are set using an average of the previous week’s interbank exchange rates.)

The monetary policy aims to control the monetary aggregates.
The euro and the US dollar are the only currencies quoted on this market. The exchange rates of other currencies are determined on the basis of the rates of these currencies against the US dollar in the international market. Commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate and commissions for transactions with their clients. The foreign exchange market handles spot and forward operations on a continuous basis.

Authorized intermediaries—namely primary banks and post offices—may conduct all authorized foreign exchange transactions (Article 1 of the Foreign Exchange Code). Territorial banks hold a banking license that allows them to conduct all bank transactions, including foreign currency transactions, and deal in foreign exchange with the public. Exchange bureaus are authorized to carry out over-the-counter exchange transactions, provided they obtain licenses issued by the Banking and Financial Supervision Commission (CSBF). Such institutions may buy and sell foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks, accept foreign currency checks drawn on bank accounts and bank checks, and buy and sell foreign currency held in foreign exchange accounts in Malagasy banks. Because they do not have the status of authorized intermediaries, exchange bureaus may not engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB, maintain accounts abroad, or make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

As of December 31, 2019, 11 banks were licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public, and there were 21 exchange bureaus.

Interbank market Yes. Authorized intermediaries and the CBM participate in an electronic network that allows them to continuously quote ariary for US dollars and euros. Nine of the eleven banks are licensed by the CBM to participate in the MID. The CBM intervenes directly with market participants. Each participant proposes its quotes. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread or the commission of market participants. The interbank market is developing gradually. While 11 licensed territorial banks can participate in the interbank market, 4 to 7 banks participate regularly, including the CBM.

Over the counter Yes. The foreign exchange market operates over the counter. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants.

Brokerage No.
Market making No.

Forward exchange market Yes. The CBM may participate in the forward foreign exchange market. Importers may buy foreign currency from their banks 120 days before settlement. There is a 120-day maximum for documentary credits for spot exchange cover (Article 28) and a 30-day maximum for documentary collections (remises documentaires), as well as a 360-day maximum for documentary credits for hedging delayed purchases or “couverture de change au comptant différé” (Article 33) with foreign exchange. Foreign exchange swap transactions are used as a CBM monetary policy instrument pursuant to Instruction No. 0002-DOM/17. Banks may not use foreign exchange swaps with another bank or their clients.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes.
Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international current or capital transactions.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international current transactions.

For capital transactions Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Credit operations Yes. Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international capital transactions.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. The use of foreign exchange among residents, including transfers between accounts and foreign exchange transactions conducted outside of authorized intermediaries (change illicite), is prohibited by the foreign exchange regulations, which require that prices be posted, leases and invoices prepared, and payments made in ariary, except in the following cases: (1) prices posted for cross-border services (air and maritime); (2) residential and commercial leases prepared for export processing zone and free trade zone enterprises; (3) invoices issued for exporters of goods and services intended for foreign countries or free trade zone enterprises; and (4) prices of goods and services posted and paid for in accordance with laws and regulations.

Payments arrangements

Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements

Yes.

Operative

No. There are currently no operative bilateral payments.

Inoperative

Yes. There was an arrangement with Mauritius that has been inoperative for some time.

Regional arrangements

Yes. Madagascar is a member of the Regional Integration Facilitation Forum.

Clearing agreements

No.

Barter agreements and open accounts

No. Regulations prohibit barter trade.

Administration of control

Yes. Exchange control is administered by the External Finance Unit of the General Directorate of the Treasury, which also supervises borrowing and lending abroad by residents; foreign exchange lending and borrowing to and for the profit of nonresidents; and the issuance, sale, and introduction of foreign securities in Madagascar. Approval for current transactions has been delegated to authorized intermediaries, except for capital operations, which require MOF authorization. All exchange transactions must be effected through such intermediaries.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

Yes.

On domestic ownership and/or trade

Yes. Approved collectors acting in their own name and on their own behalf may purchase gold within the country from holders of valid gold-mining titles, authorized holders of Gold Board gold-washing rights, and agencies for approved collectors.

On external trade

Yes. Imports and exports of gold require authorization from the Ministry of Mines. Exempt from this requirement are (1) imports and exports by or on behalf of the CBM, and (2) imports and exports of manufactured articles containing only a small quantity of gold (such as gold-filled or gold-plated articles). Residents may take abroad 250 grams of hallmarked gold jewelry a person without declaration; declaration is mandatory for quantities above 250 grams. Tourists may take abroad 1 kilogram of hallmarked gold jewelry on submission of an exchange declaration corresponding to the jewelry’s value. Imports of gold, whether licensed or exempt from the licensing requirement, are subject to customs declaration. Holders of a valid gold-mining title or a gold-washing permit or rights thereto may sell gold to any approved collector. However, Malagasy authorities and their agents have first rights to purchase gold produced in the country. The Gold Board and agencies authorized by the Ministry of Mines may export gold in all its forms. Jewelers, goldsmiths, and private sector professionals who use gold may export it only in worked form, with the approval of the minister.

Resident Accounts

- Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.
- Held domestically: Yes.

Residents may open foreign exchange accounts with local commercial banks. Only transfers from abroad, foreign banknotes, traveler’s checks, and bank checks may be deposited in these accounts without documentation. These accounts may be debited for conversion to domestic currency through sale on the interbank market. Balances may not be transferred abroad freely. Foreign currency accounts may not be credited in ariary.

Conversion to foreign banknotes is allowed only within the limits stipulated in the foreign exchange control regulations and requires MOF approval. According to Article 20, foreign currency may not be purchased in the MID for deposit to such accounts, nor may they be credited in ariary; all account holders are authorized to conduct foreign exchange operations, settlements, transfers or arbitrage or withdrawals in the form of traveler’s checks or bank checks for current transactions in the context of delegations to authorized intermediaries (Articles 19 and 20 of Decree No. 2009-048 of January 12, 2009). Transfers of foreign exchange from one resident’s foreign exchange account to another’s are not permitted, except (1) transfers between free trade areas, (2) payments by free trade zone enterprises within the national customs territory, (3) payments by international institutions or embassies to foreign consultants with resident status, and (4) transfers governed by special conventions signed by the government (Article 22 of Decree No. 2009-048 of...
January 12, 2009). Cash deposits must comply with prevailing laws and regulations and may be withdrawn for travel allowances under the applicable rules. Transfers between accounts of residents and nonresidents are permitted for current transactions.

| Approval required | No. |
| Held abroad       | Yes. |

The MOF authorization is required to open a foreign exchange account in a foreign bank for enterprises governed by ordinary law. Balances may be repatriated. Free trade zones may open bank accounts abroad under Law No. 2007-037. Residents may hold payment instruments abroad.

| Approval required | Yes. |

| Yes. |

Nonresidents are treated as residents for the purpose of these accounts.

| Approval required |
| No. |

Domestic currency accounts

| Domestic currency accounts |
| Yes. |

Transactions between residents and nonresident enterprises in the free trade zone take place either through the enterprises’ special accounts in domestic currency or through their foreign exchange accounts. Transactions between free trade zone enterprises and residents through special domestic currency accounts are limited to settlement of domestic costs and charges, servicing of domestic loans, and payments to the government and to resident shareholders. According to Article 2 of Order No. 1215/91 of February 28, 1991, export processing zone and free trade zone enterprises may ask their banks to transfer abroad up to the amount of foreign currency in their accounts. Pursuant to Decree No. 2015-1096 of July 7, 2015, on the application of Law No. 2007-037 of January 14, 2008, on free trade zones and enterprises in Madagascar (Article 28), any free trade zone or businesses wishing to purchase foreign exchange in the MID must apply for authorization from the External Finance Unit and must domicile its import operations. Payments of the latter may be made only on presentation of the Single Administrative Document (DAU) to the domiciling bank in cases of nondocumentary collections.

| Convertible into foreign currency |

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. Official intervention focuses on building foreign reserves and limiting exchange rate volatility while taking into account seasonal fluctuations. From March 2019, the kwacha increased its flexibility and then stabilized anew within a 2% band against the US dollar from August 2019. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) to other managed from stabilized, effective March 18, 2019, and (2) to stabilized from other managed, effective August 23, 2019. The Reserve Bank of Malawi (RBM) does not publish its intervention data.

Official exchange rate

The RBM calculates daily indicative exchange rates at the beginning of each business day as simple averages of rates established by commercial banks at the opening of business. The RBM rates are used for all official foreign exchange obligations.

Other monetary framework Yes. The RBM uses an interest rate-based monetary policy framework. Under this framework, a change in the policy stance is communicated by changing the Policy rate. The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the RBM meets quarterly to review global and domestic financial and economic developments and set the policy stance. The MPC decisions are published on the RBM website. However, monetary aggregates are still discussed and agreed in the context of the Extended Credit Facility (ECF) program.

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. There are 8 authorized banking institutions as of April 1, 2020, (and there were 9 authorized banking institutions as of December 31, 2019) licensed by the RBM to deal in foreign exchange with the public. As of August 18, 2020, there are 16 foreign exchange bureaus (as of December 31, 2019, there were 17 foreign exchange bureaus). ADs are allowed to determine freely their commissions with their clients.

Effective September 6, 2019, maximum spreads between buying and selling exchange rates are set at 2% for Telegraphic Transfer (TT) and 3% for cash. From March 16, 2016, to September 5, 2019, maximum spreads were set at 3% for TT and 6% for cash. The limit on spread applies to only banks, bureaus have never been subjected to price restrictions.

Spot exchange market Yes. Foreign exchange bureaus may not enter into foreign exchange transactions with the RBM. Their business is limited to the sale and purchase of foreign currency cash, traveler’s checks, and other similar instruments for immediate delivery (spot transactions). Foreign exchange bureaus account for only a small fraction of turnover in Malawi’s foreign exchange market.

Operated by the central bank No. The RBM does not operate or organize any foreign exchange spot market.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No.
Fixing

No.

Interbank market

Yes. There are 8 banks authorized to trade in the foreign exchange interbank market as of April 1, 2020 (9 banks as of December 31, 2019). The foreign exchange interbank market is very thin with very small volume of trades conducted within the confines of AD’s bid and offer rates. The CB intervenes at its own discretion. Foreign exchange trading among ADs or between ADs and RBM is conducted via Reuters. Where not possible, it is conducted on a recordable phone or any ordinary phone with evidence provided via e-mail. The minimum tradable amount on the interbank market is US$50,000 or its equivalent in any fully convertible currency. The minimum intervention amount by RBM, however, is US$500,000 or its equivalent.

Intervention is done through allocation to selected authorized dealer banks (ADBs) at market rates that sell onward in the interbank market.

Since all ADBs are registered market makers, they quote two-way. RBM is not a market maker and thus not obliged to quote two way.

Over the counter

Yes.

Brokerage

No.

Market making

Yes. The foreign exchange interbank market operates under a market-making arrangement.

Forward exchange market

Yes. Authorized banks may quote bid-ask prices on demand. Forward exchange rates are not set by the RBM. Banks are free to set their own rates based on the forward variables as they see fit. There are only sporadic forward and swap transactions. The RBM does not do forwards per se but swaps. Under swap arrangement, there is always a forward leg.

The forward market is still in its infancy with negligible trade volumes.

Official cover of forward operations

No.

The Central Bank of Malaysia Act 2009 requires BNM to pursue a monetary policy whose primary objective is to maintain price stability while taking into account developments in the economy. BNM’s sole instrument to signal the stance of monetary policy is the overnight policy rate.

Licensed onshore banks may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

As at end-June 2020, licensed onshore banks consisted of (1) 26 licensed commercial banks, (2) 16 licensed Islamic banks, (3) 11 licensed investment banks, and (4) 1 licensed international Islamic bank (IIB). Licensed onshore banks and MSB licensees conducting remittance, retail currency exchange, and wholesale currency businesses may undertake spot transactions with residents and nonresidents.

There are 310 companies licensed by BNM to provide MSB. Of these, 270 are approved for retail currency exchange business only; 27 are approved for remittance business only; 7 are approved for both retail currency exchange and remittance businesses; 1 is approved for both retail currency exchange and wholesale currency businesses; and 5 are approved to conduct the full range of MSB.
activities (remittance, retail currency exchange, and wholesale currency businesses).
In addition, 28 of total licensed companies are providing digital remittance/money changing services.
Licensed money changers that undertake retail currency exchange transactions may (1) buy and sell foreign currency notes and coins against ringgit or other foreign currency notes and coins with any person in Malaysia; and (2) buy and sell traveler’s checks on behalf of an issuer of traveler’s checks with any person in Malaysia.
Licensed currency wholesalers may (1) buy or sell foreign currency with licensed banks, licensed Islamic banks, MSB licensees, and any person abroad; and (2) import and export foreign currency notes with any person abroad. Licensed money changers and currency wholesalers do not conduct exchange transactions with BNM.

Interbank market
Trading activities in the onshore foreign exchange market are undertaken through a broker system or market-making arrangements between interbank participants. All licensed onshore banks can participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. There are no limits imposed by BNM on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants. When the need for intervention arises, operations are conducted at market rates with market participants.

BNM may participate in the forward foreign exchange market.

(1) Forward exchange transactions by residents: Residents may hedge current account and financial account transactions (including derivative contracts offered by a resident provider up to the net derivatives position) based on firm commitment or anticipation with licensed onshore banks.

April 30, 2020, the BNM announced refinements to the foreign exchange policies (FEPs) aimed at improving business efficiency and providing flexibilities for corporates to better manage their foreign exchange risk exposure, while ensuring financial stability and orderly foreign exchange market condition. To achieve the said objectives, foreign exchange policy (FEP) now adopts the following principles:
- The use of threshold to generally permit low-value low-risk transactions;
- Shift from approval-based to notification-based approach for low-risk transactions; and
- Set market standards to enable licensed onshore banks to monitor low-risk transactions.
The FEP refinements include (but not limited to) the following measures:

- Effective April 30, 2020, residents can hedge foreign currency loan obligations up to the underlying tenure. Previously, residents were allowed to sell ringgit with licensed onshore banks on forward basis up to 12 months of their foreign currency loan obligations and up to the underlying tenure for other foreign currency obligations, for example, import payments and other current account transactions. This is a further liberalization of the foreign exchange administration policy which previously, effective August 30, 2019, allowed residents to hedge their foreign currency current account obligations up to their underlying tenure.

- Effective April 30, 2020, residents are free to cancel or unwind their forward positions, except hedges on portfolio investment. Previously, prior approval from BNM was required for residents to undertake any cancelation or unwinding of forward position when the underlying commitment still existed; also, the currency pair for hedging and unwind hedging was limited to Malaysian ringgit (RM) against US dollar, Chinese yuan, British pound sterling, euro, and Japanese yen; and documentary evidence was required for amounts above an aggregate net open position limit of RM 6 million per licensed onshore bank; and one-off declaration of hedging intent was required.

Apart from the above, resident institutional investors registered with BNM may (1) enter into forward contracts to buy ringgit up to 100% of their invested underlying foreign-currency-denominated assets (that is, debt securities, equity securities, and temporary placement in foreign currency deposit or deposit-like securities using proceeds from the sale of existing foreign-currency-denominated securities pending reinvestment of such foreign currency proceeds) and (2) unwind the forward contracts as described in (1), without documentary evidence with licensed onshore banks to manage their foreign currency exposure.

Effective August 30, 2019, resident entities (other than financial institutions) may hedge on behalf of their resident or nonresident group of entities with licensed onshore banks for any permitted underlying transactions, subject to compliance with Notice 1.

(2) Forward exchange transactions by nonresidents:
Nonresidents may hedge their current account and financial account transactions (including derivative contracts offered by a resident provider up to the net derivatives position) based on firm commitment with licensed onshore banks or appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks. Effective August 30, 2019, foreign exchange hedging on anticipatory basis is allowed for international trade in goods or services with appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks.

Effective April 30, 2020, nonresidents are free to cancel or unwind their forward positions, except hedges on portfolio investment. Previously, prior approval from BNM was required for nonresidents to undertake any cancelation or unwinding of forward positions when the underlying commitment still exists.

Nonresident institutional investors registered with BNM may (a) enter into forward contracts to sell ringgit up to 100% of their invested underlying ringgit-denominated assets (that is, debt securities on Real-time Electronic Transfer of Funds and Securities System (RENTAS), equity securities on Bursa Malaysia Berhad, (the stock exchange of Malaysia) or temporary placement in ringgit deposits or deposit-like securities offered by licensed onshore banks using proceeds from the sale of existing ringgit-denominated securities pending reinvestment of such ringgit proceeds; (b) enter into forward contracts to buy ringgit up to 25% of their invested underlying ringgit-denominated asset; or (c) unwind the forward contracts as described in (a) and (b), without documentary evidence with licensed onshore banks or appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks for the purpose of managing their ringgit exposure.

Effective August 30, 2019, nonresident entities (other than financial institutions) may hedge on behalf of their resident or nonresident group of entities with licensed onshore banks or appointed overseas office of licensed onshore banks for any permitted underlying transactions, subject to compliance with Notice 1.

Portfolio investors may register under the existing dynamic hedging framework to cancel or unwind their hedges.

The capacity of the financial institutions to undertake forward positions is subject to their respective risk appetite. The Bank’s role is to ensure that the development of the forward market is unimpeded but without introducing stability risk.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Exports of rubber from Peninsular Malaysia require a certificate issued by the Malaysian Rubber Exchange and Licensing Board.

Certain exportable products are monitored to avoid shortages in the domestic market. Export licenses for fish and fishery products are issued by the Fisheries Development Authority of Malaysia. The shipment of live fish (including among Peninsular Malaysia, Sabah, and Sarawak) also requires a permit issued by the Department of Fisheries. In accordance with CITES, a permit from the Department of Wildlife and National Parks is required for exports of endangered species. The Certificate of Conformity issued by the Federal Agricultural Marketing Authority (FAMA) acts on behalf of the Royal Malaysian Customs Department to endorse exports and reexports of all types of vegetables, especially to Brunei Darussalam, Indonesia, Singapore, and Thailand. Exports of plants, seeds, and shoots for propagation require export permits issued by the Department of Agriculture. Exports of endangered species of plants require a CITES permit from the Department of Agriculture. Export permits and veterinary health certification from the DVSM are required for exports of animals and animal products. Export licenses (issued by the Malaysian Pineapple Industry Board) are required for fresh pineapple and canned pineapple products. Export licenses or permits from the MITI are required for exports of scrap and waste metals; cement, clinker, under Ministry of Domestic Trade and Consumer Affairs, and toxic chemicals and their precursors under the Chemical Weapons Convention. Applications for export and import permits for products under the MITI’s jurisdiction may be made through an Internet-based system, ePermit and ePermit STA (Strategic Trade Act) Systems. Importers and exporters that meet the requirements may get online approval through this system. Applications for live fish import and export permits must be made through an Internet-based system, e-permit. Importers and exporters may get online approval through e-permit, provided the requirements are met.

Interest income of nonresident individuals and companies from the following is not subject to withholding of taxes: (1) ringgit-denominated securities and debentures other than convertible loan stocks approved by the Securities Commission (SC); (2) securities issued by the government of Malaysia; and (3) foreign-currency-denominated sukuk (the Islamic equivalent of bonds) originating in Malaysia.

On capital market securities  Yes.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature  Yes.

Nonresidents may purchase securities listed on Bursa Malaysia. Based on BNM’s FE rules (since June 30, 2013), nonresidents are free to invest in any form of ringgit assets in Malaysia.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes.

Effective April 30, 2020, residents are free to issue ringgit-denominated redeemable preference shares (RPS) to any nonresident for use in Malaysia.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.

The issuance or offering of shares for sale locally by nonresidents requires SC approval under Section 212 of the Capital Markets and Services Act (CMSA) 2007. Certain categories of transactions as set out in Schedule 5 of the Capital Markets and Services Act 2007 are exempted from SC’s approval. Approval from BNM is also required for issuance of ringgit-denominated securities by nonresidents.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.

These transactions are not restricted for resident entities without domestic ringgit borrowing. Resident entities with domestic ringgit borrowing are subject to the prudential limit of up to RM 50 million or its equivalent in aggregate on a corporate group basis a calendar year (this limit applies only to those funding investment abroad through conversion of ringgit, transfer from Trade FCA, foreign currency borrowing from licensed onshore banks for purposes other than direct investment abroad, and swapping of financial assets). Effective April 30, 2020, resident entities with domestic ringgit borrowing are no longer subject to the prudential limit of up to the ringgit amount sourced from proceeds of an initial public offering (IPO) on the Main Market of Bursa Malaysia.

Resident entities may issue foreign currency money market instruments abroad, subject to FE Notice 2 on Borrowing, Lending and Guarantee by residents from nonresidents. Prior approval from BNM is required for issuance or sale of ringgit money market instruments by residents outside Malaysia.

On collective investment securities  Yes.  Foreign collective investment schemes (CISs) may be offered and marketed in Malaysia to resident and nonresident investors (which include retail investors and investors defined in Schedule 6 and Schedule 7 of the Capital Markets and Services Act 2007); these plans do not have to be managed and administered by a company licensed by the SC. However, foreign CISs must comply with Chapter 3.0 of the SC’s Guidelines on Offering, Marketing, and Distribution of Foreign Funds (OMD—of March 3, 2008, as revised May 4, 2017). Since June 15, 2015, (1) a foreign fund is no longer required to be primarily regulated by a securities regulator that has satisfactorily implemented the International Organization of Securities Commissions’ (IOSCO) principles and objectives of securities regulation; (2) an operator of foreign fund is no longer required to be primarily regulated by a securities regulator that has satisfactorily implemented the IOSCO principles and objectives of securities regulation; (3) offering of a foreign fund to sophisticated investors is required to lodge relevant offering document in accordance with the requirements under the Guidelines on Unlisted Capital Market Products under the Lodge and Launch framework; (4) offering of a foreign fund to sophisticated investors is required to be in accordance with the requirements in relation to the Lodge and Launch framework; (5) clarifications regarding the reporting requirements in relation to foreign funds were provided. The CIS must meet the requirements of the OMD. Specific requirements for ASEAN CISs are given in the Handbook for CIS Operators of ASEAN CISs. The ASEAN CIS Framework is a streamlined process for cross-border offering of CISs in signatory countries. From May 4, 2017, (1) a foreign fund offered by a permitted entity that complies with the requirements under paragraph 4.03 and Appendix 3 of the OMD is permitted to be offered in Malaysia; and (2) a foreign fund that invests or proposes to invest primarily in income-generating real estate – provided the units are listed on an exchange as specified by the SC and are located in a jurisdiction where the securities regulator for such fund is a full signatory of the International Organization of Securities Commissions Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding (IOSCO MMoU) as listed in its Appendix A; the offering of units is made by a holder of a Capital Markets Services License (CMSL) who carries on the business of dealing in securities; and the offering of units is limited to a one-off offering only to sophisticated investors and is not offered to the sophisticated investors on a continuous basis.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  No.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes. Nonresidents may offer their CISs to investors in Malaysia if they have –
For unlisted CIS to retail investors, obtained SC’s recognition under s. 212(5) of the Capital Markets and Services Act 2007;

Sales or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Residents may establish foreign currency-based currency CISs abroad. Establishment of ringgit-based currency CIS or classes of units denominated in ringgit abroad requires approval from BNM. A CIS established in Malaysia may be offered abroad through the Mutual Recognition Agreements or under the ASEAN CIS Framework.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments

Yes. Nonresidents may purchase derivatives or other instruments offered on the Bursa Malaysia or by licensed onshore banks. Prior approval from BNM is required for nonresident banking institutions (BIs) to enter into ringgit-denominated interest rate derivatives with no underlying commitment with licensed onshore banks or via appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks. Nonresidents may hedge their current account and financial account transactions (including derivative contracts offered by a resident provider up to the net derivatives position) based on firm commitment with licensed onshore banks or appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks. Foreign exchange hedging on anticipatory basis is only allowed for current account transactions with licensed onshore banks or international trade in goods or services with via appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks.

Nonresident institutional investors registered with BNM may (1) enter into forward contracts to sell ringgit up to 100% of their invested underlying ringgit-denominated assets (that is, debt securities on RENTAS, equity securities on Bursa Malaysia Berhad, or temporary placement in ringgit deposits or deposit-like securities offered by licensed onshore banks using proceeds from the sale of existing ringgit-denominated securities pending reinvestment of such ringgit proceeds); (2) enter into forward contracts to buy ringgit up to 25% of their invested underlying ringgit-denominated asset; or (3) unwind the forward contracts as described in (1) and (2), without documentary evidence with a licensed onshore bank or appointed overseas offices of licensed onshore banks for the purpose of managing their ringgit exposure.

Effective August 30, 2019, nonresident entities (other than financial institutions) may hedge on behalf of their resident or nonresident group of entities with licensed onshore banks or appointed overseas office of licensed onshore banks for any permitted underlying

Controls are imposed on equity shares in accordance with national economic policy; however, no foreign exchange restrictions apply. The following inward investments require approval under the Economic Planning Unit guidelines: acquisition of property (such as undeveloped or developed land) by foreigners, depending on the value. The rules for acquisition of residential property valued not less than RM 500,000 are less stringent. Applications requiring SC approval under the securities and futures laws are centralized at the SC. Certain exemptions or relaxation of the foreign equity limits (for example, exemption from the 12.5% Bumiputera equity requirement) are granted to companies with Multimedia Super Corridor and BioNexus status; companies with major foreign-based operations seeking listing on the Bursa Malaysia; and intermediaries licensed by the SC, including investment banks, local and foreign fund managers, investment advisers, and exempt dealers. In relation to a “company” being taken over includes a corporation listed on a stock exchange, listed real estate investment trusts in Malaysia, listed business trusts in Malaysia, and unlisted public companies with more than 50 shareholders and net assets of RM 15 million or more, any acquisition of more than 33% of voting shares or of more than 2% in any six-month period for a holder of more than 33% but less than 50% requires compliance with Part VI, Division 2, of the Capital Markets and Services Act 2007, the Malaysian Code on Takeovers and Mergers 2016, and the Rules on Takeovers, Mergers, and Compulsory Acquisitions. Nonresidents may participate in the equity of Malaysian BIs if they meet the shareholder suitability requirements in Schedule 6 of FSA 2013 and IFSA 2013. These requirements take into account, among other things, prudential considerations and potential contributions of investors in the best interest of Malaysia. The minimum value for acquisition of residential property by foreigners is RM 500,000. The 2020 Budget announced the government’s decision to lower the property threshold for foreign property buyers from RM 1 million to RM 600,000 on completed but unsold high-rise property units in urban areas. This measure is valid for one year.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)
Yes. Licensed onshore banks may lend in foreign currency to nonresidents.

Lending in ringgit by licensed onshore banks, except licensed IIBs, to nonresidents must be used to finance real sector activities in Malaysia (including refinancing of existing ringgit borrowing that was used for real sector activities in Malaysia and onlending to resident entities within the same group of entities or immediate family members that will be ultimately used for real sector activities in Malaysia).

All licensed BIs are subject to the following prudential limits, which are applied to credit exposures to both residents and nonresidents:

1. Exposures to a single counterparty or a group of connected counterparties may not exceed 25% of a BI’s total capital (that is, the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital). For exposures to BI’s related banking entities (whether operating in- or outside Malaysia), a limit as may be approved by the Central Bank of Malaysia may not exceed 50% of the BI’s total capital. This is applicable in aggregate to ringgit and foreign-currency-denominated exposures, including all claims, commitments, and contingent liabilities arising from on- and off-balance-sheet transactions (in both banking and trading books).

In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily increased the single counterparty exposure limit from 25% to 35% of a BI’s total capital effective March 24, 2020 until December 31, 2021 for exposures to counterparties that are connected to selected large companies based on economic dependence factors. BIs must pare down any exposures in excess of 25% of total capital by December 31, 2022.

2. Total outstanding credit exposure to all connected parties may not exceed 100% of a BI’s total capital or 25% of total outstanding credit exposures.

Licensed onshore banks may lend in foreign currency any amount to resident entities and nonresidents. Lending to resident individuals is subject to RM 10 million in aggregate.

All licensed BIs are subject to the following prudential limits, which are applied to credit exposure to both residents and nonresidents:

1. Exposures to a single counterparty or a group of connected counterparties may not exceed 25% of a BI’s total capital (that is, the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital). In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily increased the single counterparty exposure limit from 25% to 35% of a BI’s total capital effective March 24, 2020 until December 31, 2021 for exposures to counterparties that are connected to selected large companies based on economic dependence factors. BIs must pare down any exposures in excess of 25% of total capital by December 31, 2022.

(2) Total outstanding credit exposure to all connected parties may not exceed 100% of a BI’s total capital or 25% of total outstanding credit exposures.

Residents may enter into a transaction with (1) a licensed onshore bank to convert an existing ringgit debt obligation to a foreign currency debt obligation, provided there is no actual delivery of foreign currency at the inception of the transaction; and (2) a licensed onshore bank, an IIB, or a nonresident to convert an existing foreign currency debt obligation to another foreign currency debt obligation.

All licensed BIs are subject to the following prudential limits, which are applied to credit exposures to both residents and nonresidents:

Exposures to a single counterparty or a group of connected counterparties may not exceed 25% of a BI’s total capital (that is, the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital). For exposures to BI’s related banking entities (whether operating in- or outside Malaysia), a limit as may be approved by the Central Bank of Malaysia may not exceed 50% of the BI’s total capital. This is applicable in aggregate to ringgit and foreign-currency-denominated exposures, including all claims, commitments, and contingent liabilities arising from on- and off-balance-sheet transactions (in both banking and trading books).

In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily increased the single counterparty exposure limit from 25% to 35% of a BI’s total capital effective March 24, 2020 until December 31, 2021 for exposures to counterparties that are connected to selected large companies based on economic dependence factors. BIs must pare down any exposures in excess of 25% of total capital by December 31, 2022.

(2) Total outstanding credit exposure to all connected parties may not exceed 100% of a BI’s total capital or 25% of total outstanding credit exposures.

Residents may enter into a transaction with (1) a licensed onshore bank to convert an existing ringgit debt obligation to a foreign currency debt obligation, provided there is no actual delivery of foreign currency at the inception of the transaction; and (2) a licensed onshore bank, an IIB, or a nonresident to convert an existing foreign currency debt obligation to another foreign currency debt obligation.

In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily increased the single counterparty exposure limit from 25% to 35% of a BI’s total capital effective March 24, 2020 until December 31, 2021 for exposures to counterparties that are connected to selected large companies based on economic dependence factors. Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange

Yes.

Reserve requirements

Yes.

The BNM statutory reserve requirement (SRR) rate of 2.00% is applied on BIs’ eligible liabilities (ELs), which consist of ringgit-denominated deposits and non-deposit liabilities, net of interbank assets, and placements with the CB. Foreign-currency-deposit liabilities are not subject to reserve requirements.

In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily allowed all BIs to recognize holdings of Malaysian Government Securities (MGS) and Malaysian Government Investment Issues (MGII) as part of their SRR compliance (that is, Statutory Reserve Accounts balances). Such securities used in this manner may be deducted from BIs’ eligible liability (EL) base calculations and must continue to be recognized as High-Quality Liquid Assets. This temporary flexibility was granted effective May 16, 2020 and is available until May 31, 2021.

Liquid asset requirements

Yes.

The LCR was implemented June 1, 2015, based on the global phase-in timeline, that is, with an initial minimum requirement of 60% and followed by yearly 10% increment, reaching 100% by January 1, 2019. Banks are required to comply with a minimum LCR for their net cash outflows in all currencies on an aggregated basis and for their RM-denominated net cash outflows (that is, banks must hold a minimum amount of RM-denominated High-Quality Liquid Assets as a buffer for RM-denominated net cash outflows).

In response to the COVID-19 outbreak and to support lending activities by BIs, BNM temporarily allowed all BIs to operate with the LCR ratio below 100% effective March 24, 2020 until December 31, 2020. BIs should restore their buffers to the minimum regulatory requirements by September 30, 2021.

However, to date, all banks have maintained their LCR above 100%.

The Net Stable Funding Ratio (NSFR) was implemented effective July 1, 2020, with an initial minimum requirement of 80% and by September 30, 2021, to 100%.

The NSFR requirement applies to all BIs at the aggregate currency portfolio (that is, Ringgit and all other currencies. All foreign currency exposures must be reported in Ringgit-equivalent terms based on the foreign exchange rates as at the reporting date.) The NSFR requirement is calculated in line with the Basel 3 standards. Where minor adjustments have been made, this was made mainly to account for domestic system structures or areas where FSA and IFSA: BIs may not establish or acquire a subsidiary in- or outside Malaysia, or acquire or hold any material interest in any corporation without the prior approval of BNM. Material interest is defined as 20% or more of the voting shares or voting power in a corporation.

In addition, BNM’s approval is also required for any direct or indirect acquisition or holding of 33% or more of the voting shares or voting power in a corporation.

The BI must also notify BNM of any subsequent direct or indirect acquisition where it results in an increase in shareholding at any multiple of 5% above the material interest threshold, at least one month before the proposed acquisition. Nevertheless, BNM may require a BI to obtain its prior written approval if any subsequent increase impacts the BI’s safety and soundness.

Investments by BIs, both locally and abroad, are subject to the following prudential limits:

(1) Aggregate direct and indirect acquisition or holding of interest in non-financial corporations by BIs, including those held below the material interest threshold (that is, 20% or more of the voting shares/power), must not exceed 10% of a BI’s Tier 1 capital.

(2) BIs may not acquire, hold, or rent immovable properties, except to
(a) conduct their business,
(b) provide housing or other amenities for their staff, or
(c) satisfy debts (that is, foreclosed properties).
Approval from the Central Bank of Malaysia is required if a BI intends to acquire, hold, or rent immovable properties for purposes other than (a), (b), and (c).

In the case of Islamic finance, Islamic BIs are allowed to undertake property development and property investment activities subject to conditions such as allowable structures, governance, risk management, limits, and disclosure requirements. These investments are subject to prudential safeguards, including limiting each exposure to 25% of the Islamic BI’s capital base. Islamic BIs and their subsidiaries are prohibited from direct property development activities but may participate in such activities through a joint venture or equity participation with reputable property development companies that are not subsidiaries of Islamic BIs.

(3) Exposures to a single counterparty or a group of connected counterparties may not exceed 25% of a BI’s total capital (that is, the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital). For exposures to BI’s related banking entities (whether operating in- or outside Malaysia), a limit as may be approved by the Central Bank of Malaysia may not exceed 50% of the BI’s total capital. (4) Total outstanding credit exposure to all connected parties may not exceed 100% of a BI’s total capital or 25% of total outstanding credit exposure.

In banks by nonresidents Yes. Nonresidents may participate in the equity of Malaysian BIs. However, nonresidents may not hold 5% or more interest-in-shares, unless they have obtained the approval of the Central Bank of Malaysia or the Minister of Finance pursuant to Section 87 of the FSA 2013 and Section 99 of the IFSA 2013. These requirements take into account prudential considerations and potential contributions of investors in the best interest of Malaysia.

Open foreign exchange position limits No.

On nonresident assets and liabilities No.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Insurance companies Yes.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents Yes. Licensed insurers may invest abroad up to 10% of their total assets of individual insurance funds or shareholders’ working funds. Licensed takaful operators may invest abroad up to 10% of their total assets of each family takaful, general takaful, and shareholder fund individually.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad Yes. Licensed insurers may invest abroad up to 10% of their total assets of individual insurance funds or shareholders’ working funds. Licensed takaful operators may invest abroad up to 10% of their total assets of each family takaful, general takaful, and shareholder fund individually.

For investment-linked funds, the limit on investment abroad by insurers of 50% of the total (NAV applies to funds marketed to residents with domestic ringgit borrowing.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally Yes. Licensed insurers and licensed takaful operators must invest a minimum of 10% of the total assets of their general insurance funds and general takaful funds in liquid assets.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition No. There are no regulations on currency matching. However, licensed insurers and takaful operators are required to hold 8% of capital on mismatched currency positions as prescribed in the capital adequacy framework for insurers and takaful operators.

Pension funds approved by SC-designated private retirement schemes (PRS), like other CISs, may be invested abroad. The PRS comprises of core funds and non-core funds. Core funds will be selected automatically for a member who does not specify their fund option. Core funds comprise of three categories – conservative, moderate, and growth funds.

Yes.

PRS Guidelines do not stipulate a limit on securities issued by nonresident in relation to PRS. No more than 50% of total funds may be invested in non-Shariah-compliant assets for funds of resident clients with domestic ringgit borrowing.

Yes.

Effective February 21, 2020, SC had liberalized the asset allocation for the core funds which included allowing conservative core funds to invest in foreign markets.

While the specific asset allocation requirements have been liberalized in favor of broad principles, the general investment limits such as single issue exposure, etc. that are applicable to all funds would continue to apply to PRS funds.

No.

There is no minimum limit on local portfolio investment.

n.a.

Nonresident offering of CISs in Malaysia takes place through an MRA or the ASEAN CIS Framework and must comply with the requirements in the MRA, Standards of Qualifying CIS for ASEAN CISs, Handbook for Operators of ASEAN CISs, and SC OMD Guidelines. No limits are imposed on offerings. Proceeds of CIS offerings in Malaysia under the ASEAN CIS Framework may be fully invested abroad, subject to the requirements in the Handbook for Operators of ASEAN CISs. For other funds, there is a limit of 50% of NAV in non-Shariah-compliant funds for resident unit trusts' investment abroad or 50% of total funds managed by fund management companies for funds of residents with domestic ringgit borrowing.

Yes.

No more than 50% of NAV of resident unit trusts and no more than 50% of total funds managed by fund management companies may be invested in non-Shariah-compliant funds abroad for funds of residents with domestic ringgit borrowing.

Yes.

No more than 50% of NAV of resident unit trusts and no more than 50% of total funds managed by fund management companies may be invested in non-Shariah-compliant funds abroad for funds of residents with domestic ringgit borrowing.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices

Yes. The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation with Maldives, states that, as of April 30, 2019, Maldives continues to avail itself of the transitional provisions of Article XIV but no longer maintains any measures under this provision, and has not yet accepted the obligations of Article VIII, Sections 2, 3, and 4. It maintains an exchange restriction subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a) of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement arising from a shortage of foreign exchange at the official rate which leads to the Maldives Monetary Authority (MMA) rationing its supply of foreign exchange to commercial banks. This results in a channeling of foreign exchange transactions for current international transactions to the parallel market where transactions take place at an exchange rate that deviates by more than 2% from the prevailing market exchange rate. The greater than 2% spread gives rise to multiple currency practice subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3 and also to an exchange restriction, given the additional cost involved for obtaining foreign exchange. The extent of rationing has been eased over the past two years by increasing the amounts provided to commercial banks and adjusting amounts in line with seasonal patterns. The official exchange rate used by the MMA for government transactions is calculated based on the midpoint of the weighted average of the buying and selling rates of foreign exchange transactions conducted by commercial banks one day earlier. The lack of a mechanism to prevent the spread between this official exchange rate used by the MMA for government transactions and the prevailing market exchange rate from deviating by more than 2% gives rise to a multiple currency practice subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3. (Country Report No. 19/156)

Conventional peg
Stabilized arrangement Yes. Since 2011, the de jure exchange rate arrangement is classified as a pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands. This regime allows the rufiyaa to float within a 20% band around a central parity of Rf 12.85 per US dollar. However, the rufiyaa remained stabilized in a narrow band against the US dollar near the ceiling of the band (Rf 15.42 per US dollar). Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement. Under the MMA Act, the president may decide to change the exchange rate arrangement and adjust the exchange rate.

Official exchange rate Yes. The MMA quotes buying, selling, and midrates each day. The midrate (reference exchange rate) is calculated each day as the midpoint of the weighted average of the buying and selling rates of commercial banks’ transactions with their clients conducted two days before. This rate is used when the MMA sells foreign exchange to the government. It buys foreign exchange from the government at the buying exchange rate. The MMA sells foreign exchange to the banks at its selling rate and to state-owned enterprises at the upper limit of the band.

Commercial banks may freely exchange other currencies with their clients.

There are 8 commercial banks (of which 3 are locally incorporated, 4 are branches of foreign banks, and 1 is fully owned subsidiary of a foreign bank) and 384 licensed money changers as of July 5, 2020. Money changers are licensed by the MMA and may buy and sell foreign exchange.

The MMA exchanges rufiyaa for US dollars at the official buying and selling rates. However, a dollar shortage led to supplying limited amount of foreign exchange to market participants. The MMA intervenes in the foreign exchange market by allocating foreign exchange to banks and selling US dollars to state-owned enterprises. Commercial banks may deal with the MMA, the central government, state-owned enterprises, and the private sector at the official exchange rate (within the bounds of the 20% exchange rate band).

The MMA sells foreign exchange to the commercial banks on a weekly basis. The allocation includes a fixed and a variable component. The fixed amount sold to the banks takes into consideration the bank’s net open positions and its share of total banking sector assets. An additional allocation (variable component) is sold to the banks to meet the travel, educational, and medical requirements of the general public and to the growing demand of Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs), specifically for their LC payments and telegraphic transfers. This allocation is sold based on the seasonal requirements and utilization of the funds.

Banks may deal in foreign exchange among themselves, but because of a lack of depth, the market is limited to a few banks. There is no active interbank trading of foreign exchange in Maldives.

The Open General Import license was abolished, effective April 15, 2019. Import operations may be conducted after registering with the Ministry of Economic Development and Maldives Customs Service, which requires a valid business registration.

On environmental grounds, Maldives imposes a quota on the import of substances that deplete the ozone layers, such as hydrochlorofluorocarbon (HCFC) gas.

Prohibitions are imposed on imports under national laws, such as R-34/2012. Pork and liquor products are restricted, and special permit needs to be obtained from the Ministry of Economic Development.

With the recent amendments (effective August 1, 2020) to the Export and Import Act, tariffs are levied at 18 different rates (12 ad valorem, 3 specific duty, and 3 composite duty) using the 2017 version of World Customs Organization’s Harmonized System (HS-2017). Previously, tariffs were levied at 15 different rates (12 ad valorem and 3 specific duty). Under the current tariff structure, Maldives national tariff lines have 8,255 items at the ten-digit level (previously, 8,130 items). However, because of lack of imports under some lines, currently only 5,987 tariff lines are used at the ten-digit level. Except for the specific and composite duty on cigarette, soft drinks, energy drinks and alcoholic products, all tariff lines are ad valorem, levied on the free on board (FOB) value of imports. More than 42.6% of the tariff lines are subject to a zero rate (previously, 31.5%), which is applied to essential goods, such as food, medicine, construction goods including steel, cement, sand and wood, fertilizers, garments, domestic electric appliances, environment-friendly goods, machineries, and vehicles which run on electric or renewable energy (previously, steel and electric were excluded from the list). About 6% of the tariff lines are subject to a duty rate equal to or higher than 35%. The highest rate of duty currently imposed is 400%, levied on nonbiodegradable plastic bags and plastic drinking...

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices No. No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2019.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51) No.

Other security restrictions Yes. A regional framework to fight money laundering (AML) and the financing of terrorism (AFT) was created at the regional level through two WAEMU Directives in 2002 (AML) and 2007 (2007) which were incorporated in Mali’s legal corpus in 2002 (AML) and 2012 (AFT), respectively. This comprehensive framework facilitates the implementation of UNSC resolutions based on a list of persons and entities prepared by the Committee. It was updated in 2015 through a new WAEMU Directive which was incorporated into Mali’s legal corpus in February 2016.

Exchange rate structure

Unitary Yes.

Dual

Multiple

Classification

No separate legal tender

Currency board

Conventional peg Yes. The exchange rate arrangement of the WAEMU is a conventional peg. Mali participates in a currency union with seven other members of the WAEMU and has no separate legal tender. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAEMU member countries and France was concluded December 4, 1973. It was maintained after the French franc was replaced by the euro by the Council of the European Union decision of November 23, 1998. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement is based on three pillars: (1) a common issuing institution, (2) fixed parity with the euro, and (3) a guarantee of unlimited convertibility. In exchange for the unlimited convertibility of the CFA franc to euros, the WAEMU members are required to deposit 50% of their reserve holdings to the operations account with the French Treasury in accordance with the Amendment to the Operations Account Convention signed by France and the BCEAO September 20, 2005.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The CFA franc is officially pegged to the euro, the anchor currency, at the fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. Exchange rates for other currencies are cross-rates derived from the rate for the currency concerned in the Paris foreign exchange market vis-à-vis the euro. The official rate is used for accounting and valuation. The Conference of Heads of State and Government may decide to amend the Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAMU member countries and France.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor

Yes. The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro. The operational target of price stability is defined as an annual inflation rate in the WAEMU that falls within a band of ±1% around a central rate of 2%. The Harmonized Consumer Price Index is the benchmark rate to measure inflation.

on the financial conditions for executing banknote foreign exchange transactions that involve foreign currencies and issue a transaction slip for all transactions with a client. Moreover, to provide satisfactory information to clients, they are required to (1) permanently post at their windows the rates actually charged for the different currencies and (2) post notification that a transaction slip must be issued for all foreign exchange transactions on presentation of the requestor’s identity document.

Banks and registered banknote exchange houses are intermediaries authorized by the Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF) to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public. Exchange houses may conduct transactions in foreign currencies (except euros) with the BCEAO. Registered banknote exchange houses may not make transfers or payments in foreign currencies with other countries or maintain accounts abroad. As of December 31, 2019, there were 146 OTC dealers in Mali authorized to perform OTC operations and 13 authorized intermediary banks. The entities authorized to conduct nonelectronic foreign currency transactions are authorized intermediary banks and individuals or companies authorized to conduct nonelectronic transactions by decision of the minister of finance with the consent of the BCEAO.

In their operations with customers, authorized intermediaries (authorized intermediary banks and authorized OTC dealers) freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 and may be subject to a maximum commission of 2.0%.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility Yes. The BCEAO exchanges foreign currency for CFA francs at the rates published on the international markets, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of 655.957 per euro. The nonelectronic currency exchange windows are open to owners of accounts on the BCEAO books and to the general public. A commission of 0.5%, for purchases or sales, is charged on all transactions. However, no commission is charged for the following operations: (1) OTC foreign banknote exchanges conducted by state entities, government employees of WAEMU member states on mission abroad, and officials of the CB and their beneficiaries, and (2) payments made by banks and financial institutions.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. Transactions in CFA francs between authorized intermediaries are allowed. As of December 31, 2019, 14 banks conducted business. Based on the information transmitted, CFAF 455.9 billion was exchanged in 2019 on this market. There is no regulated foreign currency interbank market in the WAEMU.

Over the counter Yes.

Brokerage No.

Market making No.

Forward exchange market Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may contract forward exchange cover using exchange derivatives backed by the related commercial or financial operations for (1) imports and exports of goods and services by a resident, (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments), and (3) FDI in a resident enterprise. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to conduct the following transactions in the foreign exchange derivatives market with authorized intermediary banks established in the WAMU or with foreign banks: outright forward foreign exchange contracts (over the counter), foreign exchange options, foreign exchange swaps, and cross-currency swaps.

Transactions in foreign exchange options are limited to the following two types of transactions: options to purchase foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign bank, or options to sell foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution. Authorized intermediary banks are required to simultaneously cover the exchange risk they incur in respect of derivative instruments traded with their customers. All legitimate foreign currency needs are ultimately met by the BCEAO.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Mali is linked to the French Treasury via the BCEAO through an operations account, through which settlements with France, Monaco, the Comoros, and the CEMAC member countries are made, mainly in euros. Payments with countries outside the WAEMU are made in foreign currencies. Trade with other WAEMU countries is settled in CFA francs.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. The CFA franc may not be used as payment for current international transactions and as capital with non-WAEMU countries.

For current transactions and payments Yes. CFA francs may not be used for settlement of international transactions outside the WAEMU. However, the CFA franc is guaranteed unlimited convertibility through an open operating account with the French Treasury.

For capital transactions Yes. The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Investments by residents of the WAEMU zone outside the WAEMU are subject to prior authorization by the minister of finance, and at least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. The CFA franc may not be used for the settlement of transactions in capital and money market instruments with non-WAEMU countries. Foreign investment by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to authorization by the MOF. At least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing. The interested party must request authorization through a letter designating the authorized intermediary to settle the payment. Purchases of foreign negotiable securities authorized by the regional capital markets authority to be issued or sold in WAEMU members do not require MEF authorization.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Residents of WAEMU member countries may engage in the following operations on derivatives and other instruments with accredited banks established in the WAEMU or foreign banks: (1) forward contract, foreign exchange swaps, and options. Operations on derivatives with foreign banks outside the WAEMU can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.

Credit operations Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted by authorized intermediaries to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to prior authorization by the Directorate of External Financial Relations of the MOF, after BCEAO approval.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. The CFA franc is the only legal tender, and residents of the WAEMU zone may not use foreign exchange for domestic transactions.

Payments arrangements Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements No.

Operative No.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements Yes. An operations account is maintained with the French Treasury that links operations account countries. All purchases and sales of foreign currencies and euros against CFA francs are ultimately settled through a debit or credit to the operations account.

Clearing agreements Yes. There is a multilateral netting agreement between the WAEMU countries and the other ECOWAS member countries (Cabo Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone) as part of the WAMA. All payments for current transactions between countries whose CBs are WAMA members may be made under the netting agreement. However, this excludes transactions specified by the committee of governors of the CBs of ECOWAS members and payments for exports from one member country to another member country of finished products originating in countries whose CB or monetary authority is not a WAMA member.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes. The institutional reform of the WAMU and the BCEAO includes the following basic instruments: (1) the WAMU Treaty, (2) the BCEAO Charter, (3) the Bank Regulation Act, and (4) the Convention governing the WAMU Banking Commission. All WAEMU residents are treated as residents of Mali for the purposes of preparing the external position of banks, domiciliation and repatriation of export revenue, issuance and sales of securities, gold imports and exports, investment and lending transactions, and physical exports of means of payment and securities by postal package or ordinary mail. However, for statistical purposes with regard to the balance of payments, all countries other than Mali are considered foreign countries. Moreover, all transfers with other countries must be made through registered intermediary banks, the postal service, or the BCEAO.

Payments arrears No.

Official No.

Private No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes. Only Malians and licensed nationals of countries with which Mali has a reciprocal agreement and who hold professional identity cards may engage in domestic trade in gold, precious materials, and fossils. There are no controls on holding gold for noncommercial purposes.

On domestic ownership and/or trade Yes. Gold imports and exports require MOF authorization, except (1) imports and exports by the Public Treasury and the BCEAO; (2) imports and exports of items with a low gold content (lined or plated objects); and (3) imports and exports, by travelers, of objects made of gold limited to a total weight of 500 grams.

Domestic currency

Travelers may freely export CFA franc (XOF) banknotes from one WAEMU member country to another. Resident individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving CFA franc banknotes issued by the BCEAO.

Foreign currency

The reexportation of foreign banknotes by nonresident travelers is permitted up to the equivalent of CFAF 5,00,000; the reexportation of foreign banknotes above this ceiling requires documentation demonstrating either the importation of the foreign banknotes or their purchase against other means of payment registered in the name of the traveler or through the use of nonresident deposit accounts in local banks. Residents of the WAEMU zone traveling to countries that are not WAEMU members are required to declare foreign currency on their person in excess the equivalent of CFAF 1 million. They may carry up to the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person in banknotes not issued by the BCEAO. Larger amounts may be exported in the form of traveler’s checks, prepaid debit and payment cards, conventional debit and payment cards, or other means of payment. Foreign exchange allowances issued by authorized intermediaries in the form of traveler’s checks or prepaid debit and payment cards must be based on the need to cover customary, personal travel expenses, if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person. The issuance of foreign currency to resident travelers is subject to the presentation of travel documents and a valid passport or national identification card.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes.
Foreign exchange accounts in currencies other than the euro may be opened domestically with MOF authorization after non-objection from the BCEAO. The authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on each such an account. These accounts are valid for a renewable term of up to one year. They cannot be credited with deposits of CFA banknotes or by debiting a CFA franc account. On expiration of the term set in the authorization, accounts are closed unless a new authorization is obtained.

Individuals who are residents of the WAEMU temporarily staying or traveling outside of WAEMU may open bank accounts outside the WAEMU to deposit foreign currency legally exported and any income acquired outside of the WAEMU during their travel or temporary stay outside of the WAEMU. These individuals are required to repatriate balances on such accounts within 30 days of return to the WAEMU. In any circumstance other than the foregoing, opening of foreign accounts by WAEMU residents is subject to MOF authorization by after non-objection from the BCEAO. The MOF authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on such accounts. In the event of a failure to obtain a new MOF authorization, the accredited intermediary must request that the account be closed by the end of the term authorized and that any balance be repatriated to a WAEMU member country within eight days.

Nonresident Accounts

Nonresident accounts denominated in euros may be freely opened by intermediaries accredited in the WAEMU on justification by the beneficiaries of their status and residence outside of the WAEMU. Nonresident accounts denominated in foreign currency other than euros are subject to BCEAO authorization. Nonresident foreign currency accounts are valid for a renewable period of two years. In the event of a failure to obtain renewal (through a new BCEAO authorization for foreign exchange other than the euro), these accounts must be closed. The balances of these accounts may be freely transferred abroad after verification.

Authorized intermediaries may open nonresident accounts in CFA francs and in euros, under their own responsibility, depending on the status and effective residence of the applicant. These accounts may be debited for spot purchases of foreign exchange.

Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require an exchange authorization, subject to MOF approval, and submission of supporting documentation. These facilities may be granted freely, although the funds required for servicing them must be transferred abroad by an authorized bank. If, however, these transactions take place between a resident direct investment company and its parent company located abroad, they are considered to be direct investments and therefore require prior declaration to the MEF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes. Controls on direct investment Yes. Direct investment implies control of a company or enterprise. Mere participation is not considered direct investment, unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of a company whose shares are quoted on a stock exchange. Direct investment implies control of a company or enterprise. All investment outside of WAEMU by residents of the WAEMU, including investment through foreign companies under the direct or indirect control of WAEMU residents and investment by foreign branches or subsidiaries of companies established in a WAEMU member country, requires MEF authorization. Outward direct investment Yes. All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSPFM. Inward direct investment Yes. FDI, including by resident companies that are directly or indirectly under foreign control and by branches or subsidiaries of foreign companies, must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. An investment is not considered a direct investment, unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of the company. Controls on liquidation of direct investment No. The liquidation of investments abroad must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. Reinvestment of the proceeds of liquidation is subject to MOF authorization. If reinvestment is not authorized, the liquidation proceeds must be repatriated within one month through an authorized intermediary. The sale of foreign investments by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone is unrestricted but must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. Controls on real estate transactions Yes. Purchase abroad by residents Yes. These purchases require MOF authorization.

Purchase locally by nonresidents No. Purchases for purposes other than direct investment in a business, branch, or company are allowed. They require declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Sale locally by nonresidents No. Sales by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone to residents of the WAEMU zone require the submission of supporting documentation to the authorized intermediary that handles the settlement and must be declared to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Controls on personal capital transactions Yes. Personal capital transactions between residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through the BCEAO, the postal service, or an authorized intermediary bank, unless authorization is obtained from the MOF.

Loans Yes. The regulations governing securities and investments apply.

By residents to nonresidents Yes. These transactions require MOF authorization. The individuals concerned may not engage in such operations as a professional occupation, unless they are licensed and included on the list of financial institutions.

To residents from nonresidents No. These transactions may be made freely, but are subject to declaration for statistical purposes to the MOF when granted and when repaid.
Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies

By residents to nonresidents Yes. Inheritances and dowries are generally allowed. Gifts and endowments, however, are subject to MOF and BCEAO authorization. These transactions must be conducted through an authorized intermediary and comply with the relevant anti-money-laundering and terrorism financing provisions.

To residents from nonresidents No. These transactions do not require authorization but are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants Yes. Immigrants with resident status must obtain MOF authorization to settle debts contracted abroad while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Transfer of assets Yes. These transactions are subject to MOF authorization if the value exceeds CFAF 5,000,000 a person. There are no restrictions on transfers of amounts below this threshold.

Transfer abroad by emigrants Yes. Foreign accounts (in foreign currencies or CFA francs) of nonresidents of the WAEMU zone who become residents of the WAEMU zone must be closed. However, these individuals may maintain abroad bank accounts opened and financial assets acquired while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. New transfers to these accounts require MOF approval.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings Yes. These transfers are conducted freely through authorized intermediaries, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions on combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes. The Uniform Law on the Treatment of Dormant Accounts on the Books of Financial Agencies of the Member States of the WAMU by the Council of Ministers of the Union took effect September 28, 2012. Decision No. CM/UMOA/023/2012 sets the deadline (December 31, 2013) for including this law in the domestic legislation of the WAMU members. It was incorporated into Mali’s domestic legal framework with the enactment of Law No. 2014/032, on July 17, 2014.

Borrowing abroad No. Foreign borrowing is unrestricted. For statistical purposes, these transactions must be declared to the MEF and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid.

Maintenance of accounts abroad Yes. Banks and financial institutions are authorized to open accounts with their correspondent banks for settling transactions for their own account or the accounts of their customers. However, banks are not authorized to hold in these accounts amounts that exceed their current requirements. In accordance with Regulation No. 09/2010/CM/UEMOA on the External Financial Relations of the WAEMU Member States, to cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency. The total amount of these assets may not exceed 5% of the clients’
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) | Yes. Commercial lending is allowed. Financial credits are subject to MOF authorization following BCEAO approval.
---|---
Lending locally in foreign exchange | Yes. There are no explicit regulations regarding these transactions, but MOF authorization is required with BCEAO approval.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange | Yes. These purchases require MOF authorization if their issuance was not approved by the RCPSFM.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange | Yes. Outstanding demand deposits. Assets in excess of foreign currency requirements must be surrendered to the BCEAO.

| Reserve requirements | No. A reserve requirement of 3% (previously 5%) applies to WAEMU banks. Demand deposits, other deposit accounts, and loan accounts are included in the base for the calculation of the required reserves. The base for the calculation of the required reserves to be held with the CB includes customer foreign currency deposits.
---|---
Liquid asset requirements | No. According to the prudential framework applicable to WAEMU banks and financial institutions that perform banking operations, the minimum standard liquid asset requirement is 75%.
Interest rate controls | No. The maximum for all lending rates is set at 15%.
Credit controls | Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and in general, any advances granted to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to MOF authorization, after BCEAO approval. These claims are included in the external position of banks and financial institutions, which is subject to special monitoring.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents | Yes. Banking regulations make no distinction among resident deposit accounts, nonresident deposit accounts, and foreign deposit accounts.

Reserve requirements | No. Purchases for purposes other than direct investment in a business, branch, or company do not require prior authorization. They require declaration to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.
---|---
Liquid asset requirements | No. The regulations governing direct investment apply.
Credit controls | Yes. Any overdraft or advance granted to a nonresident requires MOF authorization with BCEAO approval.
Investment regulations | Yes. All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

Abroad by banks | Yes. These transactions may, depending on their volume, be subject to authorization by the minister of finance. The banking law stipulates that investment by any person in a bank that would have the effect of changing the minority and/or majority voting rights requires authorization by the minister of finance.
In banks by nonresidents | Yes. No prudential ratios apply. Because of the surrender requirement, banks are not allowed to maintain open foreign exchange positions. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts for the smooth completion of international payments, up to the equivalent of 5% of total customer demand deposits. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight... days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.

On resident assets and liabilities

Exchange Arrangement

Currency
- Yes.
- The currency of Malta is the euro. The Central Bank of Malta (CBM) issued the following €2 commemorative coins: (1) Ta’ Haġrat Temples, the fourth of a series of seven coins depicting Maltese prehistoric sites, and (2) “Nature and Environment,” the fourth in a series of coins, “From Children in Solidarity.”

- Floating
- Yes.
- The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Malta participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate
- Yes.
- The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks, which normally takes place at 2:15 p.m. Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Price stability is commonly defined as inflation rates at levels below, but close to, 2% over the medium term.

ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

Twenty-five credit institutions, including two branches from non-EU countries, are licensed under the Banking Act 1994. In addition, one branch established in Malta under the EU freedom of establishment rules may also undertake such activities. Moreover, 55 financial institutions are licensed to operate under the Financial Institutions Act (FIA) 1994. A number of these institutions are licensed by the Malta Financial Services Authority (MFSA) to deal in foreign exchange. Financial institutions may, in addition to the activities cited above, carry out other operations under the FIA, in accordance with their specific licenses (refer to Schedule of Activities under the FIA). They may maintain accounts with foreign counterparties and, in addition to dealing in foreign currency notes, may make foreign exchange payments and payment transfers on behalf of their customers. All institutions licensed under the FIA may deal directly with the CBM.

There is no limit on the spread between the buying and selling rates that credit and financial institutions may quote in the interbank foreign exchange market. All credit institutions licensed by the MFSA may engage in foreign exchange activities.

The foreign exchange market operates over the counter. The foreign exchange market does not operate via a brokerage system; operators handle their transactions directly.

The CBM participates in the foreign exchange derivatives market largely to hedge its foreign exchange exposure for risk management purposes.

The CBM may provide forward cover directly to government departments and public sector agencies. Forward rates are based on money market rate and interest rate differentials.

The Ministry for the Economy, Investment, and Small Business administers certain import controls in accordance with the Import Control Regulations. A transfer authorization or import license is required for the importation from both EU and non-EU countries of certain items listed in the schedules of the Import Control Regulations. These items include meat and fish products, fruits and vegetables, beverages, toxic chemicals, petroleum products, rough diamonds, explosives, and weapons. Textile and steel products imported from certain countries also require an import license. Products not listed in the schedules of the Import Control Regulations may be imported without a license. The only existing quotas relate to steel and certain textile imports not originating from within the EU.

Instruments

On capital market securities

- Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes.

In the case of transactions in securities in companies registered in Malta but not listed on the Malta Stock Exchange, the Commissioner for Revenue requires the submission of the below-mentioned Schedules that need to be accompanied by a report prepared by a certified auditor and payment of provisional tax on capital gains and/or duty (where applicable):

Income Tax on Capital Gains

- Schedule C for transfers of a controlling interest;
- Schedule D for transfers of a non-controlling interest;

The provisions in the Capital Gains Rules requiring the submission of Schedules C, D, and E were introduced with effect from February 24, 2006.

Duty on Documents and Transfers

- Sixth Schedule

Approval from the Commissioner for Revenue is required in the case of transfers which are exempt from duty under the provisions of the Duty on Documents and Transfers Act.

The provisions in the Duty on Documents and Transfers Rules requiring the submission of the sixth Schedule were introduced with effect from May 25, 2010.

In reference to the requirements from an Income Tax and Duty on Documents perspective, the relevant schedules are required with respect to all transactions in securities of companies registered in Malta (but not listed on the Malta Stock Exchange) and this has been the case since the introduction of the relevant provisions in the Capital Gains Rules and Duty on Documents and Transfers Rules.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes.

All transactions in securities of companies registered in Malta but not listed on the Malta Stock Exchange are required to submit relevant schedules accompanied by a report prepared by a certified auditor and payment of provisional tax on capital gains and/or duty (where applicable). In cases where transfers of shares are exempt from duty, submission of the sixth schedule and approval from the Commissioner for Revenue is required.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

All transactions in securities of companies registered in Malta but not listed on the Malta Stock Exchange are required to submit relevant schedules accompanied by a report prepared by a certified auditor and payment of provisional tax on capital gains and/or duty (where applicable). In cases where transfers of shares are exempt from duty, submission of the sixth schedule and approval from the Commissioner for Revenue is required.

Purchase abroad by residents

Applications for the acquisition of real estate by nonresidents from outside the EU require the MOF approval. Nonresidents from the EU, including Maltese citizens, may acquire one piece of real estate to be used as their primary residence, but may not acquire a second residence without MOF approval unless they have resided in Malta at least five years. Nonresidents from the EU may acquire property freely in specially designated areas of the country.

Nonresidents may not engage in real estate transactions, except for the sale of properties acquired with MOF approval.

Primarily, the Payment Accounts Directive (PAD) seeks to ensure access to basic payment accounts with credit institutions to enable all consumers legally resident in the EU to have access to basic banking.
service, independently of their financial situation or place of residence.

In particular, the PAD applies to consumers who intend to open and use a payment account on a cross-border basis. The PAD facilitates the opening of accounts on a cross-border level by allowing the consumer to ask the new payment service provider to set up on the new payment account all or part of standing orders for credit transfers, accept direct debits from the date specified by the consumer, and provide the consumer with information on the new payment account.

The PAD also aims to enhance transparency and comparability of fee information about payment accounts to make customers more aware of the fees and charges by payment services providers. Additionally, the PAD provides for more efficient switching of cross-border payment accounts by establishing minimum standards.

Article 92 of Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 (Capital Requirements Regulation) requires credit institutions to allocate capital against foreign exchange risk in accordance with Capital Requirements Regulation Title IV, Part 3, which states that “If the sum of an institution’s overall net foreign exchange position, calculated in accordance with the procedure set out in Article 352, exceeds 2% of its total own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risks. The own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk must be the sum of its overall net foreign exchange position in the reporting currency, multiplied by 8%.” As required under EU legislation, a credit institution’s total net open foreign exchange position is subject to a prudential capital requirement of 8% of its own funds. Financial institutions licensed under local legislation may also be required to comply with this requirement. By law, foreign exchange risk requirements apply to the net foreign exchange position for all business activities of an institution (that is, trading and banking books). Thus, calculation of the net spot position in a particular currency includes all assets minus all liabilities, including accrued interest, in the currency in question. These requirements are not based on the principle of the residence of assets and liabilities but on the foreign exchange risk of currencies against the base currency of the assets and liabilities.

Provisions specific to institutional investors  No.

Insurance companies  No.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents  No. The Solvency II Directive came into effect. In this respect, the prudent person principle started to be applied. Insurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments the risks of which the company can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. In addition, insurance companies must ensure that assets held to cover technical provisions are invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities, and in the best interest of all policyholders and insureds taking into account any disclosed policy objectives. Previously, prudential regulations imposed limitations on the types of assets insurance companies were required to maintain to cover technical liabilities arising from their business. They also imposed diversification rules and limits on the amount of assets such companies may maintain. The regulations did not impose restrictions on the location of these assets; therefore, assets covering technical liabilities could be located outside Malta.

| For prudential purposes, investment firms are subject to minimum financial resources requirements; Category 2 and 3 investment firms are also subject to Capital Ratios as stipulated by the Capital Requirements Regulation; certain collective investment funds are subject to investment and borrowing restrictions. Retail collective investment funds are subject to restrictions on investments in securities, such as exposure limits to credit institutions, other collective investment funds, and financial derivative instruments. Retail collective investment funds may borrow up to 10% of their assets for investment purposes and are allowed to have a global exposure of up to 100% of net asset value (calculated according to the Value-at-Risk or Commitment Method). Experienced professional investment funds may borrow up to 100% of the net asset value of their funds. In addition, UCITS and Alternative Investment Fund Managers are required to establish and maintain a permanent risk management function.

Classification

| No separate legal tender | |
| Currency board | |
| Conventional peg | |
| Stabilized arrangement | |
| Crawling peg | |
| Crawl-like arrangement | Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The Central Bank of Mauritania (BCM) intervenes to regulate the exchange market according to its exchange rate policy objectives (smoothing the exchange rate and the projected level of official reserves). Daily foreign exchange intervention data are not published. During 2019, the ouguiya followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a crawl-like arrangement. A summary statement of market turnover data is updated daily on the BCM website. |
The official or reference exchange rate is used by the BCM, banks, and exchange bureaus to set the bid and ask rates offered to customers, with a distinction being made between account operations and OTC transactions. These rates are also used by the customs services and other economic operators for contractual, accounting, and statistical purposes.

The official or reference exchange rate is determined as follows: for the US dollar (reference rate), the latest fixing is used; for other currencies, a cross-rate between the two currencies is used based on their respective parities with the US dollar on the international market.

Monetary policy framework

The monetary framework pursues multiple targets. The first is to ensure price stability. In addition, without prejudice to the objective of price stability, the BCM pursues the stability of the financial system and contributes to the implementation of the general economic policies defined by the Government.

As of December 31, 2019, 18 commercial banks and 19 exchange bureaus were licensed by the BCM to deal in foreign exchange with their clients. The BCM is the only institution authorized to grant licenses to banks and exchange bureaus.

Effective December 31, 2019, the weekly ceiling on internal currency transfers between a bank and its customer was removed. Banks must offset their clients’ purchase and sale orders in USD and EUR and present a single purchase or sale order by currency to the organized foreign exchange market, depending on whether the net balance after offset is positive or negative.

Previously, the ceiling on the amount of foreign currency handled by banks for their customers outside of the organized foreign exchange market, where the cumulative purchases of foreign currency a bank and a week performed outside of exchange market trading sessions with the same beneficiary, as defined under Article 1 of Instruction No. 06/GR/2017 was US$300,000 or the equivalent in other currencies.

Exchange bureaus may not engage in exchange operations directly with the BCM. They engage in currency exchange by buying and selling banknotes and receive and transfer funds in foreign exchange on behalf of their clients in accordance with the exchange regulations. However, they are not authorized to open customer accounts.
Nonetheless, they may have accounts abroad and make payments and transfers in foreign exchange on behalf of their clients.

Operated by the central bank | Yes.
---|---
Foreign exchange standing facility | No.
Allocation | No.
Auction | No.
Fixing | Yes.

The BCM conducts fixing sessions to allocate foreign exchange to the banks and to itself and to determine the exchange rate based on supply. During the fixing sessions, banks submit purchase and sale orders with exchange rates, which are classified in descending order for purchases and ascending order for sales; an equilibrium rate emerges from the comparison of these orders, which is the highest selling rate that finds a buyer. The BCM may intervene (after calculating the provisional equilibrium rate). Purchase orders retained in full or in part on the foreign exchange market are unwound at the proposed rates, within the limit of 2% of the market-clearing price, with day value date “D.”. A purchase commission of 0.75% is charged. Sale orders are unwound at the final market-clearing price minus a sales commission of 0.25%.

The ouguiya equivalent of the cumulative bids submitted by banks at an exchange market session must not exceed their free reserves in ouguiyas at the previous day’s close. Bids that exceed the limit are automatically rejected.

The BCM has issued an instruction prohibiting the manipulation of exchange rates for transactions on the official foreign exchange market.

Interbank market | Yes.
---|---
Banks may trade foreign currencies among themselves. However, this market segment is not yet operational.

Over the counter | Yes.
Brokerage | No.
Market making | No.

Forward exchange market | Yes.
Banks may trade among themselves (Instruction No. 001/GR/2007). However, this market segment is at the inception stage.

Official cover of forward operations | No.

Payments arrears No.

Official No.

Private No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes.

On domestic ownership and/or trade No.

On external trade Yes. Imports and exports of gold, except manufactured articles containing small quantities of gold, require BCM authorization. A recent increase in the output of artisanal gold led the BCM to open two offices for the purchase of gold on December 28, 2018, in the town of Zouérate, and, effective January 1, 2019, in the town of Chami.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes Yes.

On exports Yes. Travelers are not allowed to take out domestic banknotes and coins.

Domestic currency Yes.

Foreign currency Yes. BCM permission is required for residents to export foreign currency exceeding the equivalent of MRU 300,000. In such cases, documentary evidence of the source of the funds must be presented. Any additional requests (for amounts exceeding that ceiling) to buy foreign exchange for travel, submitted to the BCM through an AD, are fulfilled based on the supporting documentation. Banks and exchange bureaus may automatically sell foreign currency up to the equivalent of MRU 6,000 to nonresidents who prove their legal entry into Mauritania (appropriately stamped passport). In excess of this amount, purchases of foreign exchange (surrender) are authorized after deducting MRU 2,000 for each day of stay in Mauritania and on presentation of the required documents. Resident and nonresident holders of accounts in foreign currency maintained with a licensed banking intermediary may export any amount of foreign banknotes withdrawn from foreign exchange accounts in accordance with the existing exchange regulations.

On imports Yes.

Domestic currency Yes. Travelers are not allowed to import domestic banknotes and coins.

Note:

- Reserve requirements: Banks must hold required reserves in their current accounts at the CB for domestic and foreign currency deposits of residents and nonresidents pursuant to Instruction Nos. 3/GR/2006, 18/GR/2008, and 7/GR/2017.
- The required reserve base in ouguiya is the average of customer deposits. It is calculated over a period of four consecutive weeks based on total ouguiya deposits at the end of each week. The amount of the required reserve is calculated by applying the required reserve ratio in effect to the reserve base. The reserve holding period is four weeks beginning one week after the calculation period. During this period, the average daily balance of banks’ ordinary current accounts in ouguiya at the CB must be greater than or equal to the reserve requirement. The required reserve ratio is 7%. Any deficiency of required reserves in ouguiya results in a penalty assessed on the deficiency during the holding period. The rate applied corresponds to the BCM policy rate plus 8 percentage points.
- The base for required foreign exchange reserve is the daily average of foreign currency demand deposits, term deposits, and other amounts due foreign currency, less the special accounts of projects financed from external resources. The daily average of the end-of-day balances of the current accounts in foreign currencies of each bank over the maintenance period must be at least equal to 7% of the daily average of the base. The holding period is 2 weeks. Any deficiency gives rise to a penalty a working day, applied on the amount of the insufficiency converted in ouguiya at the sale price of the BCM. The rate applied corresponds to the BCM policy rate plus 8 percentage points.
- Liquid asset requirements: The required liquid asset is being calculated over a period of four consecutive weeks based on total foreign currency deposits at the end of each week. The amount of the required liquid asset is calculated by applying the required liquid asset ratio in effect to the liquid asset base. The holding period is four weeks beginning one week after the calculation period. During this period, the average daily balance of banks’ ordinary current accounts in foreign currency must be at least equal to 7% of the daily average of the base. The holding period is 2 weeks. Any deficiency gives rise to a penalty a working day, applied on the amount of the insufficiency converted in ouguiya at the sale price of the BCM. The rate applied corresponds to the BCM policy rate plus 8 percentage points.
Liquid asset requirements

No. Liquid asset requirements apply for both domestic and foreign currencies. The liquid asset requirement is, effective January 1, 2020, set at a minimum of 100% (previously 20%), which is the ratio between the high-quality liquid asset and the net cash outflows over a one-month horizon. The calculation of the new ratio complies with Basel III rules.

Interest rate controls

No. Only savings accounts (resident and nonresident) earn interest.

Credit controls

No. The loan agreement must be linked to the borrower’s repayment capacity, which is a ratio between the monthly payment and the stable income. Debt capacity takes account not only of the monthly payment of the loan repayments but also of all other commitments. The duration of the loan allocated may not exceed the duration of the statutory depreciation of the property or equipment concerned: 3 years for a personal loan, 1 year renewable for revolving credit, and 15 years for mortgage. The credit institution must ensure that the client’s income is not domiciled with another institution (Instruction No. 2/GR/2014).

Changes during 2019 and 2020

Exchange Arrangement

Foreign exchange market

Spot exchange market 12/31/2019 The weekly ceiling on internal currency transfers between a bank and its customer was removed. Banks must offset their clients’ purchase and sale orders in US dollars and euro and present a single purchase or sale order by currency to the organized foreign exchange market, depending on whether the net balance after offset is positive or negative. Previously, the ceiling on the amount of foreign currency handled by banks for their customers outside of the organized foreign exchange market, where the cumulative purchases of foreign currency a bank and a week performed outside of exchange market trading sessions with the same beneficiary, as defined under Article 1 of Instruction No. 06/GR/2017, was US$300,000 or the equivalent in other currencies.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) On external trade 01/01/2019 A recent increase in the output of artisanal gold led the Central Bank of Mauritania to open an office for the purchase of gold in the town of Chami.

Floating

Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The exchange rate of the rupee follows movements on the international foreign exchange market as well as domestic demand and supply conditions. Interventions by the BOMs in the foreign exchange market are limited to situations of excessive exchange rate volatility, shortages of foreign exchange on the market, and accumulation of foreign exchange reserves. The BOM publishes the rate of intervention by cob on the day the interventions take place, followed by weekly summaries with daily data. Information on foreign exchange intervention is also disseminated in the BOM’s Monthly Statistical Bulletin, Quarterly Economic Report, and Annual Report of the Bank.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. The official exchange rate (referred to as the central rate of the BOM) is used for the valuation and recording of BOM assets and liabilities.

The central rate is computed as an average of the mid dealt rates of USDMUR of the last three working days, with the dealt rate being the weighted average rate of market deals of US$20,000 or above as reported by banks and foreign exchange dealers. The official exchange rate is also used for conducting government transactions in foreign exchange. Specifically, government transactions are conducted at the official rate (that is, average of mid dealt rates for past three days) adjusted by a margin. The margin is added/subtracted to/from the official rate to determine the buying and selling rates. The margin varies according to the currency being transacted against the Mauritian rupee and represents costs incurred by the BOM for conducting the transaction, that is, SWIFT, negative interest, etc. The official rate is not published.

Section 4 of the BOM Act 2004 stipulates that the primary object of the Bank shall be to maintain price stability and promote orderly and balanced economic development. The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the BOM normally meets on a quarterly basis to formulate and determine the monetary policy to be conducted by the BOM to maintain price stability, taking into account Mauritius’ orderly and balanced economic development. The MPC determines the Key Repo Rate (KRR), the policy rate, after reviewing international and domestic economic and financial developments while also assessing the balance of risks to the growth and inflation outlook. Section 5(2) of the BOM Act 2004 stipulates that the Bank shall determine, with the concurrence of the Minister of Finance, the accepted range of the rate of inflation during a given period consistent with the pursuit of price stability. However, the provisions of this section are yet to be implemented.

In December 2006, the BOM introduced a new framework for the conduct of monetary policy. The Lombard Rate, which used to be the signaling rate of the monetary policy stance, was replaced by the KRR, with the overnight interbank money market interest rate as the operational target. The framework was based on a corridor of ±50 basis points for the KRR, within which the overnight interbank interest rate was supposed to move. The BOM would conduct repurchase transactions to inject/absorb liquidity in the banking system. Two additional instruments were introduced in April 2008 – the Special Deposits Facility and the Overnight Facility, while the corridor was widened to ±125 basis points around the KRR. Since early 2018, the BOM has been focusing on the 91-Day Bill yield as its short-term operating target. After every MPC meeting, the governor holds a press conference on the same day to explain the decision of the MPC. The MPC also announces its decision through a Media Release that outlines the assessment of prevailing economic and financial conditions and forecasts for inflation and real GDP growth. The Media Release is posted on the BOM’s website simultaneous to the holding of the press conference. The MPC minutes are released on the BOM’s website exactly two weeks after the meeting and also contain the voting pattern of members.

The BOM Act 2004 has been amended to require the BOM to publish a report on its monetary policy at least twice a year. The report shall include a review of price and financial stability and an assessment of the policies thereof. Accordingly, in its Annual Report for the year ended June 30, 2019, the BOM provided a review of the MPC meetings held during financial year 2018-19. In the September 2019 issue of the Quarterly Economic Report, a review was provided of the MPC decision taken during the third quarter of 2019.

At end-June 2020, 20 banks, 6 foreign exchange dealers, and 6 money-changers (bureaux de change) were licensed by the BOM. Foreign exchange dealers buy and sell foreign currency and engage in both spot and forward foreign exchange transactions. Foreign exchange dealers may carry out money and value transfer services, maintain accounts abroad, and make payments and transfers in foreign currency on behalf of their clients. Money-changers carry same-day (spot) transactions and deal only in banknotes. Foreign exchange dealers and money changers have to observe daily foreign exchange exposure limits of 30% and 75%, respectively, in terms of their specific net owned funds.

Auction
Yes.

The BOM conducts a single price foreign exchange auction at its initiative. The foreign exchange auction is conducted with all banks. The bids received normally reflect banks’ foreign exchange position, and the allotment is made on a pro-rata basis depending on the amount the BOM would buy or sell. Counteroffers are made to all bidders (including outliers) at the price determined by the BOM. The auction/counteroffer price is determined by the BOM based on banks’ bid prices, the prevailing USDMUR market rate, and international movements in EURUSD. There is no set frequency of foreign exchange auctions.

Fixing
No.

Interbank market
Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
- Yes.

There are no controls on the purchase locally by nonresidents of shares listed on the Stock Exchange of Mauritius (SEM), except that noncitizens may not hold more than 15% of shares in listed sugar companies. However, under the Non-Citizens (Property Restriction) Act, authorization from the Prime Minister’s Office, Home Affairs and External Communications is required for nonresidents to purchase shares that are not listed on the SEM. In addition, such purchases must be financed by funds transferred from banks abroad. Authorization from the Prime Minister’s Office, Home Affairs and External Communications is required for investments in banks that are not listed on the SEM and which hold immovable property in Mauritius. Equity holdings in excess of 10% of a bank’s capital by residents or nonresidents require BOM approval.

An insurer shall not invest in derivatives other than –

a) derivatives designated as an asset in respect of a linked long-term policy;

b) for the purpose of reducing investment risk or for efficient portfolio management; or

c) in such manner as the insurer will, or reasonably expects to, have the asset at the settlement date of the derivative instrument which matches its obligations under that instrument and from which it can discharge those obligations.
An insurer shall not, without the approval of the Financial Services Commission (‘FSC’), given generally or in a particular case, and on such conditions as the FSC may determine –
(a) mortgage, charge, or otherwise encumber its assets;
(b) directly or indirectly borrow any asset;
(c) By means of any surety, give any security in relation to obligations between other persons except where the security is provided under a guarantee policy which the insurer is authorized to issue under its license.

As per the Insurance (Long-Term Insurance Business Solvency) Rules 2007 and Insurance (General Insurance Business Solvency) Rules 2007 insurers’ investment concentration limits may be as follows:
(1) The aggregate value of investments as reported on the balance sheet by an insurer in any corporation, commodity or group of related corporations, except property, whose shares are listed on a licensed exchange in Mauritius or listed on such exchanges as are specified in the Second Schedule, may not exceed 10% of the assets of the insurer.
(2) The aggregate value of investments as reported on the balance sheet by an insurer in any corporation, commodity or group of related corporations, except property, whose shares are other than shares described in paragraph (2) above, may not exceed 5% of the assets of the insurer.
(3) An insurer may invest up to 10% of its assets in any property.
(4) When an insurer and its related company, other than a long term insurance company, make an investment in any corporation or commodity, the aggregate value of that investment in that corporation or commodity may not exceed-
In the case of listed shares described in paragraph (2), 10% of the assets of the insurer; and in the case of shares described in paragraph (3), 5% of the assets of the insurer.

Free floating
Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating; the exchange rate of the peso is determined in the foreign exchange market.

The Foreign Exchange Commission (FEC), comprised of members of Banco de México (Mexico’s Central Bank, BM, acronym in Spanish) and the MOF, determines the foreign exchange rate policy. The FEC does not target or defend any exchange rate level. In February 2017, the FEC announced an intervention mechanism through a foreign exchange hedging program. The foreign exchange hedging is auctioned through non-deliverable forwards. In this regard, effective March 9, 2020, the FEC announced an increase to the foreign exchange hedging program, authorizing up to US$30 billion (previously US$20 billion) of non-deliverable forwards. During March 2020, the FEC announced two auctions of US$2 billion through non-deliverable forwards, effective March 12, 2020, and March 18, 2020, respectively.

At its maturity, each outstanding amount must be rolled over under a roll-over auction until the FEC instructs otherwise. The data on interventions are published on the Bank’s website immediately after the auctions. In particular, BM discloses received and allocated bids, including the forward points, as well as the total amount demanded.

Effective March 19, 2020, the BM announced a temporary US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve valid through September 30, 2020 for up to US$60 billion. Under this program, the FEC announced on March 30, 2020, the first auction to be conducted for up to US$5 billion with a maturity of 84 days, effective April 1, 2020. Similarly, on April 2, 2020, a second auction with same characteristics was announced, effective April 6, 2020.

Effective April 21, 2020, the FEC announced that it added to its toolkit the possibility of selling non-deliverable forwards settled by differences in US dollars with international counterparties, to be traded during hours when Mexican markets are closed.

On June 22, 2020, the BM announced two auctions, under the temporary US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve, for US$7 billion and US$4 billion with a maturity of 84 days, effective June 24 and June 29, 2020, respectively.

Effective July 29, 2020, the BM announced an extension of the US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve through March 31, 2021 (previously valid through September 30, 2020) for up to US$60 billion.

Detailed data on the received bids and results of the US dollar loan auctions are published on the Bank’s website.

The exchange rate (FIX) is calculated by BM as an average of quotes in the wholesale foreign exchange market for operations payable in two banking days following the quote date of any of the exchange transaction platforms or of some other similar electronic means that BM considers indicative of prevailing conditions in the wholesale foreign exchange market. BM releases the FIX at noon each banking day after receiving all quotes and performing the corresponding calculations. The FIX is published in the Federal Official Gazette one banking day after its calculation and is used to settle liabilities in US dollars payable in Mexico on the day following its publication. The FIX serves only as a reference; therefore, its use in foreign exchange transactions by market participants is not mandatory.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework: Yes. To fulfill BM’s constitutional mandate of pursuing stability of the purchasing power of the national currency, the BM adopted inflation targeting as the framework for implementing monetary policy.

Target setting body: Yes.

Government

Central Bank: Yes.

Monetary Policy Committee

Central Bank Board: Yes. The decisions regarding monetary policy and those related to the responsibilities of BM are made by the members of its Governing Board, which is composed of five members: The Governor presides and the others are called Deputy Governors.

The Governor, or at least two of the Deputy Governors, may call for a meeting of the Governing Board. For a session to be convened, at least three of its members must be present.

The Minister of Finance and the Deputy Minister of Finance and Public Credit may attend the Board of Governor’s meetings with voice but without vote for which purpose they must be previously called and informed of the corresponding agenda. These officials may call a Governing Board meeting and suggest issues to be addressed during the meeting.

To be valid, resolutions require the majority of the votes of the present members; in case of a tie, the presiding member has the casting vote case.

Other

Government and Central Bank

Inflation target: Yes.

Target number: Yes.

Point target

Target with tolerance band: Yes. BM’s permanent target is annual inflation of the National Consumer Price Index of 3% with a variability interval of 1 percentage point (pp). The definition of this interval is simply a practical way of considering the inherent uncertainty as to the exact realization of the 3% permanent target, because of the existence of diverse disturbances, such as relative price variations, that may affect inflation in the short run and place it above or below its target.
Target measure Yes.

CPI Yes. The National Consumer Price Index is an economic indicator designated to measure over time the fluctuation of prices of a defined basket of goods and services representing household consumption. It constitutes the statistical instrument used to measure inflation.

Core inflation

Target horizon No.

Operating target (policy rate) Yes.

Policy rate Yes. On December 19, 2019, BM’s Governing Board decided to decrease the overnight interbank interest rate by 25 basis points, to a level of 7.25%.

On February 13, 2020, BM’s Governing Board decided an additional decrease of 25 basis points, to a level of 7%.

On March 20, 2020, because of the complex economic and financial global situation caused by the spread of the COVID-19, the Governing Board decided to advance, from March 26 to March 20, its monetary policy decision and reduced the overnight interbank interest rate by 50 basis points to a level of 6.5%, as well as adopting other measures to provide liquidity and improve the performance of the national financial markets.

On April 21, 2020, the Governing Board of BM reduced the overnight interbank interest rate by an additional 50 basis points to a level of 6%. BM also adopted additional measures to provide liquidity and improve the performance of the national financial markets, strengthening the credit provision network and providing liquidity for the sound development of the financial system.

On May 14, 2020, the Governing Board of BM decided to reduce the overnight interbank interest rate by 50 basis points to a level of 5.5%.

On June 25, 2020, the Governing Board of BM decided to reduce the overnight interbank interest rate by 50 basis points to a level of 5%.

On August 13, 2020, the Governing Board of BM decided to reduce the overnight interbank interest rate by 50 basis points to a level of 4.5%.

Target corridor band No.

Other No.

Accountability Yes.

Open letter No.

Parliamentary hearings No.

Other Yes. BM is accountable to the Congress. As established in its legal framework, BM must send quarterly reports (within the next 45 working days after each quarter) to the Congress and the President of the Republic of Mexico, regarding several topics, including the registered inflation over the said period.

Transparency Yes.
Publication of votes

Yes.

BM can disclose its monetary policy through the following mechanisms:

(1) Monetary Policy Announcements: public communications through which the Governing Board announces the decision regarding the objective for the overnight interbank interest rate;

(2) Minutes of the meetings of the Governing Board, which describe decisions taken by the majority of board members and, if applicable, the dissenting vote where the corresponding member of the Governing Board is identified; and

(3) Quarterly reports: These reports are presented at a public session presided over by the Governor and in the presence of the other members of the Governing Board.

Publication of minutes

Yes.

Ten business days after each announcement regarding monetary policy decisions, the minutes of the session in which the Governing Board deliberated and decided about it are published, thereby allowing access to the data on which the monetary policy was based as well as the arguments that led to such decision.

On May 17, 2018, BM modified some elements of its monetary policy communication strategy:

(1) The minutes on the monetary policy decision include the voter’s identity. If there are dissenting opinions in the voting, the reasons for such dissents are included as well.

(2) The transcripts of the Governing Board’s meeting involving monetary policy decisions are available to the public three years after the corresponding meeting took place.

(3) The monetary policy decision press release (monetary policy statement) and the corresponding minutes are published simultaneously in both Spanish and English.

(4) The speeches and public presentations of the members of the Governing Board are also published. These materials are available to the public on BM’s official webpage no later than two days after the event.

Publication of inflation forecasts

Yes.

In every quarterly report, BM updates the forecasts and projections about inflation, the GDP, and other relevant factors that led to monetary policy decisions.

As of December 31, 2019, there were 51 commercial banks, 6 development banks, 35 securities firms, 8 foreign exchange firms, and 962 foreign exchange centers.

Foreign exchange firms must be authorized by the MOF to purchase, sell, and exchange foreign exchange currency, including funds transfers. Foreign exchange firms may not perform exchange transactions directly with BM.

Corporations registered as foreign exchange centers at the National Banking and Securities Commission (NBSC) do not require an authorization by the MOF and may perform the following transactions: purchase and sell foreign currencies through bank account funds transfers; purchase and sell bills, minted pieces, and common metals with legal tender in the issuer country, traveler's checks in foreign currency, and coin blanks; and purchase documents on demand denominated and payable in foreign currency, payable by financial entities, up to the equivalent of US$10,000 in domestic currency for each client on the same day. Foreign exchange centers must only sell these documents to credit institutions or securities firms.

In addition to the transactions of foreign exchange centers, foreign exchange firms may purchase and charge documents on demand denominated and payable in foreign currency or payable by financial entities, without a limit per document; sell documents on demand and payable in foreign currency issued by foreign exchange firms payable by Mexican credit institutions, branches, and agencies abroad and foreign banks; and perform other operations authorized by BM, such as shipping and receiving services of funds transfers in domestic and foreign currency, within Mexico or abroad; receiving service payments on behalf of third parties, in domestic or foreign currency, without assuming direct or contingent obligations with those who perform the payments; and acquiring liabilities from funding received from shareholders, national and foreign financial institutions, traveler’s check suppliers, and furniture and equipment suppliers necessary for their business.

Operated by the central bank Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility No.
Allocation No.
Auction Yes.

The FEC operates an intervention mechanism through a foreign exchange hedging program. The foreign exchange hedging is auctioned through non-deliverable forwards. In this regard, effective March 9, 2020, the FEC announced an increase to the foreign exchange hedging program, authorizing up to US$30 billion (previously US$20 billion) of non-deliverable forwards. During March 2020, the FEC announced two auctions of US$2 billion through non-deliverable forwards, effective March 12, 2020 and March 18, 2020, respectively.

At its maturity, each outstanding amount must be rolled over under a roll-over auction until the FEC instructs otherwise. The data on interventions are published on the Bank’s website immediately after the auctions. In particular, BM discloses received and allocated bids, including the forward points, as well as the total amount demanded.

Effective March 19, 2020, the BM announced a temporary US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve valid through September 30, 2020 for up to US$60 billion. Under this program, the FEC announced on March 30, 2020, the first auction to be conducted for up to US$5 billion with a maturity of 84 days, effective April 1, 2020. Similarly, on April 2, 2020, a second auction with same characteristics was announced, effective April 6, 2020.

Effective April 21, 2020, the FEC announced that it added to its toolkit the possibility of selling non-deliverable forwards settled by differences in US dollars with international counterparties, to be traded during hours when Mexican markets are closed.

On June 22, 2020, the BM announced two auctions, under the temporary US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve, for US$7 billion and US$4 billion with a maturity of 84 days, effective June 24 and June 29, 2020, respectively.
Effective July 29, 2020, the BM announced an extension of the US dollar liquidity swap line established with the Federal Reserve through March 31, 2021 (previously valid through September 30, 2020) for up to US$60 billion.

The results of the operations by BM on the foreign exchange market, such as detailed data on the received bids and results of the US dollar loan auctions, are published on the Bank’s website.

Commercial banks are authorized to maintain term deposits in foreign currency, of companies domiciled in Mexico, payable abroad. Under the general provisions referred to in Article 115 of the Credit Institutions Law (CIL), issued by the MOF, there are limits on the following transactions: (1) purchases; (2) receipt of deposits; (3) receipt of payment for credits and services; and (4) cash transfers or allocation of funds in US dollars by credit institutions. These provisions aim to establish controls with respect to cash transactions in US dollars in credit institutions, to avoid introducing into the banking system resources whose origin may be related to illegal activities and the economic resources of organized crime. The BM’s interbank payment system in US dollars (SPID acronym in Spanish) aims to provide to the participants with means to process interbank electronic transfers between money deposit accounts in US dollars of the legal entities and domiciled in the national territory that are clients of the participants.</td>

Import licenses from the Ministry of Economy (MOE) are required for 117 out of the 12,806 tariff items subject to general import duties, including 25 tariff lines related to special operations (Eighth Rule). Under this Rule, registered manufacturing industries may import (zero duty but under the corresponding license) finished goods to allow them to fulfill their contracts and comply with manufacturing programs in which they are registered. Licenses are also required for 19 tariff lines for used vehicles, certain imports under the trade agreement that require a license to receive tariff preference, and industrial raw diamonds imported under the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme. The Agreement by which the MOE issued rules and general criteria on foreign trade subject certain goods to automatic import permit: footwear products, steel, slot machines, and textile and clothing products. Once the requirements have been met, the corresponding permit is issued. Import licenses are generally valid for one year, but for certain sensitive products and used clothing, they are valid only for three months. The license may be renewed, depending on the importer’s performance. Import licenses are not required for used vehicles imported by the diplomatic or consular missions, or by personnel of the Mexican Foreign Service, for station-wagon-type (family) vans (“motor home”), vehicles for... physically challenged persons, funeral vehicles or funeral carriages and coaches, go-karts, or collector’s vehicles (at least 30 years old), among others. Imports of other used cars require MOE approval. Only special-purpose vehicles not made locally are allowed for import.

Effective February 22, 2019, the agreement that establishes the classification and codification of Hydrocarbons and Petroleum Products whose import and export are subject to Prior Permission by the MOE was modified, to adjust the requirements to get a Prior Permission for the import or export of these products.

Effective January 31, 2020, the Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import, export, entry, or exit is subject to sanitary regulation by the Ministry of Health was modified, to subject various fish and crustaceans, mollusks and other aquatic invertebrates, as well as organic chemicals to regulation.

Effective February 4, 2020, the Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import and export are subject to regulation by the agencies that conform to the Inter-ministerial Commission for the Use and Process Control of Pesticides, Fertilizers, and Toxic Substances was modified, to subject diverse organic chemical products and products of the chemical industries to regulation.

The Agreement, by which the MOE issues general rules and criteria on foreign trade, was modified on several occasions. Among other things to add tariff lines that will be subject to automatic import permits related to various footwear, textile and clothing products and make the corresponding adjustments to Annex 2.4.1 of the Agreement with respect to what is applicable to merchandise subject to compliance with Official Mexican Standards of the textile and clothing sectors, and footwear; to modify Annexes 2.2.1 and 2.2.2 of the aforementioned Agreement to update the list of tariff items subject to the Automatic Import Notice of Steel Products scheme; to add the reduction of response times, in some cases elimination of requirements, as well as the implementation of electronic means for their processing; to incorporate sections VII and VIII of numeral 10 of Annex 2.4.1 of, to guarantee compliance with the purposes of the Official Mexican Standards in terms of Article 40 of the Federal Law on Metrology and Standardization, and thereby ensure that imported products comply with the minimum safety requirements and standards and thus provide full protection to consumers; to extend the term of the agreement that made the export of iron ore subject to prior permission to inhibit the illegal exploitation and commercialization of said merchandise, update and strengthen the requirements of the prior export permit for said good; to add the official Mexican standards concerning specifications that must be met to import petroleum products, terminals connected or interconnected through wired access to a public telecommunications network; and radio communication equipment with digital interface, respectively, as well as to submit some steel products to the submission of an automatic import notification.

The imports of some endangered species, stickers known as “Garbage Pail Kids,” certain types of pesticides and insecticides, and some narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances are prohibited, as well as weapons and other goods from countries that are under sanctions by the UNSC.
Effective November 6, 2019, the Law on General Import and Export Tariff was modified, creating 19 tariff items identified as pesticides, of which 17 are forbidden because they have been identified as high hazardous chemicals under the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants and by the Rotterdam Convention on the Prior Informed Consent Procedure for Certain Hazardous Chemicals and Pesticides in International Trade. Effective February 19, 2020, the General Import and Export Tax Law Tariff was modified, which prohibits the import and export of electronic cigarettes and vaporizing devices with similar uses, as well as their cartridges and accessories.

Open general licenses No.

Licenses with quotas No.

Other nontariff measures Yes. Other nontariff measures are required, such as: previous licenses for oil products; those related to national security (weapons and ammunition); also, some related to human health, ecological and environmental regulations; animal and plant health certifications; restrictions on drugs, narcotic substances, and their inputs; nuclear energy and toxic and hazardous materials, apply to about 3,304 tariff codes out of the 12,597 tariff items under the general import tariff. About 3,598 tariff codes must comply with the standards specified in selected norms for consumer protection and/or information.

Import taxes and/or tariffs Yes.

Mexico has 12,806 tariff items in the Law on General Import and Export Tariff: 96% have ad valorem taxes of between 0% and 20% and 56% are exempt from import duties.

The largest import tax is 75% and applies to a few products, such as poultry meat and edible offal and fructose. A 50% tariff applies to imports of used cars from countries without a trade agreement.

Imports from TLCAN, ALADI, and EFTA member countries, Australia, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, El Salvador, the EU, Guatemala, Honduras, Israel, Japan, Nicaragua, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore, Uruguay, and Vietnam receive preferential treatment.

There is a preferential tariff of 0% to 10% for imports within the framework of the Sectorial Promotion Programs (PROSEC) only for the inputs used in the elaboration of specific products, regardless of whether the goods produced are destined for export or domestic market. At the end of 2019, the number of tariff items included in the PROSEC amounted to 998, with the automotive, electrical, and electronic products being the most benefited sectors. No tariffs are applied to goods imported temporarily for repair or transformation purposes and which will then be returned abroad.

Mexico applies antidumping and anti-subsidy duties to the following products: bond paper and rebar from Brazil; atomizers, chemical products, steel products, mushrooms, bicycles, coaxial cable “guidewire,” blenders, pencils, ceramic tiles, cookware, polyester, rachel-type synthetic fiber blankets, ceramic dinnerware and ceramic parts, metallic balloons, cooking pots, and aluminum foil, hydraulic cylinder jacks, wind towers, metal zippers, zamak and steel pull... handles and aluminum disks from China; steel pipe from the UK; epoxidized soybean oil, rubber, chemical products, steel products, and chicken leg and thigh from the USA; rubber and steel products from Japan; rubber, polyester, and steel products from Korea; steel products from Italy, France, Germany, Kazakhstan, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Spain, Taiwan Province of China, and Ukraine; metoprolol, steel products, and antibiotics from India; and epoxidized soybean oil from Argentina.

Effective March 25, 2019, the imposition of import duties of 15% was extended for 180 days for 186 tariff items in the steel sector, dating from June 5, 2019.

In the same sense, effective September 20, 2019, a six-year reduction plan was established for the steel sector. This means the creation of 82 tariff items, the modification of 25, and the elimination of 21. Thus, for 228 tariff items, an import tariff of 15% is established until 2021, later it will go to levels of 10% until 2023 and, finally at 3% levels and Exempt until 2024.

Effective October 15, 2019, a 180-day import tariff was established for three tariff items related to the steel sector.

Effective April 10, 2019, a temporary import tariff was established for 180 days on various tariff items in the textile-clothing and footwear sector.

Effective October 28, 2019, a tariff reduction program was established for the clothing and footwear sector, which means temporarily establishing the import tariff of 317 tariff items at levels of 25% and 30% until 2024, the year in which they will return to their MFN level.

Most exports do not need a license. Exports of a few items related to drugs, narcotic substances, endangered species, archaeological objects, and electronic cigarettes and vaporizing devices with similar uses, as well as their cartridges and accessories, are forbidden. Exports of arms and other products destined for countries sanctioned by the UNSC are also forbidden. Exports of petroleum products and their derivatives and rough industrial diamonds, some iron ores, conventional, nuclear and chemical weapons, their parts and components, dual-use goods, as well as software and related technologies require an export license.

Tomato exports are subject to an automatic Notice (only when they are definitive exports).

Effective February 22, 2019, the agreement that establishes the classification and codification of Hydrocarbons and Petroleum Products whose import and export are subject to Prior Permission by the Ministry of Energy was modified, to adjust the requirements to get a Prior Permission for the import or export of these products.

Effective January 31, 2020, the Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import, export, entry, or exit is subject to sanitary regulation by the Ministry of Health was modified. The modification implies adding merchandise to those already regulated. The modification does not imply qualitative changes in the regulation.

Effective February 4, 2020, the Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import and export are subject to regulation by the agencies that conform to the Inter-ministerial Commission for the Use and Process Control of Pesticides, Fertilizers, and Toxic Substances was modified. Derived from the creation and modification of tariff lines for chemical products, goods were added for better identification, and those already regulated, which underwent changes, were updated. The modification does not imply qualitative changes in the regulation. The agreement that establishes the classification and codification of petroleum and petroleum by-products determines imports and exports are subject to prior approval by the Ministry of Energy.

Effective December 9, 2019, the Agreement by which the MOE issues general rules and criteria in Foreign Trade matters was modified, to publicize the modifications applicable to prior import and export permissions and the procedure to request tomato export notice.

Sugar exports must prior authorization, and when the destination is the USA, a maximum export quota is set. The agreement that allows the export of sugar was published in the Federal Register ("Diario Oficial” – DOF) on October 5, 2017 by means of an Agreement by which the export of sugar is subject to prior permission and a maximum quota for its export is established.

Ad valorem taxes of 25% apply to the export of bituminous mixtures based on natural asphalt, natural bitumen, petroleum bitumen, mineral tar, or mineral tar pitch (for example, bituminous mastic, liquid bitumen), except for fluidized bitumen, and asphalt bituminous mixtures for retail sale in containers of no more than 200 liters.

Purchases of shares and other equities may be affected by the inward direct investment laws. These laws determine which activities are reserved for the government and Mexican investors. With prior authorization of the MOE and, when applicable, by the NBSC, investment trusts may be established by Mexican banks acting as trustees. These trusts issue neutral investment instruments that may be acquired by foreign investors, which may only grant to their holder’s economic rights and, in some cases, limited corporate rights, without granting voting rights in Ordinary General Meetings.

Foreign institutions must be authorized by the MOE to engage, regularly, in commercial activities. Foreign securities publicly offered in the domestic market could be registered in the National Registry of Securities (NRS).
Foreign securities may be listed in the international stock listing system through brokerage houses, or credit institutions or else, by the issuer.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. Credit institutions and securities firms may purchase shares of foreign financial entities with the prior authorization of the NBSC. Insurance institutions or mutual insurance institutions may only acquire equity shares denominated in foreign currency, with prior authorization of the MOF, considering the opinion of the CNSF and BM. Retirement fund management companies must invest 60% of their equity in shares of the investment companies that they manage. These investment companies may invest up to 20% of the total assets in foreign securities managed in compliance with the investment regime that is established by the National Retirement Savings System Commission (NRSSC).

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes. Public offerings abroad of securities issued in Mexico must be notified to the NBSC. Additionally, the information related to such offerings must be registered at the NRS.

Bonds or other debt securities Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. Purchase of debt instruments may only be made through securities firms or credit institutions.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. Foreign institutions must be authorized by the MOE before engaging in commercial activities. The public offering of securities in the national territory requires NBSC authorization. Foreign securities publicly offered in the domestic market could be registered in the NRS.

In the International Quotation System, foreign securities may be listed through securities firms or credit institutions.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. Commercial banks’ foreign exchange risk position may not exceed 15% of their core capital at the close of operations each day. Insurance institutions or mutual insurance institutions may only acquire equity securities denominated in foreign currency issued by the Federal Government and registered in the NRS. Retirement fund management companies must invest 60% of their equity in shares of the investment companies that they manage. These investment companies may invest up to 20% of the total assets in foreign securities managed in compliance with the investment regime that is established by the NRSSC.

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes. Public offerings abroad of securities issued in Mexico must be notified to the NBSC. National securities offered publicly in foreign markets may be registered in the NRS.

On money market instruments Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. Foreign institutions must be authorized by the MOE before performing any commercial activities. Retirement fund management companies must invest 60% of their equity in shares of the investment companies that they manage, and these investment companies may invest up to 20% of the total assets managed in foreign securities in compliance with the regime established by the NRSSC.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. Foreign institutions must be authorized by the MOE before engaging, regularly, in commercial activities. On collective investment securities Yes. Foreign institutions must be authorized by the MOE before performing commercial activities.

The Board of Directors of each investment fund management company must establish holding limits per shareholder, regardless of the holder’s nationality or residence.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. To operate as an investment fund, NBSC authorization is required. The information prospectus for the public markets as well as its modifications requires the authorization by the NBSC. The investment fund’s prospectus mentioned may not be used, in any other language, by any other entity other than an investment fund. Foreign securities publicly offered in the domestic market must be registered in the NRS.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes. Public offerings abroad of securities issued in Mexico must be notified to the NBSC. National securities offered publicly in foreign markets must be registered in the NRS.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments Yes. Under the regulations governing derivative operations: (1) A simplified BM authorization procedure applies to commercial banks and securities firms for conducting derivative operations. (2) Multiple-scope financial companies may engage in derivative operations over underlying assets to cover their own risks without BM authorization. (3) Credit derivative operations may only be carried out by commercial banks and securities firms, the latter only on behalf of third parties. (4) Commercial banks, securities firms, investment funds, multiple-scope financial companies, and general deposit warehouses, prior to entering into any derivative operation with any of the following counterparties, must collect the counterparty’s currently valid Legal Entity Identifier Code: (1) commercial banks, (2) securities firms, (3) investment funds, (4) multiple-scope financial companies, (5) general deposit warehouses, (6) insurance institutions, (7) investment funds management companies, (8) retirement funds specialized investment companies, (9) credit unions, (10) development support organizations, and (11) foreign financial entities. Commercial bank’s credit operations with related persons may not exceed 35% of the basic part of their net capital. Any commercial bank granting a credit to a person or group of individuals considered to be a unique entity by reason of a common risk must meet the limit established by the NBSC according to their capitalization level. In addition, there are controls on credits and loans granted by insurance institutions or insurance mutual companies in foreign currency.

There are limits on credits denominated in foreign currency granted to Mexican credit institutions and on open foreign exchange positions.

It is forbidden to enter into any agreement with foreign bonding companies to guarantee actions of individuals or companies bound to fulfill obligations in Mexico, except for re-bonding operations or when they are received by national bonding companies as countersecurity.

Controls apply to (1) acquisition of more than 49% of the capital stock of a Mexican company and are subject to review if the total assets of that company exceed MEX$20,184,671,346.26 (twenty thousand one hundred eighty-four million six hundred seventy-one thousand three hundred forty-six pesos and twenty-six cents); (2) acquisition of land for agricultural, livestock farming, and forestry purposes; “T” class shares may be acquired from the companies that own the property up to 49%; (3) investment in (a) provision of fuel and lubricants for ships, aircraft, and railroad equipment exceeding 49% of the capital stock; (4) investment exceeding 49% of capital stock in fishing, other than aquaculture, in coastal and fresh waters or in the exclusive economic zone; (5) investment in air, maritime, and ground transportation and related services, including cabotage and port services, except (a) participation up to 25% in the capital stock of national air transportation, specialized air transportation, and aero taxis transportation; up to 49% in air terminal management and 49%, or above, if an authorization is granted (b) participation up to 49% in the capital stock of naval companies engaged in interior navigation, except tourism cruises and the exploitation of dredges and other naval devices for the construction, conservation, and operation of ports; in integral port management and port services of pilotage for the ships that develop interior navigation; and in companies involved only in the exportation of high-speed ships and port services for interior navigation (full ownership may be authorized); (c) railroad-related services and participation up to 49% in the capital stock of a railway concessionaire enterprise (full ownership may be authorized); and (d) participation in the capital stock of a company engaged in national ground transportation of passengers, tourists, and freight within Mexico; (6) investment exceeding 49% of the capital stock in radio broadcasting, and for newspaper printing and publishing for exclusive national distribution; (7) investment by a foreign government or government enterprise in commercial banks, financial holding companies, securities firms, insurance institutions and insurance mutual companies, bonding institutions and investment fund management companies; (8) in the restricted zone, acquisition of real estate is available only for Mexicans and Mexican companies and investment in residential real estate by firms with foreign participation incorporated in the country; (9) investment in aircraft building, assembly, or repair; shipbuilding and ship repairs; or any activity requiring a concession, other than railways, except through a company incorporated in Mexico; and (10) investment by foreigners in legal services and private education services exceeding 49% of the capital stock, except with favorable decision of the National Commission on Foreign Investment (NCFI) authorization.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes.

Borrowing abroad Yes. Borrowing abroad is permitted. Open foreign exchange positions of commercial banks must not exceed 15% of their core capital. Commercial banks’ foreign exchange liabilities must not exceed 1.83 times their core capital. However, BM can authorize higher positions in foreign currency for a maximum period of 5 days within a 12-month period for each limit.

Maintenance of accounts abroad Yes. Foreign exchange risk positions of both total and for each foreign currency must not exceed the daily limit of 15% of a bank’s core capital. However, BM can authorize higher positions in foreign currency for a maximum period of 5 days within a 12-month period for each limit.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes. Commercial banks must diversify their risks to keep performing their transactions. There are maximum limits on the amounts commercial banks may lend resulting from the integral risk management and a specific regime regarding related persons, regardless of the borrower’s residence. If a commercial bank extends credit to an individual or a group of individuals considered as a single individual because of common risk, it must comply with the limit established by the NBSC in accordance with the institution’s capitalization.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. There are maximum limits on the amount commercial banks may lend, regardless of the borrower’s nationality or residence, and on their net open foreign exchange position. Open foreign exchange positions may not exceed 15% of core capital. If a commercial bank grants a credit to a person or to a group of individuals who are considered to constitute a single person because of a common risk, the commercial bank will have to comply with the limits established by the NBSC, in accordance with the institution’s capitalization.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange Yes. Credit institutions may deal on their own behalf or throughout an agency agreement with securities, commercial debt instruments not registered in the NRS, capital instruments, whether or not registered in the NRS, and government securities.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange Yes.

Reserve requirements No.

Liquid asset requirements Yes. Commercial banks must invest in liquid assets—as determined by BM and denominated in foreign currency—an amount calculated through the maturity structure of their liabilities payable in foreign currency. In accordance with the General Regulations on Liquidity Requirements for Commercial Banks, issued jointly by BM and the NBSC, commercial banks must maintain high-quality liquid assets to meet their obligations and liquidity needs during 30 days.

Certain requirements apply to shareholder investment, regardless of the nationality or residence. If the acquisition exceeds 5% of the shares representing the capital stock of a commercial bank, NBSC approval, with BM opinion, is required.

Buyers purchasing 20% or more shares of class “O” require NBSC authorization and BM favorable opinion. To acquire said authorization, the buyers must file a request, which must contain a list of directors and officers; a general operating plan; a strategic program for organization, administration, and internal control of the institution and other documents that the NBSC requires.

For subsidiaries, to be able to be considered as such, at least 51% of the capital should be held by a subsidiary controller society or, directly or indirectly, by a foreign financial institution.

Imports and Import Payments

Import licenses and other nontariff measures

Positive list

02/22/2019
The agreement that establishes the classification and codification of Hydrocarbons and Petroleum Products whose import and export are subject to Prior Permission by the Ministry of Economy was modified, to adjust the requirements to get a Prior Permission for the import or export of these products.

01/31/2020
The Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import, export, entry, or exit is subject to sanitary regulation by the Ministry of Health was modified, to subject various fish and crustaceans, mollusks and other aquatic invertebrates, as well as organic chemicals to regulation.

02/04/2020
The Agreement that establishes the classification and codification of merchandise and products whose import and export are subject to regulation by the agencies that conform to the Inter-ministerial Commission for the Use and Process Control of Pesticides, Fertilizers, and Toxic Substances was modified, to subject diverse organic chemical products and products of the chemical industries to regulation.

Negative list

11/06/2019
The Law on General Import and Export Tariff was modified, creating 19 tariff items identified as pesticides, of which 17 are forbidden because they have been identified as high hazardous chemicals under the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants and by the Rotterdam Convention on the Prior Informed Consent Procedure for Certain Hazardous Chemicals and Pesticides in International Trade.

The Law on General Import and Export Tariff was modified, which prohibits the import and export of electronic cigarettes and vaporizing devices with similar uses, as well as their cartridges and accessories.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

03/25/2019
The imposition of import duties of 15% was extended for 180 days for 186 tariff items in the steel sector, dating from June 5, 2019.
A temporary import tariff was established for 180 days on various tariff items in the textile-clothing and footwear sector.

Eighty-two tariff items were created for the steel sector.

Twenty-one tariff items were eliminated for the steel sector.

A 180-day import tariff was established for three tariff items related to the steel sector.

A tariff reduction program was established for the clothing and footwear sector, which means temporarily establishing the import tariff of 317 tariff items at levels of 25% and 30% until 2024, the year in which they will return to their MFN level.

Foreign exchange transactions are limited or infrequent and handled or transacted by a foreign commercial bank in the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM). There were about 50–100 foreign currency exchange transactions in 2019. The two commercial banks in the FSM are insured by the U.S. Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The foreign banks only accept limited foreign currencies in exchange for US dollar at foreign exchange rates. The absence of a domestic currency and a monetary authority—a CB—somewhat constrains the ability of the local authorities to regulate the scope of foreign exchange activities in the country. There are no foreign exchange bureaus in the country.

Classification

- No separate legal tender |
- Currency board |
- Conventional peg |
- Stabilized arrangement |
- Crawling peg
The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as floating. The NBM intervenes in the domestic foreign exchange interbank market to smooth out sharp exchange rate fluctuations of MDL against the US dollar. Sharp fluctuations are not specifically defined. However, the NBM intervenes based on market conditions and future expectations of market participants. These interventions do not aim to change the trend of the exchange rate determined by the market. The NBM intervenes directly at the market-quoted rates and publishes aggregated monthly data on its website regarding its interventions and interbank market turnover. The data shows interventions by currency and type of operation (spot or derivative).

From January 2019 through June 2020, the exchange rate of the MDL has depreciated slightly, by 0.5% against the US dollar although throughout this period there were larger swings in the exchange rate. This period can be summarized in 2 episodes of foreign exchange market pressure (q1 2019 and March–April 2020), mostly driven by subjective factors that have prompted the NBM to intervene with foreign exchange sales. Accordingly, q1 2019 was characterized by a strong foreign exchange demand given the uncertainty surrounding the parliamentary election cycle, while in March–April 2020, the foreign exchange demand has soared following the restrictions imposed by the government in response to the pandemics that have incentivized businesses to shift from MDL to foreign exchange savings and individuals to hoard foreign exchange. Following these shock episodes and given the foreign exchange market seasonality that is characterized by a foreign exchange surplus during Easter holidays through early fall, the NBM was able to intervene subsequently with seldom foreign exchange purchases.

In q1 2019, the NBM has performed net sales of US$121 million and has subsequently purchased a net amount of US$116 million by the end of 2019.

In March–April 2020, the NBM has sold US$169 million and has subsequently purchased US$47 million also because of a strong adjustment in the trade balance. Aggregate monthly data on CB’s transactions with the domestic banks is published. Data is available by gross amount, by currency, and by transaction type. Data on CB’s net foreign exchange interventions can be found in the press release on the evolution of official reserve assets, which is published by the 7th following the month for which the data is reported. The press release is available in Romanian and Russian (first hyperlink provided). More detailed data (second and third hyperlinks) is published by the 22nd following the month for which the data is reported.

Policy rate

Yes. De jure, there is no operating target or interest rate target. The monetary market conditions are guided by the NBM through the base rate (key policy rate), which is set (thus fully controlled) by Executive Board and is the main indicator for the monetary market in the short run. The base rate is the reference rate for the main short-term monetary policy operations. The base rate is applied to the monetary market main operations of the NBM to send the monetary policy signals. Effective August 6, 2020, the base rate is 3% p.a.

Effective August 6, 2020, deposit and lending facility interest rates are 0.5% p.a. and 5.5% p.a., respectively.

De jure, there is no interest rate target corridor. The standing facilities determine the corridor of the interest rates on the monetary market in the short run. The interest rates on standing facilities (overnight deposits and credits) define the corridor of NBM rates.

The NBM is responsible to parliament.

Effective May 14, 2020, National Bank must submit to the parliament in a plenary session, by June 1, a report that includes information on:
- activity and its operations for the concluded financial year;
- economic situation of the State.

Effective August 7, 2019, the NBM resumed publishing votes of members of the Executive Board at monetary policy meetings in the Inflation Report (starting with the Executive Board meeting on February 6, 2019, published in the Inflation Report on August 7, 2019). In this respect, the vote count is published six months after the decision was made. Previously, the publication of votes was stopped since December 29, 2016.

The NBM publishes the Inflation Report quarterly to evaluate the efficiency of the monetary policy, which will include an analysis of the macroeconomic situation, a forecast for medium-term (two years) inflation, as well as the analysis of the risks regarding the future achievement of the quantitative target.

The inflation forecast is published on the home page of the NBM official website.

Currently, 11 licensed banks participate in the domestic foreign exchange interbank market, under the Agreement on the Interbank Foreign Exchange Market in the Republic of Moldova. The Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation allows licensed banks to set bid and ask rates for their foreign exchange transactions. Under the Agreement on the Interbank Foreign Exchange Market in the Republic of Moldova, (1) spreads (difference between the bid and ask rates) may be determined by the quoting party and (2) banks may not charge fees on foreign exchange transactions in the domestic interbank market. The Law on Payment Services and Electronic Money allows resident nonbank payment service providers and electronic money institutions to perform foreign currency exchange transactions closely related to the electronic money issuance or to the provision of payment services. Under the Law on Capital Markets, resident investment firms may perform foreign exchange buying and selling transactions related to the provision of investment services. The NBM intervenes directly with market participants at their quoted rates.

As of end of 2019, 11 banks participated in the interbank market.

The interbank market operates over the counter.

Transactions with these instruments were allowed starting with March 23, 1998, when the first Agreement on Interbank Foreign Exchange Market in the Republic of Moldova was signed.

Operative  Yes.
There are several bilateral agreements for the promotion of investment and trade development that include provisions on payments between the signatories, including with Romania, and negotiations are under way with Turkey.

Inoperative  No.

Regional arrangements  Yes.
The regional trade agreements in which the Republic of Moldova takes part offer a preferential trade regime by eliminating import duties as well as other tariff and nontariff barriers. The Republic of Moldova signed the following FTAs: Association Agreement and Deep and Comprehensive Free Trade Area with EU, FTA with CIS countries, FTA with CEFTA countries, and FTA with the Republic of Turkey. The Republic of Moldova also benefits from unilateral trade preferences offered under the GSP signed with Canada, EU, Japan, Norway, Switzerland, and the United States.

Clearing agreements No.
Barter agreements and open accounts No.
Administration of control Yes. The NBM is responsible for (1) formulating and implementing the government monetary and foreign exchange policy, (2) establishing the exchange rate regime of the leu, (3) holding and managing the country’s foreign exchange reserves, (4) licensing foreign exchange offices and hotels for cash currency exchange activity with individuals, (5) approving foreign exchange operations that are subject to authorization under the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, and (6) exercising control over agents of foreign exchange control. According to the Law on Regulation of Repatriation of Funds, Goods, and Services Obtained from External Economic Transactions, control over the repatriation of funds, goods, and services is exercised by fiscal authorities, who verify repatriation through on-site inspections of legal entities’ economic activities. The Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation specifies the authorities and agents of foreign exchange control and the scope of their authority. The authorities of foreign exchange control are the NBM, customs authorities, financial inspection/control bodies, the Ministry of Finance and State Tax Services, National Commission for Financial Markets (NCFM), Office for Prevention and Fight Against Money Laundering, and Court of Accounts. The agents of foreign exchange control are:
- licensed banks;
- foreign exchange offices;
- hotels with NBM licenses for cash currency exchange activity with individuals;
- resident legal entities authorized to handle the exchange of postal money orders;
- resident nonbank payment services providers; and
- resident electronic money issuers in connection with the issuance of electronic money and providing payment services related to the issuance of electronic money.

The foreign exchange control authorities exercise control within the limits of their authority. Foreign exchange control agents exercise control over payments and transfers in foreign exchange operations carried out by residents and nonresidents through such agents.

Payments arrears No.
Official No.
Private No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes. Regulated by the Law No. 282 of July 22, 2004, on Precious Metals and Precious Stones.

Entrepreneurial activity in the field of precious metals and stones is carried out based on licenses issued by the Public Services Agency. Since the July 2010 dissolution of the State Depository of Valuables, the valuables in the State Fund of Precious Metals and Precious Stones have been transmitted to various authorities (for example, NBM, Ministry of Education, Culture and Research). Secondhand stores and pawnshops may not purchase or accept for storage or as collateral precious metal bullion or precious metal coins. Pawnshops do not have the right to receive the following: foreign currency; valuable papers; objects that do not belong to private individuals; real estate; antique objects or other old objects; coins of precious metals; metals and precious stones, which are raw material, waste, or objects for technical and production purposes; means of transport (excluding bicycles and mopeds); waste and scrap containing precious metals extracted from the machine when scrapped.

Under the Law on the Precious Metals and Stones Regime, legal entities and individuals are entitled to hold objects of precious metals.

On external trade

Yes. A license from the Public Services Agency is required, which allows imports and exports of precious metals and stones.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

Yes. Imports and exports of foreign exchange values (cash in foreign and domestic currency, materialized securities, payment instruments in foreign and domestic currency) are regulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation. Imports and exports of coins containing precious metals are governed by the legislation regulating precious metals and articles thereof. If both cash (domestic and foreign currency) and traveler’s checks in foreign currency are imported or exported, the limits of €10,000 and €50,000 (including for declaration) specified below apply to the total amount imported or exported. If securities and payment instruments in both domestic and foreign currency (other than traveler’s checks) are imported or exported, the declaration limit of €10,000 indicated below applies to the total amount imported or exported.

On exports

Yes. Fees for customs procedures are not charged on exports of domestic currency and foreign currency in cash from Moldova by commercial banks and the NBM.

Domestic currency

Yes. Nonresident banks and licensed banks may export domestic currency cash with NBM approval. Exportation by nonresident banks and licensed banks of domestic currency cash in an amount not exceeding MDL 100,000 does not require the NBM approval. Exports by licensed banks and other resident legal entities of domestic currency banknotes and coins to be used to test currency-processing machines also do not require NBM approval. Once the test is completed, but no later than six months from the date of exportation, the cash must be returned. Exports of banknotes and coins by licensed banks and nonresident banks must be declared in writing to customs. Resident and nonresident individuals may export, when departing Moldova, domestic currency cash (1) in amounts not exceeding €10,000 or its equivalent an individual a trip without submission of supporting documentation to customs authorities and (2) between €10,000 and €50,000 or the equivalent an individual a trip with written declaration and submission to customs of the following supporting documents for the amount exceeding €10,000 or its equivalent: (a) customs documents confirming the importation of currency and/or (b) export permission from a licensed bank or the NBM. Individuals may not export domestic currency cash in unaccompanied luggage. Resident and nonresident legal entities may export cash in domestic currency in cases stipulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation via their official representatives. In case of exports of cash in domestic currency by individuals who are also representatives of legal entities, the requirements (including declaration) established for individuals apply for the total amount of exported funds, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Residents and nonresidents may export securities and payment instruments in... domestic currency without limit, subject to declaration in written form to customs as follows: (1) by licensed banks and nonresident banks, regardless of the amount of exported securities and payment instruments, and (2) by individuals and official representatives of legal entities, if the total amount of exported securities and payment instruments exceeds the equivalent of €10,000 an individual a trip, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Payment cards are excluded from the definition of payment instruments of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation.

Foreign currency  Yes.

Licensed banks and nonresident banks may export foreign currency cash without NBM approval. Licensed banks and nonresident banks may export traveler’s checks in foreign currency without NBM approval. Exports of banknotes, coins, and traveler’s checks by licensed banks and nonresident banks must be declared in written form to customs. Resident and nonresident individuals may export when departing Moldova foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks in foreign currency (1) up to €10,000 or its equivalent an individual a trip without submission of supporting documentation to customs authorities and (2) between €10,000 and €50,000 or the equivalent an individual a trip by written declaration and submission to the customs authorities of the following supporting documents for the amount exceeding €10,000 or its equivalent: (a) customs documents confirming the importation of currency into Moldova and/or (b) export permission issued by a licensed bank or the NBM. Individuals may not export foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks in foreign currency in unaccompanied luggage. Resident and nonresident legal entities may export cash in foreign currency and traveler’s checks in foreign currency in cases stipulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation (for example, exports of cash by employees for business trip expenses abroad) via their official representatives. In case of exports of cash in foreign currency and traveler’s checks in foreign currency by individuals who are also representatives of legal entities, the requirements (including declaration) established for individuals are applied for the total amount of the funds exported, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Residents and nonresidents may export securities and payment instruments other than traveler’s checks in foreign currency without limit, subject to declaration in written form to customs as follows: (1) by licensed banks and nonresident banks, regardless of the amount of exported securities and payment instruments, and (2) by individuals and by official representatives of legal entities, if the total amount of exported securities and payment instruments exceeds €10,000 or its equivalent an individual a trip, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Payment cards are excluded from the definition of payment instruments of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation.

On imports  Yes.

Fees for customs procedures and customs duties are not charged on imports of domestic currency and foreign currency in cash to Moldova by commercial banks and the NBM. Only the NBM is exempted from the VAT on import of domestic currency and foreign currency in cash to Moldova.

Domestic currency  Yes.

Nonresident banks and licensed banks may import cash in domestic currency with NBM approval. Importation by nonresident banks and licensed banks of domestic currency cash in an amount not exceeding MDL 100,000 does not require the NBM approval. The importation by licensed banks and other resident legal entities of banknotes and coins in domestic currency earlier exported to be used to test currency-processing machines also does not require the NBM approval. Cash must be returned after the testing, but no later than six months from the date of exportation. Imports of banknotes and coins by licensed banks and nonresident banks must be declared in written form to customs. Resident and nonresident individuals may, when entering Moldova, import unlimited banknotes and coins in domestic currency, subject to declaration in written form to customs if amounts exceed the equivalent of €10,000 an individual a trip. Importation of domestic currency cash in unaccompanied luggage by an individual is not allowed. Resident and nonresident legal entities may import domestic currency cash in cases stipulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation (for example, imports of cash by nonresident legal entities to make payments for exports of goods and services) via their official representatives. In case of imports of cash in domestic currency by individuals who are also representatives of legal entities, the requirements (including the declaration requirement) established for individuals are applied for the total amount of the funds imported, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Residents and nonresidents may import securities and payment instruments in domestic currency without limit, subject to declaration in written form to the customs authorities as follows: (1) by licensed banks and nonresident banks, regardless of the amount of imported securities and payment instruments, and (2) by individuals and by official representatives of legal entities, if the total amount of imported securities and payment instruments exceeds the equivalent of €10,000 an individual a trip, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Payment cards are excluded from the definition of payment instruments of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation.

Foreign currency

Yes.

Importation of foreign currency cash as well as traveler’s checks in foreign currency by licensed banks and nonresident banks may be made without NBM approval. Banknotes, coins, and traveler’s checks in foreign currency imported by licensed banks and nonresident banks must be declared to customs in writing. Resident and nonresident individuals, when entering Moldova, may import unlimited banknotes, coins, and traveler’s checks in foreign currency, subject to declaration in written form to the customs authorities if amounts exceed €10,000 or its equivalent an individual a trip. Individuals may not import foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks denominated in foreign currency in unaccompanied luggage. Resident and nonresident legal entities may import foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks in foreign currency in cases stipulated by the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation (for example, imports of cash by nonresident legal entities to make payments for exports of goods and services) via their official representatives. In cases of importation of cash in foreign currency and traveler’s checks in foreign currency by individuals who are also representatives of legal entities, the requirements (including declaration) established for individuals are applied for the total amount of the funds imported, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Residents and nonresidents may import securities and payment instruments other than traveler’s checks in foreign currency without limit, subject to declaration in written form to the customs authorities as follows: (1) by licensed banks and nonresident banks, regardless of the amount of imported securities and payment instruments, and (2) by individuals and by official representatives of legal entities, if the total amount of imported securities and payment instruments exceeds €10,000 or its equivalent an individual a trip, except when customs legislation allows exceptions for certain categories of individuals and legal entities. Payment cards are excluded from the definition of payment instruments of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Residents may perform foreign exchange operations in cash, in cashless form or with payment instruments, including through foreign and domestic currency accounts and by using traveler’s checks as specified in legislation.

Held domestically Yes. Resident legal entities and individuals may freely open accounts in any foreign currency with licensed banks. Residents’ foreign exchange accounts may be credited with foreign exchange purchased locally or received from abroad or from other legal sources. Residents may freely sell to licensed banks foreign currency from their accounts. Resident account holders may use foreign exchange in their accounts to make payments and transfers according to the legislation, including – with NBM approval – for transactions that are subject to such approval under the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation. There are no restrictions on the use of funds for current international transactions. Domestic transactions must be settled in domestic currency, except as specified by law. Foreign currency earnings of resident legal entities must be deposited at licensed banks. Payments and transfers by resident legal entities must take place through noncash transfers, unless explicitly stipulated by law. Cash deposits to and withdrawals from resident individuals’ foreign exchange accounts are not restricted. Resident legal entities and individuals may open payment accounts in foreign currency with resident nonbank payment service providers, except for payment accounts related to the issuance of electronic money (that may be opened in domestic currency only). These accounts in foreign currency are for payments only and are subject to the foreign exchange legislation. Resident nonbank payment service providers may carry out foreign currency exchange transactions closely related to the electronic money issuance or to the provision of payment services.

Approval required Yes. Residents are allowed to open domestic foreign exchange accounts without NBM approval. Since July 1, 2016, the right of MOF to grant approvals to public institutions for opening of bank accounts was withdrawn. Thus, it is forbidden for budgetary authorities/institutions to open bank accounts for making operations through financial institutions.

Held abroad Yes. Law No. 94 of May 13, 2016, on amending and supplementing of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation introduced express provisions related to the nonbank payment service providers and accounts opened with them. If accounts to be opened with financial institutions abroad by residents are subject to NBM approval, these accounts may be opened with such approval. NBM approval specifies allowable operations for these accounts and may specify balance limits, fund maintenance periods, and other conditions. If resident accounts opened with financial institutions abroad do not require NBM approval, payments and transfers through these accounts must comply with foreign exchange legislation, including NBM approval for certain operations under the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation. Residents may open payment accounts with nonresident payment service providers. Funds from resident accounts abroad may be freely transferred to Moldova.

Approval required Yes. NBM approval is required for all residents to hold accounts opened abroad.
Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

Yes.

Law No. 94 of May 13, 2016, on amending and supplementing of the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation introduced express provisions related to the nonbank payment service providers and accounts opened with them. NBM approval is required for all residents to hold accounts opened with financial institutions abroad, with the following exceptions: (1) resident individuals during their temporary stay abroad; (2) residents making direct investments and real estate investments abroad, if the opening of such accounts by investors (in their own name) is compulsory under the laws of the country where the investments are made; (3) resident public institutions; (4) licensed banks, in their own name, if required for their financial activities; (5) resident legal entities in the name of their representative office for the office’s activity; (6) residents opening accounts related to guarantee deposit if the guarantee amount does not exceed €10,000 (or its equivalent); (7) residents opening accounts aimed at performing operations related to loans/credits/guarantees from nonresidents, if the amount of a loan/credit/guarantee does not exceed €10,000 (or its equivalent). Residents may open payment accounts with nonresident payment service providers.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes.

Funds in leu-denominated accounts of resident individuals and legal entities with licensed banks may be freely converted through those banks to foreign exchange for any lawful purpose. Licensed banks may purchase foreign currency against domestic currency without restriction. The Law on Payment Services and Electronic Money allows resident nonbank payment service providers to carry out foreign currency exchange transactions closely related to the electronic money issuance or to the provision of payment services, which are subject to provisions of the foreign exchange legislation.

Nonresident Accounts

Nonresident individuals and legal entities may freely open with licensed banks accounts in any foreign currency. These accounts may be credited with funds from abroad, through purchases in the domestic foreign exchange market, and from other legal sources. Nonresidents with foreign exchange accounts at licensed banks in Moldova are permitted to transfer the balances from these accounts abroad or sell them in the foreign exchange market through licensed banks without restriction. Balances from these accounts may also be used for other operations as specified by law. Payments and transfers in Moldova between residents and nonresidents and between nonresidents may take place in domestic and foreign currency, except as indicated by law. Payments and transfers to and from the accounts of nonresident legal entities must take place through noncash transfers, unless explicitly allowed by law. Cash may be deposited in and withdrawn from nonresident individuals’ foreign exchange accounts without restriction. The law specifies the foreign exchange operations, including deposits in and withdrawals from accounts in foreign and domestic currency, which nonresidents may perform in cash or using payment instruments. Nonresident legal entities and individuals may open payment accounts in foreign currency with resident nonbank payment service providers, except for payment accounts related to the issuance of electronic money (that may be opened in domestic currency only). These accounts in foreign currency are for payments only and are subject to the foreign exchange legislation. Resident nonbank payment service providers may carry out foreign currency exchange transactions closely related to the electronic money issuance or to the provision of payment services.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget

No.

Financing requirements for imports

Yes.
Maximum financing requirements | No.
Advance payment requirements | Yes.

Unless stipulated otherwise by law, goods must be imported and services rendered, as a rule, no later than two years from the date of advance payment. The value of all imported goods and rendered services must equal the amount paid. If a contract is not executed, the amount of the advance payment must be repatriated to Moldova no later than two years after such advance payment. However, the length of this period may vary, depending on the type of contract.

Advance import deposits | No.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports | Yes.

Domiciliation requirements | No.

Preshipment inspection | No.

Letters of credit | No.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses | No.

Other | Yes.

Import payments in domestic and foreign currency in the amount exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent) each payment/transfer may be effected on submission of supporting documents to licensed banks and to resident nonbank payment service providers. To make import payments, foreign currency may be purchased from licensed banks and resident nonbank payment service providers.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures | Yes.

The following imports are subject to licensing for the purpose of consumer protection and to ensure compliance with domestic standards: dual-purpose goods and technologies, ammunition, military equipment, and special compounds for the manufacture thereof; explosive substances; nuclear products and technology; medicine, equipment for the manufacture of medicine, and medical equipment; chemicals; cultures for developing microorganisms; and stupefying or psychotropic materials and compounds for their derivation or production. Sugar imports are subject to authorization to monitor the volume of imports from countries that have signed FTAs with Moldova and are not members of the WTO (for example, Belarus) in conformity with Government Decision No. 134 of February 10, 2009. For WTO members, importation of sugar is performed on the basis of the first-in first-out principle and within the limits of tariff quotas, in conformity with Government Decision No. 114 of February 22, 2012. Sugar imports from EU members are based on a system for administration of tariff quotas that relies on the first-in first-out principle, under the registration in SIIV ASYCUDA World of the customs declaration.

The Republic of Moldova also applies preferential tariff rate quotas within FTAs, particularly within Deep and Comprehensive Free Trade Agreement (DCFTA) with EU and with Turkey.

Positive list | No.

Negative list | No.

The Republic of Moldova does not maintain any negative or positive listing for imports.

Open general licenses | No.

Licenses with quotas | Yes.

The Republic of Moldova applies tariff rate quotas for sugar and for other products mentioned within a FTA. It is important to mention that tariff rate quotas must not be confused with quotas because these two have a different effect on trade, the last ones being much more restrictive and should not be used.
Other nontariff measures | Yes.
---|---
The Republic of Moldova also applies other nontariff measures (NTMs), such as:
- Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures that are applied to protect human or animal life and human plant health, from risks arising from: additives, contaminants, toxins, or disease-causing organisms in food;
- Technical Barriers to Trade measures related to technical regulations, and procedures for assessment of conformity with technical regulations and standards.

Import taxes and/or tariffs | Yes.
---|---
The Republic of Moldova applies two types of tariffs: on a Most Favorite Nation Clause rate (non-preferential tariffs) and preferential tariffs applied within signed FTAs.
Law Approving the Combined Nomenclature of Goods (No. 172 of July 25, 2014) stipulates all tariffs applied on a non-preferential basis, on a MFN rate.
Integrated Customs Tariff of the Republic of Moldova (TARIM) contains all applied tariffs of the Republic of Moldova (including preferential trade agreements with EU, CIS countries, CEFTA states, and Turkey), as well as VAT and excise duty;
[Having a broad perspective on commercial profile of the Republic of Moldova, in 2018, Moldova’s average applied MFN rate was [5.4%] overall (4.4% for non-agricultural products and 11.6% for agricultural products). 45.9% of its tariff was duty free on an MFN basis; 59.4% of non-agricultural products were duty free; and 9.9% of agricultural products were duty free.]
Fees for customs procedures and customs duties are not charged on imports of domestic currency and foreign currency in cash to the Republic of Moldova by commercial banks and the NBM.

Taxes collected through the exchange system | No.
State import monopoly | No.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers

Yes.
To perform payments and transfers, residents and nonresidents may purchase foreign currency from licensed banks and from resident nonbank payment service providers. Individuals may also purchase foreign currency from foreign exchange entities. Resident legal entities may make payments and transfers to nonresidents and residents abroad up to the amounts specified in the supporting documents submitted to licensed banks and to resident nonbank payment service providers. Resident legal entities may make noncash payments/transfers within foreign exchange operations without submission to the resident payment service providers of the justifying documents in the event that:

1. transfers from the licensed bank account to its bank account opened with another licensed bank or with the foreign financial institution;
2. transfers from the resident nonbank payment service providers account to its account opened with another resident payment service provider as well as in the case specified in Item (4);
3. transfers to other accounts of the resident legal entity (other than the resident payment service provider) opened with the same or another resident payment service provider;
4. transfers by the resident legal entity (other than the licensed bank) to its accounts opened with the foreign financial institutions on the basis of the authorizations issued by the NBM, which provide for the possibility of making transfers into these accounts from the accounts opened with the resident payment service providers and do not contain the requirement of presentation of justifying documents to the resident payment service provider;
5. payments/transfers abroad for the purposes stipulated in Article 23 paragraph (1) letters (a) and (c) of the Law No. 62-XVI of March 21, 2008;
6. payment abroad of the state tax established by the legislation of the foreign state;
7. payments/transfers (other than those referred to in Items (1)–(6) and transfers to their accounts, opened with foreign financial institutions without NBM authorization in the cases provided for in Article 13 paragraph (5) letters (b), (c), (e), and (f) of the Law No.
62-XVI of March 21, 2008), where those represent payments/transfers in the amount not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent) each payment/transfer, being performed within foreign exchange operations which are not subject to notification/authorization according to the Law No. 62-XVI of March 21, 2008.

Resident individuals may make payments or transfers to nonresidents and residents abroad up to the amounts specified in the supporting documents submitted to licensed banks and to resident nonbank service providers, except as specified in NBM regulations (see below). The payments/transfers may be made by the resident individual in favor of nonresidents and abroad in favor of residents, in accordance with the Law No. 62-XVI of March 21, 2008, as follows:

(1) without submission to the resident payment service provider of the justifying documents, in the event that the single payment/transfer meets both of the following conditions:
(a) the payment/transfer in favor of a nonresident is made in the amount not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent);
(b) the payment/transfer is made within the foreign exchange operation that is not subject to notification/authorization according to the Law No. 62-XVI of March 21, 2008;

(2) other cases than those indicated in sub-item (1) – when submitting to the resident payment service provider the justifying documents confirming the purpose of the payment/transfer and containing data on the amount of the payment/transfer.

The nonresident individual has been allowed to perform the transfer abroad of funds in foreign currency/domestic currency for the purpose of family expenses in favor of each family member – resident individuals who are staying abroad and nonresident individuals, as follows:

(1) in the amount not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent) – without presentation to the resident payment service provider the justifying documents;

(2) in the amount exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent) – on submission to the resident payment service provider of the justifying documents:
(a) confirming the membership of the family;
(b) confirming the necessity for the payment/transfer to be made by the individual in favor of whom the transfer is made and containing data in the amount of the payment/transfer.

The nonresident individual must be allowed to perform the payments/transfers in foreign currency abroad, other than those specified, as follows:

(1) without submission to the resident payment service provider of the justifying documents, in the following cases:
(a) transfer on his own name;
(b) a payment/transfer in favor of an individual/legal entity in the amount not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent);

(2) a payment/transfer in favor of an individual/legal entity in other cases than those established in sub-item (1) – on submission to the resident payment service provider of the justifying documents confirming the necessity of making the payment/transfer and containing data on the amount of the payment/transfer.

The nonresident legal entities are allowed to perform noncash payments/transfers abroad without submitting to resident payment service providers of justifying documents in the event that:

(1) the transfers are made on the name of the same account holder;
(2) the payments/transfers are made by financial institutions from abroad;
(3) transfers/payments are made by nonresident payment service providers in their quality of payment service providers/electronic money issuers;
(4) payments/transfers are made by the representative offices of international organizations, by diplomatic missions, consular offices, and other official representative offices of foreign states accredited in the Republic of Moldova, as well as by international organizations;
(5) payments/transfers are made by nonresident legal entities which are institutions implementing technical assistance projects/foreign financing projects for the Republic of Moldova, for purposes related to implementation of the projects, only in relation to individuals;
(6) payment of state tax established by the legislation of the foreign state;
(7) payments/transfers other than those referred to in Items (1)–(6) in the amount not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent) each payment/transfer.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions  Yes.
According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, capital transactions do not require NBM approval, except as specified by law. NBM approval is required for certain capital transactions of residents that imply capital outflow. The authorization regime does not generally apply to (1) capital foreign exchange operations involving the MOF and the NBM, (2) capital foreign exchange operations with national public budget funds, and (3) foreign exchange operations related to guarantees as laid down in Article 4 Item 12 of the Law No. 184 of July 22, 2016, on financial collateral arrangements. Operations involving receipt by residents from nonresidents of certain categories of loans and credits and guarantees must be notified by residents to the NBM for statistical purposes. When amount of a loan/credit/guarantee from nonresident does not exceed €50,000 or its equivalent, it is not subject to notification to the NBM. Foreign exchange operations related to guarantees as laid down in Article 4 Item 12 of the Law No. 184 of July 22, 2016, on financial collateral arrangements are not subject to notification to the NBM. The NBM approval for capital transactions of residents that imply capital outflow does not generally apply to foreign exchange operations not exceeding EUR 10,000 (or their equivalent). Capital foreign exchange transactions are subject, among other requirements, to submission of supporting documents to the licensed bank and to resident nonbank payment service providers, except as specified under NBM regulations. To make such payments, foreign currency may be purchased from licensed banks and resident nonbank payment service providers.

Repatriation requirements  Yes.
Proceeds received by resident legal entities from capital transactions must be repatriated to Moldova unless a specific exemption has been granted by law. Law No. 1466 of January 29, 1998, on Regulation of Repatriation of Funds, Goods, and Services Obtained from External Economic Transactions regulates the repatriation of proceeds by resident legal entities in Moldova. The repatriation period depends on the type of contract as specified in Article 3 “Deadlines of repatriation of funds, goods, and services originating from foreign economic transactions.”

Surrender requirements  No.
Surrender to the central bank  No.
Surrender to authorized dealers  No.

Controls on capital and money market instruments  Yes.
Issuance in Moldova of securities denominated in foreign currency is not permitted.

The procedures for purchases of government securities by foreign investors at auction are similar to those for local investors. A foreign investor may purchase government securities of a single international securities identification number (ISIN) according to the purchase limit of government securities, if it is announced in Communiqué of government securities placement. A noncompetitive bid submitted by an investor for government securities may not exceed more than 3% of the indicative volume of the issue announced at the reference auction, under a single ISIN.

On capital market securities

Yes.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes.

According to the Law on the NCFM in case of violations in the securities market, to protect the rights of investors and the public, the NCFM may suspend the placement and circulation of securities admitted on the regulated market, outside regulated market, or multilateral trading facility (MTF), as well as clearing and settlement of transactions. According to the amendments to the Law on Capital Market regarding information disclosure, if the shareholder has acquired or alienated the voting shares of an issuer considered a public interest entity, the shareholder is required to inform the issuer and the NCFM within four working days of acquisition or alienation, if, after the transaction, the share reaches, exceeds, or falls below 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%, 25%, 33%, 50%, 66%, 75%, or 90%. The company must disclose information about its activity in accordance with this law, the Capital Market Law, and the normative acts of the NCFM. Therewith, an issuer that is considered to be a public interest entity will disclose publicly the information. The number of shares granting control over the company must be determined by the conditions for exercising control in the situations established by the capital market legislation. The natural or legal person that holds, directly or indirectly, alone or together with the persons acting in concert with it, more than 50% of the voting shares, which are in the circulation of the company or of the securities that can be converted or offer the right to purchase the voting shares, is obliged to carry out a mandatory takeover bid within three months from the date of making subscriptions (in the register of shareholders) regarding acquisition of shares. Up to the fulfillment of the requirements mentioned above, the person holding more than 50% has the right to vote at the general meeting of the shareholders within 25% of the voting shares, which are in the circulation of the company. The total number of voting shares belonging to this person must be taken into account only for the establishment of the quorum at the holding of the general meeting of the shareholders. The person holding more than 50% and/or its representatives is registered with the entire stock of securities held. The takeover bid may be initiated only in respect of securities issued by public interest entities. A mandatory takeover bid can be carried out by: (1) a natural or legal person who holds, directly or indirectly, alone or together with persons acting in concert, more than 50% of the voting rights of a company or transferable securities or offers the right to purchase the securities with the right to vote, is obliged to make a takeover bid regarding the purchase at a fair price of securities of the same class held by other persons; (2) a legal person who directly or indirectly owns more than 50% of all the voting securities of an issuer must be obliged to initiate a mandatory takeover bid whenever its founders change (associations or shareholders) who, together with the persons with whom they act in concert, hold a majority of the voting rights in that legal person. The takeover bid is voluntary if the bidder, failing this obligation, submits a takeover bid related to the purchase of a number of voting securities of an issuer that pursues or aims to obtain more than 50% of the total number of these securities. A takeover bid prospectus is approved by the NCFM and must be published within seven working days. A minority shareholder, who obtained the shares against patrimonial vouchers or its legal successor, may require the acquisition of its shares by a person who alone or with affiliates owns more than 90% of the total number of voting shares. The price offered for the shares of minority shareholders must equal at least the highest of the following: (1) the weighted average share price in transactions over the 12 months preceding the date of notification of the application, (2) the per share NAV in accordance with the issuer’s latest financial position, (3) the per share market value of net assets, calculated by the censors committee on the basis of the valuation report drawn up by a specialized organization which is not a related party of the company, or (4) the nominal (set) value of shares. The majority shareholder, within 30 working days of receipt of the application, must notify the minority shareholder of the fixed price according to the criteria mentioned above. Payment for the shares by the majority shareholder may take place with the consent of the minority shareholder at a price in accordance with the application within 30 working days of acceptance of the price. The stock exchange must disclose the following information for securities admitted on the regulated market or a MTF: (1) date and time of the transaction, (2) class and government registration number of the securities traded, (3) price per security, (4) type of transaction, and (5) amount and share of securities in the transaction of the respective class. Insiders may purchase and sell securities of the issuer if information that could influence the securities price is disclosed before the purchase and the price are established according to the securities market law. The Regulation on licensing and authorization on the capital market set requirements for granting, suspending, and withdrawing licenses and authorizations on the capital market according to the EU Directives. It stipulates new requirements for equity capital, internal policies, internal control, entity’s management, technical audit for registrars, approval of delegated agents and accepted persons, evaluation procedure of qualified holdings in the investment firm, market operator, and central depository (NCFM Decision No. 56/11). In a transaction with financial instruments admitted on a regulated market, outside regulated market, or a MTF, investment firms must disclose information on the volume, price, and data of these transactions. For transactions in financial instruments admitted to trading outside regulated markets or MTFs, reports must be submitted to the NCFM no later than one working day after the transaction as prescribed by the NCFM. Licensed/authorized entities must also disclose other information on their activity according to the law. Reports on events and actions affecting the financial and economic activities of the issuer must be published by the issuer in accordance with the normative acts. The Rules of the regulated market of the Moldova Stock Exchange were approved by NCFM Decision No. 23/3 of May 8, 2015, published in the Official Gazette No. 115-123/758 of May 15, 2015. Previous rules were repealed, and the new rules stipulate new requirements for admission of issuers on the regulated market and additional requirements on information disclosure, introduce the requirement for approval by the supervisory authority of the manager and members of the council and the requirement for technical audit of the information system, and increase the minimum amount for equity capital to €100,000 within three years up to €1 million within ten years. The Instruction on reporting of licensed and authorized entities on the capital market was approved by NCFM Decision No. 38/5 of July 3, 2015. The new Instruction on reporting provides requirements on the reporting method and conditions for legal entities authorized and licensed to provide services on the capital market. It includes provisions regarding the conditions for information disclosure and principles to which the reports should comply.
professional participants in securities markets may be any natural or legal persons. Proposed acquirer must notify the NCFM in writing before the acquisition of shares placed by an investment firm if they intend to obtain a qualifying holding or increase their holding at a level equal to or exceeding 20%, 30%, or 50% of the share capital. The NCFM will in no more than 60 working days from the date of acknowledgment review the documents submitted by the potential acquirer and assess the reputation of the proposed acquirer, the reputation and experience of any person who will manage the investment, and the financial soundness of the proposed acquirer. Particular attention will be paid to the type of business the investment firm intends to carry out. In case of rejection of the proposed acquisition, the potential acquirer will be notified on the day the notice is issued. The NCFM rejects the proposed procurement draft if the result of the assessment reflects that a qualifying holding is or will be directly or indirectly held by persons resident in jurisdictions where there are not implemented international standards of transparency.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

Foreign securities for public offering in Moldova must be in the form of Moldovan depository receipts (MDRs) issued by local investment firm. According to Article 9 of the Law on Capital Markets: (1) MDRs may be issued only on shares and bonds of foreign issuers subject to registration by the relevant foreign authority. (2) MDR issuance may not exceed the market value of the underlying shares and bonds issued by foreign issuers at the time of issuance. (3) The issuer of the MDRs is obligated to (a) pay dividends and any other payments paid by the foreign issuer to the holders of MDRs; (b) repurchase the MDRs at the request of their holders; and (c) publicly disclose and/or submit to MDR holders the financial reports and any other information disclosed by foreign issuers. (4) The issuer of the MDRs may not (a) issue the MDRs for a longer maturity than the term of the underlying shares and bonds issued by the foreign issuers and (b) sell the underlying shares and bonds issued by the foreign issuer before the maturity of the MDRs. (5) The issuer of the MDRs may request payment for the activities laid down in paragraph (3) subparagraphs (a) and (b), which is to be set out in the decision of issuance of the MDRs and not changed before the term of maturity of the MDRs. (6) In case of insolvency of the issuer of MDRs, shares and bonds of foreign issuers as well as dividends and any other payments paid by the foreign issuer will not be included in the debtor mass and will be used to repurchase the MDRs from their holders. Issuance of MDRs requires registration with the NCFM. Issuance in Moldova of securities denominated in foreign currency is not permitted. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, purchases by residents from nonresidents of foreign financial instruments are subject to NBM approval as follows: (1) on a foreign stock exchange and (2) over the counter in the foreign capital market. NBM approval is not required for purchases of foreign financial instruments, as follows: (1) by licensed banks, as well as the entities whose activity is regulated and supervised by the NCFM, and (2) by other residents where: (a) amount of operation does not exceed €10,000 (or its equivalent) or (b) financial instruments are issued by international organizations.

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions

Yes. The acquisition by the bank of any qualifying holding in a foreign entity is subject to the prior approval of the NBM if, as a result of the acquisition, the entity must be included in the scope of prudential consolidation. The total net MDL exposure of a bank indexed to foreign currency to individuals, including those engaged in entrepreneurial or other activities, may not exceed 30% of eligible capital, of which total net exposure, other than mortgages, may not exceed 10% of eligible capital of banks. Residents of jurisdictions that do not implement international transparency standards may not hold directly or indirectly equity shares in the capital of banks.

The mechanism for setting up a branch of a foreign bank provides for requirements related to licensing, endowment capital (which have to be the same amount as the capital that a bank must maintain) and conditions for carrying out the activity.

Strengthening the financial stability of the nonbank lending sector and fostering consumer protection and responsible lending practices to reduce the risks of over-indebtedness of the population and bring into line the laws related to the activity of nonbank lending organizations has led to performing the following amendments to the law:

1. Prohibiting non-bank credit organizations (NBCOs) to call for any deposits and other reimbursable funds from public since April 20, 2020. However, this prohibition does not apply to subordinated loans;
2. Limiting the total costs of the nonbank credit or financial leasing for a period of up to two years and in the amount of up to 50 thousand lei (for individual consumers), that should not exceed the amount disbursed according to the respective contract, since April 20, 2020;
3. Regulating the responsible credit, including the conditions and the way of evaluating the client’s ability to repay the nonbank credit and/or financial leasing, the degree of collateral coverage, criteria related to the debt service ratio to the debtor’s income, since April 20, 2020;
4. Introducing and significant increase of pecuniary sanctions on NBCOs, so that they are effective, proportionate, and dissuasive, since April 20, 2020;
5. Increasing the minimum capital requirements up to 1 million lei since January 1, 2021;
6. Introducing additional instruments to ensure the transparency of credit costs by the NBCOs obligation to disclose information according to legislation, since April 20, 2020.

Borrowing abroad

Yes. Notification to the NBM is required for (1) financial loans and credits, except for (a) interbank loans with an initial repayment period of less than one year and (b) loans and credits received from nonresidents through credit cards issued by nonresidents at a resident’s request; (2) commercial loans and credits bearing interest, except for factoring operations in which the nonresident factor assumes the risk for the nonresident debtor’s insolvency; and (3) loans/credits within operations related to direct investments. However, notification to the NBM is not required if the amount of a loan/credit does not exceed €50,000 (or its equivalent). Licensed savings and credit associations (SCAs) may not perform activity abroad or in foreign currency. With regard to the activity of nonbank credit organizations, there are no restrictions.

Liquid asset requirements Yes. Effective October 1, 2020, banks must ensure that the currency denomination of their liquid assets is consistent with the distribution by currency of their net liquidity outflows. However, where appropriate, the NBM may require banks to restrict currency mismatch by setting limits on the proportion of net liquidity outflows in a currency that can be met during a stress period by holding liquid assets not denominated in that currency. Previously, banking regulation did not provide differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange with regard to liquidity requirements.

Interest rate controls No.

Credit controls No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents No. Banking regulations do not provide for separate accounts for nonresidents; banks, however, perform separate accounting for nonresidents.

Reserve requirements No.

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Yes.

Insurance companies

Yes.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents

Yes.

When placing the assets accepted as coverage for technical provisions and for the minimum margin of solvency, the insurer (reinsurer) must respect the rules of distribution of investment in securities issued by foreign governments and/or national banks or international financial organizations; such amounts may represent no more than 5% for the same issuer and no more than 20% of the total value of the total technical reserves, excluding the share of the reinsurer, and one-half of the minimum solvency margin. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, purchases of foreign financial instruments by insurance companies do not require NBM approval. Other foreign exchange operations (under the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation) of insurance companies are subject to the same regulations as other resident legal entities (except licensed banks).

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes.

According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, purchases of foreign financial instruments by insurance companies do not require NBM approval. Other foreign exchange operations (under the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation) of insurance companies are subject to the same regulations as other resident legal entities (except licensed banks).

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes.

The insurer (reinsurer) may not invest more than 15% of its own capital in the share capital of a company without the prior approval of the supervisory authority.

Effective March 27, 2020, cash in current accounts in banks and branch of a bank from other state, licensed by the NBM, including in foreign currency, must not exceed the limit of 20% of total technical reserves, excluding the reinsurer’s share in technical reserves, and half of the minimum solvency margin.

It has been established the gradual implementation of the requirement to fully cover the solvency margin and the technical reserves with qualitative assets by replacing the requirement to cover the solvency margin and the technical reserves and setup of deadline for its application, as well as the revision of the categories of assets that may be recognized as eligible to cover the minimum solvency margin.

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation, with Mongolia states that, as of August 2, 2019, Mongolia maintained two MCPs subject to IMF jurisdiction. First, the modalities of the multi-price auction system give rise to an MCP because there is no mechanism in place that ensures that exchange rates of accepted bids at the multi-price auction do not deviate by more than 2%. In addition, Mongolia has an official exchange rate (reference rate) that is mandatorily used for government transactions (as opposed to the commercial market rate). Therefore, by way of official action, the authorities have created market segmentation. While Order #699 of the Bank of Mongolia (BOM) issued on December 3, 2010, sets forth that the reference rate is determined based on the weighted average of market rates used from 4 p.m. of the previous day to 4 p.m. of the current day, staff are of the view that this Order does not eliminate the market segmentation and the multiplicity of effective rates arising from it. Accordingly, in the absence of a mechanism to ensure that the commercial rates and the reference rate do not deviate by more than 2%, the way the reference rate is used in government transactions gives rise to an MCP subject to IMF approval. (Country Report No. 19/297)

Exchange rate structure

Unitary

Dual

Multiple

Yes.

The exchange rate structure is classified as multiple because the official exchange rate may differ from the market rate by more than 2%, and a multiple-price auction was introduced without a formal mechanism to prevent a spread exceeding 2% of effective rates.
between the winning bids. Since the inception of the auction, however, winning bids have never deviated by more than 2%. To eliminate the risk of accepted bids deviating by more than 2%, in addition to multiple-price auction, the BOM introduced a single-price auction, from October 1, 2015, that is, where all accepted offers are fulfilled at a single cutoff rate.

Classification

- No separate legal tender
- Currency board
- Conventional peg
- Stabilized arrangement
- Crawling peg
- Crawl-like arrangement: Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangements are floating. The BOM reserves the right to intervene in the foreign exchange market. The BOM intervenes through the auction to moderate the rate of change in line with macroeconomic fundamentals. Because of economic slowdown because of COVID-19, as of June 30, 2020, Mongolia’s imports have fallen by 15% to 2.4 million, exports have fallen by 28% to 2.8 million, and Balance of Payment (BOP) showed deficit of US$679.2 million. Exchange rate was 2823.89 as of June 30, 2020, incurring MNT depreciation of 3.3%. Subsequently, the BOM’s intervention in the foreign exchange market through auction has increased drastically compared to previous year. The BOM publishes the cutoff rate and amount of intervention for each auction on its website. Intervention data is also published in BOM’s annual report. From January 2020, the exchange rate has followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from other managed, effective January 23, 2019.

- Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
- Other managed arrangement: Yes.
- Floating
- Free floating
- Official exchange rate: Yes.

The BOM’s closing rate—togrog against US dollar—is calculated as the sum of weighted purchase and sale rates multiplied by total purchase and sale volume percentages, respectively. Purchase and sale volumes are based on transactions between 4:00 p.m. of the previous day and 4:00 p.m. of the current day reported by banks by 4:40 p.m. every business day. The closing reference rate is announced by 5:40 p.m. everyday once it is cleared by the director of the Reserve Management and Financial Markets Department at the BOM. Calculation of reference rates of togrugs against all other foreign currencies is based on rates in international markets between 4:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. of the current day. The reference rate is used in accounting, customs valuation, and government transactions with the BOM. For accounting purposes, the daily reference rate is the BOM’s closing rate on the previous day. The reference rate is announced each weekday except national holidays.

The BOM has had a monetary aggregate targeting framework since the mid-1990s with reserve money as the operating target and M2 as the intermediate target. However, because of the remonetization process and the volatility of the money multiplier since 2007, the BOM has not strictly adhered to its monetary targets (except during 2009–2011, when the BOM had an IMF-supported program). It has pursued an eclectic anchoring strategy involving the monitoring of a broad range of financial (exchange rate, money and credit growth, interest rate) and real (domestic demand, current account, production) indicators. Since 2012, the BOM has been pursuing a more forward-looking approach by introducing the Forecasting and Policy Analysis System (FPAS) in which monetary policy decision is based on macroeconomic forecasts. The current policy strategy of the BOM can be considered as inflation-targeting framework, but it is not fully pledged. The targets for 2020 and over medium term are 8% and 6%, respectively. The target measure is headline inflation (CPI) with current horizon of 2018–2020. The BOM has cut the policy rate twice by 100 basis points each 10% effective March 12, 2020, and to 9% effective April 14, 2020. Inflation targets are set in the Monetary Policy Guidelines, which is prepared by the BOM and approved by the parliament. Realization of the target is reported to the parliament. The MPC consists of 7 members, including the BOM Governor, the First Deputy Governor, the Deputy Governor, and four outside members. Currently, there are 3 outside members who are project head at the Ministry of Finance and 2 professors from the Institute of Finance and Economics and National University of Mongolia. The meetings of the MPC are held at least 4 times a year, and it publishes its decisions after each such meeting. Minutes of the MPC meetings are published on the BOM website. Inflation forecasts are published quarterly in the Inflation Report.

Banks and nonbank financial institutions (NBFIs) may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients. There were 12 commercial banks and 542 NBFIs in Mongolia as of June 30, 2020. The operations of foreign exchange bureaus have been delegated to NBFIs licensed by the Financial Regulatory Committee. As of June 30, 2020, 45 currency bureaus were active in the domestic foreign exchange market. NBFIs are approved to purchase and sell banknotes and make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients but may not have accounts abroad.

A two-way multiple-price foreign exchange auction is held twice a week. The BOM additionally introduced a single-price foreign exchange auction by amendment of the auction regulation on October 1, 2015. The amount of purchase and sale is not announced in advance. Only commercial banks may participate in the auction.
Commercial banks may propose three bids and three offers and may freely determine their bid and offer prices. Maximum and minimum amounts apply. The buying and selling limit for one bid must be in the range of, effective July 2, 2020, US$0.1–US$8.0 million (previously US$0.2–US$8.0 million). The BOM publishes the results of the auctions on its website within the day.

The controlling shareholder, alone or together with related persons, must inform the Financial Regulatory Commission, Mongolian stock exchange, and the public via its website of any 5% increase or decrease in the share volume of a company’s controlling shareholders within five working days.

A legal person listed on a foreign exchange may list and trade its securities on a stock exchange in Mongolia on approval of the Financial Regulatory Commission. The issuer must indicate in the prospectus of the securities to be issued in Mongolia the regulatory differences between Mongolia and the country in which the securities were initially issued. The issuer must also make provisions for investors’ potential risks and make arrangements for the exercise of their rights. The criteria for foreign security issuance in Mongolia and the list of accepted foreign exchanges are determined by the Financial Regulatory Commission. Granting ownership free of charge and selling securities on credit in the primary market are prohibited, unless stated otherwise in the law. According to the Foreign Exchange Law, residents may purchase shares or other securities of a participating nature abroad. Since April 1, 2018, pursuant to amendments to the Banking Law announced January 18, 2018, banks may not establish subsidiary companies or hold minority interest of more than 20% in any company. All banks had to comply with this requirement by January 1, 2019.

settlement license and securities trading license to engage in these transactions. Basic activities such as transfers and foreign exchange trading are granted with the banking license. Since April 1, 2018, pursuant to amendments to the Banking Law announced January 18, 2018, banks may not establish subsidiary companies or hold minority interest of more than 20% in any company. All banks had to comply with this requirement by January 1, 2019.

In banks by nonresidents  Yes.  Nonresidents’ investments in banks are regulated by the Law on Investments, Company Law, Banking Law, and Regulation on Change in Bank Capital Structure. All residents and nonresidents are required to get a permit from the BOM to become a bank shareholder. According to the Law on Investments, any foreign state-owned legal entity willing to invest in more than 33% of bank’s ownership must get a permit from the Government of Mongolia before getting a permit from the BOM.

Open foreign exchange position limits  Yes.  The limits are 15% of adjusted capital for the net position in a single currency and, effective May 23, 2019, 30% (previously 40%) of adjusted capital for the total net position in all currencies. Adjusted capital is calculated, effective May 23, 2019, as follows: (1) Treasury-owned common and preferred equities are deducted from Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital, respectively; (2) goodwill is deducted; (3) the sum of deferred taxes and software in excess of 10% of Tier 1 is deducted; (4) 75% and 25% of amounts in excess of limits set in the Banking Law 17.1–17.5 are deducted from Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital, respectively. If Tier 2 is insufficient, the remainder is deducted from Tier 1; (5) Tier 2 is capped at 50% of Tier 1. Previously, it was calculated as follows: (1) 75% of the capital invested directly and indirectly via a third party in other banks and NBFIs is deducted from Tier 1 capital and the remaining 25% from Tier 2 capital, except capital invested in subsidiary and affiliated financial institutions (as amended by the BOM Governor’s Decree No. 762 of 2011); (2) the maximum amount of Tier 2 capital must be less than the amount of Tier 1 capital, and the amount of subordinated debt under Tier 2 capital is limited to 50% of Tier 1 capital; (3) accounts must be adjusted if violations are discovered during off-site and follow-up examinations; (4) perpetual and noncumulative preferred stock must be less than 15% of Tier 1 capital; (5) revaluation surplus of certain properties may be deducted from Tier 2 capital; (6) goodwill must be deducted from Tier 1 capital; and (7) loss provision must be equivalent to no more than 1% of risk-weighted assets.

Yes. According to the Law on Foreign Current and Capital Operations (OGM Nos. 45/05, 62/08, 40/11, 62/13, and 70/17), Article 8, exchange operations may be performed by legal persons and entrepreneurs, which have contract with a bank, and are registered for performing exchange operations. The CB must prescribe in detail terms and manner of performing exchange operations. The Central Bank of Montenegro (CBM) is not responsible for issuing licenses for performing bureau de change operations, and banks are not obliged to submit data and information about other persons with whom they concluded the contract on performing bureau de change operations. Banks must perform exchange operations in their own name and for their own account. Other legal persons may perform exchange operations in their own name and for a bank’s account, subject to signing an agreement with the bank.

According to the Decision on Detailed Requirements and Manner of Performing Bureau De Change Operations (OGM No. 27/11), Article 2, banks must perform bureau de change operations in their own name and for their own account. Other legal persons and entrepreneurs (hereinafter: the ADs) may perform bureau de change activities in their own name and for a bank’s account, subject to signing an agreement with the bank on performing bureau de change activities and the dealer’s registration for the performance of this activity. The bank must be accountable for the operations of the AD with whom it has signed the agreement on performing bureau de change activities. Bureau de change activities at border crossings and on vessels may be performed by persons employed in the bank and/or AD, subject to a separate approval of the bank.

Import taxes and/or tariffs

| Yes. |

The Law on Customs Tariff (OG of the MNE No. 28/12) stipulates customs duty that has to be paid for imports of goods. The rate does not exceed 50%. The average applied tariff rate for 2020 is 5.07% calculated by customs rates set out in the Decree on Customs Tariffs for 2020 (OG of the MNE No. 04/20).

The applied customs rates for 2020 can be found at the following link: taric.carina.co.me/TariCG.

Montenegro applies only tariff-rate (preferential) quotas under its Regional Trade Agreements. They currently affect imports of 149 agricultural products from the EU in line with the Stabilization and Association Agreement (for example, poultry meat, fish, cheese, water, and wine) since 2008 and imports of dried fruit from Turkey since 2010. Tariff-rate quotas are allocated by the Customs Administration on a first-come, first-served basis.

Nonautomatic export licenses are required for the following commodities: drugs, medicines, blood and pharmaceutical products, precious metals, explosives, arms, military equipment, dual-use goods, and goods which may be used for the execution of a death penalty and whose application may be subject to torture and national art treasures.

To (1) preserve the stability of the supply of raw materials to the processing sector, (2) ensure the stability of the population of the northern part of Montenegro who use wood for heating, (3) preserve the stability of the prices of fuel, and (4) control the preservation of the forest fund, combat illegal harvesting, and control the implementation of the cutting in line with the cutting plan. Montenegro has in place a licensing regime for export of raw wood and certain wood products. The scope of the licensing regime consists of a total of 30 tariff lines that are restricted (OGM No. 33/2018). Effective April 30, 2019, the validity of the licensing regime for exports of raw wood and certain products was extended for two more years (OGM No. 24/2019).

As per Article 90 of the Insurance Law, insurance companies may deposit and invest their technical provisions in securities issued by Montenegro and the CBs and governments of foreign countries rated at least “A” or its equivalent by widely accepted, internationally recognized rating agencies. According to the Article 6 of the Rulebook on Depositing and Investing the Technical Provisions of the Insurance Undertaking (OGM No. 062/18), insurance undertaking may deposit and invest in following securities:

1. debt securities issued by or securities guaranteed by governments or the CBs of an EU member state or a member state of the OECD or an international financial organization to which one or more EU member states or one or more OECD member countries belong, if they have a credit rating for long-term borrowing in domestic and foreign currencies at least equal to the credit rating of Montenegro.
awarded by Standard & Poor’s or Fitch-IBCA or Moody’s (Article 6, Paragraph 2);
(2) bonds and other debt securities issued or guaranteed by the municipal governments in Montenegro, an EU member state, or an OECD member state (Article 6, Paragraphs 3 and 4);
(3) debt securities of foreign legal entities traded on a stock exchange in the countries where they are registered, provided their credit rating awarded by Standard & Poor’s or Fitch-IBCA is at least “A” or if awarded by Moody’s at least “A2” (Article 6, Paragraph 5);
(4) shares of foreign legal entities provided they have been listed on the stock exchange listing for at least last two years and have a credit rating approved by the Standard & Poor’s or Fitch-IBCA rating agencies with at least “A” and/or Moody’s with at least “A2” (Article 6, Paragraph 6);
(5) investment units of investment funds that are registered in Montenegro, an EU member state, or an OECD member state (Article 6, Paragraph 8).

According to the Article 7 of the Rulebook, the above-mentioned assets could be deposited and invested within the following restrictions:
Maximum limits for total assets (Article 7, Paragraph 1):
(1) up to 30% in the assets referred to in the Article 6, Paragraphs 2, 5, and 6, and in securities issued by the CBs and governments of foreign countries and which have rating of at least “A” or its equivalent, awarded by generally accepted, internationally recognized rating agencies;
(2) up to 30% in the assets referred to in the Article 6, Paragraphs 3 and 4;
Maximum limits for individual asset (Article 7, Paragraph 2):
(1) up to 10% in securities of the same issuer from the assets covered by the Article 6, Paragraphs 2, 5, and 6, and in securities issued by the CBs and governments of foreign countries and which have rating of at least “A,” or its equivalent, awarded by generally accepted, internationally recognized rating agencies;
(2) up to 20% in bonds and other debt securities of the same issuer from the assets covered by the Article 6, Paragraphs 3 and 4.

According to the Article 9 of the Rulebook, the special provisions funds for benefits secured by an insurance contract that are directly related to the investments value (that is, special technical provisions for unit-linked insurance product) must be deposited and invested with the following restrictions:
(1) up to 50% in investment units of one investment fund;
(2) up to 70% in investment units of investment funds managed by the same management company or investment funds are related legal persons.

The insurance undertaking invests special provisions for benefits secured by an insurance contract that are directly related to the investments value in investment units of investment funds registered outside Montenegro if:
(1) a credit rating for the long-term debt of an EU member state or the OECD, in which the investment fund is registered, is not lower than the credit rating that Montenegro has,
(2) the net assets of an investment fund are not less than €100 million,
(3) the investment policy of an investment fund allows the conclusion of options and forward contracts solely for the purpose of protecting the assets and liabilities of an investment fund, and
(4) the investment fund is not registered in the territories in which the exemption from payment of taxes has been carried out, or in which the minimum tax rates (off-shore zone) are applied.
Generally, the MOF may prescribe other investments considered adequate in terms of safety, yield, and marketability.

As per Article 90 of the Insurance Law, insurance companies may deposit and invest their technical provisions in securities issued by Montenegro and the CBs and governments of foreign countries rated at least “A” or its equivalent by widely accepted, internationally recognized rating agencies.

According to the Article 6 of the Rulebook on Depositing and Investing the Technical Provisions of the Insurance Undertaking (OGM No. 062/18), insurance undertaking may deposit and invest in the following securities:

In accordance with the Article 38 of the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, the assets of a pension fund may be invested in the following types of assets: (1) short-term notes and other short-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments and short-term bank deposits as specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission; (2) long-term bonds and other long-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments, joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission and traded on the stock exchanges in Montenegro or other countries and traded in organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries, and by foreign nonstate toies traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (3) stocks issued by joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission and traded on the stock exchanges in Montenegro; foreign joint-stock companies and closed-end investment funds traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (4) units of domestic and foreign open-end investment funds if they invest in the securities of issuers registered in Montenegro or OECD or EU countries; (5) other investments specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission, except as referred to in the Article 39 of the law (this option has not been used in practice); and (6) real estate in Montenegro. A pension fund may acquire no more than 10% of a particular security’s issue. No more than 10% of a pension fund’s assets may be invested in the securities of a single issuer. As an exception to the limits in Paragraphs 2 and 3 of this article, a pension fund’s assets may be invested in assets stipulated in Paragraph 1, Item 1, and Item 2 Line 1, without limitation. In accordance with the Article 39 of the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, the assets of a pension fund may not be invested in
(1) stocks, bonds, and other securities that are not traded on stock exchanges or organized markets, except the units of open-end investment funds; (2) assets that may not be divested under the law;
(3) physical assets that are not traded on organized markets and whose value is uncertain (including, for example, antiques, works of art, and motor vehicles); (4) stocks, bonds, and other securities issued by (a) a stockholder of a pension company; (b) the custodian of a pension fund; (c) a person related to the entities listed in items (a) and (b); (d) a management company; or (e) a brokerage or dealing house, or a licensed bank that trades securities on behalf of the management company; and (5) other assets as specified by the Securities Commission.

In accordance with the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, there is no maximum limit on the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents. During the process of preparing the investment policy and prospectus for voluntary pension funds, the management company must define limits for securities issued by nonresidents. In addition, in accordance with the Article 38 of the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, the assets of a pension fund may be invested in the following types of assets: (1) short-term notes and other short-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments, and short-term bank deposits as specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission; (2) long-term bonds and other long-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments, joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission and traded at the stock exchanges in Montenegro or other countries and traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries, and by foreign nonstate entities traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (3) stocks issued by joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission that are traded on the stock exchanges in Montenegro, foreign joint-stock companies and closed-end investment funds traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (4) units of domestic and foreign open-end investment funds if they invest in the securities of issuers registered in Montenegro or OECD or EU countries; (5) any other investment specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission, other than those referred to in the Article 39 of the law; and (6) real estate in Montenegro. A pension fund may acquire no more than 10% of a particular security’s issue, and no more than 10% of its assets may be invested in the securities of a single issuer.

In accordance with the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, there is no maximum limit on investment abroad. During the process of preparing the investment policy and prospectus for voluntary pension funds, the management company must define limits on investments abroad. In accordance with the Article 38 of the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, the assets of a pension fund may be invested in the following types of assets: (1) short-term notes and other short-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments and short-term bank deposits as specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission; (2) long-term bonds and other long-term securities issued by Montenegro and local governments, joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission and traded at the stock exchanges in Montenegro or other countries and traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries, and by foreign nonstate entities traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (3) stocks issued by joint-stock companies registered with the Securities Commission and traded on the stock exchanges in Montenegro and by foreign joint-stock companies and closed-end investment funds traded in the organized capital markets of OECD and EU countries; (4) units of domestic and foreign open-end investment funds if they invest in the securities of issuers registered in Montenegro or OECD or EU countries; (5) any other form of investment specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission, other than those referred to in the Article 39 of the law; and (6) real estate in Montenegro. A pension fund may acquire no more than 10% of a particular security’s issue, and no more than 10% of a pension fund’s assets may be invested in the securities of a single issuer.

In accordance with the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, there is no minimum limit on investments held locally. During the process of preparing the investment policy and prospectus for voluntary pension funds, the management company must define limits on investments held locally, but there are no strict limits defined by the law. In accordance with the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, a pension fund’s assets may be invested in the following assets without limitation: (1) short-term notes and other short-term securities issued by the government of Montenegro and local governments, as well as short-term bank deposits, as specified by the regulations of the Securities Commission; and (2) long-term bonds and other long-term securities issued by the government of Montenegro and local governments.

In accordance with the Law on Voluntary Pension Funds, there are no currency-matching regulations.

Article 27 of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes the following: (1) Open-end funds may invest no more than (a) 10% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by the same entity and (b) 20% of assets in deposits with the same subject.

(2) Exposure of open-end funds to counterparty risk in OTC derivatives transactions may not exceed (a) 10% of assets if the counterparty is a credit institution referred to in the Article 25, Paragraph 1, Item 4, of the law and (b) 5% of assets in other cases.

(3) The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments held by open-end funds in issuers in which more than 5% of assets are invested may not exceed 40% of total assets.

(4) The limitation referred to in Paragraph 3 of this article does not apply to deposits or transactions in OTC derivatives with financial institutions subject to prudential supervision.

(5) Notwithstanding the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may not, if it would cause investment of more than 20% of assets in the same company, combine (a) investments in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by such company; (b) deposits with the respective company; and (c) exposures arising from transactions in OTC derivatives in which the respective company is involved.

(6) Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 35% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same company, if transferable securities or money market instruments are issued or guaranteed by the state, the local government, or an international organization.

(7) Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 25% of assets in bonds, if bonds are issued by a credit institution with a registered office in an EU member state that is under the supervision of the relevant authority for the purpose of protection of bondholders. For bonds issued by foreign institutions not registered in an EU member state, the 10% limit indicated in Item 1 applies.

(8) Funds raised by issuing bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article must be invested in assets that until the maturity of the bond may back claims on bonds, and that would be, in case of bankruptcy of the issuer, used for payment of principal and accrued unpaid interest.

(9) If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article issued by the same entity, the total value of these investments may not exceed 80% of open-end fund assets.

(10) If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in transferable securities and money market instruments in accordance with Paragraphs 6 and 7 of this article, those transferable securities are not taken into account when applying limits specified in Paragraph 2 of this article. (11) Investments in transferable securities and money market instruments issued by the same entity, or in deposits or derivative instruments issued by the same entity, which are carried out in accordance with Paragraphs 1–8 of this article, may not together exceed 35% of the open-end fund’s assets. (12) Companies in the same group as the group that keeps the consolidated accounts in accordance with recognized international accounting standards are considered to be a single company for the purpose of calculating limits referred to in this article. Open-end funds may cumulatively invest no more than 20% of assets in transferable securities and money market instruments within the same group. Article 81, Paragraph 1, Items 4 and 5, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes allowable investments of a closed-end investment fund as follows: (1) deposits with authorized banks in Montenegro or in another country, provided they are subject to supervision and limitations equivalent to supervision and limitations established by the regulations, maturing within no more than 12 months and withdrawable at any time; (2) forwards and options and other financial derivatives traded on an organized market, provided they are based on financial investment instruments, financial indices, interest rates, exchange rates, or currencies in which the fund is permitted to invest according to its prospectus and articles of association; business activities agreed on in other organized markets and concluded with institutions subject to supervision of the appropriate authority in Montenegro or in an EU member state, subject to reliable and verifiable daily valuation and sellable at any time, and that may be liquidated or completed by settlement at their fair value at the request of the fund. Such instruments may be used solely to reduce or limit risk or increase yields and reduce costs of the fund without increasing the risk—that is, that they should not change the investment strategy, objectives, or limitations defined by this law and the prospectus and/or articles of association of the fund. The fund’s prospectus must provide for investment in these instruments and the purpose for which they may be used (protection against the risk and/or to achieve the investment objectives of the fund) and indicate that risk evaluation of these instruments has been provided. Article 62, Paragraph 2, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes that an investment fund for investment in initial capital may not invest more than 20% of its net assets in any other company. Article 27 of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes the following: (1) Open-end funds may invest no more than (a) 10% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by the same entity and (b) 20% of assets in deposits with the same subject. (2) Exposure of open-end funds to counterparty risk in OTC derivatives transactions may not exceed (a) 10% of assets if the counterparty is a credit institution referred to in the Article 25, Paragraph 1, Item 4, of the law and (b) 5% of assets in other cases. (3) The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments held by open-end funds in issuers in which more than 5% of assets are invested may not exceed 40% of total assets. (4) The limitation referred to in Paragraph 3 of this article does not apply to deposits or transactions in OTC derivatives with financial institutions subject to prudential supervision. (5) Notwithstanding the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may not, if it would cause investment of more than 20% of assets in the same company, combine (a) investments in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by such company; (b) deposits with the respective company; and (c) exposures arising from transactions in OTC derivatives in which the respective company is involved. (6) Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 35% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same company, if transferable securities or money market instruments are issued or guaranteed by the state, the local government, or an international organization. (7) Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 25% of assets in bonds, if bonds are issued by a credit institution with a registered office in an EU member state that is under the supervision of the relevant authority for the purpose of protection of bondholders. For bonds issued by foreign institutions not registered in an EU member state, the 10% limit indicated in Item 1 applies. (8) Funds raised by issuing bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article must be invested in assets that until the maturity of the bond may back claims on bonds, and that would be, in case of bankruptcy of the issuer, used for payment of principal and accrued unpaid interest. (9) If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article issued by the same entity, the total value of these investments may not exceed 80% of open-end fund assets. (10) If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in transferable securities and money market instruments in accordance with Paragraphs 6 and 7 of this article, those transferable securities are not taken into account when applying limits specified in Paragraph 2 of this article. (11) Investments in transferable securities and money market instruments issued by the same entity, or in deposits or derivative instruments issued by the same entity, which are carried out in accordance with Paragraphs 1–8 of this article, may not together exceed 35% of the open-end fund’s assets. (12) Companies in the same group as the group that keeps the consolidated accounts in accordance with recognized international accounting standards are considered to be a single company for the purpose of calculating limits referred to in this article. Open-end funds may cumulatively invest no more than 20% of assets in transferable securities and money market instruments within the same group. Article 81, Paragraph 1, Items 4 and 5, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes allowable investments of a closed-end investment fund as follows: (1) deposits with authorized banks in Montenegro or in another country, provided they are subject to supervision and limitations equivalent to supervision and limitations established by the regulations, maturing within no more than 12 months and withdrawable at any time; (2) forwards and options and other financial derivatives traded on an organized market, provided they are based on financial investment instruments, financial indices, interest rates, exchange rates, or currencies in which the fund is permitted to invest according to its prospectus and articles of association; business activities agreed on in other organized markets and concluded with institutions subject to supervision of the appropriate authority in Montenegro or in an EU member state, subject to reliable and verifiable daily valuation and sellable at any time, and that may be liquidated or completed by settlement at their fair value at the request of the fund. Such instruments may be used solely to reduce or limit risk or increase yields and reduce costs of the fund without increasing the risk—that is, that they should not change the investment strategy, objectives, or limitations defined by this law and the prospectus and/or articles of association of the fund. The fund’s prospectus must provide for investment in these instruments and the purpose for which they may be used (protection against the risk and/or to achieve the investment objectives of the fund) and indicate that risk evaluation of these instruments has been provided. Article 62, Paragraph 2, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes that an investment fund for investment in initial capital may not invest more than 20% of its net assets in any other company.

Article 27 of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes the following:

1. Open-end funds may invest no more than (a) 10% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by the same entity and (b) 20% of assets in deposits with the same subject.
2. Exposure of open-end funds to counterparty risk in OTC derivatives transactions may not exceed (a) 10% of assets if the counterparty is a credit institution referred to in the Article 25, Paragraph 1, Item 4, of the law and (b) 5% of assets in other cases.
3. The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments held by open-end funds in issuers in which more than 5% of assets are invested may not exceed 40% of total assets.
4. The limitation referred to in Paragraph 3 of this article does not apply to deposits or transactions in OTC derivatives with financial institutions subject to prudential supervision.
5. Notwithstanding the limits referred to in Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may not, if it would cause investment of more than 20% of assets in the same company, combine (a) investments in transferable securities or money market instruments issued by such company; (b) deposits with the respective company; and (c) exposures arising from transactions in OTC derivatives in which the respective company is involved.
6. Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 35% of assets in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same company, if transferable securities or money market instruments are issued or guaranteed by the state, the local government, or an international organization.
7. Notwithstanding Paragraph 1 of this article, open-end funds may invest no more than 25% of assets in bonds, if bonds are issued by a credit institution with a registered office in an EU member state that is under the supervision of the relevant authority for the purpose of protection of bondholders.
8. Funds raised by issuing bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article must be invested in assets that until the maturity of the bond may back claims on bonds, and that would be, in case of bankruptcy of the issuer, used for payment of principal and accrued unpaid interest.
9. If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in bonds referred to in Paragraph 7 of this article issued by the same entity, the total value of these investments may not exceed 80% of open-end fund assets.
10. If an open-end fund invests more than 5% of its assets in transferable securities and money market instruments in accordance with Paragraphs 6 and 7 of this article, those transferable securities are not taken into account when applying limits specified in Paragraph 2 of this article.
11. Investments in transferable securities and money market instruments issued by the same entity, or in deposits or derivative instruments issued by the same entity, which are carried out in accordance with Paragraphs 1–8 of this article, may not together exceed 35% of the open-end fund’s assets.
12. Companies in the same group as the group that keeps the consolidated accounts in accordance with recognized international accounting standards are considered to be a single company for the purpose of calculating limits referred to in this article. Open-end funds may cumulatively invest no more than 20% of assets in transferable securities and money market instruments within the same group. Article 81, Paragraph 1, Items 4 and 5, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes allowable investments of a closed-end investment fund as follows: (1) deposits with authorized banks in Montenegro or in... another country, provided they are subject to supervision and limitations equivalent to supervision and limitations established by the regulations, maturing within no more than 12 months and withdrawable at any time; (2) forwards and options and other financial derivatives traded on an organized market, provided they are based on financial investment instruments, financial indices, interest rates, exchange rates, or currencies in which the fund is permitted to invest according to its prospectus and articles of association; business activities agreed on in other organized markets and concluded with institutions subject to supervision of the appropriate authority in Montenegro or in an EU member state, subject to reliable and verifiable daily valuation and sellable at any time, and that may be liquidated or completed by settlement at their fair value at the request of the fund. Such instruments may be used solely to reduce or limit risk or increase yields and reduce costs of the fund without increasing the risk—that is, that they should not change the investment strategy, objectives, or limitations defined by this law and the prospectus and/or articles of association of the fund. The fund’s prospectus must provide for investment in these instruments and the purpose for which they may be used (protection against the risk and/or to achieve the investment objectives of the fund) and indicate that risk evaluation of these instruments has been provided. Article 62, Paragraph 2, of the Law on Investment Funds prescribes that an investment fund for investment in initial capital may not invest more than 20% of its net assets in any other company.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition  No.

The exchange arrangement falls within the purview and prerogatives of the Ministry of Economy and Finance. The BAM is responsible for its operational implementation (quoted rates, ranges) and any changes and monitors the foreign exchange market. On March 6, 2020, the Ministry of Economy, Finance, and Government Reform, following the opinion from the Bank Al-Maghrib (BAM), decided, effective March 9, 2020, to increase the fluctuation band for the dirham from +/−2.5% to +/−5% against the central rate established by the BAM based on a basket of currencies comprised of the euro and the US dollar, weighted, respectively, at 60% and 40%. Because the exchange rate has remained stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar–euro basket in 2019, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as stabilized.

Official exchange rate

| Yes. | The dirham has been pegged since 1973 to a basket of currencies weighted in accordance with the geographic distribution of Morocco’s foreign trade. The composition of this basket is subject to adjustment. Since April 2015, the basket has been composed of the euro and the US dollar, with weights of 60% and 40%, respectively. The BAM sets the central dirham/US dollar exchange rate, as well as the limits for the exchange rate fluctuation bands around the central rate at, effective March 9, 2020, +/−5% (previously +/−2.5%). However, the BAM may establish limits for the exchange rate bands against another currency. Based on its published methodology, the BAM establishes daily reference exchange rates for the dirham based on quotes listed by banks with market maker status as outlined in the BAM’s Circular. |

The foreign exchange market was established in 1996.

Banks must adhere to the band rates set by the BAM when performing spot market foreign exchange transactions in exchange for dirhams, referred to in Articles 2 and 4 of the Decision of the Governor of the BAM on how to apply the exchange rate regime. The exchange rate band in relation to the central rate is set at, effective March 9, 2020, +/-5% (previously +/-2.5%).

The FEO’s Foreign Exchange Policy Statement defines spot foreign exchange transactions as follows: (1) the purchase and sale of foreign currencies against dirhams by banks, between themselves, with the BAM, or with their customers; (2) the purchase and sale of foreign currencies against other foreign currencies by banks, between themselves, with customers, with foreign banks, or with the BAM. Banks are authorized to carry out, either on their own account or on behalf of their customers, spot foreign exchange transactions, hedging transactions, loan-borrowing transactions in accordance with the 2020 General Instructions on Foreign Exchange Operations, and to establish foreign exchange positions, in accordance with the procedures laid down by the BAM.

Amounts repatriated and not paid into the foreign currency accounts referred to in the provisions of the foreign exchange regulations in force must be transferred under market conditions and in accordance with the procedures laid down by the BAM regarding the applicable exchange rates within three working days of receipt of the funds by the bank. The equivalent in dirhams must be immediately made available to the beneficiary by the bank that received the funds.

For foreign exchange transfers, licensed banks and exchange bureaus freely determine their bid-ask spread within the fluctuation band of +/-5% around the central rate of the band established by the BAM.

Banks charge a 0.1% commission on foreign exchange transactions for dirhams with customers, as well as with foreign banks. This commission is not charged on transactions between Moroccan banks. For banknote transactions with foreign banks, the commission is not charged. Banks are authorized to buy and sell foreign currency among themselves and with customers and to maintain foreign exchange positions on terms established by the BAM. Purchase, sale, and arbitrage operations among banks or on behalf of their clients may be denominated in any currency traded in the foreign exchange market. Banks may conduct foreign currency buying and selling operations with foreign banks and the BAM for any currency traded in the foreign exchange market. The BAM reserves the right not to list certain currencies even if they are traded in the foreign exchange market. Currencies not listed by the BAM may be traded by banks among themselves or with their foreign correspondents.

There were 15 financial institutions active on the foreign exchange market as of December 31, 2019.

Operated by the central bank: Yes.

The BAM intervenes in the exchange rate market, on its own initiative, via buy or sell currency auctions in exchange for dirhams. The BAM sets:

(1) the currency for its interventions on the exchange rate market; and (2) the terms of eligibility for auctions.

It may also intervene using other instruments, such as OTC currency... sales or purchases in exchange for dirhams, currency loans or borrowings, and foreign exchange swaps against the dirham.

The BAM, as fiscal agent of the Treasury, executes the latter’s foreign exchange payment orders.

The BAM does not verify transactions when dealing with commercial banks.

The BAM organizes on its own initiative auctions to buy or sell US dollars in exchange for dirhams on an electronic platform. It may also organize auctions for other currencies. Only banks with market maker status are authorized to participate in the currency auctions. The first auction took place January 15, 2018.

Before each session, the BAM uses the auction platform to publish its contribution pages on Reuters, Bloomberg, and its website, with the press release setting out the characteristics of the following call for tenders: Session date; Purchase or Sale; Currency; Amount; Opening time; Closing time; and Value date.

Bids must comply with the following conditions: The minimum amount per bid is US$500,000; the amount of the bid must be a multiple of 500,000; each bid may be divided, at most, into 3 tranches of a multiple of 500,000; the amount per bid must not exceed the amount of the auction announced by the BAM.

The BAM sets and publishes the fluctuation band, in relation to the central exchange rate, which it uses as a basis for operating on the foreign exchange market. To that end, it sets a minimum and maximum exchange rate for each auction. Bidders may modify or cancel their bids until the auction closing time.

At the closing time of the auction session, the bids submitted to the BAM are deemed firm and irrevocable.

The BAM publishes the overall results of the auction on its website as well as on its contribution pages on Reuters and Bloomberg. The last foreign exchange auction was held on March 20, 2018.

The BAM reserves the right to suspend access for banks having status as market makers in foreign exchange auctions when they fail to comply with the rules in connection with this status to which they are subject under the circular from the BAM.

The BAM may also decide to withdraw market maker status from a bank when it no longer meets the conditions for which the status of market maker was granted, and despite warnings issued by the BAM, the bank engages in actions that may adversely affect the proper operation of the foreign exchange market.

Over and above the requirements of market maker banks, there is no specific mechanism governing transactions in the domestic foreign exchange market. Banks may carry out foreign exchange transactions with other banks. As of December 31, 2019, there were 15 banks operating in the interbank market.

The BAM sets the limit for the exchange rate for the exchange of foreign banknotes against the dirham at, effective March 9, 2020, +/−7.5% (previously 5%) in relation to the central exchange rate. The BAM sets the OTC band rate limits of the dirham against other currencies.

It may postpone setting the OTC band rate limit of one or more currencies in the event of a major event affecting them.

When performing OTC foreign exchange transactions, banks must apply exchange rates that fall within the band rate limits referred to in Article 8 of the Decision of the Governor of the BAM on how to apply the exchange rate regime. The BAM informs banks of the exchange rates of listed currencies against the US dollar applicable to the foreign banknote transactions it carries out with them at the time of publication of the rate limits.

Regarding OTC foreign exchange transactions between the BAM and banks, the settlement of foreign banknote transactions initiated by banks with the BAM is carried out by hedging in foreign currency with their foreign correspondent banks. These transactions involve only the banknotes of listed foreign banks and result in the payment of 1% commission, before tax, to the BAM. For OTC operations, authorized intermediary banks are authorized as follows:

1. Authorized intermediaries, foreign exchange bureaus, and payment institutions, licensed for this purpose by the FEO, may engage in trading involving foreign banknotes and traveler’s checks with customers. Only credit institutions with the status of authorized intermediary may negotiate with customers LCs, bank checks, and money orders. These institutions may also engage in currency trading involving foreign banknotes with Moroccans and foreign nationals holding foreign exchange accounts. For OTC foreign exchange operations, licensed intermediary banks may (a) buy or sell foreign currency banknotes, travelers’ checks, LCs, bank checks, and money orders with their customers and (b) repurchase nonresidents’ dirhams at the end of their stay in Morocco from previously surrendered foreign currency. The FEO permits exchange bureaus and payment institutions it has authorized to conduct OTC operations to buy and sell foreign banknotes and travelers’ checks with their customers as allowed by foreign exchange regulations. Foreign exchange bureaus and payment institutions authorized to conduct OTC transactions may buy, in exchange for domestic currency, foreign banknotes and/or foreign-currency-denominated travelers’ checks and sell for cash, in exchange for domestic currency, foreign banknotes and traveler’s checks, as part of the allowance for tourists, the Hajj pilgrimage, missions, and internships abroad by personnel of central and local governments and of public institutions and enterprises, and the educational allowance for students (the emigration allowance was eliminated effective January 14, 2019). Effective January 1, 2020, payment institutions are also permitted to grant electronic trade allowances to individuals.

Since July 17, 2018, foreign exchange bureaux may hold cash equivalent to DH 500,000. For exchange bureaux in airport duty-free (hors douane) departure lounges or bonded arrival areas, the cash limit is DH 600,000 since 2013. Foreign exchange bureaux must deal with a licensed intermediary bank or the BAM to transfer their surplus holdings and cash travelers’ checks. Certain establishments – other than licensed bank intermediaries, exchange bureaux, and payment institutions – may also be authorized by the FEO to purchase foreign banknotes and/or traveler’s checks for dirhams on behalf of a licensed bank intermediary they have freely chosen. These authorizations are known as sub-delegations and the beneficiaries as sub-delegates. Such establishments are classified as hotels, guesthouses, tourism residences, youth hostels, international passenger carriers, travel agencies, and car rental firms with offices at ports and airports, and casinos authorized by the relevant authorities. Sub-delegates may engage, for the account of an authorized intermediary, in operations involving the purchase of foreign banknotes or negotiation of traveler’s checks with customers.

2. Authorized intermediaries, foreign exchange bureaux, and payment institutions may deal in foreign banknotes, traveler’s checks, LCs, bank checks, and money orders in foreign exchange with their customers up to the limits allowed by the limit rates applied by the BAM at the central rate of plus 7.5% for sales and minus 7.5% for purchases effective March 9, 2020 (previously +/−5%).

Sub-delegates engage in the transactions referred to in Article 1(3) of the BAM Circular on OTC transactions at the exchange rates agreed on with the authorized intermediary on whose behalf they are dealing. Rates applied to OTC exchange transactions are net, inclusive of all charges and commissions.

Foreign exchange bureaus and payment institutions must go to a credit institution with the status of authorized intermediary trade in foreign banknotes and cash traveler’s checks. These operations are carried out on the terms and conditions agreed on between the parties.

As of December 31, 2019, there were 655 exchange bureaus authorized by the FEO exclusively to engage in OTC foreign exchange operations.

Brokerage No.
Market making Yes. Banks with market maker status must meet the following requirements: (1) Provide continuous buy/sell trading quotes of USD/MAD on the spot market listed on Reuters and Bloomberg, with updates every 15 seconds; (2) provide firm buy/sell spot market quotes for USD/MAD on the trading platform for at least 6 banks with market maker status within the limits of their daily requirements; (3) provide simultaneous and identical quotes on the trading platform and on Reuters and Bloomberg contribution pages; (4) provide quotes for a minimum of US$500,000 with a maximum bid-ask spread of 50 basis points (bps) within the limits of the daily requirement; (5) provide reciprocal daily commitments vis-à-vis relevant market makers in terms of amounts and spread; (6) perform all trades relating to the reciprocal quote commitments on the trading platform; and (7) perform all other operations not relating to reciprocal commitments on the Bloomberg or Reuters platform.

Forward exchange market Yes. Banks may perform the following hedging operations against the following risks on behalf of their customers or for their own proprietary purposes, in compliance with the foreign exchange regulations in effect: (1) hedging operations against foreign exchange rate risk for foreign currencies against dirhams and foreign currencies against other foreign currencies; (2) hedging operations against interest rate risk; (3) hedging operations against the risk of commodity fluctuations taken out by Moroccan legal entities with banks or foreign broker-dealers on an organized international market; commodities include mining, energy, and agricultural products, as well as timber, coal, silver, and other precious metals; and (4) hedging transactions against any risk inherent in any asset or debt. Banks are required to ensure that the unwinding of hedging transactions does not exceed the settlement periods of the current or underlying capital transaction provided for in the commercial or financial contracts concluded in this context. Effective January 1, 2020, operators may undertake hedging operations with justification that the outcome has been secured rather than the initiation of the hedge agreement for imports and exports of goods. This option of signing hedging agreements for imports and exports may be executed within the limit of 25% of the average value of imports carried out during the last three fiscal years and 100% of the average export turnover for the past three fiscal years.

Hedging transactions, carried out by banks with their customers, must be covered by a contract in the framework of the International Swaps and Derivatives Association (ISDA), the French Banking...
Federation (FBF), or the European Market Infrastructure Regulation (EMIR).

Hedging transactions – foreign exchange transactions against dirhams – carried out with customers are subject to foreign exchange commissions in accordance with current regulations. Articles 140 and 143 of the 2020 General Instruction from the FEO on Foreign Exchange Operations on hedging operations specifies the terms and conditions of hedging operations with regard to the above-mentioned risks, which must be related to actual commercial or financial operations when the hedge relates to a current or capital transaction linked to the activity of the company (which must have been in business for at least three years) and when the amount to be hedged does not exceed the amount of the transaction and the settlement does not exceed the settlement deadlines. These provisions are intended to prevent speculative transactions in the foreign exchange market.

Banks may offer their customers a combination of instruments as part of the same hedging operation. Hedging transactions may also result in the unwinding of positions arising from such transactions. In addition, hedging the stock of imported commodities may cover exported/imported products as well as imported and stored products. For hedging against any risk inherent in any asset or debt, banks may conclude these transactions only on a proprietary basis or on behalf of certain institutional entities – credit institutions and similar entities, insurance companies, and collective investment funds (organismes de placement collectif en titrisation). Institutional investors were also allowed to cover capital transactions, such as investments made abroad by UCITS or insurance companies.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes.

For current transactions and payments Yes. Transactions between Morocco and foreign countries – regardless of the type – must be settled in foreign currencies quoted by the BAM or in convertible dirhams.

However, importers of services are authorized to use dirhams on the national territory to settle transactions for import services rendered in Morocco by nonresident natural persons.

“Special” accounts denominated in dirhams may be opened in the name of nonresident foreign natural or legal persons in the cases and conditions set out in the 2020 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations.

Current transactions within the national territory may only be settled in the national currency.

Any foreign exchange transaction not specifically defined remains subject to the authorization of the Exchange Office.

For capital transactions Yes. As a general rule, settlement of capital transactions between residents and nonresidents must be made in currencies listed by the BAM.

Capital transactions within the national territory may only be settled in the national currency.

Any foreign exchange transaction not specifically defined remains subject to the authorization of the Exchange Office.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments  Yes.  As a general rule, settlement of capital transactions between residents and nonresidents must be made in currencies listed by the BAM. Capital transactions within the national territory may only be settled in the national currency.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments  Yes.  As a general rule, settlement of capital transactions between residents and nonresidents must be made in currencies listed by the BAM. Capital transactions within the national territory may only be settled in the national currency.

Credit operations  Yes.  As a general rule, settlement of the credit transactions between residents and nonresidents must be made in currencies listed by the BAM. However, banks are allowed to grant loans in national currency to nonresidents: (1) loans in dirhams granted by banks to nonresident foreign individuals and Moroccans residing abroad, intended to finance the acquisition and/or development of real estate in Morocco; (2) consumer loans granted in dirhams by banks to foreign personnel working for diplomatic representations accredited in Morocco or international organizations based or represented in Morocco; and (3) credit lines and facilities granted to branches registered with the FEO as part of the execution of contracts in Morocco, the remuneration of which is denominated entirely in dirhams. Credit transactions within the national territory may only be settled in national currency.

Use of foreign exchange among residents  Yes.  Transactions among residents in Morocco must be denominated and settled in domestic currency.

Regional arrangements  Yes.  A regional payments arrangement among the CBs of Algeria, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, and Tunisia governs payment operations among those countries. Economic operators may settle their transactions either within the framework of these arrangements or by following normal procedures. Payments between Morocco and AMU countries may be made either under the unified bilateral payments agreement concluded between AMU countries or through the banking system. Payments between Morocco and the AMU countries and all related documents must be denominated either in one of the currencies of the two countries involved in the transaction or in a currency that is jointly quoted by the two countries.

Administration of control  Yes.  Foreign exchange controls are overseen by the FEO (Office des Changes) and the Administration of Customs and Indirect Taxes, both under the MOF. The Office has delegated the execution of the main exchange regulation measures to authorized banks. Foreign exchange controls involve verifying that all foreign exchange transactions are conducted in accordance with the regulations in effect.

Residents may purchase, hold, and sell gold coins in Morocco for numismatic or investment purposes. Ten different types of foreign gold coins are traded on the Casablanca Stock Exchange, which does not, however, deal in gold bars.

Any individual or legal entity wishing to operate as a manufacturer or merchant of items made of platinum, gold, or silver, is required to file a declaration with the customs precious metal warranty office, eight days prior to the date on which the establishment opens or commences operation (Article 4 of Dahir No. 1-77-340 and Article 91 of Minister of Finance arrêté 1309-77).

This application must include the following supporting documents: (1) a copy certified as true to the original from the register of commerce and (2) a certificate of registration in the business license tax rolls (rôble des patentes), prepared for the year during which the declaration is prepared.

Items made from platinum, gold, or silver, except for those articles weighing one gram or less, imported into or manufactured in Morocco, must be presented to the customs precious metal warranty offices to undergo assay and, if necessary, to be covered with hallmarks indicating warranty (Article 44 of Dahir No. 1-77-340). The items thus presented may not have a fineness of less than the following minimum amounts: (1) for platinum items: 950 per mille; (2) for gold items: 750 per mille; and (3) for silver items: 800 per mille.

Manufacturers and merchants (including itinerant traders) of platinum, gold, or silver items are required to keep a register signed and initialed by the chief of the customs precious metal warranty office with local jurisdiction, in which register they must enter the type, number, weight, and fineness of the articles made of these materials which they are purchasing, selling, or receiving to repair, and they must do so on a daily basis and at the very time when these items are bought, sold, or brought in (Articles 93 and 94(2) of the Minister of Finance arrêté).

Imports of gold are subject to authorization from the Administration of Customs and Indirect Taxes. The MOF fixes a quota annually for the importation of gold ingots. The quota is allocated among jewelers and industrial users of precious metals. Exports of gold are also regulated.

Exports of domestic banknotes are subject to authorization. However, authorized intermediary banks or operators established in the export free zones may export dirham-denominated banknotes to the Tangiers Export Free Zone with an export declaration. The dirhams must be drawn from convertible dirham accounts of operators in the export zone and used solely for payments to residents for the following expenditures: wages and other wage-earner remuneration up to any amount and transportation, repairs, work, and supplies of products from the territory covered up to DH 5,000 an operation and subject to an annual ceiling of DH 150,000 an operator. Travelers may export up to DH 2,000 in dirham banknotes.

Authorized intermediary banks may set up foreign exchange counters on sea ferries operating between Morocco and other countries. The rules governing such foreign exchange counters (1) allow banks to bring aboard the ferry, under customs control, a stock of dirham banknotes for each crossing, and (2) limit such transactions at these counters to the purchase of foreign banknotes against dirhams from Moroccan citizens and foreign residents or nonresidents traveling to Morocco. Stocks of dirham banknotes for such counters must be brought aboard the ferry under customs control. For this purpose, the bank must execute with customs a dirham export declaration at the time of the ferry’s departure.

Foreign currency

Yes.

Foreign and Moroccan nonresidents may export foreign-currency-denominated means of payment previously imported or debited from their foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts. Nonresident individuals (foreigners and Moroccans residing abroad) are not required to show a declaration to Customs filled out on entering the territory or a foreign currency receipt when, at the end of their stay, they resell remaining dirhams from previous exchange transactions to foreign exchange bureaus, payment institutions authorized to conduct OTC exchange transactions, and authorized intermediary banks situated at ports or airports, up to DH 2,000 a passport. Residents may also export foreign banknotes within the limits specified in the foreign exchange regulations (for example, for travel allowances).

Nonresident individuals are authorized, when leaving Morocco, to export previously imported foreign-currency-denominated means of payment in accordance with the foreign exchange regulations currently in force.

Moroccans residing abroad may buy foreign currency back from banks and export up to 50% of the foreign currency repatriated and sold on the foreign exchange market over the last twelve months up to a maximum of DH 100,000, excluding the foreign currency credited to their convertible dirham accounts. Effective January 1, 2020, Moroccan nationals resident abroad may repurchase and export 100% of the foreign exchange previously repatriated and transferred on the foreign exchange market within the limit of DH 100,000.

On imports

Yes.

Domestic currency

Yes.

The importation of domestic banknotes is subject to authorization. Travelers are, however, authorized to import up to DH 2,000 in dirham banknotes.

Foreign currency

No.

Nonresident travelers may bring in unlimited amounts of foreign banknotes, traveler’s checks, and other means of payment denominated in foreign exchange, including negotiable bearer instruments. The term “negotiable bearer instruments” means monetary bearer instruments such as traveler’s checks; negotiable instruments (especially checks, promissory notes, and money orders) that are either payable to the bearer or freely endorsable or made out to a fictitious beneficiary or in any form that permits a transfer by simple remittance; and incomplete instruments (especially checks, promissory notes, and money orders) that are signed but do not indicate the beneficiary. Resident travelers may also import unlimited amounts of foreign banknotes, but must surrender them for dirhams within 30 days of their return to Morocco. Imports of foreign banknotes must be declared at customs offices when the amount to be imported exceeds the equivalent of DH 100,000. Imports of foreign currency banknotes less than the equivalent of DH 100,000 may be covered, if desired, by a written declaration filed with customs on entering Morocco.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Held domestically Yes.

Two types of accounts may be opened: (1) Foreign resident individuals and foreign firms may open foreign exchange accounts in Moroccan banks without limitation. These accounts may be credited with transfers from abroad, any foreign-exchange-denominated means of payment (for example, banknotes, traveler’s checks), and foreign currency that was withdrawn from a Moroccan bank in accordance with current foreign exchange regulations. Deposits of foreign banknotes by the account holder must be supported with an original signed foreign exchange import declaration from the border customs services or another document attesting to the origin of the foreign exchange. These accounts may be debited for transfers abroad and for the surrender of foreign currency for dirhams for all domestic settlements. There are no restrictions on interest payments on these accounts, on transfers between foreign exchange accounts, or on transfers between foreign exchange accounts and convertible dirham accounts. Authorized banks may issue international credit cards to holders of these accounts. Overdrafts on these accounts are not permitted. (2) Moroccan exporters of goods and services (including fishing companies) may open foreign exchange accounts and deposit up to 70% of the repatriated foreign exchange receipts from exports. The portion that Moroccan exporters of goods in the aeronautics and space industries may hold is 85% of export earnings in convertible dirham or foreign exchange accounts. The accounts may be credited in full or in part at the discretion of the exporter. In the case of a partial credit, the remaining amount may subsequently be credited to the account within one year of the date the foreign exchange was sold in the foreign exchange market. Exporters’ foreign exchange accounts may also be credited without restriction with (1) transfers from other foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts belonging to the same account holder, (2) funds debited from foreign exchange accounts and sold in the foreign exchange market, and (3) funds withdrawn from convertible dirham accounts for payment of expenses in Morocco. These funds may be credited to exporters’ accounts within a period of one year of the date on which they were withdrawn. The accounts may also be credited with foreign banknotes withdrawn for professional travel purposes and not used, provided the account is credited within 30 days of the date foreign currency was withdrawn for travel that did not take place or for travel that did take place within 30 days of entry into Morocco. The accounts may be debited (1) for foreign exchange expenses related to the account holder’s professional activity, (2) to credit another foreign exchange or convertible dirham account in the name of the same account holder, and (3) to sell foreign exchange in the foreign exchange market. Authorized banks may issue international credit cards to holders of these accounts. Overdrafts are not permitted in foreign exchange accounts. Authorized banks may open foreign exchange accounts for foreign placement operations for insurance and reinsurance companies, UCITS, and OPCCs (Organisme de Placement Collectif en Capital (Capital Investment Organizations)), and make transfers related to foreign deposit, investment, and placement operations. They may also open foreign exchange accounts to allow traders to improve their management of international trade operations while avoiding exchange rate fluctuations and commissions and fees related to sales and repurchases of foreign currency. Authorized intermediary banks may open, on behalf of nonexporter individuals or firms, foreign exchange accounts to facilitate use of annual allowances in their favor under exchange regulations currently in force.

Effective January 1, 2019, banks are authorized to open, on behalf of companies that do not have a foreign currency account – micro-credit associations, associations recognized as being of public utility, cooperatives and professional federations as well as individuals engaged in professional activity – and who benefit from a business travel allowance, a foreign currency or convertible dirham account for “business travel allowance” for the purpose of receiving the allowance.

These accounts may record on the credit side up to 100% of the allowances related to business travel. Such accounts may also be freely debited (1) with foreign banknotes to meet business travel needs; (2) with outward transfers or Internet purchases, in connection with the above-mentioned business travel (hotel bookings, transport costs abroad, etc.); (3) for the issuance of bank checks and/or traveler’s checks; and (4) for the issuance or charging of international bank cards in accordance with the provisions of the exchange regulations.

Authorized intermediary banks may also open foreign exchange accounts in the name of recipients of the tourism allowance. These accounts may be credited (1) with 100% of the tourism travel allowances and (2) with the tourism travel allowances for the individual’s minor children or spouse. Such accounts may be debited (1) with foreign banknotes to meet needs associated with tourism or business travel; (2) with outward transfers or Internet purchases in connection with tourism travel; (3) for the issuance of bank checks and/or traveler’ checks; and (4) for the issuance or charging of international bank cards issued in accordance with the exchange regulations.

Authorized intermediaries may open on their books foreign exchange accounts in the name of insurers and reinsurers for the purpose of engaging in the collection of premiums or settlement of amounts of compensation for claims associated with foreign exchange policies signed in accordance with instructions from the minister of finance. These accounts may be credited (1) with the amounts of the premium, which is to be settled in foreign exchange; (2) with the share of premiums accruing to the insurer under a coinsurance policy. In such cases, the transfer must be made by debiting the “foreign exchange insurance” account of the lead insurer; (3) with the payments of reinsurers and coinsurers to cover their liabilities; (4) with the payments in connection with recoveries (recours et sauvetage); (5) for foreign exchange purchases required to cover liabilities originating from insurance policies underwritten in foreign exchange if the balance on a foreign exchange insurance account is unable to cover liabilities borne by the insurer; (6) for the refund of premiums paid to a reinsurer following termination of the policy. They may be debited (1) with compensation for claims as allowed by the exchange regulations; (2) with shares of premiums and other amounts owed to reinsurers; (3) with premiums and amounts owed to reinsurers under reinsurance agreements; and (4) with commissions and charges payable in foreign exchange in favor of a nonresident insurance intermediary under an insurance policy denominated in foreign exchange. Insurance and reinsurance enterprises licensed in Morocco and required to accept on a reinsurance basis the risks envisaged by current exchange regulations as well as risks ceded from foreign insurers, may open on the books of authorized intermediaries accounts known as “reinsurance acceptances in foreign exchange–local business” and “reinsurance acceptances in foreign exchange–foreign business.”

Insurance and reinsurance enterprises, engaging in reinsurance acceptances for operations insured in foreign exchange under a policy underwritten with an insurance and reinsurance enterprise, may open reinsurance acceptances in foreign exchange–local business accounts on the books of authorized intermediaries. Local business is defined as risk situated in Morocco covered by insurance policies in foreign currencies and underwritten with Moroccan insurers and ceded to Moroccan reinsurers. A reinsurance acceptance in foreign exchange–local business account may be credited with (1) amounts paid by direct insurers, on the understanding that these payments must be made by debiting their insurance in foreign exchange–local business accounts and (2) with amounts owed by reinsurance reinsurers (rétrocessionnaires) in settlement of their liabilities on retroceded risks. A reinsurance acceptance in foreign exchange–local business account may be debited (1) with amounts owed to reinsurance reinsurers and (2) with reinsurance balances and shares in compensation for claims accruing to direct insurers.

Operators duly licensed under Moroccan insurance regulations to engage in reinsurance brokerage operations, which serve to place abroad risks entrusted by foreign insurance and reinsurance firms, may open a currency-specific account referred to as a “foreign exchange reinsurance brokerage” account on the books of authorized intermediaries. These accounts may be credited with funds received from foreign insurance and reinsurance firms in connection with premiums, compensation on claims, reinsurance balances, and brokerage commissions. These accounts may be debited with amounts paid to foreign insurance and reinsurance firms in connection with premiums, compensation on claims, and reinsurance balances. Brokerage commissions accruing to Moroccan brokers... must be surrendered in the foreign exchange market immediately after encashment.

The categories of capital that may be freely managed by entities with Casablanca Finance City (CFC) status and that therefore may be deposited in their foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts at authorized intermediary banks were defined. Entities with CFC status may freely open foreign currency accounts in banks in Morocco to manage their foreign currency holdings in one of the following categories: (1) capital entrusted by nonresident investors to entities with CFC status for placement or investment purposes; (2) capital collected by entities with CFC status for their own account when issuing securities abroad or mobilizing external financing; (3) holdings in foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts opened on the books of authorized intermediaries in the name of foreign individuals or legal entities or in the name of Moroccans residing abroad and made available to entities with CFC status by the holders of such accounts; (4) funds made available to entities with CFC status by Moroccan financial institutions licensed to engage in foreign placement operations; (5) holdings in foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts opened in the name of entities with CFC status and engaging in services export operations; and (6) any other foreign-source foreign currency holdings.

Entities with CFC status engaging in services export transactions may open foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts on the books of authorized intermediary banks. Such accounts may be credited with 100% of proceeds from services rendered to nonresident entities by entities with CFC status.

Effective January 19, 2019, for hedging operations against the risk of commodity price fluctuation on behalf of Moroccan legal entities, banks are required to open foreign currency accounts on their books. Foreign currency accounts, dedicated to customer hedging transactions, must record all related financial flows, including the security deposit, daily margin calls, and premiums received or paid.

Effective January 1, 2020, service exporters bidding for foreign contracts have the option of opening foreign exchange accounts in Morocco dedicated to the settlement of expenditure in connection with such contracts.

Effective January 1, 2020, resident individuals having revenue from foreign sources may place up to 70% of such revenue in an account in foreign exchange or in convertible dirhams to be opened with Moroccan banks.

Approval required
Yes. Approval is not required for resident foreign exporters of goods and services; nonexporters who are beneficiaries of business travel allowances and individuals with tourism allowances; insurance and reinsurers; operators authorized to engage in brokerage operations; entities with CFC status for needs associated with management of their foreign exchange assets; entities with CFC status engaging in services export operations; and effective January 19, 2019, Moroccan legal entities that have subscribed to hedging instruments against commodity price fluctuation risks.

Held abroad
Yes. Authorized banks may transfer funds for investment purposes as deposits to, effective January 1, 2019, foreign banks (previously, in OECD, EU, and AMU member countries) on their own behalf and on behalf of (1) insurance and reinsurance companies for up to 5% of the total volume of their reserves, (2) retirement agencies for up to 5% of the total volume of their reserves, and (3) UCITS and, effective January 14, 2019, OPCCs for up to 10% of their net assets for dirham-denominated subscriptions and, effective January 14, 2019, 100% for subscriptions collected in foreign currency.
Authorized banks may open foreign currency accounts related to management of hedging operations against the risk of fluctuation in the price of certain commodities. These accounts devoted exclusively to managing hedging operations must record all financial flows relating to hedging of the risk of price fluctuations of certain commodities, including the security deposit, margin calls, premiums received, etc.

Approval required

Yes.

Foreign residents do not require approval to open these accounts. Effective January 14, 2019, FEO approval is no longer required for the opening of foreign currency accounts in foreign banks for companies holding contracts abroad. These accounts may credit the amounts of advances transferred, revenue for services rendered abroad under contracts, and debit the amounts of expenditure incurred abroad in the execution of these contracts and transfers to Morocco.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No.

Residents may not open dirham accounts abroad.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes.

Resident foreign nationals may open accounts in convertible dirhams in Moroccan banks. The accounts may be credited with the proceeds of foreign exchange sales and amounts transferable from Morocco, in accordance with exchange regulations. The accounts may be debited to purchase foreign exchange or for any other domestic settlement. There are no restrictions on interest payments or on transfers between accounts abroad in convertible dirhams and between convertible dirham accounts and foreign exchange accounts. Authorized banks may issue international credit cards and checks to the holders of these accounts. Overdrafts on these accounts are not permitted. Exporters of goods and services (including fishing companies) may open accounts in convertible dirhams in Moroccan banks. These accounts may be credited with the dirham equivalent of 70% of foreign exchange that is repatriated and transferred to approved intermediary banks for exports of goods and services. The accounts may be credited in full or in part at the discretion of the exporter. In the case of a partial credit, the remaining amount may subsequently be credited to the account within a maximum period of one year from the date the foreign exchange was sold on the foreign exchange market. Convertible dirham accounts may be credited with (1) amounts from other foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts belonging to the same exporter; (2) foreign banknotes withdrawn and not used, provided the account is credited within 30 days of the date the foreign currency is withdrawn; (3) the amount of expenses for which funds have been debited from the account for operations that have been partially or fully cancelled; and (4) amounts withdrawn from foreign exchange accounts and sold in the foreign exchange market and those debited from a convertible dirham account to cover expenses in Morocco. These amounts may be credited to the exporter’s account within a maximum of one year from the date of the debit. Funds in these accounts may be used to finance expenditures related to professional activities. The maximum amount of repatriated export earnings exporters may place in a foreign exchange or a convertible dirham account is 70% (85% for companies in the aeronautics and space sector). Holders of these accounts may obtain international credit cards and checks from authorized banks, but overdrafts are not permitted. Authorized intermediary banks may open convertible dirham accounts in the name of individuals to facilitate use of the annual allowances specified in the exchange regulations and to combine in one foreign exchange or convertible dirham account in the name of an individual the tourism travel allowances for the individual’s minor children or spouse. These accounts may be credited (1) with 100% of the tourism travel allowances and (2) with the tourism travel allowances for the individual’s minor children or spouse. Such accounts may be debited (1) with foreign banknotes to meet needs associated with tourism or business travel; (2) with outward transfers or Internet purchases in connection with tourism travel; (3) for the issuance of bank checks and/or traveler’s checks; and (4) for the issuance or charging of international bank cards issued in accordance with the exchange regulations.

Effective January 1, 2019, banks are authorized to open, on behalf of companies that do not have a foreign currency account – micro-credit associations, associations recognized as being of public utility, cooperatives and professional federations as well as individuals engaged in professional activity – and who benefit from a business travel allowance, a foreign currency or convertible dirham account for “business travel allowance” for the purpose of receiving the allowance.

The categories of capital that may be freely managed by entities with CFC status and that therefore may be deposited in their foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts opened at authorized intermediary banks were defined. Entities with CFC status may freely open convertible dirham accounts in banks in Morocco to manage their foreign currency holdings in one of the following categories: (1) capital entrusted by nonresident investors to entities with CFC status for placement or investment purposes; (2) capital collected by entities with CFC status for their own account when issuing securities abroad or mobilizing external financing; (3) holdings in foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts opened on the books of authorized intermediaries in the name of foreign individuals or legal entities or in the name of Moroccans residing abroad and made available to entities with CFC status by the holders of such accounts; (4) funds made available to entities with CFC status by Moroccan financial institutions licensed to engage in foreign placement operations pursuant to exchange regulations; (5) holdings in foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts opened in the name of entities with CFC status and engaging in services export operations; and (6) any other foreign-source foreign currency holdings.

Entities with CFC status engaging in services export transactions may open foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts at authorized intermediary banks. Such accounts may be credited with 100% of proceeds from services rendered to nonresident entities by entities with CFC status.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Two types of accounts may be opened: (1) Foreign exchange accounts in the names of foreign nationals may be maintained by nonresident individuals and legal entities of foreign nationality. These accounts may be credited with transfers from abroad; foreign banknotes, checks, and traveler’s checks; any other means of payment denominated in foreign currency; and foreign currency withdrawn from domestic banks, in accordance with exchange regulations. Deposits of foreign banknotes by the account holder must be justified by an original signed import declaration from the border customs offices or any other supporting document. These accounts may be debited for transfers abroad or for the surrender of foreign currency for dirhams for all domestic settlements. (2) Foreign exchange accounts may be opened by Moroccan nationals residing abroad. These accounts may be credited with transfers from abroad; traveler’s checks, foreign banknotes, or any other means of payment denominated in foreign currency; and foreign currency withdrawn from domestic banks in accordance with exchange regulations. They may be debited for transfers abroad and for the surrender of foreign currency for dirhams for all domestic settlements. There are no restrictions on interest payments on these accounts, transfers between foreign exchange accounts, or transfers between foreign exchange accounts and convertible dirham accounts. A set of conditions and modalities governing the opening and functioning of nonresident accounts denominated in foreign currency and in dirhams include the following: (1) specification of arrangements related to the crediting of foreign exchange accounts and foreign accounts in convertible dirhams with foreign banknotes and (2) distinction between foreign accounts in convertible dirhams held in the names of foreign correspondents of Moroccan banks and those held in the names of customers (individuals and legal entities other than foreign correspondents).

Approval required No.

Domestic currency accounts

Yes. Nonresidents may open three types of dirham accounts as follows: (1) External convertible dirham accounts are restricted to nonresident individuals and legal entities of foreign nationality. (2) Convertible dirham accounts may be held in the name of Moroccans residing abroad. Both types of accounts may be credited with proceeds from the surrender of foreign currency and amounts freely transferable from Morocco in accordance with general or special authorization from the FEO. They may be debited for the purchase of foreign currency and all domestic settlements. There are no restrictions on transfers between foreign accounts in convertible dirhams or between these accounts and foreign exchange accounts. Holders of these accounts may obtain international credit cards from authorized banks. Overdrafts are not allowed, and there are no restrictions on the payment of interest on these accounts. (3) Nonresident foreigners whose funds are deemed nontransferable under the exchange regulations may deposit those funds in convertible term accounts at authorized intermediary banks. Funds from these accounts may be transferred within four years at a rate of 25% a year. Nonresident foreign currency and dirham accounts are subject to the following: (1) definition of modalities related to the crediting of foreign exchange accounts and foreign accounts in convertible dirhams with foreign banknotes; (2) distinction between foreign accounts in convertible dirhams in the name of foreign correspondents of Moroccan banks and those in the name of customers (individuals and legal entities other than foreign correspondents); and (3) extension of the authorization for nonresident foreigners to hold dirham-denominated accounts called “special accounts” to other entities – namely diplomatic representatives; international organizations headquartered or represented in Morocco; foreign staff of diplomatic missions and international organizations; businesses operating in EPZs and financial centers and those under contract to provide goods or services in Morocco; and effective January 14, 2019, nonresident foreign individuals who have outstanding dirham-denominated loans with Moroccan banks.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. Funds in convertible dirham accounts held by foreign nonresident natural or juridical persons and Moroccans residing abroad are freely convertible.

Approval required No.
Nonresident foreigners with funds deemed nontransferable under the exchange regulations may deposit them in convertible term accounts at authorized intermediary banks. Funds from these accounts may be transferred within four years at a rate of 25% a year. Holders of convertible term accounts and those acquiring them, including Moroccans residing abroad, may use these funds freely for domestic expenditures in dirhams, including investment. Investments financed from the accounts are covered by the convertibility arrangements for a period of two years from the date of the investment.

Importers may make advance payments of up to 30% of the total import value of goods (50% for companies operating in the aeronautical and space sector). Importers may make advance payments of up to 30% of the total value of the import of services (up to 50% of the price invoiced for the cost of repairs and technical overhauls abroad of Moroccan fishing vessels or ships).

Effective January 14, 2019, the ceiling for the advance payment of imports of goods was harmonized and the advance payment of the total amount of imports was authorized for categorized companies. Importers of goods are authorized to pay in advance for the import of goods in the following cases: (1) up to the foreign currency equivalent of DH 200,000, regardless of the nature of the goods to be imported; (2) up to 100% of the amount invoiced for imports of goods to be carried out by companies that have been categorized by the FEO and the General Directorate of Tax or by the FEO and the Customs and Indirect Taxes Administration; (3) up to DH 1 million for companies in the aeronautics and space industries sector registered with the FEO; and (4) up to the value of the second-hand equipment acquired at auctions, on presentation of an invoice or any document in lieu thereof, drawn up by the foreign company that organizes these sales and stipulating the obligation to pay before the equipment is collected.

The importation of services was redefined to include all services rendered to a resident by a nonresident in Morocco. These services may be rendered in Morocco or abroad. The provision of training, expertise, and analysis services of all kinds may be provided abroad. The ceiling for advance payment by importers of services was increased. They may make advance payments before the delivery of the service when it is so stipulated in the commercial contract: (1) up to the foreign currency equivalent regardless of the imported service and (2) up to the amount invoiced, in the case of equipment repairs (including aircraft) or the processing of products temporarily exported abroad and related incidental costs.

Previously, importers could make advance payments for (1) goods, up to 30% of the total import value; (2) software worth at least DH 50,000, up to 50%; (3) software worth less than DH 50,000, up to 100%; (4) used capital goods acquired at auction, up to 100%; and (5) goods such as industrial molds, servers, and telecommunications equipment manufactured specifically for Moroccan companies and used abroad, up to 100%. There was no option to make advance payments for the importation of goods up to DH 200,000. Importers... could pay for imports before the due date in a commercial contract without requiring the foreign supplier to provide a discount of at least 3%. The rules governing payments for imports by operators in the aeronautics and space industries stipulated that these operators could pay in advance for imports of up to DH 1 million (Article 245), make a down payment of up to 50% of the total value of the imports (Article 242), and settle the full amount before entry of the merchandise in Morocco, based solely on the final invoice and shipping documents. Importers could pay in advance for imports of goods, within the following limits: (1) DH 100,000 irrespective of the type of merchandise to be imported and (2) DH 200,000 for merchandise imported under customs arrangements involving temporary importation for inward processing with payment, and capital goods as defined by the Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System.

Effective January 1, 2020, service importers were permitted to make advance payments before the services are provided, when such payments are provided in the commercial agreement: within the limit of the equivalent of DH 200,000 in foreign exchange regardless of the service that is imported.

Effective January 14, 2019, the domiciliation requirement for service import operations was abolished.

For imports of goods, an import security must be obtained by the importer and domiciled at an authorized bank to cover payment for goods and related fees. This domiciliation is not required for imports that do not involve payments.

The import security for the purchase of goods for noncommercial use such as books, periodicals, and technical and scientific documentation by residents for their own use is also waived if the purchase value does not exceed DH 20,000.

Importers in the aeronautics and space industries may domicile a single import commitment for imports from various suppliers in one or several countries.

Resident individuals may make Internet transactions involving imports of goods and services by using an international credit card, up to DH 10,000 for each calendar year.

Effective January 1, 2020, the electronic trade allowance for individuals was increased from DH 10,000 to DH 15,000.

Except for goods imported by air or by post, insurance policies for imports must be taken out with insurance companies in Morocco. For certain groups of goods, however, insurance policies may be underwritten abroad. This group includes: (1) externally financed imports if the terms include foreign insurance; (2) capital goods and equipment under turnkey contracts; (3) crude oil, gas, heifers, and wood; (4) imports whose risk cannot be covered by insurance and reinsurance companies established in Morocco; and (5) imports under free trade agreements for risk that may or may not be covered by insurance and reinsurance companies established in Morocco. Importers may, as part of their import operations, contract insurance in foreign currency with insurance and reinsurance companies established in Morocco when these contracts are signed by or on behalf of nonresidents or when the regulations authorize the underwriting of insurance abroad. Payments for discrepancies arising from the ullage of petroleum products and derivatives and payments of imports by a third party in lieu of the initial importer have been liberalized. Liberalization measures have been implemented to allow free settlement of the following transactions: (1) settlements of differentials noted between the amounts on bills of lading and those imputed by the customs services for grains, mining products, and chemicals; (2) settlements related to variations in content for the liquidation of sugar, oil, and mineral imports; (3) settlements of general average contributions for ships transporting merchandise to Morocco; and (4) settlements for disputed claims related to imports.

Effective January 14, 2019, payments for imports made in connection with sales exhibitions are subject to FEO authorization. Resident individuals may make Internet transactions involving imports of goods and services by using an international credit card, up to DH 10,000.

Effective January 1, 2020, the electronic trade allowance for individuals was increased from DH 10,000 to DH 15,000.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

Yes. There is no obligation to sign an export declaration (titre d’exportation) for any freely exportable product or merchandise. Export proceeds must be repatriated within 150 days of customs declaration. Effective January 14, 2019, the deadline for repatriating the export proceeds from goods sold on consignment was also set at 150 days (previously 180 days). The repatriation requirement does not apply to exports of goods involving no payment, which includes (1) noncommercial goods with a value less than or equal to DH 10,000; (2) samples whose value is less than or equal to DH 20,000; (3) pharmaceuticals, documents, and promotional materials shipped in connection with free samples up to 3% of the value of medications to be exported with payment, provided they are shipped simultaneously with the pharmaceuticals to be exported with payment; (4) toxic waste for disposal abroad; (5) goods shipped temporarily under economic customs arrangements; (6) goods shipped to make up for missing items or replace defective merchandise; (7) goods returned to the Moroccan exporter for additional work; (8) goods previously imported, recognized as not conforming to the order or defective, on presentation to customs of a bank certificate stating that no payment has been or will be made under the pertinent import commitment; (9) products shipped for tests and analyses by foreign laboratories; and (10) books, reviews, periodicals, and journals imported and not sold.

Proceeds from exports may be collected abroad and used directly to finance imports of goods and raw materials needed to manufacture goods for exportation. Exporters of goods may freely extend commercial credits to nonresidents for up to 150 days. Credits with longer terms may be granted FEO approval, if justified by commercial necessity. Exporters and authorized intermediary banks may extend supplier and buyer credits to foreign customers for up to 85% of the value of exported goods or works and of the provision of services abroad. These credits may be short or medium term for all categories of goods and services and long term for capital goods (repayment up to eight years).

Surrender requirements

Yes.

Surrender to the central bank

No.

Surrender to authorized dealers

Yes. Foreign exchange must be surrendered within one month of payment by the foreign buyer. In principle, this date must not be more than 150 days from the date of the shipment of goods. This deadline may be extended if warranted by business conditions and approved by the FEO. Exporters of goods and services may hold up to 70% of their export earnings in convertible dirham or foreign exchange accounts. Exporters of goods and services in the aeronautics and space industries may hold up to 85% of export earnings in convertible dirham or foreign exchange accounts. Exporters of goods may grant their foreign clients a discount of up to 5% of the invoice price for reasons such as late delivery, contribution to packaging, rebates on turnover, missing or defective items, or payments in cash. Exporters of goods in the aeronautics and space industries may grant their foreign clients a discount of up to 10% of the invoice price for reasons such as late delivery, contribution to packaging, rebates on turnover, missing or defective items, or payments in cash.

Authorized banks may make payments for: (1) fees relating to international trade transactions, transportation, services, technical assistance, income from capital (including interest and dividends), and wages; (2) transfers of amounts owed to foreign suppliers for international business transactions (purchases of goods and services abroad for direct sale to foreign customers) conducted by Moroccan corporations or individuals; and (3) transfers for services by nonresidents at call centers in Morocco, such as rental of specialized lines or satellite segments, use of telephone lines abroad, etc.
Effective January 14, 2019, the importation of services was redefined to include all services rendered to a resident by a nonresident in Morocco. These services may be rendered in Morocco or abroad. The provision of training, expertise, and analysis services of all kinds may be provided abroad.
Entities with CFC status may transfer funds for foreign technical assistance expenses and services by foreign contractors and for the following: (1) subsidiaries’ share of expenses incurred by their parent company, such as management and headquarters’ expenses, royalties, and research and development expenses relating to the activity of entities with CFC status; (2) expenses billed by the parent company, including those relating to personnel; and (3) expenses relating to services shared by subsidiaries and parent companies, such as... information technology (IT)-related expenses, human resource management costs, expenses relating to accounting/finance services, and training expenses.

Authorized intermediaries may transfer to the account of entities with CFC status remuneration owed in connection with management fees. Clarification of provisions governing outlays associated with the transfer of personnel by a parent company specifies that these outlays refer to fees billed to entities with CFC status in connection with the transfer of foreign personnel or Moroccans residing abroad transferred to the Moroccan subsidiary. These outlays include wages, payroll taxes, expatriation allowances, and other incidental costs such as those for housing, airline tickets, travel, etc., paid abroad for the benefit or the account of such personnel.

International courier services have been liberalized.

International messaging services refer to services performed under an agreement between a Moroccan international messaging company and its nonresident partner, entailing (1) collection of mail and parcels delivered by customers established in Morocco and their shipment abroad through the nonresident partner’s network and (2) receipt of mail and parcels originating abroad via the nonresident partner’s network and their distribution to recipients in Morocco.

Operators in the aeronautics and space industries may settle several types of services, including contributions to the research programs of their parent companies, access to IT systems, and miscellaneous administrative and management services and transfer payments to parent companies for separation of foreign, expatriate, or transferred personnel.

Payments for freight, unloading, and storage are not restricted. Importers may pay for overweight freight charges in amounts not exceeding 10% of the amount initially stated in the commercial contract, as well as any penalty for late shipment or landing of the goods. Representation and brokerage charges of exports of goods and services may be settled for up to 10% of their value. Rental fees for stands and exhibitor fees for fairs and exhibitions abroad by residents without a foreign exchange or a convertible dirham account may be transferred by authorized intermediaries on presentation of an invoice or fee slip signed by the organizer of the fair or exhibition.

Costs related to consignment sales may be settled directly by deduction from the selling price of the goods sold on consignment, including such costs as commissions, transit charges, handling charges, customs duty, packaging and repackaging costs, warehousing and storage fees, expert costs, analysis or sampling fees, destruction expenses in case of damage, costs for advertising and promotion incurred by foreign commission merchants and purchasing cooperatives, costs of transportation to or from Morocco, and costs incurred by foreign consignees for marketing goods sold on consignment (fresh fruit and vegetables, citrus fruits, flowers, fishing products). Authorized intermediaries may also freely transfer funds returned by the General Treasury for the VAT on bills of purchase in Morocco collected by diplomatic and consular representatives and representatives of international public organizations and their foreign staff.

Insurance underwriting for commercial transactions is carried out in accordance with insurance regulations. The regulatory framework governing insurance and reinsurance operations lists the foreign currency operations eligible for insurance in Morocco and authorizes economic operators to contract insurance with insurance and reinsurance companies abroad. The foreign currency operations for which economic operators may contract insurance denominated in foreign currency with insurance and reinsurance companies in Morocco are as follows: (1) imports and exports, when the related contracts are signed by or on behalf of nonresidents; (2) merchandise shipments from a foreign country or a free trade zone in Morocco to a foreign country within the framework of international business transactions initiated by resident operators; (3) exports not involving payments; (4) risk in free trade and offshore areas established in the national territory; (5) aviation risk (hull and civil liability); and (6) “contractor’s all risk” operations, when the insured party is a nonresident. The foreign currency operations for which insurance may be contracted with foreign insurance and reinsurance companies are as follows: (1) mandatory insurance for which coverage cannot be found with insurance and reinsurance companies in Morocco; (2) aviation and maritime and transportation insurance, including international road transportation (hull and cargo), whether or not covered by insurance and reinsurance companies in Morocco; (3) import insurance related to payment for certain goods (crude oil, gas, and diesel fuel; heifers; wood; goods imported by air or by post; externally financed imports if the terms include foreign insurance) whose import certificate is expressed in c.i.f. value and for which the importer is required to accept insurance abroad; and (4) premiums payable by Moroccan ship owners to foreign associations as coverage for certain risks related to the development of their shipping company that cannot be covered by insurance and reinsurance companies in Morocco. Moroccan businesses with construction contracts abroad may transfer up to 20% of the contract amount to defray their initial expenses and liberalized transfers for technical assistance required for the performance of contracts abroad. The regulatory framework for international transport is set out in the 2019 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations. Effective January 1, 2019, the regime applicable to international transport was reorganized with the aim of simplification, through the creation of a single “international transport account” account, to record all transactions carried out with the same foreign partner.

Investment-related payments
Yes. Since 1992, income generated by foreign investments in Morocco is freely transferable, without limitation in amount and duration, when the investments are financed in foreign currency. This income is freely transferable to nonresident foreigners, even in the absence of foreign currency financing.

Yes. Limits vary by the type of journey. Tourism allowance: Effective January 1, 2020, the ceiling on the tourism allowance was changed to DH 200,000 and the indexation rate for the income tax supplement was changed to 25%, with the option of carrying the unused portion forward once to the next year. The amount of the tourism allowance was previously, effective January 1, 2019, DH 45,000 that could be increased by a supplement equal to 10% of income tax. The overall amount of the tourism allowance may not exceed DH 100,000 a person and a calendar year. Previously, the allowance was DH 40,000 a person a year. An additional allowance of DH 20,000 could be granted for a minor child accompanying a parent during travel abroad on the passport of the beneficiary parent. Religious travel allowance: DH 15,000 a person a calendar year for Umrah pilgrimage; DH 15,000 a person a calendar year for the Hajj pilgrimage; an additional DH 20,000 for the staff of the travel agency accompanying pilgrims, per accompanying person a trip.

Business travel allowance: 100% of the amount of corporate or income tax (for companies subject to that tax) paid by the companies and subsidiaries, referred to in Article 105, in the past fiscal year, up to DH 500,000 a calendar year; 100% of the amount of income tax for individuals engaged in professional activity, as referred to in Article 105, in the past fiscal year, up to DH 100,000 a calendar year; DH 60,000 for companies that paid corporate tax of less than DH 60,000, those exempt from corporate tax, and Moroccan micro-credit associations or associations deemed to be in the public interest, Moroccan cooperatives and professional federations.

Effective January 14, 2019, cooperatives and professional federations also benefit from the DH 60,000 allowance for business travel. Larger allowances may be approved by the FEO on proof of need. The allowances for specific business travel may not be added to other allowances, except for the tourism allowance.

Effective January 1, 2020, cooperatives subject to corporation tax have the option of benefiting from a business travel allowance of 100% of the amount of tax paid, with a ceiling of DH 500,000. Previously, it was a lump sum of DH 60,000.

For a given trip, the tourism allowance may be combined, in whole or in part, with any other foreign exchange allowances under a general or special FEO authorization. The same allowance for tourism travel may also be granted to Moroccan nationals living abroad. Foreign residents who wish to travel abroad may be granted the foreign exchange equivalent of all their income savings. Moroccans and foreign nationals residing in Morocco and Moroccans residing abroad are eligible for a foreign exchange allowance equivalent to DH 15,000 for umra (lesser pilgrimage) travel. Allowances for tourism and umra travel may be delivered in whole or in part, by subrogation, to Moroccan travel agencies approved by the Ministry of Tourism for tourism, family, cultural, or private travel abroad by means of an individual or group check or by transfer to foreign service providers.

With regard to tourism and religious travel, (1) pilgrims may make advance payment of living expenses if required by contractual provisions; (2) pilgrims may purchase foreign exchange for personal expenses; (3) travel agencies may, in case of overrun of their allowances, use funds in their convertible dirham and/or foreign-currency-denominated accounts to cover the expenses of pilgrims and their travel companions; and (4) intermediaries may issue securities guaranteeing the settlement of services to be provided to pilgrims and their travel companions on behalf of Saudi service providers, at the request and on behalf of travel agencies organizing Hajj trips. Business travel by exporters of goods and services may be financed without restriction by debiting foreign exchange or convertible dirham accounts in Moroccan banks. For business travel other than by exporters of goods and services, a tax criterion is used to determine the maximum business travel allowance banks may provide to individuals and legal entities for companies without

Licensed banks may provide foreign exchange allowances to Moroccans for travel abroad for medical treatment, up to the equivalent of DH 30,000 a trip, and may make transfers, without restriction, on patients’ behalf for treatment abroad to hospitals and medical institutions. Licensed banks are also authorized to transfer sums relating to the purchase of medicine, medical supplies, and medical tests by foreign laboratories. Banks may make transfers for study abroad as follows:

1. an annual departure allowance equivalent to DH 25,000, paid in one or several installments;
2. allowances for living expenses of up to DH 10,000 a month. Transfers may be higher on presentation of supporting documents, with the possibility of making advance transfers for up to twelve months;
3. for the corresponding rents and charges (trustee fees, taxes, and fees related to the conclusion of the lease): up to the amount indicated in the required documents;
4. for tuition and fees: up to the amount indicated in the required documents.

Effective January 14, 2019, students may benefit from additional transfers for living expenses and rent for the year following the end of their studies.

Banks are authorized to transfer the repayment of student loans contracted with foreign banks and the costs of visits abroad for language-learning purposes. To cover the costs of internships and missions abroad, banks may sell foreign exchange to staff of public agencies, local governments, public institutions and enterprises, and foreign institutions or organizations up to the amount allocated by their employers, or up to DH 2,000 a day, within an overall limit of DH 20,000 a trip, if the mission order does not cover the costs of the mission or the internship. The allowance of DH 20,000 for the father, mother, or guardian of a minor student leaving Morocco for the first time and the allowance for acquisition of computer hardware among the facilities granted for study travel abroad were eliminated.

Medical personnel in public agencies, local governments, and public institutions and enterprises wishing to attend professional events abroad may also purchase foreign exchange. If the costs of the mission or internship are borne in full by the traveler, banks may provide DH 2,000 a day up to DH 20,000 a trip. Banks may transfer funds to cover immigration application fees. The immigration allowance was discontinued effective January 14, 2019. Requests for additional amounts require FEO approval, which is granted on presentation of supporting documents. Banks may transfer funds for family assistance up to DH 10,000 a year.

Foreign workers’ wages No. Foreigners residing in Morocco and employed in either the private or public sector or engaged in industrial, commercial, agricultural, or certain other professions may transfer all their income. They may also freely contribute to pension or social security funds in their countries of origin. These arrangements apply equally to Moroccans’ foreign spouses. Commercial banks are authorized to transfer pensions paid by government or private organizations to retirees residing permanently abroad. In addition, retired foreigners and Moroccans’ foreign spouses may transfer their entire pensions. They may also transfer severance benefits paid by their Moroccan employers by order of a Moroccan court. Authorized banks may make payments for after-tax earnings of foreign or Moroccan artists residing abroad who are invited to exhibit or perform in Morocco, and transfers of prize money won at film festivals.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. Issuance of capital market securities by nonresidents is subject to authorization. There are, however, no restrictions on the sale of Moroccan securities by nonresidents. Proceeds from such sales may be transferred freely, provided the relevant purchases are financed by foreign exchange inflows or other comparable means. In other cases, the proceeds must be deposited in a convertible dirham account and may be transferred abroad over a four-year period.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

Purchases of foreign securities by Moroccan residents and transfers of the funds required for such purchases are subject to FEO approval. Authorized banks may transfer funds on behalf of resident corporations in operation for at least three years to purchase shares in existing companies, up to DH 100 million a calendar year for investment in Africa and DH 50 million for other continents. The investment must relate to the usual activity of the resident corporation. Resident foreigners may purchase securities and other funds, provided these purchases are financed from their foreign exchange holdings abroad or from their foreign exchange accounts or convertible dirham accounts.

Moroccan firms in which a foreign company’s share is over 50% may enter their resident active employees in “shareholder plans” issued by their parent company, up to 10% of annual pay net of income tax, social security contributions, and any other amount the employee is required to pay.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  Yes. Authorized intermediary banks may offer instruments to hedge against exchange, interest rate, and commodity price fluctuation risks only to resident operators.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes. Only Moroccan banks may offer instruments to hedge against exchange, interest rate, and commodity price fluctuation risks to operators.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes. Derivatives transactions must be based on real trade or financial transactions and may not be speculative. Economic agents may negotiate directly with international broker-dealers or through authorized banks to hedge against price fluctuation risk for certain commodities that are or may be traded on a secondary market. These transactions must take place through dedicated multicurrency accounts at Moroccan banks. Authorized banks may offer their customers options for exchanging dirhams and foreign currency and one foreign currency for another, to the exclusion of foreign instruments. To hedge against customer risk, authorized banks must have recourse to the local interbank market. If they are unable to find the appropriate hedging instrument in the local market, they may turn to the international market for foreign exchange hedging instruments. Hedging transactions must be backed by the foreign exchange options selected by customers. Authorized intermediary banks may also offer instruments to hedge against the risk of interest rate fluctuation to resident economic operators with foreign loans. Authorized banks may offer their customers forward cover for foreign exchange and may do so by borrowing or investing foreign exchange at the same maturities as the hedging operations. Authorized intermediaries may also sign, on their own behalf or on behalf of their customers (1) spot or forward contracts for foreign currency swaps, (2) swap contracts with their foreign correspondents, and (3) swap contracts for foreign exchange and dirhams, regardless of the maturity date, on behalf of Moroccan companies with concessional financing by foreign governments or public agencies or international development institutions.

For hedging against any risk inherent in any asset or debt, banks may conclude these transactions only on a proprietary basis or on behalf of certain institutional entities – credit institutions and similar entities, insurance companies, and collective investment funds (organismes de placement collectif en titrisation). Institutional investors were also allowed to cover capital transactions, such as investments made abroad by UCITS or insurance companies.

Resident enterprises may obtain loans abroad without limitation, provided they are backed by investment or foreign trade transactions. Repayment must be made from Morocco through the banking system.

Effective January 14, 2019, banks are authorized to issue bank guarantees and guarantees to residents to cover commitments made to nonresidents, when such commitments arise from current or capital transactions carried out in accordance with the provisions of the 2019 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations. Previously, Moroccan banks could issue sureties to nonresidents on behalf of residents for (1) participation of the latter in markets abroad (provision of goods or services); (2) refunds of down payments received from foreign customers; and (3) guarantees of loans and other financial instruments in accordance with foreign exchange regulations. Authorized intermediary banks could issue sureties for...
(1) substitution of a holdback corresponding to the portion payable in foreign currency under a public or private contract awarded to a nonresident; (2) guarantees of payment related to commitments to nonresidents for maritime transportation and certain road and air transport operations; (3) guarantees in favor of foreign banks granting medium- or long-term loans to nonresident foreigners and to Moroccans residing abroad, up to the total value of the property to be purchased; and (4) payment to foreign lenders of the foreign currency equivalent of the amounts received, within the framework of contracts to perform work and/or provide services fully or partly financed by foreign lenders, in lieu of the contract principals. Authorized intermediaries had to issue sureties on behalf of goods and services exporters guaranteeing payment in the context of transactions related to exports of goods and/or services. Authorized intermediary banks could issue outright surety or performance bonds for exporters of services in favor of nonresidents.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes.

Effective January 14, 2019, banks are authorized to issue or to accept bank guarantees and guarantees to nonresidents to cover commitments made to residents, when such commitments arise from current or capital transactions carried out in accordance with the provisions of the 2020 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations. Guarantees and sureties issued by Moroccan banks on behalf of a nonresident to a resident must be counter-secured by foreign banks. Previously, Moroccan banks could issue or accept, in favor of residents, sureties issued on behalf of nonresidents in support of the participation of those nonresidents in public or private contracting, the supply of goods and services, and the refund of down payments. They could also issue sureties on behalf of nonresidents in settlement of tax liabilities and financial obligations. A counter guarantee from a foreign bank was required for sureties issued by Moroccan banks on behalf of nonresidents. Sureties issued for the account of a nonresident in favor of a resident had to be counter guaranteed by a first-class bank abroad. When claims were entered under sureties issued or accepted in favor of residents on behalf of nonresidents, the proceeds had to be repatriated to Morocco.

Controls on direct investment

Yes.

Outward direct investment

Yes.

Outward direct investment is subject to FEO approval, but resident firms in operation for at least three years whose accounts have been certified by an external auditor may invest without authorization up to an annual maximum of DH 100 million for investment in Africa and DH 50 million for other continents. This investment must be related to the usual activity of the firm and may take various forms – for example, the establishment of new enterprises, equity participation in existing enterprises, the opening of representative or liaison offices, branches, etc. Investors may freely reinvest the proceeds from the sale or liquidation of their investments abroad. Resident foreigners may invest abroad, provided the operations are financed from their own funds abroad or from their holdings in convertible dirhams or foreign exchange. Financial enterprises having CFC status were allowed to engage in their outward investment operations: (1) with no requirements on the minimum number of activities (however, legal entities are required to show at least three years of minimum number of activities) and (2) with no restriction on the amount for the share subscribed for by nonresidents or resident aliens in the capital of investment funds having CFC status (the ceilings of DH 100 million and DH 50 million apply only to shares subscribed for by residents).
Inward direct investment
No.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment
No. There are no controls on transfers made directly through the banking system of the proceeds of the liquidation or sale of foreign investments, including capital gains, when such investment is financed by the sale of foreign exchange or by debit from a convertible dirham account in foreign currency.

Controls on real estate transactions
Yes. These operations are subject to the investment regulations.

Purchase abroad by residents

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial
Yes.
banks and other credit institutions

Borrowing abroad  Yes. Commercial banks may borrow abroad only to finance foreign trade or investment operations on behalf of customers or as part of the introduction of forward cover for customers' foreign exchange swaps, with maturities equal to the duration of the hedging operations offered.

Maintenance of accounts abroad  Yes. Banks may open and maintain accounts with their correspondents to effect outward payments and to manage hedging operations against price fluctuation risk for certain commodities. Authorized banks may deposit funds into accounts with banks in, effective January 1, 2019, other countries (previously in OECD, EU, and AMU member countries).

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)  Yes. Lending to nonresidents by Moroccan banks is subject to FEO approval. However, banks may grant loans to nonresident foreign individuals for the purchase or development of real estate in Morocco, up to 70% of the value of the real estate. Moroccans residing abroad are permitted such credits. Banks may use cash in foreign exchange accounts held by foreign nationals, Moroccan citizens residing abroad, and exporters for buyer credits to foreign customers to finance Moroccan exports.

Authorized intermediary banks may use funds from foreign exchange accounts opened in the names of exporters of goods and services, resident nationals, and resident and nonresident foreigners for their lines of credit to each other, especially for buyer credits to foreign customers of Moroccan exporters. Exporters and authorized intermediary banks may provide supplier credits or buyer credits to foreign customers for up to 85% of the value of exported goods or works and the provision of services abroad. These credits may be granted for a short or medium term for all categories of goods and services and for a long term for capital goods (repayment up to eight years).

Lending locally in foreign exchange  Yes. Effective January 14, 2019, banks are authorized to use the foreign currency held in foreign exchange accounts opened on their books for the purpose of granting loans to finance import, export, international trade and investment operations, and to finance the operational cycle of industrial companies located in EPZs located in Morocco.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange  Yes. These transactions are subject to FEO approval.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held in foreign exchange  Yes. Convertible dirham and foreign exchange accounts are excluded from reserve requirements.

Reserve requirements  Yes. Credit institutions must calculate this coefficient on the basis of accounting records of their head office in Morocco and, where applicable, of all their agencies and branches abroad.

Liquid asset requirements  No.

Interest rate controls  No.

Credit controls  Yes. Overdrafts are not permitted in foreign exchange accounts.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents  Yes. Overdrafts are not permitted in foreign exchange accounts.

Changes during 2019 and 2020

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

Stabilized arrangement  03/09/2020 The Ministry of Economy, Finance, and Government Reform, following the opinion from the Bank Al-Maghrib (BAM), decided to increase the fluctuation band for the dirham from +/-2.5% to +/-5% against the central rate established by the BAM based on a basket of currencies comprised of the euro and the US dollar, weighted, respectively, at 60% and 40%.

Official exchange rate  03/09/2020 The Bank Al-Maghrib set the limits for the exchange rate fluctuation bands around the central rate at +/-5% (previously +/-2.5%).

Foreign exchange market

Spot exchange market  03/09/2020 The Bank Al-Maghrib set the limits for the exchange rate fluctuation bands around the central rate at +/-5% (previously +/-2.5%).

Interbank market

Over the counter  01/14/2019 The emigration allowance provided through foreign exchange bureaus and cash transfer corporations authorized to conduct OTC transactions was discontinued.

01/01/2020 Payment institutions were permitted to grant electronic trade allowances to individuals.

03/09/2020 The Bank Al-Maghrib set the limit for the exchange rate for the exchange of foreign banknotes against the dirham at +/-7.5% (previously 5%) in relation to the central exchange rate.

Forward exchange market  01/01/2020 Operators may undertake hedging operations with justification that the outcome has been secured rather than the initiation of the hedge agreement for imports and exports of goods. This option of signing hedging agreements for imports and exports may be executed within the limit of 25% of the average value of imports carried out during the last three fiscal years and 100% of the average export turnover for the past three fiscal years.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes

On exports

- Foreign currency
  - 01/01/2020 Moroccan nationals resident abroad may repurchase and export 100% of the foreign exchange previously repatriated and transferred on the foreign exchange market within the limit of DH 100,000.

Resident Accounts

- Foreign exchange accounts permitted
  - Held domestically
    - 01/01/2019 Banks were authorized to open, on behalf of companies that do not have a foreign currency account – micro-credit associations, associations recognized as being of public utility, cooperatives and professional federations as well as individuals engaged in professional activity – and who benefit from a business travel allowance, a foreign currency or convertible dirham account for “business travel allowance” for the purpose of receiving the allowance.

- 01/19/2019 For hedging operations against the risk of commodity price fluctuation on behalf of Moroccan legal entities, banks are required to open foreign currency accounts on their books. Foreign currency accounts, dedicated to customer hedging transactions, must record all related financial flows, including the security deposit, daily margin calls, and premiums received or paid.

- 01/01/2020 Service exporters bidding for foreign contracts have the option of opening foreign exchange accounts in Morocco dedicated to the settlement of expenditure in connection with such contracts.

- 01/01/2020 Resident individuals having revenue from foreign sources may place up to 70% of such revenue in an account in foreign exchange or in convertible dirhams to be opened with Moroccan banks.

- Approval required
  - 01/19/2019 Approval is not required for Moroccan legal entities that have subscribed to hedging instruments against commodity price fluctuation risks.

- Held abroad
  - 01/01/2019 The General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations no longer provides the geographic limit for outward investments. The limit is under the authority of the Financial Market Regulation Authority of Morocco (AMMC). Previously, the limit included OECD, EU, and AMU member countries.

- 01/14/2019 In addition to UCITS, authorized banks may transfer funds for investment purposes as deposits to foreign banks on behalf of Capital Investment Organizations (Organisme de Placement Collectif en Capital – OPCCs) for up to 10% of their net assets for dirham-denominated subscriptions. At the same time, for both UCITS and OPCCs investments abroad were allowed up to 100% of collected subscriptions in foreign currencies.

- Approval required
  - 01/14/2019 Foreign Exchange Office approval is no longer required for the opening of foreign currency accounts in foreign banks for companies holding contracts abroad. These accounts may credit the amounts of advances transferred, revenue for services rendered abroad under contracts, and debit the amounts of expenditure incurred abroad in the execution of these contracts and transfers to Morocco.

- Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency
  - 01/01/2019 Banks were authorized to open, on behalf of companies that do not have a foreign currency account – micro-credit associations, associations recognized as being of public utility, cooperatives and professional federations as well as individuals engaged in professional activity – and who benefit from a business travel allowance, a foreign currency or convertible dirham account for “business travel allowance” for the purpose of receiving the allowance.
Nonresident Accounts

The authorization for nonresident foreigners to hold dirham-denominated accounts called “special accounts” was extended to nonresident foreign individuals who have outstanding dirham-denominated loans with Moroccan banks.

Imports and Import Payments

The ceiling for the advance payment of imports of goods was harmonized and the advance payment of the total amount of imports was authorized for categorized companies. Importers of goods are authorized to pay in advance for the import of goods in the following cases: (1) up to the foreign currency equivalent of DH 200,000, regardless of the nature of the goods to be imported; (2) up to 100% of the amount invoiced for imports of goods to be carried out by companies that have been categorized by the Foreign Exchange Office (FEO) and the General Directorate of Tax or by the FEO and the Customs and Indirect Taxes Administration; (3) up to DH 1 million for companies in the aeronautics and space industries sector registered with the FEO; and (4) up to the value of the second-hand equipment acquired at auctions, on presentation of an invoice or any document in lieu thereof, drawn up by the foreign company that organizes these sales and stipulating the obligation to pay before the equipment is collected.

The importation of services was redefined to include all services rendered to a resident by a nonresident in Morocco. These services may be rendered in Morocco or abroad. The provision of training, expertise, and analysis services of all kinds may be provided abroad. The ceiling for advance payment by importers of services was increased. They may make advance payments before the delivery of the service when it is so stipulated in the commercial contract: (1) up to the foreign currency equivalent of DH 100,000, regardless of the imported service and (2) up to the amount invoiced, in the case of equipment repairs (including aircraft) or the processing of products temporarily exported abroad and related incidental costs.

Previously, importers could make advance payments for (1) goods, up to 30% of the total import value; (2) software worth at least DH 50,000, up to 50%; (3) software worth less than DH 50,000, up to 100%; (4) used capital goods acquired at auction, up to 100%; and (5) goods such as industrial molds, servers, and telecommunications equipment manufactured specifically for Moroccan companies and used abroad, up to 100%. There was no option to make advance payments for the importation of goods up to DH 200,000. Importers could pay for imports before the due date in a commercial contract without requiring the foreign supplier to provide a discount of at least 3%. The rules governing payments for imports by operators in the aeronautics and space industries stipulated that these operators could pay in advance for imports of up to DH 1 million (Article 245), make a down payment of up to 50% of the total value of the imports (Article 242), and settle the full amount before entry of the merchandise in Morocco, based solely on the final invoice and shipping documents. Importers could pay in advance for imports of goods, within the following limits: (1) DH 100,000 irrespective of the type of merchandise to be imported and (2) DH 200,000 for merchandise imported under customs arrangements involving temporary importation for inward processing with payment, and capital goods as defined by the Harmonized Commodity Description... and Coding System.

Service importers were permitted to make advance payments before the services are provided, when such payments are provided in the commercial agreement: within the limit of the equivalent of DH 200,000 in foreign exchange regardless of the service that is imported.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports

- Domiciliation requirements 01/14/2019
  - The domiciliation requirement for service import operations was abolished.
- Other 01/01/2020
  - The electronic trade allowance for individuals was increased from DH 10,000 to DH 15,000.

Repatriation requirements 01/14/2019
- The deadline for repatriating the export proceeds from goods sold on consignment was set at 150 days (previously 180 days).

Exports and Export Proceeds

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers

- Trade-related payments 01/14/2019
  - The importation of services was redefined to include all services rendered to a resident by a nonresident in Morocco. These services may be rendered in Morocco or abroad. The provision of training, expertise, and analysis services of all kinds may be provided abroad.

Indicative limits/bona fide test 01/01/2019
- The regime applicable to international transport was reorganized with the aim of simplification, through the creation of a single “international transport account” account, to record all transactions carried out with the same foreign partner.

Payments for travel

Quantitative limits 01/01/2019
- The travel allowance was increased to DH 45,000 which may be increased by a supplement equal to 10% of income tax. The overall amount of the tourism allowance may not exceed DH 100,000 a person and a calendar year. Previously, the allowance was DH 40,000 a person a year. An additional allowance of DH 20,000 could be granted for a minor child accompanying a parent during travel abroad on the passport of the beneficiary parent.

01/14/2019
- Cooperatives and professional federations may benefit from the DH 60,000 allowance for business travel.

01/01/2020
- The ceiling on the tourism allowance was changed to DH 200,000 and the indexation rate for the income tax supplement was changed to 25%, with the option of carrying the unused portion forward once to the next year. The amount of the tourism allowance was previously DH 45,000 that could be increased by a supplement equal to 10% of income tax. The overall amount of the tourism allowance may not exceed DH 100,000 a person and a calendar year.

01/01/2020
- Cooperatives subject to corporation tax have the option of benefiting from a business travel allowance of 100% of the amount of tax paid, with a ceiling of DH 500,000. Previously, it was a lump sum of DH 60,000.

Indicative limits/bona fide test

Personal payments 01/14/2019
- The emigration allowance was discontinued.

Indicative limits/bona fide test 01/14/2019
- Students may benefit from additional transfers for living expenses.
and rent for the year following the end of their studies. The immigration allowance was discontinued.

Credit card use abroad

01/14/2019 Banks may issue credit cards without restriction to drivers for the payment of vehicle-related expenses (International Road Transport) and travel expenses.

01/14/2019 Startups listed by the Digital Development Agency may pay, by international payment card, for services up to DH 500,000.

01/01/2020 The electronic trade allowance for individuals was increased from DH 10,000 to DH 15,000.

Controls on credit operations

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

By residents to nonresidents

01/14/2019

Banks were authorized to issue bank guarantees and guarantees to residents to cover commitments made to nonresidents, when such commitments arise from current or capital transactions carried out in accordance with the provisions of the 2019 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations. Previously, Moroccan banks could issue sureties to nonresidents on behalf of residents for (1) participation of the latter in markets abroad (provision of goods or services); (2) refunds of down payments received from foreign customers; and (3) guarantees of loans and other financial instruments in accordance with foreign exchange regulations. Authorized intermediary banks could issue sureties for (1) substitution of a holdback corresponding to the portion payable in foreign currency under a public or private contract awarded to a nonresident; (2) guarantees of payment related to commitments to nonresidents for maritime transportation and certain road and air transport operations; (3) guarantees in favor of foreign banks granting medium- or long-term loans to nonresident foreigners and to Moroccans residing abroad, up to the total value of the property to be purchased; and (4) payment to foreign lenders of the foreign currency equivalent of the amounts received, within the framework of contracts to perform work and/or provide services fully or partly financed by foreign lenders, in lieu of the contract principals. Authorized intermediaries had to issue sureties on behalf of goods and services exporters guaranteeing payment in the context of commitments to nonresidents when such commitments were derived from transactions related to exports of goods and/or services. Authorized intermediary banks could issue outright surety or performance bonds for exporters of services in favor of nonresidents.

To residents from nonresidents

Banks were authorized to issue or to accept bank guarantees and guarantees to residents to cover commitments made to nonresidents, when such commitments arise from current or capital transactions carried out in accordance with the provisions of the 2019 General Instruction on Foreign Exchange Operations. Guarantees and sureties issued by Moroccan banks on behalf of a nonresident to a resident must be counter-secured by foreign banks. Previously, Moroccan banks could issue or accept, in favor of residents, sureties issued on behalf of nonresidents in support of the participation of those nonresidents in public or private contracting, the supply of goods and services, and the refund of down payments. They could also issue sureties on behalf of nonresidents in settlement of tax liabilities and financial obligations. A counter guarantee from a foreign bank was required for sureties issued by Moroccan banks on behalf of nonresidents. Sureties issued for the account of a nonresident in favor of a resident had to be counter guaranteed by a first-class bank abroad. When claims were entered under sureties issued or accepted in favor of residents on behalf of nonresidents, the proceeds had to be repatriated to Morocco.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are classified as floating. As a major conduit for foreign aid flows, the Bank of Mozambique (BM) is the main channel for foreign exchange into the market. It also intervenes to smooth seasonal fluctuations. For its transactions in Mozambique’s interbank foreign exchange market (MCI), the BM uses the quotes shown on the screen for each commercial bank.

The official (benchmark) market exchange rate is calculated as the simple average of the exchange rates quoted daily by commercial banks at three moments in the day: 9:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 3:30 p.m.
The monetary policy regime is based on the interest rate as an operating target. The monetary policy interest rate is called the interbank money market rate (MIMO rate). The framework is considered transitory until the adoption of an explicit inflation-targeting regime and has as main characteristics: (1) MIMO rate as a signaling rate to the market of the BM monetary policy stance; (2) the MIMO rate is defined based on the analysis of the domestic and international recent macroeconomic development, as well as the inflation projections, weighted to its associated risks; (3) the MIMO rate is fixed within the corridor formed by the interest rate of the Standing Lending Facility and Deposit Standing Facility; (4) the bank manages very short liquidity through repo and reverse repo overnight operations, to ensure that the interest rate of the transactions contracted in the interbank market for this period fluctuates around the MIMO rate; and (5) for the management of longer-term liquidity, the bank uses reverse repo operations of 7 up to 364 days and the issuance of BT of 91, 182, and 364 days, as well as the adjustment of the coefficient and period of compliance with the reserve requirement.

ADs may trade freely with their customers. The maximum bid-ask spread is 2%, excluding the commissions charged by the banks on foreign exchange transactions.

Commercial banks, MCI participants, and exchange bureaus can establish operations with customers at freely negotiated rates. Negotiated transactions between the BM and commercial banks have a spot-value date (up to two business days). Fifteen banks and 14 foreign exchange bureaus are authorized to buy and sell foreign exchange. The BM grants licenses to deal in foreign exchange. The establishment of foreign exchange bureaus is subject to authorization by the BM. Foreign exchange bureaus may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the BM, and they may not make foreign currency payments or transfers on behalf of their clients. Foreign exchange bureaus may maintain accounts abroad subject to authorization by the BM.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No. The MCI regulations are currently being revised with a view to introducing foreign exchange auctions.

Fixing Yes. Interbank market operations and operations with the BM are carried out using the BM’s software. All US dollar–metical buying and selling quotes of banks authorized to operate in the MCI are shown on a screen. The quotes may be adjusted as many times a day as necessary during MCI operating hours, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The average official exchange rate of the day is set at 3:30 p.m. (close of business). All operations between the banks and the BM are based on the exchange rates shown on the screen. The exchange rate used for accounting and valuation purposes is the benchmark rate, calculated at 3:30 p.m. on each business day.

Interbank market Yes. Commercial banks may engage in interbank transactions through the MCI. Exchange bureaus may not participate in the MCI. Fifteen commercial banks participate in this market. The BM stipulates a maximum bid-ask spread of 20 cents for transactions between commercial banks and a maximum bid-ask spread of 2% for commercial banks’ transactions with customers. The BM intervenes in the MCI at prices quoted by the commercial banks through the BM’s application software (Meticalnet). The BM is a price taker. As of end-2019, there were 15 banks participating in the interbank foreign exchange market.

Over the counter No.

Brokerage No.

Market making Yes. Commercial banks participating in the MCI must adhere to a code of conduct and honor up to one firm quote of US$50,000 a day. The maximum spread between the foreign exchange buying and selling rates is set by the BM. Within these limits, commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates in interbank transactions. The maximum spread between buying and selling rates is set by the BM and communicated to market participants, which implies that rates are based exclusively on market criteria determined by participating institutions.

Forward exchange market Yes. Commercial banks may carry out spot transactions. The use of this market is not common. The BM does not carry out forward exchange transactions.

Official cover of forward operations No.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices
Yes. The IMF staff report for the 2018 Article IV Consultation with Myanmar states that, as of February 25, 2019, Myanmar continues to avail itself of transitional arrangements under Article XIV, although it has eliminated all Article XIV restrictions. Myanmar has made significant progress toward satisfying Article VIII obligations. However, Myanmar maintains an MCP subject to the IMF’s jurisdiction under Article VIII, Section 3. The authorities have removed the exchange restriction arising from the tax certification requirement for transfers of net investment income abroad by revising the relevant provision in the new investment law and rules and by confirming that the practice conforms to the new provision. (Country Report No. 19/100)

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
Yes. In accordance with the provisions under the Counter-Terrorism Law enacted in June 2014, the Central Committee of Counter Terrorism released the Order Nos. 1/2015 and 3/2015 in relation to the freezing and prohibition of assets and financial resources of those persons involved in international terrorism or groups associated with terrorism. Following these orders, the Central Bank of Myanmar (CBM) issued letters to banks and nonbank financial institutions (NBFIs) to comply with provisions under the Counter-Terrorism Law. After the enactment of the Counter-Terrorism Law, the CBM issued Instruction No. 6/2014 of October 3, 2014, Letter No. MaBaBa/BRD/AML/CFT (14/2015) of November 27, 2015, and Letter No. MaBaBa/BRD/AML/CFT (7/2016) of January 29, 2016, to banks and NBFIs. According to the name list of persons involved in terrorism connected with Taliban or Al-Qaida designated as persons associated with terrorism by US Executive Order No. 13224, the UN 1267 Sanctions Committee forwarded by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Myanmar, US Embassy, Australian Embassy and through the UN website, the CBM issued seven letters in 2006, seven letters in 2007, nine letters in 2008, six letters in 2009, one letter in 2011, and two letters in 2013, respectively, to all state-owned banks and private banks to comply with the CBM Directive No. 2/2002 issued March 7, 2002, which required banks to freeze funds and other assets of and prohibit transactions with persons suspected to be involved in terrorism and organizations associated with terrorism to report these accounts related to such persons to the CBM. With reference to the Anti-Money Laundering Central Board’s letter, the Central Committee for Counter Terrorism issued the Freezing Order No. 3/2016 of May 19, 2016, with respect to freezing and prohibition of money, properties, and funds of those persons and organizations associated with terrorism including the ISIL, Taliban, and Al-Qaida groups and the groups associated with those groups connected with terrorism under the Sanctions list of the UNSC. Therefore, the CBM instructed state-owned banks, private banks, foreign bank branches, and finance companies to comply with the Order No. 3/2016 issued by the Central Committee for Counter Terrorism.

According to the UNSC Resolution Nos. 2270 (2016), 2371 (2017), 2375 (2017), and 2397 (2017), the CBM issued four letters in 2017 to all banks, NBFIs, and mobile financial services providers for freezing and prohibition of money, properties, and funds of the related persons and organizations of Democratic People’s Republic of Korea which are included in the freeze lists of the said resolutions. Moreover, the CBM has directed the aforesaid Institutions to take necessary due diligence on the information about the U.S. Department of the Treasury’s “Treasury acts to Increase Economic Pressure on North Korea and Protect the US Financial System” in 2017.

According to the UNSC Resolution Nos. 1267 (1999), 1989 (2011), 2253 (2015), and 2462 (2019), the CBM issued nine letters in 2019 to all banks, NBFIs, and mobile financial services providers for freezing and prohibition of money, properties, and funds of the related persons and organizations of ISIL (Da'esh) (Al-Qaida) which are included in the freeze lists of the said resolutions.

Following the Standing Order Nos. 1/2017 and 1/2018 of the Central Committee for Counter Terrorism, Countering the Financing of Terrorism Working Committee, the CBM had released two letters in 2017 and 2018 to all banks, NBFIs, and mobile financial services providers for freezing and prohibition of money, properties, and funds of Bengali Extremist Terrorists designated by the Central Committee for Counter Terrorism, Arakan Rohingya Salvation Army, and persons who are related to such persons and the name list of the Arakan Rohingya Salvation Army.

According to the Standing Order No. 3/2017 of the Central Committee for Counter Terrorism, Countering the Financing of Terrorism Working Committee, all banks, NBFIs, and mobile financial services providers are instructed to regularly update the UNSC’s list of persons and groups associated with terrorism and enhance customer due diligence to freeze and prohibit money, properties, and funds of the said persons involved in terrorism. In 2018, Myanmar FIU’s Directives in relation to high-risk and noncooperative jurisdictions were circulated to all banks, NBFIs, and mobile financial services providers to apply Enhanced Due Diligence (EDD) measures to business relationship and transactions with natural and legal persons, and financial institutions, from countries called for by the FATF.

Exchange Arrangement

- Currency: Yes. The currency of Myanmar is the Myanmar kyat.
- Other legal tender: No.
- Exchange rate structure: Unitary
The exchange rate structure is classified as multiple because of the MCP. The MCP results because the multiple price foreign exchange auction gives rise to multiple exchange rates at which successful bids are sold, which may differ by more than 2% as there is no mechanism in place to prevent such deviation.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is a managed float. The CBM has no predetermined target for the level of the kyat exchange rate and expects the value to fluctuate with supply and demand in the market. The CBM issued February 4, 2019, a formal regulation announcing the market-based exchange rate as the new reference rate. Indicative cross-rates for certain other currencies are based on Thomson Reuters and the IMF website. The CBM reserves the right to intervene to moderate excessive exchange rate volatility in the foreign exchange market. The de facto exchange rate regime is classified as other managed.

Effective February 5, 2019, the CBM computes and publishes the daily reference exchange rate based on transactions in the foreign exchange market in accordance with CBM Instruction No. 5/2019. The reference exchange rate is computed by assigning weights to the average rate between executed interbank foreign exchange transactions among AD banks, and the average rate of transactions between AD banks and their customers. This reference rate is an indicative rate, and participants in the foreign exchange market are not required to use it in their transactions. Previously, the reference exchange rate was determined at the foreign exchange auctions organized by the CBM. The cutoff rate in the CBM’s daily foreign exchange auction was used as the CBM reference exchange rate for that day’s trading. This reference rate was used to set the midrate in the retail money changer (MC) market, in the wholesale interbank market for ADs, and for foreign exchange transactions with the government.

Effective January 21, 2019, indicative cross-rates for certain other currencies are based on Thomson Reuters and the IMF website. Previously, indicative cross-rates were based on Thomson Reuters, Oanda.com, and the respective CBs.
The CBM has been exercising Reserve Money Targeting monetary policy framework. Under this framework, reserve money is the operational target and broad money is the intermediate target. Currently, the CBM is conducting deposit auction based on the moderate level of inflation. The CBM also stipulates the reserve requirement ratio for all banks to control the broader monetary conditions.

To boost and maintain the adequate level of liquidity in the system responding to the COVID-19 Pandemic impact, the CBM has temporarily suspended the deposit auction effective March 26, 2020, and lowered the minimum reserve requirement ratio for banks to 3.5% of customers’ deposits in Myanmar Currency (Myanmat kyat (MMK)) from 5%. Furthermore, to stimulate the country’s economic development, the CBM cut the bank rate three times: 50 basis points (bps) effective March 16, 2020, 100 bps effective April 1, 2020, and 150 bps effective May 1, 2020, respectively.

Exchange tax No.

Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes.

Spot exchange market Yes. The spot market consists of the retail MC counters and wholesale AD market, including foreign exchange auctions organized by the CBM. As of June 30, 2020, 24 private banks and 369 nonbank companies were licensed to carry out the money changing business. Of these private banks, 19 are also licensed as ADs and may conduct wholesale noncash transactions. In addition, three state banks and 13 foreign bank branches are licensed as ADs. Some state banks also have money changing counters. The Myanmar Foreign Trade Bank has three MC counters, the Myanmar Investment and Commercial Bank (MICB) maintains one MC counter, and the Myanmar Economic Bank (MEB) maintains three MC counters out of 22. The CBM abolished the trading band (reference rate ± 0.8%) for foreign exchange transactions in August 2018. Customers may buy or sell in the retail market up to US$10,000 or its equivalent in Singapore dollars (SGD), euros (EUR), Thai baht, and Malaysian ringgit without documentation. For larger amounts, documentation may be required.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction Yes. Effective November 18, 2019, one-way foreign exchange auction rules were adopted. Previously, the CBM conducted daily two-way multiple price auctions. All AD license banks can participate in the auction. Banks will be notified for the foreign exchange auction at least 30 minutes before the auction. The foreign exchange auction notification includes time and date of the auction, foreign currency, auction type, (buying/selling), auction volume, minimum and maximum exchange rates, settlement date, and bidding time. Currently, the auctions are conducted only in US dollars (USD).

Fixing No.
Interbank market

Yes.

Wholesale private banks authorized to deal in foreign exchange may settle foreign exchange transactions among themselves through foreign currency accounts abroad. ADs are allowed to offer larger noncash foreign exchange services to customers and to trade directly with each other in the AD market. Actual exchange rates quoted by wholesale foreign exchange interbank market are the prevailing market rates. Authorized private banks participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. Thus far, 34 banks have accessed the interbank market activities, and the turnover sees a prominent improvement. The CBM does not intervene with market participants in the interbank market.

The Foreign Exchange Management Law provides the legal framework for foreign exchange transactions supplemented by CBM regulations. The Paris Club creditors, in January 2013, agreed to write off 50% of all arrears (US$10 billion) and reschedule the remainder over 15 years with a seven-year grace period. The write-off is being phased in, with 25% after approval of the IMF Staff-Monitored Program and the remaining 75% on its successful completion. In February 2014, the Staff-Monitored Program was successfully completed with the support of the IMF. Under the Staff-Monitored Program, quantitative targets and structural benchmarks were met. Therefore, the second tranche of debt reduction went into effect in March 2014 to fulfill the 50% cancellation.

Companies owned by Myanmar citizens are allowed to undertake export and import of gold which are not international standard gold bullion, gold jewelry, and handicraft made by gold after receiving the approval from the concerned authority and obtaining export/import license in line with certain regulations of Notification No. 7/2018. Companies that trade international standard gold bullion should adhere to the regulation under the Foreign Exchange Management Law of the CBM.

Currency note can be exported in line with regulations under the Foreign Exchange Management Law. Myanmar residents traveling abroad may take out foreign currency up to US$10,000 or its equivalent on presentation of a passport, visa, and airline ticket. Foreigners may bring in foreign currency up to US$10,000 or its equivalent without declaration.

Transfers abroad of net income, amortization of loans, and payments of interest are subject to the MOPF approval, which requires certification of applicable tax payments by those who transfer net investment income abroad. According to Article 27(b) of the current Foreign Investment Law, a tax exemption or relief from income tax on profits from business is available to investors who deposit such profits in a reserve fund and reinvest them within one year.

Myanmar residents traveling abroad may export foreign currency up to US$10,000 or its equivalent on presentation of a passport, visa, and airline ticket.

Compensation payments to foreigners for accidents (air crashes) and pension payments may be transferred abroad freely.

Foreign currencies requested for foreign trips, medical expenses, study fees and examination fees, fees for conference, congress, seminar, and costs of living for family or family members abroad up to US$10,000 or its equivalent foreign currencies are allowed. In excess of US$10,000 or its equivalent, approval of the CB is required.

Approval of the CB is required for the amounts in excess of US $10,000 or its equivalent foreign currencies for foreign trips, medical expenses, study fees and examination fees, fees for conference, congress, seminar, and costs of living for family or family members abroad.

Salary and lawfully earned income may be transferred abroad through AD banks without CBM approval after payment of taxes.

| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | No. |
| Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition | Yes. |

According to Article 12 (f) and (g) of the Myanmar Insurance Law, Myanmar Insurance is allowed to accept foreign exchange received as premium from insurance effected and pay compensation in foreign exchange for losses as insurance is effected in foreign exchange. Therefore, Myanmar Insurance is allowed to accept any indemnity in both local currency and foreign exchange. However, the currency of receiving premium and paying compensation has to be the same; however, it is not specifically stipulated in the law.

Currently, there is no limit for investment by pension funds. After establishing the Central Provident Fund with the promulgation of the Central Provident Fund Law, it is needed to define the limitation for pension funds.

Exchange tax No.
Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. The foreign exchange market in Namibia has developed as an extension of the foreign exchange market in South Africa. ADs are allowed to determine freely their bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Spot exchange market Yes. Foreign exchange bureaus are allowed to operate in the spot foreign exchange market and are subject to licensing by the CB. As of December 31, 2019, there were six foreign exchange bureaus in Namibia. Foreign exchange bureaus may engage only in travel-related transactions and may not transact directly with the CB. They may not maintain accounts abroad, and their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes.

Operated by the central bank Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility Yes. The BON buys and sells Namibian dollars for rand at par with no commission. The BON deals only with ADs and the government.
Allocation No. The BON does not verify the validity of transactions when dealing with banks.
Auction No.
Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. Banks trade among themselves in foreign currency.

Over the counter Yes. There are eight commercial banks in Namibia. The foreign exchange interbank market in Namibia is still closely linked to South Africa’s as most banks are subsidiaries of South African Banks. Because of liquidity constraints in Namibia, banks would often enter into interbank deals with South African counterparties. Banks are allowed to determine freely their bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions with their clients.

Brokerage Yes.
Market making No.
Forward exchange market Yes. ADs are permitted to conduct forward exchange operations, including providing forward cover, with residents in any foreign currency with respect to authorized trade and nontrade transactions.
Forward exchange contracts may cover the entire period of the outstanding commitments and accruals. Forward cover is also provided to nonresidents, subject to certain conditions. Gold mining companies and houses may sell forward anticipated receipts of their future gold sales. Forward cover is provided in US dollars only and is available to ADs for maturities not exceeding 12 months at a time in the form of swap transactions involving Namibian dollars (rand) and US dollars, with a margin based on the interest rate differential between the two currencies. The CB does not participate in the forward foreign exchange market.

Official cover of forward operations   Yes. Special forward cover at preferential rates is provided for import financing.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements   Yes. All countries outside the CMA constitute the nonresident area. The rand is legal tender in Namibia. Settlements by or to residents of the CMA within the nonresident area may be made in rand to and from a nonresident account or in any foreign currency.

Controls on the use of domestic currency   Yes. Settlement by or to residents of the CMA within the nonresident area may be made in Namibian dollars to and from a nonresident account or in any foreign currency.

For current transactions and payments   Yes. Namibian dollars may not be used to settle interest and principal payments.

For capital transactions   Yes. Namibian dollars may not be used to settle interest and principal payments.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments   Yes.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments   No.

Credit operations   Yes. Namibian dollars may not be used to settle interest and principal payments.

Use of foreign exchange among residents   Yes. In accordance with CMA arrangements, residents are not allowed to transact business in foreign currencies. Transactions may be invoiced in foreign currencies, but payments must be made in the local currency.

Payments arrangements   Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements   No.

Operative   No.

Inoperative   No.

Regional arrangements   Yes. Namibia is part of the CMA, and no restrictions are applied to payments within the CMA.

Clearing agreements   No.

Barter agreements and open accounts   No.

Administration of control   Yes. The BON has delegated some powers to ADs that assist the BON in administering exchange controls. If an AD is not authorized to approve a transaction under the terms of the Exchange Control Regulations, an application is filed with the BON. The norms applied by the BON in scrutinizing applications are subject to CMA policy guidelines.

Payments arrears   No.

On exports

| Domestic currency | Yes. |

Individuals may export no more than NS$25,000 in BON banknotes in addition to the basic travel allowance. A currency conversion agreement between the BON and the National Bank of Angola allowed business people and traders to export Namibian dollars to Angola and Angolan Kwanzas to Namibia and exchange them for local currency for trading purposes. The import of Angolan Kwanzas to Namibia was suspended from December 1, 2015. However, Namibian dollars are still exported to Angola under specific arrangements in terms of the Currency Conversion Agreement.

Foreign currency

Importation of foreign currency by nonresidents of the CMA is unrestricted. However, Namibian residents are allowed to import into Namibia only the residual balance of foreign currency initially exported. A currency conversion agreement between the BON and the National Bank of Angola allowed business people and traders to export Namibian dollars to Angola and Angolan Kwanzas to Namibia and exchange them for local currency for trading purposes. The import of Angolan Kwanzas to Namibia was suspended from December 1, 2015. However, Namibian dollars are still exported to Angola under specific arrangements in terms of the Currency Conversion Agreement.

Resident private individuals are allowed to hold foreign exchange accounts with local ADs, subject to approval. Exporters may retain export proceeds for 180 days after receipt in foreign exchange accounts with ADs. Up to the equivalent of NS$6 million a year may be held in a domestic foreign exchange account. Balances may only be effected through the commercial banking system on condition that all the requirements are met.

Approval required
Yes.

Held abroad
Yes. Approval is required and is granted to resident individuals on the merit of the application. Approval is not required for investments up to the equivalent of N$6 million a year or to retain abroad income earned overseas. Balances may be transferred to the home country freely.

Approval required
Yes. Foreign bank accounts for investment up to the equivalent of N$6 million a year do not require approval.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad
No.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency
Yes. Payments in foreign currency may be effected from resident accounts, provided the transaction is covered under the Exchange Control Regulations, or with approval.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted
Yes. ADs are required to open separate accounts on behalf of nonresident clients to distinguish between normal clearing accounts and foreign exchange trading accounts. This requirement does not affect the transferability of funds.

Approval required
No. Nonresidents may open foreign exchange accounts, and funds in these accounts are freely transferable.

Domestic currency accounts
Yes. These accounts may be credited with all authorized payments by residents, with the proceeds of sales of foreign currency to ADs, and with payments from nonresidents’ accounts. They may be debited for payments to CMA residents for any purpose (other than loans), payments to nonresidents for any purpose, transfer to a local nonresident account or remittance to any country outside the CMA, purchases of any foreign currency, and payments to account holders residing in Namibia for short periods.

Convertible into foreign currency
Yes. These accounts may be converted, and no approval is required.

Approval required
No.

Blocked accounts
Yes. Residents who emigrated from Namibia on or before February 28, 2002, may transfer their blocked funds abroad freely through an authorized bank. The assets of residents who emigrated after that date are subject to normal emigration procedures. Emigrants may transfer up to the equivalent of N$10 million a family or N$6 million an individual, inclusive of any assets previously transferred abroad. Transfers in excess of these limits are subject to a transfer tax of 10% of the amount in excess of the limit. Emigrants may subsequently transfer annual income from their remaining blocked assets, but may not dispose of the assets through sale to Namibian residents.

Registration and other fees can be rebated for corporations held entirely by Nauruan citizens. Foreign corporations, defined as those incorporated outside Nauru or with their head office or principal place of business outside of Nauru, must provide financial and other information to the Registrar and appoint an agent in Nauru.

There are no restrictions on the repatriation of profit or capital. There are no restrictions on the making of payments due such as interest on loans and dividends and other income from investments.

Only Nauruans are eligible to own land. Non-Nauruans may lease land, but only with the approval of the president. All transfers, sales, and leases of land in Nauru require the consent of the president.

Exchange Measures

- Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices: Yes. The IMF staff report for the 2018 Article IV Consultation with Nepal states that as of January 24, 2019, the Industrial Enterprises Act places a 75% limit on the conversion and transfer to foreign currency of salaries of nonresidents from countries where convertible currency is in circulation. Since the limit applies to amounts that may be less than net salaries, it gives rise to an exchange restriction under Article VIII. (Country Report No. 19/60)

- Exchange measures imposed for security reasons: No. There are no exchange measures imposed for security reasons. Security-related exchange measures are taken indirectly through other laws that control such activities.

- In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51): No.

- Other security restrictions: No.

Exchange Arrangement

- Currency: Yes. The currency of Nepal is the Nepalese rupee.

- Other legal tender: No.

Exchange rate structure

- Unitary: Yes.

- Dual: No.

- Multiple: No.

Classification

- No separate legal tender: Yes. The exchange rate arrangement is a conventional peg vis-à-vis the Indian rupee. The Nepal Rastra Bank (NRB) is designated as the agency that may decide on changes in the exchange rate system.
The Nepalese rupee has been pegged to the Indian rupee at the rate of Nrs. 1.6 per Indian rupee since February 1993. The reference rate of the US dollar quoted by the NRB is based on the midrate of US dollar/Indian rupee (USD/INR) in the Indian foreign exchange market at the stipulated time. Buying and selling rates are quoted daily for certain other currencies, with quotes based on the buying and selling rates for the US dollar in markets abroad. The official exchange rate is fixed by the NRB. The NRB deals directly with the government and other public entities at the official exchange rate. The official exchange rate is used for accounting and valuation for NRB and government transactions.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the Indian rupee.
The foreign exchange market in Nepal comprises the NRB, licensed banks and financial institutions, remittance companies, trekking tours and travel agents, money changers, exporters, importers, and hotels. Under Foreign Exchange (Regulation) Act, 2019 (1962), institutions must obtain licenses from the NRB to deal in foreign exchange. As of July 15, 2020, 27 Class A banks, 19 Class B financial institutions (BFIs), and 3,456 other institutions were licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public. BFIs at the national level may engage in foreign exchange transactions with the NRB to maintain their foreign currency positions. Financial institutions with a paid-up capital of Nrs. 2,500 million are included in Class B national-level financial institutions. They may purchase and sell foreign exchange, maintain nostro accounts abroad, and make foreign currency payments and transfers, except restricted and capital transactions, on behalf of their clients. Commissions charged by ADs are regulated.

Market participants are allowed to pursue spot exchange rate transactions under prevailing NRB rules and regulations under the Foreign Exchange (Regulation) Act, 2019 (1962). Banks may freely determine their exchange rates for transactions with their clients for convertible foreign currencies, except Indian rupees. Twenty-seven Class A Banks and 19 B class development banks are licensed to carry out such transactions.

The NRB has an unlimited foreign exchange standing facility for banks and BFIs. The purchase and sale of US dollars between BFIs and the NRB take place through the NRB purchase and sale window, open Monday through Friday. BFIs may purchase convertible currency banknotes against their accounts with the NRB if adequate funds are available. The NRB deals directly with the government and other public entities at the official exchange rate.

The NRB verifies underlying documentation when dealing with ADs.

Interbank market

Yes. There is no broker system or market-making agreement. BFIs are the participants in the interbank market. They may enter into interbank transactions in foreign currency, including Indian rupees, under mutually agreed terms and conditions. As of July 15, 2020, 27 banks and 19 B class development banks had foreign exchange licenses from the NRB Foreign Exchange Department. Market participants may determine their bid-ask spreads up to 60 paisa on the US dollar.

Controls on capital transactions

Yes. Outward flow of capital is restricted. NRB may give approval, in some specific cases, on the basis of recommendation of the Government of Nepal (GON). Approval from NRB is required to repatriate the amount received by the sale of the share of foreign investment, profit, principal, and interest. (Foreign Investment Restriction Act 2021(1964 AD); Foreign Investment and Technology Transfer Act, 2019; and Public Notice: 2069-10-09 of NRB).

Repatriation requirements

Yes. The repatriation is allowed based on the balance sheet and prescribed documents with the recommendation of concerned regulator. There is no time frame for repatriation.

The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. The Netherlands participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:30 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

Other monetary framework Yes. To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Price stability is defined as an inflation rate below but close to 2% over the medium term.

| Exchange subsidy | No. |

Foreign exchange market Yes. No exchange controls apply to either the spot exchange market or the forward exchange market. ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

| Spot exchange market | Yes. |
| Operated by the central bank | No. |
| Foreign exchange standing facility | No. |

Money transfer offices fall under the regulatory framework for payment service providers in the Financial Supervision Act (WFT). Under Section 2:3a of the WFT, no one domiciled in the Netherlands may conduct business as a payment service provider without an authorization from De Nederlandsche Bank (DNB, Dutch Central Bank). This prohibition does not apply to credit institutions authorized by the DNB. As of December 31, 2019, there were 37 payment service providers licensed by the DNB.
The foreign exchange market operates on the basis of a market-making agreement for large professional market participants, such as banks. Smaller participants usually use a broker. In theory, there are no limits on bid-ask spreads. Excessive spreads, however, would be deemed “off-market” and are, therefore, not allowed. Commissions must also be market based. Intervention, if any, must be coordinated within the Eurosystem and takes place directly via market makers at their quoted rates (best price). Banks licensed by the DNB may trade in the interbank foreign exchange market. As of December 31, 2019, 94 banks have a banking license.

The interbank market operates on the basis of a market-making agreement, under which participants commit to a maximum spread and a minimum amount to trade. To the extent that the necessary contracts are in place, banks may participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants.

The CB may engage in foreign exchange swaps or foreign exchange forwards in the global market for investment purposes.

In accordance with EC Regulation No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purpose of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders.

On exports  No.

Domestic currency  No.  Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU.

The EU requires import authorizations for steel products, which are subject to prior Union surveillance measures (Regulation (EU) No. 2016/670). Iceland, Liechtenstein, and Norway are exempted from the prior Union surveillance on steel on account of their membership of the EEA. The EU requires import authorization for textile products which are subject to surveillance measures (EU Regulation No. 2015/9361 and Council Regulation (EC) No. 3060/95).

Some quotas are managed by European Commission’s Directorate-General responsible for Agriculture and Rural Development through a system of import licenses. The EU requires import authorization for textile products which are subject to quantitative restrictions (EU Regulation No. 2015/9361 and Council Regulation (EC) No. 3060/95). On the basis of EU regulations, an import license has been required for textile products from the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea since 1993. The autonomous import quotas on textile from Belarus were scrapped in 2017 (Regulation (EU) No. 2017/354). The EU requires quota authorizations for certain wood products (spruce, pine), which are subject to tariff-rate quotas in accordance with the bilateral EU–Russia Wood agreement. The quota is set by Russia, but managed on the EU side. It stems from Russia’s WTO Accession Protocol (August 22, 2012).

Imports of most products covered by the CAP from non-EU countries are subject to EU regulations.

The DNB applies Article 351 of the Capital Requirements Regulation (CRR—Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013). The CRR does not impose an explicit limit on open foreign exchange positions, but there is a prudential capital requirement of 8% of an institution’s own funds under Article 351 (if the sum of the overall net foreign exchange position and net gold position exceeds 2% of an institution’s total own funds).

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. The Reserve Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) may intervene if the exchange rate is exceptionally high or low, if that rate is not justified by economic fundamentals, and if there is a material prospect that the intervention will influence the exchange rate. Interventions may not be used as an attempt to influence the long-term trend of the exchange rate. The RBNZ publishes information on its foreign currency assets and liabilities, including its foreign currency intervention capacity (stock of reserves available for intervention) and foreign exchange swap position, on its website but does not publish data on its direct intervention. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

The RBNZ publishes a reference exchange rate for statistical purposes, sourced from the New Zealand Financial Markets Association. The New Zealand Financial Markets Association publishes reference rates for the New Zealand dollar at 2:00 p.m. (also known as the WM/Reuters New Zealand dollar 2:00 p.m. fixes), based on internationally accepted best practice calculation methods.

Monetary policy is formulated at achieving and maintaining stability in the general level of prices over the medium term and supporting maximum sustainable employment.

Effective April 1, 2019, the minister of finance and governor of the RBNZ agreed a remit setting out the RBNZ’s new dual employment and price stability objectives. The remit sets out the objectives as follows: (1) keep future annual inflation between 1% and 3% over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future inflation near the 2 percent mid-point; and (2) support maximum sustainable employment. The remit sets out the RBNZ’s operational objectives, consistent with the economic objectives contained in Section 8 of the RBNZ Act.

The remit replaced the previous Policy Targets Agreement (PTA) between the minister of finance and governor. Previously, the RBNZ Act required that price stability be defined in a specific and public contract, the PTA, negotiated between the minister of finance and the RBNZ governor.

While the first remit was agreed between the minister of finance and the governor – to support a smooth transition between frameworks – all future remits will be issued by the minister of finance. The remit will be reviewed every five years, and will be issued by the minister of finance following public, non-binding advice from the Reserve Bank.

Effective April 1, 2019, the MPC was established and a charter issued that would govern the decision making for the MPC. The MPC will formulate monetary policy through decisions like the level of the official cash rate. The first charter was an agreement between the minister of finance and the governor. All future charters will be agreements between the minister of finance and the Monetary Policy Committee. The Minister and MPC can agree to review the charter at any time, and it must be reviewed whenever the remit is reviewed (every five years). The MPC consists of between 5 and 7 members, 2 to 3 of which must be individuals external to the organization. The governor is Chair of the MPC.

The MPC Charter states that the MPC is to aim to reach consensus on decisions, but that when consensus cannot be reached the decision will be by vote (simple majority).

Inflation target
Yes.

Target number
Yes.

Point target
Yes.

Target with tolerance band
Yes. Effective April 1, 2019, the MPC’s operational objective is to keep future annual inflation between 1% and 3% over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future inflation near the 2% midpoint. Previously, the PTA defined price stability as keeping future consumer price index inflation outcomes between 1% and 3% on average over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future average inflation near the 2% target midpoint.

Band/Range

Target measure
Yes.

CPI
Yes. The target is defined in terms of the All Groups Consumers Price Index (CPI) published by Statistics New Zealand. This records the change in the price of a weighted “basket” of goods and services purchased by an “average” New Zealand household. The percentage change of this index is typically referred to as “CPI inflation.” The contents of the basket are defined by Statistics New Zealand, which periodically reviews and re-weights them, using data obtained from its annual Household Economic Survey.

Core inflation

Target horizon
Yes. Medium term.

Operating target (policy rate)
Yes.

Policy rate
Yes. The policy rate is the Official Cash Rate (OCR). The CB pays interest on settlement account balances for daily interbank transactions, and charges interest on overnight borrowing, at rates related to the OCR.

Target corridor band  n.a.
Other  n.a.

Accountability  Yes.
Open letter  No.
Parliamentary hearings  Yes.  The RBNZ appears before the Select Committee, the Finance and Expenditure Committee, on the day following the release of each quarterly Monetary Policy Statement.
Other  No.

Transparency  Yes.
Publication of votes  Yes.  Effective April 1, 2019, the charter states that the MPC must aim to reach decisions by consensus. However, in the event consensus can’t be reached, a vote will be taken, and the record of this vote is published with the summary record of meeting. The votes will be unattributed.
Publication of minutes  Yes.  Effective April 1, 2019, a summary record of meeting must be published following each meeting of the MPC. The points this record must contain are outlined in the charter, and discussions are not attributed to individuals.
Publication of inflation forecasts  Yes.  The thinking behind the Reserve Bank’s setting of the OCR is published four times a year in an accountability document known as the Monetary Policy Statement.

Interbank market  Yes.  The RBNZ licenses 15 locally incorporated and 12 overseas incorporated commercial banks for all banking operations; there are no specific licenses required for interbank foreign exchange operations. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants. The RBNZ intervenes via market makers. As of December 31, 2018, there were four banks actively operating in the interbank market in New Zealand.

Over the counter  No.
Brokerage  No.
Market making

Yes. The foreign exchange market operates based on a market-making agreement. Licenses are not issued or required for institutions to participate in the foreign exchange market. There are four domestic banks that are market makers in the New Zealand spot exchange market.

Forward exchange market

Yes. The RBNZ uses foreign exchange swaps for liquidity management purposes. Transactions are handled with market participants directly or via brokers.

Official cover of forward operations

No.

Import prohibitions and restrictions are maintained to (1) protect the safety and security of New Zealanders (for example, firearms, other weapons, dangerous dogs, controlled drugs); (2) protect the environment and animal and plant life (for example, biological products, hazardous substances); and (3) comply with international agreements (for example, ozone-depleting substances).

Tariffs apply mainly to imported manufactured products that compete with domestic production. Most primary products that compete with domestic production are admitted duty free. In 2009, all remaining tariff rates were reduced to either 10% or 5%. Import tariffs will remain at their current levels until at least June 2021. Tariffs on clothing, footwear, carpets, ambulances, and motor homes are set at 10%. There are multilateral, bilateral, and regional preferential tariffs. On December 30, 2018, the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership (CPTPP) entered into force among Australia, Canada, Japan, Mexico, New Zealand, and Singapore. Under reciprocal free trade agreements, tariffs on goods originating from the following countries or territories have either been removed or are being reduced for eventual elimination: Australia, Brunei Darussalam, Canada, Chile, China, Hong Kong SAR, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, Mexico, Singapore, Taiwan Province of China, Thailand, and ASEAN member countries. The ASEAN-Australia-New Zealand Free Trade Agreement (AANZFTA) is in effect between Australia, Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao P.D.R., Malaysia, Myanmar, New Zealand, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam. Goods from least developed countries and Pacific island economies are duty free under nonreciprocal free trade arrangements. Eligible imports from the United Kingdom and developing economies are also given tariff preference. In August 2017, the government decided to keep import tariffs unchanged until at least July 31, 2021, except where they are being reduced through trade agreements. The Tariff (Concessions)
Amendment Order 2014 went into effect, introducing temporary tariff concessions on residential building materials to assist Canterbury earthquake rebuilding and Auckland housing demand. This tariff concession was reviewed in October 2018 and will remain in place. It is due for review in 2023. As a signatory to the WTO Information Technology Agreement (II), New Zealand eliminated effective July 1, 2019, the customs duties on Information Technology Agreement (II) goods. Effective March 28, 2020, the government temporarily removed tariffs on all medical and hygiene imports needed for the COVID-19 response.

Export licenses Yes. Export licenses have been introduced to protect New Zealand’s culture (for example, on protected New Zealand objects), human life or animal life (for example, on hazardous waste, live animals); or support the Sanitary and Phytosanitary Agreement (for example, on certain animal products) or marketing or quality requirements (for example, kiwifruit and horticulture). For conservation reasons, there are also restrictions on exports of various animals and plants. Certain items classified as strategic goods may be exported only if specific requirements have been met and an export permit has been issued.

With quotas Yes. New Zealand administers export licenses for some agricultural products (such as beef and dairy) to comply with tariff-quota regimes of some trading partners.

Consent is required under (1) Section 12 of the Overseas Investment Act 2005 for the acquisition by an overseas person or associate of an overseas person of (a) an interest in sensitive land and (b) rights or interests in securities of a person (A), if A owns or controls (directly or indirectly) an interest in sensitive land and as a result of the acquisition the overseas person or associate has a 25% or more ownership or controlling interest in A, or an increase in an existing 25% or more ownership or controlling interest in A, or A becomes an overseas person. Sensitive land investments must meet an “investor” test and generally benefit New Zealand or a group of New Zealanders. If the sensitive land is nonurban land of more than five hectares, the benefit must be substantial and identifiable. If it is farmland, its sale must be advertised in accordance with the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005, unless exempted. (2) Section 13 of the Overseas Investment Act 2005 for (a) the acquisition by an overseas person or associate of an overseas person of rights and interests in the securities of a person (A), if as a result of the acquisition the overseas person or associate has a 25% or more ownership or controlling interest in A, or an increase in an existing 25% or more controlling interest in A, and the value of the securities or consideration or the value of the assets of A and its subsidiaries with an interest of 25% or more exceeds $NZ 100 million; (b) the establishment by an overseas person of a business in New Zealand, if the business operates more than 90 days a year (whether consecutively or in aggregate) and the total expected expenditure exceeds $NZ 100 million; and (c) the acquisition by an overseas person or associate of property (including goodwill and other intangible assets) in New Zealand used in conducting business, if the total value exceeds $NZ 100 million. “Significant business asset” investments must meet an investor test. (3) Section 57B of the Fisheries Act 1996 for the acquisition by an overseas person or associate of (a) an interest-in-fishing quota; or (b) rights or interests in securities of a person (A), if A owns (directly or indirectly) an interest-in-fishing quota and as a result of the acquisition the overseas person or associate has an ownership of 25% or more or a controlling interest in A or an increase in a 25% or more ownership or a controlling interest in A, or A becomes an overseas person. Fishing quota investments must meet an investor and a national interest test. Only New Zealanders may acquire, without the consent of the Crown, 49.9% or more of the shares of Chorus Limited or an interest in equity securities that confers 10% or more of the total voting rights in Air New Zealand Limited. Under the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005, minor increases in shareholding and certain securitization and underwriting arrangements are exempt from the above requirements.

A number of New Zealand’s free trade agreements, such as the Comprehensive and Progressive Trans Pacific Partnership and the New Zealand-Australia Closer Economic Relations Trade Agreement, establish higher monetary thresholds for screening of significant business assets for nongovernment investors.

On August 22, 2018, the Overseas Investment Amendment Act 2018 received Royal assent. As a result of these amendments, from October 22, 2018, “residential land” is a category of “sensitive land” in the Act. As such, overseas persons must generally obtain consent to acquire residential land. Consent may be granted in circumstances where the applicant is: committing to reside and become tax resident, in New Zealand (that is, spending at least 183 days of every year in New Zealand living in the residence for which consent to purchase was received); committing to increase the stock of residential housing on a piece of land (either by building a new, or expanding an existing, residential development or long-term accommodation facility); or to convert to a non-residential use (that is, establishing business operations on the site). Consistent with the Protocol on Investment to the New Zealand-Australia Closer Economic Relations Trade Agreement and the New Zealand-Singapore Closer Economic Partnership, Australian and Singaporean investors are not subject to screening of residential (but not otherwise sensitive) land. Consent may also be granted for overseas persons to acquire residential land subject to an exemption certificate; however, there are still restrictions on their use of the land under such circumstances – including a requirement that they cannot reside at the property.

The Overseas Investment Amendment Act 2018 also narrows the existing exemptions for profits à prendre. In particular, from October 22, 2018, consent is required for an overseas person to obtain an interest in forestry-related profits à prendre of 1000 hectares or greater a year and other regulated profits à prendre of five hectares or more. At the same time as the range of land interests for which consent is required to conduct forestry activities was expanded, the pathways to obtain consent to acquire forestry assets (whether freehold, leasehold, profits à prendre, or through a forest registration right) were streamlined through the introduction of “the special benefits test” for forestry. Under this test, investors may obtain consent to acquire forestry assets if they satisfy the criteria specified in the Overseas Investment Regulations 2018. Previously, a more general test was in place which required investors to demonstrate that their investment would be of benefit to New Zealand.

On June 2, 2020, the Overseas Investment (Urgent Measures) Amendment Bill (1 of 2 bills) received Royal consent. It introduced a national interest test, which always applies to transactions that warrant greater scrutiny. As a response to the economic impacts of COVID-19, the national interest test can also be applied to certain transactions which are not ordinarily screened, and it is mandatory for these transactions to be notified to the Overseas Investment Office. This temporary Emergency Notification Regime will be replaced by a permanent call-in power targeted to the types of transactions which are more likely to pose risks to national security and public order, and which empowers the government to review, impose conditions on or block those transactions to manage risks to national security or public order.

Foreign investment in certain types of land must meet an investor test and generally must benefit New Zealand or a group of New Zealanders. If sensitive land is nonurban land of more than five hectares, the benefit must be substantial and identifiable. Consent is required for acquisitions of the following: nonurban land exceeding five hectares; land adjoining the foreshore, lakebed, conservation land and certain reserves, regional parks, national parks, and some land significant to Māori As a result of these amendments, from October 22, 2018, “residential land” is a category of “sensitive land” in the Act. As such, overseas persons must generally obtain consent to acquire residential land. Consent may be granted in circumstances where the applicant is: committing to reside, and become tax resident, in New Zealand (that is, spending at least 183 days of every year in New Zealand living in the residence for which consent to purchase was received); committing to increase the stock of residential housing on a piece of land (either by building a new, or expanding an existing, residential development or long-term accommodation facility); or to convert to a non-residential use (that is, establishing business operations on the site). Consistent with the Protocol on Investment to the New Zealand-Australia Closer Economic Relations Trade Agreement and the New Zealand-Singapore Closer Economic Partnership, Australian and Singaporean investors are not subject to screening of residential (but not otherwise sensitive) land. Consent may also be granted for overseas persons to acquire residential land subject to an exemption certificate; however, there are still restrictions on their use of the land under such circumstances – including a requirement that they cannot reside at the property.

The Overseas Investment Amendment Act 2018 also narrows the existing exemptions for profits à prendre. In particular, from October 22, 2018, consent is required for an overseas person to obtain an interest in forestry-related profits à prendre of 1000 hectares or greater a year and other regulated profits à prendre of five hectares or more. Under this test, investors may obtain consent to acquire forestry assets if they satisfy the criteria specified in the Overseas Investment Regulations 2018. Previously, a more general test was in place which required investors to demonstrate that their investment would be of benefit to New Zealand. Effective June 2, 2020, the Overseas Investment (Urgent Measures) Amendment Act 2020 removed screening requirements for Fundamentally New Zealand entities acquiring sensitive New Zealand assets.

The Overseas Investment Act 2005 governs superannuation scheme investments if the superannuation scheme’s trustee is an “overseas person” and the investment is in “sensitive land, significant business assets or fishing quota,” as defined in the law. Superannuation schemes (within the meaning of Section 6(1) of the Financial Markets Conduct Act 2013) that hold assets for the benefit of members are exempt from the law’s consent provisions if at least 75% of the members are New Zealanders or ordinarily reside in New Zealand.
The Overseas Investment Act of 2005 governs investments by investment firms and funds if the investment firm or fund is an “overseas person” and the investment is in “sensitive land or significant business assets,” as defined in the law. Portfolio investors may apply for an exemption that results in their interest in a target entity not contributing to that entity being deemed to be an overseas person. To qualify for this exemption the investment by the portfolio investor must generally be less than 10% and not grant control over the target entity.

Changes during 2019 and 2020

Exchange Arrangement

Monetary policy framework

Inflation-targeting framework

Target setting body

Government and Central Bank

04/01/2019

The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) was established and a charter issued that would govern the decision making for the MPC. The MPC would comprise members internal and external to the Reserve Bank of New Zealand and the governor chairs the MPC. The MPC will formulate monetary policy through decisions like the level of the official cash rate. The first charter was an agreement between the minister of finance and the governor. All future charters will be agreements between the minister of finance and the MPC.

04/01/2019

The minister of finance and governor of the Reserve Bank agreed a remit setting out the Reserve Bank of New Zealand’s (RBNZ’s) new dual employment and price stability objectives. Under Section 8 of the RBNZ Act, the RBNZ, acting through the Monetary Policy Committee, is required to formulate monetary policy with the goals of maintaining a stable general level of prices over the medium term and supporting maximum sustainable employment. The remit sets out the objectives as follows: (1) keep future annual inflation between 1% and 3% over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future inflation near the 2% midpoint; and (2) support maximum sustainable employment. The remit replaces the previous Policy Targets Agreement (PTA) between the minister of finance and governor. Previously, the Reserve Bank Act required that price stability be defined in a specific and public contract, the PTA, negotiated between the minister of finance and the RBNZ governor.

Inflation target

Target number

Target with tolerance band

04/01/2019

The Monetary Policy Committee’s operational objective is to keep future annual inflation between 1% and 3% over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future inflation near the 2% midpoint.
Previously, the Policy Targets Agreement defined price stability as keeping future consumer price index inflation outcomes between 1% and 3% on average over the medium term, with a focus on keeping future average inflation near the 2% target midpoint.

Transparency

Publication of votes

04/01/2019  The charter governing the decision making for the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) states that the MPC must aim to reach decisions by consensus. However, in the event consensus cannot be reached, a vote will be taken, and the record of this vote is published with the summary record of meeting. The votes will be unattributed.

Publication of minutes

04/01/2019  A summary record of meeting must be published following each meeting of the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC). The points this record must contain are outlined in the charter governing the decision making for the MPC, and discussions are not attributed to individuals.

Imports and Import Payments

Import taxes and/or tariffs

07/01/2019  As a signatory to the World Trade Organization Information Technology Agreement (ITA) (II), New Zealand eliminated the customs duties on ITA (II) goods.

03/28/2020  The government temporarily removed tariffs on all medical and hygiene imports needed for the COVID-19 response.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions

Controls on direct investment

06/02/2020  The Overseas Investment (Urgent Measures) Amendment Bill (1 of 2 bills) received Royal consent. It introduced a national interest test, which always applies to transactions that warrant greater scrutiny. As a response to the economic impacts of COVID-19, the national interest test can also be applied to certain transactions which are not ordinarily screened, and it is mandatory for these transactions to be notified to the Overseas Investment Office. This temporary Emergency Notification Regime will be replaced by a permanent call-in power targeted to the types of transactions which are more likely to pose risks to national security and public order, and which empowers the government to review, impose conditions on or block those transactions to manage risks to national security or public order.

Controls on real estate transactions

06/02/2020  The Overseas Investment (Urgent Measures) Amendment Act 2020 removed screening requirements for Fundamentally New Zealand entities acquiring sensitive New Zealand assets.

Crawling peg
Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is a crawling peg. The Central Bank of Nicaragua (BCN) publishes aggregated monthly data pertaining to BCN foreign exchange transactions with the banks and the government. Effective October 23, 2019, the BCN decided to reduce the crawling peg (Resolution No. CD-BCN-XLVII-3-19) from an annual devaluation of the córdoba against the US dollar from 5% to 3%.

Crawl-like arrangement

Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
The official exchange rate of the córdoba is determined and preannounced by the BCN. The official exchange rate is calculated daily using the formula \((1 + 0.03)^{1/365}\). The official exchange rate is used for BCN purchases of US dollars from the banks and the government and is used to calculate the exchange rate for BCN US dollar sales to these agents. The official exchange rate is used as a reference for the settlement of foreign exchange contracts payable in local currency, such as BCN bonds, and as an anchor for fixing market exchange rates.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar. Monetary operations are aimed at maintaining an adequate level of international reserves to support the crawling peg regime. Open market operations are the CB’s primary monetary policy tool and are conducted to absorb a target volume of liquidity consistent with the desired level of reserve accumulation. In addition, the BCN buys and sells foreign exchange in accordance with banking system demand.

Exchange tax

No. There is no tax, but the BCN applies a commission to the sale of foreign exchange: the official exchange rate plus a commission of 1%.

Exchange subsidy

No.

Foreign exchange market

Yes. In the foreign exchange market, the observed difference between the selling rate and the official rate is usually less than 1%, given the current exchange arrangement. Agents may freely determine their foreign exchange commissions with their clients. The Exchange Desk Module (Microsoft Management Console) continues to be operational. It is available to banks, financial institutions, and the government (through the Ministry of Finance and Public Credit) for online purchases and sales of foreign exchange (US dollars and euros) against córdobas. The Microsoft Management Console makes it possible to buy and sell US dollar against córdobas in real time, and to buy and sell euros against córdobas with a delay (but within the same business day) because they require BCN authorization.

Spot exchange market

Yes. Participants in the foreign exchange market are the BCN, the government, banks, financial institutions, exchange bureaus, individuals, and legal entities that usually buy and sell foreign exchange. As of December 31, 2019, there were 19 institutions registered with the BCN as participants in the foreign exchange market: 8 commercial banks, 1 state bank, 2 financial institutions, 1 exchange bureau, and 7 legal entities. Exchange bureaus are not regulated and, depending on their articles of agreement, may engage in all civil and merchant activities, but their main purpose is the purchase and sale of foreign exchange. At present, the exchange bureau manages foreign accounts.

Operated by the central bank

Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility  Yes. The BCN exchanges US dollars and euros for córdobas at the official rate only for the government, banks, and financial corporations registered with the BCN. There are no restrictions on the amount, and the origin and destination of the foreign currency do not have to be declared. Transactions between the BCN and the government and financial institutions are effected directly.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market  Yes. Banks and financial institutions are allowed to trade among themselves at freely determined rates. As of December 31, 2019, 8 banks and 2 financial institutions participated in the interbank market. The BCN does not intervene in the interbank market. Article 60 of the BCN Financial Rules indicates that the interbank market operates independently of the BCN. The difference between the purchasing price and the selling price, and the commissions for market participants, are not subject to limits.

Over the counter  Yes. The interbank foreign exchange market operates over the counter and through repurchase operations in the Stock Market of Nicaragua.

Brokerage No.

Market making No.

Forward exchange market No.

Official cover of forward operations No.

The Treaty on Payments and Securities Settlement Systems in Central America and the Dominican Republic remains in effect between the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua. Under the Payments Treaty, the Payments System Interconnection between Central America and the Dominican Republic is also in effect. In January 2013, the Treaty Establishing the Single Regional Payments Clearing System (SUCRE, Sistema Unitario de Compensación Regional de Pagos) went into effect in Nicaragua. Payments may take place through this system for trade operations with the other treaty signatories (Bolivia, Cuba, Ecuador, Venezuela).

Government and public sector arrears (most of which are attributable to the BCN) to bilateral creditors (non-Paris Club members) relate to debt subject to relief under the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative. Negotiations continue on one pending claim (for about US $26.5 million) with a creditor that did not participate in the external commercial debt buyback operation (about US$1.4 billion) launched in October 2007 and concluded in December 2008. This claim is also subject to relief under the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative.

Export licenses

The Center for Export Procedures (CETREX) facilitates exports. A license is not generally required. Licenses are required for exports of wildlife and forestry products, including worked goods and taxidermy work; precious woods (excluding cedar and mahogany); shrimp and lobster; gold; live animals; automobiles; personal effects; scientific and commercial samples; traveling exhibits; and toluene. Controls also apply to sea cucumbers, giant pink and queen conchs, agrochemical and veterinary products, and ornamental fish.

Export taxes

Some products have export quotas with preferential tariff rates in destination countries: CAFTA (sugar, meat, peanuts, peanut butter, cheese, other dairy products, ice cream, milk, liquid, and thickened fresh cream to the United States); free trade agreement (FTA) with Taiwan Province of China (peanuts, raw and refined sugar); WTO (raw sugar, beef); CAFTA-Dominican Republic (chicken breast, beans, onions, shallots); FTA with Panama (beef, pork, instant coffee, tomato salsa, ketchup, onions, shallots); and quotas under the European Union-Central America Association Agreement.

A regional framework was created within the WAEMU to fight transnational financial crime. It comprises the Uniform Law on the Fight Against Money Laundering, based on Directive No. 07/2002/CM/UEMOA, and the Uniform Law on the Fight Against the Financing of Terrorism in WAEMU member countries, based on Directive No. 04/2007/CM/UEMOA. In Niger, the uniform law was passed under Reference No. 2016-33 of October 31, 2016, on the fight against money laundering and financing of terrorism is a fusion of the Law on the Fight against Money Laundering, based on Directive No. 07/2002/CM/UEMOA, and Uniform Law on the Fight Against the Financing of Terrorism in WAEMU Member Countries, based on the Directive No. 04/2007/CM/UEMOA. The overarching instrument facilitates the implementation of UNSC resolutions based on a list of people and entities prepared by the Committee. Directive No. 02/2015/CM/UEMOA of July 2, 2015, of the WAEMU Council of Ministries on the fight against money laundering and the financing of terrorism in WAEMU member countries is in effect.

Currency board
The exchange rate arrangement of the WAEMU is a conventional peg. Niger participates in a currency union with seven other members of the WAEMU and has no separate legal tender. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAEMU member countries and France was concluded December 4, 1973. It was maintained after the French franc was replaced by the euro by the Council of the European Union decision of November 23, 1998. The Monetary Cooperation Agreement is based on three pillars: (1) a common issuing institution, (2) fixed parity with the euro, and (3) a guarantee of unlimited convertibility. In exchange for the unlimited convertibility of the CFA franc to euros, the WAEMU members are required to deposit 50% of their reserve holdings to the operations account with the French Treasury in accordance with the Amendment to the Operations Account Convention signed by France and the BCEAO September 20, 2005.

The CFA franc is officially pegged to the euro, the anchor currency, at the fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. Exchange rates for other currencies are derived from the rates for the currency concerned in the Paris foreign exchange market vis-à-vis the euro. The official rate is used for accounting and valuation. The Conference of Heads of State and Government may decide to amend the Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAMU member countries and France.

The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro. The operational target of price stability is defined as an annual inflation rate in the WAEMU that falls within a band of ±1% around a central rate of 2%. The Harmonized Consumer Price Index is the benchmark rate to measure inflation.

Exchange tax  Yes.  A 0.6% commission rate is charged by registered intermediaries on transfers outside the WAEMU on behalf of their customers. This commission reverts to the National Treasury as tax revenue.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  Authorized intermediaries (banks and nonelectronic exchange dealers) freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which must be traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. The commission on foreign exchange transactions may not exceed 2%.
The instructions No. 013-11-2015 on the terms and conditions for conducting rapid money transfers as a subagent within the WAEMU is in force. Nonelectronic foreign currency transactions can be conducted by authorized intermediary banks and individuals or companies specifically authorized by decision of the minister of finance, with the consent of the BCEAO. Authorized intermediaries must comply with the provisions in effect on the financial conditions for engaging in nonelectronic foreign exchange transactions that involve foreign currencies and must issue a transaction slip for all transactions with a client. Moreover, to provide satisfactory information to clients, they are required to (1) permanently post at their windows the rates actually charged for the different currencies and (2) post notification that a transaction slip must be issued for all foreign exchange transactions on presentation of the requestor’s identity document.

In their operations with customers, authorized banks and OTC dealers freely determine the buying and selling rates of foreign currencies, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 and may be subject to a maximum commission of 2.0%. As of December 31, 2019, there were 14 active banks and 4 bank-like financial institutions, which are also subject to the Banking Law. There were 78 licensed exchange entities in Niger, 45 of which are legal persons, including 52 exchange bureaus. Authorized foreign exchange agents may purchase foreign currency from the BCEAO, which exchanges foreign currencies for CFA francs based on the euro exchange rate on international markets. These transactions are subject to a commission charge of 0.5%. Furthermore, only banks are authorized to hold accounts abroad and to carry out payments and transfers in foreign currency on behalf of their clients. Authorized OTC entities may only conduct sales and purchases of means of payment denominated in foreign currency.

Operated by the central bank: Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility: Yes.

The BCEAO exchanges foreign currency for CFA francs at the rates published on the international markets, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. The nonelectronic currency exchange windows are open to owners of accounts on the BCEAO books and to the general public. A commission of 0.5% is charged on all transactions with the public (purchases and sales) and all withdrawals by banks and financial institutions (including euro withdrawals). However, commissions are not charged on cash foreign exchange transactions conducted by governments, officials of Member States of the WAMU on missions abroad, officials of the CB and their beneficiaries, and on payments made by banks and financial institutions.

Allocation: No.

Auction: No.

Fixing: No.

Interbank market: Yes.

Transactions in CFA francs between authorized intermediaries are allowed. As of December 31, 2019, 8 out of 12 banks participated in the domestic currency interbank market. There is no regulated foreign currency interbank market in the WAEMU.

Over the counter: Yes.

Brokerage: No.
Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements

Niger is linked to the French Treasury via the BCEAO through an operations account for settlements with France, Monaco, the Comoros, and the CEMAC member countries, mainly in euros. Settlements with countries outside the WAEMU are made in foreign currencies, while between WAEMU countries is settled in CFA francs.

Controls on the use of domestic currency

The CFA franc may not be used as payment for current international transactions and capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU.

For current transactions and payments

The CFA franc may not be used as payment for current international transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. However, the CFA franc is guaranteed unlimited convertibility through an open operating account with the French Treasury.

For capital transactions

The CFA franc may not be used for the settlement of international capital transactions with non-WAEMU countries. Investments by residents of the WAEMU zone outside the WAEMU are subject to prior authorization by the minister of finance, and at least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments

The CFA franc may not be used for the settlement of transactions in capital and money market instruments with non-WAEMU countries. Foreign investment by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to authorization by the MOF. At least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing. The interested party must request authorization through a letter designating the authorized intermediary to settle the payment. Purchases of foreign negotiable securities authorized by the regional capital markets authority to be issued or sold in WAEMU members do not require authorization by the MOF.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments

Residents of WAEMU member countries may engage in the following operations on derivatives and other instruments with accredited banks established in the WAEMU or foreign banks: (1) forward contract, foreign exchange swaps, and options. Operations on derivatives with foreign banks outside the WAEMU can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.

Credit operations

Yes. Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted by authorized intermediaries to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to prior authorization by the Directorate of External Financial Relations of the MOF, after BCEAO approval.

Use of foreign exchange among residents

Yes. The CFA franc is the only legal tender, and residents of the WAEMU zone may not use foreign exchange for domestic transactions. Regulatory provisions require residents of the WAEMU zone to surrender to an intermediary bank all income or proceeds in foreign currency received abroad or paid by a nonresident.

Payments arrangements

Yes.

Bilateral payments arrangements

No.

Operative

No.

Inoperative

No.

Regional arrangements

Yes. An operations account is maintained with the French Treasury that links national operations accounts for WAEMU member countries. All purchases and sales of foreign currencies and euros against CFA francs are ultimately settled through a debit or a credit to the operations account.

Clearing agreements

Yes. There is a multilateral clearing agreement between the WAEMU countries and the other ECOWAS member countries (Cabo Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone) as part of the WAMA. All payments for current transactions between countries whose CBs are WAMA members may be made under the clearing agreement. However, this excludes transactions specified by the committee of governors of the CBs of ECOWAS members and payments for exports from one member country to another member country of finished products originating in countries whose CB or monetary authority is not a WAMA member.

Barter agreements and open accounts

No.

Administration of control

Yes. The institutional reform of the WAMU and the BCEAO establishes the following new basic instruments: (1) the WAMU Treaty, (2) the BCEAO Charter, (3) the Bank Regulation Act, and (4) the Convention governing the WAMU Banking Commission. All WAEMU residents are treated as residents of Niger for the purposes of preparing the external position of banks, domiciliation and repatriation of export revenue, issuance and sales of securities, gold imports and exports, investment and lending transactions, and physical exports of means of payment and securities by postal package or ordinary mail. However, for statistical purposes with regard to the balance of payments, all countries other than Niger are considered foreign countries. Moreover, all transfers with other countries must be made through registered intermediary banks, the postal service, or the BCEAO.

Payments arrears

No.

Official

No.

Private

No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)

Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade  No.

On external trade  Yes.  Gold imports and exports require MOF authorization, except (1) imports and exports by the Public Treasury and the BCEAO; (2) imports and exports of items with a low gold content (lined or plated objects); and (3) imports and exports, by travelers, of objects made of gold limited to a total weight of 500 grams.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes  Yes.
On exports  Yes.

Domestic currency  Yes.  Travelers may freely export CFA franc banknotes from one WAEMU member country to another. Resident individuals (that is, from any WAEMU member country) and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving CFA franc banknotes issued by the BCEAO.

Foreign currency  Yes.  The reexportation of foreign banknotes by nonresident travelers is permitted up to the equivalent of CFA 500,000; the reexportation of foreign banknotes above this ceiling requires documentation demonstrating either the importation of the foreign banknotes or their purchase against other means of payment registered in the name of the traveler or through the use of nonresident deposit accounts in local banks. Residents of the WAEMU zone traveling to countries that are not WAEMU members are required to declare foreign currency on their person in excess the equivalent of CFA 1 million. They are allowed to carry up to the equivalent of CFA 2 million a person in banknotes not issued by the BCEAO. Larger amounts may be exported in the form of traveler’s checks, prepaid debit and payment cards, conventional debit and payment cards, or other means of payment. Foreign exchange allowances issued by authorized intermediaries in the form of traveler’s checks or prepaid debit and payment cards must be based on the need to cover customary, personal travel expenses, if they exceed the equivalent of CFA 2 million a person. The issuance of foreign currency to resident travelers is subject to the presentation of travel documents and a valid passport or national identification card.

On imports  Yes.

Domestic currency  Yes.  Residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone may freely import domestic currency (CFA franc – XOF) banknotes. However, individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from receiving banknotes in domestic currency (CFA franc – XOF). The redemption by the BCEAO of banknotes exported outside its area of issuance was suspended. Pursuant to this measure, registered intermediary banks are not authorized to receive shipments of CFA franc (XOF) banknotes from their correspondents located outside the WAEMU area.

Foreign currency  No.  Residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone may freely import CFA area banknotes denominated in foreign currencies. Such means of payment in excess of the equivalent of CFA 1 million must be declared to customs. Nonresident travelers must declare to customs foreign currency exceeding the equivalent of CFA 1 million on entry and exit. Regulatory provisions require residents to surrender to an authorized intermediary bank all revenue or proceeds in foreign currency collected abroad or received from a nonresident.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.
Held domestically: Yes.
Approval required: Yes.

Foreign exchange accounts in currencies other than the euro may be opened domestically with MOF authorization after non-objection from the BCEAO. The authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on each such an account. These accounts are valid for a renewable term of up to one year. They cannot be credited with deposits of CFA banknotes or by debiting a CFA franc account. On expiration of the term set in the authorization, accounts are closed unless a new authorization is obtained.

Held abroad: Yes.
Approval required: Yes.

Individuals who are residents of the WAEMU temporarily staying or traveling outside of WAEMU may open bank accounts outside the WAEMU to deposit foreign currency legally exported and any income acquired outside of the WAEMU during their travel or temporary stay outside of the WAEMU. These individuals are required to repatriate balances on such accounts within 30 days of return to the WAEMU. In any circumstance other than the foregoing, opening of foreign accounts by WAEMU residents is subject to MOF authorization by after non-objection from the BCEAO. The MOF authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on such accounts. In the event of a failure to obtain a new MOF authorization, the accredited intermediary must request that the account be closed by the end of the term authorized and that any balance be repatriated to a WAEMU member country within eight days.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad: No.
Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency: No.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.
Approval required: Yes.

Nonresident accounts denominated in euros may be freely opened by intermediaries accredited in the WAEMU on justification by the beneficiaries of their status and residence outside of the WAEMU. Nonresident accounts denominated in foreign currency other than euros are subject to BCEAO authorization. Nonresident foreign currency accounts are valid for a renewable period of two years. In the event of a failure to obtain renewal (through a new BCEAO authorization for foreign exchange other than the euro), these accounts must be closed. The balances of these accounts may be freely transferred abroad after verification.

Domestic currency accounts: Yes.
Convertible into foreign currency: Yes.

Authorized intermediaries may open nonresident accounts in CFA francs and in euros, under their own responsibility, depending on the status and effective residence of the applicant. These accounts may be debited for spot purchases of foreign exchange.

Importers may purchase foreign exchange for import payments after establishing bank payment order accounts and submitting supporting documents, but no earlier than eight days before shipment if a documentary credit is opened or on the due date of payment if the products have already been imported.

Domiciliation requirements Yes. Import transactions from outside the CFA franc area exceeding CFAF 10 million must be made through an authorized bank.

Preshipment inspection Yes. Imports of goods exceeding CFAF 3 million f.o.b. require an inspection for quality and price.

Letters of credit No.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses No.

Other Yes. Exchange authorization, invoices, and export–import cards are required.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures

Positive list No.

Negative list Yes. Imports of narcotics and firearms are prohibited.

Open general licenses No.

Licenses with quotas No.

Other nontariff measures Yes. Quantitative restrictions may be applied on products for public health and security reasons.

Import taxes and/or tariffs Yes.

The WAEMU CET consists of four tariff brackets: 0%, 5%, 10%, and 20%. Imports from countries other than WAEMU area countries are also subject to a 1% statistical tax and a 0.8% community solidarity levy. Moreover, a cyclical import tax (taxe conjoncturelle à l’importation) and a degressive protection tax (taxe dégressive de protection) may at certain times be charged on some products. Neither of these two taxes had been applied as at end-2018. Imports from non-ECOWAS members are subject to a 0.5% community levy (CL/ECOWAS).

Taxes collected through the exchange system No. No taxes are collected through the exchange system at the BCEAO. However, a VAT of 19% applies to commissions charged by authorized intermediaries for purchases or sales of foreign currency.

State import monopoly Yes. The government, through the Société Nigérienne des Produits Pétroliers, has a monopoly on hydrocarbon imports.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Resident economic operators are required to collect and repatriate within one month of the payment due date the entire amount of sales of goods abroad in the country of origin with the bank with which the transaction is domiciled. The payment due date is specified in the trade agreement and normally falls within a period of 120 days after the goods are dispatched.

Surrender requirements
Yes.

Surrender to the central bank
Yes. Export proceeds must be surrendered by ADs to the BCEAO within 30 days of the payment due date, which may not exceed 120 days after shipment of the goods. To cover its current foreign exchange needs, the domiciling bank may hold up to 20% of its export proceeds as own foreign exchange resources. However, it must ensure that its total foreign exchange resources to cover its requirements do not exceed 5% of total customer demand deposits; otherwise, the surplus must be surrendered to the BCEAO.

Surrender to authorized dealers
Yes. Proceeds must be surrendered to authorized banks within 30 days of the payment due date. Authorized intermediaries must then surrender the foreign exchange to the BCEAO by transfer through the issuing bank. Export revenue may be surrendered to intermediaries other than banks with which the transaction is domiciled if authorized by the BCEAO. Sales of foreign exchange by exporters to ADs other than the domiciling bank are permitted, provided they furnish the domiciling bank with the documents required for the domiciliation file to be closed.

Financing requirements
No.

Documentation requirements
Yes.

Letters of credit
No.

Guarantees
No.

Domiciliation
Yes. Export transactions of more than CFAF 10 million, except those between WAEMU countries, must be domiciled with an authorized intermediary bank.

Preshipment inspection
No.

Other
Yes. A customs declaration is required.

Export licenses
Yes.

Without quotas
Yes. Authorization is required for exports of gold.

With quotas
No.

Export taxes
Yes.

Collected through the exchange system
No.

Other export taxes
Yes. Taxes on exports and reexports are collected through customs. These include a statistical fee of 3% on exports and a special reexport tax of 10%, except for tobacco products, which are taxed at 5% for Nigeria-bound exports and 15% for exports to the rest of the world.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be repatriated. Residents of the WAEMU zone are required to surrender to an authorized intermediary all revenues and income in foreign currency collected abroad or received from a nonresident. Such operations must be conducted within no more than one month after the payment due date.

Surrender requirements
Yes.

Surrender to the central bank
Yes. Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers
Yes. All proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be surrendered to an AD within one month of the payment due date. Resident travelers must surrender to an authorized intermediary, within eight days of their arrival in Niger, foreign banknotes and other means of payment denominated in foreign currency worth more than the equivalent of CFAF 500,000.

Restrictions on use of funds
No.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions
Yes. Capital transactions between WAEMU countries are unrestricted. Outward capital transfers require MOF authorization, except (1) amortization of debts and repayment of short-term loans to finance industrial and commercial operations, (2) payments required on foreign exchange derivatives transactions or raw material or commodity derivatives transactions, and (3) transfers of the proceeds of liquidated investments or the sale of foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. Capital receipts from non-WAEMU countries are generally permitted.

Repatriation requirements

Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of residents of the WAEMU zone’s investments abroad must be repatriated within one month through a registered intermediary, if the resident does not have a reinvestment authorization.

Surrender requirements

Yes.

Surrender to the central bank

Yes. Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

Surrender to authorized dealers

Yes. Reinvestment of the proceeds from liquidation operations is subject to authorization by the minister of finance. In the absence of such authorization, these proceeds should be repatriated and surrendered within one month through an authorized intermediary. The surrender requirement applies to proceeds from all capital transactions.

Controls on capital and money market instruments

Yes. RCPSFM authorization is required for the following operations: (1) issuance or marketing of securities and real assets of foreign entities, (2) solicitation of investment, and (3) publicity or advertising for investment abroad. Securities and mutual funds issued outside the WAEMU by a private or public entity that is not a resident of a member country may not be listed on a regional securities exchange. The provisions are identical to those pertaining to shares and other securities of a participating nature. Soliciting the public of the WAEMU by nonresident entities is subject to authorization by the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority responsible for regulating the external financial relations of WAEMU countries. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

On capital market securities

Yes. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes. Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are unrestricted. However, these purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

No.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to authorization from RCPSFM (Regional Council on Public Savings and Financial Markets), with the authorization of the BCEAO acting in its capacity as the authority in charge of regulating external financial relations. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer.
between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the MOF for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.  The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  No.  Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of domestic establishments, foreign investors are required to make a prior declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may also issue securities abroad, except for those constituting a loan, provided all issues are declared to the Directorate of External Finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Bonds or other debt securities  Yes.  The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  No.  These purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. There is no minimum holding period.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents  Yes.  The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to RCPSFM authorization. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from divestiture of an investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires submission of an exchange authorization to the MOF for approval, accompanied by supporting documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes.  The purchase of foreign securities by residents of the WAEMU zone and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries is authorized by the RCPSFM. The Code of the Inter-African Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Sale or issue abroad by residents  No.  Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Conference on Insurance Markets (CIMA Code) requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

Sale or issue abroad by residents No. Residents of the WAEMU zone may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of domestic establishments, foreign investors are required to make a declaration to the MOF. The sale of securities for liquidation of an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes. Issuance of securities constituting a loan by residents of the WAEMU zone to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial and financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using derivatives. They must be backed by the residents of the WAEMU zone’s imports or exports of raw materials and commodities. Residents of the WAEMU zone are not authorized to purchase raw materials or commodities on foreign markets for delivery within the framework of a derivatives transaction in raw materials or commodities.

Purchase locally by nonresidents No. The purchase of derivatives by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone on the domestic market is treated as a loan contracted by a resident with a nonresident. As such, it is permitted. The purchase must be executed through an authorized intermediary and must be reported to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents No. These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign exchange derivatives from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes. These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone may freely purchase abroad or from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone call or put options on primary commodities or securities transactions. Residents of the WAEMU zone may not purchase commodities or securities in foreign markets to be delivered in complying with a put option contract. Put options must be placed on assets that can be acquired locally by the resident seller for delivery abroad in execution of the contract. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency purchase options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution.

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency sell options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign (that is, nonresident of WAEMU) credit institution.

Controls on credit operations Yes. Borrowing by residents of the WAEMU zone from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be conducted through authorized intermediaries (whenever borrowed funds are made available for use in the country), unless otherwise indicated by the MOF.

Commercial credits Yes.

By residents to nonresidents Yes. The date on which payment falls due is specified in the contract and should in principle be no later than 120 days after the date of shipment.
There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally conducted without prior authorization, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered, as well as the payment due date, to the licensed intermediary bank responsible for handling the repayment.

The granting of guarantees and sureties is subject to MOF approval. Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require the issuance of an exchange authorization, subject to MOF approval, and the submission of supporting documents.

Controls on direct investment

| Yes. |

Direct investment implies control of a company or enterprise in excess of 10% of the capital of the company (such as shares listed on a stock exchange). All investment outside of WAEMU by residents of the WAEMU, including investment through foreign companies under the direct or indirect control of residents of the WAEMU and investment by foreign branches or subsidiaries of companies established in a WAEMU member country, requires MOF authorization.

Outward direct investment

| Yes. |

All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

Inward direct investment

| Yes. |

FDI, including by resident companies that are directly or indirectly under foreign control and by branches or subsidiaries of foreign companies, must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. An investment is not considered a direct investment, unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of the company.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment

| No. |

The liquidation of investments abroad must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes. Reinvestment of the proceeds of the liquidation is subject to MOF authorization. If reinvestment is not authorized, the liquidation proceeds must be repatriated within one month through an authorized intermediary. The sale of foreign investments by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone is unrestricted, but must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes.

Controls on real estate transactions  Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents  Yes. These purchases require MOF authorization.

Purchase locally by nonresidents  No. Purchases for purposes other than direct investment in a business, branch, or company are allowed. They require a declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes.

Sale locally by nonresidents  No. Sales by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone to residents of the WAEMU zone require the submission of supporting documentation to the authorized intermediary that handles the settlement and must be declared to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Controls on personal capital transactions  Yes. Personal capital transactions between residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone must be made through the BCEAO, the postal administration, or an authorized intermediary bank, unless authorization is obtained from the MOF.

Loans  Yes. The regulations governing securities and investments apply.

By residents to nonresidents  Yes. These transactions require MOF authorization. The individuals concerned may not engage in such operations as a professional occupation without first being licensed and included on the list of approved financial institutions.

To residents from nonresidents  No. These transactions may be made freely but are subject to declaration to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes when disbursed and when repaid.

Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies  Yes.

By residents to nonresidents  Yes. Inheritances and dowries are generally allowed. Gifts and endowments, however, are subject to MOF and BCEAO authorization. These transactions must be conducted through an authorized intermediary and comply with the relevant anti-money-laundering and terrorism financing provisions.

To residents from nonresidents  No. These transactions do not require authorization but are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants  Yes. Immigrants with resident status must obtain MOF authorization to settle debts contracted abroad, while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone.

Transfer of assets  Yes.

Transfer abroad by emigrants  Yes. These transactions are subject to MOF authorization if the value exceeds CFAF 500,000 a person. There are no restrictions on transfers of amounts below this threshold.

Transfer into the country by immigrants  Yes. Foreign accounts (in foreign currency or CFA francs) of nonresidents of the WAEMU zone who become residents of the WAEMU zone must be closed. However, these residents of the WAEMU zone may maintain abroad bank accounts opened and financial assets acquired, while they were nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. New transfers to these accounts require MOF approval.

Transfer of gambling and prize earnings  Yes. These transfers are conducted free through authorized intermediaries, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions on combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Investment regulations | Yes. | The regulations governing direct investment apply.

Abroad by banks | Yes. | All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.

In banks by nonresidents | Yes. | These transactions may, depending on their volume, be subject to authorization by the minister of finance. The banking law stipulates that investment by any person in a bank that would have the effect of changing the minority and/or majority voting rights requires authorization by the minister of finance.

Open foreign exchange position limits | Yes. | No prudential ratios apply. Because of the surrender requirement, banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts to assist in the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in non-WAEMU zone banks assets allocated to the execution of current customer operations, listed as follows: (1) demand deposits not exceeding the total amount on their books of import payments domiciled by clients, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits not exceeding the balance of their open foreign accounts in foreign currencies other than euros and their open resident accounts in foreign currency.

On resident assets and liabilities | Yes. | No prudential ratios apply. Because of the surrender requirement, banks may not maintain open foreign exchange positions. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts to assist in the smooth completion of international payments. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold deposits in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries as follows: (1) demand deposits not exceeding the total amount on their books of import payments domiciled by clients, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits not exceeding the balance of their open foreign accounts in foreign currencies other than euros and their open resident accounts in foreign currency.

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation with Nigeria states that, as of March 13, 2019, Nigeria maintained the following exchange restrictions subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a) of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement: (1) an exchange restriction arising from the prohibition to access foreign exchange at the Nigerian foreign exchange markets for the payment of imports of 42 categories of items; (2) an exchange restriction arising from the rationing of foreign exchange in the Central Bank of Nigeria’s (CBN’s) IFEM and Secondary Market Intervention Sale (SMIS) windows, and its allocation based on the CBN’s determination of priority categories of transactions; and (3) an exchange restriction arising from existing limits on the amounts of foreign exchange available when traveling abroad (business travel allowance (BTA)/personal travel allowances (PTAs)), which cannot be exceeded even on verification of the bona fide nature of the transaction. In addition, Nigeria maintains the following MCPs subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3 of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement: (1) an MCP arising from the intervention practice of the CBN that results in the establishment of an official exchange rate for use in all official transactions, which in practice differs by more than 2% from the rate used by commercial banks in the CBN foreign exchange windows (SMIS, SME, IEFX, and Invisibles), and by money transfer operators; (2) an MCP arising from the large spread between the official exchange rate and the rates in the parallel market, caused by the CBN’s limitation on the availability of foreign exchange which channels current international transactions to such market; and (3) an MCP arising from the potential spread of more than 2% in the exchange rates at which the CBN sells foreign exchange to successful auction bidders in the SMIS window. (Country Report No. 19/92)

Exchange rate structure

Unitary

Dual

Multiple Yes. There is a multiple exchange rate structure as a result of MCPs as per Country Report No. 19/92, as follows: (1) MCP arising from the intervention practice of the CBN that results in the establishment of an official exchange rate for use in all official transactions, which in practice differs by more than 2% from the rate used by commercial banks (SMIS, SME, IEFX, and Invisibles), and by money transfer operators; (2) an MCP arising from the large spread between the official exchange rate and the rates in the parallel market, caused by the CBN’s limitation on the availability of foreign exchange which channels current international transactions to such market; and (3) an MCP arising from the potential spread of more than 2% in the exchange rates at which the CBN sells foreign exchange to successful auction bidders in the SMIS window.

The CBN made efforts to unify exchange rates in different foreign exchange market segments, and in August 2020, the exchange rates were as follows: (1) the exchange rate at the CBN’s official window (IFEM) was N 380/$ (used mainly for petroleum imports and in limited predetermined quantities for some banks); (2) the Investors & Exporters’ window (IFEX) exchange rate was around N 380–N 386/$; (3) the foreign exchange rate at which international money transfer operators’ (IMTOs’) transact was approximately N 380/$; (4) the approved rate for invisibles (PTA/BTA transactions) was around N 380/$, mainly derived from the I&E window rate; (5) the exchange rate through the SME window (where the CBN intervenes to ensure payment for eligible imports by small and medium enterprises with a limit of US$20,000 a customer a quarter) was around N 380/$, mainly derived from the I&E window rate; and (6) exchange rates on the SMIS wholesale and retail sales by the CBN were around N 380/–N 395/$. In August 2020, sales to the bureau de change (BDC) segment remained suspended because of the closure of the international border.

Conventional peg

Stabilized arrangement Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The CBN explicitly aims to maintain an exchange rate principally driven by market forces, but intervenes to reduce volatility and to counteract speculative attacks on the national currency. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as stabilized. The CBN publishes its intervention data, and this is also reported weekly by various news agents across the nation.

Official exchange rate Yes. The official exchange rate is determined by the market. The official exchange rate is the rate at which the interbank market closes. Interbank is the main market in which the banks trade among themselves. The official exchange rate is the rate used for monetization, tax and duty payments, other accounting purposes as well as in all official transactions.

Monetary aggregate target Yes. Monetary policy targets broad money (M3) via a policy interest rate corridor. The monetary policy rate (MPR) was set, effective May 28, 2020, at 12.5%. (Previously, effective March 26, 2019, it was reduced by the CBN from 14% to 13.5%.) The MPC set the asymmetric corridor for the CBN’s lending and deposit facilities at +200 basis points and −500 basis points and maintained the cash reserve requirements (CRR) and liquidity ratio (LR) to manage liquidity at 27.5% and 30.0%, respectively.

Exchange tax  No.

Exchange subsidy  No.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  Foreign exchange purchased from the CBN and not used must be returned to the CBN within 72 hours. Unused foreign exchange acquired from sources other than the CBN is exempt from mandatory sale and may be used for interbank transactions. ADs are not allowed to have a bid-ask spread exceeding 50 kobo. The commission charged by the ADs is guided by the provisions of the Guide to Bank Charges, which is reviewed periodically by the CBN. According to the CBN Guide to Bank Charges (May 1, 2017), the commissions are (1) 1% of the value involved—flat (or as determined from time to time by the CBN) for purchases from the CBN, and (2) negotiable subject to a maximum spread of 50 kobo per US dollar for interbank purchases. The rate for spot purchases from customers is the interbank rate.

Spot exchange market  Yes.  The CBN established a single market structure through the autonomous/interbank market, that is, the interbank foreign exchange market with the CBN participating in the foreign exchange market through interventions directly in the interbank market or through “SMISs.” It is used by banks to transact among themselves for proceeds from export and personal transfers. This window is to provide liquidity to investors and exporters and was a bid to boost liquidity in the system and reduce the corridor between the official and BDC market.

IMTOs are only licensed to conduct international money transfers. Approved IMTOs are directed to sell foreign exchange sourced from remittances to their approved banks and CBN. The banks are expected to monetize 25% of the proceeds for their use to fund any eligible transaction, while the 75% is to be sold to and monetized by the CBN for sale to BDCs. IMTOs cannot sell foreign exchange to BDCs directly. Extant regulation provides that recipients of international money transfers be paid in Naira. The market participants in the foreign exchange market are as follows: banks (commercial, merchant, and non-interest banks) and BDCs licensed by the CBN.

Exchange bureaus (BDC) may only deal in banknotes and coins, buying and selling traveler’s checks, and other business as approved by the CBN. They may not engage in foreign business or foreign correspondence relationships, or directly or indirectly in any form of outward or inward foreign currency transfers or credit card services. BDCs are not allowed to maintain accounts abroad.

As of December 31, 2019, there were 29 deposit money banks (DMBs), 34 primary mortgage banks (PMBs), 913 licensed microfinance banks (MFBs), and 5156 BDCs.

The Bank has commenced efforts to unify exchange in different foreign exchange market segments. Thus, in August 2020, exchange rates across the segments were as follows: (1) the exchange rate at the CBN’s official window (IFEM) was N 380/$ (used mainly for petroleum imports and in limited predetermined quantities for some banks); (2) the Investors & Exporters’ window (IFEX) exchange rate was around N 380/$–N 386/$; (3) in the foreign exchange rate at which IMTOs transact was approximately N 380/$; (4) the approved rate for invisibles (PTA/BTA transactions) was around N380/$, mainly derived from the I&E window rate; (5) the exchange rate through the SME window (where the CBN intervenes to ensure payment for eligible imports by small and medium enterprises with a limit of US$20,000 a customer a quarter) was around N 380/$, mainly derived from the I&E window rate; and (6) exchange rates on the SMIS wholesale and retail sales by the CBN were around N 380/$–N 395/$. In August 2020, sales to the BDC segment remains suspended because of the closure of the international border.

Operated by the central bank

Yes.

The CBN sells foreign exchange to the IFEM. Other windows are SMIS, IFEX SME, and BDC.

In August 2020, foreign exchange sales by the CBN to BDCs remained suspended because of the closure of the international border.

Foreign exchange standing facility

No.

Allocation

Yes.

The CBN sells foreign exchange to the IFEM according to the availability and demand of foreign exchange and documented needs of customers of the IFEM participants. Funds not used by banks within 72 hours of the value date must be returned to the CBN for repurchase at the CBN buying rate. Windows through which the CBN also sells foreign exchange are IFEX, SME, and BDC.

Auction

Yes.

The CBN sells foreign exchange at the SMISs, both wholesale and retail.

SMISs are operated via the multiple price book building process using the FMDQ-Thomson Reuters foreign exchange auction system. There is no predetermined spread in SMIS. There is a limit of 1% of the total on offer to single customers on the SMIS retail. All sales to end users must be trade backed. Only foreign exchange primary dealers can participate in the auction.

Fixing

No.

Interbank market

Yes.

The interbank rate is determined among interbank players; the CBN discourages speculative bids, and the rate as of August 5, 2020, was N 381/$. ADs’ bid-ask spread may not exceed 50 kobo. The commission is subject to the limit specified in the Guide to Bank Charges. Funds purchased from the CBN but not used by banks within 72 hours of the value date are to be returned to the CBN for repurchase at the CBN buying rate. As of August 5, 2020, the interbank had 29 institutions participating with licenses acquired from the CBN.

Over the counter  Yes.
Brokerage  No.
Market making  No.
Forward exchange market  Yes.  Forward exchange transactions in the interbank market are permitted among ADs and between dealers and their customers, subject to prudential limits and provided the transactions relate to trade in goods and services. The CBN engages in foreign exchange forward transactions with the aim of transforming and deepening the Nigerian financial markets. These transactions take place with ADs in the market for the benefit of foreign exchange users in the economy.

Official cover of forward operations  No.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted
- Held domestically: Yes. Foreign exchange accounts may be freely opened with ADs on a know-your-customer basis. Funds may be transferred to other bank foreign exchange accounts within and outside Nigeria.
- Approval required: No.
- Held abroad: Yes. Residents’ foreign exchange accounts abroad are allowed, except for public officials. Public officials are prohibited from holding such account abroad.
  - Approval required: No.
- Accounts in domestic currency held abroad: No.
- Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency: Yes. All payment by residents abroad should be subject to appropriate documentations.
Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. External accounts are maintained for diplomatic representatives of all countries and international organizations. These accounts may be credited with authorized payments by residents of Nigeria to residents of foreign countries, with payments from other external accounts, and with proceeds from sales of foreign currency. They may be debited for payments to residents of Nigeria, for payments to other external accounts, and for purchases of foreign currency.

Approval required No.

Domestic currency accounts Yes. Nonresidents accounts in Naira are allowed for overseas correspondence and examination bodies, foreign companies executing approved contracts in Nigeria and foreign professional bodies. In the case of others not listed, clarification and approval of the CBN is required. Funds derived from local sources may be deposited in nonresident accounts.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. Nonresident accounts may be credited with proceeds from services rendered locally, and remittances may be effected subject to adequate documentation. Nonresident can convert the balances in the accounts to foreign currency for transfer abroad. Conversion of nonresidents’ balances remaining after completion of a contract or of the account holder’s business in Nigeria is permitted.

Approval required No.

Blocked accounts No.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget No.

Financing requirements for imports Yes.

Minimum financing requirements Yes. Foreign exchange may not be sold in the foreign exchange market for imports of goods on the negative list, which is issued by the FMF. Foreign exchange may not be acquired in the foreign exchange market for imports of goods on the list of items not valid for foreign exchange published by the CBN (CBN Circular TED/FEM/FPC/GN/01/010). Imports of goods on this list are not prohibited, provided the importer uses their own funds without recourse to the Nigerian foreign exchange markets.

Advance payment requirements Yes. Down payments on imports not exceeding 15% of f.o.b. value of transaction are allowed. Advance payments are allowed subject to presentation of performance bond by the supplier from reputable bank in his home country.

Advance import deposits Yes. Advance import deposits are treated like advance payments. Advance import deposits not exceeding 15% of f.o.b. value of transaction are allowed. Advance import deposits are allowed subject to presentation of performance bond by the supplier from reputable bank in his home country.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports Yes. Foreign exchange for imports may be released after submission of the required documents which include shipping and commercial documents.

Domiciliation requirements No.
| Preshipment inspection | Yes. | Imports are subject to destination inspection instead of pre-shipment inspection, regardless of their value. Certain categories of imports, including used vehicles, vaccines, and explosives, are not included in the destination inspection program. |
| Letters of credit | No. | Importers may use LCs or their preferred payment mode for import payments. It is not mandatory to use LCs. Under the destination inspection program, the combined certificate of value and origin, packing list, and bill of lading are the key payment documents. |
| Import licenses used as exchange licenses | No. | |
| Other | Yes. | The documents required for foreign exchange settlements for imports are: (1) bill of lading; (2) certificate of origin (formerly combined certificate of value and origin); (3) commercial invoice; (4) exit note (formerly exit gate); (5) form “M”; (6) packing list; (7) single goods declaration; and (8) product certificate. Transactions involving the use of bills for collection are permitted. Transactions executed by the private sector do not, however, carry any government guarantee or obligation. Remittances must be made through the official foreign exchange market or with autonomous funds, and the relevant shipping documents for the transactions must be handled by an AD. Single goods declaration is required for making payments and should be submitted not later than 90 days from the bill of lading date. |
| Import licenses and other nontariff measures | Yes. |
| Positive list | No. |
| Negative list | Yes. | Imports of the following items are prohibited: live or dead birds including frozen poultry, bird eggs, pork, beef, cassava, refined vegetable oil, cocoa butter, powder and cakes, spaghetti/noodles, fruit juice in retail packs, water including mineral and carbonated water containing added sugar or sweetening or flavored, ice snow, other nonalcoholic beverages (excluding energy and health drinks), beer and stout, bagged cement, medications, waste pharmaceuticals, soaps and detergents, mosquito repellent coils, sanitary wares of plastic, domestic articles and wares of plastic (excluding baby feeding bottles and flushing cisterns and waterless toilets), toothpicks, retreaded and used pneumatic tires but excluding used tires for retreading of size, corrugated paper and cardboard items excluding baby diapers, incontinence pads for adult use and exercise books, telephone recharge cards and vouchers, textile fabrics, carpet and rugs of all types, garments and other textiles, footwear, bags, and suitcases (excluding safety shoes), hollow glass bottles of a capacity exceeding 150 ml (0.15 liter) of all kinds used for packaging of beverages, used compressors, used air conditioners and used refrigerators, used motor vehicles more than 10 years old, furniture excluding baby walkers, laboratory cabinets, stadium chairs, and skeletal parts of furniture such as blanks, and ballpoint pens and parts, including refills. Effective January 30, 2020, a ban on the importation of Fertilizer and other variants has been introduced. |
| Open general licenses | No. |
| Licenses with quotas | Yes. | Products such as petroleum products and fish have import licenses with quota attached to it. According to Section 4 (1) of the Petroleum Act, no person must import, store, sell, or distribute any petroleum products in Nigeria without a license granted by the Minister. Fish Quota was introduced by Ministry of Agriculture in 2013. |
| Other non tariff measures | Yes. | Imports require an appropriate insurance certificate issued by a registered insurance company in Nigeria. List of items importation of which is not banned but is classified as not valid for foreign exchange on the Nigerian foreign exchange market is also part of non-tariff measures.

In line with the 2008–2012 Tariff Book, in a second attempt to harmonize Nigeria’s tariff regime with the ECOWAS CET, there are five categories of customs duties: (1) category 0 (0%): necessities such as most educational materials; (2) category 1 (5%): primary raw materials; (3) category 2 (10%): intermediate products—for example, CKD refrigerators and televisions; (4) category 3 (20%): finished goods not produced locally and that do not require protection—for example, televisions, refrigerators, generators, etc.; and (5) category 4 (35%): finished goods that are manufactured locally and therefore require some protection in the interest of promoting local industries. Tariff protection is high for finished goods. In addition, the following import surcharges apply: a 5% port development surcharge, a 1% raw materials and development council surcharge, a 0.02% freight rate stabilization surcharge earmarked for the Nigeria Shippers’ Council, and an ECOWAS levy of 0.5%. Certain categories of imports are exempt from import taxes. Imports that were duty-free in the past are now subject to a duty of at least 2.5%. Imports of sugar confectionery are prohibited. Imports of sugar are subject to a 50% duty.

Investment limits are decided by the category of instruments and credit rating, not the residence status of the issuer. All investments in securities (shares and bonds) of eligible entities (period lists provided by PenCom, the regulator) must be through public offerings approved by the Nigerian Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), unless securities listed or quoted in an offshore securities exchange have prior approval by SEC.

Prior approval from the Commission is required.

Investment limits are decided by the category of instruments and credit rating, not the residence status of the issuer.

Subject to approval by the regulator (Nigeria SEC), investment scheme administered in a foreign jurisdiction is allowed.

Stabilized arrangement | Yes. | The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. Under the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations (Article 33), the denar exchange rate is freely determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. This arrangement is still in place under the current legislation. However, the National Bank of the Republic of North Macedonia (NBRNM) participates in the foreign exchange market (Article 34), to achieve the goals determined with the monetary and the foreign exchange policies. The NBRNM is implementing the monetary arrangements. |

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution strategy of targeting the nominal exchange rate against the euro, the intermediary objective of the monetary policy being the maintenance of the denar exchange rate stability. Thus, the NBRNM maintains a stable exchange rate within a narrow fluctuation band of bid-ask exchange rates determined by the Committee for Operational Monetary Policy.

Size and direction of the interventions are published on a regular quarterly basis, in the Quarterly Report of the NBRNM (Balance of Payments section, Financial Account subsection, in the part commenting on the developments of the foreign exchange reserves). The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement.

Official exchange rate | Yes. | On the basis of the daily quotes of the market makers, the NBRNM determines the nominal denar exchange rate against the euro. This rate is determined at the end of each business day as the average of the daily bid-ask quotes for euros among the market makers in the interbank foreign exchange market. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, the official exchange rate is used for accounting and balance of payments statistics. The denar exchange rate is published daily on the NBRNM website.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor | Yes.

U.S. dollar
Euro | Yes. | Beginning in October 1995, the NBRNM implemented a monetary policy strategy of targeting the denar exchange rate against the German mark until 2002 and thereafter against the euro. This monetary policy strategy stems from the importance of the exchange rate of the domestic currency for a small open economy as a transparent nominal anchor for credible monetary policy. Accordingly, the monetary policy framework is using an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro.

Foreign exchange market  Yes.  According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, foreign exchange sales and purchases must take place in the foreign exchange market. The exchange market operates at two levels: wholesale (companies, commercial banks, NBRNM) and retail (foreign exchange bureaus, natural persons). The wholesale market is also divided into two segments: (1) transactions between clients and banks and (2) interbank market transactions. Banks freely set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients, in accordance with supply and demand in the foreign exchange market.

Banks buy and sell foreign exchange on their own account and on behalf of third-party accounts.

Savings houses buy and sell foreign exchange only with a NBRNM license for foreign exchange operation. They may buy and sell foreign exchange on their own behalf only with banks licensed by the NBRNM to deal in the foreign exchange market. Other entities may purchase and sell foreign exchange on their own behalf only with entities (banks and foreign exchange bureaus) approved by the NBRNM. Foreign exchange bureaus have accounts with domestic banks and may engage in transactions, as legal entities, with those banks. Residents other than banks and foreign exchange bureaus may purchase foreign exchange for payments abroad and sell foreign exchange collected from abroad in the foreign exchange market.

Resident natural persons may purchase and sell foreign exchange in the market for other purposes as well. Residents other than natural persons may not purchase or sell foreign exchange through foreign exchange bureaus. As of June 30, 2020, 242 entities were licensed for foreign exchange operations (14 banks, 1 savings house, and 227 foreign exchange bureaus). The foreign exchange bureaus cannot deal directly with the NBRNM. They may purchase foreign currency cash and checks from foreign and domestic natural persons and sell foreign currency cash to domestic and foreign natural persons. Foreign exchange bureaus are not allowed to open and maintain accounts abroad. Their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes, where they may sell foreign currency cash to foreign natural persons in the same way as they sell it to domestic natural persons. Automated teller machines (ATMs) with a function for foreign exchange operations are available to banks.

The NBRNM participates in the foreign exchange market to maintain a stable exchange rate. The frequency of intervention depends on the conditions in the market. The NBRNM intervenes only through banks (market makers). The NBRNM intervenes through market makers on its own initiative or on that of the market makers. The NBRNM bid-ask quotes are published daily on the market makers’ segment of the electronic trading platform. When the NBRNM intervenes on its own initiative, it does so at the quotes of the market makers. When the NBRNM intervenes on the market makers’ initiative, the NBRNM bid-ask quotes are used.

In case there are larger imbalances between supply and demand in the foreign exchange market, the NBRNM may buy and sell foreign currency with all banks.

Operated by the central bank  No.
Foreign exchange standing facility  No.
Allocation  No.
Auction  No.
Fixing  No.
Interbank market  Yes.
Over the counter  Yes.

An electronic trading platform is used for quotes and interbank trading.
All 15 banks licensed to deal in the foreign exchange market participate in the interbank market. The bid-ask spread is limited to MKD 0.25 in the interbank market.

The foreign exchange market, both among banks and between banks and their clients, operates over the counter.
Six banks are market makers in the interbank market. The NBRNM introduced market makers to decrease its presence in the foreign exchange market and to enable banks to satisfy foreign exchange liquidity needs among themselves when demand and supply are in broad equilibrium. The Market Makers’ Agreement as amended in 2014 is in effect. Market makers have the exclusive right to trade with the NBRNM; they must also continuously quote bid-ask rates with a predefined spread. The maximum bid-ask spread on quotes with each other is MKD 0.05 per euro, and the minimum transaction between a market maker and the NBRNM in the foreign exchange market maker segment is €0.5 million. Market makers must quote a bid-ask spread of MKD 0.25 with other banks. No commission is charged on foreign exchange transactions apart from the bid-ask spread.

Outright forward and foreign exchange swap transactions are allowed in the foreign exchange market, but this segment of the market is in the early phase of development, with no regular transactions.

The Macedonian Interbank Payment System offers cross-border payments in euros through Trans-European Automated Real-time Gross settlement Express Transfer system (TARGET2) for domestic banks payments. Furthermore, correspondent banking arrangements of domestic banks with foreign banks are used for commercial payments, and correspondent arrangements of the NBRNM with foreign CBs or commercial banks are used for payments of government agencies and budget entities.

All settlements must be in denars, except (1) purchases and sales of foreign exchange by natural persons from authorized foreign exchange bureaus, (2) principal and interest earnings on resident based on foreign exchange deposit accounts, (3) denomination of contractual obligations among residents, and (4) granting and collection of credit from authorized banks to residents under conditions determined by the NBRNM.

TARGET2 payment system is used for payments in euro through the correspondent arrangement with Banca d’Italia.
The NBRNM controls foreign exchange operations of banks, savings institutions, foreign exchange bureaus, and entities providing fast money transfer services. The MOF (Foreign Exchange Inspectorate) controls foreign exchange and trade operations and credit operations of natural and legal persons for transactions not controlled by the NBRNM. The customs authorities control cross-border transfers of goods, banknotes, securities, and gold.

Only the NBRNM may export or import monetary gold. Exports and imports of other types of gold require the Ministry of Economy (MOE) approval. Other types of gold, such as investment gold, may be traded with certain restrictions. Residents may not invest and trade in investment gold abroad. Nonresidents may invest and trade in investment gold in the RNM in accordance with a special law.

Up to MKD 120,000 may be exported in the form of banknotes or checks by residents and nonresidents. Nonresidents may export larger amounts of domestic currency in cash only with proof of the purchase of denars from bank or withdrawal from a bank account. Domestic banks may export denars in cash sold to a foreign bank based on a written contract, without limitation.

Residents may export up to the equivalent of €2,000 without document or up to €10,000 with document from an exchange bureau or bank (exports exceeding €10,000 are prohibited for residents). Nonresidents may export up to €10,000 without document; larger amounts require a certificate from the customs authorities. The amount exported by nonresidents may not exceed the amount reported on entering North Macedonia.

Up to MKD 120,000 may be imported in the form of banknotes or checks by residents and nonresidents. Nonresidents may import larger amounts of domestic currency in cash only with proof of the purchase of denars from domestic or foreign banks or withdrawal from domestic or foreign bank accounts. Domestic banks may import denars in cash sold to a foreign bank based on a written contract, without limitation.

Residents and nonresidents may import up to the equivalent of €10,000 without document. Larger amounts of cash foreign currency require a “cash and checks declaration form,” in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations and the Decision on the Terms and Amount of Cash Foreign Currency and Checks That May Be Imported or Exported from North Macedonia. This form is provided on entrance or exit from North Macedonia, and a copy is given as a receipt for the imported cash foreign currency.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes.

Residents, on proof of identity, may open foreign exchange accounts without restriction. Residents (legal entities) may open foreign exchange accounts on presentation of registration with the Central Registry (CR). Funds from these accounts may not be transferred abroad, but payments can be made abroad on the basis of appropriate documentation (invoice, contract, etc.) showing international payment liability. The bank identifies the resident natural person on the basis of a valid ID card or passport showing the permanent place of residence in the RNM. The bank identifies foreign natural persons temporarily residing in the RNM on the basis of a residential or working permit valid for at least six months. These provisions are prescribed in the NBRNM Decision on the manner of opening resident foreign currency accounts. Pursuant to amendments to Article 4 Paragraph 3 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, residents which are authorized banks are allowed to hold foreign means of payment on foreign exchange account with the NBRNM for the purposes of conducting payment operations through foreign payment systems, such as the TARGET2, and the NBRNM may approve intraday credit and overnight credit facilities in foreign currency to authorized banks for the smooth performance of payment through such foreign payment systems (Official Gazette Issue 97/15). Pursuant to Article 4 Paragraph 2 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, the domestic banks may keep foreign means of payment on foreign exchange accounts or foreign currency deposits with the banks in the RNM, authorized under the Banking Law.

Approval required

No.

Held abroad

Yes.

The following residents may freely open and maintain accounts abroad:

Diplomatic, consular, and other representative offices of North Macedonia abroad, financed by the budget of the RNM.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia, who temporarily reside abroad for three months or more during their residence abroad.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia, residing temporarily abroad for six months or more during their residence abroad.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia, who temporarily reside abroad during their residence abroad, and have a valid work permit.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia, who temporarily reside abroad as employees of a diplomatic representative office abroad and members of their immediate families, during their residence abroad, and have a valid permit to work in a diplomatic representative office abroad.

Foreign natural persons who temporarily reside in North Macedonia who have valid residence or work permit valid for a period of at least six months.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia who in the foreign country acquired the right to personal retirement, pension of a deceased spouse, welfare, child support, tuition for a child whose parent is deceased, and premium/indemnification of life insurance. The acquired right must be proved by appropriate documentation issued by a competent authority abroad.

Natural persons with permanent residence in North Macedonia, who at the same time have a valid foreign passport containing the address of the residence abroad.

Effective March 8, 2019, the following were also allowed to freely open and maintain accounts abroad without approval: (1) Residents who have sold real property abroad, for collection of claims based on the sale of the property. The acquisition of the property abroad must be confirmed by evidence of the registration in the Registry of the investments in real estate of residents abroad at the Central Registry of the RNM. The sale of the property must be evidenced with a sales agreement. The account in a foreign bank on this basis may be opened only in the country where the property, subject to the sales agreement, is acquired and may only be used for transfer of funds from abroad up to the amount of the sales agreement. (2) Residents who rent out real property abroad, for recovery of claims based on lease of the property. The acquisition of the property abroad must be confirmed by evidence of the registration in the registry of investments in real estate at the Central Registry of the RNM. Renting out the property under lease must be evidenced by a lease agreement. The account in a foreign bank on this basis may be opened only in the country where the property, subject to the lease agreement, is located and may only be used for transfer of funds from abroad up to the lease amount indicated in the lease agreement. (3) Residents who have acquired real property abroad, for payment of costs for the property abroad. The acquisition of the property abroad must be confirmed by evidence of the registration in the registry of investments in real estate at the Central Registry of the RNM. Costs for the property abroad must be evidenced by a relevant document that requires their payment. The account in a foreign bank on this basis may be opened only in the country where the property is located and may only be used for transfer of funds abroad up to the amount of the costs. (4) Residents who hold securities abroad, for collection of claims based on sale of securities abroad, dividends, interests or other proceeds based on securities. The sale of securities must be proved with a sales order or report from the sale of securities abroad, an agreement which regulates the relations with the authorized participant in the securities market or the authorized participant on a foreign stock exchange or organized securities market or other document which confirms the transaction. The claims based on dividends, interests or other proceeds based on securities must be proved with a notification or document for paid dividend, interest or other proceeds from securities, as well as a certificate from securities account issued by a relevant foreign depositary. The order for the inflow must clearly state the basis of the transaction (sale of securities, payment of dividend, interest or other proceeds). The account in a foreign bank on this basis may only be used for the transfer of funds from abroad up to the amount of the claims based on sale of securities abroad, dividends, interests or other proceeds based on securities.

Effective June 22, 2020, the following were also allowed to freely open and maintain accounts without approval: Residents who have an obligation to make a payment to a competent authority or legal entity abroad (notary fee, court fees, bank fees or enforcement costs). The obligation is substantiated by submitting a document in original or a notarized photocopy. Account in a foreign bank on this basis may only be used for transfer of funds from abroad up to the amount of the obligation for payment. The resident may also transfer the balance of the account opened abroad to the RNM even after the expiration of the validity of the document on the basis of which the account was opened.

Accounts in countries that are part of the Single Euro Payments Area (SEPA) are considered to be in a single country.

Residents, legal entities and natural persons may freely open and hold user accounts in foreign electronic payment transaction services only for commercial purposes or for purchasing/selling goods and services electronically.

Pursuant to Article 23 Paragraph 1 of the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, the banks may open and hold accounts abroad.

Approval required: Yes. NBRNM approval is required for a resident: who has concluded a contract for performing investment works abroad; who intends to open a representative office abroad as part of a company; who provides services in the international transport of goods and passengers; who provides services in the area of scholarly work; for collection of claims based on a court decision made by a competent court abroad or extrajudicial settlement concluded abroad; for collection of claims abroad based on Value-added tax returns on commercial transactions; for recovery of claims abroad based on goods delivered or services provided on the basis of won international bids.

Effective March 8, 2019, the following were allowed to freely open and maintain accounts abroad without approval: residents who have sold real property abroad, for recovery of claims based on the sale of the property; residents who rent out real property abroad, for recovery of claims based on lease of the property; residents who have acquired real property abroad, for payment of costs for the property abroad; residents who hold securities abroad, for recovery of claims based on sale of securities abroad, dividends, interests or other proceeds based on the securities.

Effective June 22, 2020, the following were also allowed to freely open and maintain accounts without approval: residents who have an obligation to make a payment to a competent authority or legal entity abroad (notary fee, court fees, bank fees, or enforcement costs).

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad: No.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency: Yes.

References to legal instruments and hyperlinks: Only resident natural persons are permitted to make such transactions. Legal entities are allowed to buy foreign currency only for the purpose of execution of payment order to nonresidents.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted: Yes.

Approval required: No.

Nonresidents may open foreign exchange accounts on proof of identity. Nonresidents, other than diplomatic representatives of foreign countries and representatives of international institutions, must obtain a certificate from the customs authorities for cash deposits larger than the equivalent of €10,000 a month. The certificate is not needed in these cases:

(1) during one month, up to the amount that, under the regulations, a written confirmation is not necessarily issued when entering North Macedonia;

(2) if the funds are actually unspent cash foreign currency previously withdrawn from their accounts, within three months from the withdrawal date;
The method and terms of opening and maintaining nonresident accounts are regulated in the NBRNM Council Decision, which prescribes the basis for the banks to be able to receive payments of cash in foreign currency and in denars.

According to the Law on Foreign Exchange Operations, “securities” denote: (1) shares issued by joint-stock companies and limited partnerships with shares; (2) shares of investment funds operating in accordance with law; (3) bonds, money market instruments, derivative financial instruments, certificate of foreign securities; and (4) other financial instruments which the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) classifies as securities.

Nonresidents are allowed to purchase securities issued locally only through an authorized participant. All foreign investments registered with the CR are protected from nationalization. The transfer of profits and other proceeds is permitted freely after all tax obligations in North Macedonia are met.

Nonresidents may not invest in certain sectors (such as arms production, trade in narcotics, protection of historical and cultural heritage).

There are no other controls on the purchase of shares and securities locally by nonresidents.

Nonresidents may issue or sell locally shares or other securities of a participating nature with permission from the SEC.

Residents may access international financial markets, taking their own investment risk. The requirement for submission of reports to the NBRNM on all residents’ portfolio investments in securities abroad, as well as the modifications in these investments, including their sale, still stands. Direct investments are not restricted, but residents must report the investment and subsequent modifications to the CR within 60 days of the capital transaction—the legal basis for acquisition of a direct investment abroad.

Insurance companies and pension funds may purchase securities abroad in accordance with their appropriate laws. For insurance companies, a maximum of 20% of the total assets covering technical provisions may be invested in securities issued by nonresidents. Pension funds may invest in securities issued outside the RNM up to 50% of total investments, subject to sub-limits.

Permission from the SEC is required for residents to issue securities abroad.

Nonresidents may purchase debt securities issued locally without any... restrictions on their duration. For statistical reporting, purchases of bonds in private placements must be reported on the same forms as credit transactions.

There is no minimum period prescribed for holding of bonds and debt securities.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

No. With the entrance into the second stage of the Stabilization and Association Agreement between the RNM and the EU, the issuance of foreign debt securities in the RNM with maturity over three years was allowed.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. Residents may access international financial markets, taking their own investment risk. The requirement for submission of reports to the NBRNM on all residents’ portfolio investments in securities abroad, as well as the modifications in these investments, including their sale, still stands. Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

- Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions: The NBRNM Credit Register contains a historical database for banks’ and savings houses’ credit exposure (consisting of claims on loans: regular, past due, nonperforming, interest, fees, investments, off-balance-sheet items, etc.) to residents and nonresidents. The database is updated by banks and savings houses monthly.

- Borrowing abroad: Yes.

- Maintenance of accounts abroad: Yes.

- Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits): The total exposure to one entity (including connected parties) may not exceed 25% of a bank’s own funds. If the entity is a qualified shareholder (owning more than 5% of the voting shares of a bank), the total exposure to that entity, including its affiliated parties, may not exceed 10% of the bank’s own funds. The bank’s exposure to its subsidiary including connected persons is limited to 10% of the bank’s own funds.

- Lending locally in foreign exchange: Commercial banks assess the credit risk, both for residents and nonresidents. They may lend in foreign currency to residents for payments abroad. If legal entities intend to use the loan proceeds domestically, the proceeds must be in denars. Credit exposure to one person, including connected parties, may not exceed 25% of a bank’s own funds. The NBRNM determines the conditions for extending loans in foreign exchange.

- Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange: Total credit exposure (loans, securities, etc.) to the issuer (and connected parties) may not exceed 25% of a bank’s own funds. If the entity is a qualified shareholder (owns more than 5% of the voting shares of a bank), the total exposure to that entity, including its affiliated parties, may not exceed 10% of the bank’s own funds. The bank’s exposure to a subsidiary including connected parties is limited to 10% of its own funds. A bank’s investment in shares of a nonfinancial institution may not exceed 15% of its own funds.

- Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange: Yes.

- Reserve requirements: The reserve requirement (RR) ratio on foreign currency liabilities is 15%; for domestic currency liabilities with a foreign exchange clause, it is 50%; and for domestic currency liabilities, it is 8%. For banks’ short-term liabilities to nonresident financial companies with contractual maturity up to one year, the RR is 13%. In addition, the RR ratio of 0% is applied to following categories: (1) liabilities to natural persons in domestic currency with contractual maturity of over one year as well as to all liabilities to natural persons (in domestic currency with foreign exchange clause and in... foreign currency), with contractual maturity of over two years; (2) liabilities based on repo transactions in domestic currency; (3) liabilities based on issued debt securities in domestic currency and original maturity of at least two years, in the amount of the nominal value; (4) liabilities to nonresidents – financial institutions in domestic currency, in domestic currency with foreign exchange clause and in foreign currency, with contractual maturity of over one year and liabilities to nonresidents in domestic currency, in domestic currency with foreign exchange clause and in foreign currency, with contractual maturity of over two years.

RR in domestic currency is fulfilled with funds on the accounts with the NBRNM, on average basis during the RR period.

For the RR in euro (EUR), 30% of the amount calculated by applying the RR rate on foreign currency liabilities is fulfilled in domestic currency. The rest of the amount of RR in euro is fulfilled on fix level, by placing funds on the NBRNM accounts abroad up to 95% of the RR on the first day of period, while 5% of RR in EUR is fulfilled with funds on bank foreign exchange accounts in the domestic payment system. The NBRNM charges remuneration on RR in euro at a rate equal to the interest rate on the ECB’s overnight deposit facility applicable as of the last day of the reserve maintenance period. If the average daily outstanding amount of bank’s funds allocated to the foreign exchange account in euro in the domestic payment system exceeds 5% of the calculated RR in euro for the entire reserve maintenance period, remuneration is charged on the excess allocated funds at a rate equal to the interest rate on the ECB’s overnight deposit facility applicable as of the last day of the reserve maintenance period less 0.15 percentage points.

Liquid asset requirements

No.

The following minimum liquidity requirements apply: (1) a liquidity ratio of up to 30 days equal to 1, as a ratio of assets and liabilities maturing in the following 30 days; and (2) a liquidity ratio of up to 180 days equal to 1, as a ratio of assets and liabilities maturing in the following 180 days.

The limit on the aggregate open foreign exchange position is 30% of banks’ own funds. Limits on positions in each currency must be determined internally by each bank.

Insurance companies, pension funds, and investment funds may purchase securities abroad in accordance with the laws governing their operations.

The assets covering technical provisions are subject to limits; a maximum of 20% of the total assets covering technical provisions may be invested in securities issued by nonresidents.

The assets covering technical provisions are subject to limits; a maximum of 20% of the total assets covering technical provisions may be invested in securities issued by nonresidents.

The following limits apply to the investment of the assets covering technical provisions: (1) cash and assets of business accounts of insurance companies (bank accounts), up to 3%; (2) deposits in banks licensed by the NBRNM, up to 60%; (3) securities issued by the RNM and NBRNM and bonds and other debt securities guaranteed by the RNM, up to 80%; (4) bonds and other debt securities issued or guaranteed by a local government of the RNM, up to 10%; (5) bonds and other debt securities traded on a regulated securities market in the RNM, up to 35%—investments in the same issuer may not exceed 5%; (6) bonds and other debt securities not traded on a regulated securities market whose issuer is a legal entity established in the RNM, up to 5%—investments in the same issuer may not exceed 1%; (7) shares traded on a regulated securities market in the RNM, up to 25%—investments in the same issuer may not exceed 5%; (8) shares not traded on a regulated securities market whose issuer is a legal entity established in the RNM, up to 5%—investments in the same issuer may not exceed 1%; and (9) shares and shares of investment funds registered in the RNM, up to 20%.

The following limits apply to the investment of capital: (1) Up to 60% may be invested in real estate, equity capital of other insurance companies, and financial institutions and other legal entities. (2) Up to 15% may be used for advance payments and loans approved by the insurance company under the general terms and conditions of insurance, based on presentation of the company’s policies for which premiums are paid on time. Individual investments of the insurance company in such loans may not exceed 1% of the value of its capital.

Assets covering technical provisions must be diversified to avoid overreliance on any one category of assets, market, or investment. The insurance company must adjust its investments in assets covering the technical provisions that are exposed to potential loss resulting from a change in interest rates, exchange rate fluctuations, credit risk, and other market risks to the liabilities under insurance contracts affected by those changes.

Pension funds’ investments are subject to the following limits: (1) no limit for single bonds issued and authorized by EU and OECD governments; (2) 5% of total investment in instruments issued by a single company authorized in an EU or OECD country; (3) 15% of total investment in participation units or shares of investment funds issued by a single investment company authorized in an EU or OECD country; and (4) 5% of total investment in participation units or shares of a single investment fund managed by a company authorized in an EU or OECD country.

Mandatory pension funds may invest in (1) securities issued outside the RNM, up to 50% of total investments; (2) bonds, bills, and other securities issued or authorized by foreign governments or CBs of an EU or OECD country, up to 50% of total investments; (3) bonds, bills, and other fixed-income securities of private foreign companies or banks of an EU or OECD country, up to 30% of total investments; and (4) shares and securities traded on the primary stock exchange of an EU or OECD country and in participation units, shares, and other securities of mutual and investment funds based and authorized in an EU or OECD country that invest primarily in quoted equities in these countries, up to 30% of total investments. Voluntary pension funds may invest in (1) securities issued outside the RNM, up to 50% of total investments. Within this limit they may invest in (a) debt securities of municipalities, nongovernment foreign companies, or banks of EU and OECD members with an investment-grade-level rating from a reputable international rating agency; (b) shares issued by foreign companies or banks with an investment-grade-level rating by a reputable international rating agency and traded on the main stock exchanges of EU and OECD members; and (c) participation units, shares, and other securities issued by authorized open-end and closed-end investment funds established in EU and OECD members, up to 30% of total investments; and (2) bonds and other securities issued by foreign governments or CBs of EU and OECD members and debt securities issued by the ECB, EIB, and World Bank, up to 50% of total investments.

Pension funds’ investments may not exceed (1) 80% of total investments in bonds, bills, and other securities issued or guaranteed by the RNM or the NBRNM; (2) 30%, in the case of mandatory pension funds and 60%, in the case of voluntary pension funds, of total investments in interest-bearing bank deposits in banks licensed by the NBRNM; (3) 60% of total investments in certificates of deposit (CDs), bonds, and mortgage-backed securities issued or guaranteed by banks licensed by the NBRNM; (4) 40% of total investments in bonds and other securities issued by joint-stock companies (other than banks) in the RNM approved by the SEC and traded on organized and supervised RNM securities markets and in commercial notes issued by first-class joint-stock companies (other than banks) in the RNM; (5) 10% of total investment in bonds issued by municipalities in the RNM for mandatory pension funds and for voluntary pension funds; (6) 30% of total investments in shares issued with SEC approval by joint-stock companies in the RNM, other than closed-end investment funds, and traded on organized and supervised RNM securities markets; (7) 5% of total investments in participation units and shares of open-end and closed-end investment funds in the RNM authorized by the SEC under the Law on Investment Funds; and (8) for mandatory pension funds, 1.5% of total investment in participation units and shares of private investment funds in the RNM authorized by the SEC that invest in shares and participation units of micro, small, and medium RNM companies.

These are not applicable to defined contribution systems.

Official exchange rate

| Yes. | The NB’s exchange rates are middle rates (that is, the midpoint between buying and selling rates in the interbank market at a given time). Rates are usually determined at 2:15 p.m. local time. On July 1, 2016, the NB changed the publication time of the daily exchange rate to around 4:00 p.m. local time. The change was made as a result of the change in publication time by the ECB of the euro foreign exchange reference rates. The exchange rates are intended to serve only as an indication and are not binding on the NB or other banks, but they are often used as a reference and for historical comparisons. |

Inflation-targeting framework Yes.

Target setting body Yes.

Government Yes.

The objective of monetary policy has been laid down by the government and submitted to the Storting (Parliament). The responsibility for the conduct of monetary policy is delegated to the NB pursuant to the NB Act and appurtenant regulation. NB’s most important monetary policy instrument is the key policy rate, which is the interest rate on banks’ deposits up to a quota in the NB. NB’s Monetary Policy and Financial Stability Committee is responsible for NBs role as the executive and advisory monetary policy authority and for the use of policy instruments to attain the monetary policy objectives. The Committee is appointed by the King in Council and consists of the Governor, the two Deputy Governors, and two external members. The Committee functions as a unified group and the members are collectively responsible for the Bank’s decisions. NBs Monetary policy assessment has included voting records of monetary policy meetings since June 21, 2017.

Central Bank

Monetary Policy Committee

Central Bank Board

Other

Government and Central Bank

Inflation target Yes.

Target number Yes.

Point target Yes. The point target is set as the annual consumer price inflation of close to 2% over time. It was revised to 2% through Royal Decree, on March 2, 2018, pursuant to Section 2, third paragraph, of Act No. 28 of May 24, 1985, on Norges Bank and the Monetary System, etc. (NB Act).

Target with tolerance band

Band/Range

Target measure Yes. Monetary policy shall maintain monetary stability by keeping inflation low and stable. The operational target of monetary policy shall be annual consumer price inflation of close to 2% over time. Inflation targeting shall be forward-looking and flexible so that it can contribute to high and stable output and employment and to countering the buildup of financial imbalances.

CPI Yes. The operational target of monetary policy is annual consumer price inflation of close to 2% over time. The NB uses the consumer price index (CPI) defined and published by Statistics Norway.

Core inflation

Target horizon Yes. The NB sets the interest rate with a view the aim of stabilizing inflation around the target in the medium term. The horizon will depend on disturbances to which the economy is exposed and the effects on the outlook for inflation and the real economy. In its conduct of monetary policy, NB takes into account indicators of underlying consumer price inflation.

Operating target (policy rate) Yes.

Each bank with an account at the NB is assigned an individual quota for reserves (in nominal Norwegian krone (NOK) terms). Reserves within the quota are remunerated at the key policy rate. Reserves in excess of the quota are remunerated at the reserve rate, which is equal to the sight deposit rate minus 100 basis points. The upper limit in the interest rate corridor is equal to the D-loan rate, which is the interest rate on NB’s standing lending facility. Foreign ownership of shares of Omani companies is generally limited to 70%, but it may be increased to 100% by government. For prudential purposes, all locally incorporated banks must be public joint-stock companies and must comply with the regulation on shareholding limits (that is, up to 15% for an individual and related parties, up to 25% for an incorporated body, and up to 35% for a joint-stock company or a holding company and its related parties). These prudential limits apply equally to resident and nonresident investors that invest in locally incorporated banks.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. Exchange rate is determined by the market forces, that is, demand and supply of foreign exchange. The State Bank of Pakistan (SBP) does not explicitly or implicitly commit to an exchange rate target or path. The SBP intervenes in the market to curb speculative pressures for ensuring smooth functioning of the markets. In June 2019 the SBP issued a circular to Banks explaining that (i) the SBP moves to a flexible market-determined exchange rate with a focus on price stability; (ii) interventions are limited to safeguarding financial stability and preventing disorderly market conditions (DMC); and (iii) banks are free to quote and trade at any exchange rate. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed. The SBP does not publish data related to market intervention.

The SBP’s monetary policy framework is characterized by an emphasis on anchoring inflation expectations to the medium-term inflation target range announced by the government using short-term interest rates. It can be termed as a regime in transition toward flexible inflation targeting (FIT).

Under this approach, an independent MPC examines various indicators from the real, external, financial, and fiscal sectors, along with their model-based forecasts and stakeholder surveys, to assess the inflation outlook as well as the state of the output gap. On the basis of this information, the MPC decides on the policy rate that would be appropriate to manage inflation expectations, while promoting growth and safeguarding financial stability. Furthermore, the government has shifted from announcing an annual inflation target to a medium-term target range since 2019, which currently is 5–7%.

This modernized framework also requires an enhanced communication policy. Hence, in line with best practices for monetary policy communication, SBP now publishes minutes of the MPC meeting and the voting pattern, holds regular press conferences and review sessions with research houses after MPC meetings, engages in public debates on the economy, and is also making its presence felt over the social media.

A fully functioning MPC since January 2016, the announcement of a medium-term inflation target, the adoption of a flexible market-determined exchange rate regime, and enhanced communication represent critical steps toward formally adopting a flexible inflation-targeting framework for monetary policy. In addition, statutory steps involved in the formal adoption of such a framework are also under consideration by the government.

Since 2009, the SBP has adopted an interest rate corridor (IRC) framework for monetary policy transmission. In May 2015, the SBP introduced a policy target rate. In March 2020, SBP introduced further changes in the IRC framework to reflect best international practices, that is, making the IRC symmetric with uniform upper and lower bands around the policy target rate. Since June 25, 2020, the policy target rate is set at 7.00%, SBP’s reverse repo rate (that is, ceiling rate) at 8.00%, and SBP’s repo rate (that is, floor rate) at 6.00%. This uniformity is expected to allow for better transmission of policy rate to market interest rates.

Exchange tax

Exchange subsidy
No.

Foreign exchange market
Yes.

Banks may determine their own rates of exchange, both for ready and forward transactions for the public, subject to the condition that the margin between the buying and selling rates should not exceed 50 paisa per US dollar or its equivalent in other currencies. There are no SBP restrictions on bid-ask spreads of interbank transactions.

For Exchange Companies (ECs) and Exchange Companies of ‘B’ category (ECBs), the spread between the buying and selling rates of US dollar, pound sterling, euro, Saudi Arabian riyal, and U.A.E. dirham may not exceed 1% of their buying rate. For all other foreign currencies, the ECs/ECBs need to ensure to maintain a competitive spread.

Spot exchange market
Yes.

The SBP issues licenses to banks to operate as ADs, in foreign exchange. As of December 31, 2019, the number of ADs was 29. The SBP also issues licenses to ECs to deal in foreign currency notes, coins, postal notes, money orders, bank drafts, traveler’s checks, and remittance transfers and licenses to ECBs under the prescribed criteria. ECBs may purchase and sell foreign currency notes and coins only. ECs/ECBs deal with individuals only.

Hotels with a three-star rating or higher may also buy foreign currency from their customers. As of December 31, 2019, 27 full-fledged ECs, 25 ECBs, and 29 (restricted authorized) hotels were operational. ECs may make outward remittances in accordance with the regulations. Importers, exporters, and businesses may shop around for the best rates without recourse to the SBP. Individuals may purchase foreign exchange from or sell it to ECs/ECBs at freely negotiated rates in accordance with the regulations. Banks are limited to a spread of 50 paisa in all foreign currency quotes to customers. For ECs/ECBs, the spread between the buying and selling rates of US dollar, pound sterling, euro, Saudi Arabian riyal, and U.A.E. dirham may not exceed 1% of their buying rate. For all other foreign currencies, the ECs/ECBs need to ensure to maintain a competitive spread (Foreign Exchange Circular No. 06 of May 12, 2015).

ECs/ECBs may not make trade-related remittances on behalf of their customers. To focus ECs on their primary function of promoting home remittances, ECs may make outward remittances on behalf of bona fide customers for permissible transactions for up to 75% of the home remittances they handled in the preceding month. ECs must report remittances in the prescribed format by the fifth day of every month (FE Circular No. 04 of 2008). Some government foreign exchange transactions (for example, debt-service payments) are conducted directly by the SBP, at interbank market rates.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Banks may offer foreign exchange accounts to residents. Holders of frozen (old) foreign exchange accounts may purchase special US dollar bonds of the Government of Pakistan (GOP) against outstanding balances or convert the foreign currency to rupees at the prevailing exchange rate.

Held domestically Yes. Foreign currency accounts may be credited with remittances received from abroad, traveler’s checks issued outside Pakistan (whether in the name of account holder or in the name of any other person), and foreign exchange generated by encashment of securities issued by the GOP. A foreign currency account of a citizen of Pakistan resident in Pakistan may also be credited with cash foreign currency, but only if the account holder is a filer as defined in the Income Tax Ordinance of 2001.

However, a foreign currency account cannot be credited with (a) any foreign exchange borrowed under any general or specific permission given by SBP, unless otherwise permitted; (b) any proceeds from goods exported from Pakistan; (c) proceeds of securities issued or sold to nonresidents; (d) any payment received for services rendered in or from Pakistan; (e) earnings or profits of the overseas offices or branches of Pakistani firms and companies including banks, or investment of resident Pakistanis abroad; and (f) any foreign exchange purchased from an AD in Pakistan for any purpose. Foreign exchange accounts of resident corporations and legal entities may not be credited with foreign currency purchased from the open market.
These accounts may be permanently retained, and operations and remittances from foreign exchange accounts are not restricted. ADs may keep or invest their deposits abroad or in Pakistan. ADs that lend these funds to borrowers in Pakistan for trade-related activities must observe SBP prudential regulations. ADs may decide the rate of return they offer to depositors. ADs may open foreign currency accounts and extend trade loans under the FE-25 program in US dollars, pounds sterling, euros, Japanese yen, Canadian dollars, U.A.E. dirhams, Saudi Arabian riyals, Chinese renminbi, Swiss francs, and Turkish liras.

Nonresident Accounts

The following may open foreign exchange account with ADs, without prior approval of the State Bank, (a) Pakistan Nationals residing in or outside Pakistan, including those having a dual nationality. (b) All foreign nationals, whether residing abroad or in Pakistan. (c) Joint Account in the names of residents and nonresidents. (d) All diplomatic missions accredited to Pakistan and their Diplomatic Officers. (e) All International Organizations in Pakistan. (f) Firms and companies established/incorporated and functioning in Pakistan (g) Charitable Trusts, Foundations, etc. (h) Branches of foreign firms and companies in Pakistan. (i) Nonresident Exchange Companies, even if owned by a bank or financial institution. (j) All foreign firms/corporations, other than banks and financial institutions owned by Banks, incorporated and operating abroad, provided these are owned by persons who are otherwise eligible. (k) Exchange Companies licensed by SBP. However, the facility is not available to airlines and shipping companies operating in/through Pakistan or collecting passage and freight in Pakistan and the investment banks, leasing companies, and modaraba companies, including those which have been granted licenses to deal in foreign exchange.

Outward remittances may be made from foreign currency accounts, unless restricted for some specific purpose. However, personal foreign currency accounts of any nature should not be used for commercial and business purposes.

ADs are free to decide the rate of return they offer to depositors. Deposit holders wishing to make payments in Pakistan in rupees must first convert the foreign exchange drawn from their accounts to rupees. If Pakistan nationals holding such accounts return to Pakistan, they may retain the accounts permanently. Funds mobilized under the foreign exchange account program need not be surrendered to the SBP, nor does the SBP provide forward cover for such accounts.
The accounts of individuals, firms, or companies residing abroad are designated nonresident accounts. Different rules apply to the nonresident rupee accounts of individuals, firms, and companies, on one hand, and to the nonresident rupee accounts of banks, on the other hand.

Banks may open and maintain, effective July 16, 2019, two categories of nonresident rupee accounts for individuals and entities without prior approval of the State Bank.

1. Nonresident Rupee Account-Repatriable (NRAR):
Debits and credits of such accounts are subject to applicable regulations. An automated teller machine (ATM)/debit card to the account holder and supplementary ATM/debit cards in the name of family members of the account holder resident in Pakistan may be issued. These cards may be used for transactions in and outside Pakistan.

2. Nonresident Rupee Account-Non-repatriable (NRAN):
All legitimate debit and credit transactions in these accounts as those permissible for resident Pakistani rupee (PKR) accounts are allowed. However, the funds available in these accounts may not be used abroad through ATM/debit cards or other delivery channels.

Previously, banks could open nonresident accounts for nonbank nonresidents without SBP approval if the accounts were opened with funds received from abroad through banking channels or with rupee funds accepted for remittance abroad. Debits and credits to nonresident accounts for specified purposes could be made by authorized banks without approval.

Foreign shipping companies and airlines with offices or agents in Pakistan can open and operate interest-bearing rupee accounts, provided the interest is used only to meet local expenses. Banks could issue bank cards as well as supplementary bank cards to individual nonresident rupee account holders. Withdrawals were allowed only in Pakistan.

Domestic currency accounts are convertible to foreign currency when opened as convertible rupee accounts with funds received from abroad or credited with funds otherwise accepted for remittance abroad.

A blocked account refers to an account opened as a blocked account at any branch or office in Pakistan of a bank authorized in this behalf by the State Bank or an account blocked by the order of the State Bank.

Holders of frozen (old) foreign exchange accounts are permitted to purchase US dollar bonds of the GOP against outstanding balances in their foreign exchange accounts.

The State Bank may not approve certain remittances in settlement of liabilities to a particular person resident outside Pakistan. Payments in discharge of such liabilities to such person may be allowed to be made to a blocked account, subject to such terms and conditions as may be specified by the State Bank.

The State Bank may issue special instructions regarding operations on blocked accounts. In the absence of any such special instructions, no payments into or withdrawal from blocked accounts may be made, unless prior approval of the State Bank has been obtained.

Customs’ system called Web based One Customs (WeBOC). Now, the importers must fill the Electronic I-Form electronically before initiating an import transaction.

There is a requirement of preshipment inspection from preshipment agencies notified via Appendices D, H, and O of the IPO for import of secondhand machinery, specialized machinery, equipment, ambulances, ground handling equipment, etc., and certain goods which could affect public health and the environment.

LC is one of the modes and not the only mode for import payments, importers may use other modes of payments such as open account, contract, or advance payments.

Import licenses are not required.

Generally, there is no positive list for trade. However, for imports from India through land route—that is, Wagah Border, there is a positive list of 138 items under various Harmonized System (HS) codes. However, effective September 8, 2019, trade with India has been suspended.

A total of 45 items under various HS codes are on the negative list, which is compiled on the basis of products banned for religious and health reasons and products banned as a result of Pakistan’s commitment to international agreements. There are also 1,209 items which are on the negative list for imports from India.

The importation of ozone-depleting substances (N. 18, Part-I, Appendix-B of IPO 2016 of April 18, 2016) is subject to policy and quota allocations of the Ministry of Climate Change. There is also a quantitative restriction in case of chemicals notified via S. Nos. 19–38 of Appendix-B of the IPO.

Imports from Israel and of goods of Israeli origin are prohibited. There are 75 items on the restricted list that are importable by specific consumers under conditions prescribed in Part-I, Appendix-B of the IPO. There are 35 items for which procedural requirements are prescribed in Part-II, Appendix-B of the IPO considering the health and safety issues. Around 103 items notified in the IPO have to meet minimum standards at the import stage.

Pursuant to Finance Act 2019, effective July 1, 2019, the rates of tax to be collected by the Collector of Customs under Section 148 are as follows: (1) 1% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for (a) industrial enterprise importing remeltable steel (Pakistan Customs Tariff (PCT) Heading 72.04) and directly reduced iron for its own use; (b) persons importing potassic fertilizers in pursuance of Economic Coordination Committee of the cabinet’s decision No. ECC-155/12/2004 of December 9, 2004; (c) persons importing urea; (d) manufacturers covered under Notification Statutory Regulatory Order (SRO) No. 1125(I)/2011; (e) persons importing gold; (f) persons importing cotton; and (g) persons importing liquefied natural gas (LNG). (2) 2% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for persons importing pulses. (3) 3% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for commercial importers covered under Notification...
SRO No. 1125(I)/2011 of December 31, 2011, and importing items covered under SRO No. 1125(I)/2011 of December 31, 2011. (4) 4% for persons importing coal. (5) 4% for persons importing finished pharmaceutical products that are not manufactured otherwise in Pakistan, as certified by the Drug Regulatory Authority of Pakistan. (6) 4.5% for ship breakers on import of ships. (7) 5.5% for industrial enterprises not covered under S. Nos. 1–6. (8) 5.5% for companies not covered under S. Nos. 1–7. (9) 6% for persons not covered under S. Nos. 1–8. (10) 1.75% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for industrial enterprise importing plastic raw material falling under PCT Heading 39.01–39.12 for its own use. (11) 4.5% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for commercial importer, importing plastic raw material falling under PCT Heading 39.01–39.12.

The rate of tax on import of mobile phones by any person is as follows based on the cost and freight (c.f.r.) value of mobile phone in US dollars: (1) Rs 70 for those up to US$30; (2) Rs 730 for those exceeding US$30 and up to US$100; (3) Rs 930 for those exceeding US$100 and up to US$200; (4) Rs 970 for those exceeding US$200 and up to US$350; (5) Rs 3,000 for those exceeding US$350 and up to US$500; (6) Rs 5,200 for those exceeding US$500. The provisions of Section 148 do not apply to mobile phones brought in personal baggage under the Baggage Rules 2006 (under Clause (60E) of Part IV of the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Ordinance 2001).

These tax rates are increased by 100% for persons whose names do not appear in the active taxpayers’ list under Rule 1 of the Tenth Schedule to the Income Tax Ordinance 2001. Previously, the tax rates for non-filers varied with the type of import and for many categories they were less than 100% greater than the rates for filers.

Effective March 20, 2020, the tax withheld on import of medical and testing equipment for COVID-19 outbreak was exempted. No advance tax on imports of tillage and seedbed preparation equipment, seeding or planting equipment, irrigation, drainage, and agrochemical application equipment, harvesting, threshing, and storage equipment, postharvest handling and processing, and miscellaneous machinery, as specified in Clause (91) (Annex-1) of Part-IV of the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Ordinance 2001, is levied under Section 148.

Withholding tax under Section 148 on import of hybrid cars is collected at the following reduced rates: 100% for cars with engine capacity of up to 1200 cc, 50% for 1201–1800 cc, and 25% for 1801–2500 cc.

Effective July 1, 2019, the tax withheld on import from a commercial importer is a minimum tax. The policy for income and tax changed from a “final tax regime” to a “minimum tax regime” to improve the realization of the tax potential and reduce domestic and international transfer pricing for tax purposes. Previously, the final tax regime was applicable to commercial importers, traders of goods, contractors, brokerage and commission, etc. Persons involved in certain transactions were not required to pay tax on actual profit, maintain books of accounts, or undergo audit. Instead, the tax deducted or collected on these transactions was treated as final tax.

Taxes collected through the exchange system
No.

State import monopoly
No. The Trading Corporation of Pakistan imports basic commodities, that is, wheat, sugar, and urea, to meet the demand and supply gap as and when directed by the federal government.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements
Yes. Proceeds must be repatriated through an AD by the due date or within six months of the date of shipment, whichever is earlier, except for hand-knotted carpets for which the repatriation time is 270 days from the date of shipment. Exporters may retain export proceeds, including advance payments in foreign currency, with an AD for three working days and sell them to ADs, who keep the retained proceeds in special exporters’ accounts.

Surrender requirements
Yes.

Surrender to the central bank
No.

Surrender to authorized dealers
Yes. Exporters are required to sell export proceeds in the interbank market within three working days. Exporters may retain between 2% and 15% of the free-on-board (f.o.b.) value in their net foreign exchange accounts to effect foreign payments for such expenses as advertising, purchases of designs and patterns, market studies, and bona fide export claims and to cover export proceeds, without SBP approval. For software and service sector exports, this limit is 35%. Exporters reporting an increase of more than 10% in export earnings may keep 50% of the additionally earned amount in foreign exchange accounts.

Financing requirements
Yes. Foreign currency financing is available for a maximum of 180 days. All foreign exchange loans against intended exports may be settled only through export proceeds or remittances from abroad. However, to facilitate exporters, SBP has modified the above policy covering all aspects of foreign currency financing requirements from issuance of loans till their final settlements. Further, ADs have been delegated powers to settle outstanding export loans up to US$50,000 (or equivalent in other foreign currencies) themselves through interbank market.

Documentation requirements
Yes. The documents required are a firm order, invoices, goods declaration, transport document of goods (B/L, airway bill (AWB)), and Form E. The goods declaration is filed by the exporter during the clearance of goods at ports/airports, etc. The Form E requirement does not apply to exports of textbooks for schools and colleges for Pakistani students and other institutions operating under embassies abroad. This exemption also applies to literary, religious, educational, and general books if the value of individual shipments does not exceed US$10,000 or its equivalent.

Letters of credit
No.

Guarantees
No.

Domiciliation
No.

Preshipment inspection
Yes. As per S. No. 7, Schedule II of the Export Policy Order 2016, the export of rice is subject to the conditions and procedures specified by the Ministry of Commerce. At the moment, no specific procedure has been specified by the Ministry of Commerce. Whereas, as per S. No. 17, Schedule II of the Export Policy Order 2016, the export of surgical instruments is subject to certificate/test report to be issued by the Sialkot Material Testing Laboratory. The Department of Plant Protection regulates the transborder management of consignments of plant and plant material under the Pakistan Plant Quarantine Act, 1976, and Rules, 1967, and International Standards for Phytosanitary Measures developed under the International Plant Protection Convention through its plant quarantine outposts established at all exit/entry points, the department issues phytosanitary certificates. Imports and exports of animal products are regulated through the Pakistan Animal and Quarantine Department (Import and Export of Animals and Animal Products) Ordinance, 1979 (Ordinance No. XLIX of 1979). The Marine Fisheries Department enforces Pakistan Fish Inspection and Quality Control Act, 1997, and issues certificates of quality for fish and fish products for exportation.

- By residents to nonresidents Yes. These credits are not allowed. However, ADs may extend rupee overdrafts to foreign nationals locally up to the extent of their requirements.

- To residents from nonresidents Yes. Foreign currency loans could only be raised from abroad within the defined maximum spread over relevant benchmark and tenor of the loan.
backup facilities

By residents to nonresidents

Yes. Prior approval of SBP is required for issuance of guarantee by residents in favor of nonresidents, except guarantees related to performance/bid bond and offshore foreign currency loans. Guarantees, securities, and financial backup facilities issued by companies to nonresident directors of companies are subject to compliance with Section 182 of the Companies Act 2017, which prescribes that guarantees, loans, and securities to directors (residents or nonresident) be granted after the approval of SECP and for the given purpose only.

To residents from nonresidents

Yes. In case a Pakistani bank issues guarantee on behalf of nonresident in favor of resident, prior approval from Foreign Exchange Operations Department (FEOD), SBP Banking Services Commission (BSC) will be required. These transactions are subject to compliance with other credit controls.

Controls on direct investment

Yes.

Outward direct investment

Yes. Direct investment abroad requires approval under foreign exchange laws. Pakistanis as well as residents, including firms and companies, may make equity-based investments, other than portfolio investments, in companies abroad (for example, joint ventures); however, proceeds from such investments must be repatriated. Investments in associated foreign companies/enterprises are subject to compliance with Section 199 of the Companies Act 2017, which requires prior approval of members in a general meeting. Regulation No. 5(7) of the Companies (Investment in Associated Companies or Associated Undertakings) Regulations 2017 specifies that a company may not extend to an associated company or associated undertaking any loan or advance as running finance, revolving line of credit, or any other similar facility for a period beyond one year. Members may approve renewal of such loans or advances, pursuant to Section 199 of the Act. Substantial shareholders or officers of companies having shareholding in a foreign company or corporate body must report to the company their shareholding in specified manner. Companies must report to the Commission the information received during the year, through the annual return.

Inward direct investment

Yes. Approval is not required for investment in the manufacturing, agriculture, infrastructure, social, and services sectors, except the banking sector. There is no minimum foreign equity investment requirement in any sector except banking. The cash reserve requirement (CRR) for all conventional banks is a fortnightly average of 5% (subject to a daily minimum of 3%) on total demand liabilities and time deposits with a tenor of less than one year. Time liabilities (excluding time deposits with a tenor of less than one year) are exempt from the CRR. DFIs must maintain a CRR of 1% of their total time and demand liabilities during the reserve maintenance period. The reserve maintenance period for banks and DFIs is two weeks, starting on a Friday and ending on a Thursday. Liabilities subject to the statutory reserve requirement as of close of business on Friday (the first day of the reserve maintenance period) are taken into account for determination of the required CRR. MFBs must keep a CRR equivalent to 5% of deposits (including demand deposits and time deposits with a tenor of less than one year). Foreign currency deposits raised under FE Circular No. 25 of 1998 are subject to the CRR and a special cash reserve requirement (SCRR). The CRR on foreign currency deposits of commercial banks is 5%. Effective April 20, 2020, the SCRR is 10% (previously, it was 15%). The CRR on foreign currency deposits of Islamic banks is 5%; the SCRR is 6%. There is no system of averaging period being adopted for the reserve requirement on foreign currency deposits.

The reserve maintenance week starts from Friday and ends the following Thursday. For this reserve maintenance period, all the relevant ratios are required to be maintained on daily basis, based on foreign currency balances as of previous Friday (that is, with lag of one week).

Deposit-taking NBFCs must keep 15% of their customer deposits (excluding deposits of financial institutions) in government securities or instruments or investments prescribed by the Commission. Such investments or instruments must be valued at cost or market value whichever is lower and any shortfall in the value of such investments or instruments must be immediately made up. Provided these instruments or investments are for the benefit of the depositors only, such instruments must be kept unencumbered and disclosed separately in the financial statements of the NBFC. This condition also applies to a deposit-taking NBFC whose permission to raise deposits has been suspended or cancelled until all deposits have been repaid.

The SLR for all banks is 19% of total demand liabilities and time deposits with tenors of less than one year. Time liabilities (excluding time deposits with a tenor of less than one year) are not subject to the SLR. SLR for Islamic banks/Islamic banking branches is 14%. The DFIs must keep 15% of their total time and demand liabilities as SLR. MFBs must keep an SLR equivalent to 10% of total demand liabilities and time liabilities with a tenor of less than one year.

Banks accepting foreign currency deposits may not invest these funds in foreign-currency- or local-currency-denominated instruments below investment grade. They may not invest or place such deposits in fund management plans of other banks, DFIs, or NBFCs in Pakistan or abroad. The investing bank may not place in a single institution an amount exceeding 25% of the total investable funds, available with the investing bank, under the FE-25 Deposit Scheme. Banks must comply with all other relevant prudential regulations.

Investment by nonresidents is allowed in banks. However, 5% or more shareholding is subject to SBP approval.

The foreign exchange exposure limit (FEEL) is applicable on overall basis, irrespective of resident or nonresident status of assets and liabilities.

The FEEL is applicable on overall basis, irrespective of resident or nonresident status of assets and liabilities. Effective July 22, 2020, the aggregate FEEL for each bank is 25% (increased from 20%) of its audited paid-up capital (free of losses) based on their share in foreign exchange market volumes. The maximum cap on FEEL is PRs 5.0 billion (increased from PRs 3.5 billion). However, the SBP reserves the right to assign reduced FEEL to any AD keeping in view of its behavior in the foreign exchange market.

The SBP, in consultation with SECP, allowed local insurance companies to issue US-dollar-denominated insurance policies on a notional basis to meet the condition of foreign lenders for foreign currency loans. Issuers must obtain a recommendation letter from the SECP for each issuance proposal as prescribed in the SECP Circular of December 11, 2017. However, premium and claims are required to be paid in PKR only.

Nonresidents’ issuance of securities in the local market requires SECP approval. Resident insurance companies may purchase... securities issued by nonresidents, if these securities have been approved by the SECP, on their own behalf with no restrictions. However, these investments may or may not be admissible for determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company in question has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of Insurance Ordinance 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017.

Investment for the purpose as per Section 32(6) of the Insurance Ordinance 2000 includes all forms of shares, debentures, bonds, deposits, and other securities and derivatives instruments, and includes immovable property whether or not occupied by the insurer.

| Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad | Yes. | Resident insurance companies may invest abroad on their own behalf with no restrictions. However, these investments may or may not be admissible for determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company in question has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of Insurance Ordinance 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017. |
| Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally | Yes. | Under Section 35 read with Rule No. 16 of the Insurance Rules 2017, 30% of the shareholder or statutory fund of a life insurer other than the portion with investment-linked policies alone must be invested in government securities. An additional 10% must be invested in a combination of government securities and other approved securities. Approved securities are defined in Section 2(iii) of the Insurance Ordinance as government securities and other securities based on the revenues of the federal government or of a provincial government, guaranteed fully as regards principal and profit or return (however called or designated) by the federal government or a provincial government, and debentures and other securities issued under the authority of an act of the federal legislature or any provincial legislature by or on behalf of the trustees of the port of Karachi; securities issued under the authority of any act of parliament or of a provincial assembly; and securities specified as approved for the purpose of this ordinance by the federal government by notification in the official gazette. Insurers are also required to keep minimum deposits with the SBP under Section 29 of Insurance Ordinance 2000, which must be higher of 10 million rupees or 10% of the insurers paid-up capital, provided the Commission may, subject to achievement of levels of solvency as required by this ordinance, abolish the requirement for deposits specified by this section by reducing the required minimum amount to zero. |
| Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition | Yes. | If a life insurer is engaged in life insurance business in a currency other than the local currency where its liabilities—including policy holder liabilities—are, then all assets pertaining to those policies must be in that currency for the purpose of determining solvency as stated under Section 35(5) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 read with Rule No. 14 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Section 14(6) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 requires a separate statutory fund for policies issued outside Pakistan. Section 32(4) of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 allows shares of a company incorporated outside Pakistan to be included for the purpose of determining the solvency of an insurance company, depending on whether the company has exceeded the limits under Section 32 of the Insurance Ordinance of 2000 read with Rule No. 12 of the Insurance Rules 2017. Accounting of such transactions falls under International Accounting Standard (IAS) 21. |
| Pension funds | Yes. | Only locally incorporated life insurance companies and asset management companies (AMCs) are allowed to offer pension funds. Pension funds may invest in local equity, debt, money markets, and... | commodity future contracts traded on the PMEX. Other investments, including overseas investment, are subject to SECP approval.

Pension funds may invest in local equity, debt, money markets, and commodity future contracts traded on the PMEX. Other investments, including overseas investment, are subject to SECP approval.

The investment policy issued for pension funds sets various sector and security limits. Rule 24 of Voluntary Pension System Rules specified by the Commission indicates the relevant limits.

In terms of Circular No. 36 of 2009, at least ninety percent (90%) of Net Assets of an Equity Sub-fund must remain invested in listed equity securities during the year based on quarterly average investment calculated on daily basis, and at least twenty-five percent (25%) of Net Assets of the Debt Sub-fund must be invested in debt securities issued by federal government and up to 25% may be deposited with banks having not less than “AAplus” rating with stable outlook, so that both these investments must make up a minimum fifty percent (50%) of Net Assets of a Debt Sub-fund. Further, details regarding limits are as prescribed through Circulars mentioned in the next column.

For purposes of diversifying their asset classes or portfolios, locally established mutual funds are allowed to invest abroad up to 30% of aggregate funds (including foreign currency funds) in permissible categories, subject to a cap of US$15 million or its equivalent at any given time. Approval of the SBP and the SECP is required.

The SBP approves investment abroad and imposes limits on investment amounts. For purposes of diversifying their asset classes or portfolios, locally established mutual funds are allowed to invest abroad up to 30% of aggregate net assets of a fund (including foreign currency funds) in permissible categories, subject to a cap of US$15 million or its equivalent at any given time. Approval of the SBP and the SECP is required.

Collective investment schemes (CIS) are not allowed to invest more than 10% of their total net assets in a single entity; 25% in securities of a single sector, as classified by the stock exchange; and 35% in a single group, with a 10% limit for listed group companies of the asset management company (AMC) managing the fund. However, separate exposure limits have been defined for certain types of collective investment schemes. Regulation 55 of NBFC Regulations 2008 stipulates specific exposure limits for different types of funds.

In terms of Circular No. 7 of 2009; it is mandatory for an Equity Scheme to maintain an exposure of 70% of its net assets in listed equity securities during the year based on quarterly average investment calculated on daily basis. Further, for a Balance Scheme, it is mandatory to keep at least 30% of net assets invested in listed equity securities, for an Index Tracker Scheme, it is necessary to remain fully invested in accordance with the stated index, or at least 85% of its net assets in securities covered in the index or its subset during the year based on monthly average investment calculated on daily basis, for Income Scheme, at least 25% of the net assets must be invested in cash and near cash instruments, and for Aggressive Income Scheme, at least 10% must be invested in cash/or near cash instruments. Further, subsequent circulars on Categorization of Collective Investment Schemes (CIS) prescribes further investment limits and controls for different categories of CIS including Equity Scheme, Income Scheme, Money Market Scheme, and others.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition No.

Changes during 2019 and 2020

Nonresident Accounts

Domestic currency accounts 07/16/2019 Banks may open and maintain two categories of nonresident rupee accounts for individuals and entities without prior approval of the State Bank.

(1) Nonresident Rupee Account-Repatriable: Debits and credits of such accounts are subject to applicable regulations. An automated teller machine (ATM)/debit card to the account holder and supplementary ATM/debit cards in the name of family members of the account holder resident in Pakistan may be issued. These cards may be used for transactions in and outside Pakistan.

(2) Nonresident Rupee Account-Non-repatriable: All legitimate debit and credit transactions in these accounts as those permissible for resident PKR accounts are allowed. However, the funds available in these accounts may not be used abroad through ATM/debit cards or other delivery channels.

Imports and Import Payments

Financing requirements for imports

Advance payment requirements 01/01/2019 ADs were allowed to make advance payment up to US$10,000 or equivalent an invoice without the requirement of LC or bank guarantee from the supplier for the import of raw materials and spare parts by importers and exporters for their own use only.

11/12/2019 ADs were allowed to effect advance payment up to US$10,000, or equivalent thereof, an invoice on behalf of manufacturing concerns for import of raw materials and spare parts for their own use only.

12/12/2019 ADs were allowed to effect import advance payment against irrevocable LC, up to 50% of the value of LC, for import of plant, machinery, spare parts, and raw material on behalf of manufacturing concerns for their own use only.

01/28/2020 ADs were allowed to effect:
(a) advance payment up to US$10,000, or equivalent thereof, an invoice on behalf of manufacturing/industrial concerns and commercial importers for import of raw material, spare parts, and machinery for ultimate use by the manufacturing/industrial concerns.
(b) import advance payment against irrevocable LC, up to 100% of the value of LC, for import of plant, machinery, spare parts, and raw material on behalf of manufacturing concerns for their own use only.

03/19/2020 ADs were allowed to effect advance payment up to US$25,000, or equivalent in other currencies, an invoice on behalf of manufacturing and industrial concerns and commercial importers for import of raw material, spare parts, and machinery, for ultimate use by manufacturing and industrial concerns.

03/24/2020 ADs may make advance payment up to 100% of the value of imports, on behalf of federal and provincial government departments and organizations, public and private sector hospitals or their approved agents, charitable organizations, and commercial importers for the import of medical equipment, medicines, and ancillary items for the medical treatment of COVID-19 epidemic. Advance payment can be made on the basis of LC/standby LC, registered contract, proforma invoice, etc., using any incoterm as per the ICC’s latest publication, without any mandatory requirement of advance payment guarantee/performance bond. However, the importer may require advance payment guarantee/performance bond to secure the advance payment.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures
Positive list
09/08/2019
Trade with India was suspended. Previously, imports of 138 items on the positive list were permitted.

Import taxes and/or tariffs
07/01/2019
Pursuant to Finance Act 2019, the rates of tax to be collected by the Collector of Customs under Section 148 are as follows: (1) 1% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for (a) industrial enterprise importing remeltable steel (Pakistan Customs Tariff (PCT) Heading 72.04) and directly reduced iron for its own use; (b) persons importing potassic fertilizers in pursuance of Economic Coordination Committee of the cabinet’s decision No. ECC-155/12/2004 of December 9, 2004; (c) persons importing urea; (d) manufacturers covered under Notification SRO No. 1125(I)/2011; (e) persons importing gold; (f) persons importing cotton; and (g) persons importing liquefied natural gas. (2) 2% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for persons importing pulses. (3) 3% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for commercial importers covered under Notification SRO No. 1125(I)/2011 of December 31, 2011, and importing items covered under SRO No. 1125(I)/2011 of December 31, 2011. (4) 4% for persons importing coal. (5) 4% for persons importing finished pharmaceutical products that are not manufactured otherwise in Pakistan, as certified by the Drug Regulatory Authority of Pakistan. (6) 4.5% for ship breakers on import of ships. (7) 5.5% for industrial enterprises not covered under S. Nos. 1–6. (8) 5.5% for companies not covered under S. Nos. 1–7. (9) 6% for persons not covered under S. Nos. 1–8. (10) 1.75% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for industrial enterprise importing plastic raw material falling under PCT Heading 39.01–39.12 for its own use. (11) 4.5% of the import value as increased by customs duty, sales tax, and federal excise duty for commercial importer, importing plastic raw material falling under PCT Heading 39.01–39.12.

The rate of tax on import of mobile phones by any person is as follows based on the cost and freight (c.f.r.) value of mobile phone in US dollars: (1) Rs 70 for those up to US$30; (2) Rs 730 for those exceeding US$30 and up to US$100; (3) Rs 930 for those exceeding US$100 and up to US$200; (4) Rs 970 for those exceeding US$200 and up to US$350; (5) Rs 3,000 for those exceeding US$350 and up to US$500; (6) Rs 5,200 for those exceeding US$500. The provisions of Section 148 do not apply to mobile phones brought in personal baggage under the Baggage Rules 2006 (under Clause (60E) of Part IV of the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Ordinance 2001). These tax rates are increased by 100% for persons whose names do not appear in the active taxpayers’ list under Rule 1 of the Tenth Schedule to the Income Tax Ordinance 2001. Previously, the tax rates for non-filers varied with the type of import and for many categories they were less than 100% greater than the rates for filers.
The tax withheld on import from a commercial importer is a minimum tax. The policy for income and tax changed from a “final tax regime” to a “minimum tax regime” to improve the realization of the tax potential and reduce domestic and international transfer pricing for tax purposes. Previously, the final tax regime was applicable to commercial importers, traders of goods, contractors, brokerage and commission, etc. Persons involved in certain transactions were not required to pay tax on actual profit, maintain books of accounts, or undergo audit. Instead, the tax deducted or collected on these transactions was treated as final tax.

The tax withheld on import of medical and testing equipment for COVID-19 outbreak was exempted.

Exports and Export Proceeds

The exemption from export taxes of exports of computer software, information technology (IT) services, and IT-enabled services was extended until June 30, 2025 (provided 80% of the export proceeds is brought into Pakistan in foreign exchange remitted from outside Pakistan through normal banking channels).

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Pursuant to Finance Act 2019, the tax rate on brokerage or commission fee is 10% of the amount of the payment in the case of advertising agents; 8% of the amount of the payment in the case of life insurance agents where commission received is less than Rs. 0.5 million an annum; and 12% of the amount of payment in all other cases. These tax rates are increased by 100% if the person’s name is not appearing in the active taxpayers’ list. Previously, for non-filers the tax rates were as follows: on brokerage or commission fee – 15% of the amount of the payment in the case of advertising agents, 16% of the amount of the payment in the case of life insurance agents where commission received was less than Rs. 0.5 million an annum, and 15% of the amount of payment in all other cases.

The Government of Pakistan launched US-dollar-denominated Pakistan Banao Certificates mainly for overseas Pakistanis. Investment in these certificates may only be made by eligible investors against remittance from abroad through the banking channel, from investor’s own account maintained abroad.

The special cash reserve requirement is decreased to 10% from 15%.

<td>Palau is in the process of negotiating its participation in PACER and PICTA. Palau has signed on to PACER; however, it has not ratified it. There is another subsidiary arrangement called PACER Plus which Palau has yet to sign or ratify. As for PICTA, Palau has signed on to Trade in Services (TIS) but has not yet ratified it, while it is yet to sign Trade in Goods (TIG). Palau does support the regional efforts and introductions of PACER and PICTA for Pacific island economies to develop their private sector’s ability to trade and enter new markets but is limited in its participation because of its MFN clause under Palau–US COFA (Compact of Free Association). At the moment, Palau continues to receive funding assistance from Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat (PIFS), Australia and New Zealand, to improve institutions, facilities and for the National Government to implement PACER and PICTA when Palau does eventually sign and ratify said agreements.</td>

Under the Palau National Code, all foreign investment must be approved by the Foreign Investment Board. Foreign nationals, except those who invest jointly with a Palau national, may not invest in certain categories. The 2011 Foreign Investment Regulations detail the restricted and semi-restricted sectors. The following businesses are reserved solely for Palauan citizens: (1) wholesale or retail sale of goods; (2) all land transportation including bus services, taxi services, and car rentals; (3) tour guides, fishing guides, diving guides, and any other form of water transportation services; (4) travel and tour agencies; and (5) commercial fishing for other than highly migratory species. While these businesses are officially closed to foreign investment, there is a prevalent use of partnership companies.
in several categories, in which the foreign investor owns less than 50%. The retail sector, as well as travel- and tour-related businesses, currently has numerous foreign investors via such partnership companies. In semi-restricted sectors (pursuant to regulations from 2010), businesses can include foreign ownership as long as a Palauan citizen also has an ownership interest. There are no minimum or maximum requirements for percentage ownership for the foreign investor as long as the monetary and/or Palauan-employment minimums for all foreign investments are met. These semi-restricted businesses are: (1) handicraft and gift shops; (2) bakeries; (3) bar services; (4) operations/selling products being produced by wholly Palauan-owned manufacturing enterprise; (5) equipment rentals for both land and water within the Republic, including equipment for purpose of tourism; and (6) any such other businesses, as the Foreign Investment Board may determine. Sectors not listed as either closed or semi-restricted are presumed to be open for foreign investment. The Foreign Investment Board may, however, amend the semi-restricted sector list for “any such other businesses as the Board may determine.”

According to the constitution, only Palau nationals and corporations wholly owned by Palau nationals may acquire title to land or waters in Palau.

Imports and exports of gold by residents other than the monetary authorities in any form, other than jewelry carried as personal effects by travelers, require a license. Exports of unworked gold produced in Panama are subject to an export duty of 1% ad valorem, and exports of gold coins (other than US coins, which are exempt) are subject to a duty of 0.5%.

The Federal Reserve Bank (FRB) verifies payment amounts, deposits, status of banknotes, and inventory and makes arrangements with shippers handling international cash with regard to the date of delivery to the shipper and the date on which the currency is deposited with the FRB. A SWIFT message is sent by the FRB International Department confirming the date, amount, and denominations to deliver (in US dollars only), and the shipper provides proof of delivery to the FRB once the shipment is delivered. The FRB then credits the account with the amount of the deposit.

The following controls apply: (1) FRB approval by three administrative officers and the executive security manager is required. (2) The International Department carries out monthly reconciliation and whenever there is a transaction. (3) No more than B 60 million may be exported, and the number and weight of bags are restricted. The following prohibitions apply: (1) Transactions will not be carried out unless there is a SWIFT message with the FRB. (2) Deposits that do not comply with the FRB’s operational circulars are returned to the bank. (3) Transshipment by shipping companies is not permitted. (4) Contracts must be on door-to-door terms (from the FRB to the National Reserve, and vice versa). (5) Deposits from the FRB must be received during normal business hours. (6) No action may be taken unless security is present. (7) Nothing may be dispatched to banks or branches unless the order is in writing (originals in the case of banks and emailed spreadsheets in the case of branches). (8) Payment will not be made unless the documents match the agreements with banks and branches. (9) Only the National Reserve may authorize repacking of a bag and must later receive an audit memorandum from the shipper.

On imports

Yes.

The FRB verifies the payment amounts, deposits, status of banknotes, and inventory and makes arrangements with shippers handling international cash, with regard to the date of delivery to the shipper and the date on which the currency is deposited with the FRB. The International Department sends a SWIFT message confirming the date and amount and denominations to deliver (in US dollars only). Import operations are authorized by the executive manager for operations and the manager of the National Reserve Area. The shipper sends a message on receipt of the packages of various denominations delivered by the FRB, and the FRB debits the designated account (with the amount of the deposit) managed by the International Department.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures
No import licenses are required in Panama. A contingent mechanism was negotiated under a WTO agreement to facilitate the exchange of phytosanitary permits for rice products, pork, poultry, and tomato paste and puree, allowing imports of these products at preferential tariff rates.

Tariff rates are calculated on an ad valorem basis and assessed on the c.i.f. value of imports. Trade reform has resulted in simplified tariff bands of 0%, 3%, 5%, 10%, and 15%. Exceptions to the maximum tariff of 15% are automobiles (17%) and sugar (50% on imports exceeding a historical average price range). Also excluded are other products (mainly foodstuffs) whose tariffs are the maximum (and declining) levels negotiated with the WTO, including dairy products (50%–155%); rice (90%); onions (90%); beef (40%); pork (70%–90%); boneless and whole hams (83%); some poultry (300%); cabbages, carrots, celery, and lettuce (32.5%); cooking oils (20%–30%); margarine (15%); salt (87%); ketchup (70%); and tomato paste and puree (87%). Imports into the Colón Free Zone and the newly established EPZs are exempt from duty. There is a free trade agreement in effect between Panama and the United States. It aims to (1) reduce tariffs on 88% of US imports to 0%, (2) phase out the remaining tariffs over the course of 10 years, (3) increase agricultural import quotas, (4) simplify and harmonize sanitary requirements, and (5) clarify market access for public procurement (including by Panama Canal authorities).

Exchange Measures

The IMF staff report for the 2018 Article IV Consultation with Papua New Guinea states that, as of November 9, 2018, Papua New Guinea maintained the following exchange restrictions subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 2(a) of the IMF’s Articles of Agreement arising from the following: (1) the requirement to obtain a tax clearance certificate evidencing the payment of all taxes prior to making payments or transfers for certain current international transactions and (2) the rationing of foreign exchange and its allocation by the Bank of Papua New Guinea (BPNG) to certain priority items, which results in undue delays and arrears in current international payments. Papua New Guinea also maintains the following MCPs subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3: (1) an MCP arising from the spread of more than 2% between the rates set by the BPNG for its foreign exchange allocations to authorized foreign exchange dealers (AFEDs) and the rates used by AFEDs in transactions with their clients and (2) an MCP arising from the potential spread deviation of more than 2% between the rates set by the BPNG for its foreign exchange transactions with the government and embassies and the rates used by AFEDs in transactions with their clients. (Country Report No. 18/352)

Classification

- No separate legal tender
- Currency board
- Conventional peg
- Stabilized arrangement
- Crawling peg
- Crawl-like arrangement

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The exchange rate of the kina is determined in the interbank market, in which ADs participate. The BPNG intervenes in the foreign exchange market to smooth extreme fluctuations. On June 4, 2014, the BPNG introduced an exchange rate trading margin with a kina buying rate within 75 basis points (bps) above the interbank midrate and a kina selling rate within 75 bps below the midrate. Since August 2017, the exchange rate has followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the exchange rate arrangement is classified as a crawl-like arrangement. The BPNG publishes the intervention data in its annual report and semi-annual monetary policy statement.

- Free floating

Official exchange rate

The official exchange rate is the interbank market midrate which is determined by the interaction between demand for foreign currency (offer) and supply of foreign currency (bid) by the ADs, including the BPNG. The live price at the close of trading becomes the official rate. The BPNG publishes official exchange rates based on the closing interbank U.S. dollar–kina rate for use by government departments and institutions as well as the ADs. There is small margin on trades done for U.S. dollar–kina rate for use by government departments and institutions as well as the ADs. The official exchange rates for other currencies are determined by crossing other currencies with Kina/US$ official rate, and applying the trading margin as specified in the operational guidelines agreed to with the commercial banks.

Monetary policy framework

- Exchange rate anchor
  - U.S. dollar

  - Composite
  - Other

Monetary policy is conducted within the reserve money framework.
The BPNG announces the policy rate—the kina facility rate—monthly and use open market operations to implement monetary policy. It also uses direct instruments from time to time, including cash reserve requirement, to assist in the conduct of monetary policy (liquidity management). Low inflation is a key operational objective, although there is no immediate target or numerical target.

Under the Central Banking Act 2000, the objective of price stability is for the Bank to strive for low-interest rates, low inflation, and stable exchange rate. The formulation of monetary policy is broadly guided by analysis of the main factors that affect price stability and an understanding of their economic consequences. The BPNG sets annual growth projections, in line with its monetary policy stance, on monetary aggregates in its semiannual monetary policy statements, released in March 31 and September 30. The BPNG does not pursue inflation targeting.

Foreign exchange market Yes. The BPNG is the exchange control authority. ADs deal in foreign exchange in house with exporters and importers and buy and sell excess foreign exchange in the interbank market. The BPNG may buy or sell foreign exchange in the interbank market, if necessary, to smooth out exchange rate volatility.

Spot exchange market Yes. ADs, which consist of four commercial banks and two nonbank financial institutions, provide foreign exchange service to customers, including spot transactions. Authorized Dealers publish buying and selling rates for customers, and may determine their own commissions with their clients. They may trade in kina against U.S. dollars, but within a trading margin of 75 basis points above or below the official reference rate determined in the interbank market. To enhance competition in the foreign exchange market, nine currency exchange bureaus are licensed by the BPNG to deal in physical notes and coins and cash traveler’s checks. The BPNG clearance must be obtained before additional products are offered to customers. Currency exchange bureaus may not maintain foreign currency accounts for their customers. Currency exchange bureaus are allowed to freely set their purchase and sale exchange rates. There are no limits set by BPNG. The bureaus set their own rates and commissions because they need to cover for associated costs such as transportation, insurance, security and storage.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation Yes. The BPNG intervenes in the foreign exchange market to sell or buy foreign exchange to smooth the kina exchange rate fluctuations. To buy foreign exchange from ADs, BPNG offers a matching competitive price to the one quoted for sale in the interbank market. To sell foreign exchange, BPNG offers foreign exchange to ADs at an offer price based on the price quoted in the interbank market.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. Four commercial banks and two nonbank financial institutions participate in the interbank market. There are no limits on the bid and offer spreads. The BPNG may buy or sell foreign exchange in the interbank market, if necessary, to smooth out exchange rate volatility. The BPNG executes deals at the rates quoted by the ADs. If there is only a bid and no offer or vice versa, the BPNG as a market participant, may place a counterbid or offer.
Over the counter

Yes. Customers may engage in over-the-counter (OTC) transactions with licensed ADs. Customers include individuals, businesses, and other organizations.

Brokerage

Yes. The BPNG acts as a broker for ADs under the current arrangement. There are no brokerage fees charged.

Market making

Yes. ADs continuously make a market for their major customers.

Forward exchange market

Yes. Exporters and importers may engage in forward cover transactions with the four commercial banks at market-determined rates. Each commercial bank is subject to a prudential limit on its uncovered forward position. Currently, commercial banks may not bring a forward cover order to the interbank market. They may deal with forward orders in house with their own resources (foreign currency) but may not use BPNG intervention (which is for spot orders only) to fund forward orders. The BPNG may participate in the forward market with commercial banks but not directly with their clients.

Official cover of forward operations

No.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

Held domestically

Yes.

Approval required

Yes.

Held abroad

Yes.

There are two categories of FCAs. First, is those accounts covered under the project development agreements which usually involve movement of large and lumpy foreign exchange, which may cause significant kina exchange rate volatility if these flows are allowed to enter the domestic foreign exchange market. Second category is, those FCAs which are not covered by project development agreements, but are required to receive foreign currency income and to settle contractual obligation to non-residents abroad.

With a prior BPNG approval, residents may open FCAs of both categories outside Papua New Guinea. Account holders must submit a Monthly Foreign Currency Account Report to the BPNG.

Approval required

Yes.

These accounts may be held abroad, but a prior BPNG approval is required. Accounts of authorized dealers that are not nostro or vostro accounts require a prior approval of the BPNG.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad

No.

From March 5, 2015, residents cannot maintain domestic currency accounts held abroad.

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency

Yes.

From March 5, 2015, BPNG approval is required to convert kina accounts held with ADs into FCAs.

Funds in domestic accounts denominated in kina can be converted into foreign currency and repatriated abroad without approval, except for removal of Kina in excess of K20,000.00 in physical notes and coins

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted

Yes.

ADs may open nonresident foreign currency accounts in accordance with BPNG guidelines. The Dealers must report nonresident foreign currency account balances to the BPNG. ADs can transfer funds abroad from balances of domestic accounts.

Approval required

No.

Domestic currency accounts

Yes.

From March 5, 2015, Non-Resident expatriates domiciled or living in PNG under foreign embassy and consulate arrangements or multilateral arrangements, including such institutions, can operate kina accounts.

ADs may hold such accounts in PNG under correspondent banking arrangements for non-residents.

All other Non-Residents cannot open and operate kina accounts. All Kina deposited into Vostro accounts of foreign banks have to be from conversion of foreign currency into Kina through an AFED.

Exports and Export Proceeds

| Repatriation requirements | Yes. From March 5, 2015, all exporters not covered by a project agreement must repatriate all export proceeds and convert them into Kina or deposit into onshore FCAs. The repatriation must be done within three months from the Shipment Date of export. Any offset against offshore liabilities is not permitted. For an exporter with an approved offshore FCA, any surplus funds in the account after meeting offshore liabilities must be repatriated to PNG within three months from the Shipment Date of export and converted into kina or deposited into a domestic FCA. Those exporters covered under a project agreement are required to repatriate any surplus funds after meeting their 3 months forward commitments to offshore suppliers of goods and services. The surplus funds can be converted to Kina or held in domestic FCAs. |
| Surrender requirements | Yes. |
| Surrender to the central bank | No. |
| Surrender to authorized dealers | Yes. Exporters with approved foreign currency accounts abroad can repatriate export proceeds to their onshore foreign currency accounts, in which case there is no surrender of foreign exchange to ADs. Exporters that do not operate approved foreign currency accounts onshore will repatriate funds from abroad and at the same time surrender them to ADs after conversion to kina. Exporters that do not operate any approved foreign currency accounts must repatriate and convert all export proceeds to kina. |
| Financing requirements | Yes. From April 2017, ADs cannot provide trade finance loans in any currency except with a prior authorization of the BPNG. |
| Documentation requirements | Yes. |
| Letters of credit | No. |
| Guarantees | No. |
| Domiciliation | No. |
| Preshipment inspection | No. |
Other customs documentation must be submitted to an AD after each shipment. ADs may process export receipts without submitting them to the BPNG. A Balance of Payment form must be completed for export proceeds exceeding K10,000 or its equivalent.

Export licenses

Yes. For gold exports, a license from the BPNG is required.

Without quotas

License are required for exports of logs, pearls, fishery, and marine products, wood chips, sandalwood, rattan, coffee, cocoa, and copra. Log export licenses are issued based on minimum export price guidelines.

With quotas

No.

Export taxes

Yes.

Collected through the exchange system

No.

Other export taxes

Yes. Export taxes apply to logs, mineral ores and concentrates (except gold, silver, and copper), sandalwood, and crocodile skins. There is a flat 28.5% export tax on logs.

combined and 10% of capital for a single currency. In general, institutional investors are required to meet prudential requirements.

Life insurance companies must formulate an investment objective and strategy. The BPNG only supervises life insurance companies and brokers; general insurers are regulated by the Office of the Insurance Commissioner. Life Insurance Prudential Standard No. 7/2008 and Life Insurance Companies Investments prescribe investment objectives and strategies for life insurance companies and insurance brokers.

There are no limits on local investments; however, life insurance companies must ensure that their investments are in line with their objectives and investment strategy. Investment concentration risk is limited to 2% of total assets and all investment must be made at arm’s length.

There are four licensed pension (superannuation) funds in Papua New Guinea. Among the top two, Nambawan Super was originally for public (civil) sector employees but is now open to employees of private businesses and Nasfund was for private sector employees but is now open to the public sector.

Pension funds must have an investment objective and strategy. Pension funds must maintain a balanced portfolio.

The investment framework provides that offshore investments are limited to a maximum of 35% of the total value of the assets of the Authorized Superannuation Fund (ASF) at any time. Where an ASF wishes to exceed the maximum of 35%, the Trustee Board must request prior approval in writing from the BPNG.

There are no limits on local investments, but the exposure (concentration) risk to a single entity or a group is set at no more than 5% of total assets. An investment must be made in line with the investment objectives and strategy of the fund.

All ASFs must develop, document, and maintain a Currency Risk Management Policy in consultation with its Investment Manager, and include the policy in the Investment Framework.

Yes. The exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. The exchange rate is determined by supply and demand. The objective of the Central Bank of Paraguay (BCP) under Article 3 of Law No. 489/95 is to preserve and safeguard the stability of the currency and promote the efficiency, integrity, and stability of the financial system. Article 47 states the following: “Within the framework of the national government’s economic policy and laws, the BCP shall administer the legal provisions and their regulations that set the exchange rate regime, as well as the control measures over current foreign collections and payments and capital movements that are only adopted by the Powers of the State in circumstances of exceptional national emergency.

Foreign exchange operations shall be carried out on the free foreign exchange market which, for the purposes of this Law, is made up of entities authorized to operate in the foreign exchange market. Anyone may engage in foreign exchange operations. The exchange rate shall be that freely agreed on by the parties involved, in accordance with supply and demand.”

Article 50 establishes the following: “The free foreign exchange market shall operate with foreign currency and other documents, checks, drafts, or foreign exchange transfer securities derived from the export and import of goods, services, and capital movements, except in cases of specific prohibitions established by the Law or by provisions founded by the Executive Branch.

The BCP shall operate in the foreign exchange market to ensure its normal, competitive, and balanced operation and to respect the fundamental trends in the supply and demand of foreign currency. Foreign currency trading by the BCP shall aim to mitigate the effects of seasonal fluctuations in supply and demand and offset erratic capital flows and speculative movements that could disrupt the market or the exchange rate.”

The BCP, in its capacity as a financial agent of the government (Article 71 of its Organic Charter – Law No. 489), buys US dollars from the government, received by the latter in the form of royalties and compensation paid by bi-national hydroelectric entities, in exchange for guaraníes. These dollars purchased from the public sector are returned to the market via sales to the financial system according to BCP announcements.

In 2019, the BCP’s purchases with the financial system were US$1,295.40 million, while net purchases with the public sector were US$1,163.84 million. The highest level of foreign currency sales to the financial sector corresponds to the CB’s effort to moderate abrupt exchange rate volatility. A significant gap was observed between the supply of and the demand for dollars in the domestic market during the second quarter of 2019. The US–China trade war, the high international interest rates in that quarter, and the economic slowdown in neighboring countries, such as Argentina and Brazil, broadened the gap in the local market.

From May 2019 to July 2019, the exchange rate appreciated against the US dollar and then followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band since July 2019, with one realignment in October 2019. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) to other managed from crawl-like, effective May 10, 2019, and (2) from other managed to crawl-like, effective July 18, 2019.

Every week, the BCP publishes daily data on exchange operations (with the public sector and with the financial sector) for the previous month on its institutional website, available at: www.bcp.gov.py/compras-y-ventas-de-divisas-del-bcp-i666. Additionally, operations are also published according to classification, either compensatory or complementary, available at the following link: www.bcp.gov.py/ventas-compensatorias-y-complementarias-i667.

Official exchange rate  Yes.

Resolution No. 7, Minute No. 86 of December 19, 2019, “Regulation on Open Market Operations and Standing Facilities and Regulation on Exchange Operations, Annex II,” states the following in Article 14(e), Publication of the Fluctuating and Benchmark Exchange Rate: “The Board of Directors shall determine the method for calculating the benchmark exchange rate for the day. The latter rate shall be noted in the minutes of the Monetary Committee meeting, which shall, in this case, require the Board of Directors to participate.”

Effective August 3, 2020, the BCP determined that the benchmark exchange rate for the US dollar against the guarani will be equal to the weighted average of interbank operations carried out in the spot market. This benchmark exchange rate is published daily on the BCP website at 1:00 p.m. Operations used as a basis for calculating the benchmark exchange rate are registered by financial institutions on a platform called “Datatec.” The exchange rates calculated in this manner are published on the BCP website every 30 minutes from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. The cumulative exchange rate at the final 30-minute cutoff is the benchmark exchange rate.

Prior to the above date, the benchmark exchange rate was the average buying and selling nominal exchange rate from financial entities’ transactions with nonfinancial customers in the spot market, beginning at US$50,000.

The benchmark exchange rate is used to close public sector operations with the BCP and to settle the maturity of foreign exchange forward contracts.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework  Yes. The BCP adopted an inflation-targeting framework according to Resolution No. 22, Minute No. 31 of May 2011.

Target setting body  Yes.

- Government
- Central Bank  Yes.

Monetary Policy Committee  Yes. Effective December 19, 2019, the Monetary Operations Executive Committee (Comité Ejecutivo de Operaciones Monetarias – CEOMA) became the Monetary Policy Committee (Comité de Política Monetaria – CPM), in accordance with Resolution No. 8, Minute No. 86 of December 19, 2019.
The aim of the CPM within the framework of inflation targets is to establish the monetary policy rate and the guidelines, mechanisms, and instruments for monetary policy implementation to maintain price stability.

The CPM is responsible for:
(a) Analyzing and assessing information, submissions, and documents presented during the meeting and used as a basis for making monetary policy decisions.
(b) Determining the monetary policy rate value.
(c) Establishing the interest rates of standing deposit facilities and liquidity facilities and the financial conditions for the early cancellation and early redemption of monetary regulation instruments.
(d) Providing information to the Markets Committee (Comité de Mercados – CM) on the general guidelines (guidelines, mechanisms, and instruments) for implementing the monetary policy to align the interbank rate with the monetary policy rate.
(e) Providing information to the CM on the general guidelines for implementing the exchange rate policy.

Decisions: Decisions to be adopted by the CPM shall be based on the following:
(a) Technical criteria to be presented by Economic Studies.
(b) Analysis of prevailing economic conditions by Committee members, with the latter being able to have their dissenting opinions reflected in the minutes, if they so wish.
(c) The final decision shall be adopted by simple majority of the voting members, based on the first and second points of this paragraph. In the event of a tie, the CPM Chair shall decide with a double vote. The decisions taken by the CPM members must be recorded in the minutes.

The CB’s CPM shall be made up of the chairman and four incumbent full members of the Board, who shall have the right to speak and vote. The CPM shall be chaired by the incumbent president of the BCP.

CPM participants:
The following members shall, in the performance of their duties, be permanent participants of the CPM with the right to speak but not vote:
(a) Chief Economist;
(b) Director of the External Sector Statistics Department;
(c) Director of the Real Sector Statistics Department;
(d) Director of the Macroeconomic Statistics Department;
(e) Director of the Macroeconomic Research and Analysis Department;
(f) Director of the Macroeconomic Modelling Department;
(g) Superintendent of Banks;
(h) Deputy General Manager of Financial Operations;
(i) Market Manager;
(j) Director of the Open Market Department.

Forward exchange market

Commercial banks and finance companies may conduct forward transactions for trade operations on terms freely negotiated with customers. Financial institutions may conduct forward transactions with residents and nonresidents.

Net long or short positions on forward transactions with residents have an applicable limit. Such positions may not exceed the smaller of:
(1) two times the average volume of banking operations of banks in the last three months or
(2) 80% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

In the case of forward transactions with nonresidents, it is considered that (modified from Resolution No. 11, Minute No. 34 of May 31, 2018):
(1) The current purchase volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.
(2) The sales volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

Forward transactions that do not involve the guaraní are exempt from that limit (Resolution No. 15, Minute No. 67 of October 18, 2018).

Credits extended and deposits made by a bank in Paraguay to a foreign bank or financial institution, along with that institution’s endorsements, sureties, and other guarantees, may not exceed 20% of the bank’s effective net worth. This ceiling may be increased to 50% for Tier 1 banks and 70% if the excess in each of the preceding cases is represented by issued LCs. For these purposes, LCs payable under the LAIA Reciprocal Payments and Credit Agreement are not taken into account. Section b.2 of Resolution No. 3 Minute No. 25 of May 4, 2017 (Regulating Law No. 5787 amending Law No. 861).
Banks’ credits, contingent credits, and financial leasing operations to individuals and corporations abroad, with certain exceptions, may not exceed 5% of effective net worth. This ceiling may be increased to 20% with a sufficient guarantee that it can back the transaction in an amount equal at least to the excess over the aforementioned ceiling.

Controls apply in cases when the limits established in Law No. 861/96 (General Law on Banks, Finance Companies, and Other Financial Institutions) are exceeded by banks, finance companies, and other credit institutions.

These transactions are permitted, except that foreigners may not purchase land within 50 kilometers of the border, as provided under Law No. 2532/05, Establishing the Border Security Zone of the Republic of Paraguay.

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes. These transactions must comply with the bank’s net position limit.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange Yes. These transactions must comply with the bank’s net position limit.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange Yes.

Reserve requirements Yes. The following reserve requirements apply to deposits in foreign currency:

1. 24% for terms of up to 360 days (including sight deposits);
2. 16.5% for terms of 361 days to 540 days;
3. 0% for terms above 541 days.

Liquid asset requirements No. A (non-compulsory) guide for managing liquidity (liquid assets/short-term deposits) is in effect.

Interest rate controls Yes. Interest rates applicable to credit card transactions may not exceed three times the average deposit rate in effect on the market. There is also a rate defined as constituting usury, which must not be exceeded. It is constructed on the average of consumer rates charged by banks and finance companies, respectively.

Credit controls No. As an overall control measure, up to four times the effective net worth for loans, contingent credits, and financial leasing operations with terms greater than 24 months, excluding quotas, amortization, or coverage shorter than this term.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents No.

Reserve requirements No.

Credit controls No.

Investment regulations Yes. Banks may invest up to 20% of their effective net worth in shares of financial institutions abroad, with the prior authorization of the BCP, in addition to the other considerations set out in Law No. 861/96. Article 40 Number 17 authorizes the purchase of shares in foreign banks or other institutions that operate in financial intermediation or in the stock market, or are auxiliaries of one or the other, for the purpose of achieving international scope for their activities.

Abroad by banks Yes.

In banks by nonresidents No. As an anti-money-laundering control and prudential oversight measure, entities supervised by the Superintendency of Banks may not sell, assign, or transfer their shares to individuals or legal entities domiciled in countries deemed to be tax havens.

Open foreign exchange position limits Yes. Effective May 13, 2019, the following ratio categories were established for the foreign currency position. Resolution No. 2, Minute No. 34 of May 13, 2019, on effective net worth:

1. Category A: liability position of 10% to asset position of 15% (previously 20%).
2. Category B: asset position of 40% to asset position of 50%.
3. Category C: asset position of 90% to asset position of 100%.

Resolution No. 3, Minute 34 of May 13, 2019, also amends the daily
The daily net operating foreign exchange position is defined as the (negative or positive) difference in the net aggregate foreign currency position from one day to the next, which may not exceed US$5 million, for both long and short positions.

A financial institution that exceeds the limit must deposit in its account with the BCP, within 24 hours of the BCP notice to the financial institution, an amount equal to the excess over the established limit. This amount will remain unavailable in the US dollar account that the financial institution holds with the BCP for 15 business days.

Net long or short positions on forward transactions with residents have an applicable limit. Such positions may not exceed the smaller of:

1. Two times the average volume of banking operations of banks in the last three months or
2. 80% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

In the case of forward transactions with nonresidents, it is considered (modified from Resolution No. 11, Minute No. 34 of May 31, 2018):

1. The current purchase volume of forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective net worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.
2. The sales volume of current forward transactions carried out in US dollars with nonresidents may not exceed 3% of the effective worth in the previous month converted to US dollars.

Forward transactions that do not involve the guaraní are exempt from that limit (Resolution No. 15, Minute No. 67 of October 18, 2018).

and/or the instruments issued and the profitability identified or anticipated. Without such authorization, the securities issued by nonresidents are not part of the investible funds stipulated by the Superintendency of Insurance. They are therefore deducted from net equity to obtain the technical equity.

There are no minimum limits, but maximum limits exist for the investments allowed, both by type of Assets and by Issuer, as established in Articles 6 to 9 of Resolution SS.SG. No. 132/2015.

Foreign currency assets and liabilities must be based on the end-of-month exchange rate.

Because there is no pension regulator, there are no general regulations on portfolio allocations. However, there are eight special pension funds (cajas), each created under a specific law (which outlines rules for administration, contributions, benefits, investments, accounting, and supervision). These laws do not set any investment limits. There are also ten private social insurance funds, the operations of which are not regulated.

Changes during 2019 and 2020

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

- Crawl-like arrangement
  - 07/18/2019
  - From May 2019 to July 2019, the exchange rate appreciated against the US dollar and then followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band since July 2019, with one realignment in October 2019. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) to other managed from crawl-like effective May 10, 2019, and (2) from other managed to crawl-like; effective July 18, 2019.

- Other managed arrangement
  - 05/10/2019
  - The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to other managed from crawl-like.

- Official exchange rate
  - 08/03/2020
  - The Central Bank of Paraguay (BCP) determined that the benchmark exchange rate for the US dollar against the guarani will be equal to the weighted average of interbank operations carried out in the spot market. This benchmark exchange rate is published daily on the BCP website at 1:00 p.m.

Operations used as a basis for calculating the benchmark exchange rate are registered by financial institutions on a platform called “Datatec.” The exchange rates calculated in this manner are published on the BCP website every 30 minutes from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. The cumulative exchange rate at the final 30-minute cutoff is the benchmark exchange rate.

Prior to the above date, the benchmark exchange rate was the average buying and selling nominal exchange rate from financial entities’ transactions with nonfinancial customers in the spot market, beginning at US$50,000.

The Monetary Operations Executive Committee (Comité Ejecutivo de Operaciones Monetarias) became the Monetary Policy Committee (Comité de Política Monetaria), in accordance with Resolution No. 8, Minute No. 86 of December 19, 2019.

A financial institution that fails to settle the operation because of either insufficient funds or another operational deficiency by the established settlement date will be unable to operate with the Office of the Market Manager for a period of ten business days. This period was changed from 30 calendar days to ten business days.

The following ratio categories were established for the foreign currency position, Resolution No. 2, Minute No. 34 of May 13, 2019, on effective net worth:

1. Category A: liability position of 10% to asset position of 15% (previously 20%).
2. Category B: asset position of 40% to asset position of 50%.
3. Category C: asset position of 90% to asset position of 100%.

Resolution No. 3, Minute 34 of May 13, 2019, also amends the daily net operating foreign exchange position from US$3 million to US$5 million.

Classification

- No separate legal tender
- Currency board
- Conventional peg
- Stabilized arrangement
- Crawling peg
- Crawl-like arrangement
- Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
- Other managed arrangement
- Floating: Yes.

The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The exchange rate is determined by supply and demand. The BCRP intervenes in the foreign exchange market to limit volatility without altering the exchange rate trend. BCRP interventions can also be conducted through dollar-indexed bonds and foreign exchange swaps. The BCRP publishes daily information about its intervention operations (prices and amounts) on its website with a one-day lag.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

No.

The legal framework of the floating exchange rate system is established by Executive Decree No. 268-91-EF (March 26, 1991), which states that the exchange rate for foreign currency operations is determined in the foreign exchange market by the free interaction of supply and demand. Consequently, there is no official exchange rate. For private contracts involving transactions with foreign currency, Article 1237 of the Civil Code establishes that the exchange rate for valuation in domestic currency of obligations denominated in foreign currency is the ask exchange rate at the due or payment date of the contract. The Economic Studies Department of the Superintendence of Banks, Insurance Companies, and Pension Funds (SBS), within its role of promoting the transparent flow of information in the financial system (Article 32 of SBS Resolution No. 4027-2011), proposes the methodology for recording the exchange rate and interest rates (both freely determined). To contribute to the provision of information and for statistical purposes, the SBS publishes the daily exchange rate on its website. The daily exchange rate is registered as the bid and ask prices for banking operations recorded on DATATEC.

According to the Constitution of Peru, the BCRP is a public autonomous entity whose role is to preserve monetary stability. The BCRP is responsible for regulating the money supply and credit in the financial system, for managing the country’s international reserves, and for reporting on the nation’s finances. The CB’s inflation target is aimed at anchoring inflation expectations at a similar level to the inflation rate observed in developed economies and reflects the BCRP’s permanent commitment with monetary stability. Decisions are taken by majority vote. In case of a tie, the vote of the governor of the BCRP is the decisive vote.

CPI
Yes. Inflation is defined as the year-on-year (y-o-y) percentage change in the consumer price index. Headline inflation is the consumer price index inflation, and this is the reference for the inflation-targeting regime accountability.

Core inflation

Target horizon
No. The inflation target range must be met on a continuous basis.

Operating target (policy rate)
Yes.

Policy rate
Yes. The overnight interbank interest rate is the operating target of monetary policy, currently 0.25% (since April 2020). Certificates of deposit (CDs) issued in local currency by the BCRP are the main monetary instrument for open-market operations. The BCRP also issues CDs indexed to the policy rate, and charges a commission on transfers of these CDs to resident and nonresident institutions, except between resident financial institutions. The commission is currently 4%. Time deposits in the BCRP are also used as a sterilization instrument. In addition, CDs indexed to the exchange rate and denominated in local currency continue to be used as a monetary regulatory instrument to mop up liquidity in the financial system. They are also used by private banks as part of their exchange position. The BCRP issues CDs redeemable in US dollars, which facilitate its intervention in the spot foreign exchange market. Similarly, the BCRP participates in foreign exchange swap auctions with financial institutions.

Exchange tax No.
Exchange subsidy No.

Foreign exchange market Yes. Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market Yes. All lending institutions (including banks and microfinance institutions) are licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public. The SBS is the official institution in charge of granting licenses to exchange bureaus and moneychangers. Currently, there are 806 exchange bureaus and 1,023 foreign exchange moneychangers. Exchange bureaus and moneychangers are not allowed to make transactions directly with the CB and their operations are limited to purchase and sale of banknotes.

Operated by the central bank No.
Foreign exchange standing facility No.
Allocation No.
Auction No.
Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes. The foreign exchange market in Peru operates on two platforms: (1) DATATEC and (2) Reuters. All banks are licensed to participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. There were 15 commercial banks as of December 31, 2019. Licenses are granted by the SBS. There are no limits on bid-ask spreads. However, all banks are subject to a daily ceiling according to the risk policy of the banking institution. The BCRP intervenes in the market via DATATEC at its quoted rates or by proposing its own prices. The BCRP may launch auctions of CDs indexed to the exchange rate. Auctions are not conducted on a regular basis. Auction participants who default on their obligations may be temporarily barred from participation. All lending institutions (including banks and microfinance entities) are eligible to participate. Auction results are published on the BCRP’s website and DATATEC, Reuters, and Bloomberg terminals. Transactions in the foreign exchange market by private pension funds (Administradoras Privadas de Fondos de Pensiones) may not exceed a daily limit of 0.75% of the value of the fund and of 1.75% for the preceding five days (SBS Resolution No. 561-2013).

Over the counter Yes. Dealing takes place through Reuters, which allows direct negotiation between two counterparties.

Brokerage Yes.
Market making Yes. Participants bid and ask anonymously (based on a market-making agreement) through DATATEC.
Forward exchange market Yes. The BCRP does not participate in the forward foreign exchange market. The BCRP participates in foreign exchange swap auctions with financial institutions.

Official cover of forward operations No.

The tariff structure consists of three levels: 0%, 6%, and 11%. The customs tariff schedule is based on the Fifth Amendment to the Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System developed by the World Customs Organization. Peru has trade agreements with Australia, Canada, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Japan, Honduras, Korea, Mexico, Panama, Singapore, Thailand, the EU, Venezuela, and the United States, as well as with four trading blocs (the Andean Community, the EFTA, the Pacific Alliance, and MERCOSUR). Agreements with Brazil, Guatemala, United Kingdom, and the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership are scheduled to go into effect shortly. Agreements with the Trade in Services Agreement (TiSA), Doha, El Salvador, India, and Turkey are still in the negotiation phase. Peru is a member of the WTO and the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation Forum.

Effective February 11, 2020, the Trade Agreement with Australia (which was signed on February 12, 2018) came into force. The Trade Agreement with the United Kingdom was signed on May 15, 2019. The bilateral trade relationship between Peru and the United Kingdom continues to be governed by the Trade Agreement with the European Union, while the agreement signed between the European Union and the United Kingdom to formalize the latter's departure from the European block (Exit Agreement) foresees a transition period (until December 31, 2020).

These accounts are permitted, but capital income from investment abroad is subject to income tax.

Lending by resident financial institutions to nonresident financial institutions, individuals, and enterprises is subject to the same prudential limits that apply to lending to residents.

For financial stability purposes, deposit accounts in domestic and foreign currency are treated differently: Effective March 31, 2020, reserve requirement rates (RRR) applicable to domestic currency accounts are as follows: (1) The reserve requirement rate in domestic currency is 4% (previously, 5%). The minimum requirement of funds deposited in current accounts at the CB is 0.75% (previously, 1%). (2) A special reserve requirement of 35% is applied to obligations in domestic currency.
that are indexed to foreign exchange variations.
Reserve rate requirements applicable to foreign currency accounts are as follows: (1) There is a minimum reserve requirement rate of 9%, but for macroprudential purposes, the BCRP requires additional reserves, which are determined based on a marginal reserve rate and a cap on the average reserve rate, both currently at 35%.
(3) Foreign-exchange-indexed obligations are subject to a special reserve requirement rate of 9%. (4) An additional reserve requirement is established if bank’s average daily balance of total loans (excluding the average balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of loans granted as of January 1, 2015, for a term greater than 3 years that exceed an amount of US$10 million) exceeds the greater amount between:
(a) 80% of the balance of credits in foreign currency reached as of September 30, 2013 (excluding the balance of credits for foreign trade).
(b) The total balance of credits in foreign currency of December 2017 (excluding the average balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of loans granted as of January 1, 2015, for a term greater than 3 years that exceed an amount of US$10 million) plus 40% of the accumulated flow with respect to December 2017 of the average credit in national currency, excluding from that flow the corresponding to mortgage, consumer, and foreign trade credit. For the conversion to dollars of this flow, the 2017 end-of-period accounting exchange rate, published by the SBS, will be used.
(c) 1.04 times the total balance of credits in foreign currency of December 2018 (excluding the average balance of credits for foreign trade and the average balance of loans granted as of January 1, 2015, at a term greater than 3 years that exceed an amount of US$10 million). This additional reserve will be applied to total bank’s liabilities.
Also, an additional reserve is established for banks whose average daily balance of the total automobile credits and mortgage in dollar that exceeds 40% of the balance reached as of February 28, 2013, or 6% of their last effective equity published by the SBS, whichever results greater, they will be subject to an additional reserve equivalent to 15% of the percentage deviation from the limit. The limits on average daily balance of total automobile credits and mortgage in dollars were reduced to 50% (from 60%) of the balance reached as of February 28, 2013, or 9% (from 12%) of the last effective equity on February 22, 2019 (effective March 1, 2019, Circular No. 005, 2019). Effective January 1, 2020, the limits on average daily balance of total automobile credits and mortgage in dollars were further reduced to 40% (from 50%) of the balance reached as of February 28, 2013, or 6% (from 9%) of the last effective equity published (Circular No. 31, 2019).

Effective March 30, 2020, the Central Bank of Peru decided: a) to reduce the reserve requirement rate with average maturities equal to or less than 2 years with foreign financial entities, subject to the special regime to 9%; and b) temporarily suspend for the remainder of the year 2020 the additional reserve requirement based on the evolution of credit in foreign currency.
Coverage of legal reserve requirements includes liabilities of foreign branches. The general reserve rate requirement applies to the following operations: (1) foreign-exchange-indexed obligations; (2) obligations with nonresident institutions with maturities of two years or more that exceed certain limits and operations; and (3) obligations derived from credit with nonresident institutions. A type of repo operation is used to inject soles; this operation allows the BCRP to provide soles to financial institutions in exchange for an equivalent amount of foreign currency reserve funds, which is deducted from their dollar reserve requirements up to an amount equal to 20% of their obligations subject to foreign currency reserve requirements (an expansionary operation). Another new type of repo operation was implemented to support the conversion to national currency of loans granted by financial institutions in foreign currency. Under the terms of the operation, the CB sells foreign currency to the financial institution on the spot date to finance this conversion (a currency substitution operation). Synthetic forwards are also included in the calculation used for limits on foreign exchange derivatives.

Liquid asset requirements

Yes.

As a prudential measure, a liquid asset requirement as a percentage of short-term liabilities (20% in foreign currency and 8% in domestic currency) is applied. These ratios increase to 25% and 10%, respectively, if concentration (measured as the percentage of liabilities with the largest 20 depositors) is higher than 25%. A short-term LCR was in place at 90% until December 2018. As established by SBS, it was increased to 100% effective January 1, 2019 (SBS Resolution No. 6694-2015). Effective March 16, 2020, the SBS (Oficio Multiple No. 11148-2020) indicated that the limits of liquidity coverage ratios in national currency (RCL-MN) and in foreign currency (RCL-ME) will not be applied temporarily, until further notice.

Interest rate controls

No.

Credit controls

No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents

Yes.

Reserve requirements

Yes.

Effective March 30, 2020, obligations in foreign currency with nonresident institutions with maturities of two years or less including foreign trade credit lines are subject to a special reserve requirement rate of 9% (previously, 50%). For Foreign loans used to finance foreign trade operations with maturities shorter than or equal to two years up to the equivalent of 40% of effective equity, the reserve requirement rate is also 9%.

Liquid asset requirements

No.

Interest rate controls

No.

Credit controls

Abroad by banks

In absolute value, the net foreign exchange swaps and derivatives’ long and short positions cannot exceed the maximum of (1) S/ 750 million and (2) 40% of banks’ effective equity. These limits are in place since May 2, 2019 (SBS Resolution No. 1884-2019). Previously, since August 26, 2015 (SBS Resolution No. 4861-2015), the limits were asymmetric: In absolute value, the net foreign exchange swaps and derivatives’ long position could not exceed the maximum of (1) S/. 300 million and (2) 20% of banks’ effective equity, and the net foreign exchange swaps and derivatives’ short position could not exceed the maximum of (1) S/. 600 million and (2) 40% of banks’ effective equity. A prudential limit of 50% of net worth applies to the long foreign exchange position of financial institutions, and a limit of 10% of net worth applies to the short foreign exchange position. Effective March 16, 2020, the BRCP decided to expand the amounts of the weekly limits and the balance from which an additional reserve requirement is applied to agreed operations of sale of foreign currency in exchange for national currency to through forwards and swaps. The weekly limit of operations from which the additional reserve requirement is applied went from $ 575 million to $ 675 million.

Regarding the balances for the legal reserve application, the one that is higher will be considered between 135% of effective equity as of December 31, 2014, 135% of the daily average value of foreign exchange derivatives in December 2014 or US$ 1,170 million.

Transactions in the foreign exchange market by private pension funds (Administradoras Privadas de Fondos de Pensiones) may not exceed a daily limit of 0.75% of the value of the fund and of 1.75% for the preceding five days (SBS Resolution No. 561-2013).

The operational limit on private pension funds’ investment in foreign securities issued by governments and financial and nonfinancial institutions abroad, since September 1, 2018, has been 50% of their portfolio. Previously, as of August 1, 2018, it was increased to 49.5% from 49%.

Investment in sovereign and CB instruments is capped at 30% each. Total portfolio investment in sovereign and CB instruments may not exceed 40%.

Article 178 of the General Law on the Financial System and Insurance System and the Superintendence of Banks and Insurance Companies establishes that companies in the financial system must ensure sufficient, but not necessarily exact, matching of the maturities of their lending and borrowing operations and their deposit-taking and investments.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) adheres to a market-determined exchange rate policy with some scope for occasional action solely to prevent potentially disruptive sharp fluctuations that may have an adverse impact on the inflation outlook. The importation season, which lasted around July to September, and the inflows because of seasonal remittances in the 4th quarter were taken into consideration in estimating the possible intervention amount. However, the BSP does not target or support a given level of exchange rate; it allows the value of the peso to be determined by the demand for and supply of foreign currencies. The BSP may participate in the US dollar–peso market directly with market participants or via market makers and does not disclose intervention data. For 2019, the peso appreciated by 3.85% at 50.635 on December 27, 2019, from its closing rate of 52.58/US$1 in December 2018. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

The BSP publishes reference rates daily based on the Bankers Association of the Philippines (BAP)-weighted US dollar (USD)/PHP average rate, with Bloomberg as its calculating agent, and on the Reuters Eikon system foreign exchange previous day’s New York closing price for other currencies. These are used to determine the value of foreign currency vis-à-vis the US dollar, euro, and peso.

The Philippines adopted inflation targeting in January 2002. The Development Budget Coordination Committee (DBCC), in consultation with the BSP, sets a fixed inflation target over a multi-
Inflation target

The BSP has employed fixed multi-year inflation targets in replacement of the previous variable annual inflation target since July 2010. The National Government’s (NG’s) inflation target has a tolerance interval of ±1 percentage point (pp) around the target. It is measured in terms of the average year-on-year (y-o-y) change in the CPI over the calendar year. 2011: 4.0% ± 1 pp (3.0%–5.0%); 2012–2014: 4.0% ± 1 pp (3.0%–5.0%); 2015–2016: 3.0% ± 1 pp (2.0%–4.0%); 2017–2018: 3.0% ± 1 pp (2.0%–4.0%). February 26, 2019, in line with the inflation-targeting framework, the DBCC, through its Resolution No. 2019-01, decided to maintain the current inflation target at 3.0% with a tolerance band of ±1 pp for 2019–2020 and to set the inflation target at 3.0% ± 1.0 pp for 2021–2022. These decisions were announced to the public, with effect February 8, 2019. The DBCC, during its meeting in May 2020, decided to keep the current inflation target at 3.0% ± 1.0 pp for 2020–2022.

Band/Range

Target measure

The primary objective of the BSP monetary policy is “to promote price stability conducive to a balanced and sustainable growth of the economy and employment.” The government’s inflation target is defined in terms of the average year-on-year (y-o-y) change in the CPI over the calendar year and is set two years ahead in consultation with the BSP.

Core inflation

Target horizon

The BSP adopts a two-year policy horizon (current and one year ahead) in setting the medium-term inflation targets.

Operating target (policy rate)

The BSP’s primary monetary policy instrument is its overnight reverse repurchase rate.

Policy rate

The overnight lending facility (OLF) and the overnight deposit facility (ODF) rates form the upper and lower bounds of the corridor, which are set at 50 basis points (bps) around the overnight reverse repurchase rate.

Interbank market  Yes.

Interbank trading is conducted among BAP member banks and between these banks and the BSP. As of December 31, 2019, there were 45 BAP member banks, of which 38 have trades on the Bloomberg terminal. Member banks may also deal through brokers. Only banks authorized for foreign exchange operations by the BSP and members of the BAP may engage in peso–US dollar trading with the BSP and among themselves. Trading among banks takes place on the Bloomberg trading platform. The USD/PHP trading takes place from 9:00 a.m. to noon and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. daily. The system allows participants to share information electronically and conduct business. A party requesting quotes enters the dealing code of the quoting party, the value date, and the volume of the transaction. The quoting party enters the exchange rate. Only the BSP has access to the database showing full details of individual trades on any day. Banks may view only statistics such as the day’s open, high, low, close, average, volume, and bank quotes. Banks may also view their own completed transactions. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants. The BSP may participate in the domestic interbank foreign exchange market directly and/or via market makers.

Over the counter  Yes.
Commercial banks may deal over the counter after the close of official trading at 4:00 p.m. These transactions, along with transactions involving institutions that are not members of the BAP, are not included in the BAP statistics for the day.

Brokerage  Yes.
Commercial banks may deal via brokers but must enter such transactions through the electronic platform provided by Bloomberg. At present, there are four foreign exchange brokers: Tullett Prebon (Philippines), Inc., GFI Group Philippines Inc., Tradition Financial Services Philippines, Inc., and Amstel Philippines Inc.

Market making  Yes.

Forward exchange market  Yes.
Universal banks, commercial banks, and other banks with limited user authority may engage in foreign exchange forwards with counterparties and customers if the latter are hedging market risks or covering funding requirements. TBs with existing authority to issue foreign LCs and pay, accept, and negotiate import and export drafts and bills of exchange are allowed to apply for Type 2 derivatives authority to operate as a dealer, broker, and end-user of deliverable foreign exchange forwards, subject to certain conditions. Forward transactions involving the sale of foreign exchange to nonresidents without full delivery of principal no longer require BSP approval. The BSP participates in the swap market for its monetary and exchange rate operations. Data on currency swaps settled in local and foreign currencies and non-deliverable forwards (NDFs) settled in domestic currency are reported monthly in Sections II and IV, respectively, of the Data Template on International Reserves and Foreign Currency Liquidity, which is posted on the BSP website.
Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes. Payments for exports may be made in the following currencies: Australian dollars, Bahrain dinars, Kuwaiti dinars, Brunei dollars, Canadian dollars, Chinese yuan, Euros, Hong Kong dollars, Indonesian rupiah, Korean won, Pound sterling, Saudi Arabian riyals, Singapore dollars, Swiss francs, Thai baht, U.A.E. dirhams, US dollars, Japanese yen, and any other currency declared convertible with the BSP.

Controls on the use of domestic currency Yes. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is not allowed, except for imports from and exports to ASEAN countries.

For current transactions and payments Yes. The use of domestic currency for international payments and receipts is not allowed, except for exports to ASEAN countries (provided the BSP is not asked to intervene in the clearing of any balances from this payment scheme and gold sales to the BSP which are considered constructive exports).

For capital transactions Yes.

Transactions in capital and money market instruments Yes. Transactions in capital and money market instruments are subject to the PHP 50,000 limit on cross-border transfer of local currency under domestic laws and regulations.

Transactions in derivatives and other instruments Yes. Effective March 8, 2019, customers may hedge their market risks arising from foreign exchange obligations through foreign exchange forwards (deliverable and non-deliverable) and foreign exchange swaps with Authorized Agent Banks (AABs), provided the underlying transaction is eligible for servicing using foreign exchange resources of AABs or AAB-forex corps. All NDF contracts by banks with residents must be settled in Philippine pesos.

Credit operations Yes. Banks may extend peso financing to nonresidents to fund the following: Without prior BSP approval – specific cases allowed under the Manual of Regulations for Banks (MORB); or Subject to prior BSP approval – for use in projects/programs/purposes that are: (a) not covered by item (1) above; and (b) legitimate and not contrary to laws, regulations, public order, public health, public safety, or public policy.

Offshore issuances by nonresidents of peso-denominated bonds/notes and similar debt instruments (whether to be settled in foreign or local currency) must be registered with the BSP to be eligible for servicing using foreign exchange resources of AABs/AAB-forex corps, where the transaction will involve: (1) inward remittance of foreign exchange to the Philippines by the nonresident issuer/investor; or (2) participation of a resident enterprise or any of its offshore offices, branches, subsidiaries, and affiliates as issuer, guarantor, or beneficiary under the transaction. The transaction must comply with the rules on cross-border transfer of Philippine currency as well as pertinent rules and regulations of the government agencies/entities.

Use of foreign exchange among residents Yes. There are no restrictions on the use of foreign exchange among residents, provided the sale of foreign exchange by AAB/AAB-forex corps is supported by documentation. Residents may also purchase any amount of foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs, subject to the following documentary requirements:
(1) application to sell/purchase foreign currency; and (2) supporting documents for purchase of foreign exchange if the amount exceeds US$10,000 for non-trade current account purposes or for all other purposes, regardless of the amount involved. FXDs/MCs must only be allowed to sell foreign currencies in an amount not exceeding US$10,000 or its equivalent a transaction, and not exceeding US$50,000 or its equivalent a month a customer. Exemption or higher limits may be granted by the appropriate department of the BSP Financial Supervision Sector (FSS) if justified by the business model of the MC/FXD. FXDs’/MCs’ pay-outs of more than PHP 500,000 or its foreign currency equivalent in any single transaction with customers or counterparties must only be made via check payment or direct credit to deposit accounts.

Effective March 8, 2019, the prior BSP approval requirement to purchase foreign exchange exceeding the US$60 million limit for outward investments was lifted. Foreign exchange purchases exceeding in amounts of up to US$60 million or its equivalent in other foreign currency an investor a year, or a fund a year are only subject to a notification to the BSP at least 15 banking days after determination that total foreign exchange requirements will exceed the US$60 million threshold and present to the foreign exchange selling institution a copy of the notice duly received/acknowledged by the BSP.

Capital Transactions

Foreign loans and investments registered with the BSP may be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs, AAB-forex corps, and BSP-registered FXDs and MCs, subject to documentary requirements. Effective March 8, 2019, additional short-term private sector loans cited in Section 24.3 of the Foreign Exchange Manual are no longer required to be registered with the BSP to allow access to the foreign exchange resources of the banking sector, provided these are duly reported to the BSP by the borrower/creditor.

Securities sold by banks or Nonbank Financial Institutions (NBFIs) without recourse or subject of quasi-banking activities are delivered to the purchaser’s/lender’s designated BSP-accredited custodian or the options available for delivery of securities involving local purchases from banks or NBFIs under BSP supervision were expanded to include Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)-authorized central securities depositories.

On capital market securities

Yes.

As a general rule, no securities may be sold or offered for sale to the public within the country, unless such securities have been registered with and are permitted to be sold by the SEC.

Shares or other securities of a participating nature

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes.

If at least one of the parties in a securities transaction is a bank or a NBFI under BSP supervision, securities purchased must be held by a BSP-accredited securities custodian or registry or SEC-authorized central securities depository that is a third party—that is, with no subsidiary or affiliate relationship with the issuer or seller of the securities. However, if the purchaser is a nonresident who is a party to an existing global custody agreement governed by foreign laws and conventions under which the bank or NBFI is designated as custodian or subcustodian, the requirement for a third-party BSP-accredited custodian or SEC-registered central securities depository does not apply. Registration of the shares purchased with BSP or with registering banks is necessary only if the foreign exchange needed for capital repatriation and remittance of dividends, profits, and earnings thereon will be purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

The shares or securities issued or sold by nonresidents are subject to the same SEC approval and registration requirements as those issued by local companies. Payment for redemption of such shares or securities must not, however, involve the purchase of foreign exchange from AABs and/AAB-forex corps. Foreign firms whose securities are listed and traded on a local stock exchange must designate a transfer agent and registrar in the Philippines. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in foreign-currency-denominated instruments issued onshore by nonresidents, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Nonresident issuances of notes/bonds or similar instruments in the domestic market must require BSP approval before execution.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes.

Residents are free to invest abroad without restriction. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in securities abroad, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject only to 15-day prior notification to BSP and documentation.

Residents may also purchase foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs for outward investments, regardless of the amount, subject to documentation. Banks’ investments in subsidiaries and affiliates abroad are subject to BSP approval.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes.

Private sector borrowing may be freely obtained, provided there is no guarantee from the government sector and payments are not funded with AABs’ and/or AAB-forex corps’ resources. Effective March 8, 2019, foreign loans/borrowings of the private sector that are not publicly guaranteed and will be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs or AAB-forex corps no longer require prior BSP approval but are subject to notification and registration to the BSP. Public sector borrowing requires BSP approval. Banks that wish to issue unsecured subordinated debt must secure the approval of the BSP.

Investments of residents which will require settlement in foreign currency in favor of another resident must be governed by the rules on resident-to-resident transactions. AAB/AAB-forex corps may sell foreign exchange (regardless of the amount) to nonbank residents for their foreign exchange transactions with other residents, subject to the submission to the foreign exchange selling institution of a duly accomplished ATP foreign exchange and supported by documents such as: (a) contract/agreement or equivalent document evidencing the payable to resident, including those covering transactions between residents; and (b) proof of amount due or any equivalent document showing amount required/due.

Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold, for investment in foreign-currency-denominated instruments issued onshore by nonresidents, without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation.

Purchase abroad by residents: Yes. Residents are free to invest abroad without restriction. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in foreign-currency-denominated mutual funds and unit investment trust funds abroad, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Residents may also purchase foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs for outward investment, including investment in bonds and notes of the Philippines and of other Philippine entities settled in foreign currency, regardless of the amount, with documentation.
Sale or issue abroad by residents  Yes.

Private sector borrowing may be freely obtained, provided there is no guarantee from the government sector and payments are not funded with AABs’ and/or and AAB-forex resources. Effective March 8, 2019, foreign loans/borrowings of the private sector that are not publicly guaranteed and will be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs or AAB-forex corps no longer require prior BSP approval but are subject to notification and registration to the BSP. Foreign loans/borrowings of the public sector and of the private sector that are guaranteed by the public sector require prior BSP approval. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in foreign-currency-denominated instruments issued onshore by nonresidents, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments.

Investments of residents which will require settlement in foreign currency in favor of another resident must be governed by the rules on resident-to-resident transactions. That is, AAB/AAB-forex corps may sell foreign exchange (regardless of the amount) to nonbank residents for their foreign exchange transactions with other residents, subject to the submission to the foreign exchange selling institution of a duly accomplished ATP foreign exchange and supported by documents such as: (a) contract/agreement or equivalent document evidencing the payable to resident, including those covering transactions between residents; and (b) proof of amount due or any equivalent document showing amount required/due.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments  Yes.

Derivatives are considered securities under the Securities Regulation Code and are being administered by the SEC. Banks may engage in generally authorized derivatives activities without BSP approval, provided they follow the risk management guidelines for derivatives transactions and comply with laws, rules, and regulations for this activity. BSP approval is required for banks to engage in all financial derivatives activities not expressly classified as “generally authorized.”

February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. On the other hand, all banks may apply for limited user (to transact as end-user) or special broker (to facilitate transactions) authority for forward foreign exchange transactions, subject to BSP regulations.

February 5, 2008, universal banks, commercial banks, and other banks with limited user derivatives authority may engage only in foreign exchange forwards and swap transactions with other banks and nonresidents if the latter are hedging market risk or covering funding requirements. Foreign exchange regulations and documentary requirements for derivatives apply. TBs authorized to issue foreign LCs and pay, accept, and negotiate import and export drafts and bills of exchange may apply for Type 2 derivatives authority to be a dealer, broker, and end-user of deliverable foreign exchange forwards, subject to certain conditions. The total notional amount of banks’ NDFs involving Philippine pesos is limited to 20% and 100%, respectively, of the capital of domestic banks and local branches of foreign banks. AML laws, rules, and regulations; relevant SEC rules; foreign exchange regulations; and documentary requirements for derivatives also apply.
| Purchase locally by nonresidents | Yes. | February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. Derivatives involving forward purchases of foreign exchange by nonresidents are not allowed, except for BSP-registered foreign investments under certain conditions. |
| Sale or issue locally by nonresidents | Yes. | As a general rule, no securities may be sold or offered for sale to the public within the country, unless such securities have been registered with and are permitted to be sold by the SEC. Derivatives fall under the definition of securities. February 5, 2008, U/KBs may act as dealer of forward foreign exchange contracts, subject to BSP licensing requirements and compliance with sales and marketing guidelines. On the other hand, all banks may apply for limited user (to transact as end-user) or special broker (to facilitate transactions) authority for forward foreign exchange transactions subject to BSP regulations. Nonresidents’ derivatives transactions involving local currency require BSP approval. |
| Purchase abroad by residents | Yes. | Foreign exchange contracts that do not involve local currency are unrestricted. Contracts involving local currency are subject to restrictions on the importation and exportation of local currency. Banks that wish to engage in derivatives transactions not considered generally authorized are required to secure license from the BSP. |
| Sale or issue abroad by residents | Yes. | Foreign exchange contracts that do not involve local currency are unrestricted. Contracts involving local currency are subject to restrictions on the importation and exportation of local currency. Banks that wish to engage in derivatives transactions not considered generally authorized are required to secure license from the BSP. |
| Controls on credit operations | Yes. | Republic Act No. 3765, the Truth in Lending Act, requires the disclosure of finance charges in connection with extensions of credit. |
| Commercial credits | Yes. | These transactions may be freely undertaken, provided they do not involve foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps. Banks may extend peso financing to nonresidents to fund the following: Without prior BSP approval – specific cases allowed under the MORB; or Subject to prior BSP approval – for use in projects/programs/purposes that are: (a) not covered by item (1) above; and (b) legitimate and not contrary to laws, regulations, public order, public health, public safety, or public policy. |
| By residents to nonresidents | Yes. | Private sector borrowing is permitted, provided it is not guaranteed by the government sector and payments are not funded with AABs’ and/or AAB-forex corps’ resources. Effective March 8, 2019, foreign loans/borrowings of the private sector that are not publicly guaranteed and will be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs or AAB-forex corps no longer require prior BSP approval but are subject to notification and registration to the BSP. Foreign loans/borrowings of the public sector and of the private sector that are guaranteed by the public sector require prior BSP approval. |
| To residents from nonresidents | Yes. | Loans by nonresidents from expanded foreign currency deposit units (EFCDUs), regardless of maturity, do not require BSP approval, provided (1) they are not guaranteed by the government sector; (2) they are serviced with foreign exchange purchased outside AABs and/or AAB-forex corps; and (3) relevant banking regulations are followed, including the | single borrower limit.

By residents to nonresidents
Yes. These transactions may be freely undertaken if they do not involve foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

To residents from nonresidents
Yes. Private sector borrowing may be freely obtained, provided there is no guarantee from the government sector and payments are not funded with AABs' and/or AAB-forex corps' resources. Effective March 8, 2019, foreign loans/borrowings of the private sector that are not publicly guaranteed and will be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs or AAB-forex corps no longer require prior BSP approval but are subject to notification and registration to the BSP. Foreign loans/borrowings of the public sector and of the private sector that are guaranteed by the public sector require prior BSP approval. Banks that wish to issue unsecured subordinated debt must secure the approval of the BSP.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities
Yes.

By residents to nonresidents
Guarantees for public sector accounts that may give rise to actual foreign obligation of the public sector to nonresidents and those issued by government-owned and government-controlled corporations [excluding public sector banks and NBFIs with quasi-banking functions] in favor of nonresidents require BSP approval. Guarantees issued by resident banks and other financial institutions, including public sector banks and NBFIs with quasi-banking functions that cover foreign obligations for account of the private sector other than foreign loans, need not be registered, but must be reported to the BSP to be eligible for servicing using foreign exchange purchased from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps.

To residents from nonresidents
Guarantees that are related to foreign/foreign currency loans/borrowings that require BSP approval/registration must already form part of the loan terms submitted for BSP approval/registration (as applicable). In case of a call on such guarantee: (1) The borrower/guarantor must submit a written notification to the BSP target date of settlement of the call on the guarantee to allow servicing using foreign exchange resources of AABs/AAB-forex corps; and (2) the borrower must comply with pertinent rules covering the underlying obligation (including reportorial requirements).

Controls on direct investment
Yes.

Outward direct investment
Yes. Residents may invest abroad without restriction. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps for investment abroad up to US$60 million or its equivalent an investor a year, a fund a year for qualified investors. Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Residents may also purchase foreign exchange from FXDs and MCs for outward investment, including investment in bonds and notes of the Philippines and other Philippine entities requiring settlement in foreign currency, regardless of the amount, provided such purchases are supported by documentation.

Inward direct investment
Yes. Foreign inward investments registered with the BSP may be serviced using foreign exchange purchased from AABs, AAB-forex corps, and BSP-registered FXDs and MCs, subject to documentary requirements. Inward FDIs may be registered with BSP. A BSP Registration Document (BSRD) will be issued by the BSP as evidence of the investment. For the purpose of registration, foreign exchange funding for cash investments must be remitted to the Philippines but effective March 8, 2019, need not be converted to pesos, except for the cases cited in Section 36.3 of the Foreign Exchange Manual. Foreign investments need not be registered with the BSP, unless the foreign exchange needed to service repatriation of capital and remittance of dividends, profits, and earnings is purchased from AABs or and AAB-forex corps. Foreign exchange may be purchased from AABs and AAB-forex corps for outward remittance for the equivalent of the peso sales/divestment proceeds (including dividends, profits, and earnings) of BSP-registered foreign investments in accordance with prescribed procedures and supported by prescribed documents. Registering banks for foreign investments may sell for outward remittance the equivalent foreign exchange of (1) excess pesos funded with inward remittance of foreign exchange as follows: peso proceeds of foreign exchange inwardly remitted minus the peso amount actually used for BSP-registered investments; and interest earned on the excess pesos, subject to certain conditions. Registration is required only if the foreign exchange for capital repatriation and remittance of profits and earnings is purchased from AABs and/or and AAB-forex corps. Controls on liquidation of direct investment No. Controls on real estate transactions Yes. Purchase abroad by residents Yes. Residents who have their own foreign exchange assets may freely engage in these transactions. Residents may purchase foreign exchange from AABs and/or AAB-forex corps without BSP approval for investment in real property abroad, including condominium units, provided these do not exceed US$60 million an investor a year when aggregated with other allowable outward investments. Effective March 8, 2019, resident investors may purchase foreign exchange in excess of the US$60 million annual threshold without prior BSP approval, subject to the 15-day prior notification to the BSP and documentation. Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes. Purchases are subject to constitutional and legal limits. Under the Philippine Constitution, foreign nationals and foreign companies are not allowed to directly own land. Ownership of private lands in the Philippines is reserved for Philippine citizens and corporations that are considered Philippine nationals. The Philippine Foreign Investment Act allows foreign nationals and companies to indirectly own land by acquiring up to 40% ownership of a corporation that is considered a Philippine national, that is qualified to own land (corporations that are considered Philippine nationals are those corporations or partnerships with at least 60% of the capital stock outstanding owned by Filipinos). Foreign nationals and foreign companies may also acquire condominium units and shares in condominium corporations up to not more than 40% of the total and outstanding capital stock of a Filipino-owned or controlled condominium corporation, subject to the rules under the Condominium Act of the Philippines. Sale locally by nonresidents Yes. Nonresidents are not allowed to own private lands in the Philippines, thus cannot sell them the same locally. The Philippine Condominium Act provides that each condominium owner also has the absolute right to sell or dispose of his condominium, unless the master deed contains a requirement that the property be first offered to the condominium owners within a reasonable period of time before the... same is offered to outside parties.

Lending locally in foreign exchange

Yes.

Workers (OFWs), embassy officials and employees, and foreign nationals holding valid visas issued by relevant Philippine authorities (subject to conditions) without prior BSP approval.

Lending locally in foreign exchange

EFCDUs of U/KBs are authorized to grant foreign currency loans as allowed by the BSP. FCDUs of TBs are authorized to grant only short-term foreign currency loans. FCDUs of rural and cooperative banks may grant short-term foreign currency loans, except to producers or manufacturers, including oil companies and public utility companies. Regular banking units of universal, commercial, and TBs may engage in trade-related loan transactions, subject to the regulations on trade transactions.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange

Yes.

EFCDUs of U/KBs may invest in foreign-currency-denominated securities, regardless of maturity. However, FCDUs of TBs or rural and cooperative banks may invest only in foreign-currency-denominated debt instruments that are readily marketable. Regular banking units of banks may generally invest in locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange, subject to regulations, particularly on risk management.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange

Yes.

There is no reserve requirement for deposit accounts in foreign exchange. However, banks are required to have 100% asset cover on foreign currency deposits and the requirement of maintaining 30% of asset cover in the form of liquid assets was lifted. The liquidity and statutory reserve requirements for peso deposits and deposit substitute liabilities of U/KBs are unified into a single, combined reserve requirement of 16% from previously 20% effective May 31, 2019, except for long-term negotiable CDs, which are subject to lower reserve requirement of 4%.

Reserve requirements for bonds were reduced from 6% to 3% for U/KBs, TBs, and nonbank financial institutions with quasi-banking functions (NBQBs), effective reserve week November 1, 2019.

Reserve requirements for deposit and deposit substitute liabilities of U/KBs were reduced as follows:
From 16% to 15% effective reserve week November 1, 2019.
From 15% to 14% effective December 6, 2019.
From 14% to 12% effective April 3, 2020.

Reserve requirements for deposit and deposit substitute liabilities of NBQBs were reduced as follows:
From 15% to 14% effective December 6, 2019.
From 14% to 12% effective April 3, 2020.

Reserve requirements for deposit and deposit substitute liabilities of TBs were reduced as follows:
From 6% to 5% effective November 1, 2019.
From 5% to 4% effective December 6, 2019.
From 4% to 3% effective July 31, 2020.

Reserve requirements for deposit and deposit substitute liabilities of rural and cooperative banks were reduced as follows:
From 4% to 3% effective November 1, 2019.
From 3% to 2% effective July 31, 2020.

Liquid asset requirements

Yes.

 Depository banks with FCDUs and EFCDUs must maintain at all times 100% asset cover for their foreign currency liabilities, except for US dollar-denominated repo agreements with the BSP. From February 15, 2018, the requirement of at least 30% of the cover for these liabilities to be in liquid assets was lifted. From February 15, 2018, the requirement for EFCDUs of U/KBs, of at least 70% of the cover must be in the same currency as the deposit liability, and up to 30% in other acceptable foreign currencies was lifted. The requirement of FCDUs of TBs and rural and cooperative banks to maintain foreign currency cover in the same currency as the deposit liability was likewise lifted. Under the BSP framework on LCR, banks are expected to be able to meet their liquidity needs in each currency, although the framework only requires the LCR to be met and reported in a “single currency” (that is, in peso terms).

Abroad by banks  Yes. The establishment or acquisition by a bank of subsidiaries or affiliates abroad requires BSP approval. A bank subsidiary may invest in a foreign subsidiary, subject to the following: (1) The investment of a bank subsidiary in the equity of a subsidiary abroad is subject to BSP approval. (2) The bank subsidiary may invest in the subsidiary if it meets the prequalification requirements of the BSP. (3) The application for authority of the requesting bank subsidiary must be accompanied by a certified true copy of the resolution authorizing the investment by the board of directors of the parent bank and the bank subsidiary, feasibility study indicating among other things the economic justification for investment and the proposed organizational structure. (4) The applicant parent subsidiary must comply with the licensing requirements of the host country, and the necessary license must be secured from the appropriate government agency of the host country. (5) The proposed subsidiary must be declared and paid as cash dividends to the parent subsidiary. (6) Outward investment representing initial capital and other outlays is subject to the regulations. (7) At least 50% of the yearly net profits of the proposed subsidiary must be declared and paid as cash dividends to the parent subsidiary. (8) The proposed subsidiary is subject to BSP reporting and supervision requirements, and the cost of such examination is chargeable to the parent bank. (9) Additional funding or advances of the parent bank in the Philippines to its subsidiaries abroad require BSP approval.

In banks by nonresidents  Yes. Qualified foreign banks may own or control up to 100% of the voting stock of a domestic bank while a foreign individual or a foreign nonbank corporation may own up to 40% of U/KBs and TBs and 60% of rural banks. Aggregate ownership of the voting shares of stock of foreign individuals and/or foreign nonbank corporations in U/KBs is limited to 40% of U/KBs and 60% of TBs and rural banks. Total resources of banks held by foreign banks may not exceed 40%. The equity investment of a cooperative in a coop bank may not exceed 40% of its subscribed capital stock.

Open foreign exchange position limits  Yes. Banks’ allowable open foreign exchange position (either overbought or oversold) is the lower of 20% of their unimpaired capital or US $50 million. The BSP imposes sanctions for the violation of open position limits. The BSP prescribes the use of the “netting” method for determining banks’ net open position.

On resident assets and liabilities Yes. Banks’ allowable open foreign exchange position (either overbought or oversold) is the lower of 20% of their unimpaired capital or US $50 million. The BSP imposes sanctions for the violation of open position limits. The BSP prescribes the use of the “netting” method for determining banks’ net open position.

On nonresident assets and liabilities Yes. Banks’ allowable open foreign exchange position (either overbought or oversold) is the lower of 20% of their unimpaired capital or US $50 million. Exchange Measures Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices: No.

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons: Yes.

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51): Yes.

Poland maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with EU regulations solely for the preservation of national and international security. These include the freezing of funds and economic resources of certain persons, entities, and groups. The EU’s economic and financial sanctions are based on Article 215 of the Treaty on Functioning of the European Union and decisions adopted in the framework of the Common Foreign and Security Policy.

Other security restrictions: No.

Floating
Free floating Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating; the exchange rate of the zloty is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market, and the zloty is traded freely against all currencies. Narodowy Bank Polski (NBP, National Bank of Poland), however, may intervene in the foreign exchange market if necessary to ensure domestic macroeconomic and financial stability. The NBP does not disclose its intervention data. Given that NBP intervened in the foreign exchange market last time in 2013, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as free floating. In 2019, as in previous years, MOF exchanged foreign currencies in the central bank. The MOF did not exchange any foreign currencies on the financial market. The procedures related to exchange of foreign currencies into zlotys by the MOF in the NBP have not changed. Every year, the MOF publishes on its website information on any transactions conducted by the MOF on the financial market. As regards NBP, it publishes general information about purchase of foreign currencies from the MOF and limits on foreign exchange transactions with MOF in Annual Reports of Banking Sector Liquidity and Monetary Policy Instruments of NBP.

Official exchange rate Yes. Exchange rates are freely determined by the market. The NBP calculates and publishes daily rates for convertible currencies. Euro rates fixing is based on foreign exchange market rates as quoted on trading platforms between 10:55 and 11:00 a.m. local time (average foreign exchange market rates between specified period of time). Exchange rates for other major currencies are calculated from cross-currency rates against the euro as quoted on trading platforms. The NBP daily rates are mainly used for statistical and accounting purposes. In general for accounting purposes, these rates are used to recalculate amounts and cash flow in foreign currency into zloty. The rates are also used by businesses to price foreign-exchange-denominated assets and liabilities as well as settlement rates for exchange-traded derivatives. As regards financial markets, the rates are used as the fixing price in the settlement of derivatives (options, etc.).

Inflation-targeting framework Yes. Monetary policy is based on flexible inflation targeting. Within this framework, the Monetary Policy Council (MPC) sets the inflation target and adjusts monetary instruments (predominantly the NBP policy interest rates) to keep headline inflation close to the target in the medium term. Since 2004 the NBP has pursued a medium-term inflation target of 2.5% with a symmetrical band of deviations of ±1 pp (percentage point). The medium-term orientation of the target does not involve any definition or guidance about the time-specific horizon of inflation returning to target in case of deviation. The NBP’s inflation-targeting framework is laid down in Monetary Policy Guidelines, which—in line with the constitution of the Republic of Poland—are presented to the lower chamber of the Polish parliament (Sejm) on an annual basis. The constitution also imposes an obligation on the MPC to present a Report on Implementation of the Guidelines to Sejm each year. These are the main annual documents for informing the public about the causes and nature of the shocks behind inflation target misses. The MPC, however, retains a large degree of discretion over the reaction to these shocks. In addition, the implementation of the monetary policy guidelines is assessed by the Polish Supreme Audit Office, also on an annual basis.

According to the Polish Constitution, the NBP shall be responsible for the value of Polish currency. The Act on NBP states that “the basic objective of the activity of NBP shall be to maintain price stability, while supporting the economic policy of the Government, insofar as this does not constrain the pursuit of the basic objective of NBP.” In line with the above-mentioned legal guidelines, the numerical value of the inflation target was set by the MPC in “Monetary Policy Strategy beyond 2003” published in February 2003. The target is confirmed each year in Monetary Policy Guidelines, published annually.

Monetary policy decisions are taken by majority vote with the presence of at least 5 members of the MPC, including Chairperson (the President of the NBP), who has the deciding vote in case of a tie. Inflation target is set by the MPC which has the right to modify the target.

CPI

Target measure refers to the annual change in the consumer price inflation. The consumer price inflation (the overall price index of consumer goods and services – headline CPI) is computed and published by the Statistics Poland (GUS – the central statistical office of Poland). The target is set at 2.5% with a symmetric band for deviations of ±1 pp in the medium term (thus, it is a continuous target, not an end-year target).
Core inflation

Target horizon
Yes.

The target horizon is medium term. The Council flexibly determines the time necessary for inflation to return to the target depending on the character of the shock, its persistence, and the overall assessment of risks posed by the shock to both price stability and broadly understood macroeconomic stability in the medium term.

Operating target (policy rate)
Yes.

Policy rate
Yes.

The instrument of key significance for the monetary policy implementation is the NBP reference rate. By determining the yields on open market operations, this rate influences the interest on short-term money market instruments, in particular unsecured interbank deposits. The range of fluctuations of interbank overnight interest rates is determined by the NBP deposit and lombard rates.

Target corridor band
Yes.

Before the COVID-19 crisis, the reference rate stood at 1.50%, the deposit rate at 0.50%, and the lombard rate at 2.50%.

- On March 17, 2020, the MPC took the decisions of lowering the reference rate to 1.00%, the deposit rate at 0.50%, and the lombard rate to 1.50%.
- On April 8, 2020, the MPC further decided to lower the reference rate to 0.50%, the deposit rate to 0.00%, and the lombard rate to 1.00%.
- On May 28, 2020, the Monetary Policy Council further decided to lower the reference rate to 0.10%, the deposit rate to 0.00%, and the lombard rate to 0.50%.

Since May 29, 2020, the deposit rate stood at 0.00%, the lombard rate at 0.50% and the reference rate at 0.10%. The deposit rate and the lombard rate set the fluctuation band for overnight interest rates in the interbank market, which is not anymore symmetric with respect to the reference rate.

Once a year the President of the NBP attends the parliamentary hearing to present the NBP’s Annual Report.

The key communication instruments include the cyclical publications: Information from the meeting of the MPC (with the accompanying press conferences, which prior to the COVID-19 pandemic were held regularly after each MPC decision-making meeting), Minutes of the MPC decision-making meetings, and Inflation Reports. Once a year, the NBP also publishes its Annual Report, Report on Monetary Policy Implementation, and Monetary Policy Guidelines and Banking Sector Liquidity Monetary Policy Instruments of Narodowy Bank Polski.

Transparency
Yes.

Pursuant to the decision of the MPC, the NBP will be publishing the motions on its website relating to interest rates, together with a breakdown of votes cast by individual MPC members. The rules for publishing are as follows: If the motion was not passed – after the lapse of 6 weeks from the date of voting, at 14.00 hours; if the resolution on interest rates was adopted – after the results of voting on the resolution have been published in Monitor Sądowy i Gospodarczy (Court and Economic Monitor). If, in addition to adopting a resolution on interest rates, other motions were voted at the MPC meeting which did not receive a majority vote, the results... of voting on such motions are posted on the NBP website after the announcement of voting results on the adopted resolution in the Court and Economic Monitor. In accordance with the principles adopted by the MPC, information on any motions regarding the NBP interest rates which were submitted during one-day MPC meetings is published, in the first instance, in the Minutes of the MPC decision-making meetings. Thus, voting results are not released prior to the publication of the Minutes.

Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Minutes of the MPC decision-making meeting were published prior to the next decision-making meeting of the MPC. In principle, the publication took place approximately 2 weeks after the MPC decision-making meeting – on Thursdays at 2 p.m. However, when the break between the MPC meetings was longer/shorter than usual, the Minutes were published with somewhat longer/shorter lag, but always before the next MPC decision-making meeting.

During the pandemic the schedule of MPC meetings was changed several times and the overall number of MPC meetings was reduced. Hence Minutes of the previous decision-making meeting were approved on the next decision-making meeting and published 2 days later.

Content of the Minutes: main issues discussed by the MPC and arguments raised during the discussion; the decision on monetary policy instruments, including interest rates, and information on the motion/s raised and whether it/they received a majority vote (no voting records are published in the Minutes); no individual views (no names of individual MPC members) approx. 3–4 pages.

NBP projections are prepared three times a year and published in March, July, and November Inflation Reports. In addition to the publication of the Inflation Report, a separate press conference is held to present current projections. The press conference—together with the accompanying presentation—is available on the NBP website. The projection covers economic developments up to three years ahead from the publication date.

Yes. ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.

Spot exchange market

Yes. Banks may deal in foreign exchange without a separate license. There are also 4,844 foreign exchange offices (cantors) allowed to deal in foreign exchange with the public; cantors do not need a special permit but must be registered in the register of cantors. Cantors do not conclude foreign exchange transactions with the NBP. They may conclude transactions with other banks, cantors, and retail customers. Their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes; they may not make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. In their business activity, they may not maintain accounts abroad. Foreign exchange offices may not provide payment services as defined in Directive No. 2015/2366 on payment services (money transfers).

No.
Market makers are market participants who continuously quote buying and selling prices to other market participants. No additional license is required for a bank to operate in the foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants. In recent years, NBP intervened directly with market participants at their quoted rates. Domestic commercial banks have direct access to the interbank foreign exchange market; however, activity in this market is relatively concentrated (with almost 90% of turnover generated by 10 banks).

The foreign exchange market is based on a market-making agreement as well as a brokerage system.

The NBP does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

granted by the MOF under the MOF regulation regime; individual foreign exchange permits are granted by the NBP in the form of administrative decisions. Those decisions are subject to appeal to the appropriate regional administrative court. The NBP exercises control over foreign exchange permits, exchange office activities, and collects submissions to be provided by residents as regards their banking statistics for the purpose of compiling balance of payments data and the external assets and liabilities position of the country.

The exportation of foreign gold (gold coins) is subject to declaration procedures (written declaration at the border).

In accordance with EU Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the regulation; the regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders.

Residents (individuals and enterprises) are allowed to maintain accounts in the member countries of the EU, EEA, and OECD without permission. Accounts in other countries may be maintained only for settlements with nonresidents. Controls apply to deposits of funds with nonresident institutions by a privately managed occupational pension fund. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity which is based on Solvency II Directive. According to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, assets of insurance and reinsurance companies should be invested according to prudent person principle. This act is an implementation of Directive 2009/138/EC of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II) and prudent person principle is provided in Art. 132 of this directive. The main principles are: (1) With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. (2) All assets, in particular those covering the Minimum Capital Requirement and the Solvency Capital Requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. (3) Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective.

The limit on open pension funds’ investments in assets denominated in a currency other than the national one is 30%. The total value of open pension fund assets invested in assets denominated in currency other than the national one may not exceed 30%. For occupational pension funds the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of a fund’s total assets. Assets of pension funds may be invested in assets denominated in currencies of EU, EEA, and OECD member countries. For Employee Capital Plans (PPK), the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of total assets.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents Yes.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes.

Controls apply to the purchase of shares and other securities of a participating nature, which may be affected by regulations on FDI. Acquisition of shares representing defined substantial block of shares in public companies with sales revenue in one from two recent years at level of 10 000 000 EUR should be notified to President of Office of Competition and Consumer Protection. President of Office of Competition and Consumer Protection is entitled to issue a decision authorizing the purchase or refusing the purchase. Information must be provided to the Polish Financial Supervision Authority (KNF), to the issuer, and to the public if certain thresholds in voting power or stock purchase are exceeded.

Under the EU uniform rule, public offerings of securities in Poland generally require approval of a prospectus by the competent authority of the issuer’s EU home member state (in general EU country of issuer’s incorporation) Only in case of public offers with small value and/or addressed to specific investors there is no obligation to publish a prospectus or a much lighter document is required (like a memorandum). In case of issuer from a member state other than Poland, if a public offering or admission to trading on a regulated market is provided for in Poland as a host member country, the prospectus approved by the home member country is valid in Poland, provided the KNF is notified by the appropriate authority in the issuer’s home country. In case the issuer’s country of incorporation is not an EU country, prospectus in general must be approved by the KNF.

Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD and countries with which Poland has not entered into agreements for the promotion and protection of investments.

Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD by privately managed pension funds. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity which is based on Solvency II Directive. According to Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity, assets of insurance and reinsurance companies should be invested according to prudent person principle. This act is an implementation of Directive 2009/138/EC of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II) and prudent person principle is provided in Art. 132 of this directive. The main principles are: (1) With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must only invest in assets and instruments whose risks the company concerned can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report, and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs. (2) All assets, in particular those covering the Minimum Capital Requirement and the Solvency Capital Requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. (3) Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries taking into account any disclosed policy objective. Open pension funds may invest up to 30% of their assets in assets denominated in a currency other than the national one. The total value of open pension fund assets invested in assets denominated in currency other than the national one may not exceed 30%. For occupational pension funds the value of assets denominated in a currency other than zlotys may not exceed 30% of a fund’s total assets. Pension fund assets may be invested in assets denominated in zlotys or currencies of EU, EEA, and OECD countries. These assets may be invested in the following capital market securities of a participation nature with an original maturity of more than one year: (1) shares of companies listed on a regulated market and bonds convertible to the shares of such companies, as well as preemptive rights and rights to shares listed on that market; (2) shares, preemptive rights, and rights to shares for public offer; (3) participation units of closed-end collective investment institutions, as follows: (a) whose sole objective is collective investment of funds collected through public or private offering of their participation units in securities, money market instruments, and other property rights; (b) that are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established or whose operations require notification to those authorities, if according to their articles of incorporation their participation units are not offered publicly, traded on a regulated market, or admitted to the alternative trading system and they can be purchased by individuals only in a single purchase of not less than €40,000; (c) that are under the direct supervision of the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (d) that in accordance with the law of the country of their establishment are required to have a depository holding the assets of the institution; and (e) that are managed by entities whose activities are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (4) participation units issued by open-end collective investment institutions, as follows: (a) whose sole objective is collective investment of funds collected through public or private offering of their participation units in securities, money market instruments, and other property rights; (b) that are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established, or whose operations require notification to those authorities; (c) that are under the direct supervision of the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; (d) that in accordance with the law of the country of their establishment are required to have a depository holding the assets of the institution; and (e) that are managed by entities whose activities are authorized by the financial market supervisory authorities in the country in which they are established; and (5) depository receipts admitted to trading on the regulated market.

Please see category XII.B. “Provisions specific to institutional investors.” For PPK, the value of assets denominated in a currency other than the national one may not exceed 30% of total assets.

Sale or issue abroad by residents

Yes. Under the EU uniform rules, any public offering of securities in a member state other than Poland generally requires approval of a prospectus by the KNF, KNF notification of the host member state’s competent authority, and publication of the prospectus in the host member state.

Bonds or other debt securities

Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents

Yes. The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes. The regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature apply. However, in case of debt securities with a high nominal value, the KNF can be chosen by the issuer to approve its prospectus.

Purchase abroad by residents

Yes. Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD countries with which Poland has not entered into agreements for the promotion and protection of investments.

Controls apply to the purchase of securities issued by nonresidents from countries other than EU, EEA, and OECD countries by privately managed pension funds. | Controls on liquidation of direct investment | No. |
| Controls on real estate transactions | Yes. |

Purchase abroad by residents
Yes.

Pension funds are not allowed to invest directly in real estate. Pension fund assets may be invested in assets denominated in zlotys or in currencies of member countries of the EU, EEA, or OECD. The allocation of assets of insurance companies is not subject to limits but must remain consistent with prudent person principle specified in Article 276 of the Act of September 11, 2015, on insurance and reinsurance activity based on Solvency II Directive.

Purchase locally by nonresidents
Yes.

Nonresidents may acquire real estate or other immovable property in Poland only with permission from the Ministry of the Interior, except if it is inherited. Under the Law on Acquisition of Real Estate by Foreigners, foreigners may also acquire real estate without a permit if (1) the real estate is an apartment; (2) the foreigner has lived in Poland for at least five years since obtaining a permanent residence visa; (3) the foreigner has been married to a Polish citizen for at least two years (the purchased real estate must constitute part of matrimonial community property); or (4) the real estate is purchased by nonresident juridical persons for statutory purposes, and the real estate is no larger than 4,000 square meters if it is in an urban area. The Council of Ministers may issue a regulation defining other cases for which a permit is not required, provided the size of the acquired real estate does not exceed 4,000 square meters in urban and 10,000 square meters in rural areas. The Council of Ministers may also extend the area to be acquired without a permit to 12,000 square meters in urban and 30,000 square meters in rural areas. Poland maintained rules until 2009 regarding the acquisition of secondary residences by foreigners other than nationals of EU member countries and nationals of countries that are parties to the EEA and who have been legal residents of Poland continuously for four years. Rules regarding the acquisition of agricultural land and forests are in effect until 2016. Under these rules, nationals of another EU member country or of a country that is party to the EEA who want to establish themselves as self-employed farmers and who have been legally resident and leasing land continuously in Poland as a natural or legal person for at least three years are not subject to any procedures other than those that apply to nationals of Poland; in some western and northern “voivods” (state administrations), the residence and leasing period is for a minimum of seven years.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions Yes.

Borrowing abroad No.

Maintenance of accounts abroad No.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) Yes.

The Capital Requirements Regulation (CRR), among other things, covers areas of regulation such as large exposures, risk weights for credit exposures, and calculation of own funds requirements for foreign exchange risk. In general, CRR does not differentiate between residents and nonresidents. According to CRR provisions, banks are subject to large exposure limits, which apply to exposures to both residents and nonresidents. The CRR also allows for, under certain conditions, national competent authorities to set higher risk weight for exposures secured by mortgage on commercial immovable property, which applies both to residents and nonresidents. According to the Regulation of the Minister of Development and Finance of May 25, 2017, on a higher risk weight for exposures secured by mortgages on immovable properties, risk weight applicable to exposures secured by mortgage on commercial immovable property located in Poland amounts to 100% (this regulation concerns banks using the Standardized Approach for determining capital requirement).

Lending locally in foreign exchange Yes.

According to Article 6 paragraph 1 of the Act of March 23, 2017, on Mortgage Loan and on Supervision over Credit Intermediaries and Appointed Representatives, mortgage loans may be granted only in the currency or be indexed to the currency in which the consumer receives most of his income or holds most of his funds or other assets valued in the currency of mortgage loan or in the currency to which the mortgage loan is indexed. Additionally, both Recommendations S (from 2013 and 2019)—which are non-legally binding acts but issued based on the Banking Act—concerning good practices with regard to mortgage credit exposures requires banks to grant loans only in the currency of the borrower’s income. Recommendation T concerning good practices with regard to risk management of retail credit exposures requires banks in case of loans granted in currency different from the one in which borrower receives income, to disclose comprehensive pre-contractual information regarding... foreign exchange risk and apply stricter creditworthiness standards (KNF Resolution No. 59/2013).

According to the Regulation of the Minister of Development and Finance of May 25, 2017, on a higher risk weight for exposures secured by mortgages on immovable properties, risk weight applicable to exposures secured by mortgage on residential immovable property located in Poland in case of which installments depend on exchange rates relating to currency other that the one in which borrower receives income amounts to 150% (this regulation concerns banks using the Standardized Approach for determining capital requirement).

At the meeting of the MPC held on March 17, 2020, the MPC decided to decrease the required reserve ratio from 3.5% to 0.5% and to increase the remuneration of the required reserves from 0.5% to the reference rate level. The required reserve ratio and remuneration rate are the same for both residents and nonresidents.

The CRR replaced domestic regulations concerning among other things large exposures, risk weights, and calculation of own funds requirements for foreign exchange risk. According to provisions of the CRR, banks are subject to large exposure limits, which apply to exposures to both residents and nonresidents.
