1/ The money market was introduced in 1975, and has functioned with an auction system since October 1993. Under this system, only part of the funds offered by commercial banks are accepted by the central bank; the interest can be either fixed by the central bank or determined as a result of the auction.

2/ Bonds issued by the BCEAO to absorb liquidity were first emitted in August 1996; emission was suspended between November 1996 and May 1997, and between January and May 1998.
