1/ In February 2000, the National Statistics Institute (INE) began compiling a new CPI series with December 1998 as base period. The consumer price index (CPI) was rebased on weights stemming from the 1998 census. The new index was extended backward using the growth rates of the previous CPI.

2/ Compared with same month one year earlier.

3/ Monthly average of the previous 12 months.

1/ Budget procedures in Mozambique allow for a 3-month complementary period, meaning that each year, from January to March, expenses can be incurred in executing the previous year budget. Net float corresponds to the expenses incurred in January to March but which relate to the previous year budget, minus what is left in the budget at the end of the previous year to be paid during next fiscal year.

2/ Current revenue minus noninterest current expenditure.

3/ Total revenue minus noninterest current expenditure minus locally financed capital expenditure and locally financed net lending.
